Walt Disney Art

In Academy Lecture

On Friday evening at 8:15, in the Meeting Room, George Washington Hall, Professor Robert D. Feild of Harvard will speak on "The Art of Walt Disney." The lecture is being held in connection with the very popular Disney exhibition now on view at the Addison Gallery, which was arranged with the co-operation of the speaker. Professor Feild spent three months in the Disney Studios in Hollywood last summer and had an exceptional opportunity to study the development of the animated picture. For the first time, Walt Disney permitted an outsider, not only to see the inside workings of the studio, but also to borrow examples which show the whole development of this new art. Professor Feild will describe the various stages in the making of a picture and interpret its significance for his audience.

Persons having items for the Townsman are reminded that they should submit them no later than Tuesday. The Townsman cannot guarantee insertion of any items received on Wednesday or Thursday, both those days being reserved for events which happen Tuesday night, Wednesday, or early Thursday morning. All notices of coming events should be in early in the week, as well as notices of meetings taking place before Tuesday. We ask your co-operation in this respect, since early submission of copy affords us time to handle it properly and also makes it possible for us to cover as they should be covered events happening in the middle of the week.

BEGIN CONSTRUCTION OF NEW DORMITORY AT ABBOT ACADEMY THIS WEEK

Ground has been broken this week for a new dormitory at Abbot Academy. The new building, made possible by a gift of Mrs. Emily F. Abbey Gill of Springfield, will accommodate twenty-six students and six teachers. Of brick construction and colonial in design, the dormitory is the first step in the development plan for the Academy which it is hoped will be realized by means of the Second Century Fund.

Abbot Academy opened for its first session on May 6, 1829, so that it is now one hundred and ten years old. The original building, Abbot Hall, is not only still in use, but is the most beautiful building on the grounds. It is of Bulfinch design, and contains a charming assembly room now used as the chapel of the school, in which portraits from the earliest years of the school history, and simple but dignified benches, create an atmosphere of serenity.

The architect for the new dormitory and for the future building plans is Lens Frederick Larson of Hanover, N. H. Mr. Larson's plans, which include the building of a new wing to balance an existing one on Draper Hall, the main building of the school, include also suggestions which will make the buildings more consistent with the architecture of Abbot Hall.

A new library, to house more adequately the school's collection of nearly ten thousand volumes, a browsing room for recreational reading, and a new social room for the students are planned in memory of Miss Emily Means and Miss Bertha Bailey, former principals, and Miss Rebekah Chickering, for nearly forty years a teacher of English at the school. In addition to these plans, it is hoped that a new dining room (the present one is not large enough to accommodate the whole school including day scholars and resident scholars) and modern new kitchens will also be possible in a few years.

Proposed boarding school for girls in New England, has an enrollment of a hundred and twenty-five boarding pupils and thirty-five day scholars. It is a college preparatory school primarily, but provides also a general cultural course.

The new building, to be called the Emily F. Abbey dormitory, will be used for the youngest girls in the school. Most of the rooms are arranged in suites containing a study and bedroom to be shared by two girls. The house will also have a general living room, a game room, and an alumnae guest room, a memorial to Julia Twitchell of the Class of 1886, under whose leadership the Centennial Fund of

Boston Symphony Members To Give Concert Here For Christ Church On April 28th

There is an increasing interest in the concert of lighter and popular music to be given under the auspices of Christ Church on Friday evening, April 28, at half past eight o'clock in the Andover Memorial Auditorium.

The program committee have selected a program that they feel very sure will mean an interesting and delightful evening for everyone attending the concert. Because the orchestra is composed of members of the Boston Symphony and conducted by so well-known and prominent a member of the orchestra as Arthur Fiedler, the success of the concert as to performance and fine feeling is assured.

Added to the list of patrons and patronesses are the names of Dr. and Mrs. Claude Moore Fuess, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest N. Young, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Boutwell, Mrs. Robert Maxwell, and Miss Paddock.

The committees: general chairman, Mrs. E. Deon Walen; tickets, chairmen, Mrs. Wallace E. Brimer, Mrs. Sarah Bartlett Mercer; Mrs. Harold E. Abbott, Mrs. John S. Barss, Mrs. Harry Emmons, Mrs. M. ANDOVER MEN'S CLUB SCORES HIT IN FIRST ANNUAL MINSTREL SHOW

Several local citizens including members of the police force, the "Dawn Patrol" and various "feather merchants" of the town were placed on the carpet at the Memorial Auditorium last Friday night with the Men's Club, dressed in minstrel show garb, shuffling all over the carpet. Even the Townsman was the recipient of a few calumnious remarks, but we all have to have our dog days.

After the opening chorus of "Come on Down South," "Swanee" "Darktown Strutters Ball" and an Overture by the end men, Andrew Collins, the interlocutor, was interrupted by two disturbers in the audience who were loudly exhibiting their distaste for the performance. Upon being invited to join the endmen, they climbed upon the stage and did, by their antics, make an important addition to the show. They were Martin Darby whose end song, "Ten Little Fingers and Ten Little Toes," opened the program, and James McGrath. "I Must See Annie Tonight" sung by Arthur Buss, lured John Burbine to put on a dress and hat with overhanging flower to impersonate Annie. Later, wearing his black and white striped costume again, he sang his own end song, "You're Goin' To Lose Your Gal." Jiggs Gorrie waxed political in the second verse of "When Paw Was Courtin' Maw" and Bill Valentine was eloquent in praise of Susie in "If You Knew Susie."

Most of the end songs were in keeping with the blackened faces and loose-limbed dancing such as "Loading Up the Mandy Lee" sung by Jim Gorrie, "Alabama Bound" by Pete Bisset and Jimmie McGrath's "Sentimental Gentleman from Georgia." Harvey Seagle, introduced by the chorus singing "Flat Foot Floogie," shuffled on the stage with his feet preceding him by several yards. His song, "Nobody" adapted its verse satirically well to town meetings, taverns and politics.

Elsworth Hadley, the first of the specialty performers, was enthusiastically applauded for his solo

"Deep Purple," and as an encore he sang "You're the Only Star in My Blue Heaven." Charles Valentine was not allowed to sit down until he had sung "God Bless America" three times and even then the audience was reluctant to have him stop. The Royal Mountaineers, with their young yodeler, and Johnson and Allen, tap dancers, provided the right amount of variety in the program, and James Sheard singing "Old Irish Mother of Mine" and "West of the Great Divide" provided a touch of sentiment. Jackie Sullivan, as always, charmed the audience with "Penny Serenade" and "Little Sir Echo" with his sister responding in the latter.

"Waiting for the Robert E. Lee" and "Floatin' Down to Cotton Town" sung by the entire troupe as Grand Finale concluded the program. Refreshments and dancing to Crowley's Band followed.

Of the large audience of close to seven hundred, how many left the Hall with a dissatisfied expression and an idea that the Men's Club is not a worth while organization? To quote Harvey Seagle, "Nobody."

Andover Association To Meet Tuesday

The annual meeting of the Andover Association of Congregational Churches and Ministers will be held next Tuesday at the Congregational church in Tewksbury. Rev. Newman Matthews, formerly pastor of the West Church, is secretary and treasurer and chairman of the ministerial standing committee. Rev. Herman C. Johnson is chairman of the committee of religious education.

Rev. James D. Taylor, D.D., of Johannesburg, South Africa, will deliver the afternoon address on "Forty Years Among the Zulus," and Rev. William E. Gilroy of Boston will speak on "Religion Today" at the evening service.

Phillips Andover Defeats Thayer Academy 15-0

Phillips Academy's opening 15-0 victory over Thayer Saturday proved that the local team's fielding was very good; it didn't prove that its batting or pitching was good, this not being the fault of the P. A. boys but rather of the Thayer pitchers and batters. Andover was able to pile up 10 hits, one of them a nice triple by Junie O'Brien, and Andover's three pitchers struck out 10, allowed but three hits, and gave only one free ticket in nine innings—but the Thayer hurling and batting was far from what the boys may expect later on in the season.

A little exhibition by Pete Dudan in the ninth provided ample compensation for those who stayed through the earlier innings. Tuholski had singled off Riege to open the inning, and Pompeo hit one into short right in Texas leaguer territory. Pete caught it with his back toward the diamond, and with a practically overhead throw reminiscent of his basketball-playing days he doubled Tuholski off first, Walsh making a good catch at the sack. Lannigan, pint-sized center-fielder, also made a sparkling nonchalantly overhand catch up in the general direction of the tennis courts.

The hitting surprise of the day was Jumbo Welch. Sports writers laughed when the first pitcher passed Jumbo on purpose, because his hitting record last year did not justify such treatment. Jumbo must have heard them, so he proceeded to hit two singles, one double.

Sons Of Legion

Plan Activities

The local post No. 8 squadron, Sons of the American Legion, held their monthly meeting in the Legion rooms Friday evening, with the North Andover squadron, S. A. L., as their guests.

The local squadron will visit several places of educational interest in the vicinity this season, it was decided. Plans for resuming the activities of the Rifle club were discussed. Adjutant Warren Richardson was elected publicity manager of the squadron.

Following the meeting, a Professor Quiz contest was held between the two squadrons. Garrison Holt won the contest for the local sons.

The next meeting will be held in the legion rooms, Friday evening, May 12, at which time marching drills will be held in preparation for Memorial Day.

EARLY DIAGNOSIS TUBERCULOSIS CAMPAIGN

A concentrated early diagnosis campaign to further reduce the prevalence of tuberculosis is being carried on this month by the Essex County Health association as part of a national program. Miss Anna W. Kuhn of Central street is assisting in the campaign. An interesting feature is "Open House" to be held at the Essex Sanatorium in Middleton next Wednesday at which time tours will be conducted through the Sanatorium.

The BON MARCHE of LOWELL

News of Other Days

Fifty Years Ago

The special town meeting held Friday last had a good attendance. It was voted to divide the town into two precincts, the second one to be in Ballardvale. It was also voted that a new schoolhouse be erected on the Joseph W. Smith lot on Andover street. After considerable discussion an appropriation of $1300 was made in addition to the $1500 in March for the purpose of establishing a proper electric lighting system during the dark hours from a half-hour after sunset until 12:30 o'clock. It was voted to increase the salary of the town clerk from $50 to $150 a year and of the treasurer from $200 to $300. The selectmen reported that at present there is no suitable place in the town building for a lock-up.

Officer Gillespie took a ball from the boys on Saturday afternoon.

while they were playing baseball, the lamp in the center having been broken by it.

Twenty-five Years Ago

Misses Annie and Katherine Donovan of Brook street are visiting friends in Washington, D. C.

A new book has been added to the Memorial Hall library and it surely belongs there, for the librarian wrote it. "When Max Came" by Miss Brown is a book that children will enjoy.

First award in the Barnard prize winning competition was given to Arthur Rand Lewis, '14, for his essay: "Playing the Game," second to Katherine Berry, "Public Schools in England," and third to Hester Newman, "Florence Nightingale."

Ten Years Ago

Dorothy Ruhl was awarded the first prize in the Barnard speaking contest Friday night. William Mahoney won second and Stanley Swanton third.

Mrs. Mary L. Burns sailed as a passenger on the White Star Liner Albertic Monday for Queenstown and Liverpool.

At the meeting of the selectmen last Monday Ralph Baker and Alexander Mackenzie, permanent men at the Central fire station, were appointed assistant public weighers.

You save money by paying $2.00 a year for the Townsman.

Hurricane Pictures Shown At Meeting

Four very interesting motion pictures, with the climax being the story of the sudden descent of the hurricane on New England last fall and the very nearly just as sudden descent on New England of some 6000 telephone workers to repair the damage, were presented on Thursday night at the Service club meeting by Edwin Bramley, Lawrence district manager of the Telephone company. Two other pictures revealed some of the things the average public knows little about—the long process through which the wire goes that carries our messages, and the scrupulously careful inspection of every bit of equipment from the plugs on the switchboard to the felt on the bottom of the 'phone. Shorts showed among other things the curious little instrument of Alexander Graham Bell's from which came today's telephone, and the latest thing in telephone experimentation: the system whereby Boston talks to the tip of Cape Cod by a radio relay.

The club transacted considerable business, including the adoption of a resolution fathered by Mr. Augustus Remington supporting the decreases in the state budget suggested by the Taxpayers' Federation, the voting of ten dollars to the Salvation Army, and the adoption of a motion to have the next meeting a Father and Son night at the Memorial cafeteria. There were several committee reports by John Erving, Charles R. Scott, Augustine Farragher, Henry Hopper and Nathan Hamblin.

$169,000 was raised for the school in 1929. The immediate goal of the Second Century Fund is $150,000. Of this about $82,000 has already been raised. The gift for the dormitory is independent of and in addition to this amount.

PENNY SOCIAL

A penny social is being held this evening at the Parochial school hall by the Young Ladies' Sodality of St. Augustine's church. Miss Margaret Reilly is chairman of the committee in charge.

A beano party will be held in the school hall tomorrow night.

Former Legion Head To Speak

Attorney Daniel Doherty of Woburn, elected national commander of the Legion at the New York convention in 1937, will be the principal speaker on Sunday morning at the annual communion breakfast of the Holy Name society to be held at the Parochial school hall. Members of the society and men of the parish will receive Communion at the 8:15 mass, meeting in the lower church at 8:05.

The past state commander, Jere Twomey of Shawsheen, will be the toastmaster, and Father Austin will give a short message. Charles O'Neil and Joseph Levi will sing, with William Burbine at the piano.

Launches Rallies

The preservation of democratic ideas was the theme of Rabbi Finkelstein's talk at the Free church last night where he was the guest speaker of the first in the series of intermediate Sunday school rallies. Although Sunday classes aid in the proper training of a child for his later life, the influence of the parent is of first importance, was the thought included by the Rabbi, and therefore, "when the lessons taught to the child in Sunday school are not confirmed by the actions of the parents at home, then there is very little chance of making a permanent impression on the child's life." The Rabbi's answer to the problem is for the church to place their emphasis on recruiting the parents.

Ministers representing the four Andover Congregational churches and the Baptist church spoke a few words on the inauguration of these rallies and Mrs. Alfred Harris sang "Come to the Fair" and "Spring is Here" accompanied by Mrs. Annie Angus.

The Rally next Wednesday evening will be at the Baptist church at which time Rev. Mr. Butterfield will speak on "How To Teach Genesis and Judges." A Socratic discussion by the ministers will follow.

DEMAND A BLEND FOR YOUR FURNACE

Biggest house-heating discovery in years:

There are two kinds of anthracite — "Red-Ash" and "White-Ash". "Red-Ash" burns hot and quick. Ideal for cold snaps, but won't bank well. "White-Ash" is steady and lasting, but won't "hump it" in cold weather. Combine the two scientifically and you get a perfect all-season fuel.

We've found the only colliery mining both kinds and blending its entire output for home furnaces. Try Colonial Blended Anthracite, and you'll use it forever.

Stop Adding; Start Subtracting

Reverberations still are heard from that mass meeting held by organized taxpayers down at Mechanics hall a couple of weeks ago. As is always the case some people are very much disturbed because some other people feel that their expenditures should be cut. "Besides, who are these taxpayer people to think that they can tell us how to run our departments?"

Books have been written about a certain extralegal phase of our governmental life. "Group Representation" is the nice name for it—"Lobbies" is the better-known name. For years at Washington and at 48 state houses these lobbies, these minority groups, have practically run things, presenting their ideas year after year and eventually forcing them through until the sum total of all their endeavors has meant an awful drain on the public treasury. Who are these taxpayer people, you ask? Just another lobby, of course—but there are a few points in which they differ from these others. First of all, they are not asking for more money; they are merely endeavoring to undo some of the things that have crept into our public life. Secondly, they are not a minority group, for they represent every single one of us. We're all taxpayers, if we have anything to pay taxes with.

The fight now is between this majority group and a large assortment of minority groups, in some cases sectional groups. The latter will use every means at their command to avoid the curtailment or elimination of the items they are interested in. "Why, this represents only one cent on the tax rate." A lot of groups advance their propositions that way. After all a cent isn't so much, is it? The only trouble is that a cent plus a cent plus more cents make a pretty hefty total, and that's what we're facing today. The legislators because of these pressure groups have been able to add and add and add. It's time now for a lesson in subtraction, for after all, there is something in the budgets that can be subtracted and there's not much left to subtract in the taxpayers' purse.

Splitting Grades and Closing Schools

The Shawsheen Parent-Teacher association has asked the school board for a hearing on the suggested splitting of a grade in the village school to make up for a small pupil teacher ratio in two of the grades. This unfortunately is an expedient which, it is understood, the committee may feel necessary in view of the decreased appropriation granted it by the town meeting, and the parents whose children would be affected are quite justifiably alarmed.

The plan would involve taking one grade, cutting it in half and putting one half with the preceding grade and the other half with the succeeding grade. This would eliminate one teacher and result in a saving of at least $1400 a year.

Unfortunately very little was said about this possibility before or at town meeting. If it had been stated at that time that this decision would be necessary, the town meeting result would have been different because the Shawsheen villagers would have presented just as strong an argument backed up with a greater preponderance of numbers than the North district residents did in their fight to keep their school open. And it would have appealed more to the good judgment of the voters, too, because the closing of the North school meant educational progress and the splitting of a grade means a step backwards educationally. It's quite a problem for the school board to settle, but the Shawsheen villagers certainly have a right to hope that the necessary savings may be made in some way that will not bring in the possibility of an impairment of the schools' educational program.

Big Pat

Yes, there is another one of them Honest, didn't you know that Big Mike has a brother? Down on the Chapter 90 job on North Main street the contractor has had an Austin 77, and it has all the familiar features of Andover's renowned Big Mike—including the same lobar arrangement, we suppose. Last fall during the height of the controversy about Michael (now that he's been legalized, he should get more respect), there was another one in town and Charlie Giliard was one day asked why he allowed Big Mike to be used on private property. But it wasn't the town's; it was a private contractor's. And the property? That was a member of the finance committee's.

State Historians

In Meeting Here

A larger-than-anticipated crowd of Massachusetts history devotees gathered here last Saturday for the April meeting of the Bay State Historical League held at the November Clubhouse. In addition to hearing a very instructive and interesting talk by Andover's Professor Franklin C. Roberts of Boston University on "Early New England Education," the members enjoyed visiting historical places in town and examining the many historical treasures at the Andover Historical society house.

William A. Trow, president of the local society, welcomed the guests, with his officers and members assisting as hosts and hostesses. A. Leon Cutler of Groton, president of the League, presided at the meeting.

Professor Roberts' talk was an enlargement of one he had given previously before the local society. Stressing the educational activities of the Massachusetts Bay Colony whence sprang most of the United States' educational developments, the Professor stated that the Puritans were the most intelligent of any immigrants who have ever come to this country. Then he told of the establishment of Boston Latin school in 1635 and of Harvard college in 1636, the latter primarily as a theological seminary. Other landmarks in educational history springing from New England were the first law requiring children to learn to read and write, and the first law requiring establishment of schools in towns of a certain size.

TOWNSWOMAN TOPICS

Shopics by the Townswoman

It's time to be thinking of spring sports, although Mr. and Mrs. Utley of Carisbrooke street, Jane Ritchie of Lowell street and Douglas Crocket of Arundel street, are still trekking north to find more snow. Rumor has it that they found it last week-end at Mt. Washington where it's still plentiful—and soft enough for an easy landing.

Whether it's service, delicious food or a pleasant atmosphere that you most enjoy when you're eating out, you'll find them all at Fieldstones. When you're planning your social engagements, why not start off with a delicious steak or lobster dinner—the kind Miss Bodwell serves? Before a formal, a prize speaking contest or a Pops concert, her carefully planned meals assure a completely successful evening.

Spring's continuous round of activities and sports brings up that important question, "What will I wear?" When you're whacking out a strenuous game of tennis, it's reassuring to know that the delivery man will be at the door with a freshly cleaned gown in plenty of time for the evening's formal. X-L? Well I guess so!

Gardening can be a sport too, but like all other sports, its success depends upon the skill of the coach. Heinrich Rohrbach proves his qualifications as an expert by the beauty of Heatherfells, Andover's Own Nursery on Sunset Rock road, which he himself landscaped and developed. When you go up there, be sure and notice the hardiness of the heather, which Mr. Rohrbach has nurtured to withstand our unpredictable weather, and the edelweiss which you will have little difficulty in growing under his instruction.

He can transform an ordinary yard into a picture of colorful splendor and you will have all the joy of sponsoring its growth, and pride of showing your friends an artistically laid out garden that adds another room on your house.

For gardening tools, don't forget Hill's Hardware store, where there's a big removal sale now going on.

Incidentally, anything goes at the Symphony Pops Concert at the Auditorium a week from Friday—formals, semis or a tailored suit. The important thing is to go.

The golf courses beckon, but when you play, play safe. Doherty Brothers will supply you with all sport's liability, and you can enjoy the fun and forget the danger.

Even when the weather's not so fair it's worth the extra steps to Bob's Bakery on Main street, near the corner of Punchard avenue. You'll especially like their apple-sauce cup cakes or their lemon drops that melt in your mouth. They're fresh every day and you'll want them just as often.

Coolness and distinction, that unbeatable combination for summer comfort in your home or office, is yours for the purchasing. Drop into Rowland Luce's furniture shop on Park street and choose your Venetian blinds available in all the popular pastel shades.

May Breakfast Coming May 2nd

Breakfast for only 25 cents? And you won't go away hungry either, for the Legion auxiliary is planning ample helpings for its annual May breakfast, which this year will be held in the post rooms on Tuesday morning, May 2nd. There will be a candy table and a flower table.

Children wishing to sell tickets should apply to the committee. One ticket is given free for ten sold.

Salvation Army Fund Mounting

The Salvation Army Andover Appeal still continues to mount up as workers' efforts are becoming more and more fruitful, so that the latest report to hand from the local treasurer, Louis S. Finger, reveals that the sum of $1,350 of the needed $1,500 quota, has been realized.

Adjutant Charles Johnston in a statement to the Townsman said: "The combined efforts of the workers is now complete and I am happy at the results they have accomplished. All that remains now, is a thorough clean-up, and this will be followed up immediately. To every worker who so tirelessly bent their efforts to assist our organization in this campaign for funds, I extend a heartfelt thank you."

With the above-mentioned amount secured, general campaign chairman Edward A. Anderson is confident that citizens of Andover who perhaps have not as yet contributed, will do so, and thereby help put the drive "over the top."

You save money by paying $2.00 a year for the Townsman.

Busy Time Ahead For Male Choir

The Male Choir has a busy month ahead, climaxed by the New Haven contest on May 13, and culminating in the concert here on May 24th. Tonight they will journey to Melrose, leaving the bank building at 7:15, to prepare for a joint concert with the Amphion club on May 4th. Sunday night they will sing at the 85th anniversary of the Washington Street Baptist church at Lynn; frequent requests for reappearances there prove their popularity. On May 18th they will sing at the Lawrence General nurses' graduation at the Trinity Congregational church.

The choir will journey to New Haven by bus, leaving early Saturday morning the day of the contest and returning immediately after the competition.

Better buy your tickets early for the Pops concert Friday, April 28.

Four shots taken behind the scenes as the Adventurers scored a success Tuesday night in their production of "The Middle Watch," comedy revolving around the complexities arising when two young ladies become self-shanghaied on a British vessel. The cast deserves a lot of praise, and we expect that in next week's Townsman the reviewing staff of the Adventurers will give them their just deserts. But though not seen by the audience, though not answering any certain calls, the workers behind the scenes deserve much credit, too.

HOWE TO BE IN BOX AS PUNCHARD OPENS SEASON TOMORROW

The baseball game between the Punchard high school varsity and the alumni, scheduled for yesterday morning, was called off because of the poor condition of the playing field. The game may be played at a later date. Due to the recent rains the field has softened up considerably, and playing on it might cause several leg injuries. Furthermore, the team is not scheduled to play a league game there until next Tuesday, and the extra few days will give the ground a chance to dry out.

Tomorrow the Punchard boys will inaugurate their quest for the championship of the Merrimack Valley suburban league, when they travel to Tewksbury to open the season with the high school team of that town. The game is scheduled to get under way at 3 o'clock.

Captain Doug Howe is due to pitch the opener for the local team. His battery mate will be either Tom Noyes, who saw some service last year, or George Brown, who caught some in Ballardvale last season. Both boys have strong arms, and it is probable that both will work in the opening game.

Either Warren Deyermund or John Collins will start at first base. Both are primarily pitchers, but because of the lack of a strong prospect, Coach Lovely will be forced to use his pitchers at the bag. Walker Lindsay will start at second base, with Alfred White at shortstop. Both of these boys have had experience with the Legion junior nine, although neither has been a regular in high school circles. Donald McLauchlan, the only infield veteran on the squad, will again hold down his old position at the hot corner.

As yet the outfield positions are a bit uncertain. However, it is quite probable that Bob Burnham will start in left field. Bill Anderson, the only veteran outfielder, will be the logical center fielder. He is a good fielder, but has never been a strong hitter. Right field is still open, but Coach Lovely will probably use Howard Procter, a pitcher. Procter fields well, and, of course, has a strong arm. His greatest asset at present, however, is the fact that he is the best left handed batter on the squad. No doubt this will give him the call.

The team will open their home season on Tuesday with Howe high of Billerica at the Andover playground at 3 o'clock.
