CONTINUE TO GIVE; THE NEED CONTINUES

The people of Andover have contributed over $5000 to the War Relief Fund of the American Red Cross. This is a splendid achievement. It represents a spontaneous effort on the part of our community as there has been no formal campaign. The Andover Chapter has done little more than announce the need and gifts poured in.

Although the minimum quota to Andover has already been exceeded, the need continues and is increasing. The invaded countries have become vast camps of refugees. The plight of these refugees is pitiable. Many of them are wounded. They have travelled long distances on foot. They lack shelter, food, clothing and medical supplies. Their own governments no longer have the resources with which to help them. Their only hope lies with the Red Cross. The Red Cross has received assurances from the invaders that its work will be allowed to go forward without interference. Continued effort and sacrifice on our part are required to carry it forward effectively.

Andover Chapter is urging our community not to rest with the achievement of our minimum goal, but to continue our help with undiminished enthusiasm. It is possible that some who wish to contribute to the fund have as yet neglected to do so, others will wish to increase their subscriptions. Perhaps still others may wish to make regular contributions to the fund over a period of time.

Andover Chapter will be glad to receive all gifts, large or small. They may be left with the Andover National Bank or sent to Philip F. Ripley, 7 Annot street.

War moves much faster today than it did 25 years ago—and so does public opinion. It took from 1914 to 1917 for the people of the United States to imagine that the European struggle was not another of the frequent fights for Europe's balance of power but rather an ideological crusade for the preservation of democracy. In these days of Blitzkrieg however the United States is subject to Blitzthought, too, and in a short nine months we have decided that this war is not another result of European power politics but again a crusade to make the world safe for democracy.

About a decade after the first World War the United States was pretty much convinced that it had been inveigled into joining a quarrel to decide who should have the balance of European power. It is not too much to expect that a few years after President Roosevelt for supposed ideological reasons has plunged us into this war we will have again wondered why we went into it.

As we erect our monuments to the heroes of World War Number 2—dead heroes—we may recall a few years hence just why we sent them over there to fight. We're saying today that we should help make the world safe for democracy; a few years from now we'll be wondering why democracy had not made the world safe for itself, we'll be wondering again just why the seed for this war was sown by victors who couldn't see that permanent victory demands that everyone everywhere have a right to economic well-being, we'll be wondering why European power politicians maneuvered back and forth, some of them making promises of non-aggression which they didn't intend to keep, others making promises against aggression which they were not prepared to keep, we'll be wondering why, with everyone else apparently knowing that Hitler had built up a murderous war-machine, leaders in Britain and France took things easy for eight months after declaring war, not putting their own munitions factories on full-time, not ordering from the United States until it was too late anywhere near enough planes, tanks, etc., to combat the Hitler peril. We'll remember that they fortified themselves with platitudes about Hitler missing the bus, Hitler running out of gas, Hitler falling in an internal revolt—and then, lastly, the platitude which seems to have a much better chance of coming true than the one about Hitler running out of gas: "in God's own good time, the new world with all its power and might will come to the rescue of the old." If only we had had a President last fall who had said to Europe: "Better not count on us; better do your own fighting. We've got enough to do to take care of ourselves!" Maybe then they would have run their factories at full-speed instead of putting more chestnuts in the fire for somebody else to pull out.

The United States should profit by the lessons of the past nine months. First of all, she should realize that blundering leadership put Britain and France where they are today, and therefore she should see that her own blundering leaders are replaced by capable men who know how to spend money wisely. Secondly, she should realize that inasmuch as she has President Roosevelt at the helm until January he probably will by that time have plunged the country into Europe's war, and realizing that, she should prepare herself to put up a winning fight so that we won't get burned in pulling out the chestnuts. And thirdly, she should make it clear that having, "with all its power and might, come to the rescue of the old world," the new world is going to have an awful lot to say about the peace terms so that no nation will be in such downtrodden condition that she will be fertile ground for the seed of such things as Nazism to grow and flourish in. We don't want world-domination by Germany, by Russia, by France, by Great Britain or by the United States—permanent peace will come only when every nation treats every other nation as an equal economically and politically.

Haverhill's 300th

Back in the days when Andover was "Andiver," bounded by the Merrimack, Rowley, Salem, Woburn and Cambridge, our wide-flung town had a neighbor across the river. Time has cut Andover down in area, and North Andover now separates Haverhill and Andover. Time has increased Andover in population, however, and nothing separates Haverhill and Andover in those intangible things that 300 years of history give a community. Haverhill is still our neighbor, and we hope that many Andoverites will pay homage to a fine city next week when its three-hundredth anniversary is observed with an excellent program.

Retiring Teachers Honored At Academy

Two long-time teachers at Phillips academy, Guy H. Eaton and Charles A. Parmelee, were honored by their fellow faculty members Friday as their retirements were announced at the annual luncheon. Mr. Eaton was presented a silver bowl, with his son, Norman, a graduating senior, receiving it from Dr. Carl Pfatfelcher who expressed the faculty's best wishes to the mathematics teacher whose illness forces his retirement. Henry S. Hopper presented a similar bowl to Mr. Parmelee.

Mr. Eaton, St. Lawrence university '03, was an instructor at West Jersey Military academy, principal of a Lebanon school, submaster of Maynard high and principal of Medway high before he was appointed to the academy faculty in 1909. Mr. Parmelee, Beloit 1901, taught at the Kenyon Military academy prior to his Andover appointment in 1906. Two leaves of absence have been spent in teaching at Harvard and the University of Paris. In 1914 his quick action saved the lives of many boys who were asleep when the famous Bartlet hall fire started.

The alumni day speakers were toastmaster Eliot Carter, Atlantic Monthly editor Edward Weeks, and Dr. Claude M. Fuess. Former headmaster Dr. Alfred E. Stearns was present as a member of the 50-year class.

Andover men named to office upon the report of Charles W. Arnold's nominating committee were vice-president Rodney W. Brown, secretary Frederick E. Allis, statistical secretary Scott Paradise and treasurer George F. French.

Wood On China Medical Aid Bureau

Two crises in China, a raging malaria epidemic and a shortage of gasoline which ties up drugs and surgical supplies in storage depots, a threat to the lives of 40,000,000 people, are the problems which face the new American Bureau for Medical Aid to China, of which Cornelius A. Wood has been named the American chairman by Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., National chairman.

Col. Roosevelt and Mr. Wood will name the members of the executive committee very shortly and will announce plans for the launching of chapter activities.

The Bureau has sent considerable quantities of quinine to China to combat the epidemic, but lack of gasoline retarded the relief work. The Bureau hopes to prevent the recurrence of a gasoline shortage by establishing a fund to guarantee a monthly supply sufficient to keep every truck moving on its life-giving journeys without a break.

Suggest Fireworks Money For Red Cross

To the Editor:

In a recent mail-bag letter in the Boston Herald the writer suggested that the money usually spent for "Red Fire" be used for the "Red Cross" this Fourth of July.

What better Declaration of Independence could we as a progressive town make?

The way to bring about such a constructive move would be to have our selectmen refuse to give licenses for the selling of "Red Fire."

When this is done Andover will have taken a great step forward.

Mabel M. Carter

Explosives

Dear Sir:

Will you please copy enclosed in the Townsman? It is quite proper and right. At a time such as we are having in this world a celebration of wastefulness is wicked. "To the Editor of the Herald:

With all the hardship and misery abroad at this time, it seems a shame to celebrate our Fourth of July with such a waste of hard-earned money. I might add, valuable money, which could be used for more useful purposes than buying firecrackers. Why not start a movement in this country to send the money that would be spent for our fireworks this year to the American Red Cross, in order to help the Allies in their great need?

S. B. Swain,"
A Subscriber

To the Editor:

Some weeks ago, Concord, Mass., gave the money they've usually spent on Fourth of July fireworks, to the Red Cross—Worcester did the same.

If this disappoints youngsters, wouldn't it make them realize how much bigger things little boys are going without overseas?

If July Fourth, June 17, and April 19, were just taken as jolly holidays and juvenile American histories re-written, as to the Revolution, I'm sure American children would grow prouder of their English parentage and not only be willing but glad to give their firecracker money to the Red Cross.

At any rate this horrible year let's not celebrate an utterly foolish day in a wholly silly way.

Frances P. McClellan

To the Editor:

As everyone is eager to help the Allies, particularly through the Red Cross, perhaps the children of Andover would like to do their share by giving up their usual noisy Fourth of July. With the co-operation of the shops, if no licenses were granted, this would be possible and the amount spent on firecrackers, etc., contributed to the Red Cross, would add another star to the crown that Andover has already won for its generosity and work for that organization.
