Lawns Go Thirsty So Gardens May Grow

The appeal that townspeople refrain from using water for sprinkling lawns made by Sidney P. White, chairman of the local board of public works, Friday night when the water supply was reported as "dangerously low" has not been relaxed in spite of the rainfall on Sunday and Monday. "There was not enough rain to soak into the grass ground," Mr. White says, "and so the market gardeners who depend upon their products for livelihood are continuing to use their sprinkling systems."

When the situation was called to Mr. White's attention by the Superintendent on Friday, the depth of the reservoir was checked at 11:00 o'clock and found to be down 57 inches. It was losing about 7 inches an hour. Rated at about 1200 gallons a minute, the steam turbine was being forced to over 1700 gallons a minute.

Although the situation was very serious, Mr. White stated that it was not as bad as two years ago. The 16-inch pipe coming down Lowell street from Haggett's pond to Cutler road laid last year alleviated the condition considerably since it reduced the head pressure by providing a greater outlet to take the water from the pump.

In order to conserve the water on hand in the reservoir Friday night, a member of the department went to various homes in town that were using lawn sprinklers and requested that they be shut off. Forty sprinklers were found in operation in Shawsheen, only a small percent of the number in the whole town. The use of sprinklers was further checked over the week-end and it is reported that the townspeople co-operated 100% with the B. P. W. request.

However it was necessary to obtain more water from Lawrence and pumping operations were begun at 9:40 Saturday morning and continued until Sunday evening. An auxiliary pump was hooked up to the hydrant at the Andover-Lawrence line on North Main street and South Broadway and a second pump at the Andover-Lawrence line near the junction of North Main street, West Andover, and Mount Vernon street, South Lawrence, was added Saturday afternoon. A total of 2 million gallons was received. Another pump on Union street was in readiness to be put into action at any time but it was not necessary.

"The water supply is now under control," Mr. White reported, "but the pumps are ready to connect with Lawrence again if it should be necessary."

It is anticipated that the pipe lines now being laid will be of great help and the contractor is rushing the installation of the 16-inch mains which were authorized at the last town meeting. The Lowell street line is being continued along Cutler road in the rear of West Parish cemetery and along Reservation road to Andover street, under the Boston and Maine Railroad bridge and under the Shawsheen river at Central street into Elm square. Another line will branch off at the junction of Phillips and Central streets to run up Phillips street to the top of Andover hill cutting into the main at Main street at the junction of Main and Phillips.

Another 16-inch line is in progress from Elm Square to the junction of Walnut avenue and Washington avenue at the lower end of Johnson acres.

Receives Appointment As Executive Director

The Massachusetts Council of Churches' office announced today the appointment of Rev. Frank E. Dunn of Elm street as Executive Director for the Western Area of the State, beginning September 1. Coincident with this announcement came one from Springfield which states that Mr. Dunn also has been appointed Executive Secretary of the Greater Springfield Council of Churches.

The arrangement under which Mr. Dunn will devote a major part of his time to church cooperation in the Springfield area and the balance to State Council work in Western Massachusetts, west of Worcester County, is one jointly agreed upon by the State Board of Directors and the Springfield Board.

For the past year and a half, Mr. Dunn has served as Director of Public Relations and Finance for the Massachusetts Council of Churches. In this capacity he has been responsible for the income of the annual budget and for the conducting of the Council's Working Fund Campaign. He also has had in charge the releasing of news stories and feature material for many of the Protestant denominations, and the State Council's Religious Radio programs and activities for the State have been under his jurisdiction.

Prior to his affiliation with the State Council, Mr. Dunn has held pastorates in Hampstead, N. H., Peabody and Andover, and was for four years Alumni Secretary of Mount Hermon School.

GOP CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR HAS FRIENDLY VISIT IN TOWN HOUSE

It was raining buckets when Lt. Gov. Robert F. Bradford accompanied by his secretary George Brady and Col. Edward Sirois arrived at the Town house Tuesday evening and stood at the door of the town clerk's office several minutes before the gathering realized that the young man with the water dripping off his hat was the Republican nominee for Governor.

The Lt. Gov., who is this week making a series of appearances in the cities and town of Middlesex County, said that he hoped to complete a tour of the commonwealth by Labor day and expressed a hope that after his informal visits with representatives of each community he would be able to associate people and ideas with the names of cities and towns rather than just a spot on the map. None of his visits have taken the form of a political rally.

Greeting the Lt. Gov. were Representative J. Everett Collins, Selectman Roy E. Hardy, town clerk George Winslow, veterans service agent Frank Markey, Republican nominee for State Senator Philip K. Allen, chairman of the Republican town committee Harry Sellars, with other representatives Mrs. J. Everett Collins, and Fred Cheever, Alex Beedie, and World War II veterans Roger and John Collins, Irving J. Whitcomb and Betty Buchan.

Shaking hands all around, the candidate talked informally to everyone and displayed his ability to associate names and faces by calling each by name and even by nickname, addressing Irving Whitcomb as "fat."

From the town house the party went to the Central fire station where he was introduced to a group of firemen then on duty.

Upon meeting Francis Sparks, he remarked that that was "a good name for a fireman" and recalled his own experience of serving in the calvary under an officer surnamed Gallup. Other firemen who met Lt. Gov. Bradford were Lester Hilton, Gordon Coutts and John Cole.

A soft-spoken friendly man with a ready smile, the Republican nominee rivals his opponent in attractiveness and if the election should boil down to a contest of charm and good-looks, the Republicans have a good chance to put their candidate in office.

Bradford is optimistic in regard to the industrial future of Massachusetts but says that the continued growth and expansion of the state is impossible unless every citizen takes an active part in the government. "Government today," he has stated, "sits with every man at his breakfast table and walks with him to his office, to his work bench, or to the fields that he tills. Every one of us has got to know enough to tell government what to do because, whether we like it or not, government will tell us."

In looking toward the future, he has affirmed that "in the era about to dawn—an era of plastics, electronics and basic changes in almost every field—we can look to the 'intelligence and information of its inhabitants' to keep our old Commonwealth foremost among the leaders of the land. We cannot afford to permit anyone to sell Massachusetts short."

This Sober Town...

Swoosh Hunt

Haggett's pond is at low tide and the Board of Public Works is pleading with townspeople to curb their water uses. Lawn sprinkling, for instance, is one practice that can be discontinued during the drought, although we have heard of a case where a sprinkler was being used to kill two birds with one stone, which might change the picture somewhat. A young man, whom we shall call anonymous for purposes of illustration, was walking home one dark night when he heard a mysterious swooshing sound. He stopped and peered cautiously around, but nothing happened. The swooshing continued. As he walked on, the sound increased, and when it was at its height he received a cooling shower by courtesy of the property owners. Sure, it was a hot night, but a lot of water wastage can go on from nightfall to day-break. This anonymous person suggests that the Board of Public Works go on a Swoosh hunt and track down the careless landowners who leave their sprinklers going all night.

It could be as much fun as Snipe hunting! Swooshes are much easier to catch than Snipes, because a Swoosh is more or less stationary. Once all the Swooshes are eradicated or evaporated, there would be more water for necessary purposes and unsuspecting people walking home on an evening could choose their own times for showers.

Added Incentives

Our Boy Scout reporter has been particularly disarming this week. Well-known as a scouting enthusiast who goes all out to see that local boys will receive their share of early training in leadership and citizenship, the District Commissioner has been instrumental in enlarging the number of troops in Andover and outlying districts. We have often wondered how he does it. This week we note that he has subtly inserted a menu served at the Boy Scout camp which included ROAST BEEF. What is the maximum age limit for a Scout, anyway? Since the result is admirable, we won't question the recruiting method. Besides, we noticed in an Army newspaper that our government was announcing that all WACs who re-enlist will be presented with two pairs of nylon stockings and one pair each month thereafter until their service is concluded.

OUR COVER

Stopping at the Town house Tuesday evening to pay an informal visit to town representatives, members of the Republican town committee and a group of World War II veterans, Lt. Gov. Robert F. Bradford on extreme left is pictured as he talked with the veterans, who are Roger Collins, Irving J. Whitcomb, Betty Buchan, Frank Markey and Philip K. Allen. Just as the picture was being snapped, Roy Hardy, not shown, cracked that the Republican candidate for governor was "keeping on the right side of the veterans."

The engagement of Miss Gladys Mary Surette to Vern E. Cronkhite of Dayton, Washington, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Cronkhite was recently announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark E. Surette of 4 Locke street.

A graduate of Punchard, Miss Surette received her library degree from the Springfield Library school, and is employed as head librarian for the Etna Insurance Company in Hartford, Conn.

Mr. Cronkhite attended Bosman College and received his degree in engineering from the University of Colorado. He was recently discharged from the Army with the rank of lieutenant, and while in service he attended Cornell University. He is employed by Westinghouse Company in Philadelphia. A late winter wedding is planned.

The twins went through Yale together and followed similar careers in the Army, holding similar rank throughout, from private to captain. They commanded adjoining batteries in the Third Army drive through Europe.

Miss Robjent received her Bachelor of Science degree in education from the Wheelock college in Boston last June. She also attended Abbot academy and the Pines school, Norton.

Jimmy Durante at Yale

Jimmy Durante was a guest at the Yale commencement exercises the other day. The Yale classic festivities coincided with the opening of Jimmy's latest movie "Two Sisters From Boston" in the college town. Both Yale and the picture people made the most of it. No result was announced officially, but observers say Yale lost another close one.

Believe it or not, the class of 1913 adopted Durante. And in one of the class costumes "The Schnozzle" paraded in the traditional commencement parade, did his stuff at the annual ball game and was photographed being welcomed by Pres. Charles Seymour of Yale and Mrs. Seymour, a distinction not recorded by the photographers in the case of Trygve Lie, secretary of the United Nations, and many notable Americans present for honorary degrees.

Proving that by the scale of cock-eyed values existing in this screwball age there is no limit to how far a radio celebrity and Hollywood star may go.

News that Jimmy Durante would be a Yale commencement figure drew out greater crowds than any commencement in years and there are those who insist that the closing line of the famous old Yale theme song was rendered "For God, for Country and for the Schnozzle."

"I never realized them Yale scouts was even watchin' me," said Jimmy. "I admit I never stopped Harvard or Yale, but on the other hand I kept Notre Dame from getting on the Yale schedule."

Love and Flagpoles

America must be getting back to normal. A couple were married on top of a flagpole the other day.

Marshall Jacobs, a professional flagpole sitter and Yolanda Cosmar, the girl of his choice, went through the wedding ceremony of the year at Coshockton, Pa. The wedding numbers were announced as "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" and "I Love You Truly." We would have recommended "Don't Fence Me In" and "Upsie Daisie."

Evidence of a return to daffiness in this country is most comforting. And we needed a demonstration of true and unswerving love and devotion. When a bride goes up to the top of a 176 foot flagpole for her man that is it.

Why America Is Great

"I have seen magnificent universities in America. I have seen its wonderful laboratories and its museums of which old European culture would be proud, and I have also seen Lions' club luncheons where full-grown men, imitating lions, roared upon command. It is a curious country." — Ilya Ehrenburg, visiting Russian writer.

We know a Lions' club, Ilya, in which a college dean leads the roaring and a laboratory chief tosses his head while he roars like a Nubian species.

What this country needs is a good five cent dollar.

At the Library . .

New books at the Memorial Hall library include the following:

We Happy Few Howe
A very sophisticated, satirical novel set chiefly in Cambridge, and holding up to ridicule the Harvard faculty members and their wives, who call themselves "The Little Group." With the war and its violence, the leader of the group, poised, beautiful and dignified, suddenly discovers herself to be an egotistical prig and not a cultured aristocrat, as she had believed.

Singing Waters Bridge, pseud.
Here is the story of the change brought about in the worldly Gloire Thurston when she goes to live among the Albanians. Nils Larsen persuades her to stop off at Zagreb, and here she finds the simplicity of the people the ideal balm for her constant restlessness. This is the selection of the Literary Guild for July.

The Adventures of Wesley Jackson Saroyan
A nineteen-year-old boy's account of his life in the Army — his pals, his friends, the girl he marries in England, his capture by the Germans and his return. Not too much plot, but a good deal of philosophical conversation.

With Bated Breath Campbell
Murder and romance mingle in a dismal old house in England. A young American girl, Avis Marriott, goes to act as housekeeper to Miss Bolles, a great contributor to charities but miserly in her home. Other members of the household include Erica, the demented sister, Robin Brier, a foster son suffering from war injuries, and a doctor.

Clementine Goodin
The theme of this story is the growing up of red-headed Clem Kelley in a small Indiana town where her father is mayor. It is the change from tomboy to charming lady that makes the story so delightful.

Our Own Kind McSorley
Along the lines of "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" is this story of young Willie McDermott, growing from carefree boyhood to young manhood among the foundry-Irish of Providence, greatly influenced by his hearty grandfather. It is a warm, friendly story.

The Beacon Bassett
A new Cape Cod novel in which a young girl and a mature novelist, working together, find that her faith and his talents make an excellent team.

NON-FICTION
Winning Golf Nelson
The world's greatest golfer, four times winner of the famous All-American Open, presents the elements of the technique with which he has established a revolutionary new standard of excellence for match and medal play. Well illustrated.

Restless India Rosinger
A controversial subject has been given an unbiased treatment by the Foreign Policy Association's expert on India, who examines both sides of the question in an objective fashion. Excellent background material and a summation of one of the most critical and disputable situations in history. This is the first volume of a series contemplated by Holt and the Foreign Policy Association.

The Last Phase Millis
A compact history of the Anglo-American invasion of Europe from D-day to V-E day, covering politics, strategy, logistics, tactics. It gives a clear picture of just what the Allied armies did and how they did it. Illustrated with photographs.

Beatrice Webb Cole
A biography of the wife of Sydney Webb. The Webbs, with Bernard Shaw, were among England's first vocal socialists. They founded the London School of Economics and provided the constitution and first program of the reformed Labor party. This book combines their work and their marriage in a remarkable study.

The Common Sense Book of Baby and Child Care Spock
A manual of infant and child care which gives both physical and psychological information from birth to adolescence.

Into Siam; Underground Kingdom Smith
Lt. Col. Nicol Smith of the OSS was told to take 21 Thai patriots into Siam. It took over a year to effect this infiltration, but once the underground was started, the Siam-ese agents reported every move the Japs made. Blake Clark, co-author, received Smith's reports back in Washington. Well illustrated.

Starting Right With Turkeys Klein
A valuable beginner's manual covering every essential to the success of raising turkeys either for home use or for profit. Well illustrated with photographs and diagrams. This is the first of a planned series on country life to be called "The Have-More Plan Reference Library."

BOY SCOUT NOTES

Visit Scout Camp

V. Malcolm Laitinen, Andover District Committee chairman, and Walter C. Caswell, District Commissioner, spent Saturday, July 13, at Camp Onway, Raymond, N. H., as guests of Harvey H. Bacon, Scout Executive of the North Essex Council, and Luther Harris, chairman of the camping committee. Approximately one hundred Scouts and Leaders were observed in action. Among the Scoutmasters present at the camp was Robert Hatton, Scoutmaster of Troop 73 of the South church.

Several new tents have been purchased, floors built and tents erected. The new swimming tower for the swimming director and life guards is built to give a full view of all waterfront activities.

The visitors ate with the boys at noon, the meal consisting of roast beef, gravy, potatoes, peas, carrots, bread, fresh orange juice and fruit salad.

Scouting Grows

The Andover District has gained two units so far in 1946, Pack 76 of Ballardvale and Troop 71 of Shaw-sheen. Scout leaders are preparing for a busy season in the fall when Scouts and Cubs return from vacation and camps. The eight units in the Andover District are as follows: Troop 71, Scoutmaster, Everett MacAskill, and Pack 71, Rocco J. Mirisola, Cubmaster, of the Shaw-sheen Parent-Teacher association; Pack 72, John Carver, Cubmaster, of the Free Congregational church; Troop 73, Scoutmaster, Robert Hatton, of the South Congregational church; Troop 75, Justin Rex, Scoutmaster, of St. Augustine's school; Troop 76, Scoutmaster, P. W. Moody, and Pack 76, Cubmaster, Edward Lefebvre, sponsored by the citizens of Ballardvale.

DOUBLE CHINS

My wife's old-maid sister, who is a school teacher, spent a six-month vacation with us last week. One evening as we were sitting on the front porch, Old Timer joined us. Sister-in-law, who is getting very plump, was telling us how much she loved her pupils. She called them "urchins."

Giving me a wicked wink, Old Timer asked her quite innocently: "Just how many — er — CHINS have you got?"

FROM ORCHESTRA SEAT AT BOMB TEST ANDOVER BOY RECOUNTS HIS IMPRESSIONS

(An account of the bombing by T/Sgt. John B. Alexander, as told in a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Alexander of 74 Summer street. He is married to the former Muriel Carter of High street, and the couple, with their 2½-year-old son, are residing in Fairfield, California. Sgt. Alexander received the Bronze Star medal. He recently returned from Kwajjlien Atoll, the headquarters of the crossroads project.)

I had a wonderful view of the bomb and, believe me, it was a sight and a sensation that I shall never forget. On the trip down I met some very interesting people, among whom were Alexander D. Seversky, Senators Saltonstall and Hatch, General Stillwell, Doctor Compton of M. I. T., Mr. Symington of the Manhattan project and several other scientists, generals, etc.

On the morning of the 1st, we took off directly after the bomber, "Dave's Dream." If you happen to see a newsreel of the take-off, you will see a large C-54 right beside the bomber. That was our ship. Well, we took off and rode some 158 miles to the target area. We circled the array at about 5000 feet and six miles out. The day was swell and we had a perfect view. After circling the array for 30 minutes, we departed for a point about 20 miles from the target and there we flew in an orbit. Our speed was arranged so that our ship was broadside to the target at the point of detonation.

At about 8:50 a. m. I took over the radio. We could hear the bomber coming in with the officer saying, "10 minutes to detonation; stand by." At 2 minutes to actual drop, we received the order by radio to put on our dark glasses. At that time I was looking out radio porthole almost directly at the target, and at "bombs away" I had my radio all on and at full volume, looking directly at the target. Then there was a terrific flash and a stem of concentrated cloud heat at about 1900, climbing with a large mushroom of pink and red on top. It was a very few seconds that all this took place and we were allowed to take off our glasses.

There was no shock wave felt by our ship, as a matter of fact, and if it had not been for that terrific cloud, it would have been hard to believe that an atom bomb had been dropped.

At first we could not see the target array, but on our second turn inward towards the target area, we had a full view of the armada in Bikini Harbor. Several ships were burning. The Nevada looked to be in good shape, yet it all appeared to be a mass of destruction. It was impossible to go any closer than eight miles after the drop, due to radiation.

Several people were disappointed because the whole works was not under water. I myself thought that the experiment was a grand success. The damage that one bomb did to surface vessels, a bomb that was exploded 1000 feet above the target, is beyond conception. Believe me when I say that wars are no longer safe.

I think that the affair received such a tremendous build-up in the newspapers and magazines, that people on the West coast who were not knocked down when it went off were disappointed.

Police Blotter

Chief of Police Dane reports three more cases of vandalism by young boys in town this week. Last Saturday, the office of the Superintendent of Spring Grove was broken into and ransacked. Nothing was missing.

An empty house on Dale street where carpenters were storing tools and equipment was entered, a window was broken and considerable damage was committed although no tools were taken.

On Monday evening thirteen windows in the high school were broken on the side towards the ball park. The damage was apparently caused by young men throwing stones through the panes although none of the residents near the property reported any unusual noise that night. "When the vandals are caught," the chief says, "they will be charged with the damages and they or their parents will have to pay."

Birthday Party

Mrs. Herbert Folley was given a surprise birthday party last night at the regular meeting of the V. F. W. auxiliary. Ice cream and cake were served, and several gifts were received.

The next meeting of the auxiliary will be on August 28. Several members are planning to attend a dinner for the National President of the V. F. W. auxiliary to be held in Boston on August 27.

Essex County Council V. F. W. auxiliary will hold their regular monthly meeting at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the V. F. W. hall on Prospect street, Lawrence.

On Pilgrimage

William A. Doherty left Tuesday morning on a pilgrimage to the famous shrine of St. Anne de Beupre in Canada. Twenty-seven left from Greater Lawrence, and about 1000 from Boston. They plan to return on Sunday night.

For Furs

WAY BACK IN DECEMBER we began buying enormous quantities of cream-of-the-crop fur skins in preparation for August selling. It was a most fortuitous move for since then prices have been steadily been rising.

O. P. A. or no O. P. A., we have never taken advantage of an increased market, nor will we do so now. Naturally we cannot predict what prices will be when replacements are necessary, but in a determined effort to curb further rises, we will sell all furs now on hand below our usual mark-up — that mark-up base on the low level of our early purchases. In that way we are able to pass on great savings to you.

MORE AND SOONER

July 19, 1946

Dear Editor,

I wish at this time to correct or modify an erroneous impression conveyed by an article captioned "Too Little, Too Late," which appeared in your July 11th edition. This article referred to our water carnival.

I believe that your reporter would not have been so critical had he known that the carnival was conceived and brought into being by one man, Frank Serio of Lowell Junction. It is true that he received some help, in decorating and lighting the flotilla, from his family and myself, but the onus of the work fell on his shoulders. He gave freely both of time and of money, and worked diligently for the success of the event. Anything less than complete success was due to circumstances or conditions beyond his control.

I believe he deserves much more credit than the casually callous brush-off that your article gave him.

I hope you will print this, to do justice to a faithful worker in our community.

Sincerely yours,
ROBERT MITCHELL,
Ballardvale

Ed. Note: "Too Little, Too Late" was not intended as a criticism of the efforts of the person or persons who put on the water carnival. It was an attempt to reproduce the attitude of a majority of spectators. There was also an attempt to explain why the carnival fell short. If the explanation was neither adequate nor prominent enough in the story, then we too have been guilty of "Too Little, Too Late."

More Playgrounds

Dear Editor,

Inasmuch as a wisely conducted program of sports and play is considered a way of combatting child delinquency, we wonder why our town doesn't get busy and provide more playgrounds for our youngsters.

Two sections of the town in particular that have no recreational facilities for the large number of boys and girls who reside there are Abbot and Marland villages.

Is there any reason why these children can't blow bubbles, too?

Remember when the funds were low,
Weiners were the cheapest meat?
Now, much to the housewife's woe,
They've become a seldom-indulged-in treat.

Once the fare of picnic suppers,
You could buy them by the yard;
Now their class is in the uppers;
You just can't get 'em at all.

BEETLE-LINE

"What is all this fuss on our street?"
Said the worm to the little green bug,
The little bug answered with obvious scorn,
"They're getting a water-main dug
And the air is so noisy and dusty,
I can't even take my refresher,
They say that the old pipes are rusty
And this will give people more pressure.
But if they stay around here much longer
They'll have quite a problem to meet,
For all the Elm beetles are moving
To quiet homes on Maple street."

Editorial...

Omitted This Week

Don't exactly know what to write an editorial about this week. There was a man who spoke to us about the hole in the Square and the length of time it had been there, etc., but we're not quite sure what he wanted us to do about it. There was a lady who called about our editorial in last week's paper on our juvenile delinquents; we think she was half for it and half against it, or maybe she had some modification to suggest, something about the attitude of neighbors toward youngsters — anyway, she said she'd put her thoughts down on paper, and we may have them next week. Chief Dane said the editorial hit the nail right on the head, the only trouble being that parents would resent it rather than do anything about it. He said he had had several juvenile breaks this week — the night the editorial appeared, the Lawrence paper had two stories on its front page, one about an Andover juvenile who was held in substantial bonds for having kicked and otherwise assaulted a woman, the other about four Andover juveniles who were placed on probation for having beaten up a chum, tossed a pile of old tires over him, letting the dirty water from the tires pour over his bruised body and dazed head. Funny, you know—it's not always the kids across the tracks that do this type of thing; some of our so-called better families have to get their youngsters out of scrapes, too.

A woman was kicking about the Rockingham traffic, but there's nothing much we can do about that. That's up to New Hampshire. We heard a well-known Granite State newspaperman in a talk at a press conference a few years ago tell his listeners that in another few years the state would have enough revenue from the track, and then it could kick it the heck out of there, maybe into Massachusetts. So, just wait a few years, and in the meantime keep waiting a half hour or so, before you can get across the street.

There was another fellow who wondered about our milk inspection system here, whether it was adequate or not, whether the public were sufficiently informed about the dairies and their products. He was going to get us a copy of a town report from another town, so maybe pretty soon we'll have a word or two to say about our milk.

There were some other things we were trying to check up on, too, and possibly the material we finally get will be basis for an editorial.

But it's summer; it's hot — and you really didn't want to read a crabby old editorial this week anyway, did you?

TRUMAN'S VETO

WASHINGTON. — Opinions may differ as to whether President Truman was right in vetoing the price control bill, but he personally has not changed his mind a bit. When he arrived on Capitol Hill for the Roosevelt memorial service, Truman was greeted by his old friend, Kenneth Romney, sergeant-at-arms of the house. As they shook hands the President quipped:

"I didn't know whether you folks would let me come up here today after reading my latest message."

"Oh, don't worry about that," chuckled the sergeant-at-arms. "A lot of us are glad you vetoed that OPA bill. And your veto message hit the nail right on the head. You did the right thing, in my opinion."

"I couldn't do anything else," replied the President with chin-set seriousness.

EQUIPPING U. S. SCHOOLS

When a committee representing the leading national educational organizations tried to see War Assets Chief Lt. Gen. Edmund B. Gregory about getting surplus equipment for American schools, it received two brush-offs.

Once Gregory had been "called out"; another time he was "too busy." However, the educators had no trouble seeing Gregory's boss, President Truman. Further, Truman's callers were definitely assured that steps would be taken to provide schools, colleges and universities with more war surplus.

They informed the President that approximately 2,000,000 American youths would seek education next fall in colleges alone. Of these, about 970,000 will be World War II vets. Unless schools are given a "fair and reasonable" access to war surplus goods — laboratory, classroom, cafeteria and kitchen facilities, electronics equipment, visual aids and other items — a great many of the students cannot be accommodated.

"Education cannot afford to go into the commercial market for what we need — and need drastically, Mr. President — because we do not have the money," asserted one of them.

CONSOLIDATING GERMANY

Top secret talks between the Americans and the French have now started to weld western Germany into one economic unit. The move may end up by uniting the U. S., British and French zones into one anti-Russian sector, with the rest of Germany under the hammer and sickle.

The U. S. occupation zone includes most of the province of Wurttemberg and the northeastern quarter of Baden. The remainder of the latter province and a small western piece of Wurttemberg are under French control.

This suggestion was approved in principle by Maj. Gen. Lucius Clay and Lt. Gen. Joseph McNarney, highest-ranking U. S. commanders in Europe, and the war department has instructed General McNarney to inform the French that this country will discuss the plan if France agrees to discuss, at the same time, internationalizing the vital Ruhr basin.

If the deal is worked out, it will be an important step toward ending the economic confusion which exists under the present set-up. The United States, Britain and France are hoping to unscramble the current mess, at least in western Germany.

Russia so far has indicated no willingness to go along.

RESEARCH FOR FARMS

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson and a delegation from the house agriculture committee recently called on President Truman to plug for the Flannagan - Hope farm research bill. However, not much plugging was necessary.

Anderson opened the White House meeting by emphasizing the importance of the legislation, which is aimed at finding new uses for farm products and improving marketing.

"The bill already has been called to my attention," the President said immediately. "I have looked into it and I am in favor of appropriating whatever money is necessary."

A primary aim of the bill is to do away with such marketing bottle-necks as caused large acreages of cabbage and lettuce to be plowed under recently in North Carolina

CAPITAL CHAFF

Official state department broadcasts to Russia in the Russian language will begin just as soon as the necessary staffs have completed their training. . . . One of John Snyder's first acts as secretary of the treasury was to agree to the release of gold to Argentina. This gold was seized by the U. S. government at the start of the war. Its release is a major victory for President Peron. . . . President Truman has decided to abandon his plans for an Alaska vacation.

LET HIM GET HOOKED

Jones was sitting with his wife behind a palm on a hotel veranda when a young man and a girl came and sat down on a bench near them. The young man began to tell the girl how pretty she was.

Hidden behind the palm, Mrs. Jones whispered to her husband, "Oh, John, he doesn't know we're here, and he's going to propose. Whistle to warn him."

"What for?" asked Jones. "Nobody whistled to warn me."

Rescue Boats Donated In Mr. Lundgren's Memory

Both the Central and Ballardvale fire stations are the proud possessors of fully equipped rescue boats to be used for emergencies. The money for the purchase of the boats was presented to the town by the Lundgren family on Elm street in memory of Everett Lundgren.

The boats, painted grey with under water lights, are ready for emergency calls at which time the fire department will deliver one to the drowning scene where the police take over.

IN TIME OF DISASTER

THE sudden devastation of an earthquake, the tragedy of flood and tornado, finds the U. S. Regular Army ever ready to protect the nation. The Army Engineers build and strengthen dikes to hold back rising rivers. The Army Medical Corps fights the spread of disease. The Signal Corps helps restring the broken wires of communication. The Army man fights for America in peace as well as war.

In both battles he is a member of a great and proud Army. Your new peacetime Regular Army. For it is composed of citizens and maintained for the protection of the citizens of this nation. Well trained, modern and efficient, this new Regular Army needs — and is getting — many of America's finest young men.
