Why do people climb mountains? What is the fascination? What is the step by step uncertainty of the heights? What is the assault of the ice and the snow, the humped and the jagged? Perhaps James H. Jackson's answer. It may be one of his characteristics. "The White Tower" mentioned as to why he climbed a mountain, he said, "there, of course!" The previous writer has written the spiritual and physical climber's art, and he loves the study of people as intrigued by those who yearn to follow the steps of the five women who dared the cold, each bearing the mountain for her own.

This book, and mountain climbing, the same author for Life magazine have been directly the new interest in the subject. To meet this we have compiled a book of fiction and non-fiction which may be found in the Memorial Hall Library.

Why do people climb mountains? What is the fascination of rising, step by uncertain step, to greater heights? What spurs a climber to assault impassive earth and snow and ice, humped there before him?

Perhaps James Ullman has the answer. It may lie in the words of one of his characters in the book, "The White Tower." When questioned as to why he wanted to climb a mountain, he said, "Because it is there, of course!" More than any previous writer he has combined the spiritual and physical values of the climber's art, and those who love the study of personality will be as intrigued by the plot as those who yearn to follow in the perilous steps of the five men and one woman who dared the danger and the cold, each bent on conquering the mountain for reasons of his own.

This book, and the article on mountain climbing, written by the same author for Life magazine, may have been directly responsible for the new interest in material on this subject. To meet these requests, we have compiled the following list of fiction and non-fiction books, all of which may be found at the Memorial Hall Library:

Snow Against the Sky

by Mary Dunstan 1936
Two men, a young Englishman and a Swiss guide, are forced to spend a week together in an isolated hut in the Alps. In alternate chapters are shown the contrasting characters of these two — Martin, the sophisticated Englishman, and Michel, the sturdy peasant. The theme is the contrast of two sensitive and imaginative natures, responding to the situation of danger and isolation. The English edition bore the title, "Jagged Skyline."

Avalanche

by Kay Boyle 1944
Although the thrilling plot is of first importance in the story, the excellent atmosphere of the Swiss mountain village is so vividly presented that it ranks with the best.

Mountaineering

by Sydney Spencer, ed. 1934
Different branches of the sport are dealt with by acknowledged experts in the various phases of mountaineering. A special feature of the book is the full information given regarding the different mountain regions which provide the mountaineer with good climbing.

Mountains and Men

by L. H. Robbins 1931
Stories of some of the great exploits of mountain climbing in all parts of the world, including the unsuccessful attempts at Kangchenjunga, Godwin Austen and Everest in the Himalayas, the conquests of the Matterhorn in Switzerland and Mt. McKinley in Alaska, and many others. Illustrated with photographs.

The American Alpine Club's Handbook of American Mountaineering

by K. A. Henderson 1942
This was previously published under the title, "Manual of American Mountaineering." Excellent bibliography at the end of most chapters.

Ten Great Mountains.

by Robert Lock Irving 1940
An English mountaineer selects ten mountains, describes them as to geographic and scenic differences and as to the most important ascents of each, and gives the names of the climbers. They are Snowdon and Ben Nevis in Britain; Mt.

Cook in New Zealand; the Matterhorn and Mt. Blanc in the Alps; Ushba in the Caucasus; Mt. Logan in North America; and Nanga Parbat, Kangchenjunga and Mt. Everest, in the Himalayas.

The Naked Mountain.

by Elizabeth Knowlton 1933
The "Naked Mountain" of the title is Nanga Parbat (26,630 feet) in the Northwest corner of the Indian Empire, seventh highest summit in the world. This book contains an account of the German-American expedition which attempted to climb Nanga Parbat in 1932. It is written by the only woman member of the company, one of the two Americans. The book concludes with a sketch of Rand Herron, the other American who, on the return trip, was killed in Egypt while climbing the Second Pyramid. Beautifully illustrated with photographs.

Story Of Everest.

by John Nowl 1927
Captain Noel, who was official photographer of the two expeditions to Mt. Everest in 1922 and 1924, describes the heroic adventures of these two assaults in the second of which Mallory and Irvine made the record climb to within 600 feet of the summit. Another member of the party at a point further down caught a fleeting glimpse of the two climbers through his telescope, then they disappeared from sight, never to return.

Climbing Days.

by Dorothy Pilley 1935
An account of the author's experiences during two decades, climbing mountains in Wales, the Lake District, the Alps and other parts of Europe. The last chapters skim quickly over her two year trip around the world when she climbed in North America and Asia.

The Great Smokies and the Blue Ridge.

by Roderick Peattie 1943
This is the second volume in the "American Mountain Series." Roderick Peattie knows the region well for it was his home as a young boy. In this volume, "a guide to the understanding of a mountain area and the people who live therein" he has included those authors who have contributed most vitally to this understanding. Far from being a guide book, although it would serve that purpose, it is a book for those who love and would know more about the mystery of mountains.

Ascent of Nanda Devi.

by H. W. Tilman 1937
In 1936 an expedition of English and American climbers succeeded in their attempts to reach the summit of Nanda Devi, 25,645 feet. This book, written by one of the members of the expedition, sets forth the tale of their adventures, their mishaps and their hardships.

High Conquest.

by J. R. Ullman 1941
The story of mountaineering told for the non-climber. The first section of the book describes climbing in the Alps, from the earliest days to the pre-war era and the development of competitive nationalism in climbing. The second section takes up climbing in all parts of the world — North and South America, Africa and Asia. Part three is mainly devoted to climbing in North America. The photographs are excellently chosen and well reproduced.

The Friendly Mountains; Green, White, and Adirondacks.

by Roderick Peattie 1942
The first book in the "American Mountain Series." It takes up the Adirondacks, the Green, and the White Mountains, and the Taconics, and is the combined work of authorities in various fields. They write with enthusiasm on the many phases of mountaineering—nature, geology, history, climbing, skiing, weather and climate.

Hiking, Camping and Mountaineering.

by Roland Geist 1943
The section on hiking includes clothing, equipment, planning a hike, hosteling and orientation on the trail. Camping includes selecting and caring for camp equipment, where to camp, setting up, maintaining and breaking up camp, fires, food and cooking. Mountaineering includes equipment and climbing on snow, ice and rock. Appendix has glossary of mountaineering terms, first aid hints, lists of hiking clubs of North America, code of climbing rules, foot exercises, etc.

Will Andover Equal Erie?

Every year before the war some 39,000 Americans were killed in traffic accidents. This needless loss of human life was brought about by running them down with our cars usually, but some might be called suicides, since they died from running their cars into something.

During all of World War II about 90,000 people were killed on our highways by these methods. But in this apparent reduction for a period of nearly four years, there is small consolation when various factors are considered. War emergencies cut our traffic volume by 50 per cent during this period. It is no help either to remember that some 3½ million more people were injured on our highways during World War II.

Along with V-J day came a more plentiful supply of gasoline for motorists. We started with a rush—filled up our tanks—and in August alone traffic fatalities increased 26 per cent over August 1944. Instead of 1,930 people, 2,430 were killed in that month.

If there is a conclusion to draw from this shocking record, it is that deaths and injuries on the highways increase as the number of cars increase. Traffic experts estimate that there will be 60 per cent more vehicles on our highways within the next 10 years than there were before the war. On the basis of the recent past this will mean 60,000 killed and almost 2½ million injured unless we do something to reduce this needless destruction of our citizens.

Andover can do something about it. So can every other community. Erie, Pennsylvania, for example, has done it and their plans are easy to get. In one short 12 months, Erie reduced all highway accidents 15 per cent; reduced highway deaths 43 per cent. That means they saved 11 lives!

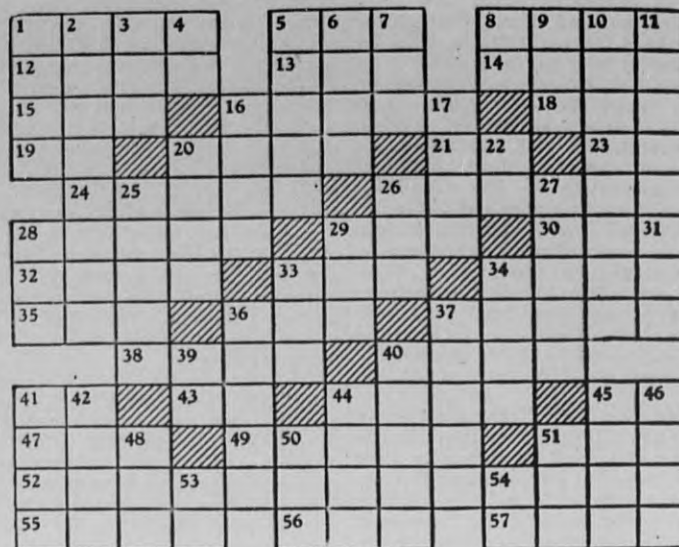

More care, particularly at intersections, and less speed at all times will definitely reduce accidents. Please resolve now to do your best to cooperate.

WE WONDER

Way back in Seventeen Thirty-Two
When Washington was born
No one knew we'd think of him
When he was dead and gone.
They never thought that every year
We'd call a holiday
On February twenty-two—
I wonder what he'd say
If he were in the White House now
And saw the problems there;
He'd probably say: "I wish I'd stayed Across the Delaware."

Communication

Dear Mr. Editor:

Some voters are asking questions these days about the Finance Committee. How is it set up? What are its powers? What is the limit of its authority? Section 16, Chapter 39 of the laws of Massachusetts reads:

"Every town whose valuation for the purpose of apportioning the state tax exceeds one million dollars shall, and any other town may, by by-law provide for the appointment and duties of appropriation, advisory, or finance committees, who shall consider any or all municipal questions for the purpose of making reports or recommendations to the town—"

Andover's own By-laws read "It shall be the duty of the Finance Committee to investigate the cost of maintenance of the different departments of the town, and they shall recommend in detail the amounts to be appropriated for each department for the ensuing year." Section 2, Article 5.

For example on such a question as garbage collection the citizens have a right to expect of the Finance Committee an adequate answer as to the cost of this service. Do we need to spend $18,000 a year for this or about $1.50 per capita? Or if we deduct the capital investment in trucks, assumed to be $4,000 we still have a per capita cost of about $1.20. How can Reading collect its garbage on a per capita cost of less than 30 cents? Danvers for less than 35 cents per capita and Saugus for something over 40 cents?

The Finance Committee's research will provide the answers. Here is a municipal question which needs solution. Is it better to have collection by a private contractor on a contractual basis or the work done by one of the town's departments? What is the experience of dozens of other Massachusetts towns who collect garbage? We have a right to answers to these and other questions whether the article as proposed by the Board of Health is approved or disapproved by the Finance Committee.

The citizens want garbage collection. That is evident. With proper information we can forestall further bungling on this matter. It remains to be seen and heard as to whether that information is sufficient.

H., was united in marriage with John Frederick Campbell, son of Mrs. Grace Campbell of Andover. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles W. Frye of Raymond, N. H.

Attending the couple were Mrs. Bernice Shorten of Andover, sister of the bride and George W. Campbell, brother of the bridegroom as best man.

Following the ceremony a reception with buffet lunch was served by Mrs. Simoneau, assisted by Mrs. Campbell. After a wedding trip, the couple will make their home in Andover.

The bride attended Raymond high school, and has been employed at the Klev Brothers shoe company in Derry. The bridegroom graduated from Andover junior high before entering the service. He is now discharged from the service after three and one half years, 33 months of which was spent in the European theater.

DOING OVER THE WHITE HOUSE

The White House is to be remodeled and enlarged at a cost of a million and a half dollars. Not even the Republicans thought a place could run down under Democratic tenants to that extent.

One item in the program is cited as "entire new floors in the President's personal quarters, as the old ones are loose and worn." That gives you some idea how Mr. Truman has been pacing up and down the rooms lately.

An entirely new heating system is to be installed too, it is announced. We had an idea that the White House was hot enough for anybody just now.

Maybe they mean "cooling" system.

The grounds are to be done over, too. We understand there will be a series of fountains and pools through which a President can wade with his shoes on when the problems are especially hot.

There is also a rumor that Mr. Truman wants a chicken run, a well and an old-fashioned hammock on the grounds to give him something of the rural flavor he loves so well. (Opponents of the plan insist that whatever Mr. Truman needs it is decidedly not a hammock.)

Mrs. Truman is going to get new rugs, carpets, drapes and curtains, and you know what that will mean to a woman.

Boy, will Mrs. Roosevelt be sore! She was there 12 years without getting what Mrs. Truman is getting in a few months.

Also a large room artificially dampened and equipped with rattan chairs, old fishing tackle and foghorns so that the President may get all the atmosphere of being on his yacht without actually being so.

(Note to Mrs. Truman: Whatever they do to the shebang, you be sure you get the kitchen the way you want it first.)

THE 1946 AUTOMOBILE

Oh, fetch the motor ads to me
And let me read, my pet,

Of all the beauties of the car
I know I cannot get;
I want to know the shape and form
And sense the charms untold
Held by that lovely motor car—
Which is NOT being sold!

What is the radiator style?
Full facts I must possess
(And no one gets, I guess);
What of the headlights and the bulbs?

Oh, I would be afraid
About the car nobody has
To choose, without more facts, a bus
That isn't being made.

And what of the upholstery?
I hate to fret about
My comforts in a limousine
Nobody's turning out;
Those little gadgets all around,
So novel and so quaint—
How are these little gee-gaws in
"The motorcar that ain't"?

Peace, It's Wonderful

Bill Hadden, attorney general of Connecticut, conferred with Dr. Stoyan Gavrilovitch, chairman of the UNO site committee, to sing the praises of Nutmeg State locations the other day. We hope Bill suggested the appeal of Amity Road, Woodbridge, and, perhaps, the old site of Harmony Lodge back home.

And, in view of the way UNO is dodging so many issues, how about Duck Island, just off Clinton?

Personally we nominate as a permanent site the Pease House, Saybrook Point.

A passenger plane made the trip to Bermuda in 2 hours and 22 minutes the other day. Remember away back when you went there because you could do it so leisurely and unhurried?

Grange Awards Prizes

Prizes of ten, five, and three dollars were awarded to Eileen Fairburn, Cynthia Black, and Waiter Demers, respectively at the Grange Prize Essay Contest held at the Grange hall Tuesday evening. Those who participated were Barbara Munroe, Eileen Fairburn, Walter Demers, Jocelyn White and Cynthia Black. The essays were chosen anonymously from a group of twenty submitted. Before the contest, Mr. Harvey Turner gave a brief talk on the educational aids of the Grange. During the intermission Mrs. Scobie favored with a vocal selection accompanied on the piano by his wife. Refreshments were served after the contest.

Attends Meeting

Eugene V. Lovely, principal of Punchedard high school, attended the Lowell district principal's meeting at Chelmsford Tuesday evening. A. Russell Mack, supervisor of secondary education was the guest speaker.

Girls' Basketball

The Punchedard girls defeated the Methuen squad Wednesday, 27-11. Paula Dimlich was high scorer with twelve points. The Punchedard second team also beat (?) 21-7. This broke Methuen's undefeated season. Refreshments were served in the cafeteria after the games.

At Junior High . . .

Elections

The new junior high school officers were elected Monday. The students showed very fine interest in the voting. The new officers are as follows: president, Herbert Deveaux; vice president, Dorothy Christie; secretary, Anne Kenney; treasurer, David Anderson. Campaign speeches were held last Friday at assembly.

War Stamps

The junior high is trying very hard to achieve a goal of 90% in war stamps for the month of February. This is a short school month, ending the 21st. So far, one home room, Room 4, has achieved 100%.

Mid-Year Reports

The mid-year reports were given out to the student body last Friday.

Dance

The next school dance is February 15th. Mr. Phinney will be master of ceremonies, and refreshments will be served. The dance will be held from 2:30 to 5:30 p. m. under the guidance of the dance committee with Joyce Demers as chairman.

Inter-Mural Sports

Basketball is just finishing on the school inter-mural program. Volleyball will start soon, and it is hoped that as much interest will be shown in this sport as was shown in basketball.

Evening Study Groups Attract Many Adults

A significant contribution to the public welfare was resumed this year, after a three-year interruption during the war. Phillips Academy opened on January 14th its ninth annual session of evening classes for adults, which will be carried on throughout the school's winter term, ending on March 6th. For eight winters attendance at these classes increased steadily, from an opening 200 students in 1935 to a wartime peak of nearly 1000 in 1942. During the first winter of the war courses in review mathematics for prospective fighting men and courses helpful to civilian defense were added to the normal liberal arts program. The program was suspended at the end of the 1942 session because of the increased teaching load placed on the shoulders of a faculty reduced in numbers by the war.

After a month of operation, it is possible to survey the present program, which was prepared with the intention of presenting timely and useful courses for the adults of the Andover community and of surrounding cities and towns. This program is not elaborate; it does, however, aim to offer some practical guides toward an understanding of ourselves and other people, both past and present, as well as a few courses in the field of modern living. In the broad field of world problems, the following courses are offered: How Atoms Behave, World Issues Affecting American Interests, Our Latin-American Neighbors, Ethics Past and Present, Straight Thinking and a course entitled Famous People, which discusses great people of our own age and other ages. In the more personal sphere of modern living there are courses in Studio Art, Enjoying Good Music, Significant Books of the Twentieth Century, Effective Speaking, Keeping Fit, and a course entitled Your House, which considers modern domestic architecture and its possible future development.

Thirty-three present members of the Phillips Academy faculty and three former members are giving their time to make this show a total registration of 435, of whom 293 are women, 142 men. The largest single community group, as might be expected, comes from the town of Andover itself—136 students. But nearly two-thirds of the students are from outside Andover (120 from Lawrence alone), and represent 15 other communities of Northern Massachusetts and Southern New Hampshire.

Tuition for the Andover Evening Study Program is $1.00 for each course selected, plus a registration fee of $2.00. All proceeds are given to educational and charitable institutions in and near Andover. Phillips Academy is proud to have an opportunity to serve its community and to reaffirm its democratic traditions of nearly 170 years' stand-

YOU CAN'T WASH BEHIND THE EARS UNTIL YOU CATCH 'EM!

No mother riding Saturday-night herd on a brood of slippery, hard-to-catch youngsters ever had a harder job striving to keep the Since war-time tossed us the job of carrying far more people than all our available coaches could seat (and no railroad was allowed to build new coaches during the war) we've been literally running the wheels off everything we had safe to carry folks. War was bad enough for everyone, but surrender made things worse, instead of better, for many railroad passengers, including ours. The O.D.T.

and we don't blame you for complaining. But, don't think we're just letting things go to pot. Far from it! Right now 200 more men hourly 1945 since January 2nd, 205 of our passenger cars. General been cleaned; chemically washed inside and out; renovated where necessary, and returned to service. Twenty of the coaches that went west are back. They've all got to go into the shop, and 10 of them must be completely renovated with new upholstery, etc. We intend to really clean every car long before you get to your household Spring cleaning.

No mother riding Saturday-night herd on a brood of slippery, hard-to-catch youngsters ever had a harder job striving to keep the Since war-time tossed us the job of carrying far more people than all our available coaches could seat (and no railroad was allowed to build new coaches during the war) we've been literally running the wheels off everything we had safe to carry folks. War was bad enough for everyone, but surrender made things worse, instead of better, for many railroad passengers, including ours. The O.D.T. decreed last Fall that 40 of our best steel coaches had to go to the west coast to join the pool of cars bringing home the fighting men.

Our passengers aren't used to riding in dirty coaches, and believe us, we've heard plenty about dirty windows and not-so-clean conditions in the "behind-the-ears" places. Some folks who don't know us as well as our regular commuters and other passengers even said we weren't trying too hard to improve cleanliness. Boston and Maine men are New Englanders, and New Englanders are clean people.

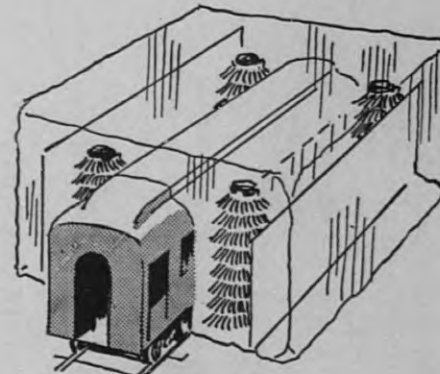

"War's Over — What's the Matter?"

The principal "matter" has been we couldn't "catch" our coaches long enough to clean 'em properly, and a lot of them not long enough to clean 'em at all. It's an actual fact that during last Christmastime and around New Year's there were times when we had to wait for cars to come in from a run before we could make up trains to carry out waiting passengers. Those 40 steel coaches the O.D.T. sent to the coast represent 7,000 passenger seats a day—and, that's a lot of seats. So, it's pretty easy for anyone to figure how often car cleaners saw the coaches that were left, and when they did, how long they had to work on them before it was time for them to go out again. Even today the average Boston and Maine coach is still traveling 100% more miles a month than in 1941.

The Older They Are — The Harder to Keep Clean!

Any housewife knows an old house is harder to keep clean than a modern one. That's true also of railroad coaches. Quite frankly, we've been ashamed of the appearance of some of our coaches, and we don't blame you for complaining. But, don't think we're just letting things go to pot. Far from it! Right now 200 more men have been cleaned; chemically washed inside and out; renovated where necessary, and returned to service. Twenty of the coaches that went west are back. They've all got to go into the shop, and 10 of them must be completely renovated with new upholstery, etc. We intend to really clean every car long before you get to your household Spring cleaning.

We're Gonna Sparkle Soon!

Ever try to wash your windows, or outside paint, with temperature below freezing? Well, it's the same story with railroad cars. But don't worry, we don't intend to let those windows stay dirty until the robins arrive, either. And, brother, wait until weather permits us to operate on full-time schedule our new $60,000 car-exterior washer. Plan then to get out your sun glasses! We've been able, in the few mid-day mild spells there have been, to get some cars through it, and boy do they sparkle. We intend they all shall. Incidentally, our station agents, with their war-time extra duties and rush-every-minute conditions abating, will have more time to whistle their clean-up theme of "Come On Broom, It's Waltz Time"

P. S. Mother whispers to us that her housemaid is cleaning better now that jobs are a bit scarcer.

THE AND

Editorials

How About It?

This is an appeal—and something of a gripe.

It's an appeal for someone else to pitch in and help. It is your duty as well as the candidates' and as well as your local newspaper's to do something to promote the cause of the better potential office-holders. There are some good candidates in the field this year; they'll be out in left-field if somebody doesn't get behind them and help them.

And it is, frankly, a gripe, too. Maybe it's the shortage of paper and the shortage of help and a hundred other things that makes a newspaperman get a bit peeved once in a while; maybe in ordinary times we could just say "To heck with it," but the present mood could possibly be caused by the fact that on election day, March 5th, we will be starting our fifteenth year of writing editorials for this paper, and in 14 years we've done a lot of thinking about town government and how certain people manage to sneak in to public office and do a pretty lousy job of running the town. In that near-decade-and-a-half we've supported a lot of good men for office, and if they've had any other support, they've won pretty generally. We've stuck our neck out a lot; we've even criticized friends, and lost friends.

And now here's another election. It would be easy for us to say: "Why should we endorse any candidates? Why not just keep mum?" But somehow or other, the town's welfare seems to us pretty important, important enough for us to say what we feel, important enough to run the risk of losing friends if need be. And really, it does get you feeling a little bitter when you realize that nobody else is willing to go out on a limb, that probably nobody else would sign their name to your editorial, that they're concerned a little more with not incurring the enmity of a certain person than they are with promoting good government in town.

Well, it's our job, and we're going to do it. It's a job that doesn't have a heck of a lot of satisfaction to it; of four candidates whom we have gone out of our way to praise so far in the present term, one and only one has acknowledged it. But there is the very real satisfaction of knowing that you have done your job, that you've done what you could, come what may. There could be a real satisfaction for you, too, and we're speaking now to the leaders of our public life, the leaders of thought in this community, the men who say behind closed doors that so-and-so should be elected and such-and-such should be defeated, that there should be a reorganization here, that other changes should be made there. Open up those doors, tell people about it, express your views, do your part to put good men in office, do it thoroughly, not just half-heartedly. Get out and work for them, use the phone, use the mails.

Two weeks and a little more remain. Let's all get together to give Andover office-holders of whom she can be proud.

Disappearing Water

If the water in the reservoir were to nearly disappear in the next two weeks, before election, and if the Board of Public Works were to meet and decide not to investigate the reasons why it dropped down, the chances are that the two members of the Board up for re-election would get a severe trouncing. But this happened a year and a half ago, when the voters had no chance to tell the members what they thought of them.

This is the voters' chance, however. We now have a board of five men, only two of whom are qualified to hold positions on that board. Of the remaining three, two are now candidates for re-election, and it is time to prove to them and to all office-holders that when something serious happens in their department, it should be investigated.

The almost total disappearance of the water in the reservoir was something that created a great deal of consternation in town, and well it might. It jeopardized the town's safety in the event of a serious fire, for although the department could have taken directly from the system without a reservoir backlog, it would not have been sufficient to have taken care of a major fire, it would have meant a serious curtailment of domestic use, and it would have done considerable damage to the water system itself. Farmers in midsummer were asked to stop their use of town water for their crops, at a time when we needed all the crops possible. Fire engines had to pump water from Lawrence and North Andover to replenish the Andover supply.

Yes, it was serious, but to some members of the Board not serious enough to warrant a looking into. An investigation was suggested, but the board argued for a long time as to whether or not a study should be made. An investigation would have taught the members quite a bit, but they preferred to close their eyes, their ears and their minds to the situation.

It shouldn't take too long for the voters to make up their minds. There must be a change in this board, and March 4 is the day to do it. The voters mustn't close their eyes, ears and minds to their duty, for if they do, we'll have a board the majority of whose members are not capable of determining where the town's best interest lies.

* * *

Next Week: A little story about a vote passed at town meeting while some members of the Board of Public Works sat quietly, knowing that in a few weeks they were going to deliberately thwart the will of the people. And the following week a discussion about a superintendent who, when he tried to promote the efficiency of his department by firing a man who twice visited a bar-room in defiance of orders during working-hours, was thwarted by four members of the board who voted to reinstate the man. Incidentally there's an aftermath to that story, a very interesting aftermath.

IF YOU look over the list of all the leading ball players for the last 30 years, including baseball's hall of fame at Cooperstown, you'll find that over 90 per cent of them came from cities and towns under 10,000.

Cobb, Speaker, Jackson, Mathewson, Alexander, Cy Young, Johnson, Grove, Sisler, Eddie Collins, Hornsby, Foxx, Lajoie, Home Run Baker, Wagner, Bob Feller, the Cooper brothers, Keller, Dickey, the DiMaggios, Hartnett, the Deans, Carl Hubbell, and so on came to their fame from isolated and unknown spots on the map. Such instances run into the hundreds. New York's main contributions have been Gehrig, Greenberg and Frisch. Chicago has turned out a few stars, including Phil Cavaretta. Baltimore gave the game Babe Ruth. But New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston and other crowded cities in proportion have lagged far behind.

In towns running from 1,000 to 10,000 population there is always room for a ball field. In these "Sweet Auburns, loveliest villages of the plains," there is space in which kids can hit, run, throw and slide. They can play the game up to the hill. But in a city such as New York, you can see thousands trying to play on crowded streets as cars come through to drive them back to the sidewalks. Ever try to slide over cobblestones while eluding a fast-moving automobile?

Take a look at the now famous Cardinal roster, which embraces at least 30 stars. At least 95 per cent of these came along and up from places you never heard about. If these players had been born in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, etc., possibly two or three would have made the big leagues. That is the way the percentage runs. Gehrig and Frisch came along through Columbia and Fordham. But few street kids have a chance to get any college course and find a ball field where they can develop.

Few Stars From Cities

Baseball's hall of fame, now and in years to come, would be extremely thin if it had to look to the crowded, thoughtless larger cities for its talent. If there isn't enough within these cities, there is always space enough outside — and there are still busses running and there will soon be motor cars available.

Punchard Defeats Johnson In First Game—Tewksbury Trails

Punchard defeated her age-old rivals Monday afternoon when she triumphed over Johnson high school by a score of 40 to 19.

At the half, the scores were nearly even, but during the second half, the local team pulled out in front, and scored basket after basket for an easy victory in the final period.

Bruce Noble, who played a spectacular game, dropped in a total of 20 points for Punchard, eight from the floor and four from the foul line. Bob Phinney chalked up six points, with Bill Westcott tossing in five.

The Johnson second team defeated the Jayvees, however, with a 17 to 14 triumph in the preliminary game.

TEWKSBURY

Punchard walked off with an easy victory Saturday night when they defeated Tewksbury high 35 to 17, making the seventh win of the season for the local team.

Punchard started out in the lead, and maintained an easy lead throughout the game, with Tewksbury trailing far behind until the final quarter when they scored 10 points.

Bruce Noble was high scorer with a total of nine points, and Bob Phinney a close second with eight.

The Punchard Jayvees, having struck a win last week, also won again on Saturday night with a 13 to 11 victory over the Tewksbury seconds. Joe Watson and Barry were high with four each for Punchard.

St. James To Play Here Saturday Night

Punchard will meet a questionable foe on Saturday night when St. James comes here from Haverhill. This is the first year that St. James has had a team, and so far they have won six games and lost four, playing such teams as West Newbury, Groveland, Rockport, etc.

Punchard, with its usual quintet, is prepared to take the game from the visitors, and this seems highly probable, since the local five have defeated several stronger teams.

The St. James team consists of Bergeron and Doughty at back, Heggarty at center, and Lorr and Murphy as forwards.

Strong Junior High Team Remains Undefeated

Last Tuesday the Junior high varsity defeated the high school J. V. by a score of 17 to 15. They chalked up their seventh straight victory in a superb game. Forward Freddy Lloyd was high scorer of the game.

In the preliminary game, the junior high J. V.'s beat the color team all stars by a score of 9 to 2.

Friday the undefeated team will play the Punchard high juniors, which will be a really hard game.

The responsibility belongs to older people who through sport and the full support of so many hard working organizations can change the entire picture in a few years.

Athletes and Condition

What group of athletes keep in better physical condition—or worst physical condition, so far as professional sport is concerned?

At a recent gabbing session we ran into a number of coaches, assistant coaches, trainers and assistant trainers who know their way around, who have been in charge of various sports for many years. It was their belief that professional football players and professional tournament golfers on the average were in better physical condition than any other group, and that professional baseball players trailed the list.

This statement will bring a loud and lusty squawk from many ball players, but it happens to carry more than a mere shade of truth. Anyway, the coaches and trainers who felt this way about it should know what they are talking about.

"This, of course, doesn't include all ball players," one trainer said. "But it includes too many of them. Most of them couldn't do half the job a pro football player has to face. Watch most of them hit a triple and you'll find them puffing at third base and that's less than 100 yards. They don't turn in enough road work to build up their legs. A pro baseball player should last far longer than a pro football player, considering the punishment the footballer has to take, but few of them do. Last season the New York Giants had Mel Hein, Herber and Ken Strong, each with nearly 20 years of football behind him. There have been many others such as Hutson with 10 or 12 years already cashed in.

"For example I see where Detroit's Tigers this season have 43 exhibition games. This means a total of 197 contests from March to October, a long march that demands the best sort of physical shape. Many of them will be ready for this endurance test. But quite a lot won't be, unless they make a far harder effort to get in shape and keep in shape than so many have made in the past. Those fellows heading south early are the smart ones. This will be the toughest season any of them will have to tackle."

Servicemen...

Roland Chretien has returned to Camp Pickett, Virginia, after a 14-day furlough spent at his home, 165 North Main street. He has re-enlisted in the regular army and expects to go overseas shortly. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nap Chretien.

T/S 4 Richard Christison of the 85th Mountain Infantry is now discharged from the service and is at his home, 100 Burnham road.

Cpl. Robert Batcheller is awaiting further orders at Camp Devens following a 60-day furlough at his home on Lowell street.

Richard Steinert, radio 1/c, U. S. Naval Reserve is enjoying a two weeks leave at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Steinert, 1 Union street. Following his furlough he will report to Bainbridge Island radio naval base at Seattle, Washington.

Lieutenant Howard V. Hennigar, who is on leave of absence from the school department has been given a commendation and promotion to Lieutenant Commander.

Cpl. Richard Sutton, 119 Chestnut street, was discharged from the Army Air Forces at Westover Field last week. The 24 year old serviceman had been in the service for nearly three years, and served as a personnel affairs clerk throughout his army career. He received the Good Conduct medal, the American theater ribbon and the Victory ribbon.

Private Warren L. Johnston, whose wife, the former Mary Louise Nason, lives on Jenkins road, is now with the 32nd Red Arrow Infantry Division of the Sixth Army near bomb-shattered Fukucka in Japan. Johnston may well be proud of the 32nd, which is credited with more combat time than any other division in the United States Army. The Red Army smashed enemy opposition at Buna, Saider, Aitape, Morotai, Leyte and Luzon. In the service since February, 1945, Johnston trained at Camp Gordon, Ga., before departing for overseas duty in August, 1945.

George Stephen Kelly, Holt road, is now a civilian again, having been discharged from the navy last week. While in the navy he held the rating of RM 2/c. He was in the service for 36 months, his last duty station being aboard the U. S. S. New Mexico. He served overseas in the European theater.

Another local officer has been released from the service. He is Justin L. Rex, 24 Arundle street, a former lieutenant in the navy. He has been in the service for 24 months, 14 months of which were spent in the Pacific theater. His last duty station was as Port Director at Pearl Harbor.

Cpl. James Evangelos, of the 129th Army Airways Communication System, whose mother, Mrs. Antigone Evangelos resides at 16 Margate road, has recently returned to Shanghai from a four-day tour of Peiping, China.

Chief Yeoman Charles C. Stone of 173 High street was recently discharged from the navy after serving for 45 months.

Andover Schools Fifty Years Ago

Although there have been great changes in the Andover school system in fifty years, it is surprising to note many features that have remained the same. For instance, the school population is very little more than in 1894. Today we have 919 children in the grammar grades, while there were 1040 in 1894. Punchard free school had an enrollment of 123 in those years as compared to 375 for the same grades for the fall of 1945. Of course, there were nine years of grammar school in addition to kindergartens, making ten years before high school instead of eight.

J. Newton Cole was the chairman of the nine member committee while the superintendent acted as secretary to the committee. The superintendent, Mr. W. A. Baldwin, was also the superintendent of schools of Danvers.

Botany, music, rhetoric, and penmanship had leading places in the grammar school curriculum, while language, arithmetic and geography were going through extensive revision. Classroom teachers were receiving $342.00 per year for salary and principals received $600.00.

I quote from Supt. Baldwin's report: "Among the many good works which have during the past year grown up none will probably be of more lasting benefit than the Free Kindergartens." "Modern psychology and the Kindergarten have wrought great changes in the Primary Schools."

"If it is fitting that a modern school system should consider the physical and moral well-being of the child, it is also important that the curriculum, in its early stages, should be adapted to the wants of childhood, that it should be broad, free and elastic, giving a large place to bodily and sense activity. Such a system is found in the Kindergarten. It is the broadest and wisest conception of infant training ever invented, and is determined to become a chief cornerstone in the education of the future."

MUNITIONS TO JAPAN

WASHINGTON.—The Pearl Harbor investigating committee has now spent nearly three months digging into military - naval - political reasons why we were caught asleep on December 7, 1941. While this is important, all the facts show that Japan would have attacked anyway; if not at Pearl Harbor, at some other place, and if not on December 7, at some other time.

Meanwhile, we have seized various documents from the Japs, showing that this war was carefully built up over a period of years and that certain American munitions makers were either unsuspecting or deliberate Jap co-partners.

If we are to prevent war in the future—and that presumably is one motive of the Pearl Harbor committee—the manner in which American business aided the Japs to prepare for Pearl Harbor is important. We must build up machinery so this doesn't happen again.

MUNITIONS LOBBIES

One thing the Pearl Harbor committee might well investigate is the way lobbies developed in Washington to put pressure on the government to sell war goods to Japan. These lobbies, representing oil, gasoline, scrap iron, airplanes, machine tools, made a lot of headway with the army and navy, sometimes with the state department.

One man they never affected was Harold Ickes. As secretary of the interior he controls the export of helium gas, and at exactly the same month the above report was written, the Germans were trying to buy helium from the U. S. A. for their zeppelins.

The army, the navy and Secretary of State Hull gave their okay. But Ickes said no—unless American inspectors were stationed in Germany to see how the helium was used. Finally the question came up in cabinet meeting. Secretary Hull gave a long speech telling why it was perfectly safe to sell helium to Germany without inspection. As the vote went round the table, every cabinet member voted against Ickes.

But Ickes still said no. Under the law, the secretary of the interior has absolute control over the export of helium. No one can overrule him. So finally FDR turned to Ickes and said:

"Well, Harold, you're the boss. You win."

VETERANS' PROBLEMS

Lt. Col. R. P. Bronson, chief of the contact and service branch of the Veterans' administration, blinked when he was handed a telegram from a distressed veteran the other day. It read:

"Assistance needed stop brother murdered here December 26 stop reply by wire."

Colonel Bronson instructed an aide to phone the veteran's home city and see that he was given immediate help. Then he continued to leaf through the daily file of pleas that come to his desk.

"It's all in a day's work," he said. "But I'll admit that one had me stumped for a while."

Wide and varied are the SOS appeals the Veterans' administration receives from men wearing the discharge insignia. They range from vets wanting to get traffic tickets "fixed" to those who want to adopt children, purchase new automobiles or get liquor licenses.

"We're the 'Little Mother' agency of the government," said the colonel, a two-fisted overseas veteran with a sense of humor and four battle stars on his campaign ribbons. "We do our best, but of course we can't please everybody. It would make it a lot easier on us if some of our correspondents realized that their off-the-track problems hinder the handling of thousands of legitimate requests from men seeking benefits under the G.I. Bill of Rights and so on. When they ask us to find them wives, that sort of stumps us."

The love interest is uppermost in unusual V.A. mail. However, a Maryland vet recently wanted help in getting his water main connected.

A West Virginian posed the following $64 question:

"Do you know of or can you find out about some government agency which can assist me in finding a wife? I am a veteran of two years and nine months service—age 39—and so far, for some unknown reason, I am unsuccessful in finding a bride. Hope to receive a favorable reply very soon."

Members of congress were not pleased by General Eisenhower's quick departure from the Library of Congress auditorium after he addressed them on demobilization. Admiral Nimitz had aides on hand to answer questions after he spoke, but Eisenhower ducked out right after reading his speech, leaving no one from the army to answer questions. . . .
