Plan 150 Houses In Frye Terrace

A large meeting of several town boards and representatives of the Plymold Corporation housing division was held at the town house last Friday. It is understood that about 150 houses are contemplated, and although the corporation is engaged in the manufacture of prefabricated houses, many of which have been shipped abroad, it was reported that in the Andover development the houses would not be prefabricated.

The development would be called Frye terrace, and would take a large part of the land bordered by Elm street, the Den Rock road, Haverhill street and High street. The initial stage of the development would see about 50 houses going up off Haverhill street above the Stevens property. It would be on Haverhill street, on a proposed Bodwell road and on part of a proposed Boundary road.

The real problem from the town standpoint is one of water and drainage. The long-range water extension plan had contemplated running a 12-inch line up Haverhill street, but it was not planned to do the work this year. The lines in the new streets would be laid by the corporation, presumably with a later town reimbursement as is the usual custom, although the officials present declared that they could not guarantee any such reimbursement. It was voted that all drainage problems and pipe installations should be carried out under the recommendations and supervision of the engineers representing the Town.

Library Requests Historical Pearls

A considerable amount of historical material is being gathered by those who are preparing for the anniversary celebration. Some of this has never been put into good form before, and will soon be lost again into the obscure sources from which it was gleaned. If you have such material (and to have noted your source of the information makes it much more precious), why not leave your paper with the others to be held at the Memorial Hall library? It need not be in perfect shape, or even typed, but do consider mailing or leaving it with us after it has served its purpose! What you have found may be the "pearl of great price" for our future historians.

Industries Plan Exhibit of Products

Do you know what is manufactured in Andover? You will after the Tercentenary, because one of the interesting features will be an industrial exhibit to be held all four days in the Memorial gymnasium.

Participating will be the following industrial enterprises: American Woolen Company, Marland Mills, Tyer Rubber, Watson Park, Townsman Press, Andover Press, Tate Pipe Lining Corporation, P. W. Moody, Walbruck Crayon Company, Conry Leather Company, Shawsheen Rubber Company, Colonial Spinning, Brunelle Ice Cream Company, Harry Stephenson, Hardy Brush Company. There will also be an exhibit of school crafts.

The committee includes: Henry G. Tyer, chairman; James Gillespie, Joseph H. Higginson, Harry I. Emmons, Frederick A. Pringle, Jesse Bottomley and Harold Dunn.

Interscholastic To Have Annual Conference Here

Twenty-three New England high and preparatory schools will send delegates to the second annual conference of the Interscholastic Association on Politics and Government, May 4 and 5, at Phillips academy. The theme of the convention will be: "Advantages and disadvantages of the United Nations compared with those of a World Federation."

Speakers announced will be Cord Meyer, Jr., formerly aide to Captain Harold Stassen at the San Francisco conference, and Professor Theodore Smith of M. I. T. Joel F. Nixon of New York, president of the association and Andover senior, will preside.

The following schools will be represented: Brookline High, Brooks, Browne and Nichols, Choate, Dana Hall Groton, Hope High school of Providence, Hotchkiss, Loomis, Melrose High, Middlesex, Newton High, Pomfret, Phillips Exeter, Roxbury Latin, St. Mark's, St. Paul's, Taft, Walnut Hill, Winsor, and the host school, Phillips academy, Andover.

Anniversary Committee Hears Reports On Tercentenary Events

A meeting of the 300th Anniversary committee was held at the Town House at 7:30, Wednesday, April 24, 1946. Those present were Dr. Fuess, Miss Goldsmith, and Messrs. Cheever, Trow, McDonald, Collins, Eaton, Shepard, Flagg, Tyer and Hardy.

Mr. Shepard advised that the parade would form at 1:00 or 1:30 and travel from Elm square to the playstead. Difficulty was being experienced in obtaining bands. Several floats have been promised and a reviewing stand will be provided. The veterans have asked the cooperation of the committee in the morning memorial exercises.

Mr. Flagg reported that approximately 500 students from the public schools, academies and the parochial school will take part in the pageant. Progress is satisfactory, but difficulty is being encountered in the matter of costumes.

Mr. Collins told of the plans for the two concerts on Friday and Sunday evenings, and the orchestra situation for the banquet was fully considered.

Mr. Cheever outlined the offers of two decorating concerns, and advocated awarding the decoration of the public buildings and the cage to the Universal Decorating Co., and it was so voted. It was voted to advise the Lomar Co. that the committee could not accept their offer.

Mr. McDonald informed the committee that the sports would include a baseball game Thursday afternoon, after the parade, with a band concert during the game. Track events and other contests for boys will be held Saturday morning, and a baseball game will take place, probably on Brothers field, at 2 in the afternoon. There will also be an open golf tournament at the Andover Country Club on Saturday.

Dr. Fuess introduced Miss Goldsmith as the new chairman of the committee preparing the historical homes, arranging historical exhibits, and publishing a folder describing these exhibits. Miss Goldsmith reported very good progress on this booklet. Mr. Trow promised full co-operation. It was voted that a charge of ten cents be made to cover the cost of the catalog.

Discussion was held on publicity, possible radio time, and the official program. It was voted to give the Andover Service Men's Fund organization all refreshment privileges, starting Thursday afternoon, to permit them to use the official 300th stationery, and allow the organization to sell the official souvenir, this souvenir to be approved by Dr. Fuess and the selectmen.

Mr. Tyer reported that seventeen exhibits would be presented in the manufacturers and trades display to be staged in the auditorium. There may also be a school exhibit and it was decided to keep the exhibit open on Sunday afternoon.

Dr. Fuess advised that plans were completed for the banquet, with the exception of the complete list of guests and one or two of the speakers. The charge for the dinner will be $2.00.

The question of an anniversary stamp was discussed and referred to the Postmaster.

The meeting adjourned until Sunday, May 12, at 7:30 p. m.

U. S. FOREIGN POLICY DISCUSSED AT LEAGUE ANNUAL MEETING

"The responsibility of the thinking public today is not so much to set up the United Nations Organization," said Miss Emily Everett, a member of the State Board of the League of Women Voters, "as it is to back it up." Miss Everett was the guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Andover League in the Log Cabin on Tuesday and stressed that the principle of the foreign policy of the United States now calls for international cooperation in place of competitive internationalism.

She pointed out that the peace of the world largely depends upon a firm trust among nations and as the conditions of the liberalized countries become increasingly worse, with famine rampant and the project of getting nations back on their feet being delayed, the United States is losing prestige and friendships and the deterioration of the Allied Nations is the result.

"With the advent of the Atomic Bomb," she said, "the prospect of long, drawn-out wars is no longer possible. No nation is likely to make an attack unless it is sure it can bring about total defeat in the first blow, for there is no known defense against this new destructive weapon. It is our effort, then, and the purpose of the U.N.O. to prevent war, to remove the causes of war and to enforce a world peace.

"The armament race among nations was a futile method of gaining security and peace, and the U.N.O. is our great hope for providing a spirit of co-operation instead of a spirit of competition among the individual countries. The prestige of the United Nations must be strengthened to build a foundation for trust, trust based not upon declarations but upon actions.

"Our real defense in the past was based upon the British Navy and whatever threatened the British Navy, threatened our security. Nevertheless, we permitted Great Britain to decrease her Navy while Japan was increasing hers. Are we going to be as inconsistent in the future?

"Knowing that our security depends upon cooperation, nevertheless, such headlines as 'U. S. Insists Upon Sole Control of Pacific Bases' appeared in our newspapers. Does this not encourage other nations to build up their safety zones? Still we have declared that we want no territorial grandizement. Other headlines have shouted, 'U. S. Will Keep the Secret of the Atomic Bomb,' which brought about serious international implications. Our relations with other nations deteriorated as a consequence. We are still making the bomb while hospitals have been refused the use of uranium."

In citing instances when public opinion has turned the tide of congressional law-making, Miss Everett spoke of the Vandenberg amendment, which would actually keep the control of the bomb under the military. "Many scientists refused to work under such an arrangement. An expression of public opinion in the form of letters to congressmen brought about a change of policy that is now satisfactory to the citizens, to scientists and to the military."

In discussing the economic situation, Miss Everett said that it is here that the seeds of war germinate. "When we consider that the prosperity of one nation depends upon the prosperity of other nations, can we term the much discussed loan to Britain charity or an investment? Britain," she continued,

"cannot participate in the International Bank originated at Breton Woods, and since Britain is the largest trading nation in the world, her participation is a necessity for world economic security. The arguments against the loan based on the theory that the United States should not play Santa Claus in the present as it did in the past do not take into consideration that the loan during World War I was for the purchase of materials to be used in war, whereas this loan is to be used for productive materials for a peace-time security. Also, during the first war, we raised our tariffs to such an extent that it was impossible for Britain to pay back her debt. Now we look forward to a lowering of trade barriers throughout the world.

"Politically, world security based on mutual trust is threatened by the emphasis of national differences by the enemies of unity. It is necessary to forget the differences even though we do not subscribe to them and concentrate on our mutual goals.

The League annual meeting began at 12:45 in the Log Cabin with the members and their guests enjoying a box luncheon. Mrs. C. Edward Buchan presided and opened the meeting with an appeal for books and toys to be used in the kindergarten of the Central schools to commence in the fall. Miss Louise Sherman, who is in charge of the Central school kindergarten, had sought help from the League in obtaining the needed articles which the appropriation from the town doesn't cover. Stuffed toys, dolls, dolls' beds, dishes and clothing, doll carriages, little cars, trucks, airplanes, picture books, boxes of all sizes, small brooms and dustpans, milk bottle tops, cartons, pieces of cotton cloth, American flags, small butcher aprons of gay colors, paper bags, and jars with screw tops are among the articles which will be welcome. They may be left at the kindergarten room in the John Dove school or with Mrs. Wright in the Jackson school. Should transportation of larger toys be difficult, members were asked to contact Mrs. Buchan. It is hoped that some toys will be received by June 3rd, the registration day for the kindergarten pupils.

Reports from the treasurer and the finance committee chairman were read and accepted, and the slate of officers for the year 1946-47 was submitted by the nominating committee. Officers elected were: president, Mrs. Harold R. Rafton; first vice president, Mrs. B. Allen Rowland; second vice president, Mrs. George Jaspert; treasurer, Mrs. John Halford, Jr.; recording secretary, Mrs. Dennie Pratt; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Douglas Dunbar; nominating committee chairman, Mrs. Charles McCullom; directors, Mrs. A. G. Baldwin and Mrs. John Barss.

The Red Cross Needs Blood Donors

To Andover's Citizens:

You were a blood donor in war time. You gave your blood to help our wounded. The plasma that was made from your blood saved the lives of thousands of our boys.

Your blood can still save lives. You know that Army and Navy casualties from December 7, 1941, to August 14, 1945, totaled a million. But did you know that 160,000 people working in this country were killed and 15 million injured on or off the job during this same period? Did you know that traffic accidents cost the lives of 94,000 others, and that three million more were injured? Whole blood, plasma, and all the new fractions of blood which medical science has separated out of blood can save the lives or bring back health to millions of all of us in peace time.

The Massachusetts Department of Public Health is establishing a State Blood Program to provide plasma, fractions, and ultimately whole blood free of charge for all residents of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts who need it. But to build up a blood bank, we must provide one donor annually for every 150 of the population. The blood will be taken by mobile units and processed by the state at its laboratory in Forest Hills.

Andover wants to be part of this program. The Andover Chapter of the American Red Cross calls on you now to donate your blood. One hundred donors are needed. Your blood can still save lives.

Our Cover

The Andr-oo-OO sisters pictured on our cover are not sisters, after all, or even brothers. They are, reading left to right, Homer Judge, Phil Markey and Walter Demers, and as fine a trio of glamorous harmonizers has never before graced the platform of the Memorial auditorium. This specialty number preceded the patriotic finale of the Punchard high school stunt night last Thursday and the music actually came from backstage where Harold Phinney played records sung by the real Andrews Sisters. On the stage the three high school boys danced and gesticulated as if the harmony were actually coming from them.

This was only one of a series of well-applauded acts that were appreciated by the large attendance at the Punchard event, and Hollywood talent scouts made a major error in missing the entertainment.

STUNT NIGHT IS HUGE SUCCESS

A very successful stunt night was held Thursday evening, April 25, in the Memorial auditorium by the senior class at Punchard. Enough money was earned to pay for year-books for the entire class.

The program, which consisted of nineteen acts of practically every description, was as follows:

Costume Dance, minuet: Dorothy Valentine, Robert Phinney, Jacqueline Barry, Howard Galley, Eileen Fairburn, Fred McCallum, Letitia Noss and Edward McFarlin.

Editorial... Clean Up?

If you have a moment sometime, and if you'd like to see something of which the town can be pretty proud, drop into the central fire station. Under Chief Eddie Buchan the department has for the past several years spent a great deal of time in improving the appearance of the station and in keeping it almost spotless — "almost," heck — it IS spotless. The chief and the whole department deserve a great deal of praise, and some of the other town departments could add a little flattery by imitation.

It's an old building, but if an old building that has to house mobile equipment can be kept as immaculate as the fire station is, other old town buildings can be put and kept in much better condition than they are. With a three hundredth anniversary coming up, it might be well for the selectmen to get the town house looking a little better. The public works office, where the board itself meets, is pretty much a mess. The walls could stand a pretty good washing, the floors aren't in too good a condition. The old building isn't much, but let's make it as pleasant to do business in as we can by keeping it clean. It would be worth hiring a little extra help to fix it up properly; it wouldn't cost too much. Once it's given a really thorough cleaning, it would be easy to keep it clean.

We can't do much about the outside of the old structure, but we can about the inside. Let's shine it up a bit so that we won't be too ashamed to take our out-of-town visitors in when the end of the month brings our celebration. It would be too bad to have to say: "Yes, that's our town house, but wouldn't you like to see our fire station?"

Let's Look Forward A Hundred Years

It will be 300 years next Monday that the Town of Andover came into being. And at the end of this month we're going to celebrate that memorable event.

There is a tendency at the time of such celebrations as this to look backward too much, to emphasize too strongly the accomplishments of the past rather than the hopes for the future.

We're going to be patting ourselves on the back, and we have a great many reasons for doing so. But let's do more than that. Let's feel that it's not so much the end of 300 years as the beginning of another 100, the beginning of a century in which there will be much to do to make Andover an even greater town. Let's be not entirely retrospective; let's be a little introspective. In recalling our moments of greatness, in praising ourselves for our progress to date, let's take some time in examining wherein we have failed, in listing the things that should be improved, the places where we have probably been a little lax or slow or unprogressive.

Yes, we should think of the glory of the past, we should think of the glory of the present — but most of all we should think of the glory of the future, a future which is ours to build.

LAUNDRY

SMAN, May 2, 1946

Washington, D. C.

RUSSIA IS LIKE U. S.

WASHINGTON. — Reminiscences of a Reporter—It's been a long time since the sixth Pan-American conference in Havana, 1928; but that conference has certain similarities with what's brewing in New York today. Calvin Coolidge made a special trip to Cuba, the first time in years a President set foot on foreign soil. Charles Evans Hughes, ex-secretary of state, dominated the U. S. delegation. Frank B. Kellogg, his successor as secretary of state, also fretted and fumed in the background.

Reason for the desire to impress the brethren: Worry . . . Worry over American troops on Nicaraguan soil. . . Worry over American troops on Haitian soil. Worry about the right of American troops to intervene in various countries such as Mexico to protect U. S. oil.

Memory Flashes: Charles Evans Hughes, sedate, bewhiskered, impressive, buttonholing Latin delegates. He made a great picture, did a beautiful job of organizing a bloc of pro-U. S. A. nations. . . Cuba, Panama were to us as Poland and Yugoslavia are to Russia today. . . Hughes' objective: To prevent any discussion of intervention. In other words, the U. S. A. reserved the right to land troops on foreign soil without being hauled before the public court of Pan-Americanism. . . Hughes won out. Our interventions in Haiti, Nicaragua, were successfully barred from the agenda. We didn't have to stage a walk-out as the Russians did at New York.

Biggest Test: Whether the U. S. A. would consent to arbitrate disputes with its Latin neighbors. . . Hughes had instructions to duck even this. The state department didn't even want to discuss the matter. It was a tough fight to bar all debate of arbitration, but Hughes won out even on this.

RUSSIA AND IRAN

NEW YORK, 1946—Today, Russia, fuming against the United Nations, is in the same boat as the U. S. A. before the Pan-American union. Instead of Nicaragua, it's Iran. . . But there is one essential difference. . . In 20 years, the U. S. A. moved far ahead in international morality—due to the power of public opinion. The American people, its press and pulpit, were continually pushing their government. . . The opposite is true of Russia. The Russian people know little about Iran, little about the UNO conference, have to take what their government gives them. A Stars and Stripes quiz of Red army soldiers showed that most of them thought Churchill was an American. . . We have to make allowances for Russia because in a sense she is a new nation—sensitive and suspicious.

COLUMNIST ICKES

Probably it was pure accident, but Harold Ickes begins his new career as newspaper columnist on the same day he is needed most in his old job as coal administrator. And, good columnist that he is bound to be, probably most people would prefer Ickes at the helm in this coal dispute rather than wielding a pen three times a week.

As a columnist, Ickes should tell the inside story of how he outsmarted John L. Lewis during the last coal strike and made him call it off.

During Lewis' illegal walkout over organizing foremen last fall, Ickes pulled his trump card. The government-owned big inch and little inch pipelines no longer were needed to carry oil to the East coast; so Ickes threatened to convert them to natural gas.

With this trump card, plus the fact that the miners themselves didn't want to strike, Ickes bulldozed Lewis into calling the strike off.

UNRRA MERRY-GO-ROUND

After Mayor LaGuardia was appointed to take Governor Lehman's place, delegates of hungry nations at the Atlantic City UNRRA conference wisecracked: "We asked for 500,000 tons of wheat and you gave us a 'little flower'." . . . Without disparaging the many fine qualities of Fiorello, some felt that food problems would not be solved by an atomic bombshell. . .

New Pleasures for the Gardener... ... At the Library

No longer do the writers of garden books confine themselves to the pattern of borders, beetles, bloom and bulbs, and the new trend is a delightful departure from cut-and-dried what to do next information. Some of our finest workmanship and best literature and keenest humor is to be found between the covers of the modest garden book!

For example, in Longyear's How To Make Garden Pools the author tells of a Czechoslovakian building contractor who offers him "excellent stone and amusement" by delivering "2000 year old rocks!" which he finds in excavating. How the contractor arrives at the age of rock is by staring at its twists. Anything crooked is apt to be 2000 years old!

The Small Garden, by Katharine and Arthur Storm, is another not-to-be-missed treat! The preface is a delightful bit of simplicity, written by Walter Beebe Wilder, son of the late Louise Beebe Wilder, to whose memory the book is dedicated by her friends, the authors. It is humorous and pithy, with a jovial friendliness that is common among garden people. He tells how the Storms invaded the neighboring deserted orchard property, where the apples had an "illicit flavor" to the boys who ventured there. And he acknowledges that Mrs. Storm has green fingers, but, "unless he is color-blind, he admits having seen them pretty black!" Mrs. Storm inserts a story of her fun with the store-keepers who know what she wants more than she does herself. She went to a store hunting for a sifter that would fit over a pail so that she could sift soil for the winter prepared flats. After she rummaged around for a while, found one that was exactly what she wanted. She said to the saleswoman—"I will take one of these sifters." "But that is no sifter! It's a screen to put over a cake on the table to keep the flies off!" "I wish it for a soil sifter," said the author. "And I never have flies in my kitchen! I think they are disgusting!" The saleswoman eyed her suspiciously, gave a sniff, and marched off with the contraption. "Soil sifter, forsooth!" she murmured. "And," concludes the author, "it has forsooth made just as wonderful a soil sifter as I thought it would!"

This is really a delicious book for the people who like such books as Eden on a Country Hill and Under Green Apple Boughs. It is ideal for the young couple who want to do their best by their home surroundings. Mrs. Storm calls herself "just a woman who wanted a home which would grow in the midst of a garden and a garden which would become an intrinsic part of a home," while her architect husband, the co-author, is as excited as she about the whole thing. The chapters alternate in their authorship. . . "By the Architect" . . . "By Her." The site of their garden surrounding a house is within commuting distance of New York City, so that there is not too great a difference in the growing seasons as they find them and those of our own state. Some garden books are entirely impractical for use here, as the authors have scaled them for climates far too temperate for the northern garden.

Daisy Abbott's Northern Garden is one book that has taken this into consideration. By northern, she means the Twin Cities area of Minnesota, but she has worked out a schedule whereby those living in the temperate zones of this country can adapt by adding or subtracting about a week for every hundred miles north or south of the 45th parallel. Her book is for the woman who wants a garden she can handle without having to sacrifice too much of her family. The arrangement is by months, telling, like the Old Dirt Dobber, what should be done in January, February, etc., and how to do it with a minimum of effort.

If only one garden book could be bought, perhaps America's Garden Book is the best choice. It is excellent in every way, well-written, well illustrated, covering every imaginable phase. It goes one better than most, and gives names of species and varieties that have proven their worth.

In this same class is 10,000 Garden Questions Answered by Experts, another book to be considered favorably. Its arrangement is by subject with all discussion in the question and answer form, but it lacks the comfortable pleasures of the talkative type of garden writing.

Designs for Outdoor Living, by Margaret O. Goldsmith, has an excellent introduction summing up the reason for coordinate planning of home and grounds. The major part of the work is written around illustrations, as the author feels we could "learn by looking," but that most of us can not take time or money to indulge in the garden visiting this would necessitate. The majority of things shown are beyond the range of average gardeners, but most suggestions can be adapted. It is a beautiful mouth-watering type of a book!

Louise Bush-Brown turns her phrases neatly in her America's Garden Book when she makes this statement in the chapter on foundation planting; arguing that this type of planting was developed to hide the ugliness of concrete blocks, she says, "The nursery catalogs were filled with pictures of various combinations of dwarf evergreens, not many years ago. Variety of form and color and texture seemed to be the great aim in this type of planting. It never occurred to people that the array of tall and short croquets, round and oval globes, and the green and yellow and blue pincushions, with a pair of stiff toy trees, had only covered up one type of ugliness with another. The only difference was that for monotony there was substituted a restlessness; for frank utility, a discordant decoration."

Although this is not new, it is a find for most gardeners who have ideal locations for wild gardens and are unable to make the changes required to change them into the formal ones — Herbert Durand's My Wild Flower Garden. The "Preamble," by Richardson Wright, an authority on gardening, is a delightful page and a half exposition on the gentle hunter, who brings home from the hunt no game or fish, but carefully lifted living plants, in order that their lives may be prolonged and their tribes increased, so to speak. Mr. Durand gives a list of names and addresses of people who have developed successful wild flower gardens and invite correspondence concerning them. There are a few photographs of the author's garden in this inspiring adventure into a worthwhile pastime, to say nothing of its value as a conservation undertaking. With this, be sure to read George D. Aiken's Pioneering With Wild Flowers.

There are a few books which have been added to our collection in the not too distant past along these lines. Some are on the tables with the garden display, but all may be borrowed for home use.

Finally, the following paragraph, taken from Henry Beston's Herbs and the Earth, sums up what we feel is true — "It is only when we are aware of the earth and of the earth as poetry that we truly live. Ages and people which sever the earth from the poetic spirit, or do not care, or stop their ears with knowledge as with dust, find their hearts grown hollow and their hearts an emptiness echoing to questioning."

"Spider Island"

A 40-year-old murder mystery will be solved May 3, when the curtain goes up at 8:00 in the Shawsheen school hall on the production to be presented by the Woman's Club dramatic department.

Weird screams and howling wind accompany the unfolding of the plot, which involves an axe murder, hidden gold and a kidnapping. Mrs. Philip A. Costello is in charge of the production, with Mrs. Irving Humphreys directing. Mrs. John B. Guild is in charge of make-up, and Mrs. Frank Stevenson is stage manager and director of sound effects, with Mrs. Walter C. Caswell assisting.

Henry Todd, school janitor, has perfected the lighting for the production and has been of invaluable assistance to the cast. Those taking part in the mystery are: Mrs. Frank Kefferstan as Meg; Mrs. Philip A. Costello as Abbie; Mrs. Dorothy Guild, Salem Mayo; Mrs. Mildred Best, Star; Mrs. Phoebe Colquhoun, Patsy; and Mrs. Grace Orstein as Dullie.

Fair and Warmer

A "County Fair" will be held on the South church grounds Friday, May 24, under the sponsorship of the Women's Union. On sale at the various tables will be food, flowers, plants, pop corn, peanuts, tonic, white elephants, grabs, aprons and other fancy hand-made articles.

Featured will be a baby show and parade, and a lobster supper will be served at 6:30. Chalk this date on your calendar as an event not to be missed, and P. S., white elephants may be sent to the church at any time from now until the date of the sale.

Ladies' Night

A second annual Ladies' Night will be held by the Catholic club of the St. Augustine's church on

Fresh Fruits And Vegetables In Season

The Andover Spa

Elm St. Off the Square

May 14 at the parochial school hall. The entertainment is to supersede last year's program, which is saying a great deal, and "tripping the light fantastically" (if the quote is correct) will be enjoyed.

Members are requested to notify the club officers that they are planning to come and how many guests they will bring.

Baked Beans

The American Legion Auxiliary who at one time had the priority on serving delicious May breakfasts has now turned its culinary skill to May suppers instead. May 4th in the Legion rooms from 5:00 to 7:00, they will serve the characteristic Saturday night dish of New England—BEANS. Not just any kind of a bean but a Boston bean, home baked, and accompanied with cold meats, relish, green vegetable salad, rolls, coffee, ice cream and cookies. Could anything be better? Mrs. Thomas Platt, past president and gold star mother, will be in charge of a gift table and plants will also be on sale.

Jurist for a Night

"The Night of January 16th," a 2-act comedy-drama which made its debut on Broadway in 1935, will make its Andover debut Friday, May 3, in George Washington Hall. The Phillips academy Dramatic Club is dramatizing the mystery under the direction of Mrs. N. P. Hallowell and the audience will act as the jurists at the murder trial.

B. U. Presentation

A bas-relief of the noted American composer, Edward MacDowell, designed by Bashka Paeff, was presented to the Boston University college of music, Tuesday night, by the University Women's Council. Mrs. Myron Clark was co-chairman of the Women's Council reception.

Visit Andover's Gardens

On May 25th from 1:00 to 6:00, nine gardens and seven Andover homes will be open to the public under the sponsorship of the Garden Club. Tickets are obtainable at the Book Store and there will be a small charge for the tea which will be served at the Andover Inn at 4:00. A more detailed account will be found under the Garden Club Notes.

Hayshakers

The Ballardvale "Welcome Home" committee is at it again and this time they will hold a Hayshakers dance at Shepard's auto-torium, the garage of Watson Park. Tim Haggerty's old-time orchestra will provide the music and there will be prizes for the best dressed rube and rubess, should there be such a thing as a best dressed rube. A good opportunity to wear out your old clothes and maybe get a prize for doing it.

Country Club Plans Busy Season

The Andover Country club is growing with leaps and bounds, and the membership has increased this season with eighty new members. This does not include the Abbot and Phillips academy students who are frequently golfing at the club.

A University of Maine banquet and a membership dinner were among the events at the club last week and more activities are planned as the season gets under way.

Satire at Seven

The Townsman can look forward to a punny future in 14 or 15 years should Robin Grover (age 7) continue to grow in the way the twig is bent at present. He likes to come into the office after school and "work" and the other day he was showing off a pair of new shoes which he had recently bought.

"Oh," said his listener, "Walk-Over?" "No," was the snappy reply, "I took a bus."

No Gamble

Gambol with the Ramblers (Roland Russell's) at Crystal ballroom the night of May 16th and your good time won't be a gamble. The AMVETS have already sold a goodly amount of tickets but no one as yet has approached Frank McBride's record of 3,211 tickets for the Policeman's concert and ball. Tickets will also be on sale at the door.

Glee Clubs

The Glee clubs of Bradford Junior college and of Phillips Academy, Andover, will give a joint concert at Bradford on Saturday evening, May 4, at 8:15 o'clock.

The combined clubs will sing four choruses from the cantata "In Windsor Forest" by the English composer, Vaughan Williams. Both clubs will offer their own selections, and there will be three piano solos by James S. Darling, Andover senior.

PAPER COLLECTION LARGEST SINCE V-E DAY

More newspapers and magazines were sitting out on the curbsings Sunday afternoon than have been contributed to any of the Andover Servicemen's Fund Association paper drives since V-E Day. Two railroad cars were packed to overflowing by about 5:00 o'clock in the evening when fifty Junior High school boys, association members, AMVETS and the drivers of the trucks were at last able to call it a day and wend their weary way homeward for a hot and generous supper.

It must be admitted that about a quarter of a pound of papers never did get packed away in the cars, as two or three boys discovered a funny book they could not resist, someone else found a German newspaper printed in 1914, and the Townsman resurrected a couple of old pictures of Andover. With these exceptions all the waste paper was shipped to a manufacturer of cardboard boxes, and the finances received from the drive will be deposited in the Servicemen's Fund.

Junior High Principal Milton C. Blanchard was at the playstead early to check the arrival of his students, and Herbert Devaux, Junior High president, was put in charge of the group. Unfortunately there were a few of the trucks expected that were not available that afternoon so that many of the boys went to the railroad siding to help unload, not an envious job, and to await their turn for a truck route.

The Servicemen's Fund Association has organized quite a system to facilitate the unloading of the trucks and the packing of the cars and the AMVETS fell right into the plan with military precision. A line of men from the trucks to the furthest part of the railroad car passed the bundles along, the first one in the gang calling off the type bundle, "loose," "tied," "loose," "egg crates," and so on, and only once or twice was there a misnomer on purpose.

In the interim between truck loads, magazines dating back to the 1930's were pored over with enthusiasm, and the talk ran from the Air Corps to Andover's Tercentenary, and back to tales of the service. A big dog and a little boy supplied the entertainment.

Because of the shortage of trucks, many drivers with their helpers completed two and sometimes three routes which were portioned by the drive chairman, John Erving. The owners and drivers of the trucks were as follows: owner, C. D. Abbott, driver, C. D. Abbott; owner, Edward Downs, driver, William Downs; owner, G. Richard Abbott, driver, G. Richard Abbott; owner, Andover Coal Company, driver, Henry Burbine; owner, American Woolen Company, driver, Charles Mitchell; owner, Tyer Rubber Company, driver, David Vannett; owner, Douglas Byers, driver, Douglas Byers; owner, two trucks of Phillips academy, drivers, Sam Caldwell and Jim Thomson; owner, Fred Doyle, driver, Fred Doyle; owner, Arthur O'Hara, driver, Arthur O'Hara.

Andover Servicemen's Fund Association members loading and unloading were: James Christie, Jim Mitchell, James Mosher, George Winslow, J. Emmanuel Gaudet, Harold Wood, E. Burke Thornton, Harold Wennik, John Erving and Frank Zecchini. They were assisted by the following AMVETS: Joseph Serio, Sumner Billings, Fred Kidd, Zigmund Kupis, John Anderson, Betty Buchan, James Sparks and Herbert Wormwood.

Junior High boys working the routes and also unloading were: Maurice Shea, Fred Lloyd, Jack Caswell, Herbert Deveaux, James Ross, David Anderson, Robert Beauchesne, Charles Souter, David Batchelder, Dick Gould, Roger Dea, William Ruel, Arthur Jowett, Philip Gaudet, Brian Caldwell, Joe Collins, Sidney Watson, Charles Johnson, Harold Wood, Donald Valz, John McIntosh, Joe Wennik, Charles Koza, Robert Harket, John Ross, Robert Fredrickson, Alfred Duke, David Southwick, David Wetterberg, William McKee, John Young, Warren Crawford, Hilton Cormey, George Peters, Charles Dwyer, Alan Douglas, Richard Wrigley, William Johnson, William Peters, James Biernes, Tony Medolo, John Higgins, Harold Gens, John Ness, Beep Colombosian, Bancroft Frederickson, Edward Lawson and Ben Stafford.

Gay "Iolanthe" Well Presented by Large Cast

A GAY CHANCELLOR
Cut Courtesy of The Phillippian

Playing for two nights in succession before packed houses, the Fiddello Society of Abbot Academy and the Glee Club of Phillips Academy put on Gilbert and Sullivan's "Iolanthe", Friday and Saturday, April 26 and 27. Nearly 100 students from both schools participated. The opera of the peer and the peri, while perhaps not as well-known as the "Mikado" and the "Pirates of Penzance," is a colorful and tuneful show, to which the boys and girls did more than justice.

Dr. Carl F. Pfatteicher of Phillips and Mr. Walter Howe of Abbot directed the music, while faculty advisers, directing the acting, supervising scenery and costumes, have been working for weeks to perfect the show. From Abbot were Mlle. Arosa, Miss Macdonald, Miss Hedlin, Miss Dodge and Miss Tingley. From Phillips, Dr. Grew, Mr. Cochran, Mr. Taylor, Mr. Cobb and Mr. Vuilleumier served as advisors, critics and directors.

The following were the principal roles and players: The Lord Chancellor, Walter Alkman; Earl of Mountararat, Paul Marier; Earl of Tolloller, Louis Barnes; Private Willis, Kimball Whitney; Strepthon, David Shaw; Queen of the Fairies, Sally Power; Iolanthe, Genevieve Wright; Celia, Helen Mastrangelo; Lella, Gail Sullivan; Fleta, Patricia Hogan and Phyllis, Marorie Sommer. The piano accompaniments were played by Dorothy King, Martha Morse and James Darling.

Full credit should be given to the stage crew for a very effective and well-designed pair of sets, and for the smooth and efficient running of both performances, which went off without a hitch.

Improvement Society Asks Aid In Poison Ivy Extermination

The Trustees of the Andover Village Improvement Society are launching a campaign to rid the town and the adjacent country-side of its growth of poison ivy.

Each member of the society as well as other residents of Andover are asked to help by exterminating any found on the property where they reside and to report growth of the poison ivy lacking responsible attention to someone on the committee.

The committee consists of: President of the Society, Mr. Edmond E. Hammond, Porter road, Tel. 539; Chairman of the Committee, Heinrich Rohrback, Sunset Rock road, Tel. 192; G. Richard Abbot, Upland road, Tel. 648-J; Fred E. Cheever, 21 Main st., Tel. 775.

For the extermination of poison ivy, the Massachusetts Horticultural Society recommends the use of dry borax, 10 lbs. of borax to 1 square rod of soil. Common salt is also an effective killing agent, one-half pound or more to the square foot. Numerous other remedies are on the market. Some are poisonous and should be used with caution. Most hardware stores carry these supplies and W. R. Hill, Andover

Hardware, 43 Main street, is co-operating and can assist you in making a choice.

Now is the time to act — and watch for the appearance of the leaves which are divided into three leaflets, smooth-edged and glossy. Get after them when they first appear before the mass of growth of the poison ivy gets ahead of you.

WITHDRAWS APPEAL

Mr. Woodworth of the Main Street garage in Shawsheen square has withdrawn his appeal in connection with his application for the use of the corner lot in the square for additional garage facilities. Cars are being parked there now, but it is said that they are customers' cars and are not used cars for sale.

Free Church Observes Centenary

REV. MR. WHELOCK AT FREE CHURCH SUNDAY

The Free Christian Church Centenary Observance will open on Sunday morning with a special worship service and sermon by Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock, a former pastor of the Free Church. Mr. Wheelock was born in Hingham, Massachusetts, and is a graduate of Dartmouth College in 1914 and of the Andover Theological Seminary in 1917. He was ordained to the Christian ministry on October 14, 1917 in the Church of Christ in Bedford, Mass., where he served as pastor. During World War I he went overseas as a YMCA Secretary and served with the Foyer du Soldat in France for six months. In June 1918 he was commissioned a Chaplain and spent more than a year with the 23rd Infantry, 2nd Division, U. S. Army in France, Belgium and Germany. Mr. Wheelock returned to the Bedford church, but in 1920 accepted the call to the Free Christian Church of Andover and remained here until 1924. At that time he became pastor of the Congregational Church in Williamantic, Conn., leaving there after five years to continue his ministry in the Church in the Highlands, White Plains, N. Y., where he has been pastor for the last fifteen years, making an enviable record for himself and the church.

Mr. Wheelock is married to the former Pauline Sanderson of Andover, and has two sons, aged 14 and 17.

Andover friends of the Free Church are cordially invited to attend this service to renew acquaintance with Mr. Wheelock.

ANNIVERSARY RECEPTION

On Monday, May 6th, at 7:30 p. m. the Free Christian Church will hold an Anniversary Reception for members and friends, with brief addresses by civic and religious leaders. Following a reception by church officials, Mr. Alfred Lombard, Master of Ceremonies, will present the speakers of the evening.

Representing the Town of Andover, Roy Hardy, chairman of the Selectmen, will speak. The schools will be represented by Kenneth Sherman, superintendent, and Miss Marguerite Hersey of Abbot Academy. Those speaking for various religious groups will be Rev. Frederick B. Noss, Rev. Newman Matthews, Rev. Egbert W. A. Jenkinson, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Methuen.

The choir of the Free Church will offer several selections including a solo by Mrs. Frances Dunlevy, accompanied by Mr. Hunsche, organist of the Christ Church. Incidental music will be furnished by an instrumental trio.

Special decorations will be provided by the Centenary Committee, based on a United Nations motif.

In addition to the speaking, there will be an exhibition of many interesting pictures and objects of historical interest. Refreshments will be served for all who attend. Active in the preparations for this event are members of several church organizations: the Helping Hand Society, the Pilgrim Fellowship, the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts.

NOTED ORGANIST PRESENTS CONCERT

As part of its centenary observance, the Free Church will present the noted organist, E. Power Biggs, in a recital Sunday evening, May 5th, at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Biggs is an organist of world renown and it will be a great privilege for Andover people to hear him. At the console, over the radio and on Victor records he has become famous for presenting the greatest organ music of all ages and his art has won acclaim in all parts of the world. The public is cordially invited to attend this recital.

CENTENARY BANQUET

Celebrating the organization of their church on May 7, 1846, the members of the parish of the Free Church will meet next Tuesday evening for a Anniversary Banquet in the parish hall of the church at 6:30 p. m. After a baked ham supper, Rev. Levering Reynolds, Jr., acting as toastmaster, will introduce the special features of the evening. A paper written for the occasion concerning the early history of the church will be read by Miss Mary Byers Smith, herself a descendant of one of the founding members of the church. Two former ministers of the church, Rev. Frank Dunn and Rev. Herman Johnson, will be called upon for reminiscences, and also Rev. Frederick C. Wilson, the son of the former beloved pastor, Rev. F. A. Wilson, and Rev. Russell Richardson of Attleboro, Mass., a descendant of one of the church founders.

An event of much interest to the church members will be the roll call of all those who have been members of the church for fifty years or more. Climaxing the evening will be the report of the Centenary Fund Committee, which has been collecting the gifts from church members to be given as an anniversary present to the church.

Portrait of a Secret Weapon

The greatest "secret weapon" possessed by the United States in World War II was not the B-29 — or radar — or even the atomic bomb.

It was the adaptability and resourcefulness, the courage and loyalty of the American soldier.

The mechanics and farmers and soda clerks who went into the Army at their country's call had not been raised to war. But they became an unbeatable fighting force.

The Army did more than train and discipline these men. It gave them scope for growth and initiative. They proved, for the second time in a quarter-century, that free men make great soldiers.

The Regular Army soldier of the future must be educated and trained to an even higher standard than in the past. For it will be his duty to learn the many great technical advancements that science has made in this war. He must handle television fuses, robot bombs, radar detectors, recoilless weapons and many problems in applied nuclear physics.

He will be tackling one of the biggest jobs in the world — learning how to protect our country in an era of scientific instruments such as the world has never known before.

This new Regular Army needs — and is getting — many of America's finest young men.
