Bridge Party Draws Capacity Crowd

The Andover Country club bulged with bridge players last night when the St. Augustine's parish held one of the largest card parties of all times. Not one more table could have been shoe-horned onto the floor; not one more pack of cards, nor one more person—except, of course, the Male choir—there's always room for them.

After their rehearsal, the choir members adjourned to the club house where they sang the two songs, "Twilight" and "Go To Dark Gethsemane," which will determine which prize the prize-winning choir will receive at the Federation contest next Saturday. They also sang: "Old Mother Hubbard," "Visions," "Song of the Jolly Roger," "The Lost Chord," and concluded with "God Bless America" with everyone joining in singing the chorus.

Refreshments were served while the many prize winners were announced by Joseph Mulvey. Door prizes were awarded to Mrs. James Murray, Harold Rutter and Raymond Smith. Special prizes were won by Miss Mary Coughlin, Miss Mary O'Brien, Miss Carita Russell, Mrs. Jerome W. Cross, Herbert Auty, Joseph E. Fallon, Stephen A. Boland, Alfred Miller, Mrs. William J. Nolan, Miss Mary A. Reilly, Miss Bertha Stanley, Mrs. Katherine Irving, Miss Flora Raidy, Mrs. Frank O'Hearn, Mrs. John Batal, and Mrs. Katherine Hannan.

RED CROSS CHAPTER LAUNCHES DRIVE TO RAISE $2400 FOR WAR RELIEF

The Andover chapter of the Red Cross this week launched a drive for $2400, the local quota of the $10,000,000 fund being raised by the American Red Cross for the relief of war sufferers in Poland, Finland, Norway, Belgium and Holland. Since aid must be given immediately, the officers of the local chapter hope that Andover will again do its bit.

Contributions should be sent to the Andover National Bank or to Philip F. Ripley, treasurer, 7 Abbot street.

The funds received in this campaign will be applied wholly and exclusively to war relief work and no part will be applied towards the regular activities and program of the Red Cross, nor to meet the expenses of the campaign. The Red Cross societies of all the countries thus far involved in armed conflict, except those of Germany, Russia and Japan, have indicated that they will welcome assistance from the American and other Red Cross societies. The societies of the three aggressor nations have indicated that they can take care of their own needs.

The local school children will also participate in the drive, the funds to be applied toward the relief of children victims of the war. The amount raised in the schools will be included in the local quota.

The directors of the local chapter are: C. Carlton Kimball, Thaxter Eaton, Stafford Lindsay, Philip Ripley, Frank Markey, James Toohey, Ralph Barnes, Dr. Charles Currier, Rev. Thomas Austin, O. S. A., Joseph L. Burns, Clarence Waugh, Kenneth Sherman, Dr. Claude M. Aid NOW

What the coming week may bring no one can tell, but it may be one of the most important weeks in the world's history. To the United States it will have important ramifications both economically and politically, for if the Nazi party which unfortunately now represents Germany succeeds in conquering Great Britain and France, it will have disastrous effects here.

In a military sense the United States must be prepared to defend itself, for we are one of the nations that were foolish enough to believe that disarmament could bring peace, forgetting that there are leaders in this world that can't be trusted to keep their word. Any expense for defense in this crisis is an investment, and to lessen the cost it might be well to use as much relief labor as possible in this work.

There will be no lasting peace until the world's economic problems are cleared up, but this much is certain: the world would be much nearer lasting peace if the Allies won than if the Nazis won, even if the Allies at the end of the war were so bitter at what the Nazis had done that they again were by human nature forced to insist on a peace of vengeance. What a coalition of Japan, Italy, Russia and Germany would do to our economic life is something we don't like to think of, and for that reason it would be in self-interest for us to do everything we can for the Allies just as quick as we can in the way of sending arms, airplanes, tanks, etc. It's a war of machines, not so much of men, and we certainly can help that way. Give them credit? Certainly, if they want it—if we don't, the day might be not far away when we won't be able to give credit to anyone. The main thing is to give them aid right away—not next month, not next fall, but immediately. That's self-protection, as well as an attempt to rid the world of the most diabolical inhuman government a nation ever had.

Andover has a quota of $2400 to aid civilian sufferers of the Nazi invasions. Andover can do better than $2400—let's do it.

Zink Talks On Future Of Radio

At Tuesday's meeting of the Lawrence Lions club, Alvin J. Zink, Jr., of 18 Park street gave a talk and demonstration of the newest in radio static-free reception. The speaker outlined past developments in wireless communication as contrasted with the newest transmission system.

Because of licensing limitations of the radio station over which the talk was broadcast, the latter part of the demonstration had to be deleted, thus depriving listeners from actually hearing of the brilliance of this new scientific work. Residents of Andover may be able to decide upon the merits of the new development, since arrangements are now being made to duplicate the entire demonstration from the radio studio.

—Walter McDonald, son of Bernard L. McDonald of 8 Chestnut street, has returned to his studies at St. John's Preparatory school, Danvers, after recuperating at his home from an appendectomy.

News of Other Days

Fifty Years Ago

—State Supervisor Waldin of the Eleventh United States census announced yesterday the names of those who have been commissioned census enumerators. For this town, William P. Allis and Silas C. Doble are appointed.

—On Saturday Mrs. Effie Dresser Wilde gave Abbot academy a valuable and delightful talk on dress and dress reform. Mrs. Wilde has for some time been thoroughly interested in Mrs. Jenners Miller's movement, and in affection for the school of which she is a graduate, kindly came to awaken a practical interest in this reform among the present members of the school. Mrs. Wilde brought with her several charming costumes, combining comfort and economy with beauty and proving beyond question that dress reform need not mean dowdiness. She had moreover a happy faculty of vividly illustrating for a moment our commonest sins against beauty while the contrast of her natural carriage and appearance gave emphasis to her few words of advice.

—Long before the regular hour of opening, Monday morning, a number of interested people gathered at the new bank building, the purpose evidently being to be the first depositor to hand in shekels over the new counter. As the ninth hour drew nigh the number grew larger. The employers were on deck bright and early and promptly on time the door swung open and the waiting crowds rushed in. E. Pike made a rush and threw down his pile winning the race by a nose.

—Chief of Police Cheever has posted the notices forbidding bathing in Haggetts Pond.

Twenty-five Years Ago

—Miss Clara M. Putnam, for some time manager of the farm of William M. Wood, has moved from Lowell street to Avon street.

—The discussion in Andover on Woman suffrage is becoming interesting, but it doesn't need to be confined to the men. Why aren't the ladies saying something themselves and not quoting other people?

—J. H. Playdon has joined the ranks of automobile owners, having purchased a Ford truck for use in his florist business.

Ten Years Ago

—The senior class of the Punchard high school sponsored a costume dance last Friday evening in the Punchard high school auditorium with about fifty couples in attendance.

—The annual May Procession of the children of St. Augustine's Parochial school will be held Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. Miss Dorothy Hendrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Hendrick of 365 North Main street, will be the Queen of May.

—Albert Cole and Miss Charlotte Hovey were awarded prizes for best costumes and Morris Williams and Ruth Pratt for the prize waltz.

Loring Batchelder and Thomas Carter passed the First Class test, and Fred Doyle, Jr., John Little and Allen Munroe passed the Second Class test at the Court of Review held by the West Parish Boy Scout troop last Tuesday evening in the vestry. To Exhibit Print Of Famous Painting

A Medici print of the well-known painting Virgin and Child by Giovanni Bellini is on display at the library and is the fifth in a series of reproductions of paintings by old masters and outstanding contemporaries on a monthly loan to the library through an arrangement with Hale, Cushman and Flint. Bellini (1428-1516) belongs to the Venetian School and Ruskin said of him that he was the only artist who united, in equal and magnificent measure, justness of drawing, nobleness of coloring, and perfect manliness of treatment, with the purest religious feeling. Among the books in the library which deal with his life and work are "Masters in Art," v. 1 and "A History of Italian Painting" by F. J. Mather.

Library To Begin Summer Opening Hours

The Memorial Hall library will close at 6:00 p. m. on Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday during July and August. Hitherto during the summer the Junior room has been open only in the afternoon except on Saturday. Closing the library three evenings a week will make it possible to open the Junior Room in the morning. The Junior Room hours during July and August will be from 9:00 a. m. to 12:00 noon and 2:00 p. m. to 5:00 Monday through Friday, and 9:00 a. m. to 12:00 noon on Saturday.

School Children Hard To Eliminate

Either they must let up on teaching spelling in the local schools or run the annual Lincoln spelling bee in two heats. The fifth grade started out at 7:30 Friday night, and at 10:35 the finals were starting.

The fifth graders were hardest to eliminate, it taking 48 minutes before enough patterns, exhibits, knaws, operates, ignorants, sian-tifics, accomedates and embarsings had tripped off the young tongues to leave Marion White and Esther Kent the winners. Barbara Monroe and Alice Beaulieu won the sixth grade contests with diptheria and pneaumonia taking quite a toll before monarky finally settled the outcome. Winners in the seventh grade were Parbara Knowles and Jean Mulvey, with such words as screwpol, epedemic, minimam and sluce proving stumbling-blocks. In the eighth Allan Munroe and Gladys Deyermond won with an eronious abstinence from interlectural coresspondence helping in the result. The ninth grade and high school met together, and what a time they had on panacea—which can be spelled panicier, paniescia, panacier, panocior, and on inoculate, which had these variations: innoculate, inno-clate, and inaunculate. Leo Ryan and Barbara Lindsay survived.

Leo won the finals, Alice Beaulieu the second prize and Barbara Lindsay the third. "Gouge" was the last word.

THRU THE KNOT-HOLE

Well, it finally happened...after five straight victories in which they had outscored their opponents, eighty runs to fourteen...the Punchard boys were whitewashed by Chelmsford by a four to nothing count...As a matter of fact...they cuthit the visitors by 8 to 7...There were several chances to score...but Jim Doole, George Knightly's ace, was in there throwing them all the time...On the other hand, Bill Ferguson pitched a fine game...He shut them out without a hit for the last six innings...Five hits and two errors in the third ruined him...

Chelmsford now leads the pack without a defeat...Punchard plays at North Andover tomorrow against Johnson, in a game which will decide the second place position...

Red Cross Drive Receiving Splendid Response In Andover

EARLY RETURNS URGED ON RED CROSS DRIVE

The following telegram was received yesterday by the local Red Cross Chapter:

With several million men locked in mortal combat on French and Belgian soil, the relief needs of Belgian-French peoples are reaching staggering proportions. Already five million pitiful refugees are clogging every road into central and Southern France, trying to escape bombing and strafing from airplanes. Our representatives in France report thousands dying by roadsides of wounds, fright and hunger. American Red Cross must rush relief of every kind if these innocent people are to be saved. We are expediting millions of dollars in money and supplies, but we need more and bigger contributions to carry on. Cannot urge upon you too strongly the need for prompt action if we are to befriend these sorely tried victims of brutal warfare. We count upon you to reach and oversubscribe your goal within shortest possible time. Every day's delay means hundreds may die because we have not brought them aid in this their saddest hour.

Norman H. Davis

A fine start has been made by the local Red Cross chapter in its drive for $2400 for relief of civilians in the war-stricken areas. Up to Tuesday noon $1574.02 had been subscribed. The chapter hopes to go well over the top in its drive.

Contributions may be left at the Andover National bank or mailed to the treasurer, Philip Ripley on Abbot street.

The list of contributions to Tuesday noon: F. H. Jones, Wallace E. Brimer, Fred H. Eaton, Miss Marie Campbell, Burton S. Flagg, Miss C. M. Underhill, Mrs. P. B. Whittemore, William C. Richards, L. S. Andover Choir Surpasses Twelve Clubs In New England Federation Contest

The Andover Male choir won again! A general feeling of suspense impregnated the large audience of about fifteen hundred people who gathered at the Melrose high school auditorium last Saturday evening to hear the superb performance of thirteen combined glee clubs who had that afternoon competed for the prizes offered each year by the New England Federation of Men's Glee Clubs. The feeling persisted throughout the first hour of the program which was broadcast over a New England hook-up and through the concluding selections until finally H. J. Gurney, founder and president of the organization, opened the sealed envelope which contained the names of the winning clubs. A hush fell over the audience and only the cracking of knuckles could be heard as friends of the choirs crossed their fingers too hard.

In the first group, composed of clubs of less than thirty-one members, the Anchor and Ark Glee club of Maynard ranked first with 384 points while the Telephone Male Glee club of New Haven and the Plymouth Men's Glee club tied for second place with 375 points each. Of the clubs with 31 to 45 members, the Andover Male choir led with 497 points followed by the Portland Men's Singing club with 430, and in the third group, clubs with forty-six members or more, the Wollaston Glee club's rating was 472 points and the Highland Glee club of Newton. 465, making Andover undisputed winner of the Grand Prize with a margin of twenty-five well-earned points.

As Conductor J. Everett Collins walked down the long aisle to the director's stand to lead the combined choirs in the singing of the prize song, "At Twilight," the silence changed to a roar of appreciative applause. After asking the members of his choir to stand to share in the honors, Mr. Collins then asked if friends from Andover would rise in the audience. Almost 200 people rose. "Gee," said a member of one of the other clubs, "no wonder they won with all that support!" But it took more than support to earn the 497 points out of a possible 600; it took many weeks of hard practice to achieve the exceptional pitch, diction, tone, ensemble and interpretation with which the judges, Charles Dawe of Cleveland, Ohio, Frederick E. Tillotson of Brunswick, Maine, and Quincy Porter of Boston, accorded the local choir.

The contest was held at 1:00 in the afternoon with Andover singing tenth. Only one note was struck on the piano to give the choir the pitch and both the prize song, which was sung by each of the competing choirs, and the choice song, "Go To Dark Gethsemane," were sung without accompaniment. Although the preceding choirs gave fine performances, there was a marked superiority in the interpretation of the Grand Prize winners. Applauding was not allowed during the contest, but after the Andover choir sang their selections, there were whispers of "the best yet," throughout the hall. Even the singing at the annual concert in Memorial auditorium recently was inferior to the choir's performance at the contest.

Andover has been the winner of the Grand prize three times, the first time being in 1936 when the competition was held in Fall River, and the last two times being last year in New Haven and last Saturday in Melrose. Besides these major accomplishments the local choir has also been the recipient of eight other prizes, winning first and second places in the medium class at its first Federation contest in 1930 when it was called the Square and Compass Glee club. Mr. Collins has been the director since its inception.

The concert program was as follows: "Brothers, Sing On," Grieg; "Chorus of Homage," Gericke;

Posts Entertain Subs At Festive Reception

"The time has come," the walrus said," so the senior class put away their under-graduate manners and donned the more stately garments of "the graduating class" at the reception last Friday evening given in their honor by the Alumni executive committee. In fact, like the walrus, they got right in the swim, joining in the grand march with seniors and "grads" caught in the same whirl. The seven piece orchestra turned out to be an eight piece one (no complaints from the committee) which made the dancing all the more enjoyable. Birch boughs were the only wall-flowers and softly-lighted lanterns completed the decoration. Miss Ruby Laurie and George Gorrie were winners in the prize waltz.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene V. Lovely, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gould, Miss Eunice Stack, Joseph Doherty and Miss Evelyn Rutter composed the receiving line, and Misses Everdike and Antoinette Thiras, Helen Kimball, Mary Simeone and Mrs. Paul Simeone, Jr., served as ushers. Misses Gladys Downs and Betty Buchan were in charge of tickets.

Refreshments were served in the cafeteria during intermission.

Let Them Go

"Let's declare war on Germany; let us send our armies 'Over There' again." Almost unheard a few months ago in the United States, this cry has gained new impetus in the past two weeks since Germany did what she did 25 or so years ago, invade Belgium on a dash to France. After the Norwegian invasion, there were some men who urged that we join the struggle, and after the Dutch and Belgium invasion more joined in the cry.

Mature men, these who want us to go into the war? Yes, they are. In fact, most of them are pretty well along, so far along that no draft could touch them. If we enter the war, it will be old men who urge it, it will be old men who decide it, it will be old men who plan it. It will be young men who will lie dead on the fields of France, some of them dying perhaps not far from the spot that their dads died back in 1918.

It is hard to imagine just why the United States would declare war on Germany, for Germany has done nothing to us. Yes, some day an all-powerful Germany might do something to us, but we'll tackle that problem when it arrives—and we'll be prepared for it, too, thanks to our reawakened defense program. Few over here have any admiration for the present leadership of Germany, but the fact still remains that they have done nothing to us. We have absolutely no casus belli; let's hope we will continue to have none.

What does matter to us now is our economic life which will be affected by the drastic changes which would come about if a victorious Germany joined with opportunistic Italy, wary Soviet Russia and ambitious Japan in a world-dominating coalition. That's an economic problem, not a human problem; we can aid with our economic resources, we have no reason for aiding with our human resources. In every way, economically, we should aid the Allies, and then when it's all over, we would be in a better position, having helped them, to try to convince them that world peace does not lie in their domination of the economic life of the world but rather in a worldwide program of wiping out national boundary lines, economically speaking. The world will be no safer with an Allied victory in the long run unless the Allies—and the United States, too—do everything to correct the thing that caused this resurgence of Germany's desire for lebensraum, the thing that made Germany a fertile spot for the Hitler disease to develop in. We thought World War 1 was horrible; we have no adjectives to describe the mass murder going on today; what will another war 25 years hence be like? Let's avoid it by aiding the Allies to find a solution that will help all Nations alike.

In the meantime we cannot help, and we have no reason to help, by sending over our young untrained men to be added to the sacrifice. We despise Germany for invading Holland when Queen Wilhelmina had scrupulously avoided doing anything to Germany; certainly aside from some bombastic remarks in answer to our bombastic remarks Germany has scrupulously avoided doing anything to us. That being the case, the only thing we should do in this line would be to adopt a policy of sending to France only those men who feel that we should send men to France!

Obituary

Somerby N. Chase

Sunday morning, just a few short weeks before he was to wind up an excellent career at Dartmouth college, Somerby N. Chase, son of Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Chase of 13 Canterbury street, died of carbon monoxide poisoning in a tragedy that stunned the friends with whom he had grown up in the village, and his former classmates and teachers at Phillips Academy and at Hanover.

The young man had had an enviable all-round record at both the academy and at Dartmouth, gaining honors in scholastic pursuits, athletics and extra-curricular activities. At Andover he won his letters in football, hockey and baseball, and at Dartmouth he was on the hockey team. He held several class offices as well as fraternal positions.

Besides his parents, he is survived by two sisters, Alice, wife of Lester N. Thompson of Shawsheen, and Charlotte, wife of Homer W. Hanscom; two brothers, Ensign Elwood N. Chase, 2nd, of the U. S. N. flying service attached to the battleship Arkansas at Norfolk, Va., and Garfield S. Chase, Jr.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon, Rev. A. Graham Baldwin officiated.

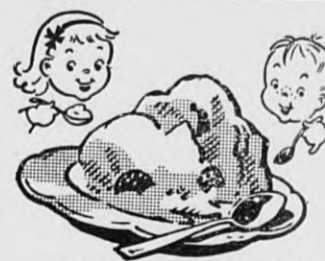

The bearers were: Harold Rutter, Robert Holland, Willard Currier, Elwood Chase, Homer Hanscom, Lester Thompson, Ralph Aulmann and Donald McCaffrey, the last two students at Dartmouth.

Burial was in the family lot in Merrimac cemetery, West Newbury.

BIRTH

A son to Mr. and Mrs. William F. Simeone of 87 Chestnut street, at the Lawrence General hospital, Friday.

News of Other Days

50 Years Ago A large audience at the Free church children's May Festival enjoyed instrumental music played by J. A. Smart, E. R. Foster, A. E. Hulme and Annie Smart...songs were sung by Rev. and Mrs. F. A. Wilson and a quartet composed of Misses Stott and Ashness, Messrs. Scott and Christie...After being bombarded for several weeks by Townsman articles aimed at over indulgence and general inefficiency of the Ballardvale fire department, the following subtlety appeared: "Our Ballardvale firemen may not have the experience in some lines of firemen's duties that others have, but as far as managing a clam bake goes, it is doubtful if their superiors can be found" ...further account of the day's events describes a game between the Vale and Lawrence companies which "bore a slight resemblance to baseball in some of its features, but many of the eccentricities can be laid to the umpire who was selected because of his ignorance of the game...Asst. Murray sent a lovely fly into the left river which ended the game, as they had no other ball"...

25 Years Ago Chief of Police Smith had some difficulty finding the owner of a stray horse, with wagon attached, roaming around the grounds near Arthur Tuttle's house in Frye village... William Lynch was finally discovered to be the rightful owner and after some delay the wandering animal was stable-ized..Building was at a maximum with new houses being built on Chestnut street by Postmaster John H. McDonald and Frank McDonald.

10 Years Ago The pupils of the Shaw-sheen school presented an operetta, "Cinderella in Flowerland" under the direction of Miss Miriam Sweeney and Miss Anne Harnedy and her corps of teachers...One of the notable guests who accepted Andover's invitation to the elaborate Tercentenary celebration was His Excellency, Governor Frank G. Allen...

TREES PLANTED BY TREE WARDEN

Thirty-two young trees were planted by the Tree Warden this spring as well as forty-five trees given to the town by the Andover Village Improvement Society and a few trees given by individual citizens.

Varieties planted were Sugar, Norway, Red and Schwedleri Maples, also elm and oak. Bone meal was used as a fertilizer and a new method of planting with a mixture of peat moss was tried this year. Results will be watched with interest.

Mrs. Greene Writes Book About Panama

In view of the newly awakened interest in Panama, both as a travel objective and as a critical spot in this country's defenses, there is an especial timeliness in the publication this week of a little book entitled "Panama Sketches." Andover residents, however, have an additional reason for interest, for the author of the book is Eleanor D. Greene, formerly of Bartlet street. Mrs. Greene is the wife of Colonel Edward C. Greene, who was transferred last September to the North Beach Air Field on Long Island; they are now living in Great Neck at a short distance from the airport.

Mrs. Greene's account of the pleasures and trials that confront a northerner settling in the tropics will bring back memories to army people who have been stationed there, and cannot fail to interest all her readers in this important corner of America.

Many Enjoy Exchange Ministers

Congregational church goers were kept in suspense as to who would be their minister last Sunday morning when the Andover ministers held their annual exchange of pulpits. Members of the First Unitarian church welcomed Rev. Frederick B. Noss while Rev. Cornelius Heyn of North Andover was enthusiastically received at the Free church. Rev. Herman C. Johnson addressed the Baptist church parishioners; Rev. Samuel Overstreet went to the South church. Rev. Donald H. Savage of the West church and Rev. David Segerstrom of the Union Congregational church, Ballardvale, exchanged pulpits.

A large congregation attended each of the churches and was well pleased with the arrangement.

Elect Dr. Chase Harvard Club Head

The metamorphosical reign of G. Grenville Benedict as president of Andover's Harvard Club came to an end Tuesday night in a way which demonstrated amply how thorough that metamorphosis had been. There was a time when Harvard club meetings had an atmosphere that verged on the erudite, (Harvard for "stuffy"), but today the intellectual stimulus, while not of course overlooked, is replaced by a good-time stimulus.

The Benedictine influence has had some very excellent results. Tuesday night the club had one of the largest attendances on record, as befits the second largest (proportionate to possible alumni membership) Harvard club in the world. Treasurer Valz was able to report that financially the club was in good condition, too.

Taking over the prexyreins will be Dr. Alston H. Chase, head of the Greek department at Phillips academy. Irving Sargent, who according to nominating committeeman Samuel Rockwell, has not made a single error in his duties as vice-president, was re-elected. Dino G. Valz, secretary-treasurer, retired, and in his place was elected a man by the name of G. Grenville Benedict. The new regime immediately dedicated itself to a pursuance of the policies of the old.

David MacCord, editor of the Harvard Alumni Bulletin, spoke briefly on the recent Federation meeting in New York and ended with several of his poems.

DOMINO AND CARD PARTY TO FINANCE CHOIR SUPPER

Outstanding American Paintings In Addison Gallery Exhibit

An outstanding group of American paintings from the collection of Stephen C. Clark of New York has recently opened at the Addison Gallery of American Art at Phillips Academy. Supplementing beautifully the notable examples of American painting in the permanent collection of the gallery, these paintings of Mr. Clark's complete a display of nineteenth century American painting which would be difficult to surpass.

Of especial interest are the splendid group of early Winslow Homers, painted before the middle of the 1870s: "The Morning Bell," "Croquet," "Return of the Gleaner," and "Weaning the Calf." These are all painted with the wonderful atmospheric effects, clarity of color and light, and simplicity of composition which make Homer America's best known painter. Two other paintings of the same style as the early Homers are "Eel Spear- ing at Setauket" by William S. Mount, painted in 1845, and "Rail Shooting" by Thomas Eakins. These nineteenth century paintings show the literalness with which artists painted at that time, the quality which makes Currier and Ives prints so popular.

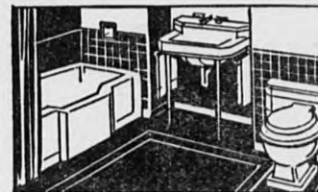

"The Forest of Arden" by the mystic painter Albert P. Ryder, has been shown at many important exhibitions, the most recent being in Paris in 1938, where it helped illustrate the development of American painting.

More modern painters are Arthur B. Davies represented by a landscape, and George Bellows with two striking portraits. One is a charming picture of his youngest daughter, "Lady Jean," in old fashioned dress, at about the age of ten. John Kane, the Pittsburgh house painter who has recently become famous, is represented by a view of "Through Coleman Hollow up the Allegheny Valley," painted in a childlike way, but with beautiful combinations of greens, and a striking effect of space and atmosphere.

Two contemporary painters are shown, both conservative painters:

Rare Steaks Held At Annual Potato Race

Spuds are all right in their place but they have more box office appeal on the dinner table than they'll ever have on a race track, it was decided Monday evening at the Shawsheen manor when the Adventurers competed for the annual potato race. It resulted that Mrs. J. Oram Sheppard had the only champ, winning by an eye, while the other competitors proved to have only small fry.

The balloon blowing contest turned out to be a big bust when Guy Howe accidentally (?) approached a glowing cigarette too near one of the balloons, indicating that the contests were more or less of an "out of the frying pan into the fire" affair. However, the competition in make-up, decided by applause, divided honors among Harry Emmons, Fred Hulme and Roland Fraser, who, having been rigged up as artists, glamour girls, washerwomen, etc., managed to look exactly like artists, glamour girls, washerwomen, etc. Lyman Cheever also showed artistic qualities as a soft shoe dancer.

A good time was had by all Adventurers and guests attending the banquet and the quips of William Hughes, toastmaster, did not pass unappreciated. In fact, a unanimous opinion proclaimed Mr. Hughes "a natural." After the banquet remarks were offered by President Clifford Emmons and ex-president Charles Armitage. M. Phillips Graham and Fred T. Cronin entertained at the piano.

Committee: William S. Hughes, chairman; Harry I. Emmons, Mrs. Frances Cheever, Miss Thisbe Grieco and Attorney Carl Gregg.

Century Old Company Began In Andover

"An Andover Printer Had An Idea In 1840." So runs the head of an article published in the April New England Editor and Printer in commemoration of the hundredth anniversary of George H. Morrill Company, today, the world's largest manufacturers of newspaper inks.

Samuel Morrill began his pioneering in inks in the kitchen of his colonial home which, it is understood, was on the corner of Abbot and School streets. Lamp black, made from burning oil collected after days of painstaking effort, was boiled with linseed in a vegetable kettle, poured in kegs and pails and delivered to Morrill customers, the number of which increased steadily as inks from abroad grew less and less satisfactory.

Mr. Morrill and son, George H., conducted a modest factory in an old book shop until the increased volume of business necessitated a move to the old brick machine shop of the Boston and Maine Railroad, the site of the present Andover Playhouse. Even here it was impossible to meet the demands of a growing market, so the next move was to Norwood where water power was easily available. Then follows a saga of American enterprise from a vegetable kettle in 1840 to 150,000 pounds daily capacity production of 1940.

THE FORD WAY OF DOING BUSINESS

The Ford Motor Company was founded by a working-man for working-men. Its present officers began as employees of the Company. It was the first company to pay a minimum wage, beginning in 1914, at the then astounding figure of $5 a day. That was double the prevailing wage of the time. The Ford minimum is now $6 a day for all employees engaged in production work. And from that, the wages rise to $10.80 a day, with the average wage $7.25, exclusive of salaried employees.

The Ford Motor Company was the first large company to establish the 8-hour day—also in 1914. And the 40-hour week was inaugurated by the Ford Motor Company in 1926, years before any such laws existed.

The Ford Motor Company employs men without regard to race, creed or color. It is common knowledge that working conditions in the Ford shops are the best that science and constant care can make them. A square deal, a just wage and stabilized employment for a large proportion of our employees—and as fully stabilized for all as conditions will permit—enable our men to retain their personal independence.

In consequence of these policies the Ford Motor Company has one of the finest bodies of employees in the world. The larger proportion are mature men of long service with the Company—sober, decent family men. Hundreds of them have been with the Company for more than 25 years—thousands for more than 15 years. Their health record, home ownership and citizenship records are good.

All this is reflected in Ford products, whether cars, trucks or tractors. The work is honestly done. Materials are the best that can be made or procured. Less profit to the Company and more value to the customer is known throughout the motoring world as "Ford's way of doing business."

Ford Motor Company was the first to make a motor car within the means of the average family—quitting the manufacture of what was then the largest selling model in the world to do so. Its chosen field in all the 30 years since that time has been the average American family—for which it has consistently provided car facilities which formerly only the wealthy could buy.

It is the policy of the Ford Motor Company to share the benefits of advanced methods and management with workers and public alike. Increased wages and employment over a period of many years have resulted in

A 300 per cent increase in the built-in value of the Ford car and a 75 per cent reduction in its price.

Henry Ford and Edsel Ford keep daily personal touch with all phases of Ford manufacture. In a conference with his staff, Henry Ford often says: "Go ahead—I'll sit here and represent the public."
