Ounce of Prevention

Don't start anything you can't finish! The old saying is particularly pertinent to burning grass or brush. A tremendous number of fires start in this simple way. If you must burn, choose a rainy day or a still evening when the dew is heavy, and get a permit from the fire chief first. If you are careful, perhaps you won't have to rebuild your house and buy new furniture. Both are so hard to get that the safest way is not to burn grass at all. Bonfires should be built only in the center of a plowed field away from the buildings.

The list was submitted to the Board of Selectmen by the State Division of Civil Service.

Kindergarten Teachers Appointed At School Committee Meeting

At Tuesday's meeting of the school committee, the recommendations of five local women were accepted for teaching positions in the Andover schools.

Miss Isabelle Dobbie, a graduate of Punchard high school with high honors and of Lowell Teachers college, has been teaching in Billerica. Popular in Andover, Miss Dobbie took part in many athletic and social activities while attending Punchard and graduated at the top of her class from Lowell. She has been accepted as a cadet teacher.

Miss Louise Sherman, who also attended local schools, is a graduate of the Wheelock Kindergarten school and for some time was a teacher at the Pike school. She taught first and second grades in Andover before going to the Melrose schools last year. She will teach kindergarten here next year.

Miss Helen Thompson of Gould road will be invited to teach in the North school. She is a graduate of Salem Teachers college and has been teaching in Revere for nine years.

Miss Martha Howe has been conducting a successful kindergarten school in Andover for several years and is a graduate of the Wheelock school as well as of the local schools.

Mrs. Adele Savage, widow of the late Rev. Donald Savage, is a graduate of Wheaton college and has been teaching at the Pike school. She will also be invited to teach a kindergarten class in the fall.

To replace Mrs. McQueston, teacher of the special class, will be Miss Mary Donahue of Lawrence, a graduate of Salem Normal school who has studied and taught special classes in Salem.

Mrs. Emma Carter has been elected Dean of Girls for Punchard, a position that has not existed in the past and which does not entail an increase in salary. Miss Lillian Fox has also been elected head of the English department for both Junior and Senior high schools, a position that will assume the salary schedule of supervisors. No increase of salary is involved at this time. This position is an effort to better coordinate the work done in both schools. Mrs. Dorothy Sanborn has been authorized to assume full-time duties beginning September 1, 1946, and Miss Frances Dalton will be retained on a part-time basis.

A hundred-dollar increase was granted as of September 1 to the following teachers: Eugene Lovely, Charles Gregory, Lillian Fox, Emma Carter, Marjorie Smith, James Hart, Carl Gahan, Benjamin Dimlich, William McDonald, Nancy Hird, Evelyn Parker, George Snyder, Mabel Marshall, Beatrice Stevens, Milton Blanchard, Donald Dunn, Frances Collins, Anna Walsh, Kenneth McKinry, Catherine Barrett, Mary Burke, Eunice Stack, Alice Stack, Adeline Wright, Katherine Sweeney, Olive Eldridge, Margaret Bascom, Anne Harnedy, Mary Leary, Vera Thurston, Florence McCarthy, Mary Collins, Barbara Eldredge, Dorothy Kyle, Helen McCarthy and Rita Foley.

Other teachers who were given step-up increases of $100 and who were re-elected were: Mary Raker, Ansel Angelo, Alice Bisbee, Owen Hinckley and Angie Dantos.

Kenneth L. Sherman was re-appointed principal as of September 1, and the salary of Miss Evelyn Banning, who has been acting principal has been set at a designated figure.

It was voted that finance and advisory committee would make a study of a maximum salary schedule for the superintendent of schools which will be reported not later than the June meeting.

It was with regret that the resignation of Edward O'Hagan was accepted by the building and grounds committee and his son, Edward O'Hagan, Jr., was appointed to fill the vacancy.

The committee voted to drop first year Spanish from the curriculum of the Senior high school unless more than fifteen students request its continuance, and to drop type-writing from the Junior high except as a club activity. "The Pupils' Own Vocabulary Speller," published by MacMillan company, was accepted for use in grades two through six. The rules and regulations were adopted for the year 1946-47.

It was decided that a special letter of commendation would be sent to the school teachers who have been volunteering their time the past fourteen weeks to the evening classes held for veterans. The teachers named, Bernard Kellmurray, Mrs. Gertrude Hardy, Miss Lillian Fox and Miss Evelyn Banning, have already received letters of appreciation from the superintendent of schools.

Play will begin at 8:00 in St. Augustine's school hall and the party is being given for the benefit of the church.

SO 000—
The "Old Timers" night was a big success according to Mr. Kelly, one of the corners of the three-cornered partnership of the new Rockport Market. That should make us the winner of a bet—but so far no soap. Rather have a pound of butter, anyway.

Tercentenary Singers
Andover's 300th Anniversary is something to sing about and J. Everett Collins is getting together some fine male and female voices for the concert that will close the Tercentenary celebration, June 2nd. Rehearsals are being held in the music room of the Junior High school and the next meeting will be Tuesday, April 9, at 7:30. It is not too late to join the chorus and both men and women are invited to vocalize under Mr. Collins' direction.

"Come On Along"
Don't forget to buy a ticket for the Legion dance at Crystal ballroom on May 2nd. After you've enjoyed that dance, you will begin to understand why you can't miss the AMVET dance, also at Crystal, May the 16th.

AMVETS Move to Library Hall

The AMVETS held their last meeting in the Town Court room, Tuesday night, and on next Tuesday they will meet in the Memorial Hall Library hall at 8:00. It was decided by the organization to designate Tuesday as the regular meeting night in the future and the time was changed from 7:30 to 8:00.

Herbert Wormwood reported on the Judge Advocates meeting in Boston, last Monday night, at which eleven AMVET posts in the state were represented. A proposed constitution and by-laws were developed and acted upon which will be distributed throughout the State for possible local adoption.
Commander Joseph Serio will attend a state executive committee meeting in Somerville on Sunday which will prevent his taking a personal part in the paper drive sponsored by the Service Club on Sunday. However, at least five other members of the AMVETS will be on hand to assist the club members.
It was decided at Tuesday's meeting to continue with the present temporary officers until later in May when an election of permanent officers is proposed. In the meantime, a temporary executive committee was appointed by the Commander to pass on the business at hand and it includes: Herbert Wormwood, chairman, Donald Surette, Sumner Billings, Joseph Hanson and Elizabeth Buchan.

To Investigate Readjustments

"The Massachusetts Division of Employment Security is investigating all veterans' readjustment allowance claims, and appropriate action will be taken when it is found that veterans have been collecting illegally," the director of the division has announced.

"The Massachusetts Division of Employment Security has the responsibility for processing paying readjustment allowances under the G. I. Bill.

"The Division, in its administration of the State Employment Security law, which provides for the payment of unemployment compensation benefits, has, over a period of years, investigated every claim paid. When necessary, proper prosecutions of persons who have collected unemployment compensation benefits illegally have been made. Over a million dollars has been recovered in this manner," Marshall said.

"The same investigation process is being applied to every veteran who has received readjustment allowances under the G. I. Bill. This is a slow but relentless process. In all instances where it is found that veterans have collected readjustment allowances illegally, appropriate action will be taken."

The G. I. Bill provides for severe punishment for such cases. Under the G. I. Bill veterans who collect benefits illegally may be fined or imprisoned or both and at the same time be barred from ever receiving any future readjustment allowances under this law.

FROM THE GROUND UP

ONE DAY, not so many months ago, a woman went into the James E. Greeley company to buy a chicken, a pretty large chicken, and apparently the purchaser had not had too much experience with barnyard fowl, for soon after she had left the store she returned.

"Where are the other two legs of my chicken?" she asked Mr. Greeley. "The one you sold me only had two."

The long-time butcher, grocer and proprietor has a magic hand with the cleaver and knife, but never had his artistry produced a four-legged chicken.

However, ever since he started in business, Mr. Greeley has operated his market under the principle that he would serve his customers the cuts of meat that they desired. "No two customers cook or serve meats in exactly the same way," he said, in explaining his revolutionary methods, "and so we have tried whenever possible to cut each individual order as it was requested."

Curiously enough, the shortage of food during recent years has not been as extreme as it was during Andover's flood seige, according to Mr. Greeley, for during the spring when the Shawsheen was exploring Andover's streets, it was impossible to obtain enough food to meet the demands of the townspeople.

In recalling his thirty years in a business that has grown to be the largest independent market in Merrimack valley, he tells of one Saturday afternoon when he had many orders to deliver and none of the five trucks or the drivers were anywhere to be found. On a hunch, he went up to the playsead where a Punchard game was in full swing and there, parked at the grounds, were his five trucks, and somewhere in the bleachers, cheering on the high school team, were his five drivers. He managed to hail one of the drivers and get him back on the job. Word travels fast via the back fence and by the time he returned to the store, all five trucks were parked innocently out front. The orders were delivered that day as usual.

Another day he recalls with a good-humoured chuckle is a day of an important Phillips game when he was wagering with one of the academy professors. "If Andover wins," he said loyally, "I'll provide all the wood that's needed for the bonfire." He went on with his work, and towards evening 200 Phillips students marched into the store to pick up the wood. Always a man of his word, Mr. Greeley donated 200 fish barrels to the cause and the students went off, happily rolling their scented barrels up Essex street.

And so the anecdotes could go on. Thirty years worth of good service and good fellowship.

Mr. Greeley was born in Lowell in 1870, and it was back in the 19th century that he had his first job in the food business, as general handy-man in his mother's grocery store. Here developed his first respect for the business and a determination to learn meat cutting from all angles. His opportunity came when his family moved to Nashville, Tennessee, where the stock yards, packing houses and wholesale businesses offered him the knowledge he sought. He worked in them all and so when he came to Andover in December, 1916, he was not an ordinary butcher or grocer; he was a man who loved his work and took pride in selling the best that could be offered.

He started out with a small fish market at the present location at 20 Essex street originally called the Rockport market. But fish was not enough. He wanted meat, too. So a year later he broke through the wall and added a meat market. But fish and meat were not enough, either, so a few years later he broke through another wall and included a grocery store. A customer could now do all her shopping without leaving the store, and Mr. Greeley could don his white coat and straw hat and become one of the town's best friends and respected citizens.

During these years he also bought out the Shawsheen Market from William M. Wood and operated that store for five years. He had also taken over the Ernest T. Hetherington business, which was a combine of the old T. A. Holt & Co. and Smith and Manning, both businesses having served the town for about a century. In 1929 he included the John H. Champion business and many of his present customers are ones who had formerly traded with those stores. At the peak of his business he employed twenty-eight people, and last Saturday, his last day in the James E. Greeley company, he had sixteen employees on his payroll.

Beginning the first of April, the company came under the partnership of three of his employees who had been with him over twenty years, William J. Scanlon, Francis T. Kelly and Miss Mary C. Connor.

Sometime this week, Mr. Greeley and his daughter, Atty. Anna Greeley, will drive to Hot Springs, where they will stay for a few weeks while Mr. Greeley takes treatment and a deserved rest. From there they will travel across the country to the west coast and they will visit many of Mr. Greeley's friends still in the food business whom he met while attending national conventions.

His successors have told him to come back any time he wishes; so when he returns to Andover, if the lure of food gets too strong, he will go to the Rockport market and take his straw hat and white coat down off the hook.

"You know, little lady," he said the day before he retired, "a butcher is sometimes closer to the people he serves than a doctor or even a minister (his eyes were bright with the friendliness that he felt for each of his customers) because the average person visits his butcher twice, sometimes three times a week." To see the many notes, flowers and visitors that he has received at his Summer street home since his retirement is to know that a mutual feeling of friendship and closeness exists among the many people who have been served by "Jim" Greeley.

Hanging On

There's a battered old straw hat with the crown half in and half out, hanging on a hook in the Rockport market, which just last week was the J. E. Greeley Company, and beside it is a well worn white coat, clean but a little frayed along the collar. At first glance, they look like almost any old hat and coat, and yet there is a dejected look about them that suggests that even inanimate objects can have feelings. But wait — are they inanimate, or is there a ventriloquist in the store?

It wouldn't be a ventriloquist that would cause that limp white sleeve to rise and give the hat a good healthy nudge.

"I say, old hat, did you ever see so many Sundays in a row?"

"Sundays . . . My poor mis-informed old coat, today is Wednesday. Can't you see everybody getting ready to leave for the afternoon?"

"If today is Wednesday, then yesterday was only Tuesday and the day before that Monday. How does it happen that I've been hanging here like a limp old rag without the arms to slice off even a baby pork chop? Tell me that, old hat, if you know so much, just tell me that."

"Sometimes, old coat, I wonder if you have the brains of one of those headless chickens hanging in the refrigerator. Of course I realize that your environment has not been of an intellectual nature, as mine has been, but still I would expect you to learn a little from your betters."

"Bettters, humph; you can't seem to answer my question. Where is Jim? He never leaves me hanging here all day unless it's Sunday and it looks very much as if he's left you on a hook, too. What's the story?"

The hat twirled around on the hook for a while until it got comfortable and then began to speak once more.

"You see, you and I are having a vacation."

"A vacation? What's that?"

"The ignorance of coats is unbelievable. Now listen. Jim decided to take a little trip to Hot Springs and on to the Pacific coast."

"Why?"

"Well, he said something about getting the OPA poison out of his system."

"But why didn't he take us?"

"When he gets all rested up and gets back to town he's coming down here every once in a while and he wants us to be here. Besides, he said to me, 'Old Hat, I'm retiring and going on a trip. You stay here with old Coat. There's still lots of work to be done.' So I'm staying."

"Well, I'm staying, too, but it sure does seem funny to be just hanging here all the time. Maybe I can teach some of the other white coats how to get along in a butcher shop. Maybe . . ."

"Now you're talking, Old Coat. Sometimes I can almost detect a glimmer of intelligence in that invisible head of yours."

BLOOD PLASMA AT INFIRMARY AVAILABLE TO LOCAL PHYSICIANS

Free supplies of surplus Army-Navy blood plasma to be used for transfusions to local civilians have been received by the Isham infirmary. The plasma is being made available by the American Red Cross through the State Department of Public Health, which is handling its distribution.

The plasma is being distributed to hospitals throughout the state as a public service, just as are serums and vaccines. The only charge that is made is a service charge for administering the plasma.

Plasma, used widely during the war to combat severe shock, saved thousands of lives of wounded American fighting men on the battlefield, and was thus responsible for the remarkably low mortality rate among battle casualties. On the civilian front, local physicians will find plasma extremely useful in combating shock suffered during accidents and surgical operations and other emergencies.

The recent shipment of blood plasma received at the Isham infirmary was obtained from voluntary blood donors enrolled during the war by the American Red Cross and is available without charge to all licensed physicians, who may obtain it by request from the infirmary or from other local hospitals.

Peacetime enrollment of volunteer donors is now being continued in Massachusetts communities under the blood donor program operated by the Division of Biological Laboratories of the State Department of Public Health, cooperating with the Red Cross. It is expected that the state unit will be in Andover for donations on May 9.

Release of the Army-Navy surplus plasma will be followed shortly by the distribution of various fractions of blood plasma and eventually by whole blood.

At the time when the infirmary requested its supply of plasma for the care of boarding students at Phillips academy, a sufficient supply was also requested so that it could be available for any emergencies which might arise necessitating its use throughout the community as well as at the academy, itself.

Help Is Needed

The members of the Third Baptist church of Lawrence are asking the help of all the people of the churches of Greater Lawrence to assist them in building a new church—a church where they may carry on their activities as they should be carried on—a church with a real sanctuary, an assembly room, and other facilities whereby a much better and richer ministry could be carried out with the colored people of this area.

The present building is wholly inadequate for worship, Christian education, and the many weekday activities of a Christian church. It is only a cottage made over for temporary use as a church.

This church of their dreams isn't such a very big church, but it would be adequate for the task it must perform. Some of the amount necessary to build this new church has already been raised, but some $30,000 more is needed. They need the help of all the people of the churches, and the public-minded citizens who believe in the work this church is doing for the colored people of Greater Lawrence.

The Third Baptist church was organized in February, 1904, and Rev. Julius S. Mitchell, the present pastor, has led the parish since 1933. It is the only church ministering to the colored people of Greater Lawrence, and has 66 members, a Sunday School enrollment of 64, and an active Young People's society.

Checks and money orders should be made payable to Edmund B. Choate, treasurer, Broadway Savings Bank, 454 Essex street, Lawrence. You'll be glad you did.

Girls' volley ball is starting next week, and it is hoped that just as much interest will be shown.

Varsity Baseball Boggled by Weather

Varsity baseball was scheduled to start on Tuesday, weather permitting. It was not permitting, so it was put off to a future date. Mr. Dimlich will do the coaching.

Assemblies

Last week's assembly was a lecture given by Mr. Trow on the history of the town of Andover. Miss Marshall was in charge.

This week's assembly on April 5 will be a meeting of the school's student council. It is expected to be very interesting.

Hot Lunches

A new type of lunch has been installed in the cafeteria. The cost is subsidized by the federal government. The luncheons cost 15 cents during the ten-day trial period.

Christmas Seal Sale Returns High

Of the $47,840 received from the sale of 1945 Christmas Seals, as released by the treasurer of the Essex County Health association, Leonard B. Gifford of Marblehead, Andover's share was $2,080. The amount for the country was a 21% increase over last year's returns.

Five percent of each year's receipts is sent to the National Tuberculosis association in New York and 10% to the Massachusetts League in Boston. The remaining 85% is retained within the county where X-ray surveys in industry are carried on by the Essex County Health association in cooperation with the local boards of health, management, labor, the Massachusetts Department of Public Health and the Essex Sanatorium. Many unsuspected cases of tuberculosis are thus found early enough so that individuals can look forward to recovery and rehabilitation.

Handwork Display

An exhibit built around the subject of personal beauty, health and happiness has been arranged at the Memorial Hall library. The basis of the display is the handwork of some of the members of the eighth grade class in Home Economics at the Andover Junior high school. Excellent training is evident in the beauty and wearability of the clothing made by the young people which is now exhibited in the glass cases in the reading room. Of special interest are the notebooks prepared by members of the class, under the instruction of Miss Angie Dantos, who has made a real and exciting business of the school assignments.

In related fields are the books on health, beauty, exercise, sewing, personal decoration, jewelry, color, philosophy and the art of living. Any book on display may be borrowed for home use.

Push That Tercentenary

Three hundred years is a very respectable period of time. From May 30th to June 2nd the Town of Andover will mark the anniversary of its incorporation 'way back in 1646, three centuries ago.

That leaves less than two months in which to get ready for this impressive observance. Our committee of fifteen is already hard at work doing its part, but it's going to take the efforts of every one of us to make the event as successful as a three hundredth anniversary for a town like Andover should be.

We want people to know about our town, and this celebration is one excellent reason for doing a little boasting and bragging. We have quite a bit here to talk about. This is the time to make the talking worthwhile.

Tell your friends about our celebration. Write to them; invite them up for the weekend. The Townsman is asking all the business houses in town to do their part in publicizing the event, and we hope that the town's citizens will also do what they can.

Home for the Vets

Sooner or later, and we hope it will be sooner, something should be done about the housing of the Andover veterans' organizations.

For a good many years, the town has been paying two rents of $600 each annually for the local post of the American Legion and for the local post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Since that time we have found ourselves with a good many more veterans. Many of them have joined the two older organizations, and many of them have entered a new outfit, the AMVETS.

The town wants to do everything it can for the veterans of both these wars. A suitable building to house all the organizations should be provided. It should contain meeting rooms, offices and recreational facilities.

It's a good time to start thinking about this problem now. It deserves a great deal of serious thought.

We Lose an Ad-itor

One of our editors retired this week. For the past several years, while we've been editorializing on town affairs, Jim Greeley has been editorializing on the food situation or on the lack-of-food situation.

We're glad he's going to have a rest, but we're all going to miss the vigor and courage and the plain horse-sense which he used in writing his weekly advertisements.

Many times Jim has brought his advertisements in written in a scrawling hand on a piece of meat wrapping paper. He'd sit down beside us and tell us the idea that he wanted to get across. Then he'd ask our help in phrasing it. But he d'nd't need any help. He had worded it as only he could, with the power that comes from believing thoroughly in what you are saying.

It's too bad we don't have more men like Jim, and it's too bad that men like Jim can't just go on forever, but after seventy-five years you do need a rest, and there are thousands of people here in Andover and elsewhere who join us in extending our very best wishes for a good vacation and a long, happy retirement.

Current Art Trends Subject Of Lecture

Herbert Read, English author and art critic, will give an illustrated talk on "Present Day Art Tendencies in England" on Sunday afternoon, April 7, at 3:00 p. m. in George Washington Hall, Phillips academy. Mr. Read, who is in this country for a brief visit, is speaking under the auspices of the Addison Gallery. His lecture will provide an opportunity for comparison between current art trends in England and those in this country as based on the present exhibition at the Gallery, "Museums' Choice." Sunday afternoon will be the last day of the exhibition.

Mr. Read's presentations of the why's and wherefore's of modern art are rewarding material for those who feel that a picture need be nothing more than a colored photograph, as well as to those to whom modern art is a farce, a fad or a perversion. In "Art Now," by means of an explanation of the origins in previous periods, the close inter-connection between contemporary art and our social and economic life, and an analysis of the aims, blind or intentional, of our artists, he successfully clears away a good deal of the smoke surrounding modern painting. His books are not in words of one syllable; they are good stiff doses of thought and material, but completely comprehensible and absorbing to layman and critic alike. Besides publishing several volumes of his own poetry, which is surrealistic in style, Mr. Read has made studies and analyses of other modern poets.

The public is invited to attend Mr. Read's talk free of charge.

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA. — Variety is supposed to be the spice of life, but so are arguments in a baseball training camp. The argument this time, including members of the Cardinals and the Yankees, had something to do with brains on and off the ball field.

"Why is it?" one Cardinal wanted to know, "that a fellow can be smart in many ways, but dumb when he gets into football or baseball? Or why he can be pretty dumb until he gets into some athletic competition, when he may be smarter than almost anybody?"

This is a fair question. Does anyone recall the most intelligent member of the old Giant team from 1908 through 1913? I can give you his name. He is better known as Bonehead Merkle — the Giant who forgot to touch second base in 1908. Yet Fred Merkle was the best educated member of the Giant squad. But his reflexes on the ball field failed to operate as quickly as some others who would have been baffled by McGuffey's second reader. Fred had to take time to think things out. You can't do that when split second co-ordination or intuition must rule.

For example, Rube Waddell was a mental eccentric. But there were few smarter, once the gangling Rube reached the mound with a baseball in his left hand.

There were two famous ball players who, as far as I know, never made a mental mistake on the field. One was Babe Ruth who came along from an industrial school. The other was Nap Lajoie who was lifted from a cab driver's seat in Woonsocket, R. I., and a trifle later was surrounded and captured by Uncle Egbert Barrow.

Neither needed any college degree to be smart on a ball field. They were born that way.

Instinct and Intuition

The athlete who is naturally smart in competition must have a high degree of instinct, intuition and concentration. I know Eddie Arcaro figures it that way in racing.

"You haven't time to think in a split second," he told me once. "There's an opening or there isn't an opening, and you have to make up your mind in a flash. Which means largely instinct for the right things to do."

Ty Cobb had this natural instinct, this ability to concentrate, but Cobb also worked on these natural gifts.

"I used to lay in bed at night for hours thinking up plays," he said once. "I planned some of these plays weeks ahead against certain teams."

Old time ball players had no motor cars, movies, night clubs or other distractions to kill time. So many of them thought only about baseball. I mean such men as King Mike Kelly, Kid Nichols, John Montgomery Ward, Charlie Comiskey, Hughie Jennings, Clark Griffith, John McGraw and most of the old Orioles.

The main mental asset in any game is concentration. Many have this needed ingredient more than others. But the art or knack of concentration can also be developed. Concentration means keeping your mind on the job from start to finish.

As Knute Rockne used to tell his squad—"Keep physically relaxed—but mentally alert."

Borowy's Predictions

We caught Hank Borowy on the fly just as he was heading for the Cub camp and Catalina island.

"How about Cub prospects?" we queried.

"We'll need all the pitching we can get this season," the Cub star said. "By that I mean most of the other clubs will be stronger where we will have about the same cast. We got little back from the service. The Cardinals, Giants and Dodgers will all be stronger. So will the Pirates, Braves and Phillies."

"We'll be pitching to better hitting strength all along the line, while at the plate we face improved pitching also. That means tough going. A flock of dangerous hitters have been added to the league since last fall."

"Hitting in the two leagues? I can't see much difference. I had a better record in the National than I had in the America. But my arm was in much better shape when I joined the Cubs."

I asked Borowy how the National league race looked from his angle.

"The Cardinals are the team to beat," he said, "with so much strength at every point. But they can be beaten. I'm sure we'll be up there. The Giants have all the power any team needs at bat, but their pitching is still uncertain. What pitcher can Mel Ott depend on for as many as 18 games?"

"The Dodgers will be better and they were tough enough at times last season. The Pirates will be improved and the Braves will probably be bothering everybody."

Master of "T" Formation To Coach at Notre Dame

Edward Doherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Doherty of 125 Main street, recently returned to town as a Lt. (j.g.), having completed service with the Navy in the Pacific theater, in China and in the Philippines. He has now left Andover again for South Bend, Indiana, where he will begin his duties as head backfield coach of Notre Dame. He will be assisting his former coach, Frank Leahy.

It will be remembered that Eddie had the first test of his ability in the game at Punchard under Eugene Lovely and, although he played but one year, he was chosen All-Suburban quarterback. He was a three-letter man at St. John's Prep and star of the football team there, and later, while at Boston College, he attained national fame as the No. 1 "T" formation quarterback of the nation. His services were sought by many professional teams and he was signed up with the Washington Redskins after his graduation from college. However, he never played with the professional team, since he then entered the armed forces.

While at Boston College, Mr. Doherty was an honor student and Dean's List man, also serving as editor of the college magazine, "The Stylus."

Much credit is due Eddie for his achievements, as he worked his way through both prep school and college, was a top-notch student, and now holds a position that ranks with any assistant coaching job in the country. He was born in Andover, July 25, 1918, and before attending Punchard, graduated from the St. Augustine's school.

He was instrumental in the success of Boston College running from the "T" formation, and it was he who was proclaimed by every sports writer in the country as "master of the T." He is skilled in every intricate motion of the "T," having learned it the hard way, and he displayed it to the bewilderment of the opposing teams. He can teach it so well that the authorities at Notre Dame, on the advisement of Coach Leahy, took him away from Boston College, from Georgetown University, from Annapolis and several other schools and colleges who sought his services. Had he accepted the Boston College offer, which probably would have led to head coach, he could have also accepted the offer to quarterback the Boston Yanks. Both Hollywood and Los Angeles made high bids for his services to play and assist with the "T" as a player on the East team in the East-West game at San Francisco. Eddie had also coached the East team of college stars. His position at Notre Dame is a year-round proposition and he doesn't plan to play professional football.

Eddie and the former Irene Jessie of Methuen were married in 1944 and they now have a son, Edward Michael. Mrs. Doherty and young Ed will go to South Bend as soon as a home is ready for them.

Will the "Townies" Dissolve?

Shall the "Townies," an Andover baseball team coached and managed in past seasons by Hal Wennik, be allowed to fade into oblivion? The team has decided not to continue during the 1946 season unless a marked enthusiasm is shown by the fans for more local baseball. However, Andover and vicinity is expected to have ample opportunity to take in games played by the New England league, current in Lawrence. The schedule includes both Sunday and night games, and in addition, there are prospects of a suburban league and various organizational teams.

With such a heavy baseball schedule in view in the vicinity, the management of the "Townies" feels that the probable attendance at the town games would not warrant the expense necessary to support an independent team.

To those returning servicemen who have been looking forward to playing for the town again, Mr. Wennik suggests that they keep in trim by playing baseball whenever possible so that they will be ready for try-outs should there be enough requests for the continuance of the team.

Advocates Loan To Britain To Alleviate Economic Situation

In speaking on "Facing the Future" at the Shawsheen Village Woman's club meeting in the school hall last Monday night, Professor Anton J. DeHaas of the Graduate School of Business Administration stated that our country made a mistake after World War I in putting up a high tariff rate which prevented the European countries from importing or selling to us any of the articles produced in this country. To prevent economic crisis following World War II, we should import as well as export.

He spoke of the utter devastation he noted as he traveled through Holland, Belgium, France and other countries during a recent trip to Europe and, in one place, he said, the ration of food was one-half a loaf of bread per week. Still, he noted, that we, the best fed and best clothed people, complain bitterly if we can't find everything we want in the stores.

He was in favor of the loan of 3½ billion to Great Britain to enable Great Britain to get back on her feet. She in turn would be able to help other nations by paying her debts to them and thus the economic situation of the world would be greatly alleviated, and we should thus be making a large contribution toward the winning of the peace. He described Great Britain as the financial hub of the world and, having stood alone two years keeping the war from our shores, it did not seem to the speaker that she was presumptuous in seeking the loan. Had we stayed in the war two weeks longer, that amount, and even more would have been spent. Mrs. Edwin L. Bramley, president of the club, welcomed the guests and introduced the guest artist, Guy Borrelli, who rendered selections during the program. Dr. DeHaas was introduced by Mrs. Frank MacMackin and Mrs. Murray Tuttle and her committee were in charge of the refreshments. The hall was beautifully decorated with bouquets of snapdragons and the meeting was enjoyed by a large number of members and guests.

Townsmen To Publish Tercentenary Book

The Townsman is planning, in connection with the town's three-hundredth anniversary, to publish a booklet telling what Andover is now and what it used to be. It will be based to a certain extent on a similar book put out by the Townsman at the 250th anniversary in 1896, but it will be much larger and will be more comprehensive in its scope.

The tentative plans call for a book of approximately 200 pages, same size page as the present Townsman, with a full-page cover photograph of a town scene, very probably done in natural colors. The early part of the book will be devoted to a historical presentation, and the second section will deal with the town of today, its government, its schools, churches, organizations, its homes. It will be bountifully illustrated with new and old pictures. At present the Townsman has two photos taken in the late

Winston Churchill and a Missouri Degree

(Winston Churchill went to Missouri with President Truman, where he received a degree from Westminister college at Fulton, Mo.—News Item).

Missouri, meet England. . . .
John Bull, meet Huck Finn! . . .
Eton, this is Kansas City. . . .
Westminster Abbey, shake with Westminster College! . . .

An ex-British premier in Missouri. . . .
Downing street and Main street. . . .
London and Kansas City. . . .
Plymouth and Hannibal. . . .
Liverpool and Independence! . . .
Shropshire and Calloway. . . .
Nottingham and Taney. . . .
The Thames and "Big Muddy!"

This is Westminster College, Winnie.
Westminster away out among the longhorns. . . .
Its name is English but it's all Missouri. . . .
It's not one of the big colleges But it's a right smart one. . . .
It is no Yale or Harvard in prestige. . . .
But it teaches 'em so they "stay taught."

There must be Missouri stuff in you, Winnie. . . .
The stuff of Huck Finn and Joe Folk. . . .
Claiborne Jackson and Charlie Harding. . . .
Alec McNair and Mark Twain.

You don't really need a degree. . . .
You've got more than an Injun has feathers. . . .
But this one won't hurt you:
"The Honorable Winston Churchill
Honorary Old Grad of Westminster, Mo. . . .
Alumnus of the Golden West!"

Missourians have to be shown. . . .
You showed 'em, Winnie. . . .
As you have shown the world.
Have an honorary degree. . . .
And some Missouri ham and candied yams! . . .
Help yourself to Missouri hospitality. . . .
But don't let that Truman boy Give you any of those Eastern cigars!

CAN YOU REMEMBER—
Away back when you could find a place to get away from trouble?

When anybody with fair eyesight could tell the difference between a $5,000 one-family home and a $125 chicken house?

And away back when it isolated a man if he said he hadn't a shirt to his back?

NO MOVING PARTS—NOTHING TO WEAR

What could be more dependable, more trouble-proof, than the simple mechanism of Servel—the modern Gas Refrigerator. For you'll find no moving parts whatever in Servel's freezing system. A tiny gas flame takes their place, producing constant cold and plentiful ice cubes — silently — unflinchingly.
