AYH

Two college girls on bicycles paused in the square to inquire the way to the Andover Guild, "the local youth hostel," they said. And in two more minutes they braked to a stop at 10 Brook street, looking unbelievably at the two-story house before them.

Across the street, at 11 Brook street, Mrs. Katherine Walsh, the friendly and pleasant house-mother, saw them from her window — she was expecting them, because they had written ahead — and soon the two girls had unloaded their bicycles, turned in their passes, registered officially, (they were from Rhode Island) and were ready to unpack.

Sturdy army cots, with clean, wool blankets are waiting for them, a piano and victrola are at their disposal. Later, they go down to the peach and blue kitchen and cook their own supper from the food they brought with them — and here they find gas for cooking, running water, and extra dishes, the like of which is not found in many hostels. And as they settle down for the night in this pleasant atmosphere, the bell in South Church tolls the hour, and a train goes bustling through. "Andover's nice" they say.

This is Andover's American Youth Hostel, which has accommodated 98 people this summer, from Minnesota, California, Florida, Illinois, Canada, and many other states. It was opened in 1939, and all the hostellers agree that it is one of the nicest places they have stayed in. When you are hosteling you are always sure of a roof over your head and a place

American Youth Hostels, Inc., have headquarters at Northfield, Massachusetts, and hostels located throughout the United States. Bicyclists or hikers may travel in this way from hostel to hostel, the only requirements being an AYH pass and a sheet sleeping sack, both of which may be purchased at Northfield at a minimum cost.

Food is purchased along the way, and cooked at the hostel by the travelers. At the larger hostels square dancing, singing, and general get-togethers are held in the evenings.

Special trips are made each year to various points of interest, both in the United States and abroad.

to cook your supper, but whether it will be in a barn or in a place as nice as the Guild, you never know. That's what makes it fun.

The nearest hostel at present is in Townsend, Mass., but in former years, many hostellers came to Andover from the hostel in Manchester-By-The-Sea, which was very popular, or from Cambridge. Neither of these is in operation at present, but may be opened next year. This would, of course bring more "travelers" to Andover.

YOU MIGHT MEET . . .

Looking through the register in past years, a Russian, Austrian or Frenchman might step from the pages. Mrs. Walsh, who has been house-mother since it opened, can recall the Austrian, who was hiking up to the mountains, wearing special hiking shoes made in his own country. He was not an American citizen, and, as this was before the war, expected to be called home at any moment. Or the young artist, who stayed two days to sketch the church spires of Andover. Or the two Canadian flyers who came this year, seeing New England for the first time, anxious to get to Boston to see the old Missouri. Or the retired physician 70 years old who used to pedal into Andover year after year, but who failed to appear this season.

All of them, says Mrs. Walsh are "friendly and interesting," just as the American Youth Hostels represent a friendly and democratic way of "seeing America first." And after you've seen America, you can go hosteling in Europe, as the bombed-out or dilapidated hostels in the foreign countries are being rebuilt this year by volunteers, many of whom went over from this country to work side by side with the youth of other nations.

And what do all these people, young and old, passing through Andover think of it? They like to see the church spires rising through the trees; the policeman in the square; the friendly children who come to talk to them at the Guild; the beauty of architecture at Phillips Academy; the spirit of the old town all around them.

So, if you see a bicyclist with a little pack strapped on, who looks as though he's going somewhere, smile at him, because he's off to the thrill of new trails and the call of the open road — He's traveling AYH. E. F. C.

Andover Evening Study Groups, To Be Held in Fall, Offer Many Interesting Courses

The Andover Evening Study Program for Adults, now entering its tenth season, will be held this year in the fall instead of the winter as in the past. Last spring a questionnaire was sent out to all those who had participated in the program last winter in an effort to find out whether they preferred the fall or the winter. The returns favored the fall by a large majority, with the result that the Directors decided to hold the program from October 21 to December 13, 1946. It is hoped that this change will eliminate most of the transportation trouble which winter weather has caused in the past.

The curriculum for the 1946 session offers the same broad choice of subjects which has characterized the program in the past. The actual number of courses is somewhat larger than that of last year, evidence that the institution is getting back to full peace-time production. As before the war, courses in current events, history, the arts, literature, science, philosophy, music, as well as physical training and square dancing will be offered.

During the nine years of its existence, the Andover Evening Study Program has given 141 courses to 2656 different individuals from Andover and the surrounding towns. Conducted by members of the Phillips Academy faculty and men and women from Andover and other schools and towns, these courses have gained steadily in popularity since their inception. Since all concerned receive no remuneration for their services, the Directors have been able to turn over to charitable institutions in Andover and surrounding communities over $4000 in the nine years that the program has functioned.

One of the main aims of the Directors is to keep the expenses of the courses within the range of everyone. As a result the fees are nominal, covering only the costs of secretarial work and the expense involved in keeping the school buildings open. The Trustees of Phillips Academy have provided the buildings rent-free, and many individuals, in addition to those actually teaching the courses, have volunteered their services to make the program a going concern.

The charges for the program include a registration fee of $2.00, reduced to $1.00 if an individual enrolls before October 1, 1946. There is added to this registration fee $1.00 for each course selected. Thus an individual who enrolls before October 1 could get four courses for five dollars, an educational bargain which, the Directors believe, cannot be equalled in the state, if the country.

The Directors are especially anxious that all those interested in participating in the program enroll early so that the courses may be planned to fit the expected enrollment at an early date. They hope, too, that men and women who have attended the program in the past will tell their friends about it, since the money and time necessary for any extensive publicity program are simply non-existent.

Catalogs, with registration blanks and complete information on how to enroll in the program, may be obtained at the Memorial Hall Library in Andover or the Stevens Memorial Library in North Andover; or by writing to the Andover Evening Study Program, Phillips Academy, Andover; or by telephoning Andover 720.

The courses to be offered this fall are as follows:

THE STORY OF RUSSIA

Norman B. Floyd, Chairman

An understanding of Russia's past history and culture is one of the most needful and at the same time most difficult subjects of the day. This course is being offered to acquaint those participating with some of the most outstanding trends in Russian history. Topics to be covered will include a brief survey of Russian history since the Mongolian occupation, Marxism, the Russian Revolution, economic progress during the 1920's and 1930's, Russia's part in World War II, and an analysis of Russian aims and needs for the future.

As far as possible, visiting lecturers, specialists in particular phases of the Russian story, will conduct the course. The difficulty of obtaining these men must make the proposed outline of the course a tentative one, but it is hoped that a large proportion of the course meetings can be conducted by these specialists as proposed.

MAN AND HIS EARTH

John S. Barss

To the astronomer the earth is a small and unimportant member of the sun's family. But to man, as his home and his source of life, it affords a fascinating study.

Without using technical terms, Mr. Barss will sketch something of what is known and guessed about the origin of the solar system and of the earth, the appearance and development of living things, the chances that life exists on other planets, and the arrival of man upon the earth and his early growth.

No previous study of any of the sciences is necessary for the enjoyment of this subject. The course was given in 1935 under a different title.

Tuesdays 8:40-9:40. Beginning Oct. 22

THE CIVILIZATION OF ANCIENT GREECE

Alston H. Chase, Kenneth S. Minard, Dudley Fitts, Patrick Morgan, Richard S. Pieters

Its philosophy, art, and literature still unsurpassed, the civilization of ancient Greece is a steady source of pleasure and inspiration to educated people today. Also, its impact upon history has been tremendous. Again and again in the past two thousand years, in India, in Rome, and throughout Europe, contact with the cultural legacy of Greece has stimulated a new intellectual flowering.

This symposium will examine the nature of Greek culture and the source of its ever fertile influence upon the human mind. Mr. Minard will discuss history and the City State; Mr. Fitts, Greek tragedy; Mr. Morgan, Greek art; Mr. Pieters, Greek science and mathematics. Dr. Chase, the chairman of the course, will give three lectures on Greek philosophy and Greek literature other than tragedy.

Tuesdays 8:40-9:40. Beginning Oct. 22

POETRY FOR MEN AND WOMEN

Norman E. Vuilleumier

The first writers were poets, and throughout the centuries poetry has touched the imaginations and minds of men more powerfully than any other form of writing. In little space it encompasses the various attitudes toward life which we all feel but cannot easily express. It helps us to understand ourselves, to see others in sharper focus, and hence to comprehend life better.

The purpose of this course is to help you to read poetry with greater understanding and enjoyment. Examples from the great writers of the past and present will be studied, and recordings of modern poets reading from their own works will be played. The course will be conducted informally, with opportunity for question and discussion.

Wednesdays 7:30-8:30. Beginning Oct. 23

DISCUSSION GROUP ON CURRENT PROBLEMS

Leonard F. James, Howard P. Johnson, Frederick S. Allis, Jr.

This course represents a departure from the lecture type of current events course. In the belief that more participation on the part of those enrolled would result in a more interesting and valuable experience for all concerned, this course is offered in the nature of an experiment. Each week each member enrolled in the course will be given a short pamphlet—for example one of the Foreign Policy Association's "Headline Books"—to read in preparation for the next course meeting. At each meeting the three men conducting the course will be on hand to answer questions and present new aspects of the material under discussion. The subjects to be discussed will be in part dependent on pamphlet material available, but probable topics will include India, the Far East, the American Labor movement, and the like. Each week's reading should not take more than two hours at the most.

Mondays 7:30-8:30. Beginning Oct. 21

SEVEN GREAT SYMPHONIES

Carl F. Pfatteicher

This course offers an introduction to some of the best symphonic music of the world, which everyone wants to understand and enjoy more fully. After an opening lecture on the symphony as a type of music, Dr. Pfatteicher will analyze and interpret seven great symphonies, which will be played to the group in the best recordings. If you like good music but have not had instruction in how to listen to it with the greatest understanding and pleasure, you will enjoy this course and profit from it.

The seven symphonies, each an extremely melodious example of the romantic element in symphonic music, are as follows: Haydn's No. 13 in G Major; Mozart's symphony in E Flat Major; Beethoven's No. 4 in B Flat Major; Schubert's Symphony in C Major; Schumann's Symphony in B Flat Major; Brahms' No. 2 in D Major; and Tchaikovsky's No. 5 in E Minor.

Mondays 8:40-9:40. Beginning Oct. 21

STUDIO ART

Fine Art and Commercial Art
W. Abbott Cheever

The facilities of the studio of the Addison Gallery will again be available for those who wish to use them, either for personal pleasure or for training in commercial art. For those without previous experience or instruction in drawing and painting, Mr. Cheever will set elementary problems in design and color upon which the whole group will work and also give individual help during each session. As the course progresses, students may undertake individual projects of their own choice.

Since advertising and business are making increasing use of the artists, the course will also welcome men and women of more experience in the arts who may wish guidance in adapting themselves to the demands of commercial art. Such people will work wholly on problems of their own selection in consultation with the instructor.

Tuesdays 7:30-9:40. Beginning Oct. 22

BACKGROUND OF MODERN ART

Patrick Morgan

If you are curious about modern art but have often found it strange, puzzling, and apparently unrelated to anything that has gone before, this course will interest you. Its purpose is to explain 20th century art through an analysis of important examples of the art of past ages which has influenced it directly, such as primitive and archaic sculpture, Persian miniatures and Japanese screens, the painting of Rembrandt, El Greco, and Cezanne. Consideration will be given both to the intrinsic value of the art studied, thus establishing basic principles for the understanding and enjoyment of good art of any time or place, and to its special bearing upon the painting and sculpture of our own time.

For illustrative material Mr. Morgan will use slides and original material from the collections of the Addison Gallery and other museums.

Tuesdays 7:30-8:30. Beginning Oct. 22

LATIN AMERICA AND THE PEACE

Manuel Pinto

A stable world order depends in no small measure on the relationship between the United States and the various nations of Latin-America. Yet in recent years dangerous frictions have developed which threaten nullification of the "Good Neighbor Policy" and the security of the western hemisphere. This course will examine these frictions and consider means of working towards closer political, economic, and cultural co-operation.

Among specific topics to be considered are the following: mutual ignorance and suspicions in the past between the "Yankee" and Latin-American worlds; charges of Yankee imperialism; the rise of Argentina and the meaning of the Peron government; the social and class ferment throughout Latin-America; the church and politics; the Mexican revolution; and the future of democracy in Latin-America. Opportunity will be given for questions and discussion.

Tuesdays 7:30-8:30. Beginning Oct. 22

HOW TO READ FICTION INTELLIGENTLY

Almost everyone reads quantities of fiction—short stories and novels,—with more or less enjoyment. Yet the great mass of fiction consumed is bad,—cheap in its appeal, crude in its handling, sloppy in its treatment of emotion, idea, and people,—essentially false to life. Thoughtful reading of good fiction can broaden and sharpen one's understanding of people and life; constant uncritical reading of poor stories can dull and weaken it.

This course is designed to improve your skill in reading and judging fiction. A collection of short stories will be provided for each member of the course, and one or more stories, which students will be expected to read, will be discussed each week. Toward the end of the course, a novel, to be chosen later, will be treated in a similar way.

Members of the Academy English Department who will teach this course are Emory S. Basford, Alan R. Blackmer, Joseph R. W. Dodge, Dudley Fitts, Walter Bierach, Francis B. McCarthy, and Scott H. Paradise.

Wednesdays, 7:30-8:30. Beginning Oct. 23

FAMOUS PASSAGES IN THE BIBLE

A. Graham Baldwin

Rereading the great passages in the Bible can be an exciting and rewarding experience. Even the most familiar of them take on fresh meaning in the light of recent research and new translations. To probe behind the written word to the problems, ideas, and experiences of the authors and the people about whom they have written can enliven material that may well have become stereotyped for the average reader.

In this course Mr. Baldwin will explore with the class the finest sections of the Old and New Testaments, and discuss the men, ideas, poetry, and great moments in Bible history.

SWIMMING AND EXERCISE FOR HEALTH

For Men and Women

Thomas John Johnson, Frank F. DiClemente and Frank A. Brittingham

This course will be adapted to the needs of the individual men and women enrolled, but its general plan is as follows:

For the first half of the two-hour session, the men and the women, in separate groups, each under its own instructor, will do controlled exercises leading to better muscle coordination and posture and also participate in various sports and games. Then in the second hour the two groups will come together for a swim in the pool of the Borden gymnasium.

Men and women who cannot swim or who feel the need of special training in swimming will receive instruction during the first hour.

A doctor's certificate that it is proper for you to indulge in swimming and exercises will be required. Also bring sneakers, swimsuit or old clothes, towel, and swimming suit or trunks.

Thursdays 7:30-9:40. Beginning Oct. 24

SQUARE DANCING

Popular in 1941 and 1942, before this program was interrupted by the war, Square Dancing is again offered for those who enjoyed it before and for any others who wish to participate in this revival of a good New England custom. Experienced square dancers will call the changes and teach you the figures. Everyone is invited; beginners are especially welcome.

In order to secure a proper distribution of men and women, preference in registration will be given to couples. Registration blanks of couples taking this course should be mailed in the same envelope.

The noise was long and loud
And people near there found that they Were living in a cloud.

So as a last resort
They brushed the sand-dust from their eyes
And took the case to court.

West Parish

PLAYGROUND CLOSES

The final session of the West Parish playground was on Friday, August 30. Fifty-four children of the neighborhood were registered and there was an average daily attendance of twenty very enthusiastic and interested children. The activities were under the guidance of Miss Barbara Hill of Lowell street.

On Wednesday, the 28th, a combination weenie roast and field day was held. There was a potato race, a three-legged race, and a candy kiss scramble, also boxing matches: David Haartz vs. Raymond Couture, Arthur Schwarzenberg vs. Allen Schwarzenberg, Alfred Couture vs. Richard Couture, Alfred Couture vs. Bruce Stewart.

A doll show was a feature for the girls, with pretty dolls, large and small dolls, unusual dolls and baby dolls being on exhibition. Although the equipment which had been subscribed by the neighborhood parents and friends did not arrive in time to be used, the children found many interesting activities to keep them occupied during the vacation period.

That's what the telephone company is doing by putting more people on party lines

Since telephone equipment is still short due largely to material shortages, we're having to "divvy up" telephone service — put more and more people on party lines. In places where our present facilities permit us to add new telephones, this method enables us to serve more people than would otherwise be possible.

At present, more than 7 out of every 10 telephone users in New England are on party line service and the proportion will grow even greater in the next few months. That's what makes it all the more important for everyone to be a good party line neighbor. Your thoughtfulness in avoiding long telephone conversations invites the same courtesy towards you from others.

It's not Senator Claghorn, it's Everett Collins. And he's not making a political speech, he's directing the Male Choir.

He came into the Townsman office this week all a-fluster, and gasped: "You're not going to print that picture, are you?" And of course we said, being very mercenary-minded, "Well, we can keep it hidden for a price." But when we told him our price and he said he didn't have twenty million bucks, we just had to go ahead and print it.

He saw Donald Look aiming his camera, but he thought it was aimed at the choir, and so he carried on, giving it everything he had, and a wee bit extra. The camera flashed, and Donald had a picture of Ev as the choir sees him, we had a picture for the front cover, and Ev has over 40-column inches of front page political advertising. You can imagine how it will just stand out on the stands; people will be afraid to buy the paper with that on front, but they will see him anyway.

Ev turned and then slowly walked out of the doorway. Turning, he fired one last grim shot: "It's no joke, son; no joke, that is."

SO FAR 1946 has been an amazing season in two ways—for its brilliancy and its failures. For its Mexico—and the good that Mexico has done for ball players everywhere.

Major John Haggerty, former adjutant and executive officer of the 178th General Hospital overseas, has been assigned to the legal department of Brooks Army Medical Center headquarters, it was announced by Center officials recently.

In the Army since 1941, Major Haggerty taught at Officers' Candidate School in Camp Barkley for two years, left for overseas early in 1944 and was returned to this country in January of this year. For several months, he has taught Military Art in the Center's Army Medical Department Schools.

Major Haggerty is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Haggerty, Clark road, Ballardvale. He received his L.L.B. degree at Boston University Law School, and also attended Suffolk University.

Edward J. Morgan, seaman, second class, U. S. N., Prospect street, is serving aboard the light cruiser U.S.S. Portsmouth, which has returned from a ten-week good-will tour of the South Atlantic and the west coast of Africa. The Portsmouth, flagship of Read Admiral M. E. Curtis, U. S. N., Commander of the South Atlantic Force, put into Newport, R. I., with 19,000 miles of cruising in foreign waters behind her.

Open. We seem to have the best tennis players but a Frenchman is still the Wimbledon winner.

What has happened in the first year after the war? Except in the way of record attendances and general enthusiasm, the aftermath of World War II hasn't even approached the aftermath of World War I. Not in the way of competitive class.

Can you name competitors today who have anything like the combined class of Babe Ruth, Jack Dempsey, Bobby Jones, Bill Tilden, Tommy Hitchcock, Rogers Hornsby, Earl Sande, Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Red Grange, Man o' War? We have Joe Louis. But Joe Louis has been the world's heavyweight champion for over nine years.

We have Ted Williams, but Ted Williams hit over .400 before the last war. He was a great ball player, or at least a great hitter, before World War II ever developed a slight fever. Sammy Baugh and Sid Luckman go well back before World War II.

The brief postwar period has developed a wild stampede to the box office. But very little beyond that. In baseball the batting stars today include Ted Williams, Dixie Walker, Dom DiMaggio, Vernon Musial, Hank Greenberg and a few more. But these are veterans—most of them. Hal Newhouser of the Tigers and Rocky Graziano have been the two leading stars since 1941.

Against this list I haven't the heart to give you the names of those who have faded, folded up or slipped badly—who, returning from army and navy assignments, fell far behind. The outstanding performance of 1946—so far—has been the Red Sox, plus Ted Williams.

Plus the Dodgers' fine showing against heavy odds, player for player. The second nomination is Joe Louis—who against Billy Conn had almost no opposition.

Ben Hogan and Byron Nelson are the two major money winners in golf—but Lloyd Mangrum is Open champion and Herman Keiser is the Master's winner. And Sammy Snead is British champion. It is all very much confused, very badly tangled up.

Most Class in Football

In my opinion the feature part of 1946 won't belong to baseball, racing, boxing, basketball, track, golf or tennis. It will belong to football. This applies to both the college teams and the pros. This first applies to the quality of competition. There will be far more class to football than any other postwar sport can even approach.

I understand that over 100,000 applications had been made for the Army-Michigan game back in June. There will be over 200,000 ticket applications for this contest at Ann Arbor. Applications for the Army-Notre Dame game will pass the 300,000 mark before September. Army-Notre Dame and Army-Navy together could leave the 500,000 mark behind — if there was only space enough.

The Navy-Georgia Tech game in Atlanta already has two times the seat applications that Atlanta can handle. Notre Dame, Army, Navy and Michigan will be a triple sell-out for almost every contest. The same thing will happen to Southern California and UCLA on the west coast. Also to St. Mary's and others.

But I doubt that Notre Dame will have the team Frank Leahy had in 1943 or that Army will have the team Red Blaik had in 1944 or 1945. The talent hasn't improved, but the crowd interest has. Veterans coming from army and navy service have proved nothing. Some have been better — others have taken a big dip. This has been true in baseball — and it will be just as true in college and pro football.

There will be stars from other years who will shine — and there will be stars from other years who will be flops.

There will be a professional football entanglement that will leave you gasping—and more than a few pocketbooks fatter than a thin plank.

"Creative Living" Talk Open to the Public

Well-qualified to speak on her topic, "Creative Living," Mrs. Mary Welch, writer and lecturer, will be at the Baptist church parlors at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon. All townswomen are invited to attend.

Mrs. Welch was born near Carri- ston, Texas, and her versatile activities since her graduation from Stephen F. Austin State Teachers College in 1932 have included those of being a farm homemaker, a teacher of English in high schools, a rural leader in farm organiza- tions for women and girls, an ac- tive worker in religious circles and a writer and lecturer along spiritual and literary lines.

Since 1943 she has concentrated her time and energies upon writing and speaking on themes pertaining to spiritual enrichment of everyday life of practical people. Since the publication of her book, "Reckoning at Dusk" (1944), a popular demand for her services as an inspirational speaker has carried her to all parts of the nation.

Her home is on a small farm in Rusk county where she lives in a log cabin named Wayside Windows, which is also the title of her re- cent collection of poetry.

Grace Noll Crowell says of this collection, "Here is poetry that is as clear as crystal. It is as if the poet held a lifted lamp behind clear glass in order that any passer-by might more easily find his way. Mary Welch lives beautifully and she writes beautifully, sanely and sincerely. Out of her own vivid rich experience, she pens her poems and they shine out to cheer and bless her readers."

There will be no admission charge for her talk on Tuesday, but a silver collection will be taken during the afternoon.

Turkey Talk

A roast turkey dinner, and all the fixin's will be one of the attractions at the annual fair of the West church, to be held under the aus- pices of the Woman's Union on Wednesday, September 11. Two sup- pers will be served, one at 5:30, and another at 7:00, in charge of Mrs. Sydney Batchelder.

There will be grabs for the chil- dren, and aprons, fancy articles, flowers and vegetables for sale.

If you want a ticket and don't know where to get one, call Mrs. Arthur Lewis.

Heigh - Ho Come To The Fair . . .

Getting back into the swing of things in a fair way, the Andover Grange will hold their annual Grange fair on Thursday and Fri- day, September 19 and 20.

Although plans are not complete, it is known that a supper will be served on Thursday evening, menu, etc., to be announced later.

There will, of course, be many tables of wares, and door prizes will be awarded. A display of hooked rugs made by local people will be on display, and the follow- ing articles will be on sale: flowers, plants, food, bakery, vegetables, handwork and candy.

Donation Dance

There will be a donation dance in the Community Rooms in Bal- lardvale on Friday evening, Sep- tember 13th, sponsored by the Bal- lardvale Athletic Association.

The proceeds will be used for the football team, so if you'd like to see a few good games this fall, better turn out to the dance.

IT'S SAME CROWD AGAIN

PARIS. — It's hot in the galleries of the palace of Luxembourg. In the top gallery sit hundreds of newsmen — Chinese, Siamese, Greek, Indian, New Zealanders, watching a man speak far below. Newsmen from all over the world watching the peace. It's their peace. What's done here will affect their countries from Baluchistan to Iceland, from Saskatchewan to Samoa, and they are watching.

Far below, under the klieg lights, sits Jimmy Byrnes — patient, polite Jimmy Byrnes — never leaving his seat, never failing to listen. . . . A man speaks into the microphone. He's interpreting Molotov . . . in French. Another man speaks. He's interpreting Molotov in English. . . . It takes hours. When, you wonder, will diplomacy ever become modernized? Diplomacy hasn't been changed since 1815. . . . The Vienna conference when the great powers divided up Europe and brought on more wars.

Paris today is depressingly the same. We invent modern methods of warfare. . . . Rockets that may reach the moon, atomic bombs that sink navies, germs that can destroy civilizations. . . . But the weapons of peace never keep pace with the weapons of war . . . nor do the diplomats who wield the weapons of peace.

The same crowd which failed to head off the last war is here again — even some of the same crowd which sat in at the last Paris peace conference. . . . Look at their faces. Poker faces. No life, no lift, no passion for the peace they are negotiating, bored faces, preoccupied faces, bored with the endless translations. Bored with the whole boredom of diplomacy. Not a man among them who lost an arm or a leg, who knows what it is to suffer on the battlefield. These are the men who are writing the peace.

Jimmy Byrnes is not bored. Polite, patient, precise Jimmy Byrnes sits on the front row — perhaps he is too polite, too patient. . . . You feel like shouting down at Jimmy. You wish you had a telephone to reach him there, way down below. You wish you could tell him:

"That was a great speech you made the other day, Jimmy, but finish it. Tell them the rest of the story. Tell them not only that the United States isn't going to remain isolated but also that we're going to raise hell with anyone who blocks our path to peace. Tell them that millions of Americans are fed up with all this frittering; that millions of Americans mean business and will back you up in anything you do."

Around the senate chamber of the palace of Luxembourg are great, gold ornaments. Woodwork carved in ornate shapes, heavily encrusted with gold—remnants of the lush days of the de Medicis. . . . If the French had only been smart, if they had only painted out the gold and substituted white crosses! Then perhaps the bored diplomats sitting below would remember. . . . white crosses . . . from Guadalcanal and Stalingrad, from Salerno and New Guinea, from Tobruk and the Rapido, from Normandy and Aachen . . . Close your eyes and you can see them. . . . Thousands of white crosses. . . . The dead speak:

"To all your praises we are deaf and blind.

"We may not even know if you betray

"The hopes we cherished for mankind."

But the diplomats below don't seem to hear. . . . Men in red plush seats, fastidious men in red plush seats, their nails polished, their cravats carefully tied. They don't seem to hear. They are thinking about procedure and majority votes, vetoes and prestige and whether they will get out in time to take tea with Mrs. Ogden Mills.

One man does hear. He sits opposite Jimmie Byrnes. . . . A big, uncouth man, his hair not even parted. . . . Evatt of Australia. His cockney accent is uncultured but he dares to speak. He is the only man who comes anywhere near preaching the Sermon on the Mount, who tells the bored men in the red plush seats that they must love their neighbors as themselves. . . . Unpleasantly Evatt steps on the toes of the big nations — tells them they have no business sabotaging the peaceful goal of others. . . . They don't like Evatt, but they listen. Even patient, polite Jimmie Byrnes doesn't like Evatt. But he listens. . . . Thousands of men under white crosses listen, too.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Edward Buchan and daughter have returned from a vacation at Newfound Lake, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Lowe of Sutherland street spent the holiday weekend at North Salisbury Beach.

Delousing the Rehousing

When is the Federal Government, which has shown itself to be so very incapable of running its own business, going to start letting American industry run its own business again? America's young men, with the equipment given them and the allies by the brains of American industry, won the war; if the government will allow American industry the freedom to again use its brains, America's young men will be able to live decently in a country where individual enterprise and unfettered genius had before produced the highest standard of living the world had ever seen.

Take the housing situation, for instance. From start to finish, it smells. The only result has been either that veterans have no homes, or they have homes that are cheaply thrown together, something that we're going to be very much ashamed of in the not too distant future.

Most houses are built basically of lumber. What has the government done to produce more lumber? The National Housing Agency planned a 15-million dollar road into an inaccessible western forest that will produce 90 million board feet in 1946 — but in March of 1946 six mills in Louisiana were forced to close down, strangled by the OPA, and those mills had been producing 144 million board feet a year.

The National Housing Agency this year will cost the taxpayers 23 million dollars in administrative costs; it added in the first three months of the year 1,141 employees, including 97 men to help sell itself to the American people. Wouldn't it be better to pay a little more for lumber and other materials than to shell out our money for a bureaucracy that does little but hamper orderly housing development.

The 1939 home that cost $6,000 is now frequently being sold for about $12,000. The lumber industry feels that it can reproduce the same home for $8,500, and if it is allowed to build enough of them, it would be below the $8,500 figure. If production can be released from the strangle-hold the government now has on it, if millwork, plumbing, heating plants, and other items can go back into mass production, if building materials are put back into the lumber dealers' yards, and out of the black market, that price is going gradually to get back into the $6,000 region.

Let's be America again. Let's give our veterans a chance at a real home, a decently built home; they were in barracks long enough. American industry has proved itself capable of doing wonders; certainly it is capable of building homes.

Miss Lillian Audesse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Deziel Audesse, 46 Beacon street, was united in marriage with Jean Bedard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Bedard, 100 Currier street, Methuen, at a nuptial mass in Sacred Heart church, Lawrence, at 8:15 o'clock Saturday morning. The mass was celebrated by Rev. Guy A. Lebel, S. M.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Rose Matthes, and Miss Theresa Audesse and Miss Theresa Bedard served as bridesmaids. The best man was Joseph J. Matthes.

The bride wore a period gown with bodice of embroidered slipper satin, cameo neckline and bouffant net skirt. Her finger-tip veil of illusion was attached to a crystal beaded coronet, and she carried an arm bouquet of white roses. The matron of honor wore a forget-me-not blue ninon gown with matching tiara of flowers. The bridesmaids wore gowns of pink ninon with satin bodices, and floral tiaras.

At The Library . . .

Here are some of the books added to the library during the past few weeks.

The Lost Landscape Welles
Some memories of a family in Connecticut over the years 1659-1906. This is the only prose work of the late Winifred Welles, and is delightful reading for those who enjoy looking backwards to the little long ago, and a study of ancestry.

All the Best in Central America Clark

A new travel book telling you how to get there and what to do and see when you do arrive. Passports, clothing, seasons, prices—excellent help for anyone who plans to visit Yucatan, Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica or Panama.

Endless Horizons Bush
Drawn mainly from writings and addresses of the author, with regard to the problems and opportunities confronting science.

Waiting in the Night Millar
A thrilling and desperate story of the Maquis, told by one of its leaders.

Citizen of the World Graham
The life of the world-famous Paul Robeson, written with appreciation and sympathy.

State of the Nation Lindsay
A comedy about politics and about a business man who is induced to consider being President of the U. S. The play was awarded the Pulitzer prize for the best original American play of 1946.

Pocketful of Pebbles Maxtone-Graham

Selections of prose and poetry written over a period of years by the author of "Mrs. Miniver."

American Daughter Thompson
The life story of a Negro girl growing up in a town in Iowa. It gives a vivid picture of the community life, with its mixed population of Russian, German and Indian neighbors.

Camps and Cottages: How To Build Them Yourself White

These two titles speak for themselves, and add to the increasing material being published on a subject of great current interest. The library has a number of books in this field, any of which may be reserved, if not immediately available.

Prophets and People Kohn
"This book grew out of five lectures delivered in July, 1945, as the Norman Wait Harris foundation lectures at Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois." Professor

Kohn shows how separate ideas of nationalism developed in Britain, France, Italy, Germany and Russia during the nineteenth century, how they influenced and often contradicted each other, with brief studies of Mills, Michelet, Mazzani, Dostoevsky, Treitschke, etc.

The Rainbow in Rags McGown
This little booklet, although hardly more than a pamphlet, is a wealth of information for those who find real pleasure in the delightful craft of rug-making. The author writes almost informally, but handles her material with a sureness that indicates her knowledge and love of her subject.

New Homes for Today Williams
Sure You Can Fish! Major
Mainly to defy those who bemoaned the lack of fishing equipment during the hard years, this is still good information for the fans of the great outdoor sport.

Christmas Is Coming For The Boys Overseas

Arrangements have been made by the Post Office Department in co-operation with the War and Navy Departments (including the Marines) and the Coast Guard for the acceptance of Christmas parcels for members of our armed forces serving outside the Continental United States. Postmasters are requested to bring the following requirements to the attention of mailers in order that such parcels may reach the addressees on time and in good condition.

The term "armed forces overseas" includes the personnel of our armed forces who receive their mail through an A. P. O. or Fleet post office in care of the postmasters at New York, N. Y., or San Francisco, Calif., or an A. P. O. in care of the postmaster at Miami, Fla., New Orleans, La., or Seattle, Wash.

Time of mailing.—Christmas parcels for Army personnel overseas must be mailed during the period beginning October 15, 1946, and ending November 15, 1946, the earlier the better. Parcels destined for delivery in China, India, the Middle East, and the islands in the Pacific should be mailed as early as possible during the period stated, preferably not later than November 1, in view of the distances involved.

During this period requests from the addressees are not required in connection with Christmas parcels mailed to Army personnel. Patrons should endorse each gift parcel "Christmas Parcel." Special efforts will be made to effect delivery of all Christmas parcels mailed during the periods stated above in time for Christmas.

Christmas cards for Army personnel overseas may be mailed at any time but patrons must mail such cards prior to November 15, 1946, if they are to have a reasonable expectation of delivery prior to Christmas. The war Department advises that greeting cards for soldiers overseas must be sent in sealed envelopes and prepaid at the first-class rate.

Since Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard personnel may receive parcels without a request at any time of the year, it is not the policy to encourage the mailing of parcels to such personnel during any particular period of time each year. It is suggested, however, that such parcels intended as Christmas gifts be mailed not later than October 15 to afford some degree of probability of delivery prior to Christmas day, depending upon the destination, and that parcels for personnel known to be in an area which would permit mailing subsequent to October 15 may be deposited for mailing at a date selected by the sender.

Size and weight.—Christmas parcels for armed forces overseas shall not exceed 70 pounds in weight or 100 inches in length and girth combined. The various services have pointed out that members of the armed forces are amply provided with food and clothing and the public is urged not to include such matter in gift parcels. The public can ascertain what articles their relatives and friends overseas can secure locally by correspondence with such person and should limit their gifts to articles not readily obtainable by the recipient. Not more than one Christmas parcel or package shall be accepted for mailing in any one week when sent by or on behalf of the same person or concern to or for the same addressee.

Christmas parcels for Army personnel en route overseas shortly before or subsequent to November 15, 1946, will be accepted after November 15, up to and including December 10, 1946, upon presentation by the sender of a change of address notification (W. D., A. G. O. Form 204 or equivalent notice) from the addressee received subsequent to October 30, 1946, provided the parcels come within the prescribed limits of weight and size and are endorsed "Christmas Parcel." Only one such parcel will be accepted from any one person to any one individual having an overseas A. P. O. address. However, use of the notice of change of address as authority for mailing is not confined to the addressee of the notice.

Preparation.—Boxes for overseas transmission should be stronger than containers used for parcels which do not leave our shores. Because of the great distance these parcels must be transported and the handling and storage they must undergo, it is absolutely necessary that all articles for overseas be packed in boxes of metal, wood, solid fiberboard, or strong double-faced corrugated fiberboard, testing at least 200 pounds.

Each box should be securely tied with strong cord, preferably by four separate pieces, two lengthwise and two crosswise, knotted at crossings. Sealing the flaps with gummed tape where they meet strengthens the box, but the use of such tape alone is not satisfactory, since the tape loosens if the boxes become wet or exposed to moist atmosphere.

Boxes should contain sufficient cushioning material so that the contents will be tightly packed to prevent any rattling or loosening of the articles within the parcels. Unless completely packed and tightly filled, boxes are likely to be crushed.

It is also desirable that all fiberboard boxes be securely wrapped in heavy paper, if available, which materially strengthens the boxes. The boxes should be tied as above suggested, before and after applying the heavy paper wrapper. Sealed boxes should bear the printed inscription authorizing opening for postal inspection.

When combination packages are made up, including miscellaneous toilet articles, hard candies, soaps, etc., the contents should be tightly packed, in order that the several articles may not be loosened in transit, damaging the contents or the covering of the parcels. Christmas boxes should be enclosed in substantial containers. Hard candies, nuts, caramels (including those covered with chocolate), cookies, fruit cake, and chocolate bars individually wrapped in waxed paper, should be enclosed in inner boxes of wood, metal, or cardboard. Soft candies, whether home-made or commercial, do not carry well. Sealed packages of candy, cigars, tobacco, and toilet articles in simplest mercantile form may be placed in parcels without affecting the parcel-post classification of such packages. Sharp-pointed or sharp-edged instruments, such as razors, knives, etc., must have their points or edges protected so they cannot cut through their coverings and damage other mail or injure postal employees.

Valuable articles should be registered or insured.

Perishable matter.—Perishable matter will not be accepted, and the sending of fragile articles should be discouraged.

Prohibited articles.—Intoxicants, inflammable materials (including matches of all kinds and lighter fluids), and poisons, or compositoins which may kill or injure another, or damage the mails, are unmailable.

Addresses must be legible, in typewriting or ink. It is preferable that the outside addresses be hand printed directly on the wrappers of the boxes rather than on labels pasted to the wrappers, since experience has shown that the labels frequently fall off when subjected to moisture. Copies of sales slips of retail stores should not be used as address labels. It is highly desirable that slips of paper containing the names and addresses of the sender and addressee and a list of the contents be inclosed in the parcels so that proper disposition of the parcels can be effected in the event the addresses on the outside become defaced in transportation, or the boxes become broken open and the contents scattered.

Parcels addressed to overseas Army personnel should show, in addition to the name and address of the sender, the name, including the full first name, rank, Army serial number, branch of service, organization, A. P. O. number of the addressee, and the post office through which the parcels are to be routed.

Parcels for naval personnel, including the Marine Corps and for Coast Guard personnel, should show, in addition to the name and address of the sender, the full name, rank, or rating of the addressee, and the naval unit to which he is assigned with the Navy number assigned thereto, or name of the ship and fleet post office through which the parcels are to be routed.

Mail for Coast Guard personnel is addressed the same as for Naval personnel, except that the words "U. S. Coast Guard" shall be used in place of "U. S. Navy" after the man's name.

Postage.—Postage must be fully prepaid, the rate on parcels of fourth-class matter (that is, parcels exceeding 8 ounces) being the zone rate applicable from the post office where mailed to the post office in care of which the parcels are addressed. The third-class rate of 1½ cents for each 2 ounces applies to packages not exceeding 8 ounces, except in the case of books, on which the rate is 1 cent for each 2 ounces. The third-class rate of 1½ cents for each 2 ounces or fraction thereof is also applicable to unsealed greeting cards, addressed to other than Army personnel, provided they bear no unpermissible written additions. It is suggested, however, that they be mailed as first-class matter since in that event they will be returned, if undeliverable, provided they bear a return card. Parcels containing only books conforming to the requirements prescribed therefor are acceptable at the special rate of 3 cents a pound, plus 1 cent up to and including 16 pounds; 17 to 27 pounds, 3 cents a pound plus 2 cents; 28 to 38 pounds, 3 cents a pound plus 3 cents; 39 to 49 pounds, 3 cents a pound plus 4 cents; 50 to 61 pounds, 3 cents a pound plus 5 cents; 62 to 70 pounds, 3 cents a pound plus 6 cents.

Permissible additions.—In addition to the name and address of the sender, which is required, inscriptions such as "Merry Christmas," "Please do not open until Christmas," "Happy New Year," "With best wishes," and the like, may be placed on the covering of the parcel in such manner as not to interfere with the address, or on a card inclosed therewith. Books may bear simple dedicatory inscriptions not of a nature of personal correspondence. Stickers or labels resembling postage stamps are not permissible on the outside of parcels.

Registry and Insurance services.—Matter, except that specifically prohibited elsewhere in this notice, addressed to members of our armed forces serving outside the continental United States, may be accepted for registration or insurance. Parcels for registration or insurance must be properly packed and wrapped. Such parcels are subject to the restrictions as to frequency of mailing.

Use of money orders.—Postmasters should recommend to the public the use of postal money orders to transmit gifts of money to members of the armed forces outside the continental United States. With regard to cash remittances, patrons should be informed that the exportation of currency to overseas A. P. O.'s or between such A. P. O.'s where the dollar is not the accepted medium of exchange is prohibited. Currency should, therefore, not be accepted for mailing at a domestic post office when addressed to overseas A. P. O.'s or when mailed at and addressed to overseas A. P. O.'s, except those A. P. O.'s which are branches of the post offices at New Orleans, La., and Seattle, Wash.

The foregoing prohibition applies to currency inclosed in letters or parcels sent as ordinary or registered mail.

Domestic postal money orders can be cashed at A. P. O.'s wherever the forces are located.

This Sober Town . . .

It Happened At the Fair

There it was—a very large red gas balloon lodged on a branch of a maple tree at the Topsfield Fair last week.

"What shall we do?" queried a lady of a Fair official who happened to be passing by.

"Buy her a new one, I guess."

But it wasn't as simple as that. Both the ladies and the little girl had tired of carrying the balloon, which had a very strong sense of gravity, so the lady in question had tied it to a signet ring on her little finger. And there was the balloon far out of reach, with the ring swinging at the bottom of the string. That's right, the balloon went up, ring and all.

Somebody went for a ladder, but just then came a puff of wind, the branch moved, and off sailed the balloon, far out over the tree tops, going up, up. . . . The wind was southeast that day—did anyone up in Maine find a signet ring, size 6? And next time, you can carry your own balloon.

Found—One Laundry Bag

Police are holding an unidentified bag of laundry at the police station, hoping someone will take it off their hands. It was picked up on High street, near Hardy's on August 27, and none of the local laundries seem to recognize it.

The bag contains a quantity of towels and one sheet. It must belong to somebody. And towels are hard to get.

RADIO CASE 180,760,492

(Reversing the situation, a Sunday night radio listener has John J. Anthony, "What's Your Problem Man," on the stand).

Q. Now, Mr. Anthony, what's your complaint?

A. I have no complaint. You're mixed up.

Q. Come, come, Mr. Anthony, there must be times when organ music and poetry let you down a bit.

A. Never. Give me a poem, an organ and other people's troubles and I'm as happy as a lark.

Q. Mr. Anthony, there MUST be something bothering you like everybody else. Are you happy at home?

A. Certainly.

Q. Well, go on in your own way and tell the radio audience why.

A. On my program we only tell why people are NOT happy at home.

Q. Why stay in a rut? Out with it, when did your happiness begin? In what quarrel did you first notice it?

A. I tell you, there was no quarrel.

Q. No fights, no quarrels, no dissensions?

A. None.

Q. You mean to tell the judges who have kindly come here tonight to get a little free publicity that nothing has ever happened in your home that the radio audience should know about?

A. I do.

A Judge: That's the old familiar pattern by which so many marriages go on the rocks, my boy. What you need is a good family quarrel. My advice to you is that you go home and try being very unhappy for a change. It may make a new man of you.

Q. Let's make out you are another case, Mr. Anthony. Say, Case 3457289. That's the case that won't go out and get a job and help keep the home. Now, why don't you go to work instead of sitting around all week waiting for Sunday night to come?

A. I don't sit around all week.

Q. And, furthermore, when did this woman desert you?

A. What woman?

Q. Please go on and tell us all about it in your own way from that point.

A. What point?

Q. The point where you told your father you wanted to play the bawzooka like other kids and he ordered you out of the house with the baby.

A. You're all mixed up.

Q. Now, Mr. Anthony, remember what you said at my office. You said you were willing to take the four cross-eyed sisters in to live with you if the soldier would give them a name and wear shoes at the dinner table. Pull yourself together and speak distinctly into the mike.

A. Could I read a poem to touch the heart now?

Q. All the hearts in tonight's audience have been already touched. Dr. Spotlight, what do you think of this case?

Judge Spotlight (coming out of a trance): I see no problem here at all. This man should live with the three deaf aunts until their grandfather finishes his college course. It will be time enough after that to see about formal adoption. Furthermore, I think the boy who wants to come home from the penitentiary and beat his mother is wrong. There is something to be said for the mother's stand that she wants no part in the beating unless assured the fight is broadcast.

Just Casting About

Fred MacMurray has been chosen to play the male lead in "The Egg and I." We rather looked for the part to go to "Henery" Fonda or Walter Pidgeon.

Tom Drake and Donald Duck would have sounded okay in the egg play, too.

And for the right touch, what screen actress would fit better in the female lead than Evelyn Laye.

Cary Grant plays Cole Porter in "Night and Day" and if he looks or acts like Porter then Monty Woolley is the image of Tad Jones and the ideal man to play the late Arthur T. Hadley would be Jimmy Durante.

Elmer Twitchell has one of those new house-to-auto telephones. Absentmindedly he took it in the other day for a grease job.

Twenty-six ball players have just met with big league club owners on a new deal including better wages, pensions, etc.

There was pride in Casey's manner
As he came up to the plate—
There was firmness in his bearing
As he asked a higher rate.

It's Not YOUR Prescription . . .

When your doctor prescribes for someone in your family or a neighbor, it's for that person's condition only. It may not work for you, even though you may think your symptoms are the same. See your doctor; let him do the diagnosing.
