Boston Symphony Members To Play Here Tomorrow

The request program as arranged by Arthur Fiedler, for the orchestra composed of members of the Boston Symphony, should mean a most enjoyable evening for all those attending the concert in the Memorial auditorium, on Friday of this week. Everyone working for the success of this concert feels very grateful to Mr. Fiedler for consenting to play this program of lighter music.

There will be refreshing drinks sold in the cafeteria during the intermission and also flowers by the many young girls who are acting as flower vendors.

Harvard Professor Says "Dopey" Art

"Is Dopey Art?" Professor Robert D. Feild of Harvard answered that question decidedly in the affirmative last Friday night in a lecture at Phillips academy on "The Art of Walt Disney." The process of making an animated cartoon, he said, is a mixture of practically all the arts and sciences.

Completely familiar, at first-hand, with the workings of Disney's studios, the speaker was able to give his listeners an excellent insight into this most interesting phase of movie work.

Fire Department Aids Lawrence In Blaze At Church

Andover's fire department received its second Sunday call from Lawrence when a spectacular blaze at the South Congregational church on South Broadway last Sunday night caused extensive damage and threatened to spread to nearby frame houses. The first Lawrence alarm sounded at 7:50, and at 8:25 Box 94 was sounded here in Andover when Commissioner Thomas Galvin and Chief Francis A. Sullivan put in a call for more hose. Engine 3 went over and the supply truck also went to the scene with a load of hose. Engine 3 coupled to hydrants on State and Chester streets, laying 1700 feet of hose.

LEGION PRESENTS INHALATOR TO TOWN

Joseph Remmes, George Napier, Stafford Lindsay, Thomas Dea, Howell F. Shepard, Chief Emerson, Harold Peters, and Al Cole (at wheel of ambulance).

A new inhalator-resuscitator was presented to the town last Friday night by the Legion, with Stafford A. Lindsay, chairman of the community service committee, making the presentation and Chairman Shepard accepting it for the town. Two representatives of the inhalator firm were present to give a demonstration. Several rubber bags of varying sizes, representing the average lung size and a baby's lung size, were used. One interesting feature of the apparatus is a bell which rings when there is any obstruction in the victim's throat. In making the presentation on the twentieth anniversary of the Legion, Mr. Lindsay stated that the post wished to express its appreciation for all that the town had done for it, and in accepting it Mr. Shepard expressed the town's appreciation for all the post had done for the town, with specific reference to the flood and hurricane emergencies. Chief Emerson of the fire department plans to have a brass plate placed on the inhalator stating that it is the gift of the Legion.

"Solve Problems Of Democracy Instead Of Going To War," Says Legion Dignitary

"There is no reason why we should concern ourselves with the conflicts and intrigues of other nations... what we should do is solve the problems and glaring inefficiencies of our own democracy... no country can smile off 10,000,000 unemployed... the solution of all our problems lies in the belief in and exemplification of Christian doctrines and principles."

A man who should know, who was one of our boys who went "Over There" in 1917 to make the world safe for democracy, who as a national figure last year visited Europe and every single one of the United States, Daniel Doherty of Woburn, national commander of the Legion a year ago—came to Andover last Sunday morning and warned 125 men of St. Augustine's church against the present warlike trend in this country.

The personable assistant to Massachusetts' Democratic attorney-general Paul A. Dever made no direct reference to the President, but throughout his talk he again and again denied the present tendency toward trying to make us forget our own problems by meddling with others. Radicalism both in official life and in our educational institutions came in for a good share of Attorney Doherty's criticism.

"Nobody Wants War"

Some 200 men had received communion at the 8:15 mass after hearing the pastor, Rev. Thomas B.

Austin, urge a return to the ideals of Christianity. At the communion breakfast which followed in the parochial school hall Father Austin in a brief talk stated that "nobody wants war."

Atty. Doherty was introduced by Andover's Jere J. Twomey, chairman of the Americanism committee of the National organization of the Legion. The principal speaker developed Father Austin's thoughts by launching his talk with the assertion that God's precepts have not prevailed and only through them will we find the solution of our problems. Referring to the war hysteria of today, he asked: "Should we as a people be drawn into this conflict which is apparently ultimately inevitable." Urging the listeners to make known their own feelings to the Congress, he said that the great failing of our democracy is that the wrong people are articulate while the

COLLAPSES ON STREET

Allen J. Daniels of 145 Franklin street, Lawrence, was rushed to the Lawrence General hospital in the local ambulance yesterday afternoon when he collapsed while halfway across Main street in front of Hartigan's. A number of Phillips academy boys pulled him onto the sidewalk out of harm's way. Officers Shaw, Davis and White responded, with Chief Emerson.

B. P. W. Offices Almost Ready

The new B. P. W. offices on the second floor of the town hall are almost ready for occupancy. Last Saturday some of the counters were moved in so that they could be painted with the rest of the woodwork. A near disastrous accident took place when the rope hauling one large counter up through a hole at the rear of the stage gave way, the counter falling to the floor with a crash that resounded throughout the town house.

The town officials have encountered another difficulty in the absence of toilet facilities on the second floor. No suitable location can be found and there is apparently too small a balance left in the appropriation to take care of this item.

Hope Quota To Go "Over The Top"

Recent reports from The Salvation Army headquarters at Lawrence indicate that the Andover quota of $1,500.00 being raised in the interest of their annual Maintenance Appeal, will go "over the top."

With a number of people to be seen as yet, and a follow-up mail appeal with some not as yet answered, also a few of the smaller type of factories or establishments to be heard from, it is felt by those in charge of the campaign that the needed $90.00 will be forthcoming.

Adjutant Charles Johnston, supervisor of the campaign, and general chairman Edward A. Anderson are loud in their praise of the generous support given by the citizens of Andover, making possible the realization of the goal. To all who have so generously worked and participated in giving, they extend their heartfelt thanks and appreciation.

They particularly urge, now in the few closing days of the effort, that all who desire to "do their bit" and have not as yet done so, will immediately mail their check to the local treasurer, Mr. Louis S. Finger.

Lawrence Whitcomb, brother of Mrs. John S. Barss, Hidden Field, has been appointed Associate Professor of Geology at Lehigh University.

SOLVE OWN PROBLEMS

people who think things out do not often indulge in the verbal fireworks used by the others.

"Some of us in 1917 or 1918 enlisted or were conscripted reputedly to make the world safe for democracy. We thought that goal had been reached," but today America is virtually the last stronghold of Democracy.

"Our chief concern ought to be with our own country," he went on as he warned that there "will be an effort to take the people's eyes off the country's own problems by creating a war hysteria."

The unemployment problem and the radicalism problem were the speaker's chief concern. On the former he alleged that many are trying to call forth class hatred by putting the rich against the poor, their main purpose being to gain election to public office. "No country can smile off 10,000,000 unemployed after trying to solve the situation for six years—we're just drifting," he said. Capital and labor represent a common enterprise, and he felt that until such time as business is allowed to function properly, we're still going to have a stagnated economic machine.

The Communists, Nazis, etc., are if they hold positions of power and not the only enemies of democracy, for there are a great many in the United States who feel that they are being patriotic but instead are victims of a perverted intellectuality. They show a condescending interest in the unfortunate, but it's usually for some definite selfish purpose. The cloak of liberalism, Atty. Doherty said, is being today thrown around radicals, especially influence. Our higher educational institutions, supposedly in complete consonance with American ideals and traditions, too often promulgate philosophies which are actually in contravention of those ideals, and strength of character is needed to offset these philosophies. Education, he declared, is not enough unless it is premised on religious beliefs and principles.

In concluding his address he mentioned that Washington was not too proud to kneel in the snow at Valley Forge and ask for divine guidance. Belief in and exemplification of Christian doctrines and principles will help us today to solve our problems.

With William Burbine at the piano, the program started with community singing of "God Bless America" and ended with "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Clan Johnston's officers were installed last Friday night in Fraternal hall, with William Vannett being installed as chief by Royal Deputy William Ritchie and two past chiefs of Clan Grant, Lowell. The retiring chief, Thomas B. Gorrie, was presented with a past chief's jewel.

Alexander Duke rendered vocal selections. Mrs. James MacGowan was pianist for the installation and Miss Hazel Valentine played for general dancing. Refreshments were served.

Other officers installed were: Tanist, Peter Anderson; past chief, Thomas B. Gorrie; chaplain, George Gorrie; recording secretary, James Caldwell; financial secretary, George B. Petrie; treasurer, William A. R. Gordon; senior henchman, George MacMillan; junior henchman, John McGrath; senechal, George Brown; warder, Robert Lowe; sentinel, Thomas W. Neil; trustee for three years, Thomas B. Gorrie.

Two P. A. Pitchers

In No-Hit Victory

Patsy Donovan did a little experimenting last Saturday as Andover defeated Hyde Park high 5-0. His first mound choice was Hal Chase, and for five innings Hal refused to let the high school boys get a hit. Then just to show he had another one like Hal, he sent in Joe Phelan, and Joe kept up the Chase performance for four more innings. In fact Joe's was probably a little better than Hal's. Quigley, first man up, was passed, but thereafter only one other man reached, this being when Hart erred in the fourth. Andover's fielders, Townson, Brennan and Walsh, had a field day; they might as well have stayed on the bench for nothing came their way at all. The two academy pitchers each made five strike-outs.

Whelan, back at first after a one-game lay-off, proved the most powerful of the academy batsmen, getting a triple and a single.

Reviewer Praises Adventurers' Cast And Scenery Workers

The Queen's Navee may right now be cruising in the Eastern Mediterranean, but on Tuesday, April 18, "H.M.S. Falcon" was on duty on the China Station, greatly to the pleasure of all who were permitted aboard. In fact, a tea-dance given by the younger officers gave two romancers, Captain Randall and his fiancée, a chance to plan for dinner together, of course plus chaperon, the ladies in the expectation of leaving for shore on the late tender. How neatly this plan was overturned, resulting in the embarrassing presence overnight of two young women, not to mention a third woman in the gyro room, forms the plot of this farcical romance of the British Navy, the work of Ian Hay and Stephen King-Hall.

The Adventurers' spring play, always chosen with the idea of light entertainment, again furnished a full quota of laughs on the part of a large audience. Acts I and II were very snappy, with Ah Fong, the Chinese Boy, gliding in and out "chow chow," and Marine Ogg tiptoeing back and forth on stocking feet. True to many another third act, Act III of the Middle Watch drags painfully, reducing the tempo of the players themselves. It could be cut.

Two strong impressions emerge from the Adventurers' performance of this breezy nautical romance. The first is of the admirable casting, extending right through all the minor roles. Gladys Hill's Charlotte Hopkinson, a bit of rare burlesque, is a case in point; also Robert Bisset's A Sailor. Such careful casting made for a finished production, credit for which is largely due to the able direction of Mrs. Marjorie Edwards.

Carol Orr as charming Fay Eaton, and Thisbe Grieco as the merry widow, Mary Carlton, were thoroughly adequate, the latter at a critical moment improvising so well that only those on the inside knew she had saved the day. Geoffrey Nicoll was fine as the rigid Captain in the Service, although he suggested Scotland rather than Sussex; in fact, the whole cast, barring Ah Fong and the American heroine, might have talked more English English, don't you know. Corporal Duckett, Charles Armitage and Marine Ogg, however, did drop their h's, cockney style. Admiral and Lady Hewitt, Roland Fraser and Margaret McFarlin, drew many laughs. Chief of burlesque, however, was Marine Ogg, father of nine, whose inimitable stage business raises a laugh even now. Yes, William Hughes stole the show.

The second impression deserves emphasizing. One of the Wellesley Players, present last Tuesday, said that when her group put on Elmer Price's "Street Scene" lately, they did not attempt to make the sets; in fact, most of the time they order their sets made, and devote all their energies to the lines of the chosen play. She expressed astonishment over the perfection of detail in the two sets for "The Middle Watch," especially the very exacting set for the Captain's lobby. In spite of the long list of committees on the back of the program few attending the Adventurer's plays realize the skill, the science, the patience, and the time given by the Adventurers to these local productions. Hats off to Eric Hulme, to his engineering ability and his leadership. Andover may well boast of its Little Theatre, for the Adventurers can take a play and in all particulars make it their very own creatively. As Abt Vogler says in Browning's poem by that name:

"It is all triumphant art, but art is obedience to laws, Painter and poet are proud in the artist-list enrolled."

Shall We Fight Or Shall We Eat?

The drums are beginning to rumble again just as they did back in 1916 and 1917. Irresponsible persons in places of responsibility in many lands have the drumsticks in their hands, and they're ready to send millions of men back onto the battlefield that they and their fathers thought they had left for good back in 1918. Adolf Hitler we think wants war; we don't believe that the German people want war. Benito Mussolini we suspect would not be averse to sending the Italian people into war; we can't believe that the Italian people themselves are willing to go to war. And we can't help but feel that the Nation which has no connection with those countries that is worth sacrificing a single life to retain—our own United States—is being dragged into another World War by the blundering, meddling foreign policy of a man who unfortunately the dictators feel speaks for the whole Nation. In some way we, the people of the United States, must prove that we're in a Democracy by expressing our will, our desire neither to be killed, nor to kill.

For there are few in this country, who, having thought the thing through, have any quarrel with the average man of Germany or of Italy. Perhaps today those average men are in the grip of a mob war hysteria into which they were dragged by their leaders; we can't blame them for that, because we ourselves have been in the same grip, and unless we express our will now, we will be in that grip again as we see our "boys" boarding the troop trains for another Devens, and then for the transports—and ultimately, too many of them, for another Flanders Field.

They've been unfortunate, those average men in those two countries. They have two men now in apparently secure, complete control of their destinies—but will you blame the average man for allowing these two to gain that control? We don't like Hitler, we don't like Mussolini; we dislike the apparently ruthless way that they have grabbed at neighboring nations, we dislike their treatment of the Jews, we dislike their idea that the State is All, that the individual is nothing, that there is no power greater than the State. But do you know why they were allowed to gain control? The answer is the same one that has applied in a number of our states in the past few years: the people were hungry; they were willing, for the sake of some measure of economic security, to grasp at anything.

There's a law that's universal, the first law of human nature, the law of self-preservation. People have to eat. They'll give up almost anything to keep on living. It happened in Russia, it happened in Italy, it happened in Germany—and let's not fool ourselves: in some measure, it's happened here.

There's a man living in exile in Holland at present. A couple of decades ago we used to hang him in effigy. Kaiser Bill was hated, just as Hitler and Mussolini are hated now. We killed an awful lot of Germans, and an awful lot of Germans killed an awful lot of us because we hated Kaiser Bill. Should we do it again? Should we kill some people we don't know and we don't want to kill, just because they were hungry? Those people are just as much "Neighbors" in the eyes of the First Commandment as the fellow next door. That Commandment is not a passive one; it doesn't say "Thou shalt not hate thy neighbor." It says: "Thou shalt love thy neighbor." Why can't we, instead of fulminating at those two men, instead try to help their people? They were penalized because of Kaiser Bill; if there's a war and they're defeated, they'll be penalized because of Hitler or Il Duce.

We must straighten out our economic system; the world must straighten out its economic system. The world can't be safe for Democracy or anything else until it does. Give a nation plenty to eat, and it won't allow itself to be intellectually and spiritually starved by any dictator. It's not a problem of Imperialism, it's not a problem of Totalitarianism, it's a problem of getting enough to eat. If there's another anti-war conference of great powers, it must not confine itself to anti-aggression pacts, etc.; it must be an economic conference designed to ensure world economic stability and so world peace.

We want the German, the Italian, the Russian people to have the same rights we have. We want them to have the right to liberty, and the right to pursuit of happiness. But first they must have the right that the Constitutional phrase places before liberty and pursuit of happiness; they must have the right to life, and that means sustenance. When our leaders concern themselves with that problem, both at home and abroad, they will be doing something that the world will thank them and not hate them for.

If you don't want war, it would be a good idea to sit down now and write to: (1) the President; (2) Senators Walsh and Lodge; (3) Congressman Connery. Better do it now; it won't do you any good if you wait until your name appears on the list of drafted men.

MORE OILY WATER

The Board of Public Works office has been flooded with complaints lately about the drinking water, some saying that it tastes fishy, others that it tastes oily. In other places the water is designated in expressive if somewhat inelegant terms as having been "rotten." Sunday and Monday were the two worst days, but since then the reservoir has been drained out and the stones cleaned. The B. P. W. superintendent feels that the taste was caused by vegetable matter and states that there was no truth to the stories that there was a dead body and dead fish in the reservoir. The town doctors have been a little disturbed because rather than drinking the poor water, some residents have been drinking other beverages less healthful.

Sounds natural, doesn't it? Actually, however, archaeologist Doug Byers, looking over some of the late Dr. Moorehead's clippings, found one from the Townsman of June 28, 1901, on the establishment of the academy archaeological department. On the rear of it was a long article on the water situation in Andover, as gisted above.

Shopics by the Townswoman

Trying to find the tallest story of the fishing season is almost too much to tackle, but after talking to a friend-of-a-friend-of-a-friend, we finally got a line on a local angler who spent last Wednesday at Fish Brook in West Andover. Fred Winn is evidently a fisherman of great optimism and he went after his trout armed with a 24 test line. It's the general impression that in Fred's "tall" imagination, he expected to catch "Moby Dick."

The best duck story is not a hunting story this time but a rumor that Duck Inn is to open a week from Saturday. If you're not familiar with the delicious sandwiches, luncheons and baked bean suppers, just follow the tempting smell of roasting duck up Lowell street to the log cabin on the left hand side.

The moths have heard all about the warm weather, and they are planning to hold a feast in your closet unless you phone 1319 right away. The X-L delivery man will call for your winter clothing and furs and rush them to safe, cold storage vaults. After the special demothing process, the fur-eating animals will dine elsewhere, and in the fall your garments will be returned in X-Lent condition.

The best way to celebrate National Accident and Health week is to drop into the Musgrove and see Bill or Jimmy Doherty.

A coiffure that calls a truce between the up-swing and the down-hang, that is as flatteringly perfect on the beach as in the drawing room, will save many a headache this season. Miss Bergeron not only has a new shop on Post Office avenue but she also has some new styles that are real problem-solvers. Now that we can throw off our hats more often, it's even more important to have curls that stay put.

Remember the porter in "Victoria 4:30?" Cecil Roberts has since felt sorry for him standing in the Victoria Station longingly watching the Continental Express pull out without him and has plunged him and his bride right in the middle of the Nazi invasion in Vienna in his recent book, "They Wanted To Live." You can rent it or buy it at the Peabody Book Shop as well as such novels as "Harlequin House" by Margery Sharp and "Tree of Liberty" by Elizabeth Page.

For a limited time only, Miss Peabody is offering "Madame Curie" and "The Arts" for $1.49 and $1.98 reduced from $3.50 and $3.98. They are not in a cheaper edition and will soon go back to their original price.

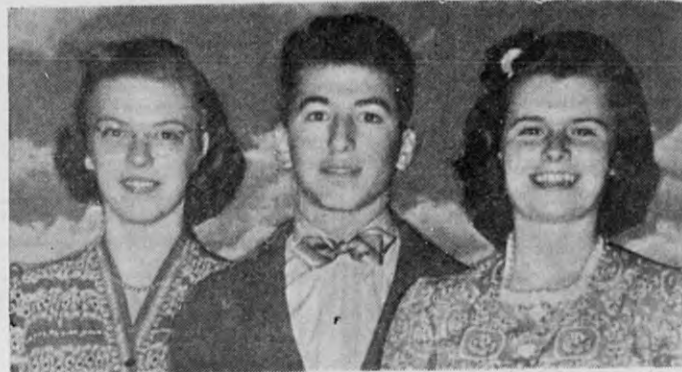

"Too smart to be practical?" That may be what you'll think when you first see the fitted traveling cases in the gift shop at FieldStones, but you have only to peek inside to see how indispensable they are going to be on your trip. Stylish as your pocketbook, they come in bright prints and stripes, in all sizes, designs and prices. One thing you must have is a hosiery case that has a clothes line, pins and darning materials tucked right in with your stockings, and a gad-about case with matching belt that is as low as twenty-five cents.

Unusual linens and monogrammed towels that will particularly please the bride-to-be are just what you've been looking for and incidentally, FieldStones is the place to hold engagement parties and showers.

When an out-of-town flower enthusiast asks you confidentially, "Have you seen the new violet?" take him into your garden and show off your own specimens. Try not to be too smug when you explain how the new violet, recently introduced throughout the country, is an Andover product, bred in Andover's Own Nursery, Heatherfells, but is indeed something to swell our local pride and we are especially fortunate in having its creator, Mr. Rohrbach, near to instruct us in nurturing and caring for its recurrent blooming in summer and fall, as late as Thanksgiving.

Punchard Junior Wins Barnard Contest

Eleanor Houston, Peter Loosigian, and Mary Deyermond

Miss Elinor Houston, Punchard junior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold T. Houston of Gardner avenue, who spoke on "Whispering of the Pines" was the winner of the first prize in the J. W. Barnard contest at the Memorial Auditorium Friday evening. Speaking on "On South Market Street," Peter Loosigian, senior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ohan Loosigian of Lowell street won second prize, and Miss Mary Deyermond, also a senior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

Robert V. Deyermond of Elm street, won third.

Based on two-thirds composition and one-third delivery, the awards were delivered by Principal Nathan C. Hamblin. The judges were: Mrs. Trevor W. Swett of Roxbury, the former Miss Edna Simmons, who taught English in Punchard from 1916 to 1920; John Butler, English teacher in Wakefield high school and Frederick W. H. Stott of the English department at Phillips academy.

Women Voters Hold Spring Meeting At Academy Log Cabin

The spring meeting of the Andover League of Women Voters was held at the Log Cabin on Tuesday afternoon with over sixty ladies present, who enjoyed their box lunches, coffee and cake in the sudden delightful burst of warm spring atmosphere.

Mrs. Merle Fainsod, President of the Massachusetts League, and Mrs. Henry C. Eaton, State Program Chairman, presented the plans for the program for the coming year's work, for discussion, criticism, and approval.

These plans will be presented to the delegates to the annual state convention of the league being held in Springfield on May 16-17 for final approval.

Garden Club Annual Meeting On Tuesday

The annual meeting of the Andover Garden club will be held on Tuesday, May 2, at the Log cabin in the Bird Sanctuary. All members are urged to come and bring a basket lunch. The club will serve coffee and dessert.

A sale of plants will also take place and fall dues are payable at this time.

Don't let the bright sun show up spots or thin places in your window shades. Rowland L. Luce at 53 Park street has reduced shades so low that the joy of having fresh new ones far outweighs the cost. He also has kitchen floor coverings, 9 by 12, as low as $6.50, and his bargain of the week is a set of twin maple beds.

MAY BREAKFAST ON NEXT TUESDAY

Twenty-five cents will go a long way next Tuesday morning if you take it to the right place—the annual May Breakfast in the Legion rooms. Only a quarter will buy fruit, beans, ham, rolls, relish, doughnuts, cheese and pie—coffee, too.

The breakfast, this year under the sole auspices of the Legion auxiliary, will be served from 6 to 9.

"Greatest Organist" Ever To Come To Andover Gives Concert Here

Andover has been very fortunate in its list of distinguished organ recitalists: Bonnet, Dupre and Vierne of Paris, Germani of Rome, Hollins of Edinburgh, Yon and Farnam of New York, Keller of Stuttgart, and Ramin of Leipzig. But it is safe to say that it remained for Professor Fritz Heitmann, organist of the Dom in Berlin and Professor at the State Conservatory of Musical Education and Religious Music, as well as at the State Academy of Music in Berlin, to present the greatest organ playing that has been heard in Andover. Never have we had such a combination of brilliant, dazzling technique, gripping, incisive, rhythm, together with musicianly phrasing, impeccable taste, and finesse in registration. When these qualities are combined in a program embracing the great "G Minor Fantasia and Fugue" of Bach, commonly considered the master's greatest organ composition, the "B-A-C-H Fantasia and Fugue" by Reger, undoubtedly the most stupendous organ composition ever written, and the "94th Psalm" of Ruebke, which abounds in the scintillating technique and warm romanticism of his master, Liszt, the evening becomes one of the high-water marks in the musical experiences of a life-time. Even the Handel Concerto which can easily tire, was played with such piquancy and finesse that its repetition as an encore was more than welcome.

Beyond his superb musicianship Professor Heitmann possesses one of the most delightfully charming personalities that have appeared in Andover. It is sincerely to be hoped that Professor Heitmann will soon pay a second visit to the United States.

Andover P. T. A. Elects Officers

Mrs. Stafford A. Lindsay was last night elected president of the Andover Parent-Teacher association at the annual meeting. Others elected were: first vice-president, James Eastham; second vice-president, Mrs. Roscoe E. Dake; recording secretary, Mrs. Robert V. Deymond; corresponding secretary, Miss Evelyne Oliver; treasurer, John Avery.

A play, "The Boor," by Anton Chekhov, was presented by a group of high school students under the direction of Mervin E. Stevens. The cast: Luka, Thomas Burns; Helena Ivanovna Popov, Jeanne Wirtz; Grigori Stepanovich Smirnov, Arthur Brindle; Gardener, William Renny; coachman, Willis East. Barbara Jackson was prompter, and the committee chairmen were properties, Margaret Hadley; costumes, Barbara Reed; and scene painting, William Renny.

Thank You, Andover

Punchard Wins Two, Leads League

Proctor scoring from third in the first inning.

Including games played yesterday the Punchard high school baseball team is in first place in the Merrimack Valley suburban high school baseball league with two victories and no defeats. Although some of the teams have played only one game, the league is already beginning to shape up.

Punchard appears strong in every department except hitting. However, the loss of White is bound to be felt. Johnson will again be the powerhouse of the league, with two veteran pitchers. Chelmsford will be strong. Methuen, although erratic, will probably develop. Wilmington, Howe, and Tewksbury lack pitching.

The standing to date:

Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
Punchard	2	0	1.000
Johnson	1	0	1.000
Chelmsford	1	0	1.000
Methuen	1	1	.500
Wilmington	1	2	.333
Howe	0	1	.000
Tewksbury	0	2	.000

On Tuesday the team opened with a 15 to 0 shutout victory over Howe high of Billerica. Captain Doug Howe pitched the entire game, allowing six hits, and fanning fifteen. The nearest that the visitors came to scoring was in the sixth inning when Arthur David, Howe rightfielder, tried to score from second base on a single to center, but he was thrown out at the plate by ten feet, on a fine throw from Bill Anderson to Proctor. Two innings later, Cobb was thrown out at third by Proctor on an attempted steal.

On the other hand, the home team started out in the first inning and scored eight runs on two hits, three walks, and an assortment of errors, wild pitches, and passed balls. After this both teams settled down, and Punchard spread out their remaining scores over four innings.

Proctor, with two out of six, and Burnham, with two out of four, were the leading hitters for the home team. It is interesting and surprising to note, that despite the changes necessitated by the injury to White, and also the fact that it was the first game, the Punchard club played errorless ball in the field.

On Wednesday the boys started in where they left off the day before. Playing on the new diamond at Tewksbury, they defeated the high school team of that town by the score of 16 to 4. Paced by catcher Howard Proctor who made three hits, the club pounded two Tewksbury pitchers for a total of fourteen hits, including a tremendous three-bagger by Allerruzo to the corner of the foul line in right field. The same lad contributed the fielding feature of the game when he made a fine running catch of a line drive into right field. Ferguson and Deyermond divided the pitching assignment for Punchard, and Ferguson had trouble in only one inning, when his own mental lapse was responsible for two runs.

Bob Burnham, Sophomore outfielder, filled in at shortstop for Alfred White who received a broken leg on Tuesday. Several substitutes were given a chance to play during the late stages of the fray.

ZINK ELECTED WRESTLING CAPTAIN

Having concluded a successful wrestling season at the University of North Carolina, George E. Zink, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin J. Zink of Ballardvale, has been elected captain of the 1940 varsity team. He won five straight scoring victories out of the six dual meets in which he competed and is state champion in the 121 pound class. A year ago he was the winner of the 112-pound title in the A. A. U. tournament.

BROWN ELECTED

George Brown was Friday night named chairman of the Poms pond committee and Edward Lefebvre secretary. Plans for repairing the beach property were considered.

Punchard Victory Proves Costly

Although the Punchard team opened the season on Tuesday by defeating Howe high of Billerica, the victory proved to be a very costly one. Alfred "Sonny" White, the shortstop, suffered a broken leg when he collided with the Howe catcher, John Donald, while attempting to score on an infield out in the fifth inning.

Balmoral Tennis Season Opens

Although there has been very little suitable weather the three courts at the Spa opened for the season last Wednesday after restoration of surface conditions caused by flood and hurricane and severe winter. The management wishes to reassure all those interested that the customary season tickets will be available as in the past, as well as a reduction of rates for hourly reservations.

Constant servicing, interesting exhibition matches and at least six tournaments have been arranged for. The Balmoral courts will also provide for five of the ten league matches for the Shawsheen team, the first to be played here Sunday, May 7, with Amesbury.

The Merrimack Valley Tennis League has had two successful seasons. This season's officers are Henry Simmers, president; Carol Dunn, Haverhill, treasurer; and William P. Rockwell, No. Andover, secretary. The Shawsheen team will be captained by J. Kenrick Butler, new resident of Andover and former tennis star of the Lowell team. Any Andover resident interested in playing should call him at 490.

MALE CHOIR PREPARING FOR CONTEST AND CONCERT AT NEW HAVEN

The Andover Male Choir will compete for a class prize with the Torrington, Conn., club and for the grand prize with the best men's singing clubs of New England when some 1500 members and guests of the New England Federation of Men's Glee clubs, representing 28 cities, meet at New Haven on Saturday, May 13, for the annual contest and combined concert. Every year since 1933 the Andover club has won prizes in the contest, and two years ago won the grand prize. About 80 people, including 50 members of the Choir, will journey to New Haven in two buses leaving Saturday morning at 7.

The contest will be held in the afternoon, and in the evening there will be some 800 male voices taking part in the concert to be held in Woolsey hall of Yale University. The clubs will be assisted by the New Haven Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Professor Richard M. Donovan of the Yale School of Music, with Frank M. Boyzan at the organ. The New Haven Telephone Glee club will be hosts to the Federation.

The prize song this year is Ben Johnson's "Hymn to Diana" set to music by Thomas F. Dunhill. Sung without accompaniment, the competitive numbers are chosen for their technical difficulty and call for precision and artistic expression. The Club's presentations are judged on five points of technical ability, pitch, diction, tone, ensemble and interpretation. Each of the three judges has a stenographer to take down the comments he makes, and a written report is rendered by each judge to every participating club.

Dogs, 118 Of Them, Invade Fire Station

Did you hear all that barking and yipping up around the square Saturday morning? That's what happens when 118 dogs converge on the Central Fire station over a three-hour period. Each one of them submitted, quite agreeably on the whole, to an inoculation against rabies in the first of this spring's Board of Health clinics.

Next Saturday morning a clinic will be held from 9 to 12 at the Vale engine house, the following Saturday at the Main street garage in Shawsheen, and on the 13th back at the Central station.

Parish Buildings In Excellent Condition

Extensive repairs on St. Augustine's convent are almost complete, and shortly the parishioners will be invited to inspect the home. The completion of this work will round out a large number of improvements made during the three and a half years that Father Austin has been pastor here. The parish buildings: two churches, rectory, convent and school, formerly in a badly run-down condition, are now in an excellent state of repair.
