To Extend Drive Extra Week for Service Men's Fund

September 14, 1944

Approximately 200 residents of Andover, Shawsheen and Ballard-vale are soliciting house-to-house in the drive for funds during the Andover Service Men's Fund drive. The Committee in charge, headed by Stafford A. Lindsay, chairman, J. Everett Collins, special gifts, and John M. Erving, aided by Anna M. Greeley and Hal W. Wennik, have spared no effort and given count-less hours in rounding out a thorough and complete organization to acomplish the coverage desired in the shortest period of time. The captains have done exceptionally well and splendid co-operation has been had throughout. The drive will have to be extended into next week, as all homes will not have been called upon by Sunday. Early returns by solicitors have not been up to expectations. This has come as somewhat of a sur-prise to the committee, but they feel certain that residents of An-dover will get behind this drive in (Continued on Page 5) psychologist offers some mighty sensible advice to husbands and wives separated by war. He believes "lack of tolerance" rather than loss of affection is most likely to cause postwar marriage difficulties.

The wife has built wonderful pictures of how perfect life will be when her husband gets back. And he dreams of evenings with her by the fire with a glass of beer, friendly conversation, and no problems or worries.

Of course, it isn't true that just getting back together will make life perfect. There'll be the same domestic problems, the same complications and adjustments, as always.

That's where tolerance is going to be mighty important. Tolerance for a husband who spills ashes on the carpet sometimes. Tolerance for a wife who spends a little too much money for a funny-looking hat. Yes, tolerance is a mighty good foundation for any marriage.

See You at the Playstead Dig Deep

It's in between the grass-mowing and the leaf-raking season, and if you have nothing to do Sunday afternoon — or even if you have something to do — make it a point to go down to the Playstead to see the Andover Town team in what may be its final game of the season. The boys have done the town proud this year, not only with an impressive string of victories against the best that New England semi-pros have to offer, but also with the clean, high-spirited brand of sportsmanship that they have exhibited. They've looked "Andover" all the way.

If you have seen them play, you'll probably be there anyway. If you haven't, drop down Sunday afternoon to help Andover give a rousing send-off to a great baseball season, with many more than three cheers for a swell bunch of boys and their very much interested coaches, Hal Wennik and Charley McCullom.

Court St. Monica, 783, Catholic Daughters of America, will hold its September social on Monday evening, September 18, at 7:30 in St. Augustine's school hall. All members are requested to be present as a very important announcement is to be made. One of those things that come up every once in a while and give an awful jolt to our complacent Andover smugness happened this week. We knew what magnificent work the Andover Service Men's Fund association has been doing for the young people from Andover in the service; we've seen letters from all over the world, letters which said that no other town is doing as much for its boys and girls as Andover is. So blithely we assumed that when the association conducted a drive for funds, the quota would be very much oversubscribed.

But the response hasn't lived up to expectations so far. There's another week for those of us who think so much of what our boys and girls are doing all over the world to do more than thinking about it. When the solicitor calls do your bit.
