Gieseeking To Play Tomorrow Night

Walter Gieseeking, noted pianist, will appear at Phillips Academy tomorrow evening.

Concerning his performance of the Third Rachmaninoff Concerto with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra in Carnegie Hall last Thursday evening, Olin Downes, the distinguished critic of the N. Y. Times, intimated that Mr. Gieseeking had played the concerto even better than the composer himself, that the performance would probably not have been surpassed by Rubinstein in his prime, and that if Mr. Gieseeking had Paderewski hair he would evoke at the present day quite as great enthusiasm as Paderewski evoked in his time. "There is nothing possible on the instrument which Mr. Gieseeking cannot do with the piano," says Mr. Downes.

The program: Concerto in Italian Style, F major, Allegro - Andante - Presto, Bach; Sonata in A major, Andante grazioso (with variations), Minuette, Alla Turca (Turkish March), Mozart; Fantasia in C major, opus 17, Molto fantastico e passionato, Moderato—con molta energia, Lento, sostenuto, Schumann; Pagodes, Reflets dans l'eau, Poissons d'Or, Debussy; Jeux d'Eaux de la Villa d'Este, Benediction de Dieu dans la Solitude, Liszt.

Display Of Old Pewter To Be Seen At Historical Society's Open House

The display of old pewter at the Andover Historical Society's open house on Washington's Birthday, borrowed from nearly a dozen of the Society's members, besides some interesting examples of an ancient art, should give a pretty good general idea of the sort of household utensils that an ordinary New England family possessed during all the eighteenth century and into the nineteenth. Sometime thereafter cheap crockery and electroplating finally put the old-fashioned pewterers out of business. Many of the objects shown once belonged to Andover worthies. They number some seventy-five, including pairs and sets. In general, they are American, with some English. Some carry well-known trade marks. Others, like most American pewter, are by unknown makers.

Notable among cups, mugs, candle sticks, ink wells, snuff boxes, pepper pots, salters, spoons, egg cups, lamps, are a pair of goblets and a tea pot by Israel Trask, who was one of the early pewterers at Beverly, the teapot duplicating designs in silver of its period; a gleamful candlestick by Glaeson; and a chased coffee pot and goblet, chasing being most uncommon in pewter. There is a pair of soup bowls, with their plates, that are still in regular use by their fortunate owners; a rare flag-holder too large for a candle stick; a pocket flask that shows very hard usage; and a three-inch sun dial of unknown origin but evidently designed for latitude 40 degrees around Philadelphia, and tiny enough for window sill use within doors. Porringers run all the way from one that will hardly do for a baby's orange juice to such as held a hungry farmer's beans and peas. There is a doll's tea set, a century old, plates, saucers, cups, spoons, teapot, cream pitcher and sugar bowl, all complete. From the closing phase of the pewter era are a few typical examples of britannic metal.

All three exhibits, pewter, dolls and lithographs, may be seen both afternoon and evening of the twenty-second, from two o'clock onward. Refreshments will be served. Various experts will attend to discuss the exhibits. To the Society's open house at 97 Main Street are invited its members, and friends who are interested in any aspect of the Society's work.

Says School Board Budget Too High

The impression that the school committee, aware that the finance committee would try to cut the budget, had passed a budget higher in their own minds than was actually necessary was gained by attorneys Walter Tomlinson and Fred H. Eaton, Taxpayers' Association representatives, when they sat in on the board budget discussion, according to the report they made last Friday night at the T.P.A. directors' meeting.

Reductions totalling around $7,000 were recommended by the two representatives, who said that they found the superintendent runs the department efficiently. Specific items mentioned were: traveling expense, for which $260 is allowed, for which nothing was spent last year, recommended cut to $100; two new cadet teachers which could probably be dispensed with, $500 odd; Bradlee school basement job $3,000; unaccounted $2200. A question was also raised about the payment of $20 per pupil to some 30-40 Lawrence Evening high pupils. It was suggested that this is not required by law, but that it might be well for the committee to ascertain how many pupils the town would have to have before it would have to start a school of its own.

On the Bradlee school item, Mr. Eaton reported that he had visited the basement, found that there were toilets he had seen that were better, many he had seen that were much worse. It would be a nice job for the town to do if it were feeling flush, some time, but it does not seem necessary or urgent.

There was some discussion about the use of money for items not included in the regular budget. It

Trucks To Reduce Budget By $7752

Savings of $7752 annually beginning this year will be made by the Board of Public Works if $7500 is spent for five new trucks this year, Eldon E. Stark, Taxpayers' association representative, reported last Friday. If the trucks are bought, the appropriations will be cut as follows: highway construction, $1100; hardsurfacing $200; W P A truck hire $4625; snow $1827.

The total B. P. W. budget is $144,500 including the trucks as against last year's $145,200. Mr. Stark stated that he had tried to find some flaws in the figuring on the truck savings but had been unable to do so.

There was some discussion of the Elm street project, with some feeling that there were other streets such as portions of School street in far worse condition than Elm street. One remark was made to the effect that the passing years see the road better rather than worse, the frequent coating ironing out the little dips that were caused by a mistake in construction.

J. Augustus Remington reported on the cemetery budget which shows an increase of $315, mainly caused by an increase of $500 for cement sides for graves to avoid the added filling expense caused by the pine boxes caving in. It is reported that the $500 would be saved in the first year.

WARRANT ON PAGE 8

The entire town warrant, word-for-word, is printed this week on pages 8 and 9.

Recommends Cuts In Health Budget

Several cuts in the health department appropriation were recommended by delegate Joseph T. Gagne at the Taxpayers' association directors meeting last Friday. Mr. Gagne made a ten-year survey of expenditures, in which he found that the discontinuance of several items such as slaughter inspector, animal inspector and sanatorium account had totalled $1550, but in spite of these reductions the tendency was constantly to increase the appropriation.

This year's budget, however, is under last year's expenditures. It is understood that it totals $4790, but Mr. Gagne felt that $4200 would be enough. He mentioned the miscellaneous item in which $29.27 was spent last year but for which $200 is asked this year. He also spoke of the use of car item for which $46.99 was used last year, and for which $150 is asked this year. He stated that last year $118 was spent for the one telephone, and suggested that $50 could be saved here if letters were sent to Boston rather than having long telephone conversations. He also felt that the office should have definite hours daily, after which it should be closed.

In a statement to the newspapers this week, however, chairman Franklin H. Stacey stated that the town spends but 38 cents per capita instead of the $1.25 recommended by the state department.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Miller of Florence street left town Saturday for an indefinite stay in Florida.

The Most Important Contest

You who have your eye to the present feel that the Board of Public Works contest is the main item of interest in the coming election, but if you would look ahead a few years, you will find that despite the fact that there are but four candidates for three positions, the really most important race is that for school committee. The three people whom you elect this year will have a voice in the most important decision that a school committee has had to make since back in 1913: the choice of a new superintendent of schools. And in addition, they also will have a say in the choice of the second most important person in the Andover school system, the principal of the high school.

Mr. Sanborn retires in three years, Mr. Hamblin in two, and needless to say their solicitude for the future of Andover schools will not cease with their retirement. They will want Andover to secure just the very best men possible for these two positions, and they probably would be very willing to aid in the search for their successors. That search should not start two or three years from now; it should start immediately.

The superintendent of schools is and should be the most powerful man in the school system, more powerful than the school committee itself. True, the board can overrule him on anything, legally, but he is closer to any situation than the board can be. The educational policy of the schools, the financial administration of the schools, everything in connection with the schools, are under his wing. That is why the committee should try to get an unusual combination of man: a hard-headed business man and yet a leader of educational thought. Both functions, administrative and educational, are very important. He buys the books, for instance, and the school board is not in a position to know whether he buys too many or too few. He has much to say in the appointment of teachers, and usually the committee follows his recommendations because they feel that his position and his years of experience make him a good judge of potential teachers. All the way through the system, his influence is felt.

The committee to be elected now and in the next two years has the future of Andover education in its hands. If it acts wisely, there need be no worry about Andover's schools; if it makes a mistake, it will be a hard one to correct. It should be very rigid in its requirements, even more rigid by far than in its requirements for teachers. Two years' experience are required for a teacher; needless to say, the new superintendent should be one who has had at least five years of experience as superintendent in some system comparable to Andover's. His record should be carefully scrutinized over a period of time; his personality should be studied, his handling of school problems, both educational and financial, should be watched carefully.

If this school committee acts with care and selects a really experienced educational executive, Andover won't have to worry much about who is on the school committee in the future. That is why this year and next and the year after next, you too should be mighty careful about the persons you put on the committee. The future of Andover's schools is now in YOUR hands.

Frederic Boutwell

Died This Morning

Frederic S. Boutwell, one of the most prominent and well-liked persons in Andover's business and civic life, passed away early this morning at the Phillips house, Boston. He had been able to perform his usual duties at the Andover Savings bank on Monday and had been out riding on Tuesday, but Wednesday he was rushed to the Boston hospital.

Born in Andover in 1865, the son of Samuel H. and Alice Jane Trull Boutwell, he received his early education at the Punchard Free school and later went to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. In 1890 he became associated with the Andover Savings bank, and in 1904 he was advanced to treasurer. In 1935 he retired as treasurer and became vice-president.

He held many positions of importance in the town, being a director of the Andover National bank and the Andover Press, Ltd. He was a Trustee of the Library and of the Punchard school. For nearly a half century he served as treasurer of the West Parish, and he was a member of the Grange.

He leaves two brothers, Arthur T., now in Florida, and Winthrop S., and a sister, Alice J.

Arrangements for the funeral had not been made at press time.

As a money raising activity, the Andover League of Women Voters is putting on a morning musical at the home of Mrs. Horace M. Poynter, 6 School street, next Thursday morning. Coffee will be served at ten and music at ten-thirty. The delightful program has proved such a drawing card that although the committee were intending to sell only one hundred tickets, they have extended the number to one hundred and fifty with the understanding that the last fifty would be able to hear perfectly but not see the performance.

Assisting in the ticket selling are Mrs. Philip Allen, Mrs. Fred Butler, Mrs. William Doherty, Mrs. Harry Emmons, Mrs. John Grant, Mrs. Phillips Graham, Mrs. Carleton Kimball, Mrs. Charles D. McDuffie of North Andover, Mrs. Harry Noyes, Mrs. James C. Sawyer, Miss Anne Stone, Mrs. Dean Wale, Mrs. Charles Warden.

Mrs. Augustus P. Thompson and Mrs. Irving Southworth will pour in the dining room and Mrs. Charles Sawyer in the library.

Interesting Exhibits

At Abbot Gallery

The John Esther Gallery at Abbot will show until March 5 an interesting group of mural sketches by Elizabeth Tracy and Ralf E. Nickelsen, paintings and drawings by Ernest Halberstadt, and a selection of water colors by Harold G. Nickelsen.

Vigorous sketches and working drawings for murals, recently executed by Miss Tracy, display not only the equipment of a fine talent, but also, together with some finished details, show clearly the evolution of a whole mural project.

Ralf E. Nickelsen has sent to the exhibition the sketches which received the Treasury Department Award in the competition for the murals to be placed in the new Worcester Postoffice Building. It is the first time that these sketches have been publicly exhibited.

Ernest Halberstadt shows a scale model of a room at Fortress Monroe, Virginia, in which a series of his murals appear. Also there are a number of personalized drawings, paintings and monotypes by Mr. Halberstadt.

Harold G. Nickelsen offers a set of spirited watercolors. It is interesting to trace the influence of Mr. Nickelsen's experience in stained glass in these delightful papers. He has heightened much commonplace subject matter with pleasant non-objectivism.

There are no short cuts to an M.D., no one-school methods, no "art of healing." Before he may practice, a man must undergo the longest, severest course of study and training of any of the professions. Many who covet the degree never obtain it. But you can be sure of his skill, judgment and experience when you entrust your physical welfare to an AUTHENTIC Doctor of Medicine.

was pointed out that the committee last year returned $1700 in an unexpended balance to the town, even after some $2000 had been spent for lockers not included in the regular budget. The reason for eliminating the $2200 unaccounted item was that the representatives felt enough leeway had been given in the individual items to take care of come-and-go.

It was also felt that the bus contracts should be let out on bids, with the committee not accepting the lowest bid if it felt driver or equipment was unsatisfactory. The

State Symphony Here Next Week

The State Symphony Orchestra, a Federal Music Project unit which will appear at the Memorial Auditorium on the evening of February 23 to present a concert under the auspices of the Andover Teachers' Association, will create a unique occasion in that it will be one of the largest musical aggregations ever to appear in this locality. This orchestra, conducted by youthful Alexander Thiede, numbers nearly 70 members at full strength, which it will be for the coming event, and requires a spacious stage to accommodate it without overcrowding. Only one other symphony orchestra in Massachusetts is larger than this unit, the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The Andover Teachers' Association expects an audience of music lovers which will tax the capacities of the Auditorium. Advance sale for tickets is reported to be very brisk with all indications pointing to an occasion which will prove to be the highlight of the season in Andover.

Hold First Police

Ball At Auditorium

The walls of the Town Hall creaked with envy, Friday night, when the sounds of music and gaiety floated down from the Memorial Auditorium-Gymnasium, as the Andover Brass Band opened the Policemen's Ball program with a half-hour concert. Rita Gauthier and her troupe inspired the laughter and applause that were a special taunt to the old hall, but when the familiar notes of Officer Deyermond's "Home On The Range" and "Wee House Among the Heather" were heard, the bricks almost crumbled in a jealous heap.

After the entertainment, however, the Town Hall proved that she is "too old for such things now, anyway," by falling asleep while the Memorial Auditorium "swung" with the dancers at the ball until one o'clock.

Officer Deyermond was assisted by Officer Arthur Jowett as floor director, and the committees were as follows:

Ball Committee—Carl H. Stevens, chairman, William Stewart, Robert Dobbie, William Shaw, David Nicoll and W. Raymond Hickey.

Reception Committee: Chief George A. Dane, Sergeant W. Raymond Hickey, Sergeant Leonard Saunders.

Ushers: David Nicoll, David Gillespie, Arthur Jowett, William Shaw, John Deyermond and William Stewart.

Pythian Sisters

Mrs. Hayes was presented a gift by Garfield Temple and one by the installing suite.

Sons Of Legion

Formulate Plans

The Sons of The American Legion, Squadron Number 8, held their February business meeting in the Legion Rooms Friday evening. Captain John Collins presided.

It was decided that in the near future a social should be held, to which a nearby squadron would be invited. Plans for a ping-pong tournament and a Professor Quiz contest were also discussed. It was decided that the squadron would visit many points of historical and educational interest this year.
