ANDOVER, MASSACHUSETTS, JANUARY 25, 1940

Volume LII—Number 16

The bottom picture looks like the aftermath of the hurricane; the top picture shows Sergeant Hickey examining what caused it all. About one o'clock Sunday morning this car came down Main street, crossed onto the sidewalk just above Morton street, crossed Morton street, and then ran into difficulty in the form of (1) a telephone pole; (2) a light standard; (3) a mail-box; and (4) another mail box. It carried one of the boxes with it, but it left behind the standard and the pole in a rather sorry plight. Just to make the hurricane atmosphere more realistic, all the street lights and many of the house circuits between Shawsheen and the Hill went out and stayed out for quite a while. Thanks to steel tops the driver was not seriously injured.

Hope For Toboggan Slide For Andover

The possibility of a toboggan slide as part of Andover's future winter sports program was mentioned in a statement issued by the Town Co-ordinated Recreation committee this week. This is the first year that there has been a town appropriation for winter recreational activities and the Board of Public Works has provided areas for skating.

The statement follows:

"The Board of Public Works have been doing a very fine job this winter in keeping the skating areas free from snow. This has been accomplished with money appropriated at the last town meeting. It is certainly pleasing and comforting to know that so many children and grown-ups too, have enjoyed this form of winter sport in absolute safety.

"We hope this is just a beginning for future winter sports activity and that ere long possibly a toboggan slide may be available to the children of Andover. Rosy cheeks and big appetites make a good foundation for a rugged future.

"They have places to swim and play in the summer—give them a place for winter sports in the winter."

ADVISES IMMUNIZATION

The Board of Health is advising immunization of all children over six months against diphtheria. Parents are asked to consult their family physician.

Few More Candidates Take Out Papers

Andover's political campaign remained in the doldrums this week, as with but one week left in which to file papers, only a few more candidates started their papers in circulation. The selectman's race remained in status quo, with chairman Shepard, P. LeRoy Wilson and William R. Shaw the sole contestants, but a few more names were added in the B. P. W. contest.

Eldon E. Stark of South Main street, a director of the Taxpayers' association, took out papers for the Board of Public Works, as did Alex Thomson of 42 Summer street. Added to the school committee race were the names of John M. MacKenzie of 35 Balmoral street, and John E. Haggerty of Andover street.

Next Thursday is the last date for filing papers. On Wednesday the first of several registrations of new voters will take place at the town house from 7 to 9.

To Ask Town Accept Streets

A few articles for acceptance of streets and purchase of privately-installed water mains will be included in the warrant for the annual town meeting. To date Fred E. Cheever, local real estate agent, and Harold Dunn have filed petitions. It is also expected that George Cairns of Shawsheen Heights will file similar petitions.

News of Other Days

Fifty Years Ago

—There came very nearly an opportunity for an alarm of fire last Saturday night. A large oil can in the upper hall of the first house of English Commons at Phillips, had leaked, so that almost a gallon of oil had run over the floor and door mat. A burning match carelessly thrown down, set fire to the mat and soon the hall was in a blaze. Buckets of water soon extinguished all the fire on the floor.

—The third annual supper, concert and ball in celebration of the birth of Robert Burns was held in the new Abbott Village Hall, last Friday evening. The blessings were asked by Peter D. Smith, after which an excellent supper was heartily partaken of. After the concert, the tables were cleared away and the floor made ready for dancing. The Scotch reel gave the most amusement and evident satisfaction, several of the older residents in the village taking part.

—The Boston papers in making a statement in regard to the growth of the Boston and Maine railroad in the last eight years, write the following which may interest our readers: "The figures for the last year show a vast improvement from the early days of the Boston and Maine Railroad which owes its beginning to the people of Andover, who in 1833, petitioned the Massachusetts Legislature for authority to construct a railroad from near the South Parish Meeting House to the Boston and Lowell Railroad in Wilmington. It took over three years to build the eight miles of tracks and it was opened in 1836.

Twenty-five Years Ago

—Alexander Brown of Florence street was another successful exhibitor in the Lawrence Poultry show. Rose combed leghorns were his specialties and he made a clean-up in the blue ribbon class. Herbert Cady won a number of prizes with his pigeons and H. Bradford Lewis won a second prize for a buff Plymouth Rock cock, third for a hen and third for a pullet.

Foster; secretary, Edward W. Burt; gatekeeper, Herbert Lewis; Ceres, Mrs. Fred A. Swanton; Pomona, Mrs. Ethel Lawrence; Flora, Mrs. Annie Buchanan; lady assistant steward, Miss Gladys A. ### Ten Years Ago

—Miss Ruth N. Higgins of Farmington, Maine, has been appointed by the trustees of the Punchard Free school to teach in the business department during the leave of absence granted to Mervin E. Stevens for the remainder of the school year.

—The success of "The Shawl Pageant," written by Miss Ethel H. Tewksbury and twice presented in town has inspired the directors of the Andover Historical society to stage her latest production, "In An Antique Shop."

—"The Patsy" was the name of the play presented by the St. Augustine's Dramatic Club in the town hall Friday, but it was really Patsy Harrington's father in the person of J. Phillips Higgins who kept the audience in gales of laughter. The weeping wife was played by Mrs. Katherine Milne; Miss Margaret Sullivan played the ambitious daughter; Miss Alice Nelligan was Patricia; Thomas Lynch and William C. Crowley, Jr., enacted Billy Caldwell and Tony Anderson. Francis Davis and Joseph Bouleau played minor parts.

Cooling Off

Somebody must have thought Shep's plane had been "cooling off" too much lately and a lovely hand knit muffler was sent to him from an anonymous ribber...some knit-wit...evidently, who dropped a stitch every time she heard the motor roar too near her roof top...

Another objection comes from Lady Fluga who objects to being called Lady Sluga...She thinks it sounds like a prizefighter...but, Lady, what if your friends start calling you "Flat Foot Fluga?" or doesn't that count?...

Another comes from Jim Christie who wishes people wouldn't praise the Ice Follies too highly because he was sitting up too high (in the second balcony) to be able to see it very well...Not only that, but the train slid right by the Shaw-sheen station, coming home, and the Christies were carried to Lawrence...They had to taxi home...

Several objections from moviegoes who would have preferred seeing Mr. Smith take another trip to Washington instead of seeing Des-try take another ride...Why saddle a good actor with shootin' scenes and a re-hashed plot, I wonder...It isn't horse sense...

Sam Moody of Andover street, Ballardvale, really has a real honest to goodness complaint to register...a man can't even leave his coat and hat on the train any more without the police getting all excited...He was riding home from Boston on the train yesterday, and feeling a little sleepy, he took a nap...Waking up with a start when the train stopped at the Reading station, he mistook it for Ballardvale and rushed off...the conductor found his coat and hat with nobody inside, so he rushed up to the Andover police station and told the police the grim story of the suicide, somewhere between Reading and Andover...The police were horror struck...Sergeant Cole started from Ballardvale and walked along the tracks toward Andover and Officers O'Brien, Nicoll and Davis started their somber walk from Andover toward Ballardvale...Meanwhile Mr. Moody rode in on the next train from Ballardvale...and the cops found no corpse...

"High School Curriculum Organized For Only 25% Of Pupils"

The 75% of high school students who cannot go on to higher institutions but must immediately seek employment after graduation, present the real problem here in Andover, according to Mrs. Emma Gould Carter, Punchard teacher, in a recent article which she wrote for a course that she is now taking. The article follows:

Teaching is no longer merely a matter of "getting across" facts which are contained in books. Granted that it is a very important part of a teacher's job, but today, more than ever before, it is also her job to discover the interests of those boys and girls who sit in front of her each day, and just how those interests may be directed toward earning a living.

And that is exactly what your Punchard High School is endeavoring to do. The majority of our school curricula, Punchard's included, are organized for the 25% of those boys and girls who will go on to institutions of higher learning, rather than for the 75% who must immediately earn their living upon graduating from high school, or who leave to go to work before graduating. In an effort to discover what your boys and girls do after graduation, a survey was recently made; 138 questionnaires were sent out to the graduates of the classes of 1938 and 1939 not in schools of any kind, and 63 of them were returned. Of these, only three boys and nine girls who had the excellent training of our commercial department are now doing work for which that course prepared them. Waitresses, domestics, mill operators, garage hands, delivery truck drivers comprise the list of the other occupations, with the exception of one or two who have obtained work for which Punchard gave them no training, but for which they possessed a natural aptitude.

One fact, of course, must be recognized, and that is that "being exposed" to a course in school does not by any means presuppose "coming down with it," which fact accounts for many of those having had the commercial course finding themselves in jobs demanding only unskilled labor. Yet with our present equipment we can give no other training than that mentioned. There is a problem here which your school is trying to meet, if not in occupational training, at least in occupational thinking, by encouraging pupils to think along lines of general fields of occupational interest; to plan educationally in the light of broad interests and capacities; to develop good work habits and attitudes, desirable social habits, pride in socially worthwhile work, and in the pupils a feeling of confidence that they can do good work. Perhaps some day you will add other courses to our practical arts for the boys, and to our home economics for the girls, so that we can turn out better citizens for our town, because we can turn out more boys and girls equipped to be wage earners.

Ski Tales

Well, I don't have to worry about whether I'm going to give up my instructor or not...He's given me up...He's gone south for the winter...He had a letter from his Senator informing him that the skiing is tops, snow 9.5 inches, and they want him to come right away to make some pretty tracks for the White House lawn...Of course, he couldn't resist that, especially when the weather has only been threatening in these parts and the storms, if they're snow storms, blow right out to sea...I think Margaret Mitchell has made even the weather man sympathetic and the wind has swished all our snow flurries down to the cotton fields...Of course we believe in sharing the wealth and the health, too, to a certain extent, but now it looks as if we might as well pack all our equipment and...No, wait a minute...I think it's snowing...

I'd like to see some of the pictures Mr. Utley took at Cranmore last week-end...He had great possibilities of getting local skiers at their best...Jane Ritchie and Doug Crockett were up there bright and early Sunday morning before the crowds arrived so they could enjoy the tractored slopes, unrun into... Betty and Marie Holihan and Emily Bullock went whizzing past me several times on their way to the bottom...I was going, too, via the bottom...The Grovers were practicing stems diligently on the North slope and I'm telling you that course is no pipe...Robert Holland was at Cannon Mountain according to reports...

Dot Christie said that the conditions in Hanover were very good last week-end (she was referring to skiing) and she and Bob and Alexander Wilson and Edith Jensen of North Andover had a grand time at the famed setting of "Dartmouth Carnival"...

It's snowing a little harder now, so I guess we can count on a few inches of powder...but if you've been contemplating an extended ski trip to Canada or Alaska, take a tip from my instructor.

"Richmond has 16 inches and Danville's no slouch. The temperature jumped to 33 in Nome. So don't go North to ski, no ma'am, you'll better come South, young lady, come South."

Water, Sewer Articles Proposed

Two water extensions and a sewer extension totalling nearly $8,000 will probably be included in this year's annual town meeting warrant. One of the proposed water projects would run the main from the dead-end on South Main street along South Main street to the by-pass, around the bend, across the by-pass, and 500 feet beyond to the drive-way of Clarence P. May. This would cost $2880.

Another extension would go from the corner of Porter road and Abbot street along Abbot street 500 feet to a proposed house, on petition of Guy Conkey and others. It would cost $1425. It is similar to a project last year which the town voted, and which the department of public works did not start until the home-building actually started.

The sewer project, costing $3480 of which part would be returned in sewer assessments on adjoining property, would run along North Main street from Riding academy avenue 870 feet to a point near a proposed road near the Lawrence line.

Tree warden G. Richard Abbott will also ask for a sum for purchase of trees and other materials.

Unused Rails

Over in Lawrence at present the W. P. A. is busy on a rail-removal job. Recently a bad condition was eliminated on South Broadway just over the Andover line when the unused street car rails were removed; they had long been a hazard to motorists and several accidents and near-accidents had taken place there.

The court will decide just where the fault lay in the crash which left a good part of the town in darkness early Sunday morning, but it is understood that there is some belief that the initial cause which threw the car out of control lay in the slippery rails on Main street hill just above Morton street. Here again there is a situation similar to the South Broadway situation. Cars at the top of the hill must bear right just as they do beyond the Andover-Lawrence line, and if they don't bear enough right, and if they're going faster than conditions warrant, the rails will prove disastrous. There have been fatal accidents near Morton street as a result.

During the past year the rails have been removed on the state road from Harding street on to the Lawrence line with a short exception, and the town has filled in the rails below the North Main street railroad bridge. Several years ago the tracks in the square and up to Chapel avenue were also filled in, but the fillings are apparently not permanent, and therefore expensive.

Ripping up the rails as they are now doing in Lawrence is an expensive and a long job, but in another section of Lawrence they tried a plan which seems to be far less costly and apparently satisfactory. That consists of the application of about a two-inch top-coat not just over the rails but over the rail-bed too. Filling in a narrow rail with tar is really useless, because there's not enough of a surface for the tar to adhere to. Here in Andover it might be a good idea to put the two-inch topcoat over the whole roadway; it would cost only about 55 cents a yard on a large job, and it would be a long-lasting solution of the problem.

P. T. A. Speaker Talks On "Youth Of Today"

At the Andover Parent Teachers' association meeting in the music room of the Junior High School last Thursday night, Henry H. Harris, former principal of the Lowell high school, cautioned his audience that in the development of the public school system, we must be careful that "the education of the masses does not degenerate into mass education." "No children are alike," he continued; "some are eye-minded, some ear-minded and some motor-minded, and each type must be taught differently. No two children begin at the same point, unfold at the same time, nor in the same way." Consequently, church, home and school should form a close partnership, each co-operating with the other two.

Mr. Harris compared the four periods of education and pointed out that the first period, when most of the teaching was done in the home and did not include much "schooling," was better than the systems of education that developed from it, because all three of the necessary agents, nature, life and books, were present in varying degrees. Our own school system has begun to realize the importance of nature for the students because it quickens the receptive powers of the child and suggests the unseen. Knowledge, habits, tastes, ideals and power which were developed to a wonderful degree in the old days but which were crowded out of the schools in the in-between periods, are once more finding their way back into the education system, which may consider itself a failure if it doesn't stimulate the whole-some development of all five.

The Adventurers' quartet of North Andover sang three selections preceding the talk and were enthusiastically clapped for their humor as well as for their harmony. At the business meeting it was announced that Fathers' night will be held soon at which time the fathers will take full charge of the meeting including the refreshments. After the next meeting, which will be held Tuesday evening, February 20, the members will again meet every third Wednesday of the month. Miss Stephan's room won the banner.

—Mrs. Thomas Garside has returned to her home in Buxton, Me., after spending the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Holt.

Is It Worth the Price?

The answer is YES—because hundreds of Andover women have found it pays to pay a penny or two more, not only for higher quality merchandise, but also to enjoy the comfort of having their goods delivered to their homes during this long cold spell. We have been as busy during this cold snap as we were during the holiday season for there is not much joy in carrying goods home in zero weather.
