Teachers Request That Salaries Be Paid On Weekly Basis

The men teachers in the local school system have requested, in a letter to the school board, that their salaries be paid on a weekly basis throughout the year instead of the present system whereby they are paid on the basis of 38 weeks. The question has been referred to the advisory committee and a report will be made at the May meeting at which time Superintendent Erickson will give the results of a questionnaire on the subject which is now in preparation.

The meeting, which was the regular organization meeting, resulted in the re-election of Arthur Lewis and William Doherty as chairman and secretary, respectively, of the school committee. Sub-committees are as follows for the coming year:

Memorial Gift by Lundgren Family

A tribute was paid the memory of the late Everett M. Lundgren last Monday night, when citizens attending town meeting stood in silence in acceptance of the gift of two safety boats and equipment for use in drowning accidents which have been presented by his family in his memory. The meeting passed the following resolution as presented by Selectman Roy F. Hardy, under Article 10 in the warrant.

"Mr. Everett M. Lundgren was a lover of the Town of Andover. He was one of those quiet yet thoughtful supporters of all constructive town movements. I move you that we extend a rising vote of thanks to the family of Mr. Lundgren for their very generous gift in his memory, and that this vote be spread upon our records, and that a copy of the vote be sent to his family."

P. A. Summer Session Starts June 27th

The 1945 Andover Summer Session, June 27 to August 22, has been announced by Headmaster Claude M. Fness. The curriculum will include the courses given by Andover in its regular year, with emphasis upon those of advantage as preliminary training. Daily assemblies will use documentary films and forum discussion to increase understanding of contemporary and post-war problems. Also featured are a special physical fitness program and, to relieve labor shortages, student work on school garden or neighboring farms. Ten competitive scholarships, covering the Session's over-all charge of $300, will be awarded to boys not previously enrolled at Andover.

Four New Firemen To Be Appointed

As a result of the action taken at town meeting to increase the appropriation of the local Fire department, Fire Chief C. Edward Buchan has announced that he will appoint four new regular men to the fire department for duty at the Central fire station. The move will mean that two more men to each of the two platoons will receive temporary provisional appointments. Permanent appointments will not be made until servicemen return and are available for the positions.

The civil service requirements for call firemen have been eliminated in accordance with action taken at town meeting.

Red Cross War Fund Drive Over Half Way To Goal With $12,400

Stafford Lindsey, chairman of the Red Cross War Fund drive, has announced that the half-way mark has been passed to date, with $12,400 already in. The goal is $22,500, which the committee is confident will be reached. Four more workers have been added to the house canvass in the Scotland district. They are Mrs. Alfred Kneath, Mrs. Emmanuel Gaudet, Mrs. Frank Crawford and Miss Polly Boynton.

Three New Fatalities Reported During Week

Andover casualties are mounting. The first local man to pay the supreme sacrifice over Japan, is Second Lieut. Robert W. Haigh, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Haigh of Washington avenue. Lieut. Haigh was the pilot of a P-47 Thunderbolt Fighter operating from the Philippine Island bases. He had been serving in the South Pacific since April of last year.

His wife, the former Helen E. Martinson, R. N., who is a member of the Lawrence General Hospital nursing staff, received a telegram from the War Department on Saturday morning informing her that her husband had been killed on February 15th.

Lt. Haigh was commissioned a second lieutenant on December 5, 1943. A brother, Donald Haigh, who is a radioman, second class, who is also serving in the Pacific area, and who recently took part in the invasion of Iwo Jima.

The sad news of a second local man killed in action, was received by the wife of Lieut. John Walter Reading, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Howell Reading of 303 Andover street. Lieut. Reading, according to the telegram sent by the War Department, to the former Anne Weston, of Boston, was killed on February 26, in France. He was

Pay Tribute to Beloved Pastor

A Memorial Service honoring the memory of Rev. Donald H. Savage, pastor of the West Parish Church whose funeral took place on Thursday, was held on Friday evening and was attended by relatives, friends and parishioners who filled the church.

Miss Marion Abbott, organist, played "Lead, Kindly Light," "Nearer My God to Thee," "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go," and "Abide With Me."

Rev. Frederick B. Noss, pastor of South Congregational church, Andover, gave the invocation, followed by the Lord's Prayer, Rev. James King, pastor of the First Congregational church, Lowell, read the Scripture, and Rev. Newman Matthews, pastor emeritus of West Parish church, gave the closing prayer and benediction. The organist played "Going Home" for the postlude.

A town meeting that definitely did exercise its own mind on Monday night added a new public service in the form of garbage collection, laid the foundation for a long-range sewer and water program, and expanded its recreational program while, at the time, it killed the move to appropriate any sum of money for observing the town's Tercentenary in 1946.

It was an orderly meeting, it was an interesting meeting, it was a meeting in which the voters listened respectfully to everyone's side of the story and equally as respectfully voted just as they pleased. New voices were heard, and some did a good job; many of the old voices also were at their usual effective best.

The town departments in their regular budget requests experienced no difficulties, the only changes from the previously published finance committee recommendations being a few increases for unpaid 1944 bills, a $500 increase for the library that the finance committee had apparently

Rev. Mr. Johnson's Resignation Accepted

At a church meeting held last night at the Free church, the motion to accept the resignation of Rev. Herman C. Johnson, pastor now serving in the armed forces, was unanimously received. A church committee of seven, previously appointed, will now look for a permanent pastor. Supplies will occupy the pulpit after Easter when Mr. Dunn concludes his duties.

a second pilot on a B-26 Bomber, had been in service since January, 1943, and received his commission on April 15, 1944. In December of last year he was assigned to overseas service. Besides his wife, whom he married last April, and his parents, Lieut. Reading is survived by two sisters, Carol Ethel and Anne Helene Reading.

Word was received by the parents of Pfc. John W. Neil that their son is reported missing in action in Germany since February 23. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Neil of 23 Balmoral street were notified by the War Department on Saturday. Private Neil holds the Combat Infantryman's badge, has been in the service since March, 1943, and went overseas in August of last year.

He has two brothers in the service, one of whom, Robert W. Neil, was reported missing in action over a period of three weeks. Then he rejoined his outfit. The other, Staff Sergeant Thomas M. Neil, USAAF, is stationed in France.

Staff Sgt. Roger W. Herrick, overseas only one month, died on February 24, from wounds received in Italy, according to word received by his mother. He was the son of Mrs. Ralph G. Herrick, 5 Hidden road, and the late Ralph Crosby Herrick of Winchester and Hollis, N. H. Sgt. Herrick attended Phillips Academy and Dartmouth, where he was a member of S.A.E. fraternity. In addition to his mother, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Howard Sloman, of Cincinnati.

Staff Sergeant Everett Gorrie, whose wife, the former Martha Thompson, received the news that her husband had been slightly wounded in Germany, was a member of the 76th Division Infantry, under General Patton's command. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Gorrie of 36 Salem street.

Pfc. George E. Monan, who has participated in four major campaigns and who has been awarded the Purple Heart, is among the first casualties to be announced as a result of the Iwo Jima campaign. The young Marine is now aboard a hospital ship where he is receiving treatment for torn muscles and splintered bones in his right leg which were caused by a shell fragment. In a letter to his mother, Mrs. Joseph L. Monan of 7 Argyle street, the young 20-year-old implied that the wounds were received very soon after the invasion of the island.

Monan was wounded and awarded the Purple Heart during the invasion of Tinian Island on July 25, 1944. He also saw action during the conquests of Saipan and Kwajalein atoll in the Marshalls.

Mrs. Monan is still awaiting word, after four months, from her husband, Technician, fifth grade, Joseph L. Monan, who is believed to be in Germany with the Signal Corps.

Corporal Weston D. Eastman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Weston F. Eastman of 20 William street, is also among the local men wounded at Iwo Jima. His were shrapnel wounds in the ankle received on February 24, but as of March 5 he was still on Iwo from where he expected to return to his base. He is a member of the Third Marine Division and has been overseas for twenty-nine months. He attended Brown University and before entering the service associated with his father in business.

It has been officially confirmed from Royal Canadian Air Force Headquarters that Warrant Officer Hugh A. Davey of 16 Brook street, was killed on active duty overseas.

The North District Community Association will repeat their variety show entitled "Sulphur and Molasses" Thursday evening, March 15, in Grange Hall.

Town Meeting

turned down, and a $6,000 grant from the overlay reserve to take care of the emergency snow removal.

In other respects the finance committee did not fare so well. It had approved the Tercentenary, it had approved the street sweeper, it had disapproved the garbage collection article, it had disapproved the private way snow appropriation, it had disapproved the Ballardvale playground purchase, it had cut the recreation program from $1500 to $500—and the town meeting just decided to do the opposite on all of them.

Water Program Adopted

There were no fireworks at all until Article 5, when freshman member Edward Doyle of the Board of Public Works spoke feelingly on the $150,000 water appropriation, claiming that all that was needed was a new reservoir or two. Edward V. French of the special water and sewer committee had presented an able resume of the lengthy report of the engineers, a report whose thoroughness and comprehensiveness swept the initial part of the program through town meeting with scarcely a negative vote. The vast amount of work that the committee, Sidney P. White and Joseph A. McCarthy in addition to Mr. French, did in the past few years in the preparation of the long-range program was cause for a rising vote of thanks.

The next verbal pyrotechnic display came under Article B, when the town finally decided, perhaps without being sure just what it was doing, not to appropriate money for a post-war Tercentenary celebration. The argument started off ably and amiably enough with a splendid report for the special report for the special committee by Dr. Claude M. Fuess. Further support for the Phillips Academy headmaster came later from committee members Roy Hardy and Leo Daley, but with the issue still in some doubt, a few more words at the right moment might have made a big difference. First objection came from John MacKenzie, erstwhile school committee member, who, stating that he had staged a flag day parade which cost nothing and made something, felt that $21,000 was too much and amended it to $10,000, the balance to be appropriated later. V. Malcolm Laitinen, whose article for curbing on Stratford road had been tee with the assertion "More important expenditures to be taken care of this year," asked that the Tercentenary appropriation be postponed a year. Mr. MacKenzie's motion was tossed out.

Brass Bands and Banquets

C. Carleton Kimball professed a great admiration for the men on the Tercentenary committee.

of 1946, the period from March to May of that year would not be long enough for the committee to prepare the celebration, more particularly the pageant and the town history. Vincent Treanor suggested that about 60% would be returned to the town. Dr. Fuess reaffirmed that there would be no celebration if the war were still on, and said that if the war had ended it certainly would be a time for rejoicing as well as fasting and prayer. At that point the $5000 amendment was thrown out by a vote of 288 to 311.

Lieutenant James Scobie of the Navy arose to drive the final nail in the coffin with a statement that the town should wait until the war was over, for "what difference would it make if the Tercentenary were celebrated on the 301st or the 302nd year?" The original $21,000 motion was then defeated.

No Street Sweeper

Things then quieted down for a while. It wasn't until Article 14 that another uprising occurred, and this time the Board of Public Works was the victim. The finance committee had approved the $4,000 street sweeper, but the town wouldn't. Chairman White stated that it would save its cost in three years, but Wallace Brimer, who said he had been told by Mr. White that the machine would be used only two months a year, found it hard to believe that a machine could save a $4400 cost in six months of operation. Mr. MacKenzie, who told of his work in trying to find motors for naval work, stated that this machine would take away needed parts from the war effort; Mr. White reported that the machine was already built and so would not hinder Mr. MacKenzie's efforts to keep the Navy afloat. The town wasn't in a buying mood in this case.

On to Garbage

What it really wanted was to have its garbage collected! That's why the hall was filled. It quickly slapped down the Rogers Brook work, cost $9,000, despite Mr. White's presentation of the case—one man who said his garbage hadn't been collected since November, wanted to know if it would be all right to throw it into the brook. The meeting threw out the $500 request for repair of the bandstand, and also the implied request that the thing be torn down. The meeting was in a hurry; it wanted to get on to the chief piece de resistance. It raced through the next few articles, spending here, saying way, way back in the warrant, whereas its passage earlier in the meeting might have changed so many things.

The argument on garbage was, as expected, seriously humorous. People could afford to laugh—they knew how they were going to vote—and it added a little zest to the menu to have the draft board clerk tell of paying $5.00 to a man who sary to follow the finance committee's recommendation that another committee of five study the matter for another year.

Rev. Frank E. Dunn of the Free Church next spoke, and told of his surveys in other towns, adding that it was a service that should be rendered by the town. Statistics from other towns he said, would show that possibly 2100 towns could be served by $4,000. B. P. W. chairman Sidney White disputed it, and felt sure that all the streets wouldn't be taken care of; Mr. MacKenzie said that all the streets weren't taken care of in the snow-storm either; B. P. W. member Barron objected to the ungermanity of the last reference, and Moderator Shepard, acting just a bit as if he hated to do it, advised Mr. MacKenzie to stick to the subject.

Louis Finger, finance committee spokesman in the absence of its clarifying chairman Harvey Turner, stated that at the time of the committee's action on the garbage question, insufficient information was not available, but that apparently in the meantime someone had gotten sufficient information.

James Mosher volunteered the information that three persons were already interested in the proposed contract.

There wasn't much more to it. Someone in the back of the hall ventured that there wasn't much point in talking any more—everybody knew how they were going to vote anyway—and after one or two more comments from persons whose money, but not whose garbage, had been collected, Andover overwhelmingly went into the garbage.

C. Carleton Kimball professed a great admiration for the men on the Tercentenary committee, but felt that under present war conditions it was unfortunate to think of brass bands and banquets when praying and fasting instead should be indulged in. He substituted an amendment calling for $5,000, with the committee being instructed to emphasize the seriousness of the Tercentenary. Leo Daley stated that if the war is still on at that time, the committee has no desire to celebrate them. He claimed however that if the war were to end by then and a Tercentenary celebration were in order in May be all right to throw it into the brook. The meeting threw out the $500 request for repair of the bandstand, and also the implied request that the thing be torn down. John MacKenzie, who was on a committee which investigated town garbage collection on a town meeting vote a few years back, a committee whose report unfortunately had not been filed at the town house where the finance committee could have gotten at it, fired the opening gun with a review of the work of that committee, and remarked that it didn't seem neces-

FROM THE STARS AND STRIPES

Alfred Grenier, clerk in war plant office in Andover, Mass., cried over his mistake and promised he would be more careful hereafter. Grenier pressed the lever of what he thought was a paper-stapler, but it turned out to be a tear-gas gun, kept handy in the event of attempted payroll theft.

Arnold Schofield is now in Germany and received his first Townsman lately.

J. William Holland LOMM-3/c has met several Andover boys in various places overseas. He is now on a sub-chaser, but while in England he met Bobby Auchterlonie of the Seabees, Eddie McGrath, who is with the Military Police, and Thomas McNamara, who is on a Navy LST boat. He also met Corp. Burton Jenkins as he was embarking for the front in Germany.

AN EIGHTH AIR FORCE LIBERATOR STATION, ENGLAND—First Lieutenant Robert C. Cowan, husband of Mrs. Miriam Cowan, of 11 Locke St., has been awarded a fourth Oak Leaf Cluster to the Air Medal, "for meritorious achievement in accomplishing with distinction aerial operational missions over enemy occupied Continental Europe. The courage, coolness and skill displayed by him in the face of determined opposition materially aided in the successful completion of these dangerous missions. His actions reflect great credit upon himself and the Armed Forces of the United States."

A navigator of a B-24 Liberator, Lieutenant Cowan has taken part in bombing missions to Magdeburg, Bingen, Karlsruhe, and other war production centers of Germany. He is a member of the 446th Bomb Group, which completed more than 200 missions against enemy targets. It has participated in the Eighth Air Force's steady bombing of the principal targets in Europe—German oil industries, airplane factories, and the communications systems upon which her industry and army depend. Before D-Day, the targets included coast defenses, flying bomb sites, airfields and troop concentrations. The group has dropped more than 12,000 tons of bombs and has flown over 4,500 sorties against the enemy. The same planes which bomb enemy installations have also flown medical and food supplies to the people of France.

Lieutenant Cowan entered the service January 29, 1943. He attended the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and received his wings at Selman Field, in Louisiana.

Captain F. A. Stott Wounded on Iwo Jima

Captain Frederic Stott has been wounded for the second time, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic W. H. Stott, this week. Fred had been wounded on Saipan, where he had won the Navy Cross for extraordinary heroism. Ten days after Iwo Jima's D-day, on March 1, Fred was in command of a rifle company "in a hot spot" going from one advance platoon to another when a mortar shell exploded near him. Shrapnel hit his left leg, cracking a small bone, while his arms and legs were peppered with small fragments of shrapnel. He rolled into a shell-hole where there happened to be a medical corpsman. By stretcher and ambulance jeep, he was taken to the beach, and left Iwo Jima aboard a hospital ship. A letter received by his parents yesterday said his leg had been put in a cast and that he was in a hospital.

AN EIGHTH AIR FORCE LIBERATOR STATION, ENGLAND—

First Lieutenant Robert C. Cowan, husband of Mrs. Miriam Cowan, of 11 Locke street, has been awarded a third Oak Leaf Cluster to the Air Medal, "for meritorious achievement in accomplishing with distinction aerial operational missions over enemy occupied Continental Europe. The courage, coolness and skill displayed by him in the face of determined opposition materially aided in the successful completion of these dangerous missions. His actions reflect great credit upon himself and the Armed Forces of the United States." A navigator of a B-24 Liberator, Lieutenant Cowan has taken part in bombing missions to Magdeburg, Sinzig, Bingen, Kiel, and other war production centers of Germany. He is a member of the 446th Bomb Group, commanded by Col. Troy W. Crawford, of El Paso, Texas, which has completed more than 200 missions against enemy targets. A veteran group in Major General William E. Kepner's Second Air Division, it has participated in the Eighth Air Force's steady bombing of the principal targets in Europe. German oil industries, airplane factories, and the communications system upon which her industry and army depend. Before D-Day the targets included coast defenses, flying bomb sites, airfields and troop concentrations. The group has dropped more than 12,000 tons of bombs and has flown over 4,500 sorties against the enemy. The same planes which bomb enemy installations have also flown medical and food supplies to the people of France. Lieutenant Cowan entered the service January 29, 1943, and at the time was employed by H. P. Hood & Sons, Boston. He attended the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Corporal J. William Burke of North Main street has returned to duty in the South Pacific area. He has been at the Chelsea Naval hospital where he has been undergoing treatment for an illness contracted while on duty. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Burke.

RED CROSS NOTES

The sum of $75.00 has been withdrawn from the Junior Red Cross Service Fund and has been contributed to the Red Cross War Fund.

Junior Red Cross members in the various schools throughout the town will not be asked to make individual contributions to the Red Cross War Fund.

School students throughout the town have been asked to meet an appeal from Junior Red Cross Headquarters for 200 ash trays. It is hoped that this quota will be met before the last of April. So far the response has been splendid.

During the past week several sixth grade art classes made 130 attractive tray favors under the direction of Mrs. Henry Stevenson. These tray favors have been sent to area office for distribution on hospital ships.

The girls and boys who made the favors thoroughly enjoyed this project of service.

Many Kleenex Containers for the Lawrence General Hospital have been made this year by Junior Red Cross members.

The Shawsheen School has already sent 1800 of these containers to the hospital. The Junior High School has sent approximately 1200 with Stowe School well on the way toward the 1,000 mark.

To Extend Post-War Telephone Facilities

Good news for rural families, both farm and non-farm, who do not now have telephone service, is contained in the announcement of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company that it has filed with the Massachusetts Public Service Commission a revised schedule of construction charges under which the Company will build without cost a half mile of line along the public highway for each rural applicant for service. In the past, the limit has been a quarter mile. Actual construction in most cases, of course, will have to wait until after the war when materials —now being manufactured almost exclusively for the armed services—again become available.

Charges for construction beyond one-half mile have in the past been lowered as the result of economies being effected by the use of long-span construction and other new-type developments in the use of buried wire may be anticipated.

The Company estimates that it will increase its investment in rural lines and equipment, as soon as war conditions allow, more than three million dollars to provide service for an additional 25,000 rural families. Even under war conditions, the number of rural-line telephones in the Company's territory has increased by nearly 16,000 since 1940, and many more rural customers have been provided with individual and party-line telephone service.

Over a long period of years the Company has maintained a record of reducing the costs of rural service and of bringing its advantages to more and more families. The program which was interrupted by the war had gone a long way in this direction, and it will be resumed as soon as war conditions permit.

Town Meeting Ramblings

If editorials are supposed to prove anything, this one won't be worth reading, because we're just going to think out loud about town meeting.

It was a pretty good meeting. It had its fun, but it didn't let its fun interfere with its common sense. It could applaud boisterously one speaker's suggestion that the Board of Public Works use the old dump for a sand pit — and then turn around and vote 339 to 1 against the idea. It applauded another speaker's fiery talk about reservoirs and extra horses, and then sat back and endorsed the carefully thought-out plan of the water committee. Maybe something could be proved there; maybe the town meeting likes fun, and maybe it likes fires — but when it comes to a showdown, it's common sense that gets the votes.

The Tercentenary vote is still bothering us. We don't think the meeting meant to defeat it. The way we figure it, and maybe we're wrong, is that on the first vote for $11,000 and the second for $5000, the amounts were defeated by a total vote which included those who were against spending anything and those who were against spending anything less than $21,000. And the final vote on $21,000 was defeated by those who wanted to spend nothing and those who wanted to spend something less than $21,000. We can't help wondering what would have happened if the $21,000 had been voted down first. Would those who wanted the whole sum have been willing to compromise on $11,000 once they had been told they couldn't have $21,000?

And something else we're wondering about. We have a suspicion that in approving this article, the finance committee may have defeated it, because too many people who were intensely interested in garbage collection became pretty much peeved when their $4000 was so summarily dismissed and the $21,000 was approved by the finance committee. A certain amount of political astuteness is needed by that committee, because a little give-and-take is helpful at times. It's handicapped a great deal, everyone will admit; to get good men on a committee, you have to have men good enough to be kept busy at their own business, and when you get that type of man, he doesn't have much time to investigate matters too closely. And the requirement that its report be completed early means too that it can't have the opportunity to hear as much crystallized public sentiment as it would have if another two weeks were granted it. Getting people angry on a thing like garbage collection does so much to jeopardize other worthwhile things.

We still can't help but think that Andover wants a celebration. Dr. Fuess did a swell job, and emphasized that the celebration definitely would not be held during the war but somehow some people had gotten their backs up, and in this one instance wouldn't apparently listen to reason.

We wonder what would have happened if the selectmen hadn't placed this article up near the top of the warrant. We wonder if the people had been allowed to vote for garbage collection first, if possibly they would then have relaxed their resentment against the fin. com. action. We wonder if the matter had been reconsidered after the garbage vote whether possibly there would have been a celebration appropriation.

Well, what's done is done. But maybe what's done will also provide a few lessons for the future.

Town Meeting

bage collection column, the only reservation being that the initial contract be approved by the selectmen as well as the Board of Health.

Then it was time for the other reason many people came: recrea- tion. The tragic drowning in Bal- lardvale during the winter had brought things to a head, and An- dover's voters had decided to do more for more children. By this time in the evening, many of the voters would have gone home, ordi- narily, but the hall was still pret- ty well filled.

It didn't take long to buy Hus- sey's pond in Shawsheen for $1250 and to add another $300 for the Poms pond committee to clean it out. It took a little longer to buy a piece of land adjacent to the Ballardvale playground, but it only took $1000, this being pretty well in excess of its value even at that. The appropriation also included $1500 for alterations. Randolph Perry and Rev. Mr. Dunn again spoke on this article—and another clergyman, Rev. Mr. Kenseth of the Vale whose "moudly broccoll" com- munication a week ago added a little spirit to the pre-town-meeting garbage controversy, gave a fine presentation of the case from the viewpoint of the Vale and of youth in general.

The $1500 request for an expand- ed recreational program which had been diminished to $500 by the finance committee was expanded back to $1150 by its sponsor, Rev. Mr. Dunn.

And that was about it. In the few remaining moments Roy Hardy re- ported that the committee which was appointed to consider the possi- bilities of the Shaw property had decided not to consider the possi- bilities until the boys come home, and John O'Connell was successful in moving that the Tercentenary committee be continued another year, even if without funds.

Quite a few things happened dur- ing the meeting that didn't carry the interest of garbage and brass bands. Among them were: approval of $25,000 for war bonds to be used for post-war rehabilitation; $1700 for a police automobile; acceptance of two safety boats from the fam- ily of Everett M. Lundgren as a memorial to him, and acceptance of a tribute by Mr. Hardy to the Late M. Lundgren; $125 for an under-water light; $5000 for new sidewalks; $1500 for bleacher re- painting and repairing; $1000 for Chapter 90 work; $400 for new sand facilities on Lewis street; $1000 to continue the water and sewer study; $780 for some old tu- tion bills from Tewksbury; $600 for State-aided vocational educa- tion; $575 for a cemetery compres- sor; acceptance of an easement for the start of sewer work from Elm street to High street; appointment of a committee to study an overall recreation program; removal of Call firemen from civil service reg- ulations.

Withdrawn were the articles calling for $11,000 for the Elm street sewer, this having been tak- en care of in the earlier sewer ar- ticle, and the article calling for $2500 for Stratford road curbing. Defeated was the article calling for $950 for Corbett street curbing, and another calling for $200 for a walk in the park.

CRIED ALICE

ANYTHING Alice saw through the looking-glass could hardly be more of a wonder than the switching equipment in a modern telephone Central Office.

Here Alice would see where thousands of pairs of wires come together, and marvel at the telephone magic by which any two pairs may be instantly selected and joined to complete a call. A mechanical wonderland, indeed!

We expect delivery within the next several months of new central office equipment like this for use in certain places where traffic has become especially heavy. This is just part of a carefully planned program to care for New England's growing telephone needs and civilian construction halted by war.

Naturally it will take time to install this equipment because every one of those thousands of pairs of wires must be connected just-so by hand. But experienced installers will be ready when the equipment arrives to put it in service with the least possible delay.
