AT PUNCHARD

By JACK SHERMAN

Christmas Assembly

Last Friday morning, December 20, the Punchard students gathered in the Memorial Auditorium for their Christmas assembly. Mr. Lovely introduced Mr. J. Everett Collins, a distinguished alumnus, who led the entire student body and guests in the singing of Christmas carols. Miss Genevieve Murray gave the Bible reading and also sang "Jesu Bambino," by Pietro A. Jon. Other soloists were Miss Joan Lefebvre, '49, who sang "Cantique de Noel," by Adolf Adam; and Frank McCarthy, '47, who sang the "Ave Maria," by Schubert. Miss Miriam Sweeney was the accompanist for all three soloists and for the general carol singing. The carols sung by the assembly were: "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," "Away in a Manger," "Silent Night," "The First Noel," "Oh, Come, All Ye Faithful," and "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing." Miss Murray and Mr. McCarthy also sang a duet, "Winter Wonderland" which had to be repeated because of the applause. The three soloists then led the singing of "White Christmas" and "Jingle Bells" with Mr. Collins. Mr. Collins was asked to sing a solo but declined because of hoarseness. One of the highlights of the program was when Mr. Collins had the teachers sing a stanza of a carol alone.

Driving Course

The members of the Senior driving course recently went to the Lawrence traffic court to witness the types of cases that were brought before the bench. They saw that most cases of traffic violations were caused by drivers under 21, and they learned the most common errors of these drivers. Mr. Owen Hinckley, and Mr. Eugene Lovely took the class to the Lawrence session, and plans are being made to take the other class to the court soon.

Inter-Church Basketball

The secretary of the Inter-Church Basketball League has made out the standings of each player and of each team. These standings are displayed on a bulletin board just inside the gymnasium. There will be no game on Monday evening, Dec. 23, but the games will be resumed Dec. 30. All who are interested are requested to attend, the admission being 25c an evening, or $1.00 for a season ticket.

Alumni

Several of Punchard's alumni have visited Punchard this last week while on their Christmas vacations.

The Punchard Alumni Association is holding a formal Thursday evening, Dec. 26, at the Crystal Ballroom. They plan to have a queen of the ball and other fine doings. All are invited from the Senior class up.

A holiday dance will be held in the Log Cabin on Friday evening for several eighth grade girls and their guests. Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Peterkin, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur V. Morley of the Aberdeen entertained the residents of that apartment house at a party Christmas Eve. Dancing and singing of carols were enjoyed around the tree in the lobby, and refreshments were served in the Morley's apartment where several springs of mistletoe were hung in unexpected places.

Prize Christmas Doorways

(Look Photo)

The Andover Garden club awarded prizes for the two Christmas doorways which were considered the most outstanding. A large number of artistically decorated doorways were entered in the contest, and it was not easy for the committee to choose among them.

In the group limited to club members, a silver cup was won by Mrs. Charles W. Arnold of 88 Central street (doorway on right), and in the group limited to non-members a cup was won by Mrs. Francis E. Steinert of 180 Elm street (doorway on left).

The Andover Garden club wishes to thank everyone who took part and hopes that next year even more enthusiasm will be shown in the contest.

Tony Kuerti in Community Orchestra Concert

The Andover Community Orchestra will present a free concert in the Memorial Auditorium Sunday afternoon, January 12th, at 3:30 o'clock. Although the program is planned primarily for students of all the schools, everyone is very cordially invited.

The soloist will be eleven-year-old Tony Kuerti from Arlington, a very gifted young pianist. The program is as follows:

- From the Surprise Symphony ..... Haydn
Andante
Minuet
- From the A Major Piano Concerto ..... Mozart
Allegro
- Soloist: Anton Kuerti, aged eleven
- Berceuse ..... Jarnefelt
- Hungarian Dance No. 1 ..... Brahms
- Pastoral ..... Stravinsky
Brass and Woodwind Quintet
- March from Peter and the Wolf ..... Prokofieff

The Youth Concert given last March was a fine success. The committee believes that there are many townspeople who have come to feel that the Orchestra is of real value to the community, and will wish to see it maintained. The Orchestra is now entirely dependent upon voluntary subscriptions for its support. Anyone who will help provide this music for Andover please send any amount from one dollar to ten to Miss Helen Eaton, 114 Chestnut street, Andover, or leave it with Miss Phoebe Noyes, Tax Collector's Office, in the Town Hall. The names of those contributing will appear on the program.

Garden Club Meeting

An especially interesting talk to housewives will be given at the January meeting of the Andover Garden club by Allen H. Wood, Jr., of Wellesley, on house plants. Mr. Wood is one of the popular speakers of Marjorie Mills' radio program and is also on the Yankee Kitchen program. He has the further distinction of being the author of two booklets, "Plants for the House" and "Your Garden, Spring and Fall." The meeting will be held at the Andover Inn at 10:00 a. m., on January 7.

WHERE TO GO .. AND WHEN

With Thursday's encouraging snow flurry that lasted—how many minutes—it's time to start waxing the skis and sewing up the moth's trail through your red woollies. Such "come-on" reports as 5 to 8 inches of snow at North Conway with breakable crust are enough to entice a person northward to test the breakability and Laconia is covered with the same.

Orchestra Concert

Andover is getting off with the right foot in 1947 by offering several worthwhile dates for townspeople. The Community Orchestra concert at 3:30, January 12, is free to the public and will feature that well-known in-spite-of-his-few-years artist, Tony Kuerti. In order to present concerts free to the public, the Community Orchestra depends a great deal upon the generosity of appreciative citizens for its support and any contribution will be gratefully accepted.

Celebrity Concert

The eminent Polish pianist, Witold Malcuzyński, will present a program in the celebrity series at the George Washington Hall, January 31. If you haven't purchased a series ticket, you may now buy a single ticket at $1.80 or $2.40 a seat.

Bagpipes for Bobbie

Scotsmen who are in the habit of observing the birthday of Robert Burns will probably want to visit the Statler Hotel on the evening of January 24 for the Caledonian club's 93rd annual celebration. The doors open at 7:00 and the concert featuring many soloists, the bagpipe band and the highland dancers will begin at 8:00. A grand march will follow the entertainment.

To Be Continued

Hundreds of visitors have already viewed the Nativity Scene sponsored by the directors of the Opera Garden on Porter road. Weather permitting the illuminated spectacle will continue through the New Year and it is open each night from 6:00 to 10:00.

Magic

Another evening's entertainment which is fee-less will be at George Washington Hall on January 10, when Warren Simms will empty his bag of tricks including umbrellas, linking rings, coins, silk hanks and many other usual and unusual contrivances. He will also show off his artful manipulation of billiard balls.

Another of his pet performances which is puzzling, but fun for all, is his prediction of figures. The performer has a spectator place his initials on one side of a small slate. Performer writes something on the opposite side and places small slate in an envelope and hands it to a spectator to hold for the time being; performer asks four different people to think of some particular year—the year they were born or some historical date. Performer steps into the audience and writes down on the second large slate the dates as given to him. Then someone is asked to come up on the stage and add up the four different dates. The dates are checked again with the audience. The total is announced and written in large figures on the opposite side of the slate. The spectator in the audience is asked to tear open the envelope he has been holding, verifying the initials on one side and then read aloud the total written on the other side. This total agrees with the total of the four years, a prediction made by the performer at the very start of this startling effect. There are more, too, but it is more fun to hear them than to hear about them.

FAMILY PARTY

A family dinner party was held at the Carter homestead on Christmas Day. Among the guests were Rev. Richard Carter and family from Suffield, Conn., Rev. and Mrs. Newman Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bryant and Winifred, from Somerville and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Carter and Thomas.

Use Caution

The police Department is rigidly enforcing their rules regarding night parking and overtime parking in the business district. A box of cigars won't get you out of your fix, either. The motto is:

No fix—
The ticket stix!

Chief Dane also cautions parents to warn their children against accidents during the holidays. Turnabout may also be implied. Parents may need warnings themselves to insure the good health and happiness of the New Year.

Save Papers

Residents of Ballardvale are asked to conserve paper for the drive that will be sponsored by the Parent-Teacher association during the school holidays.

Scepticism

Santa's helpers who visit the church Sunday school parties around town will have to be more careful in the future in order to prevent destroying the legend of St. Nick instead of strengthening it. One youngster was overheard expressing scepticism regarding the red togged figure dealing out presents. "Can't be Santa," he said with disappointment.

"Why not?"
"No snow on his boots."
It could have melted on the way down.

SMALL LOSS

The new minister was visiting an aged parish member afflicted with deafness. She expressed great regret that she was unable to hear his sermons.

Anxious to seem sympathetic, he shouted into her ear trumpet "Oh, you don't miss much, Mrs. Briggs."

"So they tell me," was her unexpected reply.

She wore a gown of white faille fashioned with an off-the-shoulder neckline, long sleeves, full skirt with a short train. Her tulle veil was fingertip length, and she carried a bouquet of gardenias and stepanotis. Mrs. Malcolm MacFarlane of Harrisburg, Penna., the matron of honor, wore a wine-colored dress with a silver Juliet cap and carried ivy braided with silver.

Sorcery
of
William Simms
Warrants
Saucer-eyed Audience
at
P. A. Performance

Even at the age of 12 Warren Simms was full of tricks. In fact, he had a whole bag of cute tricks, very modestly priced at three cents each, and these gems of ingenuous sorcery he peddled to his unsuspecting playmates in his own "vaudeville theatre" in the cellar of his home in Dutchess County, New York. When Mr. Simms, with a considerably augmented repertoire, appears in George Washington Hall, Phillips Academy, on January 10, the tariff will be even less, for the public is invited free of charge.

The one-child magical display that Master Simms built for his wide-eyed confreres is, perhaps, worth more than passing mention. The audience, as adequately hinted, consisted of neighborhood moppets who could wheedle the sum of three cents from their parents to investigate the subtle nuances of the Simms magic. In lieu of legal tender, the embryo Houdini would obligingly accept such baubles as jack-knives, tops, marbles and discarded golf balls. The theatre curtain was warmly, if not elegantly, fashioned of old horse-blankets pinned together, and the footlights were flickering candles housed in tin cans. Simms was producer, promoter, actor, director, ticket-seller and usher for the show.

The cracked voice of the family phonograph supplied an overture, and then Master Simms parted his equine curtain for the first act, which featured Brownie, the "trained" cocker spaniel. Brownie's routine was to sit up, roll over, bark twice and sing—the singing sometimes being detected as a protesting wail induced by sour notes from a busted harmonica.

Then came the headline act—the Great Simms presenting Modern Magical Mysteries. Dressed in knickerbockers, a misfit full-dress coat and a flamboyant red ribbon across his shirt front, The Great

Simms ventured forth to astound his comrades. The piece de resistance was the thrilling illusion of cutting off a boy's head. The boy assistant was curled up inside a sugar barrel and, when covered by a big red tablecloth, he was, as had been rehearsed, to duck down inside the barrel and then push up a head of cabbage on a stick, crowned by the tablecloth. This trick always brought down the house, but never quite so literally as the time when a host of hornets, which had stuck to the bottom of the barrel, made the position of Sim's assistant absolutely untenable.

From his cellar magic shop, Warren Simms graduated to the enviable position he holds today among American magicians. As a high school boy he worshipped Houdini and Thurston and Kellar in about the same way as his schoolmates followed the achievements of Ty Cobb and other baseball greats. He became friends with all these top magicians, all of whom advised him to keep away from tricks that others had developed and to devise his own.

Perhaps for this reason as well as any other, Warren Simms must be rated today as one of the most entertaining and original purveyors of magic since the peerless Houdini. He operates his own experimental laboratory where he develops and perfects new tricks, keeping his unique repertoire always well stocked with ruses and gimmicks to astound the incredulous.

A group of carol singers from the West Church journeyed to various sections of the town on Christmas Eve to sing to older residents of the town or shut-in friends. The carolers met in the church vestry at 7:00 p. m., before making their tour and adjourned there at the conclusion of the evening, where refreshments were served.

This annual Christmas custom is practiced by the choirs and members of several churches in town, and their clear harmony was heard and enjoyed by many residents.

Scores of Students and Friends Sadly Mark Passing of P. A. Soccer Coach

Large delegations of Phillips academy alumni and members of the Phillips Exeter Athletic Department were among the many townspeople and students who paid tribute to the late Jim Ryley on Thursday afternoon as members of his 35th soccer team bore him to his last resting place in Spring Grove cemetery.

The highly recognized and well-loved soccer coach died Sunday morning at the Lawrence General hospital after a brief illness. Although he had not been well for some time, his sudden death came as a shock to his friends and to many men whom he had coached during his long career.

Born in Dundee, Scotland, 62 years ago, Mr. Ryley made his home in Andover for the past 53 years, beginning his work as soccer coach at the academy in 1912.

His record as a coach over the thirty-five years in which he led the Blue team again and again to clean and hard-fighting victories is an achievement that will long be remembered by the boys and men that he taught and by the opposing teams that met the challenge of his teachings, but he will also be remembered by those who met and worked with him for his friendly and genial personality. He was known as "Jim" to his many friends during his short life. He will be remembered as "Jim" as the years pass, a great coach and a great character.

The late "Jim" Ryley and two of the many P. A. students who learned and profited by his coaching.

Services, held from the Lundgren funeral home, were held in Cochran chapel at 2:30 on Thursday, with the academy minister, Rev. A. Graham Baldwin, officiating.

Besides his wife, of 50 Salem street, he is survived by two daughters, Dorothy, wife of Abbott Chase of Manchester, Conn., and Alice, wife of Malcolm Lundgren of Elm street; two brothers, Alexander Ryley of Beverly and Thomas Ryley of North Andover; two grandchildren, and several nieces and nephews.

Brendan J. Farrington, John Clayton and William Engstrom were ushers at the funeral and the bearers were Brendan J. Farrington, Fred Zouino, Paul Miller, Francis Parker, Daniel Carrol, Mason G. Arnold, Paul Dickson and John Monroe, students who had come under his commendable influence as a coach and a friend.

Abbot Alumna, 42 Years A Missionary In Japan, Dies

BOSTON, Mass., December 26 — Mrs. Otis Cary, veteran Congregational missionary to Japan for 42 years, died this morning, December 26, at Bradford, at the age of 90. Mrs. Cary (Ellen Emerson) was born in Francestown, New Hampshire, in 1856 and attended Abbot Academy. She married Dr. Otis Cary in Nashua, New Hampshire, in 1877 and sailed as a bride to Japan in February, 1878, under the American Board of Foreign Missions.

Mrs. Cary leaves three sons and one daughter, Rev. George E. Cary, 6 Church street, Bradford; Dr. Walter Cary, M.D., 1296 Mount Pleasant street, Dubuque, Iowa; Rev. Frank Cary, Kobe College, Kobe, Japan; and Miss Alice E. Cary, Secretary for Japan of the American Board, who is now in Tokyo, Japan. She also leaves seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Three of Mrs. Cary's children were born in Japan.

Mrs. Cary, whose husband died in 1932, went back to Japan for six years at that time. After that she resided for a number of years in the Walker Missionary Home in Auburndale, Mass., but more recently has made her home in Bradford.

Following retirement from active service in Japan under the American Board in 1920, Dr. and Mrs. Cary served in the United States among the Japanese churches of California and Utah.

Funeral services will take place at the First Congregational church of Bradford, on Saturday, December 28, at 2:00 p. m.

Mrs. Cary has been lovingly known for years as "Mother Cary." She specialized in work among Japanese women and children, but her primary interest was in her home and family, which was always a center of friendship, help and hospitality for the Japanese.

Her son, Rev. Frank Cary, who is now back in Japan, was for three years a civilian prisoner of war in the internment camps of the Philippine Islands, where he had been serving temporarily following the beginning of the war with Japan. Miss Alice Cary, who is now back in Tokyo on temporary service as the one woman member of a special interdenominational team of six, was also for over 25 years a social service missionary in Japan.

Headlights and Markers

Tales from the Plum Grove Hills

Stuart
Twenty earthy short stories of the Kentucky hill folks. Many of these have been printed in the Atlantic, Harper's, Story, Esquire, etc. Taken at the Flood Watkins, comp.

Asey Mayo, long famous for his superb, if provincial, sleuthing, is back again with a post-war corpse!

Yes and No Stories

Papashvily
These stories of folk lore and legendry are a new contribution by the authors of "Anything Can Happen." The tales have such titles as "The Wolf who was a friend; The bear, fox, and the butter jar; The Man who was full of fun; King of the noise; Foolish and wise," etc. Snow on the Mountain DeJong
On the Edge of the Evening Weygandt

An autobiography of one who holds with the old ways, written against the backgrounds of Pennsylvania and New Hampshire, the two sections of the country in which he has spent his life. The author also wrote "The White Hills—The Heart of New Hampshire." There is a delightful out-of-door flavor in all his writings!

Out on a Limb

Baker
The author lost a leg through a childhood accident and has written an almost jolly account of her life since they "with one foot in the grave." This is not intended to be an inspirational book, perhaps, but it is sure to give a lift in spirit to anyone who reads it.

The Best Plays of 1945-46

Mantle, ed.

creeds. He knew Aimee Semple McPherson, attended dramatic seances with groups of Spiritualists, visited Father Divine in his Kingdom and joined the worship of Baha'i faith, etc. This is his evaluation of his experiences among them.

Training You To Train Your Dog

This book differs from most books on the subject by presuming that the one to be trained is not the dog, but the owner. Excellent "how" illustrations with equally fine "why" explanations.

A PLEDGE

To the People of This Community

January, 1947 . . . another new year. Since resolutions are in order, we again declare our principles to the people of the community.

1. This is a reputable jewelry store owned by a reputable jeweler.
2. We sell only merchandise that belongs in the jewelry store . . . precious stones, precious metals, fine watches, etc.
3. We believe that the only true bargain is real value for your money.
4. We will not lower our standards to meet the low prices of inferior merchandise. Our prices are fair.
5. Our expert advice costs you nothing. We would rather tell you the truth and lose one sale than lose you as a customer for good.

IT'S EASY TO CHANGE A FUSE

CHANGING
A LAMP BULB

For your convenience it's a good idea to have spare fuses on hand. Never use a substitute. When in doubt, use a smaller size rather than a larger size fuse. Play it safe.

Ruddy Kilowatt
YOUR ELECTRIC SERVANT

1. PULL OFF THE MAIN SWITCH

A main switch is one which disconnects all service to your home. Not all services have main switches. If you have one, open it before attempting to change fuses.

2. LOCATE THE "BLOWN" PLUG FUSE

Look through "windows" of fuses. If gray metal link in any fuse is melted, or if "window" is blackened, fuse has blown.

3. REMOVE "BLOWN" PLUG FUSE

Turn blown fuse in counter-clockwise direction with fingertips, as you would a lamp bulb, to unscrew and remove it.

4. REPLACE WITH CORRECT SIZE FUSE

Size or amperage of a plug fuse is marked on base. Branch circuits usually require 15 ampere and main and range circuits 30 to 50 ampere fuses. After replacing fuse—close main switch.
