WHAT'S OUR HURRY?

For those who like to look back with a researching, perhaps nostalgic, eye on the olden days and the ways our ancestors went about accomplishing everyday tasks before there were buttons to push and machinery to go out of order, let me recommend a visit to the barn of Mrs. James Sawyer.

Before arriving at the barn, you must first cover the miles between Andover and Durham, N. H., until you come to a picturesque mill at the head of the tide water of Oyster river, turn up a tree-bordered drive that climbs to the top of the slope overlooking the river and the mill, to the hill capped by a historic home said to be the oldest in the State. The broad and enduring planks that went into the construction of the house have none of the disadvantages of the modern home built of unseasoned lumber and it is a stalwart proclamation of the skill of five Scottish carpenters who constructed it in 1649 upon the order of a legendary character named Valentine Hill.

Resuming an acquaintance with Mrs. Sawyer who lived for many years in Andover, when her late husband was treasurer of Phillips Academy will bring you a cordial invitation into the house whose richly glowing brass and pink copper captivate the imagination and are apt to make you forget the business at hand which is seeing the treasure-stocked barn.

Time was too short the afternoon I went there. The rain was falling in great sloping bucketfuls as only New Hampshire rain knows how to fall and the storm-darkened day and fast-approaching evening hurried our footsteps if we were to go to the barn at all. Just for a moment, then, we stopped before the fireplace into which a person could crawl as easily as into a third floor kitchenette apartment — unfurnished. Mrs. Sawyer explained the art of cooking a turkey in the old-fashioned broiler standing on the hearth and told of the time she used the brick oven when she was expecting guests for dinner. A roaring fire had been prepared in the fireplace early in the day to make sure that the bricks would be hot enough for baking. To a person accustomed to turning on the gas and twirling the oven indicator around to the number of degrees prescribed in the recipe, the prospect of cooking in a brick oven may seem romantic but highly impractical. It was quite a revelation to have this first-hand knowledge that raw dough was converted to golden-brown biscuits in four minutes.

We didn't pause too long between house and barn and so had only a brief glimpse of the grassy slope with its lush grape arbor stretching its way towards the river. It would be better to go there on a sunny day if you are lucky enough to catch one before it changes its mind.

The upstairs of the barn was in shadow that even the introduction of an electric light and the flashlights we carried could not fully discharge. It is a huge barn and the chaises, victorias, and bicycles, some with one big wheel, some with smaller wheels, some to be ridden singly and some to be ridden in tandem, that lined the walls left ample room for the household and farm implements that take up the center floor. (One of the victorias originally belonged to Prof. and Mrs. John Phelps Taylor of Abbot academy.)

On a great center table are all sizes and shapes of flat irons, miniature ones for smoothing out ruffles, heavy ones for tailor pressing that take two hands to lift, narrow ones for seams and wide one for ironing long spreading skirts. The evolution of the sewing machine may also be traced from small pocket editions to be turned by hand to the first sewing machine with foot pedals. The latter must have evolved as spontaneously from milady's exasperation at guiding the seam with one hand while she remembered to crank the wheel with the other as the newfangled electric device has sprung from an aversion to pedal pushing. Paring machines from the simple to the intricate were used to make cooking either easier or more difficult for the pioneer housewife, and after examining a particularly complex system of wheels and jiggers that left no hint of space for even a very small potato, I can not help feeling that science made a commendable stride forward when it invented a simple knife-like gadget with a slot in it. But one time-saving device that could have been practically revived to replace the butter line is the cradle churn. The one in Mrs. Sawyer's barn is of simple line in which milk could be gently rocked to butter by the rhythmic tap of a foot, while hands could be busily occupied in some such task as weaving palm leaves into coquettish sunbonnets on a nearby loom. Sausage guns, cheese presses, sieves made of horsehair, foot-warmers and a large candle mold making it possible to produce twelve candles all at once but of different sizes are only some of the improvements of other days that make up the famous collection.

A pillion upon which a lady could daintily ride a horse, a wooden yoke to be worn across the shoulders for carrying heavy buckets, and even a machine for generating electricity used in early medical science, clothes wringers, lard squeezers, broilers with long back legs and short front legs so that the grease could slide down to one end to be salvaged, shoemakers' implements and blacksmiths' tools, a large wooden barrel carved from a tree trunk and immense baskets for cradling wheat, there are all these things and more.

There were ways, even, of getting around the absence of plumbing. Standing unblinkingly in the far end of the barn attic is a sits bath and along the wall are laboriously hollowed out logs with carved noses that fit one handmade pipe into the other so that a source of water having a high elevation could be handily run to the house below.

These are only some of the treasures that are gathered in the Sawyer barn to record the expediency of our forefathers and mothers and to explode the commonly held theory that modern conveniences saw the light of day with the birth of the 20th century. I went away with the feeling that as long as there have been mice, there have been mouse traps, and as long as there have been mouse traps there have been people who have thought up how to build better ones and that the common drive of mankind is not so much survival as survival with as little effort as possible.

With This Ring...

HANNAN—PATTERSON

One of the prettiest weddings of the late summer season took place in St. Augustine's church last Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, when Miss Mary Anne Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henry Patterson, 24 Johnson road, was united in marriage with Lieutenant (j. g.) William Stephen Hannan, U. S. N. R., son of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence J. Hannan, 63 High street. The nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Henry B. Smith, O. S. A., using the single ring service.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white slipper satin with sheer neckline, and drop-shoulder effect outlined with a bertha of chantilly lace. Her long train and finger-tip veil were crowned with a cap of lace, and she carried a prayer book covered with a white orchid and stephanotis.

Maid of honor for her sister was Jane E. Patterson. She wore a melon color gown and carried blue gladioli. Miss Helen M. Hannan, sister of the bridegroom, acted as bridesmaid and she wore a peacock blue nylon gown and carried yellow gladioli. Laurence J. Hannan, Jr., was best man for his brother.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Andover Inn.

The bride is a graduate of Abbot Academy, Pembroke college and the Katherine Gibbs school. She was employed at the Brimmer and May school. Lieutenant Hannan graduated from Boston University and Harvard Medical School. He is now serving in the Navy Medical Corps.

MADDOX—ROTUNDO

A very pretty wedding took place at 3 o'clock on Sunday afternoon in the Calvary Baptist church when Miss Mildred Rotundo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Rotundo of 139 Hampshire roads, Methuen, became the bride of Earl Maddox of River road, West Andover. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Howard Wood, pastor of the Salem Street P. M. church, assisted by

THE NIGHT BEFORE THE WEDDING—These are the principals in the Moore-Robjent wedding as they appeared at the rehearsal held Friday evening in the South church. Contrary to accepted belief, they don't look at all nervous. They are, left to right Captain Harvey Brockway Moore, Captain Herbert Pickford Moore (bridegroom), Miss Barbara Robjent, and Miss Elizabeth Blakeney.

Rev. George Beecher, pastor-emeritus of the Calvary Baptist church.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and she wore a gown of white satin with finger-tip veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white gladioli with white satin ribbon.

Edith Rotundo, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a yellow net gown and carried yellow gladioli with blue larkspur.

A reception was held following the ceremony, after which the couple left on a trip through the White Mountains. The bridegroom is a graduate of Punchard High school.

Engaged...

Mr. and Mrs. Michael G. Cashman, 60 Morton street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Lillian Cashman to Francis J. McSurdy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl McSurdy of Makeysburg, Pa.

Miss Cashman served for 33 months in the U. S. Coast Guard Woman's Reserve at the Fourth Naval District Headquarters in Philadelphia. Mr. McSurdy served three years in the U. S. Army. He was in the 80th division with the Third Army in the European Theatre of Operations.

To Wed On September 9th

On September 9th in St. Augustine's church, Miss Jean Wirtz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Wirtz, 48 Lowell street, will become the bride of Captain A. J. Rapisardi, son of Mr. and Mrs. San. to Rapisardi.

Miss Wirtz is a graduate of Wheaton College, and is now secretary to the Dean at Wheaton.

Captain Rapisardi attended the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute before entering the service. He wears the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal, a Presidential Unit Citation with three Oak Leaf Clusters, the Asiatic-Pacific ribbon with four battle stars, the American Defense, American Theatre and the Victory ribbons.

Marriage Intentions...

The following marriage intentions have been filed at the town clerk's office:

William S. Hannan, 63 High street and Mary A. Patterson, 24 Johnson road.

Jean M. G. Bedard, 100 Currier street, Methuen, and Lillian Audesse, 46 Beacon street.

Earl R. Maddox, 99 River road and Mildred A. Rotundo, 139 Hampshire road, Methuen.

Alghi Shlakis, 109 River road and Edna Watkiewicz, 91 Osgood street, Lawrence.

"This Was Andover"

You only have a few days left if you haven't yet seen "This Was Andover" at the Addison Gallery and intend to do so. The exhibit will be open through Sunday, Sept. 1st, nine to five weekdays and 2:30 to five on Sunday.

The exhibition consists of pictures of Andover as it was contrasted with what it is today. It was prepared in connection with the Tercentenary celebration and has been on display throughout the summer.

Also included in the exhibit are three replicas of P.A. boys' rooms, past, present and future, as shown below.

THE ARMY HAS A GOOD JOB FOR YOU!*NON-COMMISSIONED GRADES NOW OFFERED TO FORMER ARMY OCCUPATIONAL SPECIALISTS

Good jobs in non-commissioned grades are being offered now by the Regular Army to qualified former servicemen!

Veterans discharged on or after May 12, 1945, who enlist or reenlist for 3 years may be enlisted in the non-commissioned grade for which qualified, provided this grade is not higher than that held at time of discharge, and provided that at least 6 months of former service was in one of 400 designated military occupational specialties in which enlistment is now desired.

Important, interesting jobs are open in hundreds of skills and trades in the Army, with splendid training and educational advantages! These are in addition to free food, housing, clothing, medical and dental care, low-cost insurance.

There's adventure, travel, education, a secure and profitable future in this vital, realistic profession. Get full details at your nearest Army Recruiting Station.

Highlights of Regular Army Enlistments

1. Enlistments for 1½, 2 or 3 years. (1-year enlistments permitted for men now in the Army with 6 or more months of service.)

2. Enlistment age from 18 to 34 years inclusive (17 with parents' consent) except for men now in the Army, who may reenlist at any age, and former service men depending on length of service.

3. A reenlistment bonus of $50 for each year of active service since such bonus was last paid, or since last entry into service, provided reenlistment is within 3 months after last honorable discharge.

4. A furlough for men who reenlist within 20 days. Full details of other furlough privileges can be obtained from Recruiting Officers.

5. Mustering-out pay (based upon length of service) to all men who are discharged to reenlist.

6. Option to retire at half pay for the rest of your life after 20 years' service—increasing to three-quarters pay after 30 years' service. All previous active federal military service counts toward retirement.

7. GI Bill of Rights benefits assured for men who enlist on or before October 5, 1946.

8. Choice of branch of service and overseas theater (of those still open) on 3-year enlistments.

BATTLE STATIONS! Back into action must go the 25 million housewives who put up more than four billion jars of food in one year!

MILLIONS OF NEW RECRUITS are needed to reach this year's goal: To preserve more food than ever before at home and in community food preservation centers in order to meet unprecedented demands for food.

FAMINE threatens the lives of hundreds of millions of people. Former President Hoover and others say the crisis will not be passed before the harvests of 1947. We shall continue to share a large part of our wheat and some of our other foods for at least another year. World food stocks per person have seldom been lower than they are right now. During this growing season we must rebuild our stock-piles for another hard winter and spring. In view of the critical needs for food in the world, the ever-present uncertainty of growing weather, the continued heavy consumer demand in this country, and the processing and transportation difficulties of the reconversion period, we must take advantage of every opportunity this growing season offers to add to our food stocks. HERE ARE SOME POINTS TO REMEMBER:

1. Can, preserve, and store as much as possible from Victory Gardens. Make your garden serve you all year.
2. When markets feature abundant supplies of locally-grown, good quality produce, suitable for home preservation, take advantage of the opportunity to build up food stocks for next winter.
3. Lay in supplies of containers and equipment early, to enable manufacturers to gauge demand.
4. Conserve your sugar for canning purposes. Follow the wartime rule of 1 pound of sugar to 4 quarts of finished fruit.
5. Use only safe, tested methods, backed by scientific research. Take no chances on accidents, spoilage, unnecessary loss of food value. Study methods recommended for different foods; get competent advice. Consider freezing, pickling, brining, drying, and storing, as well as canning, for different types of produce.

School Opens

The public schools will open on Tuesday, September 10. Although some of the schools in surrounding towns commence on the 4th, schools in many sections decided to give the teachers who took part in the veterans' summer session classes a chance for a short vacation.

P.S. Yes, we said the 9th last week, but the 10th is correct.

This will be the first year for kindergarten children, who will attend school for the morning session only, and who will take care of their own transportation. It was voted by the School Committee at the spring meeting that the first grade would attend the morning session only during the first month of school.

The schools will be open September 9 for conferences and teachers' meetings.

Special Teachers' Meeting on Monday

A special meeting of all teachers in the public school system will be held on Monday, September 9th. Miss Andrews, supervisor for Rinehart functional writing system, will explain the system to teachers, in an attempt to improve the handwriting of the school children.

A letter was received by the school committee from the State Commissioner of Education in regard to the number of days schools should be in session. There has been a great deal of carelessness throughout the state in complying with the laws, which state that grade schools should be in session 160 days and high schools 180 days.

The letter follows:
To School Committee Chairmen and School Superintendents:

"During the recent war years a considerable number of cities and towns have failed to maintain high schools for the 180 days required by the above statute and the department has been liberal in granting exemptions, realizing the extraordinary conditions caused by demands on teachers and pupils due to rationing, farm labor, food shortages, etc., relating to the war effort.

"However, this is to notify you that beginning with the school year 1946-47 the department will henceforth exercise its exemption discretion . . . in strict accordance with the language of the statute relating thereto, which is as follows:

"Such high school . . . shall be kept open . . . for at least 180 days, exclusive of vacations, in each school year, unless specifically exempted as to any one school year by the department because of epidemic or other emergency.

"Periodic closings for stormy or inclement weather, which days can be made up before the end of June, shall not be construed a 'emergency'.

"If, as the winter develops, it becomes apparent that there are an inordinate number of closings by reason of inclement weather, the school committee must be prepared to fulfill the 180-day requirement for high schools by re-arrangement or modification of the spring vacation or vacations, or the extension of the June closing date."

Time To Clamp Down

There are still a few people in Andover who by their inability to handle liquor jeopardize the right that everybody else has to enjoy a drink now and then. Every two years the communities in this state vote on the question of whether liquor licenses shall be granted in their confines, and some biennial election will find that these few drunks have so aroused public opinion that the sale of intoxicating liquor for consumption on the premises will have a two years respite.

They're the same men, or men like them, who were more or less constantly drunk during prohibition days. They'll get liquor of some kind somehow, regardless of what the town does about licenses. If they want to drink more than they are able to properly take care of, that's their own business, but it's our business if as a result they disturb the peace or commit nuisances and therefore infringe upon the rights of others.

For their own good the local liquor licensees should give pretty strict orders to their bartenders not to serve anyone who has reached his limit. These constant offenders are pretty generally known by everybody, and they especially should be watched. The revenue lost by refusing to serve them is a nothing compared to the revenue that will be lost if their overindulgence arouses public opinion against license.

And the police too should clamp down harder than they now do. There is a tendency to be a good fellow with these so-called unfortunates, but if their loud talking, cursing and would-be singing keep people awake nights, they should certainly be stepped on, hard. Those unable to navigate a straight course on our sidewalks should be picked up, because we don't like motorists to pass through Andover with the impression that drunks are very much in evidence. Nuisance committing is also too prevalent; police action against this can't be too strict.

We all want people who can drink properly and enjoy it to have the right to do so. Let's not have that privilege taken away because of the actions of a few; let's curb those few instead.

Equal Pay for Men - Women Teachers

Andover's town ballot next March will give the voters an opportunity to decide whether women teachers should be paid at the same rate as men teachers. Changes in the law made by the recent legislature make it mandatory for cities and towns to vote on this option.

The 1945 law provided that "subject to local opinion 'women teachers employed in the same grades and doing the same type of work with the same preparation and training as men teachers shall be paid at the same rate as men teachers.' Since very few cities and towns voted on this option, the 1946 legislature passed a law which requires that this question be placed on the ballot. The equal pay cannot be effected by reducing the pay of men teachers.

The question as it will appear on the ballot will read: "Shall the provisions of Section 40 of Chapter 71 of the General Laws, as amended, relative to equal pay for men and women teachers be in force in this city (or town)?"

POLICE BLOTTER

There was a break in the unoccupied Dyson house on Andover street, Ballardvale, on August 23. Mrs. Dyson, who is ill, is staying at a neighbor's home. Though an investigation was made, it could not be ascertained whether or not anything had been taken. Police Chief Dane stated that it looked like the work of young boys.

NOTE

The recent wet weather brings up again the danger from spontaneous ignition of hay. The second cutting of clover and alfalfa is going into barns, and oats and some late hay are still being cut. Particular care should be used to make sure that all of these are well dried before storing. If any suspicion of heating

At The Library . . .

FACTS ON FILE, the weekly indexed news digest, is now available at the library.

The publication which has William L. Shirer, H. V. Kaltenborn, and James Truslow Adams on its Advisory Board is planned to help two types of reader: (1) the researcher who needs a fact, a figure, a quote or a date and doesn't have much time to look for it; (2) the busy reader who wants a concise news picture of the week in only 20-30 minutes of reading time. FACTS ON FILE consists of a weekly 8-Page News Section and a Cumulative Index. The News Section condenses 750,000 words into 10,000 weekly (World, National and Foreign Affairs, Finance and Economics, Latin America, Arts, Science, Sports, Religion, etc.) The cumulative index makes it a simple matter to track down a news item.

Industrial Relations, the New Dynamic

Some one has called the need for "human leadership in industry, the challenge of tomorrow." This means, of course, leadership on both sides of the partnership. In addition, there must be some attempt on the part of members of the community to understand at least in larger outline something of what is involved since in our industrial civilization we are all — management, labor, and consumer — inextricably bound together.

Indicative, too, of the growing importance attached to the sphere of industrial relations is the growing number of books being published in this field. Listed below are some of the titles which have been added to the library.

Human Relations in Industry

Burleigh B. Gardner
The author has worked with people at all levels and has seen the need, which this book underlines, of applying the same skill and genius to problems of human relations in industry as have been applied so effectively in the economic, inventive and technical spheres.

Production Handbook

Leon P. Alford, ed.
A handbook for manufacturing men. Among the subjects covered are production planning, purchasing, job evaluation, merit rating, measures of performance, wage plans, time and motion study, plant personnel.

Personnel Selection by Standard Job Tests

Charles A. Drake
The explanation of a technique "for the selection of industrial personnel consisting primarily in designing performance tests that embody the essential elements of dexterity and perception discovered by the analysis of an industrial job or the analyses of a group of similar jobs."

American Labor Unions

Florence Peterson
What they are and how they work.

Management and the Worker

F. J. Roethlisberger and W. J. Dickson
"An Account of a Research Program conducted by the Western Electric Company."

Collective Bargaining Procedures

Neil W. Chamberlain
An explanation of the process of collective bargaining, of how agreements are reached, how methods between union and company leaders can be improved, of the function of government in collective bargaining relations.

Wage Incentives J. Keith Loudon
The author has attempted to point out what incentives really are and what they can really do for labor and management in the hope that past abuses may be avoided in the future.

Foreman's Handbook

Carl Heyl, ed.
Chapters contributed by authorities include such topics as: The Foreman as a Leader; Cost Control by Foreman; Industrial Fatigue; Special Problems in Supervising Women; The Tools of Industrial Psychology; What the Foreman Should Know About Economics, Labor Legislation.

The Rubber Workers

Harold S. Roberts
The development of labor organization and collective bargaining in the rubber industry.

Training for Supervision in Industry

George N. Fern
This book is intended to give direct help to the supervisor with the problems of his daily job, particularly in the field of human relations and training.

Organized Labor and the Negro

H. R. Northrup
The relation of Negroes to unions in eleven American industries is analyzed.

Guaranteed Annual Wages

Chernick and Hellickson
A brief discussion of the case for the annual wage based on a study of actual present use and a consideration of its relation to the problem of seasonal fluctuations in production and employment.

The Dynamics of Industrial Democracy Golden and Ruttenberg
"Two labor union officers discuss what they consider to be basic principles for good union-management relations."

Retail Personnel Primer

National Dry Goods Association
"Personnel administration is a very practical matter, the creation and maintenance of a system which produces maximum employee efficiency and contentment."

Autumn

The thistle now has faded into whiteness
And sadly gives its beauty to the breeze
Which whisks it up, and high above the housetops
It floats along and lodges in the trees.

The breeze which whispered subtly through the summer
Now bends the rushes almost to the pond
The aster nods and softly whispers "Autumn"
The goldenrod still waves its ragged wand.

Red maple trees are slowly turning color
The cricket chirps his song from brown-dyed grass;
And still the sky is blue and soft and cloudless
As though it would not let the season pass.

This Sober Town...

He Should Have Kept His Hands in His Pockets—

It's no fun to have your pocket picked, especially when you're just starting for Canobie Lake on a pleasant Saturday morning, but that's what happened to Joseph H. Byrne, 51 School street.

While attempting to board the Canobie Lake bus at Hampshire and Essex streets in Lawrence last Saturday, his way was blocked momentarily by a man wearing a brown suit and no hat, and he later found that his wallet containing $44 was missing.

Lawrence police are investigating.

They Railed Him

Several employees of the Andover Steam Laundry went on a fishing trip Sunday, and

Speaking of fishing trips, there was a Haverhill man who would rather forget his.

One Sunday, not long ago, he decided to go on a fishing trip out of Ipswich harbor. The ocean was rather rough that day, and no sooner had the boat rocked itself out a fair distance from shore than he became the victim of the morale-breaking feeling known as "sea-sickness." He was certainly feeling miserable, and frightened, too (it was his first trip on water since he went on the swan boats in Boston Garden), and being rather wealthy, as such things go, he offered to buy the entire boat and pay every man aboard a week's salary if they would turn back. Well, they wouldn't, but they did take him off in a dory and once on dry land he felt much better.

He even felt a little ashamed of himself, so the next Sunday (how soon we forget!) he decided to try again. This time the boat had just barely passed the wharf when — you guessed it — he was at the rail again. Not so good-naturedly this time, they took him off.

Which just goes to prove that some people can go to sea, but others just have to wait and see.

THE CALL AT LAST

A young couple had asked the preacher to marry them immediately following the Sunday morning service.

When the time came he said: "Will those who wish to be united in holy matrimony please come forward?"

To the altar came one man and twenty-three women.

Master's Hearing on Ballardvale Complaint

The agitation of Ballardvale residents against the Essex Sand and Gravel Company has finally reached the courts. A master's hearing is now in progress at the County Court House in Lawrence on a bill in equity asking that the gravel company be temporarily enjoined and restrained from its operations on the grounds that they constitute a nuisance. Several Ballardvale residents have already testified, along with some of the town officials. The testimony of the complainants revolves around conditions in the 24-acre area of operations and is intended to prove the allegations in the bill of complaint: that as a result of the use of the land by the defendant through its use of manpower and machinery, dust fills the atmosphere and is deposited on the property and in the homes of the plaintiffs; noise and vibration from the use of machinery is ever present; all of which prevents the quiet enjoyment of their property by the plaintiffs and is injurious to their health and comfort and constitutes a nuisance. Some of those who testified stated that sometimes operations continued as late as 11:30 o'clock at night.

Selectman Hardy testified that the company had been notified about two restrictions on the premises in connection with the zoning laws, one that loam may not be removed from within 250 feet from the street line and the other that the company had to carry on the type of business previously carried on at the premises. He stated that there were no further violations as regards the removing of loam after the letter was sent.

ANOTHER ILLUSION GONE

BETTER USE ZIPPERS

I went to the closet this morning, reached for my favorite sport shirt to wear for the first time this season, and it was there all right. But where were its buttons?

I asked her what in the world had happened to 'em, and she replied:

"I couldn't find any new ones anywhere and those were exactly the shade I needed for my dress. You have enough shirts without that one, anyhow!"

ATTENTION, VETERANS!

The Selective Service offices of Andover, Methuen and Lawrence have consolidated and their new headquarters are at 202 Broadway in Lawrence.

Clinton Stevens moved out of his office in the Town hall Wednesday morning and is now on duty in Lawrence. Reemployment committeeman activities will still be carried on in Frank Markey's office.

With the Terminal Leave Pay ap- plications now available at the post office, the Selective Service office is kept busy answering questions in relation to the filling out of these forms.

Mr. Markey has been notified that photostatic copies of discharges will be accepted in place of the original discharge forms although it is quite possible that these copies will not be returned to the veteran when the records are completed.

For the notarization of the appli- cations, see George Winslow, town clerk.

Mr. Markey also reports that the new insurance forms are also avail- able at the Veterans' Service office and it is advisable for veterans to convert their government policies in the near future.

MISSING PARTS

"That absent-minded Professor Schmaltz has left his umbrella again. He'd leave his head if it were loose!" observed the waitress.

"That's true," said the manager. "I just heard him say he was going to Switzerland for his lungs."

Traffic Lights for Shawsheen Square

Traffic Lights for Shawsheen Square have been recommended by the State Department of Public Works, it was announced recently by the selectmen. After completing a survey of the traffic in the Square, State Traffic Engineer Ed- gar Copell advised the selectmen that there is sucent traffic there to warrant the insallation of traffic signals.

It is hoped by the Selectmen that the State will bear the cost of in- salling hese lights, which there- after would be maintained by the town.

Several School Employees Resign

At the school committee meeting held Tuesday evening, the resigna- tion of George Snyder from the Junior High was accepted with re- gret. He will teach in the Winches- ter public schools.

Miss Gwen Armitage and Percy Crosby, janitor, also tendered their resignations. Neither have assumed their prewar duties since their re- turn from the service.

Miss Margaret Hawksworth will remain another period until Lt.

Commander Joseph Doherty, a teacher at Punchard, returns, at a salary of $2,194.

Miss Ruth O'Connell was appoint- ed noon supervisor to succeed Mrs. Mowatt.

Lt. Commander Howard Henni- gar will return with the opening of school. Now on terminal leave, he was reappointed as a teacher at a salary of $2314.

USED FAT SALVAGE CHIEF HOPE FOR MORE SOAP AND SUPPLIES

World Scarcity of Fats and Oils Means That Kitchen Grease Saving Is Principal Source of Additional Supplies

Hundreds of letters are received every day by the Department of Agriculture and the American Fat Salvage Committee regarding the relation between fat salvage and soap. "It takes a week or even two to save a pound of used cooking grease," these letters say. "and that is a lot of work." "Where," the writers continue in the next line, "is the soap my used fat is making?"

When a housewife turns a pound of used cooking fat over to the meat dealer, she enables industry to make six bars of laundry soap that it otherwise could not make, according to the figures released by Washington experts.

One pound of used fat salvage is enough to help make approximately one large box of packaged laundry soap — the kind that is currently hard to get — or six bars of laundry soap, or about five bars of toilet soap.

Increases Supply

On the basis of these figures, if a housewife turns over to the meat dealer one pound of used cooking fat, she makes for herself two weeks' supply of packaged soap, or five weeks' supply of toilet soap, or eight weeks' supply of laundry bar soap, it is pointed out by The American Fat Salvage Committee.

Further, if it had not been for fat salvage, consumers would either have gotten thirteen per cent less soap in 1945, or the government would have had to divert food fats to the manufacture of soap. During 1945, the statisticians say, salvaged household fat supplied enough fats to produce approximately half of the toilet bar soap, all of the yellow bar soap, about 25% of the heavy duty packaged laundry soap, or twice as much as was needed to produce the fine fabric packaged soaps.

By-Products Too

All this in addition to the by-products of soap making, that help make paints, printing ink, fabrics, cellophane, electrical appliances, linoleum and hundreds more everyday necessities.

These figures mean that while soap was one of the shortest commodities last year, it would have been practically extinct if it had not been for the used cooking fat salvaged by American housewives. Every time a woman fails to drain used fat from her frying pan, skim soup, render down table scraps and raw fat cut from meat before cooking, she is throwing hard-to-get soap out of the window.

"American women can help themselves get more soap, and help the famine areas of the world get more food fats and oils simply by conserving all fats and oils, turning every drop of used cooking fat over to the meat dealer for four cents a pound," The American Fat Salvage Committee says.
