Indian Lore Made Fascinating To Shawsheen School Pupils

Lifetime Hobby Developed By Enterprising Teacher

Tepees, Indian villages, tomahawks, feather head-dresses, and Indian lore characterize a month's project of invaluable interest and educational value being carried on by Miss Florence McCarthy, teacher of the fourth grade in the Shawsheen school.

An abiding interest in the subject of Indian lore, which she hopes will become a life-time hobby of some of her most interested pupils, has prompted Miss McCarthy to make this educational unit an all-pervading part of her school program in November.

One interesting phase of the program is the Indian name of each child by which they are addressed.

One of the most difficult of Miss McCarthy's tasks is making certain that she doesn't confuse Morning Star with Laughing Water! The children's names and their Indian designation follow:

An election held every week, when the class elects officers to guide the class for that period, gives the children an introduction to the democratic way of life. During the course of a year every child has an opportunity to hold each office. This week's council of the tepee is led by: President, Mary Anne Faggiano; secretary, Gail Marland; treasurer, Andrea MacLachlan.

The organization of the unit of work became topical through the discussion of such interests as Indian homes, food and clothing. At the beginning, the plans were developed by the children and Miss McCarthy, and gradually the children worked independently along lines of their individual interests.

Correlation was obtained with the following activities:

Reading—read books of Indian stories from the library.

English—Gave accounts of Indian life and wrote Indian stories.

Music—Learned Indian rhythm and made and played Indian tom-toms. Sang Indian songs.

Health—Discussed reason why Indians had strong bodies i.e. (a) plenty of exercise in their dances, and in running and swimming; (b) had plenty of fresh air, (c) ate wholesome food, (d) slept enough, (e) drank water and milk, (f)

went swimming when they needed a bath.*

*Spelling words and arithmetic problems were based on Indian life.

Art—Made Indian designs, bowls, constructed an Indian village, made Indian costumes, totem poles, tomahawks, and a life-size tepee was set up in the classroom and appropriately decorated with Indian designs.

Each pupil made himself a head-dress and on it printed his Indian name. Miss McCarthy used these Indian names when she calls on the pupils. In what spare time they can find the pupils are making Indian beads from colored magazine pictures.

The pupils' achievement in mastering the subject matter is carefully checked, the children show a definite gain.

Some outcomes of the activity are:

1. Habits of obtaining knowledge through reading.
2. Ability to apply that knowledge in reproductions.
3. Training in skills of handcraft and art.
4. Ability to relate known facts to unknown facts.
5. Forming habits of reasoning, judging, evaluating, using initiative and abilities creatively, working individually or in a group, and working for a common interest.

The class has made individual note books as a permanent reminder of the Indian days in the fourth grade. In the books the pupils wrote an account of each phase of Indian life, and then illustrated each phase. One of their proud possessions is the Fourth Grade year book.

Information for the project was secured by the children themselves from class text books, encyclopedias, books brought from home libraries, and magazines.

A high point in the activity was reached on a recent Friday, when the 4th grade conducted the chapel exercises for the entire school, and described the project on which they had been working, at the same time extending an invitation to the other grades to view their exhibit in the home room. Carol Emerick, Suzanne Winters, Mary Anne Faggiano, Andrea MacLachlan, and Gail Marland were in charge of describing the Indian project during the exercises.

A financial report of the Booster's Day program was given at the meeting of the Junior High fathers group, with total receipts reported as $320.28.

Expenses for the game came to $63.28, and the net profit was $257.00.

EDITORIAL . . . Statistically Speaking

Practically everyone will agree that plain cold statistics are pretty uninteresting, but when they affect us directly, many of us have to depend on them just the same. We are publishing these statistics with the hope that they may prove helpful to some readers. Also we should say that these facts were prepared by an independent market research organization and were a part of a much larger report.

League To Hear Speaker on UNESCO

"UNESCO Serves the Peace", is the subject which Dr. Isidore Amdur, associate professor of physical chemistry at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will cover at a luncheon meeting of the League of Women Voters, to be held in the South church vestry on Tuesday, December 9, at 12:45 p. m.

Dr. Amdur's talk is particularly timely in view of the fact that the luncheon meeting will come just after the closing of the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization conference in Mexico City.

The speaker makes the following comment about his qualifications as a speaker on this subject: "I think, quite frankly, that my qualifications for talking on UNESCO is interest in it which which predates its birth, and a firm belief that if properly administered, it may truly help preserve the peace."

Dr. Amdur is the recording secretary of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences,—associate professor of physical chemistry at M. I. T.—member of the Division of Foreign Relations of the National Research—formerly advisor to the council and State Department on UNESCO.

The committee in charge of the luncheon meeting is headed by Mrs. C. Edward Buchan, chairman, and Mrs. Donald Klein, co-chairman. They will be assisted by Mrs. Walter Mondale, Mrs. Walter Partridge, Mrs. Almon Daniels, Mrs. Sigilman and Mrs. Eric Jones.

Mrs. Jones, the committee's UNESCO representative, is planning a display of materials on this subject, and the League will welcome any of the townspeople who care to attend this meeting. The speaker may be heard at approximately 1:45 p. m.

Those planning to attend the luncheon should make their reservations with Mrs. James H. Grew before Friday, December 5. Cards for this purpose will go out to the League membership in a day or two.

Former Airline Supervisor Addresses Local Group

The A. P. C. sorority of the South church had as a speaker recently Miss Lillian R. Fletcher, former supervisor of stewardesses for Northeast Airlines.

Miss Fletcher was particularly well qualified to discuss air travel. She has flown more than half a million miles and served as stewardess for more than 36,000 passengers. After being supervisor of stewardesses for three years she became assistant director of public relations. Miss Fletcher has an unswerving belief in New England's destiny as an important part of both the domestic and international air future. She is considered one of aviation's foremost ambassadors of good will.

Mrs. Franklin Ellis was chairman of the refreshments committee, assisted by Mrs. Arthur W. Cole, Mrs. Sherwood Kelley, Mrs. Merrill Burnett, Miss Vera Thurston, Miss Barbara Loomer and Mrs. Alexander Wilson, Jr.

Members of the North Andover A. P. C. sorority were guests of the local group.

Sketches of Soloists In Christmas Concert

On Sunday evening, December 14th at eight o'clock in the Cochran Chapel, Phillips Academy, the Andover Male Choir and the Andover Choral Society will sing "The Messiah" by Handel.

Outstanding soloists have been engaged and twelve instrumentalists from the Boston orchestral group will support the singers as well as the famous organ. Raymond Wilkinson will be at the organ console.

The soloists are Marguerite Willauer of Boston, a talented young soprano who is studying at the New England Conservatory. Miss Willauer is a native of North Carolina. She has recently sung the soprano solos in several famous oratorios and cantatas at the Emmanuel Church in Boston. Clara Taylor, alto, has for many years been the leading alto singer in this section. Her interpretation of the beautiful "Messiah" solos for the alto voice is always superb. Edgar Randle, tenor, lives in Newtonville and is one of the outstanding singers around greater Boston. He is soloist at the Unitarian Church in Winchester and also of the Highland Glee Club of Newton.

An added feature this year is the procurement of twelve instrumentalists from the Boston Orchestral group to assist the soloists and chorus. These players are most familiar with the "Messiah" score as they played it year after year in many parts of New England.

The magnificent Martha Cochran Organ will be in the capable hands of Raymond Wilkinson, organist at the First Calvary Baptist Church, Lawrence. The concert which is under the direction of J. Everett Collins, is free to the public and all music lovers are cordially invited.

Poison Ivy Control Program Off to Good Start in 1947

An extremely interesting report of the work done by the tree warden, G. R. Abbott, in the control of poison ivy was given at the annual meeting of the Andover Village Improvement Society held recently.

The war is over, but the details of every-day living are not yet normal. This fact is reflected in our A. V. I. S. program, to a certain extent. Plans for many new projects were delayed by labor conditions.

However, it is a pleasure to report that one committee has been a real credit to the society, and a help to the town. This is the poison ivy committee. We quote Mr. Abbott's full report at this point.

"The society appropriated $500 for the purchase of ammonium sulphate to be used by the tree warden as a spray along our roadsides, to destroy poison ivy. Thirteen hundred pounds of ammate in 50-pound drums were purchased from the Frost Insecticide Co. of Arlington, and 1050 pounds in 350-pound barrels from A. Lee Co. of Methuen, all at 18 cents a pound. Total, $423.00.

"The tree warden did the spraying during July with a power sprayer, as the chemical became available. Ammate was used at the rate of one pound to one gallon of water, with apparently good results, as the ivy turned brown within a week, and soon died.

"While the first cost is high, any plants that escaped should be easy to control, if control work is kept up each year.

"Roadsides were sprayed on the following streets: Abbot street, Phillips street, part of Porter road, Hidden road, Sunset Rock road, Gardner avenue, Bancroft road, part of Holt road, part of Salem street, Apple Tree lane, part of Summer street, Walnut avenue, High street, Haverhill street, part of Lowell street, Shawsheen road, Cuba street, and sections in Ballardvale."

We next quote from Mr. Rohrbach's report on the work of the committee for planting flowering dogwood trees, to beautify the town.

"Since it was voted to plant flowering dogwood trees this year, the committee had in mind to plant only when the weather would permit. As the Summer and Fall were too dry, it was thought best to wait till the Fall rains had started. There is no watering possible during and after planting, and Fall planting is the only way to have the plants root in, during the dormant months.

"On November 8, Mrs. Knipe and Mrs. Morse accompanied me on a trip to inspect the possible sites. Mrs. Benton and Mrs. Holmes could not go. In Shawsheen, the Rogers Dell, Summer street at the corner of Upland road, in West Andover behind the new fence of the school grounds, in Ballardvale at the playground among the lower shrubs, in front of the Francke house perhaps two more, and at the boulders near the railroad station, suitable places were outlined.

"It was suggested that part of the appropriation should be used to plant ground covers, where dogwoods would create a driving hazard at the corner of Hidden road. Nothing could be done on the slope of the South Church cemetery along School street until more definite plans are made.

"The trees are ready to be planted, and all preparations are made to do the planting this coming week, since finally we have had sufficient rains."

The work on the plots, the Dell, and other tree planting has been at a minimum.

Mr. Perley Gilbert reports for the Indian Ridge reservation committee that no money was spent. Some underbrush was cut. Boy vandals hacked down a good straight six-inch pine.

Unfortunately one of our other projects failed to mature, namely the plan to place window boxes to decorate the town hall. Mrs. Knipe and her committee zealously investigated every angle of this plan, which would have been very lovely. The braces on which these boxes were to be placed were found unsafe, and every alternate device to support the boxes was found to be impractical. This is a dream for the future.

We are happy to say that some valuable trees at the corner of Main street and Hidden road were saved for posterity, through the tact and wisdom of our president, Tyler Carlton. A conference with a property owner, who had asked for an all-out clearing at that corner, achieved a compromise. In accordance with legal procedure, the petitioner was granted a hearing but the A. V. I. S. was instrumental in saving the latter trees.

It is hoped that in the coming year the work on removing poison ivy may continue, and that other projects to beautify the town may be developed.

Respectfully submitted,
RUTH M. MORSE, Clerk

Italian Organist To Play At Methuen Music Hall

Maestro Giuseppe Moschetti, who will be heard in an organ recital at the Methuen Memorial Music Hall Thursday, December 4th, at 8:30 p. m., enjoyed unusual distinctions in his native Italy before moving to Canada, of which country he is now a citizen. Concert tours of England, Ireland, Switzerland, as well as Italy, gained for him an outstanding reputation.

He was selected from all the organists of Italy to play at a special commemoration in honor of St. Francis of Assisi, and was chosen personally by the composer, Ottorino Respighi, to introduce his concerto "Vetrata di Chiesa" for organ and orchestra with the Symphonic Orchestra of the Augusteum Theatre of Rome. In 1935, Mr. Moschetti was appointed organist of the main station of the Italian Broadcasting System.

Mr. Moschetti's previous appearances at Carnegie Hall in New York, in the Cadet Chapel at West Point, and in Toronto, Montreal, and Ottawa have resulted in enthusiastic acclaim on the part of both critics and concert-goers generally.

Apology

We regret that there were no Punchard Notes last week. Unfortunately we did not get our copy into the proper hands in time, and the typesetters cannot set up copy that they don't have. We'll do our best to see that it doesn't happen again.

Joint Assembly

Dr. F. Arnold Young gave a talk on English to a joint assembly of the Junior and Senior High Schools. Dr. Young told us the correct pronunciation of several words that are commonly mispronounced, and compared our New England accent to that of other sections of the country. By using the word "hog" and illustrating the different accents, he showed us how ours compared favorably with that of other sections of the country. After his very interesting talk, Dr. Young held a brief question period. One question was a frame-up, arranged beforehand by the speaker. It read, "What is the difference between sight and vision?" How would YOU answer that one? Dr. Young said that he could best answer by a personal experience. He said that he had recently gone into a building where he saw two girls. One was a vision, the other was a sight. We can't help it; that's what he said!

Old Fashioned Christmas

Another joint assembly was held in order that the students might have the arrangements for Andover's old fashioned Christmas explained to them. The speakers at the assembly were: Mr. Haseltine, chairman of the committee; Mr. Vincent rainor; and Mr. Arthur Rathafel, of radio station WCCM. These gentlemen told us of the details of the celebration, and what our part would be. We were invited to make floats for the parade, and were told that the committee would foot our bill up to as much as $10.

Mr. Carl Gahan and Mr. Owen Hinckly of the faculty will act as advisors on the floats, and Mr. Donald Dunn will act as the liaison officer between the committee and the students, and will also serve as general answer man.

Honor Roll

Because of our missing the deadline last week, the following Honor Roll is old news to the Punchard students. We are very proud of the number of students who received honor grades for their first term's efforts. On the list are 96 students, nearly a third of the student body. The Sophomore class had 35 honor students; the Junior class is proud of their 33 students on the list; and the Seniors bring the number up to date with 28 honor students. Here are the students who received honors.

The Junior Red Cross has just completed its annual drive for funds. Punchard collected $33.50 for this worthy organization.

Boxes are being filled by each home room to be sent to the school children of Eurpe. These boxes contain pencils, papers, and other essentials for school work, as well as toys, games and small articles of wearing apparel.

The Waid Studios of Boston, the official class photographers, have completed the sittings of the members of the Senior class. The pictures are promised for Christmas.

The Spaulding Moss Company printed the Punchard pamphlet that was issued to all Punchard students last year.

Goldsmith Prize Speaking Contest

The Goldsmith Prize Speaking Contest will be held on Wednesday, December 17. The tryouts for the speakers have already been held. A boy and a girl from each class are chosen to speak, competing for a prize of five dollars for the best boy and girl speakers. The speakers will be: Sophomores; Nancy Chadwick, Joseph Ratyna. Juniors; Irene Yancy, Russell Doyle. Seniors; Jaon Gallagher, and Jack Sherman.

Pepsi-Cola Scholarships

Not so long ago, we printed an article about the annual Pepsi Cola Scholarship Examination. The Punchard Senior Class voted Polly Black, Joan Capen, Eric Halbach, and John Pingree the honor of representing the class in this nation-wide contest. If any of these four are among the highest fifteen in the state, they will take a special session of the College Board Examination. The Pepsi Cola company then gives the two highest of the fifteen a four-year scholarship to any college of their choosing. The four Punchard students took the initial examination last week, and they are now waiting anxiously to see if they are among the lucky fifteen. We all hope so, not only for their sake, but for the honor of the school as well.

The Guidance Department has bulletins concerning several scholarships from colleges. As the students do not seem too interested in these notices, we were asked to notify the parents that if they are interested in having their son or daughter try for these scholarships, they should contact Mr. Kellmurray of Mrs. Carter as soon as possible.

Thanksgiving Holiday

School will close Wednesday, November 26, at approximately 11 o'clock for the Thanksgiving recess. The football game against our traditional rival, Johnson High School of North Andover, will be held Thanksgiving morning at 11 o'clock sharp. Rumor has it that there will be a rally Wednesday morning before school in dismissed. Tickets are now on sale at the Punchard office only. They are not and will not be on sale in advance any where else. The price of these tickets is 60 cents for the adult tickets, and 35 cents for the students tickets. In order to buy a student ticket, however, a student must present his Punchard Activities Association tickets paid up to date. All are invited to come and cheer the Punchard team on against our traditional rivals. Here is a word of warning. Arrive early! The seating capacity is limited, and if you want a seat, you must arrive in plenty of time.

WHAT DO YOU THINK . . .

Of the Plans for Andover's 1947 Old Fashioned Christmas Festival?

Plans for a real old-time Christmas festival in Andover this year are progressing by leaps and bounds. The small idea that originated with members of the Service Club has boomeranged into a full-scale Christmas program that will warm the hearts of children and adults alike. The amount of enthusiasm shown by everyone approached so far in furthering this program for an old fashioned Christmas festival, is an indication of the townspeople's interest in celebrating the Yule-tide in a big way.

What started out to be a merchant-sponsored idea has been swept into channels of general community interest, and the outcome of the committee's plans may well attract interested observers from all surrounding communities.

Christmas has always been the time for a letting down of the bars, and a general feeling of fellowship and god will permeates the most austere stronghold. The story of the Babe is one which makes the heart, in a time of world trouble and uncertainty, warm again to the old truths which

RADIO SCHEDULE FOR OLD FASHIONED CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL

The first radio broadcast to introduce Andover's Old Fashioned Christmas Festival will be heard over station WCCM on Thanksgiving Day at 8:30 p. m.

November 28-December 24, Monday through Saturday, at 10:30 a. m., radio station WCCM will broadcast other historical sketches of Andover's past and present in relation to the Old Fashioned Christmas Festival.

at Christmastime assert their importance.

Andover's old fashioned Christmas festival is a bold move towards asserting this small community's belief in the good things of life — in the laughter of small children before a bedecked Christmas tree, the sound of many voices carolling through the cold night air, in the inherent desire of every man to do good unto his neighbor. A community spirit which makes such an observance of Christmas possible, if multiplied a thousand times, in other small communities such as ours the world over, should in the end be able to forge bonds of unassailable peace and good will.

Harold Haseltine, manager of a local store, and chairman of the Old Fashioned Christmas committee: "The whole idea actually started with the Service Club, when Stan Swanton and myself were more or less challenged to see what we could do about it. Since that time, the idea has grown into big proportions, with everyone in town offering to help and showing interest in the program.

"Andover has the natural setting for a Christmas celebration of the old-fashioned kind, and it just needed a lot of people with get-up and go to put it to use. Of course we can't expect that this first year — and we definitely plan to have this Old Fashioned Christmas celebration an annual event — will be the total of what can be expected, but if we have patience and work on the thing, there's no reason why Andover's Christmas celebration can't be the biggest thing for miles around.

"Actually we started working on it this year pretty late, and the time element is very important, but all signs point to a big time. We've figured that we can cover this year's expenses with $1500, and anything over this amount will be saved for next year. It would certainly be a shame not to make a similar effort even earlier next year, and continue the practice which will be inaugurated this year.

"The merchants are giving this celebration its first send-off, but gradually the people themselves are taking over. In time it should be a real community affair, and an Old Fashioned Christmas to remember."

The Reverend John Gilbert Gaskill, pastor of the West Parish church: "The idea of the Old Fashioned Christmas is a good one, for it promotes the holiday spirit. This is commendable unless it is overdone and becomes a burden to the mind and pocket-book. However, the Christian church — Protestant and Roman Catholic alike — desire to emphasize the fact that Christmas is a holy day and would like to see more of the spirit of Christ enter into the general promotion of it, rather than the commercialism of the day. I wish the merchants had consulted the church leaders first in regard to the Sunday program.

"It is my prayer that all Christians will remember God's great gift to the world, the Babe of Bethlehem, and the message of peace, good will, tolerance and understanding, which came with Him and share that message in action with those less fortunate in this country, and those abroad whose lives and countries have been ravaged by war. Only insofar as the Old Fashioned Christmas does this will it be truly successful."

Chester W. Holland, co-chairman of the Old Fashioned Christmas finance committee: "Great credit should be given to the business men who formulated the plans for an Old Fashioned Christmas for Andover this year.

"They have emphasized the necessity for the hearty co-operation of the townspeople to insure an observance which will do justice to Andover tradition.

"The cost of properly conducting the program must be defrayed by individual contributions.

"You have no doubt received a letter from the committee soliciting your support. Please contribute something. No contributions too small. Donations will be received at both the Andover Savings bank and the Andover National bank."

Howell F. Shepard, Ballardvale, town selectman: "In my opinion the Old Fashioned Christmas celebration is a wonderful idea. I think the residents in Ballardvale would be perfectly willing to do their share towards making the affair a big success. Everyone should share the burden in a community project of this type, as well as share the enjoyment.

"There is no reason why the merchants should bear the expense alone, and for my part, I'll be glad to do anything which will contribute to a successful celebration in Andover."

Stafford A. Lindsay, Shawsheen Village, active for many years in local activities, among them head of the committee on recreation, past commander of the Legion 40 & 8, Grand Director of Child Welfare, and an active worker for the Red Cross: "When I first moved into this town twenty-three years ago, I missed a community observance of Christmas, as where I came from a great deal was done in this respect. I'm awfully glad that something is at last being done about it. Andover is recognized as a leader in so many other respects that this is a natural move.

"The idea of an Old Fashioned Christmas celebration is a good one, and I think its success depends on the number of people who get behind it. There's no reason why every section of town should not enter into the spirit of the thing, and every organization do its part. If you want something, you have to pay for it, and I think we all ought to do our share toward making this Old Fashioned Christmas a success."

Arthur T. Weiss, Ballardvale, on a year's leave of absence from his post as teacher in the Junior High school: "Definitely a good idea, particularly in view of the fact that Andover proper is split up into so many sections. Here in Ballardvale the religious societies, the men's clubs, the Parent-Teacher association, and other groups could give the program a real boost. There's no question in my mind but what everyone in this section would be glad to do their part."

Arthur R. Lewis of the West Parish, chairman of the school committee: "This is an excellent idea, and I think should stimulate a great deal of interest on the part of people from all over town. Anything of this nature is most successful if everyone concerned participates.

"We have just completed a very successful drive up here in the West Parish to raise funds for enlarging and improving the vestry, since our Sunday School had grown out of bounds, and our success was due entirely to the fact that there was a 100% interest in "The same principle may well be applied to any community project — the more people work on it, the more successful it will be. A great deal of interest has already been aroused in this Old Fashioned Christmas celebration in Andover. Now give everyone a job to do, and convert that interest into a definite channel, and the celebration can't help but go over the top!"

The draft of Andover's Old Fashioned Christmas program is as follows:

The town hall will be decorated with Christmas lights. In front of the town hall there will be temporary bleachers surrounded by lighted Christmas trees and other suitable decorations.

Starting on November 27, there will be a daily radio program which will broadcast historical facts about Andover in relation to an Old Fashioned Christmas. The school children will participate throughout the celebration.

On Sunday, December 21, there will be a pageant sponsored by the P. T. A. by children from all of Andover's schools at 2 p. m. This pageant was written by Miss Tewksbury, and is entitled "Symbols of Christmas." In the evening a Christmas service in all churches will be followed by carols in front of the town hall, these to be broadcast.

On December 22, there will be carols broadcast from in front of the town hall.

On December 23, there will be a parade for children with Santa Claus in the van at 2 p. m. The parade will terminate in front of the town hall where Santa will give presents to all children.

At 9 p. m. on December 23, there will be prizes awarded to the following:

To the best decorated store, by the November Club.

To the best decorated home, by the Garden Club.

All decorations used, other than electrical, will be fabricated in the school workshops. This includes laurel wreaths, artificial candles, and the decorations to be used on the street light poles.

In addition, there will be four perpetuating cups given by the town merchants to the boys' group entering the best miniature inanimate float (30" x 60" x 25") depicting the Old Fashioned Christmas spirit.

Each group of children entering a float will be allowed up to ten dollars for materials for a completed entry. All floats must be submitted to the committee by December 20. From December 21 to December 23 the floats will be exhibited in various stores.

The floats will be in the parade on December 23, along with Santa Claus.

From December 21 until December 23, all persons will be urged to wear old-fashioned costumes.

A convenient place for you to drop in for refreshments, and to have your costume judged, will be announced later.

Exhibit Of Tinsel Prints At Addison Art Gallery

Heavy and Light Tones Contrasting Subjects

A recently discovered and rarely shown collection of theatrical portraits of interest to theatre goers has just been assembled at the Addison Gallery in Andover. In this bizarre and glittering procession are Shakespearean figures, ancient kings, mythical gods, clowns, vaudeville characters, villainous highwaymen, heroes, and sweet young maidens; also, a 19th century burlesque sold "Penny plain, twopence colored" as souvenirs of the current hits playing at the London theatres and were engraved with the name of the actor and the play.

The Tinsel Prints have been selected from the collection of Charles G. Shaw, a New York artist, and will be shown at the Addison Gallery at Phillips Academy, until December 15th.

Meticulously fine pen drawings of Shakespearean scenes by the American artist, Edwin Austin Abbey, better known for his murals which decorate the Boston Public Library, feature one of the two special exhibits recently installed at the Gallery in collaboration with the Department of English of Phillips Academy.

The drawings reveal a studied, somewhat heavy, grace and gesture Edwardian theatre. Their sober, literary quality, emphasizing content, character and story is seen in marked contrast to the robust flavor and spicy atmosphere of the early 19th century theatre which is represented by the popular Tinsel Prints exhibited in an adjoining gallery.

Though both exhibits are intended for the particular interest of students studying the plays of Shakespeare, they are of general interest to the public at large, especially visiting classes from nearby schools. They may be seen at the Addison Gallery until December 15. The Abbey drawings were lent to Phillips by the Yale University Art Gallery.

Norman H. Pearson, alumnus of Phillips Academy and Professor of English Literature at Yale University has loaned his collection of engravings by Jose Guadalupe Posada (1851-1913) who was not only a political caricaturist, but his own engraver and publisher, together with the work of later artists influenced by him, including the renowned Diego Rivera.

Andover Garden Club Notes

The December meeting of the Andover Garden Club will be held at the Andover Inn, Wednesday morning, December 3rd. Members please note change of day. Coffee will be served at 10 o'clock followed by the program, when Mrs. Chester Cook of Boston will be the speaker by Mrs. Cook will talk on the subject of Christmas decorations for the home, and will illustrate by actually making up wreaths, swags etc., for her audience. A committee headed by Mrs. Charles Thompson will have on hand a supply of greens, berries and cones which may be purchased, and members wishing to do so may remain after the meeting to receive the benefit of Mrs. Cook's expert advice in making Christmas decorations for their own homes.

All proceeds from the sale of greens will be used for the Blue Stra Highway. This is a road reaching from coast to coast which is being landscaped at suitable intervals by the Garden Clubs of America as a living memorial to the men who lost their lives in the last war.

Under the direction of Mrs. Frederick Johnson and her committee the Andover Garden Club will again decorate the Auditorium at Bedford State Hospital for the Christmas Season.

The Garden Club will give a prize for the best decorated doorway, as was done last Christmas. Mrs. Charles Hollis is the Chairman of that committee.

Boys' State Report Heard by Legion

The annual ladies' night and Boys' State program of Andover Post 8, American Legion, was held Thursday evening in the Legion hall. Jack Sherman, son of Superintendent and Mrs. Kenneth L. Sherman, who was elected state auditor at Boys' State last summer at Massachusetts State college, was one of the principal speakers.

Sherman was a delegate to Boys' State from the local post, and described his experiences during the period. Other speakers were: Department Vice-Commander James J. Evans of Everett, who is chairman of Boys' State; Grand Child Welfare Conductor Stafford A. Lindsay of the 40 & 8; and President Mrs. Margaret Cilley of the Legion auxiliary. Mrs. Walter E. Mondale, president of the Parent-Teacher association council, was among those present.

Commander Vincent F. Stulgis opened the meeting, and it was then turned over to Chairman Arthur L. Coleman.

Movies of Boys' State were shown, and refreshments were served.

Members of the auxiliary were also guests of the post for this meeting.

Local Alumna Chairman Of Building Committee

Mrs. Richard S. Douglas, 18 Morton street, is chairman of the local alumnae committee working for the $500,000 building fund for Wheelock College, Boston, which prepares teachers of young children. Additional facilities are required for the four-year program leading to a B.S. in Ed. degree now conferred upon graduates.

Alumnae in more than 70 Massachusetts communities are meeting currently to concentrate their efforts upon the first project in the building program, financing of the Lucy Wheelock Auditorium, in memory of the founder. Similar meetings are being held by alumnae in 47 states.

Square Dance Classes

There will be another square dance class held in the West Parish vestry Friday, November 28, under the sponsorship of the Men's Brotherhood. The Boxford Country Dance Orchestra will furnish the music, with Joe Perkins calling the changes and giving the necessary instructions.

Planned Parenthood Drive Successful

Local Signatures Obtained
Exceed Section's Quota

The local committee working on the state-wide drive for planned parenthood, in its circulation of the initiative petitions to be presented to the state legislature the first of the year, has more than succeeded in its attempt to secure the original quota of 5000 signatures allotted to this section, according to a statement given this week by Mrs. Ernest L. Wilkinson, publicity chairman of the drive.

The local committee, which had as its chairman Mrs. James C. Grew, has already sent the petition with the signatures obtained here in town, to the state Planned Parenthood League headquarters in Boston. The accumulated petitions will then be placed in the hands of the secretary of state, and in the first week of January the first initiative petition goes to the state legislature.

The workers covered Andover. Precinct chairmen who worked under the direction of Mrs. Grew were Mrs. J. Lewis Smith, Mrs. R. H. Edith Kitchen, Rev. John G. Gaskill, and Mrs. Frederick A. Peterson, Jr.

The following workers circulated petitions in Andover:

Mrs. Frederick Johnson, Mrs. Herbert Farnsworth, Mrs. Arthur J. Smith, Mrs. Irving Southworth, Mrs. Miles Malone, Mrs. Edward D. Winters, Mrs. M. Phillips Graham, Mrs. Foster Barnard, Miss Fannie Davis, Mrs. Delight Hall Gage, Mrs. Frederick C. Noss, Mrs. Cleveland Gilchrist, Mrs. Glen Grant.

You and Thucydides

The Memorial Hall Library will sponsor a new venture in discussion groups early in 1948. The group will be led by Mr. Alston Chase of the Phillips Academy Faculty and will read together and discuss Thucydides History of the Peloponnesian Wars with reference to any other material which is relevant to the discussions. This is not an escape into an ivory tower but as tough an assignment with problems of the here and now as can be imagined. These "old boys" really had something and while it may be true that history never repeats, some of the circumstances in which the world finds itself today are remarkably illuminated by events of long ago and their interpretation by able minds like Thucydides.

Who can join the group? How large will it be? Anyone can join who is interested in doing some good reading and good hard thinking. Those most interested in the idea hope that members of the group will represent as wide a cross section of the community as possible. In other words, it is hoped that members of the group will not be all college graduates, or all anything else. The most successful discussion can be aroused through the interaction of different kinds of minds belonging to individuals whose experience of life has been gained in varying ways. Anyone who is interested in coming to grips with great problems as they have been dealt with by great thinkers like Thucydides and who likes the excitement which is brought about through interchange with other and different points of view, belongs in the group. Let no lack of formal education deter anyone who has the desire. Doubtless a group should be reasonably small and yet it would be impossible to imagine anyone being turned away though the enrollment should reach astronomical figures.

Each member of the group should have a copy of the book under discussion since this is a type of meeting in which the individual members and NOT THE LEADER will do the work. The History of the Peloponnesian War is available in the Everyman's edition at $1.25. The library will order copies for all who signify their wish to join the group and copies may be purchased at the first meeting. If you are interested call the library, Andover 314. Details about the discussion group will appear in the paper from time to time.

Famous Books

Made Into Movies

The third of the series of famous books made into movies will be shown at the Andover Playhouse on Saturday morning, November 29th. Mr. Resnik has made possible the showing of old favorites during three weeks in November in celebration of the national observation of Book Week. This week's story made into a movie is that of "The Five Little Peppers And How They Grew." Mothers and young grandmothers can remember the trials and tribulations of the very fine Pepper family; Mrs. Pepper who worked so hard to keep the children together; Ben the big brother; Polly, who struggled with the worn-out kitchen stove; Joel and David, the very human brothers and little Phronsie, who was everybody's darling. Although written long ago, the Five Little Peppers are still popular among young readers.

Tinker's Course (Home repairs for the handy man—or woman!)

New Books

Some of the best fiction of the year is making an appearance, and much of it may be looked over on the display tables of the main reading room of the library for the remainder of Book Week. Any book, fiction or non-fiction, may be reserved for home use immediately after this week. This is a splendid time to inspect new books in all their jacketed glory, especially if you have your Christmas buying in mind.

Here are a few that are drawing reserves:

Nicanor of Athens Grazebrook

An imaginary autobiography of an unknown citizen of Athens at the time of the Great War between Athens and Sparta, 2,400 years ago. The author drew his material from Thucydides, Plato, Aristophanes and Xenophon.

The Farmhouse Reilly

Another Inspector McKee mystery in which a private detective is murdered at a farmhouse. First class tale well told!

Adversary in the House Stone

The fictionalized life of Eugene V. Debs, whose love for the cause of the workingman was even stronger than his love for Gloria Weston, and because of this greater affection he passed by the girl who loved him throughout his life and later married Kate Metzel, whose opposition to his ideals lasted equally long. The author wrote "Lust for Life" and "Immortal Wife."

High Places Todd

Andrew Fraser, head surgeon at Millfield hospital, is a man who will not compromise with his conscience. It is his struggle with himself and his loyalty to his place in the steel town and his love for Kay Elliot that make the story—good, satisfying fiction.

Dirty Eddie Bemelmans

A satire on Hollywood in which the leading man, Dirty Eddie, is a sleek black pig with a fat movie contract.

Wife's Eye View Kerr

The publishers claim that the general male opinion of Rocky Challett, the leading man, is that the gentleman is a heel! The ladies who have met him in print call him charming. But to his wife he was a normal human being until prosperity and a new way of life threatened their marriage.

Hans Bernd Gisevius is one of the few survivors of the group of Germans who actively plotted to do away with Hitler. His philosophy is this: A victory for Hitler meant the end of Christian civilization and of western culture in Europe and perhaps the world. ## MRS. ROBERT T. JACKSON

Mrs. Fanny (Roberts) Jackson, 84, wife of Robert T. Jackson, retired professor of paleontology at Harvard University, died Saturday at her home in Peterborough, N.H. She was born here and formerly resided in Boston and Cambridge.

Surviving, besides her husband, are two daughters, Esther Jackson and Mrs. Dorothy Bastille.

Funeral services were held at the First Church, Unitarian, Boston, Tuesday at 12:30 p. m.

JOHN W. BOURDELAIS

The last respects were paid to the first of Andover's returned war dead Wednesday morning with burial services for John W. Bourdelais, son of Mr. and Mrs. Octave Bourdelais, 55 Chandler road. The funeral mass was held at 10:00 a. m. in St. Patrick's church, South Lawrence, and interment was in the Holy Sepulchre cemetery in North Andover.

All flags on public buildings were at half staff on Tuesday and Wednesday, and the bell at the central fire station was tolled for two minutes on Wednesday at 10:00 a. m., at the time of the beginning of the services.

A combined escort from Andover Post 2128, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Andover Post 8, American Legion, were on hand at the Lawrence railroad station to meet the body which was under the charge of Thomas Cadaret of Lawrence.

A contingent of the V. F. W. held an honor guard at the home on Monday night, and Tuesday night the service was performed by delegates of the Legion.

A full military funeral was held at the high mass at St. Patrick's church.

"NOD"

"Nod", named by nurses in the premature ward of the Children's Hospital Medical Center, the smallest of triplets, the surviving pair, "Winkin" and "Blinkin", born to Mr. and Mrs. Bialsky of Roxbury, died last Wednesday, November 19, after a dramatic three week fight for life.

"Nod" weighed only one pound, eight ounces, at birth. For more than three weeks, doctors and nurses fought desperately to keep the tiny boy alive. At one point, according to hospital authorities, the infant dropped in weight to one pound, six ounces. The day before his death, careful nursing and medical treatment had brought his weight up to one pound, thirteen ounces.

"Nod" is survived by "Winkin" and "Blinkin", his two little brothers. Both are doing well, and now weigh three pounds and one ounce apiece.

Contest Results

A partial announcement of results of the recent contest at the library has been made. In the Teen-Age contest there was a tie between Brian Caldwell and Dorothy Dodge, and both will be presented with a book. This was a contest in which pupils of the senior high school entered.

In the 7th, 8th, and 9th grades, the results were so close, that a recount is being made which may result in an elimination contest for the highest ranking group.

In the Who Am I Contest of the 4th, 5th, and 6th, grades, Joyce Williams of the 6th grade was the winner with the extremely high score of 60 out of 64 points. The two highest marks for pupils of the 4th and 5th grades were won by Judy Goldman, 4th grade, and James Gordon, 5th grade, and each will receive a prize.

Runners-up in the Who Am I Contest are as follows: 4th grade, Gertrude Stewart, Mary Faggiano; 5th grade, Carol Folley, Jane Nelson; 6th grade, Lesley Jane Westfall, Francis Henrick.

Jean Stillman, 39 Morton street, student at the New England Conservatory of Music will play second violin in a recital of contemporary music for voices and strings on Monday evening, December 1, in Recital Hall. She will play Ralph Vaughan Williams' "On Wenlock Edge," Emerson Whithorne's "The Grim Troubadour" and Benjamin Britten's "Serenade."

Children Pack Barrel For Little Wanderers

The annual "packing of the barrel" took place this year in the Free Church Sunday School, when the children of the parish brought canned goods and non-perishable food, to be sent to the New England Home for Little Wanderers in Boston. Most of the Congregational churches in New England participate every year in this event.

Recently, bags were distributed to the children in Sunday School, to be returned on Sunday, November 23, filled with the food which will then be taken to the Home. In the ritual which attends the bringing of the bags, the children placed their offerings at the altar in a ceremony of dedication during the opening exercises. Money contributions were also made, and envelopes for this purpose were placed in every bag.

ATTENTION : HUNTERS

Tame White Deer Not Fair Game

Any sportsman stalking his prey in the vicinity of Andover or North Andover in the approaching hunting season which starts at 6:30 a. m. on Monday, December 1, should take careful stock of his victim before shooting to kill. A small, tame deer, about three feet high, recently belonging to Edward R. Greenwood of North Andover, escaped this past summer, and is at large somewhere in the local woods.

Only last week this deer, of the East India White Fallow species, was seen in the vicinity of the North Andover pumping station. An appeal has been made to local hunters by its former owner, who still has a number of these tame deer, not to shoot him.

It would scarcely be square shooting on the part of any hunter to deliberately take aim at this defenseless deer, just out of captivity, and with no knowledge of how to hide, or even the desire to hide, from that strange creature, man, who up to now has been his friend.

Mr. Greenwood has no hopes of being able to return his deer to a protected life, now that he has tasted the freedom of the woods, but he would hate to see his erstwhile pet felled by a sportsman's bullet.

Ernest J. Pearman and Anna J. Pearman of 12 Little road, and Edith Massey, 90 Middlesex street, were recent visitors at Silver Springs, Florida.

Most Successful Year For Junior High Intramural Sports

Indoor Track Program Planned for Punchard

This is the best year in intramural sports in the history of the Junior High School, according to Donald Dunn, and plans are afoot for a new program of indoor track meets in Punchard.

Extensive talks with Mr. Dunn, supervisor of physical education for boys, and the director of physical education and health programs in all schools, and Miss Frances Collins, supervisor of physical education for girls, revealed the following facts:

One hundred and thirty Junior High boys are enrolled to try their athletic prowess in tag football, basketball, soccer, ping pong, shuffle board, handball, track, and softball.

The Junior High girls number 50 now and will soon be 100 strong in such intramural sports as soccer, basketball, volleyball, softball.

Punchard carries much the same intramural sports program as Junior High. This program is important because it gives each youngster a chance to play a game against others of his own age level, and where varsity sports have a few participants, intramural sports give a part to many boys and girls.

Junior High youngsters have four gymnasium periods each week, high school students have five.

In varsity sports, football and baseball are coached by Mr. Walter Roberts, and basketball by Mr.

Kenneth McKiniry. The football team is, with the exception of the team captain, all new material this year.

For the ninth grade pupil who excels scholastically, athletically, in health habits, and in citizenship, there is an award given each year.

Miss Collins and Mr. Dunn have 31 and 40 classes, respectively, each week plus after-school activities and so are pleased to have Mr. Ralph Hudson and Mr. Arnold Lapato, Boston University Student Physical Education teachers, assist them with the athletic program of all elementary grade schools, as well as assisting Mr. Dunn directly, several days a week. Miss Catherine Barrett, principal of Central Grade Schools, feels that the elementary physical education program which is based on the principle that the right kind of recreation will increase the social efficiency of the child, is functioning quite well at the present time.

"Ever Friday Mr. Ralph Hudson spends time in each classroom assisting the teachers and children with their physical education work. Each day during the afternoon recess period the classroom teacher in a sort of 'follow-up' way directs the activities of her pupils which she hopes will result in steady and wholesome progress in health and in social and character development.

"Mr. Ralph Hudson has been very generous with his time and has proved to be of great assistance to the teachers. However, I understand that his training period will be over soon. That being the case, the elementary teachers would welcome the appointment of a specially trained supervisor. Every classroom teacher's work can be effective with proper supervision and guidance. She does need the help of a specialist in planning the program, improving her methods, finding sources of materials and evaluating results."
