Gene had been mentor for over a quarter of a century.

Officers Elected At Annual Meeting

An instrumental trio consisting of Miss Susan Ripley, violinist, Miss Carolyn Tyler, cellist, and Miss Grace McCreary, pianist, entertained the November Club at its annual meeting on Monday afternoon with numbers by Loeillet, Widor, Haydn, and Frank Bridge. Four Love Songs from a group of six by Johannes Brahms, written with an unusual and interesting four hand accompaniment, were sung by a quartet of club members, Mrs. Gordon Elliott, Miss Miriam Putnam, Mrs. James Eaton, and Mrs. Mervin E. Stevens, with Mrs. Frank H. Paige and Mrs. John C. Angus at the piano.

At the annual business meeting the following slate of officers was elected for the coming year: president, Mrs. Frederick Boyce; 1st vice-president, Mrs. F. Tyler Carlton; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Mervin E. Stevens; recording secretary, Mrs. Walter Rankin; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Harry I. Emmons; treasurer, Mrs. John E. Burgess; directors for three years, Mrs. Cleveland Gilcrest, Mrs. George H. Musk; Nominating committee, Mrs. Joseph A. Rand, Miss Anne B. Penman and Mrs. Harold T. Godfrey.

Adventurers Again Score Success In "Holiday"

Everybody who went to Memorial auditorium Tuesday night had a very pleasant Holiday. Proving once again that their keen interest in every phase of play production has its reward in the knowledge that the finished job is something to be proud of, the Adventurers presented Philip Barry's "Holiday" to a house that amply showed its appreciation of the acting, the sets, the direction, the costuming and everything else that goes to make a well rounded out performance.

If any of the cast could be said to be more outstanding than any of the others, Eleanor Bishop as the young Seton girl whose love for the family tradition of wealth and position could not comprehend a desire for a "Holiday," and Steve Whitney as the life-enjoying Nick Potter would probably win the Oscars. Thisbe Grieco as the other

Seton girl who continually chafed at the bit enforced by father Seton, and Marguerite Fecteau as Nick's well-mated wife also gave very commendable performances. Charles Whiteside was letter-perfect as the son to whom drink gave a mental holiday, and Lyman F. Cheever as the father proved very conclusively that Mrs. Cheever had done her job as director well. The most pleasant surprise of the evening was the performance of Paul MacKendrick in the male lead, for in the earlier rehearsals there had been some doubt that he was suited for the part. In the minor roles were Alicia Waterston, Roland Fraser, William Hughes, Harold Wennik and Betty Carmichael.

Sumner Davis was supervisor of production and Irene Morgan stage manager.

Famous Soloists In Male Choir Concert

Harry Newcombe, baritone with a robust, dramatic voice, and Miss Olive Appleton, coloratura soprano, will sing several solos and duets at the annual Spring Concert of the Andover Male choir which will be presented in Memorial auditorium at 8:15, Wednesday evening, May 1. Both soloists are highly talented and well known in the musical world.

Miss Appleton was soloist in the "Messiah" with the Handel and Haydn Society of Boston and also appeared in two performances of "The Children's Crusade." She has been with various orchestral societies in New England and the Schubert Club of Schenectady, New York.

Mr. Newcombe has appeared with the Boston Symphony Orchestra and the Handel and Haydn Society and other choral societies of New England and the Middle West. He toured the country for four seasons with the famous Zimmer Harp Trio under New York management. He has also appeared in the many operatic productions such as "Carmen," "Faust," "Bohemian Girl," "Robin Hood" and "Cavalleria Rusticana."

So much favorable comment has been heard regarding the recent performance of the boys, about sixty in number, who sang with the choir in the P. T. A. program that their work will be repeated in this concert. They gave a splendid rendition of the famous "Omnipotence" by Schubert and this should make a popular addition to the excellent program already prepared. The youngsters were selected from our public schools and trained by Mr. Collins and they all showed they had exceptionally fine soprano voices. Their selection will appear early in the program so they may be excused early in the evening, if they desire. Remember the date, May 1.

ONE MAIL DELIVERY

The post office windows will be open until 10 tomorrow morning, and there will be one delivery.

League Hears State President

A large group of members and guests of the Andover League of Women Voters met on Tuesday at the Log Cabin of Phillips academy to hear a program discussion by Mrs. LaRue Brown, president of the Massachusetts League. Before a roaring fire, members sat down at long tables to eat the box lunches they had brought and the cake and coffee served by the committee.

After luncheon, Mrs. John Little, president of the Andover League, introduced Mrs. Brown, who began her talk by explaining the procedure of program making. The tentative program which she discussed will be voted on by representatives of all state and local leagues at the National League Convention in New York beginning April 29.

Members found on the new program such continuing interests of the League as maintenance of constitutional rights, the municipal manager plan of city government, better personnel in government service, child labor legislation, slum clearance and public housing, downward revision of tariff by a scientific method, and progressive social legislation for dealing with women offenders. Proposed new items of interest were relief recognized as a long-time concern of government, and opposition to interstate trade barriers.

Informal votes were taken on some controversial subjects to give the state president an idea of the feeling of the majority of the Andover League on these issues. Members felt that the meeting was most valuable in clarifying their understanding of what the League as a whole is working for.

BRITISH VETS' ANNIVERSARY

The seventh anniversary of the British War veterans will be held at the Guild Saturday, with a supper at 6:30, followed by a history of the organization, with dancing to follow.

Hospital Drive More Than Successful

The Lawrence General hospital building fund drive came to a successful conclusion Monday evening with nearly $30,000 more being subscribed than the $200,000 that had been set as the goal. Andover contributed $15,281, leading the suburban towns. The city of Lawrence gave $36,558, Methuen gave $9,116 and North Andover gave $4,661, the rest coming from Memorials. Andover therefore gave just a little under 25%.

Mrs. William Kurth's division collected $4,112, Miss Anna Kuhn's $6,316, and Roy Hardy's $4,853.

Red Cross Offers Aid To Norway

As a result of the invasion of Norway and the widespread suffering among thousands of helpless men, women and children which is sore to follow, the American Red Cross has cabled an offer of assistance to the Norwegian Red Cross through the American Minister to Norway. Therefore the American Red Cross welcomes all contributions for this cause as well as for relief of war sufferers of all nations already involved in conflict.

Useful Objects Of Modern Simplicity Designated As "Art" In Gallery Exhibit

Visitors to the Early American rooms of the Addison Gallery accept without hesitation its Chipendale furniture, Sandwich glass, and Paul Revere silver as being objects of art. These objects which have stood the test of more than a century are still considered beautiful, and reproductions of them can be bought in every department store. On the other hand, people are not used to thinking of modern machine-made objects as having the same quality as those which have the halo of antiquity. In its present exhibition of "Useful Objects Under Ten Dollars," the Addison Gallery of American Art at Phillips academy is showing over a hundred modern objects of good design which are available at low prices. The exhibition was arranged by the Museum of Modern Art in New York, with objects selected from many New York stores.

The keynote of these objects is simplicity. Modern designers are removing all extra ornamentation in order that nothing will detract from the simple form and beauty of surface. In this search for a new beauty of form and finish, these designers are continually investigating the possibilities of the various materials and machine processes. In a small section of the exhibition, the Addison Gallery has assembled objects from Lawrence and Andover stores to show some of the possibilities of various materials which modern designers are using.

Each material has a character of its own—wood, glass, metal, clay are all essentially different. A form which is suited to glass probably would not be suited to clay, or one suitable to metal would probably not be suited for wood.

Objects of glass are either blown or pressed, when the glass is in a molten state, and advantage is often taken of such qualities as reflection of light, transparency, translucency in colored glass, or the bubbles in glass. In many clay objects both hand-made pottery and machine-made china are shown, in both china and pottery, very simple colors are replacing flowered designs. Wood designers seem particularly to be fond of transparent finishes, where the pattern of the wood shows through and makes a natural design. In the same way, many metal objects are subjected to a high polish to let their natural color be an important part of the design.

Of special interest are the newly developed plastic materials, which have infinite design possibilities in being either flexible, rigid; transparent, opaque, or translucent; with any pattern, texture, or color possible. Objects are included made of catalin, shellflex, lucite, plexiglas, fibreglas, and koro-web.

Abbot Academy Notes

To Speak At Vespers

Monsieur de Lanux of Paris, author and lecturer of note, will speak at the vesper service under the auspices of the Abbot Christian Association on the subject "Is World Organization for Peace Possible?" He will discuss the problems of concerted planning for the next period, at the close of the war, and the totalitarian alternative to such planning. Friends of the school are cordially invited to attend the evening service in Abbot Hall, Sunday night, at 7:30.

Friskin Recital

Kate and James Friskin gave a recital of music for two pianofortes last Saturday evening before a large and enthusiastic audience. The program, opening with the great polyphony of Bach, continuing through the aristocratic perfection and culminating in the Romanticism of Schumann, might well have ended there, and still would have been perfect, but the Schubert Fantasia followed with its additional personal note and the program ended with the charming Suite of Arensky. In response to the demands of the audience, two encores were added, music by the English Walton and the French Saint-Saens.

The Friskins played magnificently. It is evident that they are attuned temperamentally and that their wonderful achievement has been due to much study and practice.

To Attend Symphony

Thru The Knot Hole

This Merrimack Valley Suburban League race shapes up as a real fight this season...The admission of Dracut high, making an eight club league may possibly have an unexpected effect on the race...It will add two games to the schedule of each team, and, if the early season weather necessitates the postponement of many games, the school with the extra pitching will have the decided edge...We have no way of knowing just how strong the Dracut boys will be, but we feel certain that they will give a good account of themselves.

We realize full well that we should not climb out on a limb this way; nevertheless, we cannot resist the urge to make a few predictions...So, although we do not want to jinx George Knightly, we are inclined to install his Chelmsford club as our favorite...Our heart may belong to Daddy Punchard, but, we certainly like the looks of all those pitchers that George has...He has even admitted that he has one for every day in the week.

With about four pitchers, a veteran catcher, two veteran infielders and a pair of experienced outfielders, is it any wonder that those who know say Chelmsford...Ernie Ramsbotham at Methuen will have two veterans in Porter on first and Pollard at third, but the loss of Stafford will effect the pitching staff, especially since he must find a catcher to fill the shoes of Lewis...However, don't sell Methuen short...They will be the club to watch when things get hot, along about the last of May.

The setup at Johnson presents a problem...Jim Cavaleri should get the best pitching in the league from Bing Miller, starting his fourth season as a regular...but even Bing can't pitch every day...Cav must find someone to take the place of Banker, lost through graduation...However, Sullivan and Greenwood will be in there swinging, and woe to the pitcher who gives either one of them a fat pitch...They really hit.

As for Wilmington, Tewksbury and Billerica...well...perhaps they won't win any pennants...but in this corner we are inclined to eye them with suspicion when they come to town...In a race of this sort a single defeat can ruin the chances of any one of the favorites...Harold Driscoll at Wilmington would like nothing better than to knock off a first place club...and the beauty of it is that he is liable to do it...Howe usually comes up every three or four years with a topflight hurler...They have had good hitting in the past...Just hold your hats if Royal Adams comes through with a good moundman this spring...Tewksbury used a Freshman southpaw last season several times...and he might upset all of our predictions this year...The year's growth and experience should aid him immeasurably.

In taking over the reins from the old master, Bill McDonald will be faced with the task of building a club that will be the target of the rest of the league, due to the fact that they are the defending champions...Bill certainly knows the game, having played in the old City League for several years...and this corner wants to start him off with a long yell and a sincere vote of confidence...It's a tough break that pits the local team against this season's favorites, Chelmsford in the first game of the schedule, at the playstead next Tuesday...

The prospects might be considered a little better than fair...Noyes and Kearn can catch...Ferguson, captain Proctor, and Bishop are experienced pitchers...The veteran infield of Bishop, Lindsay, Burnham, and McLauchlan remains intact...and the outfield with Allerruzo, and the spare batterymen should come along...The problem will come in the matter of replacements.

There are several good ball players on the squad who may develop...but at present they lack experience...and no coach has ever been able to find a substitute for that word...Lewis, Parsons, Erler, Reny, Duke, and several others will come along.

"Information Please" On Historic Andover

The Andover Historical society, at its meeting on the evening of April 30, will seek and offer "Information Please" especially concerning the following old Andover houses. The dwelling on the Hezakiah Jones Farm, long the home of Arthur W. Bassett; the Flint-Corliss House on Osgood Road in the West Parish, now belonging to Vincent Treanor; the Poor-Perry-Torr House, in the delta between Phillips and Central streets, now owned by George G. Brown; the Emery-Arnold House at 88 Central street; the Holt-Cogswell House at 134 South Main street, now occupied by Mr. Herbert W. Holt, and several houses in town that have belonged to the Goldsmith family.

The old Baker House on Argilla Road, just off Andover street, which is now being restored by Sidney P. White, turns out to be unexpectedly ancient as its older parts are revealed. It may, in fact, prove to be, in parts at least, older even than its far-famed neighbor, the Benjamin Abbott home.

These dwellings will be discussed by their present owners, the descendants of former owners, and authorities on old-time Andover, all in most informal fashion. The meeting is open to persons interested, even though not members of the Society, thereby hoping to obtain added information about old houses not appearing on the records. Time and place are Tuesday, April 30, at the Society's house, 97 Main street, at 8 o'clock.

New Club Organizes

A fine turnout of fifty boys appeared for the organization meeting of the club to be known as the St. Augustine's Catholic Youth Organization at its first meeting in the parochial school hall last Monday night. The following officers were elected: John Shattuck, president; Thomas Dowd, vice-president; Francis Conno'ly, treasurer; Edmund Connolly, secretary.

Athletics, music and dramatics are only a few of the many future activities planned by the members. Baseball will be the first venture by the club. The first practice session will be held on Saturday morning at the old cricket field with James D. Doherty and Arthur Trainer serving as coaches for the squad.

Author-Editor Speaks At Foundation Lecture

Mr. George Fort Milton, former editor of the Chattanooga News, Editor of the Evening Tribune, Chattanooga, and author of "The Age of Hate" and "The Eve of Conflict," delivered the twelfth annual lecture on the Alfred E. Stearns Foundation at Phillips Academy, Andover, last Friday night. His subject was "The South Do Move." Before a large and appreciative audience Mr. Milton analyzed, with both brilliance and humor, the economic and political situation in the South today. "For decades," said Mr. Milton, "the South pinned its faith in Hell, Calomel, and the Democratic Party. Now two developments have begun to make themselves apparent. One is the rise of the demagogues, the result of the South's depressed agriculture and its hundreds of thousands who feel disinherited and dispossessed. The second development is the desire for a real two party system. In spite of the generous promises of the dominant southern leaders, they have proved more interested in holding their federal jobs than in promoting a real opposition party, so today as yesterday, the South's tens of thousands of geographical Democrats remain without another place to go."

BIRTH

Penrod And Sam Cause Plenty Of Excitement In Junior High School Successful Production

John Shepard had no difficulty at all in finding trouble with John Eastman always on hand to help him as they assumed the characters of Booth Tarkington's beloved "bad boys" Penrod and Sam, in the Junior High school presentation in the auditorium last Thursday afternoon and Friday evening. Jam-packed with riotous ruckshuns, robbery and romance, the play tumulted through four acts with the "George B. Clark Detective Agency" always on the trail.

The role of the pater of the rascal Penrod was in the capable hands of young Mr. Tom Sullivan, who brought the character to life, and what a life Penrod's poor father had, what with two suitors constantly under foot, sole-purposed young men who both hoped to become his son-in-law, a scheming stock promoter trying to secure the family savings and, of course, Penrod. The excellent supporting cast included John Markey as Tim; Barbara Lindsay as Della, the Schofield cook; Helen Hodges, Penrod's mother; Donald Look, Mr. Jones; Leo Ryan, Jarge; Ted Smith, Robert Williams; Betty Morgan, George's mother; Jean Gilfoy, Penrod's sister; John Lord, Herbert Hamilton Dade; Suzanne Leland, Marjorie Jones; Dwight Killam, Georgie Bassett; Cornelius Wilder, Rev. Lester Kinsolving; James Caldwell, Herman; John Thompson, Verman; Richard Lynch, Mr. Coombes, the chief of police.

A well finished production, the play also finished well, with everyone happy and especially Miss Mabel Marshall, directress, who was very proud of her young cast.

The Junior High School orchestra opened the program with an overture by Herfurth under the direction of Miss Miriam Sweeney. Following the first act the mixed choral group presented their interpretation of "Welcome, Sweet Springtime" and before the second act Miss Alva Houston vocalized Stephen Foster's "Beautiful Dreamer" looking very much like the fulfillment of that dream in her pretty costume. The girls' choral group, also wearing lovely costumes, followed the third act with "Love's Old Sweet Song."

Fiedler Conducts Second Pops Concert

A treat is in store for Andover music lovers, when, at 8:30, May 3, in the Memorial Auditorium a Pops concert will be held under the direction of Arthur Fiedler. Sixteen members of the Boston Symphony will give the concert, and if judged by last year's performance it will be a decided success.

The affair is under the auspices of Christ Church and tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Ernest Young, 70 Elm street, telephone 434-J, or Mrs. George Sawyer at the same address. All seats are to be reserved.

It will also be an unusual treat for children to see a famous symphony orchestra in action and visualize what they hear many times over the radio.

The chairmen are as follows: general chairman, Mrs. Wallace Brimer; tickets, Mrs. Ernest Young and Mrs. George Sawyer; printing, Mrs. Scott H. Paradise; treasurer, Mrs. Charles S. Cooke; piano, Mrs. Frederick C. Smith; cafeteria service, Mrs. Guy Howe; flowers, Mrs. John Stewart; patrons, Mrs. George Musk; publicity, Mrs. Dean Walen and Mrs. E. O. Edmands; ushers and vendors, Mrs. Walter E. Howe; decorations, Mrs. Herbert Farnsworth.

Champion Speaks Here

"Ah'm sorry, fellas, but ah don't know the words to 'Dixie!'" Laughter greeted this remark at the St. Augustine's Holy Name communion breakfast Sunday morning, for it came from the mouth of a personable young man from Portsmouth, Virginia. "But," said he, "ah don't know the words to 'The Battle Hymn of the Republic' either."

"Ah tell you what ah can sing fo' you, though—'Carry me back to Ole Virginny!'" Everett Hewitt did sing it, too, and when he was through more applause rang through the school hall than has been heard there in many a day. Friday night Everett had been adjudged second best to Tom Haggerty of Rosedale, L. I., N. Y., in the Eastern semi-finals of the National Legion oratorical contest, and on Saturday night they had stayed with Jerry Twomey of Shawshen, national Legion chairman of Americanization. Tom, Everett, and Jerry, Jr., spent most of the night refighting the Civil War, and having a good time doing it. Monday night Tom went to Faneuil hall, there to be adjudged the best in the country. St. Augustine's men were convinced Sunday morning that either one of the boys deserved the honor.

Father Austin was greeted with an impressive attendance at the annual communion breakfast, a testimonial to his leadership of the past few years. Superintendent of schools Dennis Callahan of Lawrence was the principal speaker.

Five Cents

A group of earnest citizens of Andover presented a strong plea for lower telephone rates at a hearing before the Public Utilities commission last Thursday. Although it was called primarily to discuss the question of "foreign exchange" rates, the charge made for a phone in one exchange being serviced by another exchange, many of the speakers devoted their time to something that Andover as a whole is more interested in, namely, the five-cent toll charge from Andover to Lawrence as compared with the absence of a toll charge from Methuen and North Andover to Lawrence.

This question comes up every so often, as it should. If enough residents of this town feel that they should receive unlimited service to Lawrence, certainly something should be done about it. In the past polls have been taken, and it would be a good idea to take another poll, for Andover has changed since 1931 when the last poll was taken. At that time the margin was in favor of abolition of the toll charge but the margin was not big enough in the commission's mind to warrant a change. One concession was made whereby those subscribers who wished could have 50 calls a month for $3.00, these calls to be made anywhere in the Lawrence-Andover area.

It would be only fair to ascertain the telephone users' sentiments again. Some Andover people won't want the change, for it is reasonable to assume that under the no-toll arrangement Andover phone-users would pay the same basic rate as Lawrence users, or fifty cents more than the present basic rate. Obviously then those who make fewer than ten calls to Lawrence monthly would prefer not to have the higher basic rates. To some of us however these toll charges mount up to quite a bit of money. The Public Utilities commission should certainly once again endeavor to find out which is the predominant group in Andover, those who want the present situation or those who prefer unlimited service.

When Sydney R. Montague, famous as "Monty of the Mounties," comes to speak at Phillips academy tomorrow, his lecture might well be titled, "The Truth About the Mounties." If there is a man to get, the Mounties usually get him, explains Mr. Montague, but in the meantime the Mounties are kept busy patrolling the vast country that stretches from the United States to the Arctic Circle.
