Women Treated Unfairly In Massachusetts Courts

Mrs. Edward O'Keefe of Lynn, who served for six years as a member of the State Parole Board, spoke at the November open meeting of the Andover League of Women Voters at the Peabody House, Phillips Academy. Her subject was "Women in Prison."

Mrs. O'Keefe was brought to Andover at the invitation of the Social Welfare committee of the League of which Mrs. Alden Cook is chairman.

Mrs. O'Keefe declared that the laws and courts of Massachusetts are unjust to women. As an example she cited the fact that whereas the mandatory sentence for women convicted of cohabitation is five years, that for men is two years. She believes that judges too often act without a full knowledge of the facts and that women offenders are dealt with in a faulty, haphazard manner.

Women of wealth are rarely apprehended for loitering or as sex offenders, whereas women of small means receive heavy sentences, are too often confused and bewildered by court procedure, do not even have the protection of women probation officers to counsel with them or to explain their rights to them. The homes of these women are often unwisely broken up with serious consequences to the children and great expense to the state.

Mrs. O'Keefe pointed out that if women offenders are to receive a greater measure of justice we must have well trained and qualified women probation officers in our courts. There are few such officers in the state.

Mrs. O'Keefe said that the State Parole Board too often ignores the recommendations of the State Reformatory at Framingham regarding decisions for parole. She suggests that the power of parole should rest in the hands of the warden at Framingham and the State Commissioner of Correction. Only under such a system does she believe that there can be a continuity of treatment for women offenders so essential if these women are to be treated with intelligence and justice.

Impressions Of A Newcomer

We recently had our first conducted tour of Andover and were much impressed with the outstanding features that the town possesses. The many points of historical interest, the fine public schools, the beautiful residential sections, and of course the handsome and impressive Phillips Academy are only a few things that make Andover indeed distinctive.

The large industries are equally impressive to a newcomer and are concerns with enviable national reputations. However, when we considered the retail trend, the one-street shopping center, we were somewhat surprised at its apparent smallness. Don't misunderstand us! We have had many friendly gestures from the local merchants and appreciate their position, but we have seen other towns of approximately the same size which easily supported larger, more thriving local shopping centers.

The answer to this obviously seems to be that over 50% of purchases by local people are made out of town. This is understandable to a certain extent in that shopping (like reading a newspaper) is a habit, and evidently many Andover residents who work out of the town are shopping outside of the town, and others perhaps can't find what they want here. In this problem may we say that the newcomers are going to subscribe to the motto, "Try Andover First," which has previously been used in The Townsman.

The future, however, may well be bright for Andover and the whole Lawrence area. A good-sized building boom seems inevitable, with improvement of present conditions going hand in hand with it. Looking toward a bright future is pleasant, so let's work together and put it on a solid foundation!

Food-Saving Program Outlined By League

The League of Women Voters have put themselves on record as co-operating fully with the plans for voluntary food saving, according to a statement made by Mrs. Douglas M. Dunbar, president of the local League. The stand which the League has taken is described in the copy of a release from the national League, which has requested that citizens save food voluntarily, and that the President make concrete proposals to meet food-saving problems and to attack inflation, also that Congress reconvene to consider these proposals.

With the two latter requests national news of today, the local League has made the following statement: "League members are co-operating fully with the plans for voluntary food saving, but if we are to get needed grain to Europe we cannot rely solely on voluntary methods. The greatest saving of food can be made at the source where it can be spared from non-essential uses.

"We cannot wait for producers to see the results of consumer efforts before they can take steps. Government action is needed for an all-out attack on the factors abetting inflation."

The specific steps suggested as a part of the food-saving program recommended by the League are: controls to divert grain from livestock feeding, distilling, and industrial uses to human consumption; extension of export-import controls beyond next February; and reinstatement of limitations of consumer-credit purchases, which by act of Congress expired November 1.

Historical Society To Record Local Oil-Painted Portraits

The president of the Essex County Historical association has requested that a record be made of all oil-portraits done by primitive and early artists; accordingly the Andover Historical society has appointed a committee for this project. This committee earnestly solicits the co-operation of every citizen in Andover. Besides reporting oil-portraits hanging upon your walls, please search your attics and store-rooms for those discarded oil-portraits—discarded because they were considered worthless as a work of art, or too crude to be of value. These are just what we wish, as frequently they have been of great genealogical and historical value.

Your co-operation will be greatly appreciated by the committee who will communicate with you after you notify them by telephone or post-card of such oil-portraits in your possession. The committee hopes also the townspeople will have a personal interest in the success of this project and give immediate attention to it.

Please notify the committee: Miss Alice C. Jenkins, telephone 329-M; Mrs. John C. Angus, telephone 1979; Mrs. Henry J. Stevenson, telephone 38.

WHAT DO YOU THINK . . .

WILL BE THE FINAL OUTCOME OF THE ANNUAL PUNCHARD-JOHNSON FOOTBALL CLASSIC ON THANKSGIVING DAY?

Coach Roberts' Punchard High eleven will meet the Johnson High school team from North Andover, coached by George F. Lee, at the Andover playstead Thanksgiving morning at 10 o'clock, in a contest which has been waged annually over the past 50 years. The official records go back to 1911, when Eugene Lovely started his 30-year career as coach of the Punchard football team with an undefeated season. In that year, the Andover boys won eight games, lost none, and tied none.

But unofficially, a number of old grid fans can remember the days when the Blackstockings, a group representing Punchard and consisting of high school students as well as a number of town boys, took the Bluestockings, a similar group from North Andover, over the hurdles.

Dr. Edward Holt, for years a town figure in North Andover, recalls what he believes to be the first game played between the two rivals. This was on Thanksgiving Day in 1897, when he captained a Johnson eleven, plus town recruits, which beat Punchard, 6-0, in the Tavern lot in back of the library in North Andover, now the residential Tavern Acres.

As coach of the Johnson eleven in the years 1899 and 1900, Doc Holt remembers a real trouncing given the Punchard men on a Thanksgiving morning in the former year, when he claims the score was well over 50-0. Fred Collins, head janitor at Punchard, at that time captain of the Bluestockings, though not a student, adds to the record with details of a game played on Thanksgiving morning forty-seven years ago at Brothers Field at the academy, when Andover won, 12-0. Roy Hardy's older brother Bill, now in Washington, Bob Hutcheson of Carmel road, and Dick Abbott, town tree warden, were on that team. Both Hardy and Hutcheson were Punchard students. As Fred remembers it, there were about five men on the team who were actually attending the high school, although the games were scheduled as high school games.

Apparently there was a hiatus at this point, with spasmodic Thanksgiving contests between the towns, until around 1906, when, according to Roy Hardy, town selectman, triangular sports contests were revived among Punchard, Johnson, and Methuen High schools. That was the time when the boys chipped in ten cents apiece to buy a football, and a regular sports league was formed, including football, track and baseball.

Stephen A. Boland captained the 1911 Punchard team, which included Howard Cates, Richard Stack, Clifford Dunnells, Everett Collins, Joseph Cronin, Jack Sullivan, Arthur Gray, Frank Bingham, Lester Abbott, Harold Cates, Palmer Wilcox, Frank Petty, Bill Haigh, and Arthur Cole, who managed the team.

The 1911 eleven set a precedent, with an undefeated season, with eight straight wins, followed by similar seasons in 1914, 1917, 1924, 1931, 1937, and 1939. During the thirty years that Lovely coached the Punchard teams, his record shows 160 games won, 59 lost, and 30 tied, a remarkable feat.

Howard Cates, a player on the 1911 undefeated team, captained the 1914 team which scored eight wins and two ties. William Cronin was the captain of the 1917 team, which had a record of seven wins and one tie. In 1924, Paul Dyer headed the team which had seven wins and three ties. In 1931, Harry Gouch led the eleven which piled up seven wins, no losses and no ties.

Raymond Lynch was the captain of the 1937 team that won nine straight games, and in 1939, Captain Donald McLaughlin's team scored six wins and two ties.

Since 1911, out of twenty-seven Thanksgiving contests between Punchard and Johnson, the Andover boys have won 19 games, and the North Andover eleven has won five games, with the remaining three, tie games.

The highest score, outside of Doc Holt's account of the 1899 game, was in 1922, when Punchard piled up a score of 69-0. The highest score with Johnson the winner was in 1913, with a 13-7 final score. From 1913 until 1941, when Johnson won, 8-6, Punchard remained undefeated. In that entire period from 1913-1941, the only touchdown Johnson made was in 1921, when the Thanksgiving contest ended in a 7-7 tie.

This year finds Punchard entering the game with a season's record of four losses and three ties; Johnson's record to date includes five wins, two losses, and one tie. What will Thanksgiving morning, 1947, bring?

E. V. Lovely, Punchard High principal, and coach of the Punchard eleven for thirty years, from 1911 through 1940: "I haven't seen enough of Johnson to be able to foretell very accurately what the outcome of the Thanksgiving game will be, but as far as the Punchard team goes, we've had an excellent season, and I can say without any reservations that the present eleven is the best inexperienced team the school has ever had.

"In my opinion, Coach Roberts has done a marvelous job in bringing such a light and inexperienced team along as well as he has. With the number of backfield casualties which have crippled the team, he's done remarkably well. I'm very much pleased with the type of play developed, and have every confidence in the man's ability."

Walter Roberts, coach of the Punchard eleven, one of the outstanding ends to play for Holy Cross in recent years, and end on the All-East team which played the All-West team New Year's Day, 1947, at Kezar Stadium in San Francisco: "There's quite a tie-up in this game. My coach at Johnson High was Jim Cavaliere, a former Holy Cross star, who has since gone to Arlington, and the present coach, George Lee, is a neighbor of mine. Naturally, there'll be a lot of back-yard gossip in our neighborhood until this contest is over!

"I think the boys' chances for success on Thanksgiving are pretty good; certainly the game will be a tough one. Since time immemorial Johnson has come over with blood in their eye! But there's no question about where my loyalty lies right now—Punchard's my team. I've graduated from Johnson!"

Frederick B. Cole, 10 Fletcher street, local sports writer covering Punchard-Johnson games over the past twenty-five years, originally with the old Telegram, and more recently with the Eagle-Tribune: "I've been following the Punchard-Johnson Thanksgiving classic for years, and I'd say the Andover eleven has a pretty even chance of being successful in 1947. If they have a dry field, and if the boys stay up, they should give Johnson plenty of worries before the game is over.

"I've seen every game this year, and I think Coach Roberts has done a swell job working under a lot of handicaps. With only a small squad to begin with, he's had a number of key men missing in every game due to injuries. With his regular quarterback, Cliff Dubois, out with a fractured wrist, my own son, Fred Cole, Jr., among the missing with a head injury, John Columbo on the bench with a broken collarbone, and Bowser out off and on with an injured ankle, Roberts has put up a darned good show.

"He's got plenty of good material coming up in the freshman and sophomore classes, and another year I think he'll have one of the best teams in these parts.

"Johnson and Punchard are about evenly matched according to the record this year, but whatever the outcome, it won't be an easy win!"

Donald Dunn, head of the physical education department in Andover's public schools: "The only certitude in my mind about the Thanksgiving Day classic between Johnson and Punchard is that there will be some real football played.

"Walt Roberts started the year with a green and inexperienced team, and under the circumstances the record has been very good. Only two veterans from last year meant a lot of hard work for the coach, and he's worked those boys long and hard. The only real beating the team took was in the first game, and that wasn't too surprising because the Concord team is the best in their class, and undefeated for the past two years.

"Since then the boys have been put through their paces, and the ones that manage to survive the season will have acquired some real football knowledge. What Roberts is working toward is a real team for next year, and he's got the nucleus for it in the boys who have worked so hard this year. He's done a swell job, in my opinion, in pulling such an inexperienced group up to its present form."

Frank R. Petty, manager of the North Andover branch of the Andover Savings bank, and a member of the undefeated 1911 Punchard team: "Sure, I'm a real fan—I've seen practically every game that Punchard has played for years. Of course I don't know how Johnson is shaping up, other than accounts I've read, but if the Punchard boys play the kind of football on Thanksgiving that they played down at Danvers this year, I think they have a real chance.

"The job that Walt Roberts has done with those boys this year will show up next year, when I think he'll have a humdinger of a team. He's done a good job, and the mistakes that have been made are just the mistakes of inexperience."

"Speaking of a small squad, when I was in school there probably weren't more than two or three extra men outside of the team itself—you had to play the whole game or the game wouldn't go on! There were no shoulder-pads, and no headgear in those days, and the men provided their own uniforms. It seems to me we looked pretty much alike, though, with dark blue jerseys and socks.

"We didn't have all the fancy trappings then, but we sure played football!"

Raymond Lynch, captain of the 1937 Punchard team that won nine straight games, and defeated the Johnson eleven on Thanksgiving Day ten years ago by a score of 12-0: "Punchard has a green team this year, as compared with what amounts to a veteran Johnson eleven, but I'd sure like to see an upset. Maybe the boys are just ripe, after the year they've put in, to do a job on the visitors.

"Considering the material that Roberts has had to work with, he's done a good job, and laid the basis for what will be an excellent team next year and the following year. He's really just building for the future at this point. He's been handicapped this year by a number of injuries.

"I haven't played any football myself since I left school, due to a head injury received playing for Punchard. I think it would be a wonderful idea if some sort of a fund were started to take care of the boys who get hurt playing in the school games. I read recently about a charity game, raising in the neighborhood of $3000 for an injured player. The same idea could be carried out here in town, with a carrying fund that would take care of the medical expenses of boys injured on the field.

"The outcome of the Thanksgiving Day game this year? I'll make a prediction of a tie score, but I'm hoping for better!"

New Student

We welcome to our school a new student, William E. Thomson, who comes to us from Lawrence High school.

We were very sorry to see Joseph Brocklebank leave, as Joe had been here a very short time.

Assembly

On Monday we had a special assembly for Armistice Day. The program was opened with the flag salute and the first stanza of the Star Spangled Banner. Peggy Grecoe then played a quiet selection on the piano, in memory of our dead. In Flanders Fields was recited by Jane Galley, America's Answer, by Clifford Lawrence. Mr. Gaskill then spoke to us and delivered a very fine message. Betty Locke recited a poem written by the Poetry Club. The assembly was closed with the playing of taps by Peggy Grecoe.

Camera Club

The Camera Club, with Mr. Hinckley in charge, discussed the photographic contest which was changed from animals to composition of pictures of all types.

Mr. Hinckley visited Donald B. Look's studio and told us of his new machines and of the various processes Mr. Look uses for printing and developing. The secretary, Betty Gigs, took the names of those who wanted to go some morning to Mr. Look's to acquaint themselves with the machines in his studio and with the procedures of developing and printing.

Mr. Hinckley also brought to our attention the different kinds of photography that were popular during the war. They are: functional, V-mail, aerial, and visual aid. Each type was discussed thoroughly.

Varsity Football

In the clash between North Reading Junior High and Andovering, A. J. H. S. triumphed with a in, A. J. H. S. triumphed with a slashing score of 26-7. The four touchdowns were made by Jack Morgan, Sam De Salvo, Alan Wilson, and George Fraser. Good spirit of co-operation was shown in this game by the A. J. H. S. eleven.

Boosters' Day

The Blue and Gold eleven of the Andover Junior High School checked the Methuen Central squad in a thrilling game held last Saturday at the Andover Playstead by a scoreless tie. Coach Ben Dimlich's squad, A. J. H. S., came very close to getting a touchdown.

The preliminary game, scheduled for Boosters' Day, the 7th and 8th graders of Sacred Heart vs. the A. J. H. S. 7th and 8th graders, ended in a score of 13-0 in Sacred Heart's favor.

The A. J. H. varsity squad showed excellent skill and co-operation.

Boosters' Day turned out to be a success with quite a crowd attending. Exclusive permission was given to the fathers of the boys on the team to sell refreshments. The Cheerleaders did a good job of cheering their classmates on. Most of the crowd, with the cheerleaders, sat throughout the rain. A drawing for a fifteen dollar football, donated by Mr. Hill of Hill's Hardware store was held after the third period. Alan Dodge won this prize. Mr. McCullom took moving pictures of the team, cheerleaders, etc.

The line-up for Andover Junior High was as follows:

LE, Ross, McCullom; LT, P. Tisbert, F. Winters; LG, McCullough, Christy; C, Valz, Gerrish; RG, Markert, J. Winters; RT, L. Tisbert; RE, Morgan, Brucato; QB, Wennik, Koza; LHB, Fraser; RHB, Lawrence; FB, Wilson.

We want to thank graciously Mr. Nelson, the fathers, Mr. Dimlich, the team, the cheerleaders, the teachers, pupils, and anyone else who in any way helped to make such a big success of this event. The figures, proceeds, etc., will be given you at a later date. Thank you again for your marvelous co-operation!

Book Week Contest

A Book Week Contest is being held this week at the Memorial Hall Library, entitled "Who Am I?" The contest blanks are to be had for the asking at the Library, and the work must be done there during Book Week, November 17-22. The prize for the student answering the most questions correctly will be a book of the winner's choice.

The winner's name and the runners-up will be posted on the Library bulletin boards, in the Library column in the Townsman, and in the Tribune on Friday, Nov. 28. Look for them.

Traffic Squad

A traffic squad has been organized, consisting of the vice-presidents of the home-rooms in charge of Donald Valz, vice-president of the school. The traffic squad meetings are to be held during the lunch period on Tuesdays and Fridays in the Science Laboratory. This group was organized to maintain order in the corridors, cafeteria, and on the playground.

The Junior Sun

The first copy of the school paper, The Junior Sun, was edited on October 31st, 1947. It was complete with many essays, bits of school news, original poems, fashion notes and other novelty numbers, all of which were compiled and edited under the very able direction of Miss Ansi Angelo, chief editor of the paper. Cost of the paper is three cents per copy. More editions will follow. This paper is most valuable in itself in that it keeps up an interest in all that is being done in school by the student body.

Clothing Collection

The following letter was received from the center to which our clothing collection was sent:

Assembly

On Thursday morning at 10:20 we went to the assembly hall for a combined assembly with the High School. A speaker, who has lectured all over the country on proper speech made a usually dry subject come to life with a very lively talk. He told us how he is able to recognize whatever part of the country a person may come from by his speech. Everyone enjoyed him, and learned a great deal from what he told us.

In the volleyball openers, the Golds beat the Greens two games to nothing, and the Blues beat the Reds two games to one.

Christmas Assembly

Work has begun on the Christmas play, "The Birds' Christmas Carol" to be presented to the public under the auspices of the Central Parent Teachers' Association, in the Memorial Auditorium. The play will be given by the Junior High School Dramatic Club, and is under the direction of Miss Mabel Marshall, of the club.

Camera Club

There was no Camera Club last Tuesday because of Armistice Day. Pictures for the photograph contest will be submitted during the next meeting.

Correspondence

Miss Stevens' ninth grade English classes are corresponding with girls and boys from Hawaii to the farthest corners of the world. Many letters have been sent, and many have been received. Miss Stevens gets names for ten cents apiece from a company dealing in this business and sells them to pupils. It is very interesting to read letters that have been received, some in broken English, while others are written in perfect English.

Hobby Club

The sword carried by George Washington's body-guard, Lt. Goodrich, was shown at Mrs. Walsh's Hobby Club on Tuesday morning.

Our Red Cross drive is still on. We are still reaching for 100 per cent, and we seem to be getting there. Room 7, 12, and 9 have already reached their goal.

American Legion Rooms To Be Redecorated

Plans for re-decoration of the Legion rooms on Park street under the auspices of Andover Post, No. 8, are well under way, with the committee working actively to get the work started as soon as possible.

Plans to date include whitening the ceiling, walls and floors to be refinished, old lights to be replaced by fluorescent lights, and drapes for windows to replace the present blinds.

The Ladies' auxiliary has graciously consented to contribute toward the expense of the general redecoration. In addition to the basic necessities outlined, the committee is formulating a three-year plan which will include painting, modernizing the kitchen, new chairs, and other improvements to make the rooms more attractive.

In behalf of the Post, the committee solicits any and all suggestions from members. The committee in charge of redecoration is headed by Irving J. Whitcomb, assisted by Francis Markey, Kenneth Sherman, Joseph Remmes, and James Doherty.

Plans for the annual Legion Christmas party are in the making, with tickets in the hands of all members.

New Bicycle Racks For Shawsheen School

Racks that will accommodate fifty-two bicycles were installed this past week at the Shawsheen school. Four separate racks, each of which houses thirteen bicycles, were built by pupils of the Pynchard High school manual training classes, and presented to the Shawsheen school by the Parent-Teacher association.

Story Teller on Monday

John Cronan, the master story teller from the Boston Public Library, whose scheduled appearance at local public schools was postponed last week due to the schools being closed because of bad weather, will address the Shawsheen school children at their opening exercises on Monday, November 24.

Fourth Grade Children Conduct Exercises

The acquirement of considerable poise and an unembarrassed public manner are advantages which the pupils of the Shawsheen school enjoy through their participation in monthly chapel exercises conducted by the pupils of a different grade each month. A call to the Shawsheen school invariably elicits a cheery response, sometimes in a piping treble, others find the receptionist's voice a boy's husky tones, but always the service is prompt, courteous, and efficient.

The fourth grade, under the direction of Miss Florence McCarthy, conducted the chapel exercises last Friday, November 14, with a program which embraced an introduction to Book Week, which started on November 17 and continued through the week, and also an interesting survey on Indians, a subject which is engrossing the 4th grade throughout the month of November.

Robert Winters was the announcer for the program, which proceeded as follows:

1. Prayer and Hymn, "Come, Thou Almighty King."
2. Bobby Watters tells about his story books.
3. Piano Selection, "Spinning Song," Judith Goldman.
4. "About Reading," William Nightingale.
5. Songs, by all the pupils of grade four.
6. "Book Houses," poems, Rita Esile.
7. "Patriotism," David Tomlinson.
8. Piano Selection, "Voice of Spring," Mary Anne Faggiano.

9. Resume of the fourth grade study of the Indians, with descriptions of methods used to obtain information, information gained, interesting anecdotes about the Red race, and activities pursued by the grade in studying the subject.

The following pupils took part in telling the assembled school about their study of the Indians: Carol Emerick, Suzanne Winters, Mary Anne Faggiano, Andrea MacLachlan, and Gail Marland. An invitation was issued to the school to view the Indian exhibit in the fourth grade room.

10. Salute to the flag, and the singing of the first and last stanzas of "America."

Adult Activities In Full Swing

Although we ordinarily think of the school department as intended solely for use by the school children actually the physical plant of the Andover school system also supports many additional activities. At present the evening classes and special activities for adults are in full swing.

There are approximately 25 group meetings in Shawsheen and Central school plants each week.

Incidentally, it might be interesting to note that all expenses for the use of the physical plant of the schools, including heat and light are paid for directly out of the school budget. Any rentals obtained from the various organizations is not returned to the school budget, but is turned back to the town of Andover.

On Tuesday evening in the Central school building, starting with Punchard High school, first comes a group of women busily engaged in improving their sewing techniques under the supervision of Mrs. June White. In the basement of the same building may be found another group engaged in a more unusual art — the art of making hooked rugs. Mrs. Madeline Burnham of the State Extension service is in charge of teaching this class. As the auditorium is approached the strains of the pleasing music of the Community Orchestra under the direction of Miss Helen Eaton may be heard.

Continuing on into the Junior High school we hear a noise of a definitely non-musical sound—that of the metal working class. If bold enough, in face of the din outside, to enter the room, the deafening sounds of hammering on aluminum and copper makes any conversation well-nigh impossible. Surprisingly enough there are more women than men busily engaged here pounding vigorously away on an attractive assortment of trays, plates, bowls, etc. This class is under the instruction of Mrs. Beatrice Roberts.

On the third floor of the Junior High school in the music room a sound of a more pleasing nature, that of the swelling voices of the Andover Male Choir and the Andover Choral society, may be heard. This organization is under the direction of Mr. J. Everett Collins.

In short, on any Tuesday evening there are five full community activities going on in various parts of the school buildings. The schedule for the remainder of the week is as follows:

Monday afternoon — Dancing class held in the gymnasium under the instruction of Mrs. Donald Dunn, under the sponsorship of the P. T. A.

Monday evening—Inter-Church Basketball league under the supervision of Donald Dunn, supervisor of physical education in the schools.

Wednesday evening — Rug hooking class under the instruction of Mrs. Madeline Burnham, and sewing class under the instruction of Mrs. June White.

Wednesday afternoon — Shawsheen school. Dancing class, Mrs. Donald Dunn.

The rug hooking classes, sewing classes and metal working class are state extension courses under the direction of Mr. Carl Gahan of the Junior High school.

In addition to the classes and activities already mentioned, the school buildings are also used for various functions and meetings held by a number of organizations in the town, namely the Masons, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion, the Alumni association, Cubs, Scouts, and Woman's clubs.

The Consolidated Press, Inc., Gets The "Welcome Wagon"

The owners of The Consolidated Press, Inc., publishers of your Townsman were the recipients of the Welcome Wagon Basket this week. This is certainly a novel and neighborly manner of greeting a newcomer to town and we wish to thank the merchants for their thoughtful gifts. We are proud to say that we are also a subscriber to the Welcome Wagon and henceforth newcomers to Andover will receive "The Andover Townsman" in their Welcome Basket.

It was an inspiring talk, enjoyed by an unusually large and appreciative audience, with many friends and graduates of Wheaton College present.

The art department of the club will meet at 3 p. m. on Monday, November 24, with Mrs. Charles B. Martin, 75 Salem street. The meeting will be under the direction of Miss Fannie Davis, and will have as its subject, "Toile de Jouy."

The next meeting of the literature department of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. F. Tyler Carleton, 18 Cheever circle, at 3 p. m. on Wednesday, December 10.
