Alien Registration Lagging In Andover

Andover's registration of aliens is not progressing as fast as it should be, postal authorities here stated yesterday. Officially scheduled to start Tuesday, the registration up to yesterday afternoon had resulted in only 25-30 aliens going through the entire procedure which is absolutely compulsory for every non-citizen in this town.

About 75 specimen forms had been made out. These green blanks are given to aliens when they first appear and they may fill them out at home. Then they must appear in person at the post office where a transcript of the specimen form is made and where they are fin-

Marriage Intentions Mount Over 1939

Andover's marriage intentions in these pre-draft days finally went up above the 1939 mark yesterday afternoon. Last year at close of business on August 28, 87 couples had filed their intentions at the town house, and last night the 1940 total had reached 90.

Andover's increase has been much slower than many other communities have reported.

Plan Three Apartment Houses, Filling Station For Shaw Estate

Board Of Appeals Hearing Next Thursday On $150,000 Program

A plan to build three apartment houses and a filling station on the Shaw estate at 85 Main street will be the subject of a hearing next Thursday at 7 p. m. before the Board of Appeals in the town house. The property which the town was asked to buy a year ago as a site for a future town hall has not yet been sold by the estate, but it is understood that if the board of appeals does not disapprove, the sale will go through and the development begin. It would involve the razing of the house and barn, the second house south of the post office. The Grout property situated next to the post office is not involved, although it also was part of the municipal building proposal in 1939.

It is understood that some prominent persons from Watertown are interested in the place if they are allowed to go ahead with their plans. The filling station would be the only structure on Main street, where there is an estimated frontage of 150 feet. The station would take about 100 feet of frontage, and the other 50 would be used for a street and sidewalk which would

Andover Women Have Sent 3346 Garments To War Sufferers Through Red Cross

Last fall, when the American Red Cross first appealed for clothing for the Polish refugees, the Andover Chapter promptly went to work. The work has continued steadily through the winter and spring, and is still going on. The first shipment of finished articles was made last December, and others have followed almost monthly,—three went in June. Up to the first of August, the women of Andover, knitting and sewing in what time they could spare from other duties have made and contributed for the aid of the destitute war victims of Europe, the really astonishing total of 3346 finished garments.

Fifty-eight layettes, each complete in itself with 22 different articles, comprised 1276 items. Attractive dresses for women and children were cut out and made to the number of 320. Skilful fingers fashioned 398 sweaters for men, women and children, and knitted 260 pairs of socks. Boys' suits, underwear of various kinds, hospital shirts, convalescent robes and miscellaneous articles made up the rest.

This is a record of which not only the Chapter but the entire town may well be proud. It is no small thing for the busy women of a community to contribute so generously of time, strength and effort toward making unfortunate people more comfortable physically.

Norman Davis, head of the American Red Cross, has assured all chapters that, contrary to rumors, the shipments are going through, that they are not being interfered with in any way, that the distribution of clothing, medical supplies and baby foods is being supervised by our own agents, and that the Germans have not seized one cent of the Red Cross money nor a single item of its supplies.

With this assurance we may feel confident that our shipments will reach those for whom they are meant. A letter from Red Cross headquarters in Washington, and a card from William Giblin, Red Cross Representative in Marseilles, both thank the Andover Chapter for its fine work. Mr. Giblin adds: "Over here we can definitely appreciate and see its effectiveness."

More help is needed and our job is by no means over. It may be just beginning."

Andover's Red Cross work without a doubt will go on. If you know how to knit, start a sweater for pick-up work. If you are deft with a needle, come to the parish-house of Christ church on Tuesdays when women from all over town and all churches meet to sew from 10 to 4. If you neither knit nor sew, woolen or flannel material is needed, and money always helps.

Following are the items and the total shipped of each through July 26th:

Beanies, 71; Blankets, knitted, 3; Bloomers, 18; Bloomers on waists, 6; Capes with hoods, 1 infant's bag, 22; Combinations, 219; Dresses—Women's, 64; girls', 102; Children's dresses, 132; Infants' dresses, 22; Hoods, various, 30; Layettes, 58; Mittens, 10; Nightgowns, Women, 5; Children's nightgowns, 138; Panties, 149; Pants, Boys, 21; Petticoats on waists, 89; Robes, Convalescent, 5; Shawls, knitted, 3; Shirts, Boys' and Children's, 32; Shirts hospital, 25; Skirts, Women, 5; Girls' skirts, 14; Children's skirts, 1; Slips, 93; Smocks, 20; Socks, 260; Stockings, boys' 39; Suits, boys', 40; Sweaters, men's, 62; Women's sweaters, 108; Children's sweaters, 228; Waists, boys', 34. Total 3346.

Officer Deyermund's Condition "Fair"

After a midweek rally last week, he suffered a relapse and on Sunday night underwent an operation which failed to disclose the trouble. He has had several transfusions. This morning it was reported that his temperature had risen during the night.

He is survived by: his wife, Mrs. Mary E. (Traynor) Manning; one son, Leon G. Manning; two daughters, the Misses Mary and Helen Manning; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Manning of Andover; and a sister, Mrs. William R. Hickley of Andover.

Pearl Edward Wilson

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon for P. Edward Wilson, who died Sunday at his home, 265 Sutton street, North Andover. Services were conducted at the home by the North Andover Legion, burial following in Spring Grove cemetery.

Mr. Wilson was born in Burlington, Vt., in 1893, but had lived in Andover for a number of years prior to his removal a few years ago to North Andover. present, including Robert Bushnell and Messrs. Roberts, Crossley and Barnes. Mr. Haskell, running for Congress from this district, will be present as will most of the candidates for county commissioner and representative.

"The Young Men's Republican club sincerely urges every Republican in Andover to attend this rally," stated John M. MacKenzie, president of the club. "We are now going through one of the most important phases of Massachusetts history and it is extremely important that we have men best qualified to represent us in affairs of state. The Young Men's Republican club has worked tirelessly to give the Republicans of Andover an opportunity to see and hear those who are aspiring for nomination. To support this move, the pre-primary rally on September 5 should be well attended, that Andover Republicans might properly judge and determine the men who are to carry the Republican banner in November."

D. P. U. Studying Rate Question

A study of the foreign exchange telephone question raised by Selectman Roy Hardy in a letter to the department of public utilities last week is now in process, the department replied this week. Mr. Hardy had called the department's attention to the fact that the recent mileage charge reduction for foreign exchange had in effect been an increase, since the number of calls was limited to 70, on a foreign exchange business line, the cost per call being over 26 cents.

The reply follows:

Dear Sir:

This is to acknowledge and thank you for your letter of August 19, 1940 addressed to the Department of Public Utilities and referred to me in which you raise the question of measured service on foreign exchange telephone service.

I wish to inform you that at the present time we are considering many questions regarding this type of service and among them is the question you raised.

After we have gone into the matter thoroughly, we will be glad to make a complete report to you.

Very truly yours,

In Memoriam

Hylda Oram Sheppard

Born Hylda Goodfellow, in Wales, New Zealand, Hylda Oram Sheppard, because of the early death of her mother was brought up chiefly by her grandmother, a Mrs. Ronald of the Virginia Ronalds. She was still a girl when she married John Oram Sheppard of Christ church, New Zealand. Her grandmother accompanied the Sheppards to the United States in the first 1900's, and showed great coolness in the San Francisco earthquake and fire. Perhaps about 1903, Mr. Sheppard became an official of the Canadian Pacific Steamship company, which he still serves as Freight Expert, a very important position involving living at Hongkong. Small Arthur Sheppard, born in 1901, was sent to school at Baguio, in the Philippines. The climate of Hongkong is notoriously hard on white women, therefore when Arthur came to this country to pursue his education at Phillips Academy, Mrs. Sheppard accompanied him to Andover. Later on she kept house for him, an enrolled student at M. I. T. His tragic death in 1924 is still fresh in the memory of people here. Not long after, Mrs. Sheppard and Clara Louise Cleveland, Arthur's fiancée, went out to Hongkong for a lengthy visit. On the return trip, Mrs. Sheppard was taken very ill in India, of a combination of malaria and cholera. She finally returned to Andover, making her home at the Caronel apartments for the past 15 years.

That, in brief, is the story of an unusual life, which in spite of bereavement and loneliness, flowered into great beauty. It made no difference what the organization with which Hylda Sheppard was connected, she worked for it with devotion: this was true of her services to the Altar Guild and the

Sunday school of Christ church; to the Art and Drama Departments of the November club; to the Adventurers; and to the American Red Cross. Only this summer, she cut out more than 400 Red Cross garments. Her leading characteristic and desire was to do the task in hand perfectly, whether that implied putting up a luscious fruit juice or getting up a benefit. In other words, she was a perfection-

ist, and the way of the perfectionist is hard.

Among her best friends in town were many in the humbler walks of society. "She did a lot of good in Andover," is their comment on her unselfish life. In the words of Francis G. Peabody, "We know what immortality is by seeing and loving souls that are obviously immortal."

In Memoriam

Hylde Oram Sheppard

Born Hylde Goodfellow, in Wales, New Zealand, Hylde Oram Sheppard, because of the early death of her mother was brought up chiefly by her grandmother, a Mrs. Ronald of the Virginia Ronalds. She was still a girl when she married John Oram Sheppard of Christ church, New Zealand. Her grandmother accompanied the Sheppards to the United States in the first 1900's, and showed great coolness in the San Francisco earthquake and fire. Perhaps about 1903, Mr. Sheppard became an official of the Canadian Pacific Steamship company, which he still serves as Freight Expert, a very important position involving living at Hongkong. Small Arthur Sheppard, born in 1901, was sent to school at Baguio, in the Philippines. The climate of Hongkong is notoriously hard on white women, therefore when Arthur came to this country to pursue his education at Phillips Academy, Mrs. Sheppard accompanied him to Andover. Later on she kept house for him, an enrolled student at M. I.T. His tragic death in 1924 is still fresh in the memory of people here. Not long after, Mrs. Sheppard and Clara Louise Cleveland, Arthur's fiancée, went out to Hongkong for a lengthy visit. On the return trip, Mrs. Sheppard was taken very ill in India, of a combination of malaria and cholera. She finally returned to Andover, making her home at the Caronol apartments for the past 15 years.

That, in brief, is the story of an unusual life, which in spite of bereavement and loneliness, flowered into great beauty. It made no difference what the organization with which Hylde Sheppard was connected, she worked for it with devotion: this was true of her services to the Altar Guild and the

Sunday school of Christ church; to the Art and Drama Departments of the November club; to the Adventurers; and to the American Red Cross. Only this summer, she cut out more than 400 Red Cross garments. Her leading characteristic and desire was to do the task in hand perfectly, whether that implied putting up a luscious fruit juice or getting up a benefit. In other words, she was a perfection-

ist, and the way of the perfectionist is hard.

Among her best friends in town were many in the humbler walks of society. "She did a lot of good in Andover," is their comment on her unselfish life. In the words of Francis G. Peabody, "We know what immortality is by seeing and loving souls that are obviously immortal."

Many Attractions At Vale Carnival

OPPOSES DRAFT

To the Editor:

Conscription is an issue of the greatest moment to the American people, but those of us who oppose it know that those who are for it are serious-minded, too. However, I believe that the passage of the Burke-Wadsworth bill will mean the establishment in the United States of a huge industrial enterprise under a peonage system. I fear the lights of Democracy will go out for all of us in our lifetime, if we as individuals allow the United States to take the road to fascism and dictatorship. Therefore, I oppose conscription as being un-American.

MY FRIENDS!

THIS IS ANOTHER PROMISE

"It is my pledge and promise that rigid governmental economy shall be enforced by a stern and unrelenting government policy of living within our income. I ask you to assign to me the task of reducing the annual operating expenses of our national Government. Stop the deficits."

—Campaign pledge, 1932.

Recognition

"The chair recognizes the representative from Andover." It's been a long time since that statement has been heard down at the State House. There was a time when it was heard, a time when Andover benefited from its being heard, a time when the state benefited from its being heard.

It's only two weeks from next Tuesday that Andover will have a chance to have itself recognized again. There are three representatives to be elected from this district, and Andover certainly should get at least one of them. If Andover doesn't, either there's something awfully wrong with the present legislation regarding representative districting, or the people of Andover just don't care. It's hard to believe the latter.

For the past fifteen years South Lawrence has been representing Andover, and it just can't be done. No more can Methuen or Lawrence's Prospect hill represent Andover. One of those three positions in all fairness belongs to us, and we can have it if we go out and get it. If you're a Republican or an independent in the sense that you have never declared yourself in a primary, be sure to go to the polls on September 17th, ask for a Republican party ballot and do your duty by Andover and by the state.

Time To Pension F. D.

Some of the comment after the recent acceptance speech by Wendell Wilkie and this week's acceptance speech of Charles McNary came from a few of the prominent politicians who are still allied with the Rooseveltian Democratic party, and they seemed to stress the point that the two candidates had endorsed the so-called Rooseveltian reforms, such as the Social Security act. It really shouldn't be news to these termite that liberal Republicans have been endorsing Social Security for some time; and it really shouldn't be news to them that Mr. Roosevelt himself was one of the chief reasons for delay in putting the social security act into effect.

There's a man named Flynn, not the present chairman of the Roosevelt party, but a news commentator, a Democrat who supported Bryan and Wilson and Roosevelt in 1932. He has written a little non-partisan book about that man he voted for in 1932, entitled "County Squire in the White House," and it might be well for the Rooseveltians to refresh their minds on that social security program.

Mr. Roosevelt, despite a universal popular demand for social security, actually tried to postpone adoption of this program. Senator Wagner's first bill on it he refused to support. Over a year after he took office he stalled off a committee which called on him to urge action. After the Republicans denounced the President for doing nothing about social security, he finally appointed a committee to study it, this with the 1934 elections in the offing. After the election, he again let the matter slide and actually told one group: "The time is not ripe for old-age pensions yet." By this time there was practically a unanimous demand for it. The old committee submitted a proposal, he junked it and had one of his young brain-trusters draw up a bill which was so ill-formed that Congress didn't know what it meant. In 1935 a bill finally went through, with the rates charged the employer and the working man exactly twice what they needed to be, this in order to pay for the ordinary running costs of government. Last year he had to admit that the financial set-up was all wrong, and when anything is so bad that the President will admit it was bad, it must be pretty bad indeed.

Willkie and McNary are not endorsing a Rooseveltian idea when they endorse social security. They are endorsing an idea that Franklin Roosevelt had to be forced to.

The property goes back about 150 feet and then spreads out like a rectangle, and the first apartment house would be put up on the left-hand side of this rectangle. If this apartment house proved successful, the owners would erect another where the barn now stands, and if both then proved successful the third one would be built at the other end of the rectangle.

The filling station, it is said, would be an attractive Colonial one, similar to a prominent station in Lexington and in keeping with the town's beauty. The apartment houses would be Colonial brick, possibly with twelve apartments in each, and fitted with gas stoves, electric refrigerators, etc. It is understood that they would rent for about $40. If the entire plan were carried through, it is estimated that $150,000 would be spent.

The section is included in a business zone.

Championship Rodeo At Topsfield Fair

Replete with the color and trapings of a Texas roundup, the JE Ranch championship rodeo, largest western road show in the country, will open its week-long engagement at the Topsfield fair grounds with special pre-fair performances next Monday, Labor Day, in the afternoon and evening at 3:00 and 8:15.

The holiday performances will mark the opening of competition in such spectacular western sports as broncho busting, wild steer riding, bull-dogging and calf roping. Following Monday's events, the rodeo contenders will be given a day to rest up for the continuation of the contests during the 119th annual Topsfield fair which opens Wednesday and runs through Sunday, September 8. The rodeo will be the feature attraction every day of the fair except Sunday when it will be replaced by a gala stage show with popular radio artists in the leading roles.

The fact that the rodeo will be conducted on a prize money basis has drawn some of the nation's outstanding bucking horse riders, bulldoggers and ropers. Among the entrants are stars of the annual world championship rodeo at the Madison Square Garden, New York. Orville Stanton of Wyandotte, Okla., Curley McCall of Calgary, Can., Chip Morris of Wibaux, Mont. Bill Sawyer of Montrose, Colo., Ed. Davis of Fort Worth, Tex., are only a few of the headliners. Mildred Mix Horner of Brady, Tex., world champion cowgirl broncho rider, who won her title at the Madison Square Garden last October, will be the favored contestant in the feminine classes. One of her chief opponents will be Mary Parks, petite blonde from Walsenburg, Colo.

Added features of the rodeo will be American-version bull fights, basketball games on horseback, trick and fancy riding.

ger-printed. Then the statements are sworn to. The entire procedure takes about one-half to three-quarters of an hour for each person. In order to avoid taking too much time for each, the local authorities when the green forms are made out have been making definite appointments. However, in many instances the persons are not keeping their appointments and this may mean that they will be held up while someone else is being taken care of.

There have been no objections from local aliens yet on being fingerprinted, etc., with everybody so far being very willing to co-operate although some nervousness was shown.

If any aliens are sick or infirm, the post office will make arrangements to go to their homes, but the alien must contact the post office first as there is no canvass.

Every alien 14 or over is required to appear in person, and all under 14 must be fingerprinted. The penalty for non-compliance is a fine of $1,000 and six months' imprisonment.

Postmaster John McDonald is in charge, with Arthur Bliss clerk in charge. Additional employees are Eleanor Daly and Edmond Connolly in charge of fingerprinting and Mary Cronin and John McCartney typists.

State Still Urges
No Fishing

The desirability of keeping people away from public water supplies as a national defense emergency was a new note injected in the state health department's reply to the local public works board on the fishing question this week. Other than that little was added to the solution of the problem as to whether the state or town had power to issue licenses. The state recommends however that no licenses be issued, and it is claimed that the state can revoke any permits the local board may issue.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Phillips and family of Salem street returned this morning after spending the summer months at Denmark, Maine.
