Five-Year Old Boy Injured on Elm Street

William J. Crowley, Jr., five years of age, of 43 Elm street, was treated at the Lawrence General hospital on Tuesday afternoon for injuries received in an accident near his home.

Upon examination at the hospital, he was found to have sustained abrasions of his shoulder, back, chest, knees and elbow, but was released after treatment.

Officer David Gillespie investigated for the local police and, according to his report, James Farnsworth of 147 Elm street, who was traveling east on Elm street, had just passed a gasoline truck when he thought he heard something fall off the truck. Stopping his machine, he got out, but the driver of the truck was picking up the boy, who was removed to the Central Fire station and then in the ambulance to the hospital.

The report states Mr. Farnsworth said his car did not strike the boy.

Former Phillips Teacher Investigated Hitler Bomb Plot

A former member of the Phillips Academy faculty, T/3 Walter Hasenclever was one of the Army Intelligence officers who helped to piece together the story of the failure of the bomb attempt on Hitler's life, staged in July of last year.

Hasenclever, an anti-Nazi who was expelled from Germany because one of his ancestors was Jewish, was one of the group of G-2 officers who examined hundreds of reports to find out the story behind the failure of the plan. It seems that Col. Von Stauffenberg carried a time-bomb in his briefcase into the room where Hitler was. He then left the room, but when the bomb exploded, Hitler had crossed the room to look at a map. Von Stauffenberg was later shot by a firing squad.

Servicemen's Carnival August 23, 24 and 25

The Andover Service Men's Association will hold their annual Carnival on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, August 23, 24 and 25, on the local Playstead. It is expected that the usual booths will be put up and the committee, under the direction of General Chairman Walter Young is beginning to start work on the various details to make this Carnival a huge success.

Why not put a "circle" around these dates on your calendar now so that you'll be in attendance and help swell the Service Men's Fund?

Connecticut Watercolors On Exhibit at Gallery

Accompanying the exhibition of paintings by Life Magazine war correspondents at the Addison Gallery is a group of watercolors from the Connecticut Watercolor society. There are thirty-nine pictures representing as many artists, and almost as many individual styles. Included is "American Pace," a crisp and amusing watercolor by Stephen Dohanus of a large, grayed Victorian house, in the front yard of which is a clean and modern gasoline station. By contrast, "Gloomy Mountain" by Elizabeth Creamer, is a sensitive painting of a mountain top in the clouds, full of mood delicacy. The exhibition will remain at the Gallery until August 13.

AMERICAN HEROES

by WOODY COWAN

ALONE, thousands of miles from home, in the face of bursting phosphorous grenades, Sgt. Clifford S. Denslow, Dearborn, Mich., took a flame thrower, that the War Bonds some thoughtful person back home had bought to put into his hand, and advanced through the thick jungle to within a few feet of blazing hostile pillboxes. He was in a tight spot but he kept going. He turned on the flame, completely destroyed the emplacements and their machine guns and killed eight Nips.

Could you take a layoff SMILING?

Job layoff is one of the uncertainties of a working man's life. It might only be a temporary period of unemployment—perhaps a month or a few weeks. But unless you have a financial reserve in the bank, you're not likely to accept it smiling. There's only one way to prepare for such emergencies—SAVE! Deposit weekly amounts and soon interest and savings will accumulate to the point of SECURITY.

Rockport Wins by Narrow Margin After Hard Game

The Town team lost the first game of the season Sunday when the Rockport Town team was victorious by a score of 2-1. A misjudged fly to the outfield, allowing the runner to reach second base, from where he later scored on an infield hit, was responsible for the winning point in a game which was full of surprises all the way through.

Next Sunday the Andover Town team will play the strong Camp Langdon Service club from Portsmouth, New Hampshire. The game will be at the playstead at 3 o'clock.

PART OF LOOT RECOVERED

Stanley Smith, who conducts the What-Not Shop at 6 Central street, reported to the local police that his place of business had been broken into some time between 7:30 o'clock Monday night and 7:00 o'clock Tuesday night. A bicycle, tires, tools and wheels, as well as a .22 caliber revolver, were taken in the break. Officer Frank McBride, assisted by Officer James Lynch, investigated. All of the loot, with the exception of the gun, has been recovered. Upon investigation, it was found that the break had been made at 10:00 a. m. on Tuesday by an eleven-year-old boy, who at first tried to implicate several other boys. After further grilling, the boy stated that he made the break himself. The juvenile was released in custody of his parents.

plans for a new $8,000,000 Research Laboratory. This expenditure has tremendous significance. Scientific research has contributed much to our progress as a nation.

"Many things have been discovered during this war, and we can and must develop them into better things for peacetime.

"Today we have 550 research people on our staff. These new facilities will not only give increased outlet for their abilities, but will provide opportunities for new research minds with new talents.

"From this new laboratory we think new achievements will come. In the past, G-E research has contributed much to better living in America—not only through new developments in x-ray, chemistry, but also through reduced cost and increased efficiency, as in the modern incandescent lamp.

"Even more than in the past the laboratory will emphasize research in pure science—continuing and expanding the work begun by Dr. Whitney and the late Dr. Steinmetz forty-five years ago.

"To find new facts of the physical world, to extend the limits of knowledge, is a forward step in creating More Goods for More People at Less Cost."

Many of the borrowers at the library have stopped to ask about the picture on exhibit near the door of the reading room. The picture, done in oils, was the winner of the first prize in the school art competition. Joan Capen, the young painter, chose for her subject the interior of the reading room of the library, and from the comments of those who stop to study it, she has captured the outstanding features of the room. The picture will remain on display for a while longer.

Can't-Be-Botheredness

Many an otherwise good civic movement has petered out here in Andover because of an attitude of "can't-be-botheredness" on the part of many, even most, of the town's citizens. The same attitude leaves its marks on town government, because if more good citizens could be bothered to become candidates and if more good citizens bothered themselves enough to go out and vote for them, our town would be minus many of the misfits that are now holding important positions.

You see that attitude in every phase of town life. You see it Sundays at the ball game; people just can't be bothered to turn out. You see it through the year at the Red Cross work in sewing or in making surgical dressings; it's only the same few of our ladies who can be bothered enough to spend a little time helping in this great work. You see it in the paper drives, because we start getting that attitude young; it's the same kids each collection who give their name and effort in this work. You see it in the Servicemen's Fund work; the same persons year after year are doing all the work.

We need a more widespread civic conscience; we need others to help carry the ball once in a while. Unfortunately what often happens is that the worthwhile people who are prominent in directing the various activities get pretty much worn-out and in fairness to themselves have to give up. Then others step in, some of whom have also been doing their part, some of whom are in it for what glory they may get out of it. Gradually the movement peters out; it wouldn't have if others had dropped their blase hands-off attitude, and, instead of sitting at home playing cards or gabbing, had really lent a hand.

You could take Andover's 11,000 people and go over the whole list. The chances are that you wouldn't find over 100 persons who are really actively interested in these civic projects; yes, they'll agree that it's a very worthwhile thing and that people really should pitch in and help—but then they just go on and deal another hand.

These few work-horses need a rest; why don't some of the rest of you get in there and help out?

This Sober Town

These are days when the weather has tendencies to make faces red, but in one local office the other day, faces were a little redder than usual. One harassed businessman (need we say "harassed" when we say "businessman"?) was struggling away at his desk the other night long after hours, and had already done quite a bit of dictating into his dictating machine. One of the disks had some markings on it, and he couldn't remember having made them, so in order to find out what that particular bit of dictation was, he started the machine and listened to the following conversation in a girl's voice: "Memo to the office staff: On tomorrow afternoon and every other afternoon during the summer, the girls in the office will be excused from work at noontime." Then after a pause came a voice: "What's that song you were singing? Oh, for goodness sakes —" and then in as good a soprano as the dictating machine could pick up came the oft-heard words, "Bell bottom trousers, coat of navy blue —"

The more-than-harassed businessman started dictating, paused a moment, and then spoke into the machine: "Oh, well, maybe it's the weather. Now let's start working."

There was consternation in Tokyo this week. Not so much because of the B-29 bombings or the bombardment by Halsey's fleet or new suspected landings. What really convinced them that the United States was finally winning the war was the knowledge that after long months of suffering and deprivation in this country, there was a marked up-turn for the better — America's storekeepers, albeit with some doubt in their minds, very cautiously put out in public view for the first time those very scarce commodities, cigarettes.

But it's not half so much fun this way. Who wants to go into a store after all these months and just say in a clear voice, "I'd like a package of Chesterfields" loud enough so everybody can hear? It's much more fun going in and buying some things that will send the storekeeper away from the other people in the store and then surreptitiously whispering to him, "I've got 17c left. Got anything I can buy with that?" Or saying, "How about those little white things? Got any of those today?"

SERVICEMEN

Jack Moynihan, editor of the Townsman on leave to the Army, who we had vaguely suspected was doing a substantial part of the occupation of Germany, sent us a letter this week from India. Dave Petrie, the Townsman advertising manager, is also in India, having beaten Jack there by over a year. Jack says he "can't make head nor tail of the language. It sounds like someone singing Marzy Doats with his teeth chattering." But despite that, he has already had enough of India to agree with Dave Petrie's previously printed ideas on that country. Here's an excerpt from Jack's letter: "Having only arrived a couple of days ago, I haven't really settled down to my new life yet — still recuperating, as a matter of fact, from a long, horrible boat ride that broke every bone in my body and took me two-thirds of the way around the world. Decent food and plenty of sleep, however, are building me back to the Superman structure I had when I left the Townsman Press 17 months ago. I won't describe the boat ride; let it suffice to remark that we were crowded like sardines, dirty like swine and herded like cattle for nearly 40 consecutive days. I only want one more boat ride, and if I could start tomorrow for the states, I'd want to let it go a while longer. The heat here isn't as extraordinary as you Americans think—no hotter than it is in Andover, I'd say. Then again, it isn't summer here yet. I remember when I was still at T. P., a letter coming in from Dave telling of the horrible conditions under which these Indians live. I could try the same things, but frankly, it's one of those things you can only understand when you see it before you. I have seen Indians lying by the score on railroad platforms, at night, because they have no other home; I have been begged from by every Indian I have met, many of them adult, able-bodied, intelligent human beings. I have seen them carrying 100-pound baskets of coal on their heads, or washing clothes by beating them on rocks, as their ancestors have done for countless generations. And am I proud of being an American."

We also had a letter recently from Eddie Coates, who was a student linotype operator when he was inducted for what he, and everybody else, had thought was a year in the days before Pearl Harbor. Eddie said he couldn't say where he was, but the Army censor obligingly penned in parentheses, "He's in Mindanao."

Captain Richard D. Sullivan, son of Attorney and Mrs. James J. Sullivan, 49 Balmoral street, has completed a tour of 35 missions against Japan, and has now been ordered home for a rest leave. He is a super-fortress commander, and flew on the first B-29 missions against Japan. His wife and daughter live at Vancouver Island, Washington.

Private, First Class, Joseph W. Richard was recently awarded the Bronze Star Medal for heroic achievement in action in Italy. He served on the Fifth Army front as a rifleman with the 339th "Polar Bear" Regiment of the 85th "Custer" Division. His mother, Mrs. Madelene Richard, lives on County road.

A local man made one of the biggest true fish stories of the year in Atlantic City, N. J., when Major Charles B. Hodges of the Army Air Forces redistribution station hauled in a seven-foot, 115-pound blue marlin, after playing the fish for almost three hours eight miles off the coast at Atlantic City. Hodges recently returned to the United States after serving a year and a half with the 15th Air Force in Italy. His home is at 306 North Main street.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Eric Tice-Fisher are visiting with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Jones of 98 Main street. Lieutenant Tice-Fisher, a member of the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve, has recently returned from a tour of duty in the North Atlantic. Both the Lieutenant and his wife will leave shortly for Victoria, British Columbia, to visit with the Lieutenant's parents.

Take Me Out To The Ball Game

Mr. Kelly, our grocery buyer and manager, and, by the way, a real baseball fan, has a few words to say about our fine town baseball team.

My boss took me out to the ball game the other night in Lawrence, and one couldn't help but observe the orderly manner of that huge crowd watching the game—over 5474 persons were in the ball park! Almost half the population of the town of Andover! Why can't ten or fifteen percent of our townfolk get around to watch our Andover team? There isn't a team for 50 miles around which has compiled the record of the Andover boys in the past four years. Yes, let's all go out to the Andover playstead and help continue to support our town team.

Come in to our Grocery Department—look around—you'll be surprised to find the articles which have survived this long, steady, irritating period of shortages.

Completes Forty-Five Combat, Patrol Sorties

Alexander Winward, Jr., 22, aviation machinist's mate, first class, U. S. N. R., of 170 North Main street, has completed 45 combat and patrol sorties in a seven-month tour of duty in the Pacific with a Navy search-plane crew that is credited with shooting down three Jap planes, sinking four ships and damaging a fifth. Now returned for leave and reassignment, he flew in a four-engine Liberator that operated out of Tinian, Leyte, Mindoro and Palawan. The crew bagged its first Jap plane, a twin-engine Nell, off the coast of China, got its second while patrolling off Indo-China, and shot down the third, a twin-engine transport, over the Malaya coast. The Liberator crew wound up its war cruise in late May by taking part in a coordinated raid with two other Liberators and a Ventura squadron on an enemy airfield on Borneo. The target was given such a bombing that it was beyond repair.
