NOW IT CAN BE TOLD

JOHN Q. FORCES ISSUE

John Q. Citizen can be a very censorious fellow. Sometimes unjustly so. Often he turns the heat of his criticism upon a cause attracting attention because of its complete sincerity and unselfishness of purpose. But John Q. doesn't quite believe in unselfishness to that degree and so the more hardworking the people sponsoring a cause, the more suspicious of their reward becomes Mr. Citizen.

Such has been his attitude toward the Andover Servicemen's Fund Association and since the association was very thorough during the war in lifting every spare dime or dollar Mr. Citizen possessed, and even some that weren't spare but that he gave willingly because it was for the servicemen and women, he can't really be blamed for wondering what is happening to the money now. Every time he discusses it, the rumored proportions of the fund leap to great heights. The actual bank account, however, remains the same. When he meets a member of the Association on the street, John Q.'s imagination sees greenbacks sticking from his pockets in big crumpled wads.

TIME NOT RIPE

The Association has not been able to make a verbal comeback with definite plans in view because "the time was not ripe." Investigations and surveys had to be made, people consulted, and in the meantime the work of the fund continued. Birthday cards, gifts, commemorative certificates were still part of the program. And then there were veterans coming back who needed temporary financial help, the kind of help that the Servicemen's Fund doesn't publicize, but which it gives when cases do not come within the sphere of Federal, State or Town benefits. There are those cases and unfortunately they will probably increase rather than decrease, not because the veteran is refusing to shoulder his civilian responsibilities as promptly as he shouldered his military ones, but because he is coming back too fast to be absorbed in an occupation or educational pursuit. There just isn't room for him yet, and until room is made, there will be times when the Fund will be an answer to a former G.I.'s prayer.

The Fund Association has been realizing for a long time now that something tangible must also be constructed with the money. Something that John Q. Citizen can point to and say, "See, this is what we have done," although the association knows full well that it is the intangibles that sometimes count the most.

VETERANS WILL CHOOSE

No matter what the Fund decided to do, John Q. was bound to raise an objection so a unique idea was hit upon. This week Mrs. A. Taber McFarlin, who replaces Mrs. Katheryn Hutchinson as clerk for the association, addressed and sent out over 1400 letters to veterans and servicemen and women from Andover, with a card inclosed so that a vote may be entered for one of the four suggestions made for the use of the money on hand. So the people for whom the money was raised are going to make the decision as to its disposition, whether it will go towards 1) a Veterans' Center, 2) a Revolving Fund, 3) a Functional Memorial, or 4) a Non-Functional Memorial. Sufficient time will be allowed for returns from overseas and it is expected that it will take several months before the results of the voting will be known.

THE LETTER

To All Andover Service Men and Women and Veterans of World War No. 2

The Andover Service Men's Fund Association some time ago recommended that when the time came to determine what use the funds should be put to, that you, Andover Service Men and Women, should make the decision.

This organization for the past four years endeavored by Christmas boxes, birthday cards, etc., to keep you in touch with your home town. The funds raised have been ample to do this and there is a substantial balance on hand. Since this fund was raised for you, the Board of Directors want you to decide what shall be done with this balance.

The suggestions below have been made as a result of a meeting of the Advisory Group of the Association and a joint meeting of the Board of Directors and representatives of all the Veterans' Organizations of Andover.

We solicit your thoughtful consideration of each suggestion and ask for an early return of the enclosed card. Please mark your preference in ink; sign and drop it in the mail.

No. 1—VETERANS CENTER: A veterans center to serve as a headquarters for all veteran organizations of Andover, united in a bond of comradeship, under one roof, but with separate office space for each organization. A general meeting room for large social gatherings and ceremonies and also adequate recreational facilities. A social center where you can meet and enjoy the friendship of your service buddies. While the present funds are insufficient to fulfill this project, it is large enough for a good beginning.

No. 2—A REVOLVING FUND: A fund set aside to be used as loans without interest to veterans of World War No. 2, in cases where need merits such. This fund could be used in the future as it has been in the past for rehabilitation and medical care when these cases do not come within the sphere of Federal, State or Town benefits; for emergencies and unforeseen cases of veteran welfare which have not yet presented themselves. This fund could also be used to supplement Federal aid when it is found to be insufficient to enable a veteran to pursue a chosen field of study.

No. 3 — A FUNCTIONAL MEMORIAL: This feature could take many forms: improved playground facilities, outdoor swimming pool, skating rink, iron lungs, hospital beds for veterans' wives, children, and dependent parents, etc.

No. 4—A NON-FUNCTIONAL MEMORIAL: A monument, a flag pole, a plaque, or some other suitable memorial for World War No. 2 veterans.

Note — The Andover Service Men's Fund Association will continue to function through 1946 and longer, if necessary, should there be a good reason for additional funds. Please note, however, that all members of the Board of Directors of the Fund and the representatives of the Veterans' Organizations and others who have met with the directors are of the unanimous opinion that the fund shall not be divided among the veterans on a pro rata basis.

Andover Service Men's Fund Asso.
Harold F. Wennik, President
Andover Service Men's Fund Association

In drawing up the possibilities to be considered, the Servicemen's Fund Association held a meeting with representatives from the three Veteran's organizations in town present and it was also at this meeting that it was decided to continue to send cards, Christmas boxes, to the men and women still in service.

ANNUAL MEETING

At the annual meeting of the association in the Legion rooms, Wednesday night, Harold F. Wennik was re-elected president and Frank P. Markey, vice-president by the newly elected Board of Directors. James Christie will continue as treasurer, Charles Foster as assistant treasurer and Miss Anna Greeley as secretary. To the eight nominees submitted for the Board of Directors, names of two World War II veterans were nominated from the floor. They were Joseph Paine and John G. McDonald. Both men were elected to the board and Harold Wennik, Burt Thornton, James Mitchell, Charles McCollum, Frank Markey and John Irving were re-elected.

THE FUND ITSELF

Mr. Christie read the annual treasurer's report which gave the following amounts:

Balance in Andover National Bank—April 4, 1945	$ 1,324.56
Receipts April 1, 1945 to March 31, 1946	9,709.78

Total balance on hand . . . $17,012.22

Among the expenditures for the past year was $2,966.69 for Christmas boxes, $862.68 for maintenance of a headquarters which has now been discontinued, $273.85 for Memorial certificates and $177.72 for the comfort and rehabilitation committees. Receipts included $2,307.31 from Salvage drives, $1,200 from Andover Police Relief Association, $1,416.67 from the carnival, $516.00 from March of Dimes ball, $121.50 from the Ladies Drill Team of the Clan Johnston auxiliary.

Curb Service April 28th

Have you ever walked home from a weekly shopping tour with groceries piling out of your arms and longed for the good old days when paper bags of all sizes were available? Or needed tissues in your home but found them not available in the stores?

If so, then you will want to make sure that all your waste paper is out on the curb by 1:00, Sunday afternoon, April 28, when the Servicemen's Fund Association and the volunteer workers pledged to help will be around to make their collection. Waste paper of this type is used, in the main, for cardboard and heavy paper production so that the limited supply of fresh pulp may be devoted to more necessary channels.

Paper collection is also an aid to Spring housekeeping activities and the postponement of the drive to the 28th was made for the convenience of housewives who were waiting for warmer weather before getting at that conglomeration in the cellar.

School boys and veterans are assisting in the drive this year and will be collecting and packing the freight trains that will carry away your waste paper for salvage. Please save every scrap until the 28th and let the waste paper that went to war for you before now go to bat for peace and a new prosperity.

A selective exhibition of the work of the self-taught Boston painter, Arthur C. Goodwin, has been recently opened at the Addison Gallery, Phillips Academy, and may be seen there daily until May 13th.

Goodwin, being an impressionist and a Bostonian, combined his art and familiarity with the city to interpret in pastel and oil the streets, the weathers, the people of Boston in such a vivid way that he inevitably becomes not only an artist of Boston, but such an artistic historian of the city in the era from 1900 to 1930. His early pastels include a scene among the fishermen of the wharves when a two-masted schooner under full sail was not the sign of a summer pleasure cruise, but the vessel of Boston's harbor trade. Another pastel, drawn with all the delicacy of the subject, pictures two young women in Gibson Girl gowns and brilliant parasols leaning over the rail at South Boston pier.

Comparison of these early pictures with his later oils indicates how good Goodwin's style was slowly freed from a tight, detailed drawing to a free, impressionist system which no longer recorded the objects in a scene but reproduced the very atmosphere of glittering sunlight or shifting fog which surrounded the objects. People in the parks became patches of light in the sun. Figures hurrying up Tremont street in the rain became tiny areas of dark which threw shimmering shadows in the wet street. The dampness of Boston snow literally hangs in the air around the Park Street Church.

Goodwin could be seen in any weather on the Common or Public Gardens furiously sketching away with his pastels or painting on a canvas that dripped with rain—a far cry from the technique of his contemporaries, Tarbel, Benson and DeCamp of the Guild of Boston Artists, whose years of training and teaching were also in contrast to Goodwin's absolute lack of schooling. He was, however, eventually taken into the Guild and some of his pictures, Portraits of a Young Woman and Hillside Farm on a Summer Day, are carefully painted, completely worked and more in manner of his academic associates. But he was more successful and obviously happier painting such pictures as Park Street Congregational Church which is a large oil done in a sketch technique where the bare white canvas is left to represent areas of snow; and figures, horse, carriage and buildings alike are thinly painted lines and masses which suggest rather than refine form and movement and the very heaviness of the atmosphere saturated with melting snow.

EASTER SEAL SALE CLOSES

Surging into the final week of the 1946 Easter Seal Sale campaign, officers of the Bay State Society for the Crippled and Handicapped urge renewed effort on the part of all workers and added purchases of Easter Seals by all citizens in the effort to combat and care for physical handicaps among those of all ages.

The sale of these seals is made for the purpose of giving aid to the handicapped and crippled throughout Massachusetts and is affiliated with similar sales conducted by associates in 41 other states through the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

Essex Delegates At Grange Meeting

Delegates were present on Saturday from many of the Essex county Granges at the meeting held in Andover Grange hall. The moving pictures were held in the afternoon about the new type rubber tires to be used on mechanized farm equipment, and Mr. Gildo Consentino of Lawrence gave a program of piano accordion music.

Mr. Harry Gardner, secretary of the Massachusetts State Grange Educational Aid Fund, spoke about the aid given students seeking higher education, and the three Punchard students who recently won the prizes awarded by Andover Grange read their essays. They were Cynthia Black, Walter Demers and Eileen Fairburn.

An auction sale was held in the evening for the benefit of the Educational Aid fund. Supper was served by the Andover Grange.

The next meeting of Andover Grange will be held on Tuesday evening, April 23. The third and fourth degrees will be worked at this time.

LET THEM BUILD

Sometimes we've thought that it really should be called the de-housing administration, because the policies that it has been following have done nothing but make it harder to build new homes.

The number of building items that are available but are impossible to get is a large one. There are restrictions of all sorts, with enough governmental red tape to make any prospective home builder give up in despair. It has also meant that throughout the country quite a few building contractors and building supply firms have suspended business.

There are now men enough available to build houses. There is sufficient material available to build a good many houses. Why, then, are so few houses being built?

One of the really great difficulties arose from what, on the face of it, was a noble purpose, that of giving ex-servicemen priority on new homes. If you build a house today, you'll have to hold it open for purchase by a veteran for ninety days after its completion. In other words, you can't build a home for yourself or you can't build one for a friend. If you build now on the lot next to you, you'll have to sell it to a veteran at a price which must be approved, we understand, by the FHA. Under such circumstances, who is going to sink money into home building? Doesn't this provision really defeat its own purpose? If a man who now rents a home had accumulated enough money to build one of his own, he wouldn't be able to now. But if he were allowed to, he would move out of the rented house, and there would be one more house available for a G. I. to rent.

A large part of the government's difficulty in the last decade has been a failure to probe beyond the surface of a problem. This certainly holds true in the housing situation, and until the restrictions are removed, the United States is going to have a very acute housing problem.

STAY PATIENT

Did you ever realize that it's awfully hard to get hypkens? You can't even get them by standing in a line.

We're having an awfully difficult time getting hypkens, mainly because the Linotype factory is on strike in Brooklyn. Grocymen are also having a difficult time getting sugar and butter and meat. Clothing houses are up against it for stockings, shirts and so forth. Telephone companies can't get all the equipment that they need to take care of the increased demands for service. And so it goes. We're just going to have to get along without our hypkens, and you're going to have to be patient, too, about your meat and the shirts and the telephone service and all the rest. It doesn't do any good to get all nerved up and irritable and give anybody a blasting, because the fellow that's trying to supply you gets pretty well nerved up at the situation himself. It will be the wonder of the ages if at least 25% of the businessmen now trying to do business don't end up in a rest home or a menatl hospital of some kind.

So keep taking it with a grin. Give the government Hell if you want to, but the poor guy that's in the middle, take a little pity on him, and before too long things ought to be straightened out a little better.

IT'S OVER — WAY OVER

The 1946 Victory Fund is just $75.84 short of the over-goal that Chairman Stillman had hoped to receive from this year's Red Cross drive. After counting all donations to date, the total is $19924.16, a generous demonstration of the confidence that the people of Andover have placed in the Red Cross and of their understanding of the chapter's need for funds to support its continuing assistance to those in the Armed Forces as well as to its tremendous program of veteran and civilian services.

"During the current Red Cross Fund campaign vast numbers of patriotic Americans have responded generously to the cause. Already the jority of chapters have reached or exceeded their local goals. In some communities, however, I understand the campaign is lagging, and I am surprised to learn that one of the reasons given is that complaints are being levelled at the organization's overseas operations by returning servicemen. For the most part these criticisms have grown out of a Red Cross policy of making nominal charges to our forces for food and lodgings in fixed Red Cross food and lodgings in fixed Red Cross installations abroad. These complaints are distressing to me, since this particular Red Cross policy was adopted at the request of the Army so as to insure an equitable distribution among all service personnel of Red Cross resources.

"I know the Red Cross. I have seen it in action. Overseas it performed with the precision of a well-trained army. I would be a grave injustice to the splendid work of the Red Cross if its campaign should be retarded anywhere by mistaken criticism.

"In providing millions of pints of life-saving blood plasma; thousands upon thousands of packages for prisoners of war; in relaying countless heart-warming messages regarding conditions at home, bringing comfort and entertainment and cheer to hospitals, leave areas, and battle fronts; the Red Cross accomplished a prodigious task. In Africa, in England, later on the

"We've Made It"

This is the most recent news we have received from Chairman Howell M. Stillman, and, of course, he means $20,000 in nice round figures for the Andover Red Cross. Mr. Stillman is only one of many who really put shoulders to the wheel to push the Drive over the top and then some, but his leadership and persistence have been an example for all workers associated with the Drive. The town owes him and his assistants a heartfelt "thank you."

continent, we learned how much it meant to find the companionship, the friendliness, the link with home the Red Cross managed to provide.

"The services of the Red Cross are as urgently needed today by our occupation troops, our men in hospitals, and our veterans as they ever were by our fighting forces in time of war. The Red Cross needs and deserves our continued support. At the moment it is in the closing days of its greatest peacetime campaign for funds. It stands now in the shadow of the goal posts. I hope to see it promptly pushed across by oversubscription of its 1946 Fund campaign."

Andover has made and exceeded her quota and the next few days may see it make the desired goal of $20,000.

At Abbot...

MLLE. AROSA IN ABBOT RECITAL

Abbot academy will present Mlle Germaine Arosa on Saturday evening at 8:15 o'clock in Davis Hall in a recital of songs, fables and monologues. Before coming to Abbot as a member of the faculty, teaching French, Mlle Arosa was devoting her entire time to her art as a disease of wide recognition. She came to the United States in 1936, and since that time she has given recitals all over the country from coast to coast. Her work was particularly for French audiences, and for groups of French students in the universities and schools.

The program will include groups of 18th century songs, fables from La Fontaine, and original monologues, one of her best known being "Chez la Modiste." The program will be given in French with English translations of the story, and in most of the numbers Mlle Arosa will appear in costume.

Miss Kate Friskin will accompany Mlle Arosa on the piano for the group of songs.

The public is cordially invited to come. There is no admission charge.

Tercentenary Plans

The school is planning to take part in the Andover celebration, both in the pageant and in the parade. Miss Hearsey has accepted appointment as a member of the banquet committee.

"Iolanthe"

Only a few more rehearsal dates remain before the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "Iolanthe," will take place. The show will go on for two nights, Friday, April 26, and Saturday, April 27, in George Washington Hall, Phillips academy. Generally speaking, the two schools will attend the show on Saturday night, leaving Friday night more available for community audiences. The six leading girls in the group from Abbot academy who will sing individual parts are: Misses Sally Power, Patricia Hogan, Genevieve Wright, Gail Sullivan, Marjorie Sommer and Helen Mastrangelo. Miss Wright has the title role of Iolanthe.

Easter Vespers

The Easter Sunday vespers will be conducted by Mr. A. G. Baldwin of Phillips Academy.

At Punchard...

Stunt Night

A rehearsal for the Stunt Night which is going to be given by the Senior class on Thursday, April 25, was held Wednesday. This coming event will provide a very interesting and enjoyable evening for the townspeople.

At Junior High..

By MAURICE SHEA VOLLEYBALL ENDS

Boys' volleyball came to an end last Tuesday with the Blues easily defeating the Golds for second place. The score was 15 to 5. The Reds were in first place, with the Greens last. The two highest color teams so far this year in points are the Blues and the Reds. Each team has a total of 17 points. Third place is held by the Greens, with 16 points, while the Golds are last, with 15 points.

VARSITY BASEBALL

Baseball has started out at Junior High with a great big bang! The team has practiced almost every day at the playstead. There is very much interest in the team, as there are, on an average, about three boys trying out for each position. The team's first game will be with the school faculty next week.

TOURNAMENTS

Boys' tournaments have started at Junior high in ping-pong, shuffleboard and handball. They are under the direction of Mr. Dunn.

ASSEMBLIES

Last week's assembly was in charge of Miss Bisbee and room 12. In the program was included a mystery play, statistics of homeroom twelve, announced by Donald Mulvey, a piano interpretation of Chopin's Polonaise by Joan O'Donnell, and a vocal selection, "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," rendered by Donald Morin, a talented young boy soprano of the eighth grade. Donald is the president of the Boys' Glee Club.

Cheever's Paintings Exhibited at Abbot

Abbot academy is presenting an exhibition of the paintings of William Abbott Cheever, instructor in studio art at the school. The exhibition has been hung in the John Esther Art gallery, and may be visited by the public at any time during school hours, in the evening by notifying the school office ahead of time.

Mr. Cheever's chief objective, particularly in the portrayal of scenes, lies in the design or arrangement of the material within the rectangle of the canvas. His color is bold enough, and very pleasing, but it is obvious, nevertheless, that Mr. Cheever seeks to bring out the shapes of things until one is aware of a sense of measured motion, a rhythm akin to geometrical delineation. His long academic training and experience in portraiture is reflected in his approach to the landscape where he emphasizes the shapes of buildings and figures by harmonizing the directions of their contours. His work is carried by draughtsmanship and design, rather than by color.

His subjects, however, are of a most friendly character — the Taft farm, and several other familiar farm scenes located near Andover. Then, too, there is Andover square by night on a rainy evening. There is another group following the same choice of material which Mr. Cheever painted when he was in the British Isles.

The exhibition includes three large works which are portions of murals, one of which was designed for Chestnut Hill, Boston; and another for Smithfield, Virginia. These are the original cartoons from which the final paintings were done.

The exhibition numbers some twenty or more works, several of which are portraits loaned for the occasion. Visitors are welcome to come to the gallery throughout the month of April.

Mr. Cheever is a native of the town of Andover, and resides here. He is instructing in art at Phillips academy and Abbot academy as well.

Review of Town's School Committees for 104 Years

The responsibility of the School Board to the Community is great and the authority and power of a Massachusetts School Committee is greater than most political bodies of the Commonwealth.

During the past 104 years Andover has had excellent school committees of various sizes. For 43 years there were three members, for 3 years five members, for 2 years four members, for 2 years six members, and for the balance of 54 years nine members.

Space here would not permit a list of all the scholarly men who have served Andover in this capacity but following is a list of the chairmen:

THE ANDO

HOLD EVERYTHING!

Dear Editor:

Now you've got me in dutch.

Every morning, my wife says to me, "If you see any stockings for sale, try to get me a pair, size 10. I could even wear a size 9½ in a pinch, or even a 10½ with a lap over." Every morning the same instructions, and every night when I come home empty-handed there's another story. It was getting monotonous. Finally, in desperation, I jumped into a line in Boston during my lunch hour. Luckily, I had brought my lunch, and as the hands of the clock kept moving around towards 1:00 and the line moved around the block towards the door of a store, I had to open my paper bag right there and munch on my sandwich. A man standing next to me took such an interest in the proceedings that I had to offer him half. He took it. It wasn't a very good sandwich, that day. Dry. No mayonnaise, but my new friend seemed to enjoy it, and he produced a couple of apples which added quite a bit to the repast. We stood and stood. About 1:15, I finally reached the counter, and guess what I got. A pound of hamburger.

My wife was pretty happy about the meat, and she didn't say a word about stockings again until the next morning. It seemed she had a new suit and all the fixin's except a pair of nylons. Now, did I want her to get all dressed up on Easter with no stockings? It was getting to the point where I felt as if I were completely responsible for Hitler not making a decent living at paper-hanging, so that he turned to another kind of hanging.

One day I saw an ad in the paper that sent me hurrying to Lawrence. All the way over on the bus I had such a smug smile on my face that people sitting across from me began to feel uneasy and one lady looked to see if her slip was showing. I felt like a pretty smart fellow. I had hit upon an idea that was going to make the little woman mighty happy. My idea was nothing short of ingenious. So I made my purchase without standing in line at all and I bore it home proudly, thinking, peace at last. Well, it seems you can't make stockings out of parachutes, even though they are made of nylon. It just doesn't work. It is now hanging around the family shower and there is a lot of satisfaction in thinking that when my sons pull that parachute string, they're in for nothing more formidable than a nice safe ducking. My wife likes the curtains, too, but the problem of what she will wear for stockings is still unsettled.

Now, don't misjudge her. She isn't lacking in patriotism. A few weeks ago she read that there was no shortage of stockings; that there would be enough pairs for everyone if it weren't for the hoarders; and that makes her a little mad, because she just wants one pair for special occasions. I can't say that I blame her either, and I've been trying pretty hard to get her some. Anyway, we had a good long talk the other night about how lucky we really are in this country and how much the destitute people in other countries need our help, and she found a pair of rayons that only had a little run in them (it doesn't show much), and she has put them away for Easter. "It's a waste of your time to stand in line," she said magnanimously. "I'll get along fine." She was even as thrilled as I was about the new shirt I bought last Friday, and she got me a tie to blend with it as a present. We have really been very companionable the last few days, and the word "stockings" hasn't bobbed up in the conversation more than five times. My home is back to normal and I saw no reason why it shouldn't stay that way, until today.

Mr. Editor, is there any way you can make sure that our copy of the Townsman has the front cover torn off as if it were done accidentally or something? I don't know how I'll dare go home after she sees that picture of me standing as big as life in that long line in front of Elander and Swanton's — after she bought me the tie and everything.

If you can't do anything about the picture at this late date, perhaps you know someone who would swap a pair of 9½, 10 or 10½ nylons for one blue plaid shirt, size 16?

QUEUE — TE?

Andover took a cue from other cities and towns during this time of shortages and last Friday morning had it's own queue, a clothesline that extended from the door of Elander and Swanton as far as the corner of Chestnut and Main Streets. Donald Surette, our cover photographer, managed to get a shot at the line of people before the sell-out, but unfortunately did not get a shot at a shirt. The line started to form at 7:30 a. m. and the shirt-selling began at 8:30 and ended at 10:30. There just weren't any more shirts.

WHERE TO GO .. AND WHEN

"Put It There, Chum"

Tired of stretching your neck like a giraffe looking for real spring weather? Not the country club members. They have been making believe that it is already here and are having a dinner at the club next Wednesday night to officially inform the weather man that, rain, snow or hurricane, this is the golf season and, by Jiminy, they're playing golf and enjoying country club life in general. This seems like a fairway to announce it, and it might be a good idea to get out the golf bag, drive out to the club and iron out a few kinks. Whatsay?

Chilly, Huh?

It's a long time since a good hair-raiser has been produced in town, and the Shawsheen Woman's club hunted down a real scare when they chose "Spider Island" to present in the Shawsheen school hall on May 3. To quote one of the actors, "Gosh, we're even frightening each other," and it's no wonder. Even without costumes and make-up, the characters are not any you'd want to run into unexpectedly some dark night.

Spider Island is situated off the coast of Maine and the setting is the living quarters of an abandoned lighthouse. Brrrrrr. The time is early evening in October. Brrrrrr again. Six women are all together in this deserted place that is sometimes so quiet you can't even hear a wave break. And when you hear noises, sometimes you're just as soon have it quiet.

It will put your sangfroid to a severe test (also your composure), and be sure and wear a hat. It will prevent your hair from being too conspicuous when it starts standing on end.

A Stitch in Time

How to put your spare time to good use? The Red Cross is looking for some sewers who will join them on Tuesdays and Thursdays, but if you want to work at home, how about setting your knitting needles to a cheerful and musical click and whipping out shoulderettes of sweaters, sleeveless or otherwise? You can pick up the patterns and material any Tuesday or Thursday at the Red Cross rooms, and it's good fun as well as a good purpose.

Maytime Beantime

On Saturday, May 4, between five and seven o'clock the Ladies Auxiliary of the American Legion will serve their annual May Supper. Mrs. Thomas Clark, gold star mother and past president, will be in charge of an attractive gift table, and Mrs. James Waldie the flower table.

The committee in charge includes: Dining room, Mrs. George Napier; supply room, Mrs. Frank Markey; chairman, Mrs. Thomas Dea; co-chairman, Mrs. Lewis W. Muise.

The main course will be those delicious home baked beans.

Early Risin'

Well, what could be nicer on a beautiful May morning (we hope) than to go to a May breakfast. You can.

The Junior Woman's union is sponsoring this 6:30 to 9:30 a. m. affair, in the vestry of the West Parish church. The date, of course, is May 1, Wednesday.

The committee: Mrs. William Stewart, chairman; Mrs. Harry A. Wright, co-chairman; tickets, Mrs. Arthur Peatman and Mrs. William Stewart; dining room, Mrs. John Hall, Jr., and Mrs. Karl Haartz.

Blood Donations Needed

By donating your blood now you may some day be helping a friend, relative or even yourself.

You may register for your donation at the Andover Red Cross between 9:30 a. m. and 5:00 p. m. on Monday, April 29, through Tuesday, May 7. The blood donors' unit will be at the South church on Wednesday, May 8.

Trump Card

Why not make up a foursome and bring it to the West church vestry Tuesday evening, April 23, where the Woman's Union is sponsoring a card party? For reservations call Mrs. Russell Foster and Mrs. Sidney Batchelder, who are co-chairmen of the affair. Refreshments will be served during the evening, and a desirable list of prizes has been acquired.

Birthday Bazaar

The date for the annual Abbot Birthday Bazaar has been announced for May 4. Plans are going forward rapidly to make this festival one of the big community gatherings of the year. The proceeds from the bazaar have been pledged this year to the World Student Service Fund. Miss Hearsey has announced that Miss Dorothy Baker is to head the planning committee and organize her assistants and appoint the chairmen of booths and the sub committees.

Two and Two

It's a little confusing, but there are two organizations and there are two dances. The World War II veterans of the American Legion are sponsoring a dance at Crystal ballroom, Thursday, May 2. The AMVETS, which is a veteran organization entirely made up of World War II veterans, are holding a dance at Crystal on May 16. Both organizations are, of course, worthy of your support and both dances will be enjoyable.

Then there's the Policeman's ball at Memorial auditorium on the 26th of April. That will be preceded by a concert and entertainment, so that even if you don't dance, you can go and have a good time.

Lobster Clause

When it comes to a tasty morsel in the spring-time, there's nothing more tasty than a lobster dish. The Women's Union of the South church evidently agrees, since they are sponsoring a lobster salad supper, May 24, at 6:30. Admission is 99 cents, which is cheap for lobster and the other dishes that will be served at the supper.

"Night of January 16th"

The Phillips Dramatic Club will present "Night of January 16th" at George Washington Hall, May 3, at 8:15.

Operetta

Have you your tickets for "Iolanthe"? Don't make the mistake of missing this operetta performance by Abbot and Phillips academies which will be given in George Washington Hall, April 26. Dramatic directors are Miss Germaine Arosa of Abbot and Chester Cochran of Phillips, while Dr. Carl Pfatteicher and Walter Howe will direct the music. Tickets may be ordered by telephoning 720.

Organ Recital

Arthur Howes, of the Phillips academy music department, will present an organ recital at 3:30 Easter Sunday in the Methuen Memorial Music Hall, Broadway, Methuen. This is the former Serlo Organ Hall, which is being restored to provide a cultural center for the area.

Mr. Howes' outstanding ability as an organist was marked at an early date, and at the age of 14, he made his debut on the Wannamaker organ in Philadelphia. He has given concerts throughout the United States, and was formerly Dean of the American Guild of Organists, of which he is still a member.

The first hour of Sunday's program will be broadcast and no one will be seated while the concert is on the air. Therefore, it is advisable to plan to arrive at the Hall well before 3:30.

During the latter part of the concert, Mr. Howes will be accompanied by Miss Jean Stillman and Rodman Rhodes.

Congressman Rogers Speaks for Veterans

Congressman Edith Nourse Rogers this week urged the Veterans Administration to expedite plans for the decentralization from Washington of appeal boards to the various 13 branch offices throughout the country so that a "personal appearance" before appeal rating boards in the higher levels can be assured the veterans of World War II, as was for many years the case for World War I veterans.

The decentralization from Washington of Veterans Administration work to the 13 branch offices throughout the country provides ideal organization for such appeal boards, Representative Rogers believes, and she urges that steps be taken to prepare for rehearings on many hundreds of claims.

The problem is not acute at the present time, but the Congressman states, "now is the time to prepare for orderly and expedited attention to appeals at a point close to the veteran's domicile, and not later when the claims have mounted to unmanageable numbers."

With a home station at the 13 branch offices throughout the United States such appeal boards could travel to the various regional offices in their territory and give as many days as are needed to appeals in that area. The final action in the hands of the Administrator would remain in Washington as before.

From long experience in veterans work, Mrs. Rogers speaks with authority on the needs and desires of veterans in proper adjudication of their claims. The personal appearance before an appeal rating board with higher authority than the regional rating board oftentimes provides the opportunity to present a veteran's claim successfully and at least to secure for the claim more detailed study than under regional procedure alone.

A DEMOCRATIC ARMY

Congressman Edith Nourse Rogers testified before General Doolittle's Committee on Officer-Enlistedman Relationship a few days ago, asking for more democratic relations between the commissioned officers and the enlisted men. On April 12, in speaking on the House floor, she said in part: "One of the things I brought up before the Doolittle Committee was the severity of the punishment given our disabled men, often given them for some minor infraction of the rules. There has been great injustice done our disabled men both in fines and imprisonment."

TROUBLE AHEAD

A soldier in an Army hospital had been given especially good attention by a pretty young nurse. One morning he declared, "I'm in love with you — I don't want to get well."

"Don't worry, you won't," consoled the nurse. "The doctor's in love with me, too, and he saw you kissing me this morning!"

GOOD NEWS FOR OUT-OF-STATE ENLISTEES

Governor Tobin has signed the bill amending the State Bonus Act so that another 15,000 Massachusetts veterans will be eligible for the $100 state bonus.

The legislation, filed by State Treasurer John E. Hurley, was demanded by Governor Tobin in his annual message to the legislature. "I am particularly glad to sign this bill," Governor Tobin declared. "It corrects an injustice to approximately 15,000 veterans who, through no fault of their own, were outside the Commonwealth in the six-month period prior to the time they entered the service."

Under the original State Bonus Act, the Commonwealth's veterans were required to show that they had been living in Massachusetts during the six-month period prior to their entrance into the armed forces.

The bill contains an emergency preamble and will go into effect at once.

Open Discussion On Four Points At AMVET Meeting

An open forum discussion of the four suggestions for the use of the Andover Servicemen's Fund will be held at the AMVET meeting in Memorial Hall Library, Tuesday night at 8:00. All veterans or interested people are invited to attend.

The meeting will be informal to allow discussion from the floor and Harold Wennik, recently re-elected president of the Servicemen's Fund Association, will be present to answer any questions posed by the attendance.

How to vote on the four points is a matter to be seriously considered by each veteran and the AMVET's welcome suggestions from the townspeople who have so generously made the fund possible, and especially do they invite those who speak for servicemen who can no longer speak for themselves.

DO YOU WANT TO SWING ON A STAR?

Star-swinging and book-browsing go hand-in-hand and the teen agers bookshow in Memorial Hall Library shows all ages how travel and adventure and good citizenship can be obtained through the magic of the printed word. New friends are made, great accomplishments and inventions are arrived at. All down the years, discoveries have been made with the aid of books, and books are not limited to a few privileged people. They wait on the library bookshelves with a ticket to new and fascinating lands, with an introduction to charming people who can become good friends.

Pointing the way toward an enriched life through reading, the display is carried out in eight separate exhibits, the dominant one entitled "Read Today-Star Tomorrow." Other features are: "Don't Fence Me In," "Some of My Best Friends Are Famous," "The World Is Your Business," "It Could Happen to you," "Life and Romance Everywhere," "Try and Stop Me," and "Where The Heart Is."

Much of the work as well as the actual choosing of the books for children was done by Junior High pupils including John MacIntosh, Brian Caldwell, Kent Donovan, Lawrence Morocco, Richard Kydd, Louise Moore and Frances Ratyna. Eleanor Parker and Jane Draper of the Senior High also assisted.

An assembly in both schools marking the official opening of the exhibit was held Thursday. At Punchard, a student program under the chairmanship of Mabel Broughton assisted by her library staff was given at assembly with Miss Sara A. Baird of the Division of Public Libraries, Boston, as the speaker. Book reviews were presented by Arden Jaspert, Jack Pillsbury, Beverly Adkins, Polly Black, and Robert Moore. In addition, a movie entitled, "It's All Yours" was shown with Ralph Bellamy as the moderator.

The Junior High program, also on Thursday, followed much the same pattern with book reports by Dorothy Christie, Sebastian Cavallaro, Sally Westhaver, Charles Souter, Isabel Valentine, William Ganem, and Patricia Black. Margaret Lane of the Memorial Hall Library was the speaker.

Miss Evelyn Banning of the Punchard faculty and Miss Beatrice Stevens and Miss Ida Grover of the Junior High faculty supervised the assemblies.

The book show will prove enlightening to all who enjoy reading, and those who don't better take warning from the verse printed on the wooden plaque pictured above. You can speak it or you can sing it, but be sure to heed it.

Do you want to swing on a star?
Carry Moonbeams home in a jar,
And be better off than you are,
Or would you rather be a mule?
And by the way, if you hate to go to school,
You may grow up to be a mule.

Or would you rather be a fish?
A fish is an animal that lives in a brook.
He can't write his name or read a book.
If that's the sort of life you wish,
You may grow up to be a fish.

So you see it's all up to you.
You can be better than you are.
You can be swinging on a star.
Reading keeps you in the swim.
Gives an "ICKY" mental vim.

Tuesday afternoon, the library was bustling with high and junior high students who were lending a hand to the setting-up of the teen-age book show. Brian Caldwell, the little boy with the big pile of books, is a junior high pupil and he is shown helping Eleanor Parker, high school student, arrange the books in the central display. Kent Donovan, also a junior high boy, has ascended to a rather perilous position which might indicate that he has every intention of "Swinging On a Star."

Let's Take A Holiday

It would mean a lot to us all, and in a very short time, too. Could we do it? — Would we do it?

Think This Over: In these United States of ours HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS of policemen are needed to preserve Law and Order. Why, because all of us don't tread the straight and narrow path insofar as adhering to rules and regulations tending to the conduct of man and the preservation of society is concerned.

Which proves that all rules tending to safeguard the majority of our people are being broken by a minority; this minority or a percentage of them, are causing extreme hardships, in this instance in Food, to the majority that want to live up to the rules set up for the betterment of all.

NOW THE HOLIDAY IS THIS:

A COMMUNICATION

WHAT PRICE SPEED?

The Editor,
Andover, Massachusetts.

Dear Sir:

356,000 American People have been killed by war from 1906 to 1946. That includes all the soldiers killed in all the wars in which the United States took part. But during the same time 751,000 people have been killed in the United States by automobiles.

Compare that shameful total killed by cars with those killed by war.

It little behoves us to be too upset about how cheaply some countries consider human life so long as we put up with this sad, disappointing performance at home. A person killed by a car is no less dead than one killed in a concentration camp. Indeed, the person in a concentration camp has more time in which to prepare his soul for the coming event than most of those killed by cars.

Allowing automobiles to go 70 miles an hour requires that 40,000 people be killed each year. Whereas if cars were allowed to go 30 miles an hour, only 10,000 people would be killed each year. Therefore, it can be said that in order to have the pleasure of going 70 miles an hour we pay 30,000 lives a year.

Consequently, can we really maintain that we know how to use our freedom, that we are worthy of it, and that it makes us better men?

KARL HAARTZ

Japan and the New Life

Go easy, Japan, will ya? You're killing us with that contortionist act and that changing-a-warrior-into-a-turtle-dove number.

Now you've come out for a new constitution, a bill of rights, an American style declaration of independence, freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom of thought, freedom of the press and freedom of the Chautauqua Salute.

You renounce war as the right of the nation and you cast out "the use of threats or force in any form." And you say "the maintenance of land, sea or air forces will never again be authorized by Japan."

But we can't help asking "Are we supposed to take it in capsule or powder form, and does it taste better in orange juice?"

There's an old adage that you can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear, a baby-chick out of a buzzard or a wax figure entitled "Love and Kisses" out of a record of Bataan.

We don't know which is the most disturbing, a country that comes out of a global shindig breathing red-fire and yelling "I can lick any man in the house" or one that comes out singing "Hearts and Flowers" and with a passion for necking with the conqueror.

Plenty of people think Russia thumbing its nose at all comers is more comforting than Japan thumbing through a book of good resolutions.

WARM AND DRY

by Gluyas Williams

Never in history has a warrior state changed faster to Old Mother Hubbard with touches of Sunbonnet Sue.

Freedom of speech, freedom of thought and freedom of religion are fine but not so fast, boys with the freedom of back-slapping, freedom of grease-balling, freedom of kowtowing and freedom of fried mush!

It is great to change voices in mid-character, but the speed is a little dazzling.

The first thing we know you will be renouncing jiu jitsu, talking back to the phone girl and speaking roughly to the cat.

You may even repudiate Japanese wrestling.

Go easy, pu-lease! The emperor who never let anybody look down on him now operates at eye level. ## Just Fishin' -

April 15th dawned gray and while most of us were still in bed, the fishermen packed their rods, reels, and flies, put on their rubber boots, tucked their license in their hat band, and betook themselves to the lakes and streams of Massachusetts. (Perhaps some of them even went as far as New Hampshire, but that's another story.)

With the fishing season officially open, those who had dug their worms the night before, began casting in the hope of catching a lake salmon, a trout, or perhaps even a kibby. There were many empty chairs in offices, as well as in the schoolroom.

And some caught fish and some didn't, but they all had a whale of a good time trying. And with April 15th behind us, spring weather might be just around the corner.

We might add, have you seen the fine exhibition of tied flies and lures, etc. at the Memorial Hall Library?

Its well worth a look-see if you're fish-minded at all.

County G. O. P. Mayors Endorse Kelleher for Governor's Councillor

John M. Kelleher, now serving his third term as Mayor of Newburyport, today announced that he is a candidate for the Republican nomination for the office of Governor's Councillor in the Fifth District.

In announcing his candidacy, Mayor John M. Kelleher pointed out that he has the solid support of the majority of the mayors in Essex county in his endeavors to regain the seat in the executive council for the Republican party.

Stating: "The great amount of criticism directed at the present Democratic Governor's Councillor evidences that the people of Essex county are strong in their desire to elect a Republican Governor's Councillor."

"During the regime of the present Democratic Councillor, the people of the fifth district have been subjected to the whims of Boston politicians."

"The office of Governor's Councillor is a dignified and influential post and the office holder has it within his power to aid mayors and officers of civic organizations to further their post-war plans to bring new industries to Essex county.

"In announcing my candidacy for this important post, I am most pleased to relate that I have the unqualified support of the majority of the Republican mayors in Essex county who feel that the humanitarian and progressive programs of the Republican party can be more readily advanced by having a man who has had the invaluable experience as mayor and as a director of the Massachusetts Mayors' Club as a Governor's Councillor."

"As Mayor of Newburyport for the past five years, and as a member of various committees of the Massachusetts Mayors' Club, I have gained a comprehensive and sympathetic knowledge of the needs of the people of Essex county. I have devoted my energy and efforts in furthering the principles of the Republican party."

"I feel that as Governor's Councillor, I can render real service to the citizens of Essex county and to the Republican party to which I have adhered from the day I cast my first ballot."

Mayor John M. Kelleher has long been prominently identified with the Elks and is the Past District Deputy of the Massachusetts North East Division.

MR. GREELEY SAYS:

"I think the trip from Harrisburg, Penna., over the Penn turnpike is the safest and nicest drive in the country. The turnpike is 160 miles long, not a crossroad the entire length of it. You pass through seven tunnels, each about one mile long. The cutting of these tunnels has made the turnpike practically level from end to end, and the filling stations are about 25 miles apart, all alike on both sides. A six-foot dividing strip the full length makes it practically a one-way drive."

"We drove along and across the great Monogahela River. Of all the sights I have ever seen this took the prize. Here was a river very wide, with hundreds of moving coal barges on it, but the color of it was orange. If you squeezed all the oranges from California to Florida at once and dumped their juice in a pool you would get the same color this river is."

And so into Ohio.

RUSSIA WAR TALK

WASHINGTON. — It's no secret that there's been considerable talk among the brass hats in the Pentagon building about war with Russia. Some of this comes from men who honestly feel war is inevitable and favor getting it over with right now. Others chiefly favor a little war talk because of its help in passing military conscription.

However, there can be no doubt about the views of the top military man in the war department—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower.

Two or three weeks ago, Eisenhower was attending a Washington dinner party when people began to talk about war with Russia. Irked by the conversation, he remarked that he was "amazed that so many people should suddenly be seriously considering the idea of war with Russia."

Then the chief of staff proceeded to give a pointed lecture on the foolishness of this war talk, which can be briefly summarized as follows:

"People who want war should only think a few minutes about the sacrifice Russia has made in the past five years — a loss of life and property so large we cannot conceive of it. A people who have suffered such a loss will not turn tail before any military force in the world today. But at the same time they will not go out and look for another war.

"And neither will we. This country is no more anxious to go to war with Russia. Our losses are great, and we want no more. Certainly the American people do not want to get involved in a war in which there can be no end but the destruction of the greater part of the world

"We have nothing to gain to start with, and would have nothing left when it is over."

ANTI-HOUSING LOBBY

Most powerful lobby since the war threw itself into the battle to defeat the Wyatt housing program for veterans. Every congressman received wires, phone calls, letters from builders, lumber dealers, real estate men.

Many telegrams were phony, as several congressmen discovered when they tried to answer them. Others were signed with the names of people who later assured members of congress that they had not seen or sent the wires. These tactics, of course, have been used before.

The prize telegram, however, was one sent to all congressmen from the St. Paul-Minneapolis area by the Northwestern Flooring and Lumber company, of which V. H. Alberts is president.

After urging that the veterans' housing program be defeated, the lumber company had the gall to add:

"Please also exert your efforts to oppose a standing vote on these issues."

NO TRUMAN ROAD

Folks back in Jackson county, Mo. usually are willing to go the limit for any honor to their native son Harry Truman. But a recent proposal to change the name of Van Horn road, an important traffic artery named after an early county pioneer, met with a storm of protest. Some of the rural citizens balked at stealing one person's tombstone to honor another.

Van Horn road was named after Col. R. T. Van Horn, who settled in the county in 1855 when Kansas City's population was about 455. He became mayor of Kansas City, was active in Missouri politics, and bought the county's first newspaper later the Kansas City Journal, now defunct.

WALLACE AND ICKES

Henry Wallace and Harold Ickes, although agreeing on basic political ideals, have never been warm friends. For 13 long years they served in the same cabinet, but part of the time they fought like cat and dog over who was to run the forest service and the soil conservation service.

Ickes' exit from the Truman cabinet has left Wallace as the last of the original Roosevelt New Dealers, and the only cabinet member with a powerful hold on independent voters. An original Republican — as was Ickes — Wallace is strong with the Negro voters, labor, and the independent liberals.

As a result, Wallace's position inside the administration is better than ever. Truman and Bob Hannegan both are anxious to retain at least one all-out New Dealer. Wallace is their man.
