Annual Conference Of Churches Held

The Andover association of Congregational churches and ministers held their annual conference in the Free church, Tuesday afternoon. The association includes Congregational churches in other parts of Greater Lawrence, as well as Lowell.

"The Christian Message in a World at War" was the timely topic of a talk given by Dr. Frank Jennings, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Council of Churches.

A ministers' supper was given in the junior Sunday school dining room of the parish house by the Women's Alliance of the Free church, at 6 o'clock. This supper was for the delegates and all who wished to come, as well as the ministers. The Misses Jessie Campbell and Clara Baldwin were in charge of the dining room. Mrs. David M. May is president of the Woman's Alliance.

The kitchen committee for the supper was as follows: Mrs. David May, Mrs. James Gillespie, Mrs. William Faulkner, Mrs. George Carter, Mrs. James Souter, Mrs. Joshua Paine, Mrs. Roy Bradford, and Mrs. E. E. Perry.

Stolen Car Leaps Into Tree Following Shot-Spitting Chase

After an alleged 70-80 mile an hour chase in which police fired four bullets, a car believed stolen from a Lawrence garage jumped into a tree on Osgood road, seriously injuring the two occupants, shortly before midnight last night. Local police intend to place charges of operating to endanger and operating under the influence on the driver, John Carlstrom of Lawrence, while his home-city police are planning to press the stolen car charge while at the same time executing a default warrant which they hold on him for neglect of children.

Several severe lacerations and broken bones were received by Carlstrom and his companion, a Mrs. Mary White of Salem road, North Wilmington. They were removed to the Lawrence General hospital.

Responding to a call from the Boston and Maine railroad to stop a train because of a broken rail, at the station, Officers John Campbell and Joseph O'Brien went down to Lupine road where they were reportedly forced off the road by the car. With officer Carl Stevens taking care of the train, the pair set out after the car and caught up to it on Andover street near Jacques' coal yard. They blew their whistles, and then the other car started off at a terrific rate. O'Brien reported that at one time his car was hitting 83. After he

TOWN MEETING TO BE HELD NOV. 9; RAIN FILLS WELLS

With their most potent argument washed out by an end-of-the-month rain that filled their wells with better than an average October's rainfall, West Andover's farmers were successful this week in getting a town meeting called after they had filed a petition with more than 100 signatures, the required amount. The meeting will be held Thursday night in the auditorium at 7:30. The warrant, containing only one article asking an appropriation, is printed in the legal notice section of today's Townsman.

The article calls for an appropriation of $17,520 for a water main along Chandler and Sanders road.

The registrars will meet Wednesday from noon to 10 p. m. for a special registration of new voters.

The directors of the Taxpayers' association will meet Monday night at 8 to discuss the problem.

Officer Apprehends Hit And Run Driver

Cruising around for Hallowe'en pranksters enabled officer William McCarthy to apprehend an alleged hit-run driver on the by-pass last night. McCarthy came along just as Lillian S. Rage of Haverhill was alighting from her car to survey the damage. McCarthy set out after the other car and caught up with it at the junction of route 114 and 125. After a night as guest of the police in the cell-block, Carl Hill of Lynn was scheduled to appear in District court this morning.

Tax Ass'n Members In Good Response

The first call for 1939-1940 Taxpayers' association membership has met with splendid response since it went out less than a month ago. Already over 75% of last year's members have sent in their dollar dues, and there is an encouraging number of new members.

It is expected that shortly a second notice will be sent out, together with the association's annual reports.

TO ARREST CAMP VANDALS

Notices have been posted at the scout camps at Poms pond warning trespassers of prosecution. Considerable damage has been done from time to time and caretaker William McDermitt has received the co-operation of police in curbing the trouble.

Town Mourns Passing Of School Superintendent On Last Day Before Retirement

On his last day as superintendent of schools, Henry C. Sanborn passed away Tuesday afternoon—still, as he probably had wished it, in harness, but without having been able to secure and enjoy the years of happy retirement which he had earned in his 22 years of service to Andover's children. His last few years as superintendent, however, were a source of real satisfaction to him, for most of his dreams for the Andover school system had been fulfilled, dreams which he, more than any other single person, had had a large part in fulfilling.

What would have been his first day of retirement saw the flags of Andover drop to half-mast, the 1600 students of the public schools stand in reverent silence after memorial services, preparations hurriedly made to make a forthcoming art exhibit a tribute to the man who was most interested in it.

When Henry Sanborn came to Andover as its new superintendent in 1916, the schools of Andover were a widely scattered group, many of them with only one or two rooms housing six to eight grades. In September of this year Mr. Sanborn saw the North school closed—the last school in town where a teacher had to teach more than two grades. With that advance in education came another: the junior high school system which he introduced in the early twenties here and which he developed to its present state, now housed in a beautiful building which with the auditorium and gymnasium was Mr. Sanborn's greatest dream of all as far as the physical aspect of the schools was concerned.

He was extremely interested in and loyal to his teachers, loyal because in selecting them he insisted on standards that insured getting teachers worth being loyal to. But his primary interest was in the students—some of them can remember help which he gave them personally; all of them, directly or indirectly, benefitted because of what he wanted the Andover schools to be.

His early life paved the way for the philosophy of his later life. Born in Webster, N. H., in 1872 he spent his first sixteen years on a farm, attending one-room school houses, an experience which gave him ample authority later in life to feel that they were not the best for the children. He graduated from Reading high in 1891, and then went on to Dartmouth where he worked his way through—a procedure which he usually advised against unless absolutely necessary because "it takes a lot of time and energy that could better be devoted to study and the other phases of college life." Entering Dartmouth with only $100, he needed no more money until his junior year when he invested $250 to buy a half-interest in the college bookstore, a venture which proved very profitable.

After graduating in 1895 he spent a year in travel abroad, studying philology at Goettingen University. Returning here he began teaching and serving as principal in a number of high schools; his first superintendency was in Franklin, N. H., and then in Danvers whence he came to Andover. A quiet person, not the type to thrust himself forward, he made his influence here felt in many ways, on students, on teachers, on school board and on the town. Never one to do anything which would impair the town's educational system, he nevertheless watched the town's pennies as closely as if they were his own.

By his first wife, Lucy Cummings Sanborn, he had three children: John, now in Canada as an engineer with the International Telephone and Telegraph; George, an instructor at Phillips Academy; and Lucy, who after teaching in Haverhill and Washington for several years is now studying for her master's degree at the University of Chicago. The first Mrs. Sanborn died a number of years ago; his second wife, the former Dorothy Florence Farnham, survives him.

Watson-Peabody

At a simple family wedding in the First Congregational church, Methuen, Miss Priscilla Peabody, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry N. Peabody of 478 Merrimack street, Methuen, and proprietor of the Peabody book shop on Main street, became the bride of William Watson, Jr., son of Mrs. Ellen Watson of Highland avenue at 7:00 Thursday evening. Only the immediate families attended.

The bride wore an informal blue velvet gown with matching turban. Her corsage was of yellow orchids. Her sister, Elizabeth Peabody, was her maid of honor and she wore dubonnet velvet with matching turban and a corsage of gardenias.

Gilbert Cromie was the best man. After the ceremony the couple left on an unannounced wedding trip. They will reside at 54 Salem street.

Rummage Sale Rewards Guild And Patrons

The many who hurried to the Rummage Sale at the Guild House last Saturday were amply repaid for their early-bird tendencies. The "finds" were many, for the loot which generous Andover housekeepers donated for this sale was the best assortment imaginable—and even those who went to gaze could not resist carrying home a cherished vase, picture, or new hat.

The committee, headed by Mrs. Henry Hopper, is grateful for the many contributions received and to the great number of townspeople who came to buy. It is also interesting to discover that Andover has a fine corps of saleswomen who could pinch-hit for Macy's or Brentano's with the greatest of ease.

Mrs. Jerome Cross, assisted by Mrs. Bowen Hodges, Mrs. Lyman Cheever, and Mrs. Bernardine, arranged her bric-a-brac display with a great deal of distinction, and at the hat shop Mrs. Bartlett Mercer, Mrs. N. E. Bartlett, and Mrs. W. T. Rich, Jr., produced marvels of millinery for every buyer. The men's clothes were sold by Mrs. Charles Gabeler and her staff, Mrs. George Brown, Mrs. Walen, and Mrs. Donald MacDonald; and very tempting was the children's shop, run by Mrs. Nunez, Mrs. Tyer, and Mrs. Frederick Johnson. Many bargains were sold by Mrs. Clara Thompson Knox and Mrs. Frank L. Purdon in the book shop.

Others who established themselves as the most persuasive and helpful of saleswomen were Mrs. George French, Mrs. Frank Benton, Mrs. Lester Newton, Mrs. A. Graham Baldwin, Mrs. James L. Toohy, Miss Jean Mercer, Mrs. George Sawyer, Miss Abbie Castle, Mrs. Herbert Lewis, Mrs. R. E. Dake, Mrs. Penrose Hallowell, Mrs. Leonard James, and Mrs. Horace Poynter.

November Club Lecture Series To Begin Wednesday

This is the first of a series of eight lectures sponsored by the November club and open to members of the November club without charge. There are however many others besides November club members both in Andover and in surrounding communities who have come to regard Mrs. Taylor's lectures as an outstanding and delightful means of keeping enlightened in this hurried existence of ours and of learning the relative significance of events. Added to this is the pleasure derived from meeting quite informally a vivid speaker and a charming personality.

Course tickets for the eight lectures of the series at $4.00 may be purchased at the door next Wednesday morning or from any of the November club directors previous to that day.—Mrs. Frederick M. Boyce, Mrs. Mitchell Johnson, Mrs. Charles H. Sawyer, Miss Anne B. Penniman, Mrs. Cleveland Gilcrest, Mrs. Mervin E. Stevens, Mrs. Tyler Carlton, Mrs. J. Roswell Gallagher, Mrs. Byron C. Hall, Mrs. Frederick Hulme, Mrs. George Sanborn and Mrs. Walter Partridge.

Successful Dance Held By Sodality

The Young Ladies' Sodality of St. Augustine's parish held a very successful and well-attended barn dance in the parochial school hall, Tuesday evening. The hall was beautifully decorated in a highly "spirited" Halloween manner, complete as a barnyard scene even to a hayloft, live pig and rooster, as well as a big basket of apples that grew fewer and fewer as the evening "danced on."

Miss Mary Regan, a talented young singer from Shawsheen, sang "An Apple For the Teacher." Miss Regan has sung over the radio and recently won two first prizes singing in New York theatres. Miss Flora Raidy entertained with an eccentric dance, and there were several novelty numbers.

Harold Phinney led and directed the grand march.

The committee on arrangements was: Flora Raidy, chairman; Mary Simeone, Agnes Carter, Mary Collins, Claire Goebel, Eleanor Raidy, Bernadine Barrett, Josephine McNulty, Margaret Lavery, Mary McNulty.

LEGION TO MEET

The American Legion will hold an important meeting tonight at the Legion rooms to make final plans for Poppy Day and for Armistice Day.

Local archeologists have spent much time and energy digging up Indian relics to establish the missing links in Andover's history, and now by means of an advertisement in "Better Homes and Gardens," we find that the Indians really are astute in developing historic "shades of Andover" . . . The Mohawk Company of Amsterdam, N. Y. is producing Wilton Rugs in Andover tones, soft rich colors that show us that the Indian's impression of our town is not as shady as a correspondent's whose communication appears in this issue. We only wish that more of our aborigines' influence still existed and that we had Hiawatha in some of the wells in West Andover. . . but we're pretty sure there were still some Senecas around on Hallowe'en. . .

It used to be fun to sing "Shut The Doors, They're Coming Through the Windows" but it is quite embarrassing when it really happens. . . Saturday night one of the town's residents was attempting a nonchalant exit from the Phillips Inn and he tried to open several of the full length windows before a helpful person finally showed him the door—Hence his pained expression when his friends, waiting outside, told him how silly he had looked. . .

Every now and then we hear a new story that resulted from our anniversary issue. . . like the one about the sub-editor of a nearby paper who checks up on his reporters writing suburban columns by carefully reading the papers published in that town. The morning after the October 12th issue of the Townsman, this same editor made some very special cursory remarks and wanted to know why the blanket-ee-blank the Andover reporter didn't get the story on the Firemen's Muster! . . . It was some time before he realized that we had pulled the wool over his eyes. . . No wonder the blanketee made him warm under the collar. . .

Although Hallowe'en has been celebrated all this week, no really drastic pranks were reported. . . De-signing persons must have carried the real estate signs from Andover to Lawrence, Tuesday night. . . but not much else was a-Cheever-ed. . . The Lincoln Circle sign took a spin across the street and the Historical Society gate was unhinged and left leaning against a lamp-post. . . Nothing too hysterical about that. . . But you should have seen stockin'less Selectman Shepard at the accident last night costumed in pajamas and an overcoat.

News of Other Days

Fifty Years Ago

—Punchard seems to be showing her superiority over other high schools in football. On Wednesday, her eleven defeated the Lawrence school team, 20-0. The Lawrence boys were heavy but not up to the tricks of football.

—J. A. Dennison of this town, last Friday, won the $250 silver cup, offered by Harvard graduates for kicking the football. There were six entries and each had three drop kicks and three place kicks from the 25, 35 and 45-yard lines. Dennison won easily, kicking two goals from the 25 yard line and three straight from the 35 yard line. The contest will be held every year for ten years, at the end of which time it will be given to the man having the best record.

—Lyle has added a lunch department to his store.

—A new and improved ballot box came this week for use in the coming election. It differs from the former in that it cannot register a number until a ballot has been deposited, while the former one registered every time the crank turned.

—About one hundred friends and neighbors, among whom were people from Lawrence, Boston and Portland, gathered at the home of Warren Bailey, last Friday evening, to enjoy a husking party. After many bushels of corn had been husked in the barn, an excellent supper was served in the house, followed by dancing. It was at a late hour when the guests departed, having enjoyed a very pleasant time.

Twenty-five Years Ago

—A load of hay which had toppled over on to the car last Saturday afternoon, near the Hidden road turnout, held up traffic a while. The hay was piled up directly on the track necessitating the change of cars at this point.

—Charles Milande, who lives at the corner of Lowell street and Chandler road, lost about seventy chickens on Monday night. No clue as to the thief is known although the tracks of a rubber tired buggy were followed all over West Parish by Chief Smith.

—Austin C. Higgins, dairyman at Arden Farm, has just received a gold medal from the National Dairymen's Association and by this honor, he becomes the champion butter-maker of the United States.

Ten Years Ago

—Miss Margaret M. Doherty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Doherty, of Harding street, has accepted a position as technician in the department of neuropathology in the laboratory of the Harvard Medical school.

—The doors of the new home of the Andover Historical society at 67 Main street were thrown open last evening to the members, more than fifty of whom took the opportunity to inspect the attractive new quarters.

—Misses Betty and Agnes Deyermund, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Deyermund of High street, entertained a number of their friends at a Halloween party at their home Wednesday.

—Harvey G. Turner, whose herd of purebred Holstein dairy cattle is well known in Andover, has recently chosen a trade name to identify his herd, according to an announcement made by the Holstein-Friesian association of America which registered the name for the breeder which is "Shetland Brook."

—Miss Mary Loosigian of Lowell street met with a serious accident Monday. On alighting from the school bus at her home, she went across the street to the mail-box when a machine hit her, throwing her to the pavement and breaking her arm as well as injuring her knee.

A coffee hour will follow the opening meeting. Tickets which are $2.50 may be procured from Mrs. John Patal, Mrs. Harold Houston, Mrs. Herbert Cregg and Mrs. Frederick Smith.

The public is invited to join.

You save money by paying $2.00 a year for the Townsman.

Veterans Will Hold Armistice Program

The Veterans of Foreign Wars will conduct an Armistice Day memorial service in the Memorial auditorium, November 10, at 8:00 o'clock. A very prominent lecturer will deliver the address. Andover Orchestra
Now Being Formed

Under the direction of Mr. George Brown, well-known cellist, teacher, and conductor of the Melrose Orchestral association, a small orchestra has been formed in Andover. It is interested in playing and in studying good music adapted to its ability. Among its members are some advanced players and some who are beginners on their instruments, with little or no experience in group playing.

This group, with the support of the Andover Evening Study Groups, extends a cordial invitation to join it to everyone in the community who plays an orchestral instrument, is learning to play one, or would like the musical education which listening to rehearsals may provide. It offers expert guidance towards building up technique and musical understanding and the pleasure of playing with congenial people who like good music.

If you are interested, come to Peabody House (corner of Main and Phillips streets) at 8:15 either Thursday, November 9th, or Thursday, November 16th, or telephone N. P. Hallowell, Jr., Andover 1202. The expenses incident to building up and maintaining this orchestra will be distributed equitably among its members.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Robert and Burton Batcheller entertained a group of their friends on Hallowe'en night. The usual Hallowe'en fun was enjoyed and refreshments were served by Mrs. Batcheller. Those present were Frances Little, Barbara Lewis, Billy Lane, Thomas Carter, Polly McGowan, Katherine Jenkins, John Little, Robert and Burton Batcheller.

BRIGGS-ALLEN NOTES

Last Hobby Day we built two fires out of doors and cooked sausages, bacon and fried eggs besides toasting sandwiches. The boys were better cooks than the girls.

Frances MacDonald was the first to finish a bunny rabbit. Robert Wetterberg and Bruce Noble finished bracelets. Other members are working on embroidered towels, belts, crocheted holders and other interesting as well as useful articles.

Hallowe'en was made gay in spite of rain because of Miss Mary E. Richard's gift of lollypops to the entire school. Hallowe'en activities were enjoyed the last period of the day.

Art Exhibit To Be Tribute To Mr. Sanborn

Radio station A-R-T has been sending out bulletins recently, one a day to all the teachers in the local schools, telling of plans for the art exhibit of 150 reproductions of famous paintings to be held next week in the art room of the Junior high.

Each bulletin was sent to superintendent Sanborn who laid the preliminary plans. Last week to Art Supervisor Alice M. Olliff he sent a little note expressing his interest in the bulletins and his best wishes for the success of the art exhibit.

Yesterday's bulletin was somber in tone: "Let us remember that it was his desire that all teachers, all students and the townspeople have the opportunity to enjoy and appreciate the better things in life. He planned for the Art Exhibit to last one week so that all would have an opportunity to visit it as often as they wished during that time. He anticipated that the funds should be large enough to purchase several pictures. He hoped that all schools would do all in their power to make the exhibit a success. Will you keep these things in mind and endeavor to carry out his wishes?"

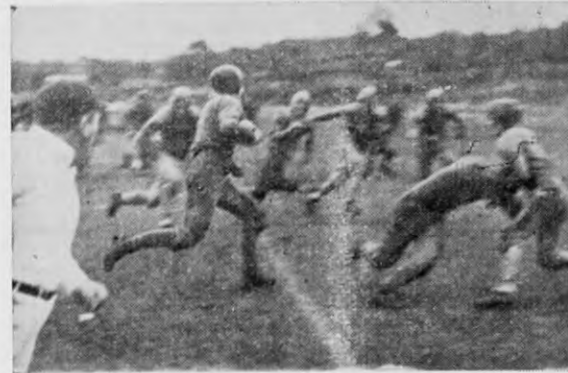

It is the hope of the school authorities that interested citizens or groups will see fit to make contributions to purchase pictures for memorials, they to designate which school they would like the memorial to hang in.

Many Responses To "Information Please" At Society Meeting

Members of the Andover Historical society, in spite of the rain, filled the living rooms of 97 Main street on Monday evening for one of the most interesting annual meetings that the Society has held. The topic was "Information Please," especially concerning certain old houses. Mr. Frederick Johnson of the Department of Archaeology at Phillips Academy gave an account of the new home which he is building on Missionary Lane out of the remains of several old ones and of his adventures in search of materials. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Grant, who are reconditioning the old Upton house in West Parish, described that and one of its neighbors. Mr. F. E. Newton outlined the history of the early dwelling at 9 Salem street from which he has lately moved, the first house built by the Trustees of Phillips academy.

The usual reports showed that the Society continues to prosper, that the membership grows, and that the gifts this year have been interesting and valuable. The officers newly elected are: president, William A. Trow; first vice-president, Scott Paradise; second vice-president, Thaxter Eaton; secretary, F. Tyler Carlton; treasurer, Clifford E. Marshall; directors for three years, Miss Sarah E. Bodwell, Edwin T. Brewster and Henry J. Stevenson.

Unscored-on Punchard Blanks Lexington

Noyes eluded the above players Monday to score on a 50-yard run. (Surette Studio)

After having Saturday's game called because of rain, Punchard defeated a much weaker squad of Lexington "Minute Men" 21 to 0 Monday.

Punchard has scored 143 points to its opponents' none thus far this season, while the Lexington lads have scored no points to their opponents' 147. Despite Punchard's fine record, there is still room for plenty of improvement, particularly in the line, on the defensive. Punchard has an open date for this Saturday, but the following week it will face its hardest test against Methuen high. The Methuen boys have won some hard battles this year against stiff competition, which should give Coach Lovely's boys reasonable cause to worry a bit.

Monday afternoon's fray found Frank Haggerty, Tom Noyes, and Gus Connelly doing the scoring honors for P. H. S., while "Cap" Don McLaughlan's "educated toe" booted the three conversion points.

The local lineup was as follows: Lindsay, Thompson, lb; Renny, Stocks, lt; Brown, Lynch, lg; McLaughlan, c; Collins, MacMahon, rg; MacMackin, rt; Deyermond, Gillespie, re; Muller, Ross, qb; Haggerty, Boucher, lhb; Anderson, Connelly, rhb; Noyes, fb.

NOYES CO-CAPTAIN

John Noyes, former Punchard star, was last Saturday elected co-captain of the Worcester football team before the game with Yale freshmen. He was a three-letter man at Punchard.

American Architecture At Academy Exhibit

On view now at the Addison Gallery of American Art at Phillips academy, is a newly opened exhibition of American architecture. This exhibition was assembled by the Department of Architecture of New York's Museum of Modern Art for a comprehensive survey of American art at the Jeu de Paume, Paris, under the auspices of the French Government in 1938, and is entitled "Three Centuries of American Architecture." Since its return from France it has been rearranged as a travelling exhibition, but it remains substantially as it was shown abroad.

Consisting of handsome enlarged photographs, maps, plans, charts, and several models of historic buildings, the exhibition traces the development of American architecture from the earliest colonial dwellings to the modern houses of Frank Lloyd Wright and others.

The very earliest buildings shown are the adobe Governor's Palace at Santa Fe, New Mexico, St. Luke's church in Virginia (1632), and the Fairbanks House at Dedham, Mass. (1636). The first buildings that the European settlers erected were strictly utilitarian, but once securely established, they built churches and more pretentious buildings.

After 1700, the planters of the South and the shipping magnates of New England began to demand more monumental homes. They naturally turned to England through the imported English "builder's Manual" or "Carpenter's guide." There sprung up then in both New England and the south, buildings of Renaissance design, with ornamental doorways, wood construction in interiors which copy to some extent the stone construction of English buildings, with columns, pilasters, entablatures, pediments.

To supplement this exhibition, two smaller shows have been arranged: "Photographs of Old Vermont Buildings," lent by the Robert Hull Fleming Museum of the University of Vermont. The other, lent by the Museum of Modern Art, New York, shows the prize designs for the half-million dollar art center to be erected at Wheaton College, Norton, Mass.

Fettes Now Leading Andover Bowlers

This week's Andover bowling league's matches were featured by the hard-fought strings between Andover Coal and the Laundry, the latter winning 3 to 1 with only a small pinfall margin, the steady increase of all bowlers in average, and the First National team finally winning, a four-point victory. The Legion post, resting on its community service laurels, still remains a bit tenderhearted about knocking down pins.

The final meeting of the first half will be held next Tuesday, with all bowlers and managers requested to attend.

High single: H. Gauthier, 154; high triple, F. Westcott, 391; high team single Laundry, 595; high team triple Hood's 1645.

Keep The Standards High

"What do you think about the appointment of the future superintendent and high school principal?" When superintendent Henry C. Sanborn last visited the Townsman office, he asked that question. Our answer was, in substance: "They'll be here a long time, they'll have charge of a lot of children, and so the committee should choose the very best candidates possible, regardless of where they come from."

It would be easy to fill a page of material eulogizing Mr. Sanborn, for his life offers considerable material worthy of a eulogy. But knowing Mr. Sanborn, we are sure that he would much rather have us forget the eulogy and instead follow one of his last suggestions to us: "I'm glad you feel that way; I hope you won't hesitate to repeat those sentiments in the Townsman."

His will be a hard position to fill; so will Mr. Hamblin's—both of them doubly hard in that they have been so well-filled for the past quarter of a century. It's a great responsibility that now rests on the sub-committee on teachers, the making of a decision that will affect the lives of thousands of Andover children in the present generation and the generation to come. Nothing must influence that decision one way or the other: nothing but a desire to do as Henry Sanborn would have done: select the very best for the children of Andover.

Mr. Frost on Liquor
Editor of the Townsman:

It is disheartening to the loyal citizens of Andover to note the spirit of nonchalance, yea, utter unconcern of its people regarding the prevalence in its midst of fifteen liquor saloons. Not a word of protest is heard either from the pulpits, the press, or on the streets. And yet to every observer evidence is increasing showing the increase of drunkenness and its consequent filth which lines its sidewalks and doorways during the early morning hours.

One needs but to stop before one of these saloons late of a Sunday evening to see it filled with a ribald crowd of young men and later, to follow them staggering to their lodgings, befuddled in brain, lost to common decency, and nauseated in stomach, to realize its hellish character.

Beside their own cozy firesides, engrossed in reading or in listening to the radio of happenings in Europe, these self-satisfied citizens give little thought to the ravages of manhood taking place hourly in their own town. These things ought not to be.

George B. Frost

Police-Conscious Public Would Aid Police

"In the horse and buggy days," said Inspector Terence McManus of the Boston Police Department in his talk at the Service club meeting last Thursday night, the police officer was everyone's friend except the criminal's, but nowadays there is very little co-operation between the public and the police. The Inspector thought that this might be the result of so many people being checked up while operating automobiles. The police are helpless without his co-operation, he went on to say, because it is impossible to solve a case without a clue and often the clue that leads to a successful solution, is as simple as the registration number of a car, evidence that can often be supplied by the public.

Inspector McManus, who was substituting for Edward L. Kirby, the scheduled speaker, asked the Service club members to become police-conscious. His lecture was illustrated by pictures that proved, beyond a doubt, that crime doesn't pay.

President Kenneth L. Sherman presented the loving cup donated by Selectman Roy E. Hardy to Ralph Starke, who won the bowling tournament held after last week's meeting.

Reporting for the educational committee, Town Treasurer Thaxton Eaton announced that plans are now under way for the establishment of a revolving scholarship, and J. Augustus Remington, reporting for the community vice committee, suggested a plan to obtain a more reasonable rate for a combination Andover-Lawrence telephone and it was voted to appoint a committee of three to confer with the telephone company on this matter.

Legion Auxiliary Officers Installed

Mrs. George Cilley was installed as president of the American Legion auxiliary, Friday evening, in Fraternal hall, by Mrs. Alice Hardwick of Marblehead, district director of Essex County. Her assisting installing officer was County Sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. Elizabeth Jewett of Marblehead.

Other officers installed were: senior vice-president, Mrs. L. Whelton Muise; junior vice-president, Mrs. John Keith; secretary, Mrs. Arthur Jowett; treasurer, Mrs. William A. Buchan; chaplain, Mrs. John H. Long; historian, Miss Ethel Hilton; sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. Harry Wrigley; executive board, Mrs. J. Frank Bourne, Mrs. Harry Gouck and Mrs. Ethel Robinson.

The auxiliary presented the retiring president, Mrs. John Keith, with a past president's pin and a pocketbook, and other gifts to Mrs.

Buchan and Mrs. Jowett for their service to the unit. Mrs. Keith presented a bouquet and pocketbook to Mrs. Muise for her assistance. The installing officers were also made presentations by the auxiliary.

A program of singing and dancing followed the meeting with Miss Anna Hennesey, Miss Constance Swenson and Frank McCarthy rendering the vocal selections and Misses Doris Nicoll, Arline Stevens and Edith Gordon dancing.

Mrs. Alfred Coates was the winner of the chair back set which was given away.

Students To Conduct Baptist Services

Five programs in the Baptist church over the week-end will be led by a group of 18 students from Greater Boston colleges. The deputation comes headed by Dr. Newton C. Fetter, minister to Baptist students in Boston. A similar series of programs met with great success last year, and the local church anticipates large attendances at all the meetings.

The visitors arrive in time for a public supper served in the church vestry at 6:30. Following the "Fun Fest Supper," an evening of games will be led by Dr. Fetter, assisted by the visiting students. On Sunday all the church services will be conducted by the young men and women, including Church School at 9:30 a. m., church worship at 10:45 a. m., Christian Endeavor at 6:30 p. m. and evening service at 7:30 p. m. The students are to be guests in the homes of members of the congregation during the week-end. All the services are open to visitors.

had fired a warning shot into the air, he tried another, and Campbell shot twice, one of the bullets finding its mark in the trunk. But the car sped along, turning into Dascamp road.

At Osgood road it turned right, just avoiding two other cars and a light pole, with the screeching of brakes waking up the entire Shepard family. O'Brien slowed down on Osgood road, knowing how treacherous it was, but the other car continued along until suddenly the officers, 200 yards behind, noticed its tail light shooting up into the air.

When they arrived, the girl had been thrown out of the car and Carlstrom was pinned inside. The rear end was at least eight feet in the air up the tree, having first hit a rock when the driver failed to negotiate the curve. Tree marks showed that it had hit about ten feet up and slid down a bit.

Ballardvale Man Injured In Accident

While walking along Tewksbury street in Ballardvale with a friend, William Miller of that town, Friday night, Charles Hadley, 38, of Chester street was struck by a car and received a compound fracture of the right leg, abrasions of the left leg and scalp wounds.

The operator of the car, James F. Hallett of Main and South streets in Tewksbury, reported that he was driving his car in the direction of Tewksbury and noticed the two men when near the town line. His impression was that Hadley had been confused by the oncoming car and had stepped into the pathway of the machine. He said that a heavy mist and fog made the driving conditions especially poor that evening. Assisted by William Miller, he took the injured man to the State hospital in Tewksbury for treatment.
