"Jobs for All" Forum Next Monday Evening

The first of this year's forum meetings will be held at the library on Monday evening at 7:45 o'clock. The subject for discussion will be "Jobs for All," and will be accompanied by a short film, produced by the March of Time, entitled, "Post-War Jobs." The film describes the problems involved in achieving full employment and pictures the planning to date of business, industrial, and government groups to insure a maximum of jobs for American workers. The discussion will be under the leadership of Mr. John A. Hogan, dispute director, Regional War Labor Board, of Boston. Mr. Hogan has taught at both Tufts and Harvard, and will clarify some of the issues raised in the film. Highlights of the film range from the canceling of war contracts, causing "spot" unemployment; the feelings of the veterans; post-war planning of Congress, to the Committee for Economic Development as it surveys the consumer market, productive plant and job openings in 1300 American communities.

Readings of the subject are suggested in the following list, all of which may be borrowed from the library:

Sixty Million Jobs, by Henry A. Wallace. 1945.

Full Employment in a Free Society, by Sir William Beveridge. 1945.

Jobs for All, by Mordecai Ezekiel. 1939.

Providing for Unemployed Workers in the Transition, by Richard A. Lester. 1945.

Keeping the Country at Work, by P. G. Hoffman. Atlantic, July, 1945.

Other forums in the series will be held on following Mondays, with the exception of the second, "Shall we have compulsory military training in peace time?", listed for Tuesday evening, November 13. The remaining two, "The Outlook for Europe: problems of reconstruction," and "Labor and management co-operation, a panel discussion," are to be on Mondays, November 19 and November 26, consecutively.

The public is cordially invited to attend, and, as in the past, to take part in any or all of the forums.

Labor Relations Women Voters Subject Tuesday

Anyone who is talented (sing, dance, play an instrument, or do a stunt, etc.) and would like to take part in the entertainment is invited to see Ben Brown, chairman of the committee at the Central fire station.

There will be two great specialty acts which no one will want to miss. Chris Murphy, U. S. O. entertainer who in the past has been on RKO, has just been discharged from the U. S. Army and plans to stay in Andover until after the ball. Also, the Johnson brothers will play the piano-acordion. They will not compete for the amateur prizes, which will be $25 for the first, $15 second, and $10 for third prize. After the entertainment, which starts at 8 p. m., there will be dancing to Roland Russell's orchestra.

Whist and Bridge Friday, November 30

At The Library...

The following books have been added to the Ballardvale branch of the library. Some are for adults and some are for the young readers.

Cass Timberlane, by Sinclair Lewis

This is the story of a marriage, a romance of our time, written with realism, yet tenderness. In its course, the story includes the marriages of dozens of the citizens of a typical American city. The author has written well-known books, among them "Dodsworth," "Main Street," and "Arrowsmith."

The Case of the Half-Wakened Wife, by Erle Stanley Gardner

A foggy night aboard a yacht, a husband who intends to "frame" his wife for his murder, and Perry Mason discovers himself in a case that suits him to perfection!

Port of Seven Strangers, by Kathleen Moore Knight

Romance and mystery, as Gail Warren, young and impressionable American girl, finds herself in the midst of violence as one of the seven strangers staying at a Vera Cruz hotel.

Crock of Gold, by James Stephens

Here is a book no longer new, as far as its date of publication, but a book that can never be old! It is a delightful mingling of fantasy and Irish myths with real peasant life.

United Nations Primer, by Sigrid Arne

This slim book tells in easy language just what happened among the powers from the time of the Atlantic Charter through San Francisco's conference. The full text of the great documents is included.

Village in the Sun, by Dane Chandos

A very readable story of the little village of Ajijic, Mexico, depicting the life of the "Indios" of Mexico.

Silversides, by Oliver Robert Trumbull

This is a chronicle of a submarine and its adventures in the Pacific, told through the reminiscences of the various members of the crew and officers.

The Iron Bronco, by Will Ermine

Another good Western story!

Too Big, by Ingri and Edgar Parin d'Aulaire

A picture book for boys and girls; it tells the story of a little boy who was too big to do anything he wanted to do!

Yu Lan, Flying Boy of China, by Pearl Buck

This story will be enjoyed by most young people eight, nine, and ten years old!

Betsy and the Boys, by Carolyn Haywood

A story for girls of all ages—even up to the teens!

Strawberry Girl, by Lois Lenski

Exciting story of a feud between two families.

Miscellaneous..

PLAYING WITH FOWLS

WHILE POLICE SUSPECT

FOUL PLAY

A wet dirty but very happy little girl was returned to her home by Police Chief George A. Dane and Officer Frank McBride, after having spent an hour or two in a hen coop at the White Rose poultry farm. Apparently tiring of her play, she decided to see how the other half lives, and at about 1 o'clock on Wednesday the police received a call that Faith Bachelor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abbot Bachelor of Argilla road was believed kidnapped. The first clue to her whereabouts was the child's tricycle, found near the wall of the farm, and the search soon led them to the chicken coop where they found the young explorer.

Apparently she had had enough of the hens for one day, for she was glad to see her rescuers.

SPEAKS IN VERMONT

On Wednesday evening, October 31, Frank L. Brigham was guest speaker on the occasion of the sixth annual dinner given the Grand Officers of Vermont and all the Royal Arch chapters of the Fifth Capital district.

CHRISTMAS SEALS

Once again Christmas Seal time has come to Andover.

Mrs. Kenneth S. Minard, chairman of the Christmas Seal committee, has received the supplies for the 39th annual sale of Christmas Seals. Thousands of seals and hundreds of envelopes have come to Andover, and the committee has the job of folding hundreds of sheets of the Seals and addressing the envelopes as well as the assembling of the Seals, letters, and envelopes. All this work will be done before Saturday, November 19.

Other members of the Andover Christmas Seal committee are: Mrs. Frank L. Brigham, Mrs. Will G. Brown, Mrs. Matthew W. Colquhoun, Miss Helen Eaton, Mrs. Thaxter Eaton, Mrs. Byron C. Hall, Mrs. Edward C. Nichols, Mrs. Lotta Johnson, Miss Geraldine Peck, Mrs.

William Trow, and Mrs. J. J. Tavern.

Receipts from the Christmas Seal sale are used to prevent tuberculosis. Discovery of early cases is made by X-ray surveys of industrial groups. Seal sale funds support health education projects and the rehabilitation of tuberculosis patients.

There will be a meeting of the Christmas Seal committee Friday, November 9, at the home of the chairman, Mrs. K. S. Minard, 17 Salem street.

CHICKEN PIE SUPPER

The annual West Church Chicken Pie Supper will be held next Wednesday evening. Servings will be at 5:30 and 6:45 o'clock at the church. Miss Louise Kelsey has charge of the tickets. Mrs. William Trow is general chairman. There will also be a sale of aprons and fancy work.

HOUSEHOLD NURSING ASSOCIATION

Miss Jane C. Lindsay of 6 Argyle street has entered Emerson hospital in Concord for a year of training in nursing procedures. At the end of this period she will return to her school at 22 Newbury street, Boston, to complete her instruction in household arts.

THE COVER PICTURE

Now, you won't believe it, really — but this is what their names are: Barbara Emmons, Connie Weldon, Ruth Sullivan, Betsy Scott, Virginia Bigelow, Diana Nicol, Joyce Mowat, Sydney Tavern, and the witch, Pauline Surette. The occasion: a Halowe'en party at Sydney's on Monday night.

BIG CHILDREN

A verbal spanking was given Punchard's students Thursday by Chief of Police George Dane, who reported that had it not been for the students from the local high school, the night before would have been the quietest Hallowe'en ever. The chief thinks that at their age they should be beyond pulling up sign posts and disarranging other city and private property.

Of the boys called before the police, eight were from the Punchard football team.

Main Street Becomes Art Exhibit As Stores Display Andover's Artists' Efforts

Pictures in the windows
Of all the stores in town
For everyone to look at
As they go up and down.
And look they do; one lady said
It took her half an hour
To walk three blocks up Main street
To get a bag of flour
And then forgot her errand
And lengthening her stride
She crossed the street and started looking Down the other side.

There are more people looking in Andover's store windows these days. It's no reflection on the merchandise that the local merchants usually display in their windows, but the window shopping has increased many-fold in the last couple of days since the annual Main street art exhibit went on display.

The whole street, from the square up, has become a tremendous outdoor art gallery in celebration of American Art week. There are oil paintings, water colors, charcoal drawings; almost everything imaginable, with some 28 individual artists represented plus the students of the Junior High, High and elementary schools and the Pike school children. The exhibit will last through next Thursday.

The artists in the exhibition: Mrs. Willis H. Tewksbury, Mrs. Clara Knox, Mrs. Scott Paradise, Mrs. Stephen Sorota, Frank McLanathan, Miss Ethel Farrington, Abbot Cheever, Mrs. Wilfred Groves, Patrick Morgan, Mrs. Dorothy Sanborn, Howard Coon, Mrs. Donald Wylie, Mrs. Bartlet Hayes, Mrs. Maud Morgan, Mrs. Alicia Waterston, Miss Miriam Carpenter, Cornelius Wood, Mrs. Frances McClellan, Mrs. Horace Bodwell, Dean Walen, Mrs. William Emmons, Mrs. Jones, L. Got a Job?

How about a job for a returned serviceman?

The world has changed for a lot of these boys. They've been away from the field in which they were working; they may have been dissatisfied with it in pre-war days, but you get in a job and you sort of stay in it, like it or not.

But now they've been out. Many of them can have their old jobs back, and if they want them, every employer should see that they get them. But some of them don't want to return to the work they were doing; their lives were disrupted and they want to start afresh. They want to find something more to their liking than their own job, and you can't blame them.

Towns and cities all over the country are doing everything in their power to help out the discharged veteran. The real American boy who wore that uniform proudly in war-time and glorified the Nation it represented wants to get the uniform off as soon as possible, get into civvies and into civilian life; there will be those who will wear it as long as possible for what value they may think it gives them, but the average fellow's going to get rid of it, and is going to get into a job just as fast as he can.

Here in Andover Frank Markey is conducting the rehabilitation work. He has scores of boys who would like to make a change. Why not call on him? He may have just what you need in your business, and you may some day be mighty glad to have one of Uncle Sam's boys on your payroll.

A Gap

The Merchants' committee of the Andover Service Club has been discontinued, and it leaves a gap which should be filled. There should be a merchants' organization, a live-wire group which will act to further the interests of the local merchants and co-ordinate policies, such as hours, holidays, etc. There are many things which cannot be settled by one merchant alone.

Not so many years ago, before April 19, or October 12, for instance, The Townsman used to get calls from several merchants wondering what the other merchants were doing about closing. Lately, that has been working much better, with the merchants' committee getting the businessmen into a more cooperative policy. However, we no longer have a merchants' committee, and it's up to the merchants themselves to get together and appoint a committee of their own.

This Sober Town

We sat there in the grayness
The candles flickered low

We strained our eyes and waited

Until the power should flow
And all machines were quiet
And housework had to stop
And ladies getting hair-does
Had to camouflage their top.
And as the afternoon wore on—

The daylight growing dim—
Imagine, we were helpless
Because someone cut a limb.

POWERLESS

It was a nice Friday afternoon to be working in the open. Police Officer John Deyermund, with his sons home from the service, decided to do a little tree chopping. His home is on the bank of the Shawsheen River, the tree was on the bank of the Shawsheen River and the feeder lines of the New England Power Association were also on the bank of the Shawsheen River. Before long, a nice sizeable limb of the tree had made contact with the feeder lines, and pretty soon a good part of Andover lost contact with the modern convenience of electric power and light.

Most of the business section and even a section down by the Smith and Dove plants were without power. No motors ran, no lights were lit. For two hours, life hardly went on, until finally the lights went on.

There were some serious things involved. Officer Deyermund had put the police radio out of commission, and the fire department communication facilities were kept going by emergency batteries. Shoe repair, bookkeeping machinery, cleaning and pressing machinery and, we may add with a touch of sadness, printing equipment, were rendered immobile. Those did cause some inconvenience, but the most serious thing of all came with the batch of ladies who were having permanents in the local beauty parlors. Some of them had to go home with their heads wet and bound up in turbans, and some just sat the ordeal through with the wet gunk in their hair.

The only place that there was any illumination was in Officer Deyermund's yard, where a very red face gave a sunset sort of reflection.

STILL HAD HIS SHIRT

A young Boston man came to Lawrence Wednesday by train. In Lawrence, or maybe it could have been just over the border in Salem, New Hampshire, he lost his return ticket, or maybe he lost more than his return ticket. At any rate, he found that he did have to walk home.

It's twenty-five miles from Lawrence to Boston; it's about thirty miles from the place just over the border. Late Wednesday night, the Andover police and fire department ambulance were called out to pick up a man who was lying side of the road near Carter's Corner. No, he wasn't hit by a hit and run driver, he was just taken ill; maybe he didn't have enough left to buy even a hot dog.

The police found lodging for him for the night and the next day a saddened and wiser man returned to Boston.

"Power for War and Peace" Subject of Lecture Demonstration at Phillips

C. M. Ripley of the General Electric Company is shown holding parts of a turbosupercharger assembled on a dummy shaft—one of the war products exhibited in his presentation, "Power for War." The turbosupercharger makes it possible for bombers to "breathe" five or six miles above the earth.

The vital part played by America's electrical industry will be outlined in the coming science lecture, "Power for War and Peace," by Charles M. Ripley of the General Electric company, at 8:15, Friday night.

Mr. Ripley's story gives a dramatic and timely picture of the power and machines that helped America win the war, and should produce a more progressive peace.

A native of Indianapolis, Indiana, Mr. Ripley was graduated from Purdue university in 1904 with a B.S. degree in electrical engineering and received an advanced E.E. degree in electrical engineering from the same university in 1914. He entered the employ of General Electric in October, 1916, in the company's publicity department at Schenectady, and has been a member of that department ever since.

Mr. Ripley is well known throughout the country for this graphic story and the romance of electrical energy—its transmission, distribution and use. He will discuss some of the more spectacular achievements of industry, and will cite many industrial operations where electrical power and heat have resulted in more rapid and better production of war goods at less cost.

Mr. Ripley brings with him not only a fascinating story of electrical industry today, but also some actual products for exhibition.

Among these are a tiny motor as small as a spool of thread, turbosupercharger parts which kept our planes flying "on top" of our enemies, magnets, and on electrically heated flying suit.

A world traveler, he has visited nearly all the countries of Europe, including Russia, and has been to Mexico, Central and South America and to Hawaii.

PUNCHARD MEETS NEEDHAM SATURDAY

Once again Punchard will meet what seems to be an evenly matched foe on Saturday, when Needham comes here to tangle with the local team. Needham's starting record is more impressive than Punchard's, they having won three straight games. Since then, however, they have been on the defensive, and lost their last three games.

Both teams played Concord, and both came out on top, leaving Concord with a 19-0 score from Punchard and a 130 score from Needham.

On the local team, Moore and Westcott will play reverse positions this week, Moore at left tackle and Westcott at right tackle, just the opposite of last week. Markey will be in at left halfback, Carter playing fullback last week, and McCollum will take a crack at fullback.

The men to watch on the visiting team are Orciani, No. 32, and Hersey, No. 87, who have done most of the scoring for Needham so far.

P. A. JAYVEES BEAT PUNCHARD

THE boxer-puncher argument takes on a new form in the case of Joe Louis against Billy Conn. For in addition to being a knockout puncher, Louis was also among the better boxers. So Conn had to gamble his boxing skill and his greater speed against an opponent who could box and wreck you with either hand.

Here's the story Conn told me of their only meeting:

"When we came to the 12th round, I knew I was out in front. At least I felt sure I had a lead on points. Then a funny thing happened. The 12th round was too good for my own good. I outboxed Louis by a good margin in that round, adding to my lead. Near the close of the round I found a good opening and I nailed Louis square on the chin with a right."

"I saw his eyes roll and his knees sag. I knew Joe was hurt. So all I had to do in the next three rounds was to box and keep away. I know I could have done that, for at the time Louis was a tired man. But this is where I got dumb in place of being smart. I decided I could knock Joe out. I honestly thought he was all through."

So instead of keeping away I sailed in and started slugging with him, toe to toe. The pictures showed that. I made no effort to keep away from a fellow who could out-hit me with either hand. The great Conn wasn't willing to win a world's championship on points. He also had to be Killer Conn."

"Well, I got what I deserved. I got knocked out. But I still figure a better boxer can handle a harder puncher, even when he is badly outweighed. These hard punchers don't like shifting, moving targets that are hard to tag."

Boxer vs. Slugger

Past records of the ring have usually shown the boxer can hold his own against the slugger. Jim Corbett proved it against John L. Sullivan, looking back some 53 years. Sullivan at the moment, however had been all through for some time, after 10 years of strong alcoholic indulgence.

What about Corbett and Fitz at Carson City? Well, don't forget that Ruby Robert could box as well as punch. Fitz in fact was a great boxer. Jack Johnson was another able boxer, one of the best.

What about Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, used as the leading example of boxer vs. puncher? They fought 20 rounds of which Tunney

But don't forget that the Dempsey of Philadelphia and Chicago was far from being the Dempsey of Toledo. Seven years on top take their toll.

Sam Langford was a great fighter and a great puncher. But check Old Sam's record against 139-pound Jack Blackburn, who trained Joe Louis. Blackburn told me once that in seven fights Langford had never knocked him down. I hurt Langford as much as Sam hurt me," Blackburn said. Blackburn was a master boxer, one of the greatest. Sam Langford will tell you that.

Langford looked better against Jack Johnson and Harry Wills than he looked against Blackburn—as Blackburn explained the case some years ago.

Why Conn Wasn't in Navy

With Joe Louis in the army, why wasn't Billy Conn picked for the navy? This question has been asked more than once. This is the story we get from a high navy official. We had Conn all set to go into the navy. This was also O. K. with Conn. At the time we figured an army-navy ring match might help out a lot in some financial war campaign. Even if this never took place, we wanted Conn in the navy. So Conn reported at a navy recruiting station. But instead of waiting in line, Billy wandered around the place. Finally a navy petty officer, not knowing who Conn was, ordered him to get in line. The order was given somewhat brusquely. It made no hit with Conn. In place of obeying the command, Conn told the petty officer what he thought of him and just where he could go. And after this Conn left the navy recruiting place and went out to enlist in the army."

This is 100 per cent Conn. Just how Billy ever got by in taking army orders is another mystery. There is nothing the Pittsburgh fighter hates worse than taking orders, or even suggestions. He wants his own way.

$80,000 a Year Men

Ruth drew an $80,000 salary one year in baseball and that figure still remains tops in the diamond game. Walter Hagen made more than $80,000 around that time, but no golfer in those days ever drew important money from tournament play.

It is all different now. Nelson is already around the $60,000 mark this year with several big money tournaments left in the South, all in the $10,000 class.

SOCCER vs. EXETER

Phillips Academy's soccer team, after an unusual season, unusual in that it is not undefeated, will meet the Exeter team on next Wednesday. Both teams have had an average season, with records fairly parallel.

Punchard Takes Stoneham 12-6

Punchard triumphantly defeated Stoneham in the second half of the game Saturday, winning its first game since the opener over Concord late in September. Waterman and McCollum did an excellent job; the first score, in the third quarter, was made with Charlie Waterman registering on a three-yard dash. It was a fourth, after the Stoneham line had held off three attempts by the Punchard backs from the two-yard line. Bob Phinney began the touchdown march by recovering a blocked kick on the Stoneham 35.

Waterman, on the fourth down, circled his own left end to register. The point after failed.

Stoneham, handling the ball offensively but at brief intervals during the first half, played defensive football throughout most of the game. The summary:

Andover Blanks Wentworth 33-0

Wentworth put up a stubborn battle against Phillips Saturday, but was defeated without scoring a point. The Academy boys only had one touchdown in the opening half, but in the second half found everything going in their favor.

Johnny Clayton, operating from the signal barkink spot, went for a touchdown in the early part of the second quarter when he picked up Dick Phelps' fumble on his own 26, and ran the remaining distance untouched. Clayton and Phelps scored the second touchdown on a sneak through the left guard for a 54-yard run.

On the fourth down a blocked punt gave Andover the ball, and its fourth tally from Wentworth's 14. Goodhue going off tackle for four yards and the score.

WHEN THE DOCTOR COMES MARCHING HOME

It will be nice to phone a doctor's office again and find he is not in Europe, Asia or Africa.

So many physicians were taken into the war that the chances have been at least four to one that when you went to one's office you would see a sign "Out to Global War, Return Ultimately" on the door.

The few doctors left at home were harder to see than a world series.

The lines were almost as long, and some patients arrived the night before and sat on soap boxes all night in order to get in first in the morning.

Patients had to wait so long for their turn, even when they got inside the house, that they often out-grew the original ailment and developed new symptoms during the wait.

If a patient didn't have high blood pressure when he entered a doctor's office he had it by the time he left.

These were tough years for hypochondriacs. When they imagined they were sick they also had to imagine they could get a physician.

It was tough on the doctors too. They were as overworked as subway guards in a rush hour. Their one regret was that they were unable to feel four pulses at a time.

Many a medico was in worse shape than the patients. One of the laughs of wartime was a doctor telling a patient "You're working too hard. You've got to take it easy."

When you finally got out of the waiting room and into a doctor's office you were brushed off faster than a man on a revolving floor. You left too dizzy to remember what he said. He was too dizzy to remember what was wrong with you.

It was nothing unusual to have a doctor greet you with "What is your ailment? I'll give you ten seconds."

Personally we were in a tough spot; five of our six doctors were in Asia. We always try to keep a second string team, but they were away, also. The only one left looked so run down we couldn't bear to see him. But one day we dropped in.

"What's the matter with you?" he asked.

Boarding School To Come to Village

Long the subject of many rumors, the huge Administration building in Shawsheen, once erected as the home office of the American Woolen company, will shortly be transferred to the Order of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart to be used for a boarding school for grammar school boys of Greater Boston and northern Massachusetts. The order intends to take title before the beginning of the year, at which time remodeling work will begin. The purchase will include the Balmoral athletic field, once the scene of many historic soccer matches in Shawsheen's boom days.

The building, erected in 1923 at a cost of $2,300,000, has four floors, sixty offices, a 300-seat auditorium, five elevators and eleven vaults. It covers 105,000 square feet.

There are at present a half-dozen or so tenants in the Administration building and all have received notices to vacate.

These include the personnel, chemical, engineering, production engineering, electrical and draft departments of the American Woolen company, the Liberty Mutual Insurance company, a training school conducted by the New England Telephone and Telegraph company, Federal State Milk Marketing Administrator's office, and several others.

The Order of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart, devoted exclusively to teaching, was founded in Lyon, France, in 1821, and it opened its first school in the United States at Mobile, Ala., in 1847. Last April, the Brothers in New England were constituted into a distinct province known as the Province of New England. They conduct primary, secondary and normal schools in all of the New England states except Connecticut.

OIL BURNER REPAIRING 4 Central St.

H. I. Phillips (Continued)

"I'm a nervous wreck," we replied. "From what?" he asked. "From watching you try to handle your business," we replied.

Then we gave him some pills he had once prescribed for us, told him he looked terrible and warned him to take it easy or he might need medical attention.

EASILY SATISFIED (With Apologies)

Man wants but little here below—
A shorter day and longer dough—
A streamlined home with gadgets new—

A limousine and beach car, too;
The latest television set—
A carefree attitude on debt—
A swimming pool in blue or pink—
And lots of room to sit and think.

A town house and a little place
Out in the country, just in case—
A motor boat for summer time—
And winter in a warmer clime—
A "walkout" every little while
To work off that attack of bile—
A banner to tote here and there
Proclaiming "This Shop Is Unfair."

Some people's wants are extra high—
They seek the pie up in the sky:
I merely seek to get my share
With just a little bit to spare;
Some seek the apple and the core—
For tip-top blessings they would war;
I'll be contented if I net
As much as the directors get.

The International Ladies' Garment Workers plan their own radio stations. The United Auto Workers and the CIO Clothing Workers have similar projects. This alarms us. It may mean an aerial picket line which radio addicts will have to cross in order to reach Jack Benny or Gabe Heater.

If President Truman succeeds in plowing a straight furrow in Washington he will be the first man ever to do it on a merry-go-round.

In a milk strike we assume the strikers always threaten to stay out till the cows come home.

From Harrisburg, Ill., comes a report that the old fashioned wooden barrel is coming back. Fine. The way things are pointing in this country, it is good to know they will be available for street wear again.

LET DOWN
A restful life has come with Peace;
No pressure, speed or baiters—
Hold everything. Here come the guys
Who sell refrigerators.

—Pier.

YOU BETTER GET YOUR STICKERS IMMEDIATELY

Because of the dangerous conditions resulting from the age of cars now on the highway, inspections, and regulations have been made for the purpose of reducing accidents and making the highways safer. Every owner or person operating a motor vehicle registered in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, was required to have his vehicle inspected during the two months from September 1st, to October 31st.

Many have failed to comply with the regulations. Chief-of-Police George Dane reports that between 12 and 1 p. m. last Thursday afternoon that out of the many cars passing down Main street, twenty-four were without stickers. So if you do not have a sticker, you should get it immediately.

CHAPLAIN ADDRESSES SERVICE CLUB

Major John P. Fitzsimmons of Belmont, Congregational chaplain in the Army, has recently returned home after several months overseas. He was the guest speaker on Thursday evening at the meeting of the Andover Service club at the Andover Inn. He told several stories about his experiences from the time he arrived in Oran, in North Africa until his recent return from India and China. He visited pyramids and crossed into Palestine where he and Father Nolan a Catholic chaplain from Florida, knelt in prayer together on Christmas Eve, at the manger crib where the Christ child was born.

Major Fitzsimmons said that he was impressed by the large number of soldiers who attended the Sunday services in China where they seemed to gather in the hopes of hearing something about the states. The other thing which impressed him even more was the great production of the United States, for the docks and everywhere were loads with enormous stores of supplies. He visited many missionaries of all faiths while in China.

Major Fitzsimmons spoke of his experiences in flying over the hump from India to China and back again. While in China he was appointed by General Claire Chennault as head of the Protestant chaplains. In closing Major Fitzsimmons paid a fine tribute to the cooperation between the chaplains of the various faiths.

LIFE in Andover

Top left: Know where this is? Pretty spot, isn't it? If you don't know, you ought to get in your car some nice Sunday afternoon and drive around town a bit, because you may have been missing a lot of Andover's beautiful spots.

As for last week's unusual picture, you can see it as you drive down Main street, from the Hill, along between Punchard avenue and Chestnut street. The odd-shaped things, as many guessed, are ventilators; the roof as many did not guess is the Andover National bank roof, with give-away Memorial Hall library cupola in the background.

Top right: What, you didn't know there was a big fire this week? Well, there wasn't, this being one of Don Surette's pre-war photos. This was the fire down on Red Spring road, part of the Old Smith and Dove property, a building used then by a Latex company, at a time when of course, all the Boston newspapers took every fire as sabotage. It was one of Chief Buchan's early fires. Several other towns helped fight it.

PRESIDENT IN MISSOURI

WASHINGTON. — The next two months of President Truman's life are filled with junkets similar to that which he has just taken through the heart of the Mark Twain country. At first, newsmen covering the White House figured that he took these trips for political reasons, but they have now changed their minds.

The President takes these junkets because he loves them. Never since that fateful April day when he took the oath of office has he had more fun than at Caruthersville, Mo., where he swapped yarns with the local postmaster, got up at 6:15 to "spit" in the Mississippi river, and ran out in the street to ring the bell of a small-scale locomotive.

The locomotive was being conducted through the streets of Caruthersville by the "Forty and Eight" club of the American Legion (commemorating the "40 men—8 horses" capacity of French freight cars in the last war). Suddenly the President of the United States spied it. Perhaps it reminded him of 1918 when he unloaded artillery horses from those same French freight cars in the Meuse sector.

Anyway, with a shout to War Mobilizer John Snyder, who once worked behind the cashier's cage of small-town Missouri-Arkansas banks, Harry went over to the locomotive. Right then and there the war mobilizer and the President of the United States had the time of their lives staging a locomotive bell-pulling contest.

SECRET SERVICE FROWNS

Another incident the secret service men didn't like was when the President arose shortly after 6 a. m., left the austere frame 42-room Majestic hotel which had been cleared of guests in his honor, and walked down to the Mississippi river. It seems that there is an old custom in those parts which makes it incumbent upon a visitor to spit in the Father of Waters.

The secret service men, not being in the know regarding this spitting custom, were taken by surprise. One of them, however, spotted the truant President of the United States ambling off in the direction of the river, sounded the alarm, and a few minutes later, four bodyguards were trailing him.

After Harry got through spitting, he skimmed a few stones out over the river, found that his technique as a stone-skimmer hadn't changed since boyhood days, and was then content to go back to town.

On the way, he met two old Caruthersville cronies, Nearl Helm, county wholesale liquor dealer, and James Reeves, former commander of the American Legion. They swapped stories as they walked down to the post office, where they dropped in to see Postmaster Bailey S. Brooks. There they swapped some more.

CAPITAL CHAFF

¶ Congratulations to Gen. Arthur Esterbrook of Santa Ana, Calif., for permitting his enlisted men to give him their gripes face to face and for speeding up discharges. If there were more generals like Esterbrook, there would be more men wanting to stay in the army.

Wayne Coy, one-time Roosevelt lieutenant, now assistant publisher of the Washington Post, is a dark-horse possibility in Indiana politics. Hoosier Democrats are trying to persuade Coy to run for the senate.
