Library Circulation Increased Ten Percent In 1939, Annual Report Shows

Figures on the rapidly-increasing use of the Memorial Hall library facilities, particularly in the Junior division, are contained in the first annual report of head librarian, Miss Miriam Putnam, presented this week to the trustees. In the report Miss Putnam pays tribute to Miss Edna Brown, who retired during the past year, and to the late Frederic S. Boutwell, trustee and treasurer, who passed away this year.

The first part of the report follows. The remainder will be published next week.

Annual Report 1939

To the Trustees of the Memorial Hall Library:

I herewith present the report of the library for the twelve months ending December 31, 1939.

The largest circulation in the history of the library is recorded for the past year. 109,446 books were circulated for home use, an increase of 10% over 1938. 674 new borrowers were registered during the year making a total of 5869 borrowers using the library, 55% of the total population. The number of books circulated per capita was 10.4.

Although comparisons are never wholly satisfactory because local situations and conditions differ, nevertheless it is interesting to make comparisons with towns of similar size. Lexington, a town of 10,813, had in 1938 a circulation of 91,506 with a per capita circulation of 8.4 books and a per capita income of $1.43. Andover in the same year circulated 99,440 books which represented 9.9 books with an income per capita of $1.38 (per capita income based on total income). Wellesley, a town slightly larger, 13,376, had a yearly circulation of 170,768, a per capita circulation of 13 and a per capita income of $1.35.

Welfare Commissioner To Discuss State Relief

Arthur G. Rotch, the new Massachusetts Commissioner of Public Welfare, will speak in Andover next week on Tuesday, January 16, at a meeting of the Andover League of Women Voters. His subject will be Relief in Massachusetts, and he will discuss how it is administered and paid for.

Andover and the League of Women Voters is fortunate in this opportunity to hear Mr. Rotch on this subject, for he is, as Commissioner, prepared to speak with information and authority on public welfare administration in the state. He has also had years of previous experience in public welfare and philanthropy. A graduate of Milton academy and Harvard university, Mr. Rotch was

Walter Tomlinson Nominated Justice

Attorney Walter C. Tomlinson of 11 William street will be Andover's new trial justice if the Governor's Council next Wednesday approves Governor Saltonstall's nomination made at yesterday's meeting. Attorney Tomlinson will succeed Attorney Joseph M. Hargedon, who replaced Judge Colver J. Stone in a last-minute appointment during the Curley regime.

A graduate of Dartmouth and the Harvard Law school, the justice-elect has been with Rowell, Clay and Tomlinson since 1930. He has been very active in civic affairs here and in Lawrence, being president of the Lawrence Tuberculosis league, member of the town planning board, and vice-president of the Service club. Monday he was named a corporator of the Savings bank.

Selectman Shepard To Run Again; B. P. W. Members Buttrick And Bodwell And School Board Member Carter To Retire

The announcement that Chairman Howell F. Shepard would be a candidate for re-election as selectman and assessor, and that Frank Buttrick and Henry Bodwell would not run for re-election to the Board of Public Works and Herbert P. Carter would retire from the school board climaxed the first active week of Andover's 1940 election campaign. Earlier rumors had it that Mr. Shepard would retire, but he has consented to have his name on the re-election nomination sheet.

Mr. Buttrick was first chosen to the board in 1931 and has been re-elected twice since. Mr. Bodwell was appointed to the board upon the resignation of Thomas Dea in 1934. Mr. Carter was appointed to the school committee upon the retirement of Claxton Monro and had been re-elected twice.

All other officers whose terms expire have signified their intention of running again.

William A. Trow will be a candidate for the Punchard trustees to fill Mr. Boutwell's position.

George F. Sawyer, appointed to the library board after Mr. Boutwell's death, will be a candidate for his unexpired term.

P. LeRoy Wilson, candidate a year ago, has taken out papers for selectman and Jeremiah J. O'Connor for tree warden.

Town clerk Winslow has announced the following pre-election schedule:

Feb. 1, 5:00 o'clock P.M. closing date for filing nomination papers with Town Clerk. 165 signatures needed.

Feb. 9, 5:00 o'clock P.M. closing date for filing special articles for Annual Town Meeting warrant with Town Clerk.

Dates for Registration of Voters: Jan. 31, Prec. 1, Town House, 7:00-9:00 P.M.; Feb. 6, Prec. 3, Administration Building, Shawsheen, 7:00-9:00 P.M.; Feb. 8, Prec. 4, Grange Hall, West Parish, 7:00-9:00 P.M.; Feb. 16, Prec. 5, Old School House, Ballardvale, 7:00-9:00 P.M.; Feb. 17, Prec. 6, Faculty Club House, School Street, 7:00-9:00 P.M.; Feb. 21, Prec. 2, Town House, Noon-10:00 P.M.

Frank Hardy Chosen Savings Bank Trustee

The two local banks held their annual meetings this week, the Savings bank on Monday and the National Bank Tuesday morning.

Frank H. Hardy, former selectman, was elected a trustee of the Savings bank, taking the place left vacant by the death of Frederic S. Boutwell. Trustees reelected were Burton S. Flagg and C. Carleton Kimball. New corporators are Attorney Walter Tomlinson, Phillips Academy treasurer James Gould, and Tyer Rubber Co. treasurer Wallace E. Brimer. Mr. Flagg was re-elected president; Louis S. Finger, vice-president; and Dr. Alfred E. Stearns, clerk.

It was the 115th annual meeting since the founding of the National bank. The officers: Abbot Stevens, president; Chester W. Holland, vice-president, cashier and trust officer; Edward A. Anderson, assistant cashier; Marion E. Farnsworth, assistant trust officer; board of directors, Wallace Brimer, Louis S. Finger, Burton S. Flagg, Claude M. Fuess, Frederick H. Jones, Abbot Stevens and Nathaniel Stevens.

Red Cross Roll Call Reaches New Peak

The final figures released today by Stafford A. Lindsay, local Red Cross roll call chairman, shows the amount collected as $4870.63, with an enrolled membership of 2784. This is just a bit short of the goal of $5000.00, but it is $300.00 more than was raised in the 1939 drive, this being the sixth consecutive year.

To Ask For Hone, Truck Replacement

Requests for new equipment by the Board of Public Works will apparently be at a minimum this year. At present there are only a few items contemplated, these being ones that will mean a substantial saving to the taxpayers. Last year the largest purchase was the five trucks which officials state saved the town $5000 in 1939.

A hone, costing about $600, may be included in the special articles. The town has an old one at present that takes three men to operate in addition to the truck driver. The new hone, similar to one in use in Methuen which was loaned to Andover last summer, would be placed under the truck and operated hydraulically by one man at the rear of the truck. Officials state that it does a very good job of road-smoothing and that it would probably pay for itself within two years.

The Board will probably also ask for a replacement of the four-year old dump truck as an economy measure and also for the replacement of the small water department truck which is two years old but which would probably cost more to continue than it would if a new truck were bought at a net of about $300.

New Zealand Troupers To Entertain

Next Saturday night, January 20, Joan and Betty Rayner, twentieth century troubadours from

New Zealand, will entertain with a colorful program of folk song and story. Traveling by modern trailer, designed by themselves, they have followed the paths of the strolling players of old in many of the countries of western Europe, giving their joyous programs as once the troubadours acted, sang and told their stories in the palaces of Europe. Their programs are built around the material which they have gathered in the native villages and mountains of many lands, including America. The New York Sun said of the Rayners, "They act, talk, chant, dance and are masters of mimicry and the burlesque. Although they sing songs in many languages, they, like the mediaeval troubadours, find this gift of mimicry of great value before audiences of other tongues. They use no scenery, merely a curtain backdrop and two chairs. Their colorful costumes, their animated pantomime, the swing of their voices—this is the artistry of their act, this is the whole show."

There will be no charge for admission to this program. It will start at 8 p.m.

Miss Friskin To Give Recital

On Sunday evening, January 21, Miss Kate Friskin will present the following program at a piano recital in Davis Hall: Prelude and Fugue in B flat Bk. I, Bach; Melody from "Orpheus," Gluck-Sgambati; Scherzo a Capriccio, Mendelssohn; Sonata in A Op. 120, Schubert; Ballade in G minor, Nocturne in E flat Op. 55 No. 2, Polonaise-Fantasia in A flat Op. 61, Chopin; Poissons d'or, Reflets dans l'eau, Debussy; Toccata, Ravel.

The school very cordially invites its friends in Andover and elsewhere to hear this concert.

MALE CHOIR TO SING

LIBRARY REPORT

During the past year the library has sustained two losses: the first, in the death on February 16th of Mr. Frederic S. Boutwell, a trustee of the library for many years, and the second, in the resignation of Miss Edna A. Brown as Librarian....

Figures in no way tell the whole story for they leave out of the picture entirely those important services that defy statistical measure but which in the last analysis count for so much. For instance, the shared enthusiasm for books which is so important a part of a librarian's work, the effective book selection which takes into account the diversity of tastes, interests and abilities and yet maintains the collection on as high a level as possible, the ability to see a need before that need is felt—all these are beyond exact measurement. However, since figures are the most tangible evidence available, let us compare the growth of the library between the years 1909 and 1939.

Circulation	1909	1939
adult	23,932	73,485
juvenile	7,907	36,461
total	31,839	109,946
Borrowers' cards in use	2,760	5,869

*Circulation per capita
4.8 books 10.4 books

†Income per capita $89 $152

*Census figures used are those for 1905 and 1935

†Per capita income based on total library income

As these figures show, the circulation of the library during the thirty years has increased more than three times with an increase in the juvenile circulation of almost five fold.

It is the earnest hope that on these foundations, so well laid, the library will continue to go forward in finding new ways and methods of serving the whole community.

While we are still in reminiscent mood, let us consider the status of children in the Memorial Hall library in 1898. Article 4 of the rules and regulations reads as follows: "Young people under fourteen years of age may be admitted to read in the Reading-room upon the request of some person known to the Librarian (who shall engage to be responsible for their good conduct), at such times and in such numbers as may, in the judgment of the Librarian, not be inconvenient to other visitors, but no such person shall be permitted to loiter in the Reading-room, or in any part of the building when not engaged in reading." That was only forty-one years ago but so completely have we gotten away from that attitude toward young people with our attractive children's rooms and trained librarians to serve them, with splendid books written particularly for them that it seems as if that period must indeed have been removed from us by hundreds of years.

In 1939 the circulation of juvenile books including those loaned to the schools was 36,461 amounting to 33% of the total circulation, an increase of 17% over 1938. It is small wonder that our children's books with their enormous use wear out more quickly than we can replace them for the one-third of the annual appropriation, amounting to about $800, is not sufficient to keep up with the enormous turnover of the approximately 4600 books in the juvenile collection. Many libraries which serve the schools have separate school collections and sometimes appropriations for this use.

Miss Babcock who did full-time work in the Boys' and Girls' Room last winter now divides her time between it and the adult department. This necessary change has been something of a handicap in view of the increased use of the Boys' and Girls' Room. The use of page help for such routine tasks as shelving has been of great assistance. Again we have considered closing the room at six o'clock but have disliked to do so when careful accounting has shown a room used to capacity during the hours between six and eight with a circulation sometimes amounting to 50% of the day's total.

Miss Robinson has continued to serve the Junior High school library, Monday through Friday, from one to three-fifteen, and could very advantageously, if we could spare her, devote more time to the school library. The tremendous use of the library and its growth are shown in the circulation figures for 1939 which indicate that 4,272 books were issued as against 1,094 for the year before. Sometimes one hundred boys and girls are served in the short space of a half hour which means that it is almost impossible to give adequate personal service. We feel that the work at the Junior High school is of the utmost importance both because it relieves the over-crowded Boys' and Girls' room at the main library and because it brings books and personal service to boys and girls who, because they live at a distance from the main library, can not avail themselves of its privileges.

The following figures are indicative of the use that is made of the books sent to the elementary schools. Thirty-seven books were sent to one classroom at the Center School and they were read a total of 411 times. No wonder our bindery bill is large! During the past school year, the total number of books sent the schools, elementary and junior high, was 2,740 with a total circulation of 11,296.

Growing naturally out of specialized service to boys and girls is the increased attention in public libraries that is being given to young people of high school age, in school and out. It has been estimated that approximately one-third of the total adult registration in an average public library consists of young people between the ages of fourteen and twenty-one. A survey conducted in the New York Public Library showed that 75% of the registered borrowers were between the ages of fifteen and thirty. An outstanding young people's librarian has made the challenging statement that the future of democracy may depend upon the success of the public library in serving this group. What may be the specific answer to the problem in our library will require further study. However, books must be added to the library that will meet the reading interests of these young people whose reading abilities vary widely. This does not mean a lowering of the standards, but an inclusion, in the adult collection, of books that were written for young people. These books would undoubtedly serve as stepping stones and as an introduction to the larger resources of the library. This fall, with the co-operation of the high school, we have sent a deposit of one hundred books to the High School Library. We hope that we can help out in other ways such as through book lists and giving book talks.

Report on Punchard School

"There are eight rooms in the Punchard building including the assembly hall, but not counting the large closet used for typewriting..."

At the beginning of the present school it was found that there were still thirty-two more pupils than there were desks, even though room five was used to its full capacity... This left only room eight, the assembly hall, to take care of these thirty-two pupils... The building is heated from the central heating plant in the Jackson building and it is impossible to heat the six rooms and the hall at a reasonable temperature if the morning is cold... There is no properly lighted class room in the building... A gravity system is expected to take care of the ventilation, but in this building it is inadequate... The coat rooms are unventilated... That the use of this building by 200 pupils is disagreeable is evident; that it is a serious menace to health should be equally so.

We trust that as many citizens as possible who are not familiar with the high school should be interested enough to visit the school either in session or out, and see for themselves how the town is handicapped in this important part of its equipment.

Ski Tales

The good ol' days must have been the time when people talked in terms of straws that broke camels' backs instead of the now popular stems that break momentums.... and do a pretty good job on human spinal columns to boot.... The other day when I was having a traversing lesson, I emitted a wearied "jeepers creepers" and my instructor thought I was talking about a new kind of climbing ski sock.... That same night I heard him discussing straight flushes with another enthusiast and I rubbed my hands together and made myself conspicuous to see if I'd be invited to take a hand.... Poker's where I shine... but they were planning a slalom course for the next day.... It was my turn to flush.... All these things tended to make me think I'd like to come home for a few days where people are normal and the last straw (I still think it's a good expression) happened the day I splurged and bought a cawking new ski outfit.... Jungle red for when I get in the thicket of things.... Believe me, I expected to rate a little in that glorifying costume.... but he merely said that it was more "repellent" than my last.... then as I started up the slope, he didn't even notice my chin quivering, but just hollered at me not to take such mincing steps.... better mincing than mince meat, I thought, so I came home for the week-end....

I thought Andover was a nice normal town where if I mentioned poles, everyone would start berating the Germans.... but no! I must be whisked up to Prospect Hill to see the ski maneuvers.... It occurred to me that when the cameras started to grind, I could zoom down in my very best snowplough, sorta like Helen of Troy, you know, and have the Armies fight over me.... The stage was all set.... Only the props man forgot the snow....

Any kind of props would have come in handy just then because skis, poles and limbs went all akimbo.... Just then one of the camera men shouted, "Seize firing...." "The maneuvers are not picturable under these conditions," said someone else.... They could have been a little more polite, the heels, after all even Helen may not have looked much better on skis....

A quiet evening at home was evidently more my speed.... That night I read a glowing account of the maneuvers in the Boston Record.... so glowing in fact that it was no wonder I was burnt up.... At the stroke of twelve, like Cinderella, I took the first train back to the Northland and my instructor.... and I'm still going strawlingly.

EDITORIAL

Vacancies—and Vacancy

"Look through the list of town officers whose terms expire this March. If there are some on that list who don't care to run again, do everything you can to find a good candidate for that position." That is what we said in our editorial last week, at a time when we didn't realize that three of our best officials would decline to be candidates for another term.

It's not going to be an easy task to replace Mr. Bodwell and Mr. Buttrick of the Board of Public Works, and Mr. Carter of the school committee. They brought to their respective boards an unusual degree of ability, experience and common sense—qualifications which every office-holder should hold, but which too few do. In the past there have been some who have run for those two boards, and had they been elected, it would have been too bad for Andover. They were notable mostly for their lack of these three qualifications, combined with a rare degree of inability to manage even their own affairs. With so many positions available this year, we must see to it that the ballot contains some really good names; especially in the B. P. W. contest where there are two vacancies it might be possible for a ne'er-do-well to slip in.

And while we're on the subject of elections, we recall that County Commissioner C. F. Nelson Pratt got all worked up last week again, this time because neither one of the other commissioners would second his suggestion that he be made chairman instead of Andover's Fred Butler. It seems that Nelson wants to run for Congress this year and according to the story he gave the newspapers, it would have helped his campaign immeasurably if Fred had stepped aside and let him be chairman. It might be wise for the county Republican party heads to do a little prenomination work this time so that they can find a suitable candidate to run against Mr. Connery for Congress. All Republicans want a Republican to represent this district, naturally—but having in mind Mr. Pratt's plan it would be well for our Republican leaders, if they want to win the election, to remember that most Republicans want a good Republican.

Cooling Off

"Fire, Fire, Fire!" cried the residents of Topping road, Saturday evening.... "Boom, Boom, BOOOOm" went the fire whistle six times, six times and then once, but the Central firemen didn't listen... they shot a glance at the indicator, jumped onto the trucks and zoomed toward Morton street to box 461... Aside from streams of smoke issuing from a surprised pedestrian's nostrils and the conservative puffs from the chimney tops, nothing beclouded the peaceful air except darkness which mercifully made invisible the many, many raised eyebrows... In other words, there was no fire... The gallant firefighters were amazed because they were pretty sure that Andover's population was not made up of false alarm ringers... a car careened around the corner (I think it was the chief) and it became known to the firemen that they were at the wrong place... once more the motors roared and the engines zoomed back down the street and towards Topping road, scattering everything in their path like so much milkweed... Florian Marcoux's garage was all ablaze... Nobody could do much of anything except watch... The puzzling thing about it now is that although the story, according to witnesses, is an absolutely true one, it must just be a yarn because every fireman upon being questioned, laughs and says, "Oh, that wasn't my shift..." evidently there weren't any firemen on duty at that time... Must have been a phantom band...

Have you seen the very gay Scotch plaid coat Charles Emerson Stone's dog is sporting these cold days? ... Lady Margaret Sluga better look to her wardrobe...

The town employees had their special election Tuesday to vote for a representative of the retirement board, George Winslow vs. George Winslow... but there needs must be a majority of the selectmen present before the votes could be counted... Selectman Collins has been in Maine this week so it was impossible to have him... Selectman Shepard... Boy, have you seen his plane... now, really now, would you stay home and count votes in preference to taking an airplane for a spin?... Selectman Hardy... A map is in the process of production, with lights that flash at Selectman Hardy's position... There's a bulb at the town house, one at the Andover Recreation Center, one at Lawrence, etc... So Mr. Winslow was kept in suspense concerning the results of the election... Finally, yesterday noon, a majority was rounded up... and guess what.... George Winslow won, 50 to 1.

MEMORIAL HALL LIBRARY NOTES

The following books have recently been added to the Memorial Hall library:

Atoms In Action, Harrison: An M. I. T. Professor of physics describes for the layman the past achievements in the field of physics; its present day contributions to daily living and the future benefits which may be expected.

The Chinese Are Like That, Crow: With humor and kindly insight, Carl Crow interprets the mind and manners of the Chinese people. From his observations the reader gains a better understanding of this puzzling race.

A Coffin For Dimitrios, Ambler: The reader of mystery and adventure will welcome this exciting story of international intrigue in which a mysterious Greek fig-packer plays the central role.

The Days Are Fled, Marks: Throughout childhood and youth Stuart Shaw practiced on his violin under constant pressure from his musician father. Although he never succeeded in becoming a famous virtuoso, he found rich reward in later life in teaching an Italian boy prodigy.

Enchanting Jenny Lind, Benet: The famous Swedish songstress, Jenny Lind, becomes almost a figure to be pitied as we read of her unhappy childhood; the suffering caused by an unsympathetic mother and the struggle to secure the best training. On many a triumphant concert tour, she longed for the quiet and peace of her homeland. Young readers will enjoy this biography of the first thirty years of her life.

Four-part Setting, Bridge: As wife of an English diplomat, Ann Bridge writes understandingly of a group of English people in Peking. The plot concerns the solution of the emotional problems of a young married woman during an expedition into the mountains outside of Peking.

Midget Magellans, Devine: In small ships under 40 feet in length, many an adventurous man has set out to fulfil his dreams. Here are the records of a number of such exciting cruises illustrated with many photographs and a large colored chart.

Paul Revere Square, Kent: The complacency of the Jocene family of Boston was unpleasantly disturbed when Diana, a poor relation, inherits a fortune at the death of her uncle Nicholas Jocene. The background for this pleasant, humorous story is divided between the conventional Boston and the green hills of Vermont.

The Sister of The Angels, Goudge: Those who found the "City of Bells" a delightful English novel will enjoy meeting again some of the characters in this story of a Christmas season of the '90s. How the child Henrietta has a share in the restoration of the frescoes on one of the walls in the chapel of Torminster cathedral is the main interest in this book.

The Old Santa Fe Trail, Vestal: Having lived most of his life in the region of this trail, Mr. Vestal is able to write vividly of the adventure and thrills that the early pioneers encountered during their trek into the southwest.
