Selectmen, Safety Committee Protest To State Department On Icy Roadways

Claim Buck-Passing Night Of First Snowfall; No Reply Yet

No reply has been received as yet by local authorities in answer to their protests sent recently to the state department of public works following the recent snowfall which resulted in several accidents and traffic tie-ups. The Board of Selectmen wrote to Commissioner Beal as did the Andover Highway Safety committee, and Judge Frederic N. Chandler wrote to the Registry of Motor Vehicles. The letters stated that there were apparently no preparations for taking care of the icy roadways on the by-pass and route 28.

The selectmen's protest follows:

CHRISTMAS SEALS

Help to Protect Your Home from Tuberculosis

November 22, 1939

Dear Sir:

We write this letter in the way of protesting and criticising your department for the inadequate preparation for taking care of state highways within our township during slippery weather conditions.

Andover Barber Instantly Killed On Reading Road

Harold Hayes, 32, of 83 Central street, was apparently instantly killed Tuesday evening on the Reading road when he was struck by a car operated by a Lawrence man. The operator of the car, Arthur J. Goebel of 23 Manchester street, Lawrence, reported to police that he was blinded by oncoming headlights.

The body was removed to the police station where medical examiner Dr. John J. Deacy viewed it. He declared that death was due to a fractured vertebra and a severed spinal cord.

The operator was held in $1,000 bail on a manslaughter and operating to endanger charge.

Officers Deymond and Gillespie and state officer Edward Sullivan covered the accident. Inspector James J. French of the registry also investigated.

Mr. Hayes was employed as a barber on Park street.

Hayes was born in Derby, Vt., but had lived here for 16 years. He leaves his wife, Julia (Byrne) Hayes; three children, Kathleen, Maureen and Harold, Jr.; his father, Ernest of Malden; his mother, Mrs. Ruth Hunt of Enfield, Vt., and a brother Clarence of Lynn.

Eugene Lovely Acting Principal

Eugene V. Lovely, member of the Punchard teaching staff for the past 29 years, has been named acting principal of Punchard while Principal Nathan C. Hamblin is serving as acting superintendent of schools. Mr. Lovely has served in this position before during the principal's illness.

Mr. Hart of Reading is substituting in the chemistry department for Mr. Lovely.

The school board, which is expected shortly to name a new superintendent, will hold a special meeting Friday night.

Xmas Seal Sale To Start Friday

Friday the Andover post office will be over-flowing with 1939 Seal Sale letters carrying the new modernistic Christmas Seals to your home. These will soon be arriving, and as in the past, will offer an opportunity for you to be of real help.

The new seal, designed by Rockwell Kent, will be seen on envelopes and packages from now until Christmas carrying with it the message of Tuberculosis prevention. People using these seals are "on the firing line" in the battle against Tuberculosis. They are doing their part. The stronger this line and the more support it has the sooner Tuberculosis will be completely controlled.

In Essex County last year 179 people died with Tuberculosis; 181 in 1937. The trend, although gradual, is downward. How soon will the figure reach the low level of some of the other diseases which were once leading causes of death but now nearly extinct?

This year's sheet of seals features the double-barred cross, an angel of protection, and the date, 1939. Backed in blue, the redness of the double-barred cross and the whiteness of the angel are emphasized, making an attractive seal. In the center of the sheet, four

Officers Installed At Men's Club

The newly elected officers of the Andover Men's club were installed at the meeting in the Musgrove building, last Monday night. The new officers are: Paul Dwyer, president; Duncan Bisset, Jr., vice-president; Harvey Seagle, re-elected secretary; Thomas Woodhead, treasurer.

The club's first anniversary dinner will be held in the rooms next Tuesday evening. Reports were read from the entertainment and minstrel show committees. Following the adjournment of the business meeting, the club played its bowling league matches at the Andover Recreation Center.

License Holders Seeking Renewal; Hearing Dec. 11th

All the present liquor license holders this week applied for renewals of their licenses which automatically expire on December 31. The selectmen have set December 11 as the date for the hearings on these applications, and the notices of these hearings are printed in the legal section of today's Townsman in accordance with state law.

There will be no change this year in the number or character of the licenses. Hard liquor licenses will be granted only to three package stores, with restaurants, taverns and other package stores being allowed to sell only beer and wines in accordance with last fall's town vote.

In the biennial election next November Andover will again vote on three questions. Last year the sale of all alcoholic beverages in package stores received an endorsement of 2974 to 1589 and it is expected that this will again prevail. The main question in the minds of those interested in the problem at present is whether or not the right of establishments to sell hard liquors for consumption on the premises will be restored. Last year it was taken away by a vote of 2363 to 2173, while the

MEMORIAL HALL LIBRARY NOTES

The following books have been added to the Memorial Hall library:

Cold Steal, Tilton: Although Leonidas Witherall intended to return to the quiet of a new home, built for him in his absence, his pleasant intention was upset by the finding of a corpse in his new garage.

Great Stories of All Nations, Lieber and Williams: Lovers of the short story will find a collection of the best works of each country, grouped for pleasure as well as comparison.

Judo, Kuwashima and Welch: In these thirty lessons in the modern science of jiu-jitsu the authors do not pretend to make a complete survey of the subject, but have presented the system in such a way that the average man or woman can become proficient in the art of self-defense. 796 K96

Magna, Gale: The conflict that arises in the soul of Magna Pethner when the plans for her life are suddenly swept away is the theme of this novel that is the last work of Zona Gale.

Men Against Hitler, Cahen: The author of this survey of political unrest in Germany today was one of the organizers of the "German Vanguard," a secret group working to assemble political refugees against Hitler and the Nazi regime. 943 C11

Not So Deep As a Well, Parker: There is an unexpectedness about these collected poems of Dorothy Parker. The amusing brilliant ones stand side by side with simple lyrics of a charming quality. 821 P22

Revue, Nichols: What happens to an unknown composer from Australia when he is "discovered" by two rival musical comedy stars? Beverley Nichols tries to answer the question, and, with a somewhat uneven hand, actually produces a play.

The Trail Boss: A one-horned steer and a ranchman who understood him made this story rise to the ranks of the better Westerns. Those who loved Will James' "Smoky" will find a similar appeal in Sanchez.

Your house and you, Bossard. Although the subjects treated in this simply written book cover the usual branches in home-making, there is a very sincere attempt to educate the reader to plan his house for the enjoyment as well as the service of the individual family. 645 B65

BRIGGS.ALLEN NOTES

Tuesday, Mrs. A. J. Burt with Frances MacDonald, Priscilla Stevens, Julia Gage and Joan Sweeney were taken by Mr. Burt to Boston where an instructive and fascinating time was spent at the Old State House and then the new State House.

On Wednesday Malachi Lynch delivered Thanksgiving dinners for the school as he has done for years.

Thanksgiving exercises were much enjoyed. Miss Hawes' group played the Toy Symphony with Marion Noss conducting. They also sang songs as well as giving interesting finger plays. Miss Marland's group had made a Puritan Village, of which Richard Ellis gave the history. The older group enjoyed hearing seven Thanksgiving proclamations but voted Massachusetts the best of all. Thanksgiving poems and charades were given.

Miss Abby Locke Castle has accepted a flattering offer to teach at Milton academy and will start her new duties on Monday.

—Edward A. Doherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Doherty of 125 North Main street, is on the honor list for the first quarter of the present scholastic year at St. John's Preparatory school in Danvers.

ODD FELLOWS VISIT METHUEN

The Odd Fellows held their regular business meeting in the Fraternal hall last Wednesday evening, with Noble Grand James H. Hovey presiding. Plans were made for the carpet bowling and baseball tournament held at the Hope Lodge, I. O. O. F., in Methuen, last Monday night. The group left from the Musgrove building at 7:30, with Edward Emslie and Charles Fettes in charge of the committee.

LEGION AUXILIARY HOLDS MEETING

The American Legion auxiliary met in the Legion rooms last Thursday evening for their regular business meeting. At this time, two Christmas parties were planned. The Children's party will be held in the post rooms December 16, while the party for the auxiliary will be held on the following Saturday evening, after the regular business meeting.

The committee in charge of the parties is as follows: Mrs. Eva Muise, Mrs. Robertina Jowett, and Mrs. Margaret Cilley.

The auxiliary will take care of the three Andover Veterans who are in hospitals this year. Christmas gifts will be mailed to them.

WHIST PARTY

The British War Veterans' auxiliary will hold a whist and domino party Friday evening at the home of Mrs. William Cargill, Stevens street.

FIREMAN'S BALL

Thanksgiving eve's most prominent Andover event is the annual fireman's ball, which this year has a 67 year history behind it. From 8 to 9 there is an entertainment with general dancing following.

A number of Andover families who would be without a Thanksgiving dinner on Thursday have cause to offer thanks to the local Red Cross. Many baskets, containing food not only for the feast but for several days after, were sent out, with a large group of volunteer workers spending considerable time Tuesday packing them at the South church vestry. The chapter is grateful for the many donations which made the work possible. (Surette Studio)

Just carve me a little white meat. Did you hear about the Ballardvale Fire Department ducks?.... The men have been raising eight little ducks since last spring and a few months ago, two of them disappeared...yes, I like dark meat...and one of them was found a little later caught in a trap...nothing was heard about the other missing duck until last Tuesday when the Board of Public Works were cleaning out one of the culverts...when they raised the grille work, there was the duck still alive after over two months of seclusion...and very, very glad to be lifted onto terra drya again...No, that was "Ducky" Pond at the Harvard-Yale game, the other six ducks are still in Ballardvale...unless the department members are not having turkey for dinner today...Yes, a little more dressing, please...What were you saying about Bayard Tuckerman?... He was supposed to be in the foreign affairs discussion at the Young Men's Republican meeting next week, you know, but he was the victim of horse play...He was acting as one of the judges of the National Beagles trial in Virginia and his horse evidently didn't agree with his decision...Please pass the squash...Of course it's no disgrace to fall off a horse, but it's not exactly...Gravy?...

There's nothing wrong with Officer Hickey's car now...Mrs. Hickey was pretty worried last Tuesday, though, when the purr in the motor suddenly changed to a loud meow...One of the neighbors went over to see what had happened and they found a little stray kitten between the radiator and the fan belt...Funny, I thought you said raspberries...Must seem funny not to be celebrating Thanksgiving, today...You say you wouldn't rather be eating this plum pudding than munching a ham sandwich at the office?

My, aren't these grapes sour!

Recent Weddings

Carter-Taylor

A wedding of interest to Andover residents took place in the chapel of the Riverside church, New York city, on November 16, when Miss Margaret Ruthmary Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Taylor of Tucson, Arizona, became the bride of William Draper Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Carter of New York city and grandson of the late Rev. and Mrs. Clark Carter of Andover. The young man's aunts, the Misses Carter of 31 Bartlet street, attended the ceremony.

The maid of honor was Miss Ruth D. Carter, sister of the groom, and the best man was John Alden Carter, the groom's brother.

The bride is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of Arizona and is financial counsel of the Institute of Pacific Relations. Mr. Carter was prominent in scholastics and in soccer both at Phillips and at Harvard where he graduated in 1931.

Esoian-Pahigian

At noon on Sunday in the Armenian Holy Cross church, Lawrence, Miss Rose Pahigian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Pahigian of Lawrence street, became the bride of Essav Esoian of Bellevue road. Rev. Mamisonian officiated. Miss Sally Pahigian played the wedding music and Mrs. Pilo Pahigian sang two selections.

Mrs. Rose Esoian was matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Pauline Chilinejian, Beatrice Chilinejian, Siroon Takvorian, Sharkey Loosizian and Ann Derderian. S. Esoian was ring bearer.

Archie Esoian was best man and the ushers were Ruben Kasahian, George Pajnasian, Harry Loosizian, Ace Esoian and Haigus Esoian.

The bride was gowned in white satin and she carried white roses, orchids and orange blossoms.

Her attendants wore moire frocks in peacock blue and rose.

A reception followed in the church vestry. After a wedding trip to New York the couple will reside in Andover.

Lynch-Barrow

Wearing a becoming gown of boy blue crepe, Miss Eleanor A. Barrow, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Barrow, of 257 Bailey street, Lawrence, became the bride of John M. Lynch, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lynch of Gray road, at a ceremony Saturday afternoon in St. Augustine's rectory. Mrs. Maurice Lynch, sister-in-law of the bride, was her maid of honor and she wore a gown of ashes of rose crepe. Both contrasted their gowns with wine accessories and each wore a corsage of roses.

James Lynch was best man for his brother. Rev. Thomas B. Austin performed the ceremony.

After the reception in Bay Lodge, Methuen, the couple left on an unannounced wedding trip. They will reside on Stimpson road upon their return.

Swain-Sellars

At a pretty informal ceremony in Christ church, recently, Miss Melda Sellars, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Sellars of Loring street, became the bride of Laurence C. Swain, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Swain of 15 Pearl street, Melrose. Rev. Albert E. Morris performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a mulberry gown with matching accessories and a corsage of white roses and pom-poms. Her sister, Mrs. John Praetz of New York, was her matron of honor and she wore a black dress with a corsage of roses.

Leslie Swain, brother of the groom, of Melrose, was the best man.

After the ceremony, the couple left on a wedding trip and have now taken up their residence in the Balmoral apartments.

Mrs. Swain has been employed at the Andover National Bank for several years and is well-known locally.

ENGAGEMENT

Mrs. Allan Douglas Parker of Lowell has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Ann Parker, to Melville Chapin, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Barton Chapin of Phillips street and Edgartown.

Mr. and Mrs. John Munroe of Baker's Lane have announced the engagement of their daughter, Lillian M., to Walter T. Hoyt, son of Mrs. Carleton Hoyt of Bordon street, Lawrence. The wedding will take place on December 23.

GUEST AT SHOWERS

Miss Ethel Pavne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Pavne of Andover street, Lawrence, who will soon become the bride of John F. Moriarty has been guest of honor at several showers recently. At a party given at the home of Mrs. Arthur C. Kelley of Sanborn street, Lawrence, she received a lovely radio from a group of friends and at a shower given at the home of Mrs. John Moriarty of Haverhill street, she was the recipient of a purse of money and many miscellaneous gifts.

Propose New Club For Working Women

Would you like to become a member of a federated club that is non-partisan, non-sectarian, self-governing and self-supporting, a club whose membership is composed almost entirely of business and professional girls and women, a club whose civic, legislative and educational projects promote the interests of the woman wage earner?

Last Friday afternoon, a small group of Andover women met at the Kirkshire house on Shawsheen road to discuss the possibility of organizing a Business and Professional Women's club in Andover. Mrs. H. M. White, member of the Lowell club and representing the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, gave a brief history of the clubs which were first organized in 1919 and have since grown to include 17,000 clubs totaling 100,000 members. The opportunities extended to business and professional women by these clubs are many and there is the added social value of creating friendship among business and professional women.

Whether the combined Andovers can and want to support one of these clubs is up to the hundreds of business and professional women working in and out of town who would be interested in becoming associated with other business and professional women in town and throughout the country. It is only natural that the appeal should be emphasized for the younger woman who is just entering or hoping to enter the business world, although the club's constitution allows a membership of twenty-five percent non-professional women.

It is hoped that many of our readers will be interested and will interest their friends in the proposed club. Further information may be obtained from the Townsman office in care of this page.

Journalist Recounts News Gathering Adventures

Harold Bennison, instructor of journalism, member and press representative of the American Bar association, Harvard and Suffolk Law school graduate, thrilled his large audience at the Service club meeting last Thursday evening with exciting accounts of his experiences gathering news. While covering the Plattsburg maneuvers last summer, his first thrill was in watching the way the maneuvers went off, the second was hearing a druggist, a boot-maker, a raspberry picker, two lawyers and a man who ran a bus line tell the President that they didn't like the way he was carrying out the flood control in New England. Senator David I. Walsh was ordered to investigate and report his findings, resulting in the bill being passed in favor of the five gentlemen. Incidentally, the five men were the governors of the New England states. His biggest thrill was in realizing that there were men in the United States who were willing to fight for what they wanted.

He drew a comparison between the Michigan C. I. O. strike and the Boston Police Strike. In the former, Governor Murphy had acted illegally to prevent trouble in his state, while Calvin Coolidge, governor of the state of Massachusetts at the time of the police strike, had been willing to sacrifice his political career in order to straighten out affairs in a just manner. Bennison said he was glad he lived in Massachusetts where politics mean government and not semi-legality.

When Coolidge became president following the death of Harding, Bennison was sent there to get a picture, with his photographer. Coolidge was sworn in by his father in their little farmhouse amid a simple scene, with the family Bible on the table and the new president in his shirt-sleeves and suspenders. When Bennison tried to persuade him to pose for a picture he declined, saying that it was too sacred. The reporter told him that the picture belonged to the country and history, but received no picture, as well as no recompense for his assignment, which would have netted him about $5000 or so.

Mr. Bennison went on to tell some more interesting stories and anecdotes about Mr. Coolidge, told him by Mrs. Coolidge, who, he said, could imitate Mr. Coolidge's Vermont twang to a "T." He related the story of the time he covered Harvard for the first time at its 300th tercentenary celebration. Harvard has not been too cooperative with the press until that time, and when they sent an invitation to reporters, it was received with amazement. Nevertheless, it was covered, and when the story was released to the press it was written in Latin. The following morning, all the Boston papers carried the story, but merely stated that such a paper had been received.

Telling of the interesting and difficult work of the rescue divers at the scene of the Squalus sinking, Bennison remarked that the valve mechanism which caused the submarine's sinking, supposedly by becoming stuck, worked perfectly when it was brought back to the Portsmouth Navy yard. An American invention was responsible for saving the lives of the survivors. He related amusing and heroic stories of that tragedy never before told or heard.

He concluded by saying that the newspaper men of today are not drunk on stories and always looking for the worst, as they have often been pictured, but rather they are men who risk their own lives, not for money, fame or glory, but to help mankind, because they too have in them a spark of something that is God-given.

At the business meeting, Thaxter Eaton, reporting for the subcommittee on the new scholarship fund, announced the club's first scholarship award of $70.00 to Miss Virginia Moody, Punchard Alumna, who is now attending the Massachusetts School of Art.

A catered supper was served and president Kenneth L. Sherman introduced the guests, Mr. Bennison, General Rose of the National Guard, and Warren L. Richardson of the Townsman.

Does Andover Need Filtering?

"Quietus" was written to any demands for a filtration system for Andover's water a week ago when the town officials met at the invitation of the Taxpayers' association to discuss the so-called pollution problem thoroughly. At that meeting several things were agreed on as facts by both the Board of Public Works and the Board of Health, the most important fact being that there had been no sign of pollution in any test of the water taken by health authorities at the intake to the pumping station. Despite this it is understood that one of the town officials a couple of days later, without permission from the fellow-members of his board, summoned in engineers to ask for costs on a filtration plant.

There are a number of other things equally as imperative. We should have a few mine-sweepers in the Shawsheen river to prevent any loss of vessels in that body of water. We really should build a stadium to seat about 150,000 just in case someone decides to stage the Olympics here in 1940. Or how about a dormitory for unemployed silk-worms in case the United States does not resume her trade treaty with Japan?

There is not, and has not been any pollution of Andover's drinking water. There have been times when in water far from the pumping station some pollution due to local conditions was discovered, but by the time the water reached the pumping station there had been sufficient dilution to eliminate any pollution. Under such circumstances, with Haggetts pond doing its own filtering it seems rather queer that a town official should want the water super-filtered by an expensive-to-erect and an expensive-to-operate filtration plant. What we really need is a little more filtering by the voters on election day.

Slogan of warring nations when a neutral vessel goes down in a mine field: "That mine wasn't mine."

The turning point in the war will be when it becomes easier to count the British ships that are left than it is to count the ones that left for the bottom.

CORRECTION

In the early edition of the Townsman which reached the mail subscribers this afternoon, the death of Thomas Davies was reported erroneously on what was apparently reliable information. The Lawrence General Hospital reported this afternoon no change in his condition. The town's flags were also dropped to half-mast through error. The Townsman deeply regrets the passing on of this mistaken information.

SYMPATHY, PIETY CUPIDITY

Editor of Townsman:

I notice in your last issue a correspondent urges Andover voters to continue the sale of liquor in Andover. He buttresses his plea with the following plea with the following reasons:

First: Our sympathy for the drunkard. It would rob him of "refreshment" by means of the "cup that cheers."

Second: It would be following the advice of St. Paul, "St. Paul advises a little wine if the stomach offend thee."

Third: It will bring a financial profit to our town. "It is always good business to support home markets." He thus appeals to our sympathy, our piety and our cupidity.

These arguments he is convinced will carry conviction to all save those who "harp on the curse of liquor since time immemorial."

I submit these cogent arguments without comment for the sober reflection of Andover citizens.

I hope the Townsman may find space for other reasons similar to those of this correspondent. For could I, as a voter in Andover and one who seeks its highest welfare, be honestly convinced that by endorsing liquor selling I would thereby show my sympathy for our weaker brethren, my greater loyalty to the teachings of the Bible, and, at the same time, promote the best financial interest of our citizens, I would no longer oppose its sale, but do all I can within my limited sphere of influence to increase and perpetuate its traffic.

OFFICIALS PROTEST

On the evening of November 21, state highway, route 125, known as the Andover By-pass, which is one hundred percent maintained by your department, was in a very dangerous condition. Both the State Police, who are located on this highway, and our local police departments endeavored to contact a state foreman to advise him of this condition and there was considerable buck-passing. Route 28 was in the same condition and a good many through trucks were forced to encamp on the highway all night.

We have been given to understand that no preparations such as formerly were in vogue have been undertaken for the protection and safety of the traveling public. This certainly does not speak well for any state department and we heartily protest this form of economy, if it is such, and if it is poor management on the part of a division of the Board of Public Works, we think you should be advised.

We should appreciate receiving your comments, as we here in Andover are at all times endeavoring to protect the traveling public.

Abbot Academy Notes

With the exception of a few members of the faculty, the entire population of Abbot Academy is away for the Thanksgiving holiday. Many of the students are spending the day at home or with their parents who have come from a distance, and all the others have been invited as guests in the homes of friends.

On Saturday there will be a Senior and Senior—Mid Tea Dance from 4:30 to 7:00. The younger girls will attend the Winter Sports Exposition at the Boston Garden.

The Reverend Vivian T. Pomeroy, of the First Parish in Milton, will be the speaker at the Sunday evening vesper service, to which friends in Andover and elsewhere are cordially invited at 7:30.

The traditional Thanksgiving service which has been held at Abbot for at least seventy-five years was held Wednesday evening in Abbot Hall, with the beautiful Bible verses being recited in unison by the different academic classes, and the entire school furnishing appropriate choral music of praise and thanksgiving.

Men's Club To Mark Anniversary

A number of speakers have been scheduled for the first anniversary banquet of the Andover Men's club to be held Tuesday evening at 6:30 in the club rooms. Because of the limited amount of space there are very few seats available for the public.

Clarence Buckley will act as toastmaster. Charles Bowman will speak on the unemployment situation and James Mosher on the activities of the Boy Scouts. There probably will be others from the academy.

A varied program will feature community singing, with William Burbine at the piano.

A reception will be held the evening of December 8, in Fraternal hall, in honor of the Drill Team of the Clan Johnston auxiliary. The Clan will present the team with a cup which they won at the Drill Team competition recently for tying third place.

Heavy Registration Reported For Adult Evening Courses

A very heavy registration is reported for the adult education courses which will start at Phillips academy early in January. A large number are previous course-takers who are planning to study in other fields while there are also many newcomers who have taken no previous courses. The course which first started in 1935 with an enrollment of 250 last year enrolled 575 and present indications point to a larger total for this year. Registration at a reduced rate is possible up to December 11.

The proceeds of the registration fees are given to worthy purposes and several Andover institutions benefited last year, with several hundred dollars being distributed. The academy teachers give their time without charge.

The courses this year include "Backgrounds of War," "European Civilization in the 20th century," "The Renaissance," "Great Books," "Bringing Up Children," "Straight Thinking," "Changing Outlooks," "The Modern Theatre," "Play Production," "The Four Symphonies of Brahms," "Group Singing," "Great Buildings," "Studio Art," "Effective Speaking,"

"Photography" "Exercise for Health," and "Recreation for Women."

Academy teachers who will take part are: A. B. Darling, M. S. Malone, W. J. Bender, L. F. James, D. M. Leith, F. S. Allis, K. J. Barrows, K. S. Minard, Dirk van der Stucken, A. H. Chase, H. M. Poynter, R. E. Spencer, R. I. W. Westgate, P. L. MacKendrick, R. M. Gummere, Jr., S. H. Paradise, J. H. Grew, L. D. Peterkin, W. Hasenclever, F. S. Allis, Jr., E. S. Basford, B. Kelley, H. L. Kinsolving, G. K. Sanborn, J. S. Barss, O. Tower, A. T. Cook, C. F. Pfatfeicher, E. W. Clark, C. H. Sawyer, B. H. Hayes, Jr., N. P. Hallowell, Jr., S. Whitney, H. D. Leavitt, G. G. Benedict, K. S. Minard, F. DiClemente.

Rowena L. Rhodes of Abbot academy will conduct the Recreation for Women course, and Dr. R. G. Freeman, Jr., practicing psychiatrist of Boston, will have charge of the "Bringing Up Children" course. Andover's community theatre group, The Adventurers will aid Andover's community education program by sponsoring the production course.

Preaching Mission At Baptist Church

A series of four evening meetings to emphasize evangelism will be held in the Baptist church, December 5 through 8. Rev. Samuel Overstreet, pastor of the church, has invited three outstanding clergymen to assist him in the services. On Tuesday Pev. Frank McCallister of Methuen will be the preacher, Rev. A. M. Bailey on Wednesday and Thursday and on Friday Rev. Grady D. Feagan of Arlington will speak.

The arrangement of the musical program has been given equal importance. In addition to the congregational song service preceding each sermon, each evening the audience will hear some special church music. The Andover Male choir is to appear on Tuesday, the opening night. On Wednesday, Benjamin Anderson, Negro Bass-Baritone of Birmingham, Alabama and student of Andover-Newton Theological School, will sing. The Baptist choir will be called upon for service for Thursday and Friday nights, assisted by guest soloists.

Similar meetings last December drew large congregations to the "Friendly Baptist Church," and considering the success of the first series, it is anticipated that this year's meeting will attract still larger audiences. The public is invited.

—Miss Irma Beene has been unable to attend to her duties at her department store the past few days because of the grippe.

SLATTERY CLASS PLAN HOLIDAY CHEER

The Christmas party for the children will be held at the church, December 20, and the party for the members will be December 26, at the home of Mrs. Thomas Gorrie on Salem street.

Urges Care In Naming Superintendent

"The choice of the new superintendent of schools will vitally affect education in the Andover school system," said Mrs. Harold Rafton, a former chairman of the Department of Education for the Andover League of Women Voters. "Members of the League are concerned with this appointment because the League has always been vitally interested in education and the standards for teachers and school officers.

"The superintendent has the duty of keeping the teaching standards of the schools up to the high mark that our citizens demand. He should be qualified to do this, not only because he will assist with the selection of new members of the teaching staff, but also because he will plan the school curriculum so that our children will be trained to be good citizens. An able superintendent can accomplish such things as Mr. Sanborn did in bringing into the Andover schools a course in Social Studies which is of inestimable value in helping school children to understand and participate in the society and the government of which they will grow up to be a part."

Butter And Egg Man Gets Scrambled In Adventurer's Comedy

Under the direction of Mervin E. Stevens "The Butter and Egg Man" by George Kaufman, the comedy to be given by the Adventurers in the Memorial Auditorium, December 5, is being given that professional finesse so necessary for a perfect performance and so characteristic of his productions.

It is the story of partners in the theatrical production business, Joe Lehman and Jack McClure, who have a show on their hands which threatens to flop, literally and financially. But along comes a young innocent who thinks that the way to make money is to put his entire inheritance in the show business. The simple, honest, ingenuous Peter Jones is the "butter and egg man" from out of the West who sinks just about everything he has in the Lehmac Productions. His heart he loses to Jane Weston, office secretary, in a case of love at first sight.

Peter and his check book are much distracted by the attentions of Mary Martin, a passe actress. Joe's wife, Fanny Lehman, refuses to put her last means of security into her husband's bad play production. The switchboard operator, Kitty Humphreys, and the sophisticated chorus girl, Peggy Marlowe, provide the cat-calling, hair-pulling incidents of the play. As a direct contrast we have the English play director, Cecil Benham, with accent and monologue.

The play of the Lehmac Productions opens in Syracuse and is a complete failure. After the show, those interested gather in the hotel room to reconsider. Bernie Sampson of Broadway fame, is lured to rewrite the play. Our hero, Peter, is goaded beyond all endurance and offers to buy the whole production company. His offer is accepted and he is left holding the option with no money.

The show goes to New York and is a success. More complications! A. J. Patterson appears to collect a royalty on the play. A legal action is involved. Finding that it has strings attached, Peter manages very cleverly to sell the play back to the producer at a profit. Even the hotel manager is roped into financing part of the production. Our play ends with a promise of much happiness for Jane, the office girl, and Peter.

vote on allowing them to sell light wines and beer was close: 2234 to 2154. The general consensus of opinion today is that there will be a bigger majority in favor of selling beer, since the situation has greatly improved here in the past year according to police authorities. The one question remaining is the hard liquor on the premises problem, and it may be that there will be a change here, the main wonder in the minds of Andover people being whether or not new establishments would be added in case of a "Yes" vote on this matter. It is generally conceded that if the present establishments had the privilege, it would be exercised wisely, the 1938 vote having given the selectmen an opportunity to deprive some of the sore spots of their licenses. If all the present license-holders applied for the more extensive license, there would be no more to give out and the sore spots would not return.
