VIEWS OF THE NEWS

By LEONARD F. JAMES

"Do I exist for the Government, or the Government for me?" asked a bewildered grocer in England the other day, as he bent over a pile of new rationing regulations. "God knows," he muttered, "—or Sir Stafford Cripps." Perhaps he was beginning to realize that government control is the biggest single industry in Britain; maybe he'd been to vaudeville shows with their new crop of current jokes on government operations.

Some are amusing enough if one's sense of humor is elastic. Do you want to export an Angus bull? You may, answers the Board of Trade, provided you attach a metal disc to its horns. No, decides the Board, after you've wrestled with the impossible, just brand the horns. Must I, asks the farmer? Well, no, admits the Board of Trade, Angus bulls don't have horns.

Our grocer needs a house. So he and his husky sons build one themselves. But before he has enjoyed its privacy a horde of workmen come to pull it down. Naturally, he didn't have a permit to build. He is perhaps puzzled about how to stretch the bread rations for his customers.

School Fuel Bids Awarded

Committee To Open Bids On Shawsheen School Heating Unit June 1

Bids on oil and coal for the school department were opened and awarded Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the school committee.

The following members were present when the meeting was called to order at 7:30: Chairman, Gordon L. Colquhoun; Secretary, William A. Doherty; Mrs. Dorothy Partridge, Mrs. Katharine Baldwin, Vincent F. Stulgis, and Superintendent of Schools Kenneth L. Sherman.

Mr. Sherman brought it to the attention of the committee that Bernard M. Kellmurray would speak over WCCM Friday morning, May 14th, at 10:30 o'clock. Because Mr. Kellmurray was to speak on Guidance in the Public Schools, Mr. Sherman thought it would be of interest to all members.

William A. Doherty, chairman of the special committee for the improvement of the Shawsheen grounds, reported to the committee that the special committee had met the night before at the Shawsheen school and had discussed ways and means of procedure on the Shawsheen grounds.

The financial statement for the month of April was carefully studied by all members, and was

Favor Single Houses For Veterans Here

This Type Preferred If Town Accepts Housing Authority

Should the veteran's Housing Authority be accepted at the special town meeting next Tuesday night, local authorities will make every effort to see that under the act a group of single houses are erected rather than double houses or other multiple units.

The board of selectmen is very much in favor of the single type house for the town, and other interested citizens interviewed in the past several days are in accord with such a program.

There is a possibility, however, that some effort may be made to provide double houses and apartment houses, inasmuch as such dwellings will provide more housing units for veterans and will more readily relieve the local housing congestion.

While the four local members of the Housing Authority and the one member to be appointed by the state will have "home rule" in planning, building, owning and managing the property, the state, which has final approval of all matters, is apt to look upon the project from the viewpoint of the number of families that may

Memorial Library Plans For 75th Anniversary

Public Invited To Attend Exercises To Be Held Wednesday, June 2, To Commemorate Opening

Seventy-five years ago the Memorial Hall Library was first opened to the people of Andover—a public library, a reading room and a memorial to those who had fought in the Civil War. On June 2, the Reading Room was opened to the public. It is particularly fitting that this year, on the anniversary of that date, there will be a program held in the library, to commemorate the occasion. Wednesday evening, June 2, at 8:00 o'clock, special observance will be made. Mr. Frank D. Ashburn of Brooks School, North Andover, will be the guest speaker. The public is cordially invited to be present.

During the program, excerpts will be read from the original dedicatory address made by Phillips Brooks at the formal opening of the library. This opening, almost three years after the day in which Andover's John Smith, travelling in Germany, felt a sudden yearning to have a library in his own town, was held on May 30, 1873. During those three years his plan for a public library was heartily endorsed, and several committees were active in raising the necessary funds upon which hinged the generous offer made by Mr. Smith—namely, $25,000 toward erecting a Memorial Hall, a library, if possible and a reading room. After all subscriptions were in, there were still many dollars lacking. Finally it was agreed that a sum of $4500, previously voted for a Civil War memorial, should be added to this project.

Water Leak Due To Crack in Main Gets Four Speeders At Accident Scene

A large crack in the underneath side of the 16-inch water main on Reservation road which sprung a leak last Thursday morning and left the town without water pressure for more than an hour, was discovered by workmen of the public works department.

The leak extended about 12 feet in this section of the cast iron pipe, and was from 1/4 to 1/2 an inch wide. A new section of pipe was inserted by Monday of this week and the excavation left open two more days to see if any further leak would develop. When none did, the excavation was filled. Normal service with this large main was resumed Monday.

FREE DOG CLINIC

The final free dog clinic will be held at the Central Fire station Saturday morning from 9 to 12 noon.

While investigating an automobile crash on Route 28 near Gould road Wednesday noon in which two Andover people were injured, Police Sergeant William R. Hickey found cars going by the scene so fast that he stopped four of them and booked them for speeding.

"Cars were stopped on both sides of the road," said the sergeant. "Curiosity seekers attracted by the damaged cars were milling about, and I was standing in the highway in uniform, yet motorists kept going by at a terrific rate. I could have got more of them if I could have stayed there longer," he added.

The four drivers booked were from out-of-town. Albert Foss, 67, of South Main street received a sprained back and was taken to the Lawrence General hospital after a car he

Local members of the Housing Authority, if the act is accepted by the town, will be careful to select positions on the plan. While it is likely that there will be at least two World War veterans named, it is also expected that the selectmen, who have the initial appointing authority, also seek to enlist the services of more mature men in such as banking and construction.

These and similar details connected with the project were discussed at the special meeting Tuesday night, and the number of veterans townspeople interested in the idea, there should be a good attendance at the Memorial Forum when the meeting is held at 7:30 o'clock.

Interest of the veterans shown at a meeting of the American Legion, last Thursday night when Chairman R. Hardy of the board of selectmen gave an informative talk on new legislation.

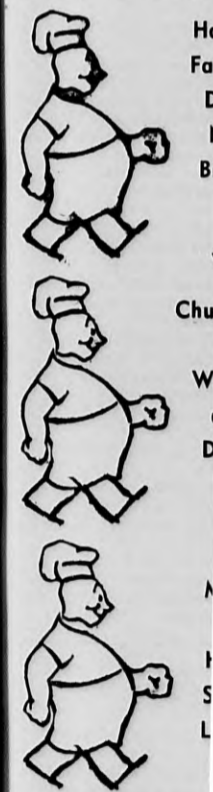

Chairman Hardy said that the town appropriates the required $500 for initial action that the state requires in connection with the program, the following steps would be taken.

A local housing authority be set up and would do the work in connection with the program, probably assisted by a time secretary.

The funds would be spent on houses and, where necessary, land, streets, sewers, water walks, etc., to go with the amount required would depend upon the location of the houses and whether or not such services were already available. Zoning and building codes be observed and no temporary houses would be permitted. All units would be architecturally designed.

be housed and insist upon some multiple units.

Local members of the Housing Authority, if the act is accepted by the town, will be carefully selected for positions on the board. While it is likely that there will be at least two World War II veterans named, it is also expected that the selectmen, who have the initial appointing authority, will also seek to enlist the services of more mature men in such fields as banking and construction.

These and similar details connected with the project will be discussed at the special town meeting Tuesday night, and from the number of veterans and townspeople interested in the idea, there should be a good attendance at the Memorial Auditorium when the meeting opens at 7:30 o'clock.

Interest of the veterans was shown at a meeting of Andover post 8, American, last Thursday night when Chairman Roy E. Hardy of the board of selectmen gave an informative talk on the new legislation.

Chairman Hardy said that if the town appropriates the required $500 for initial expenses that the state requires in connection with the program, the following steps would be taken:

A local housing authority would be set up and would do all the work in connection with the program, probably assisted by a part-time secretary.

The funds would be spent on houses and, where necessary, on land, streets, sewers, water, sidewalks, etc., to go with them. The amount required would depend upon the location of the houses and whether or not such services were already available. Local zoning and building codes must be observed and no temporary or flimsy houses would be permitted. All units would be architecturally approved before construction could begin, and inspection provided to assure proper adherence to specifications. Each house would probably cost between $10,000 and $12,000.

The state will guarantee both principal and interest on the venture. It will borrow the money at about two percent and will amortize the units up to 2 1/2 percent. Houses will remain public property and as such will be tax free. Funds to carry out the above will come from the pockets of all taxpayers in the state and may run in the vicinity of five million dollars a year. Whether or not Andover joins in this program her taxpayers will be paying for it to the state.

All upkeep will come out of the rentals. When such a time is reached that the total rents received are a year ahead of the expenses being incurred, the balance will go toward retiring the loan at an earlier date.

After May 1953 if the housing emergency has ceased, and at any rate, not later than 25 years after the house is built, these houses may be sold. This rests with the housing authority. The price at that time will be the fair market value, in any event not less than the state's indebtedness on the unit at the time of sale. Anyone can buy at such time, preference undoubtedly being given to the veteran living in the house. After the sale the house becomes private property subject to taxes.

To be eligible to rent one of these houses, Chairman Hardy explained, one must be either an honorably discharged veteran with 90 days service during war, or a dependent of a veteran who died of service-connected wounds, disease, etc. The manner of choosing which veterans would get the houses and the ones who would get priority would rest with the housing authority.

The state has appropriated $200,000,000 to provide this low rental housing for veterans. Towns and cities may apply for their share of this money, Chairman Hardy further informed his hearers, before July 6, this year. It will be allocated on a pro-rata basis of assessed valuation. Andover, with an assessed valuation of about six and three-quarter billion dollars, would be eligible for about half a million dollars, or 30 to 50 houses.

Two other matters are to come before the special meeting Tuesday night.

One is to see if the town will appropriate $40 a month for rental of rooms for the Disabled American Veterans post, and the other is to see if the town will appropriate $5000 and authorize the board of public works to lay a sewer in Topping road and Franklin avenue.

Punchard Tops Chelmsford, 4-2

A trio of unearned runs in the first inning gave Punchard a lead that Chelmsford was unable to overcome and enabled the Andover team to win, 4 to 2, in a Merrimack Valley Suburban league game here Tuesday afternoon.

Punchard, showing a glaring weakness with the stick, garnered but four hits off the combined offerings of two Chelmsford pitchers. The home club didn't hit at all in the first frame, although three of their total runs were scored.

Jack Barry opened the final half of the initial inning with a walk. He stole second and went to third on a bad peg by Bruce Campbell, Chelmsford catcher. Fred Lloyd filed to center, where Taylor dropped the ball, allowing Barry to score. Lloyd stole second, went to third when Herb Deveaux grounded out to Axon, and scored when Bob Deyermond sacrificed.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE TOWNSMAN

The latter went all the way to third while the Chelmsford boys were throwing the ball around, and from there he scored when Captain Walter Lloyd sacrificed and reached on an error by Polewarczyk. The latter was then relieved by Carruthers who held Punchard at bay the remainder of the game.

The home club, however, picked up another run in the fourth on a walk to Charlie Soutel, a steal, an error and a "squeeze" play with Bob Beauchesne at bat.

Both Chelmsford runs came in the fourth. Campbell led off with a single to be followed by Pickard, who smashed a long one into left. Campbell scored and Pickard went to second on the throw. Nichols walked. Kerrigan bunted and reached second on a bad throw by Wetterberg, which also allowed Pickard to register.

Two sparkling baskets are to be awarded at the meeting June 17. Proceeds will be put toward the Legion Welfare fund for the benefit of the needy of the town. Tickets on the baskets may be obtained from members.

The Auxillary to Post 8 will distribute cigarettes Memorial Day to hospitalized veterans at Middleton and Danvers.

The American Legion Auxillary Post 8 will visit the Danvers and Middleton hospitals Sunday, May 16, to entertain and bring boxes of cigarettes to the veterans.

Members are asked to meet at the Legion rooms at 1:00 to help pack boxes.

Mrs. George T. Cilley and Mrs. Lymert Wood are delegates to the Essex County Council which will meet at Salem, Saturday, May 15.

Daniel Noel Morin, S.N., has returned to his home at 105 Elm street, after receiving his discharge from the Navy April 28, at Norfolk, Virginia.

TESTIMONIAL

Rockport Market "Ad" Distinctive

The advertisement of the Rockport Market published in The Townsman, February 12 had an appeal that struck the editors of the Yankee Food Merchant, a monthly publication distributed to the leading grocers of the New England states.

The treatise on "Who is Independent?" which Francis A. Kelley, the market's advertising man, wrote for that issue carried such an interesting message that the magazine editors republished it in full in one of their recent issues.

Such recognition comes only for something which is outstanding or unique in some vital manner, and the Rockport Market message was deemed distinctive enough to pass it along to all the trade.

ESSEX COUNTY TRACK MEET

Thirteen members of the Punchard High track team will compete in the annual Essex County Inter-scholastic Track and Field meet to be held at the Lawrence Memorial stadium Saturday at 1:15.

Among those who show promise are: Joe Ratyna, speedy 100 yard, 220 yard and broad jump competitor; Willie Johnson, 100 and 220 dash man and shot putter; Dick Kydd, record-holding half-miler; and Captain Eric Halbach, feet-footed 440 yard runner.

Punchard will compete in Class B, a group which takes in five high schools: Beverly, Peabody, Methuen and Central Catholic as well as the local school. There are 198 entries in the meet and medals will be awarded to first, second and third place winners.

The Punchard team has pulled many surprises out of their bag of tricks so far this year, and chances are that they will make a good account of themselves in this meet.

Those participating in the events are: Grecoe, Ratyna, Johnson, Halbach, Maurice, J. Medolo and Peters, all dash men; Cole and Marocco high jumpers. Distance runners include Kydd, T. Medolo and Rayball, while Otis will run the hurdles.

Routine matters were transacted at the meeting of the selectmen Monday night and the board went into session on assessing matters.

Residents in the vicinity of the intersection of Cuba and Essex streets, at Shawsheen road, have doubtless been pleased to see, and hear, the tractor, grader and roller at work the last few days, widening Shawsheen road.

With the completion of the rough grading, activity at the veterans' housing lot has temporarily ceased pending developments at the next Town Meeting.

The Ballardvale playground underwent a pleasant change this past week. A deep row of private hedge has been set out along one side of the grounds to help conceal the railroad tracks.

The Brownies will also display their handiwork. The well-known magician Fu Sing will be on hand to entertain the young and old. Donations will be accepted at the door. This gathering is being held to demonstrate the work of girl scouts and brownies.

Troop 43

Brownie troop 43 of Ballardvale was the guest Saturday, May 1 of their former leader, Mrs. Ernest Rollins, at her home on Tewksbury street. The girls first made pretty May baskets and filled them to hang on doors of shut-in neighbors. Later the troop enjoyed the traditional May Pole dance. Following the dance, an enjoyable weenie roast was held and out-door games played. Those present were: Betty Ann Lemenello, Jane Hall, Joan Wilson, Margaret and Janet Bouleau, Patricia and Prudence Pimpare, Barbara Wakefield and Joyce Lee Nason.

Troop 36

A few weeks ago the troop had an election of officers. Our new Patrol leader is Betsy Scott; Secretary is Carol Des Roches; and Treasurer is Leslie Westfall. Several girls have just completed the Designing badge. These girls are: Clara Bassett, Carol Des Roches, Patsy Sanborn, Ann Smith, Betsy Sparks, Joyce Williams, Betsy Scott, Leslie Westfall, Joyce Anne Williams and Druilla Flathers. The girls are now working on the "Wide World" and "World Gifts" badges. These two badges will complete our work for the year.

Recently we were pleased to have Miss Lucilla Rogers, the director of the Greater Lawrence Council, visit our troop. After the completion of our regular work, Miss Rogers helped us learn a new Scout song.

PUNCHARD HIGH

By Jack Sherman

BAND

The Girls' Band is now rehearsing for the Memorial Day parade under the very capable direction of Mrs. Miriam Sweeney McArdle. The girls began their practice last Monday after returning to school from a week's vacation.

Contest

The students of Punchard and the ninth graders of the Junior High school have been invited to participate in a contest sponsored by the Memorial Hall Library. The students will write essays of approximately five hundred words in length on the general topic "How Can the Public Library Serve the Community." The judges will pick three winners, whose prizes will be ten dollars for the first and a book of the winner's choice for the other two. The contest is being sponsored to help celebrate the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Memorial Hall Library.

Goldsmith Library Notes

In connection with the contest mentioned above, it might be well to mention the redecorating job that has been done on the Goldsmith Library at Punchard. The walls have been painted a peach color, with the book cases painted reseda green. New books will soon be arriving, and the Goldsmith Library will be drawing a much needed new breath. The students, of course, are delighted with the improvement, and are anxiously awaiting the arrival of the new volumes to see what is in store for them. The students, incidentally, were given their chance to state what books they would like to have in the library, and many of these books have been ordered.

Guidance News

Several Senior girls have left school early to take permanent positions. In order to do this, the girls had to be up in their studies, have written permission from their parents, and a letter from the company stating that they were to be employed full time. These students will graduate with the rest of their classmates. The girls are Elaine MacClellan, who is employed by the Andover Savings Bank; Elaine Matton, who is employed by the Andover National Bank; Claire Berube who is employed by the Merrimack Mutual Insurance Company; Blanche Poremba and Dorothy Rollins, both of whom are employed by the Telephone Company; and Rita Groleau who is employed by the Doherty Insurance Agency.

Bernard Kellmurray, director of guidance, will speak at a meeting of the Methuen Parent Teacher Association, Thursday evening, May 20.

The Return

Last Monday the students returned from a wonderful week's vacation. This is the last respite from the labors of school until the summer release. School ends for the Sophomores and Juniors on

Discover Break in Main Street Store

Hill's hardware store at 45 Main street was entered sometime early Sunday morning and $25.60 in bills and change taken from the cash register. In their hurry the thieves overlooked 20 cents in the register. Nothing else was taken.

Entrance to the store had been gained by breaking a rear window after ripping off the screen. Police had checked the premises Saturday night and early Sunday morning, Chief George A. Dane stated, and it is believed that the break was made after the rounds the officers on the beat made between 1 and 2 a. m.

The break was discovered Sunday afternoon by Dr. J. J. Daly of Chestnut street, who was working around his back yard, which is in the rear of the Main street store, and noticed the broken window. Fingerprints were taken at the scene.

ELECTS OFFICERS

Officers of the C. Y. O. of St. Augustine's church were elected at a meeting Sunday night in St. Augustine's school hall. They are: John McIntosh, president; George McCafferty, vice-president; John Lynch, secretary; and John McCarthy, treasurer. The baseball team chose Charles Lynch as captain.

Thursday, the 24th of June, but the Seniors graduate the eighth, and are not required to attend after that date.

On September 19, 1871, the cornerstone was laid, in which was a list of all the Andover men enrolled in the army and navy during the "War of the Rebellion" and of the forty-six men who gave their lives in the struggle to preserve the ideals of their country.

There was much ceremony on May 30, 1873, when the formal opening of the library was an occasion of great importance. A large group of guests had been invited to a dinner at the Elm House, and from there a long procession of returned soldiers, guests and speakers, accompanied by the Andover Brass Band, paraded to the South church for the dedicatory message.

The initial purchase of 2700 books for the foundation of the new library had been made during the summer of 1872. The selection was made by the first board of trustees appointed at the town meeting: Henry Boynton, E. Kendall Jenkins, Rev. James H. Merrill, David Middleton, Samuel Raymond, Rev. William L. Ropes and Joseph W. Smith. Mr. Ballard Holt 2nd, was appointed librarian and janitor.

From those early days, with the little beginning of 2700 books, the Memorial Hall Library has been growing in physical holdings, equipment and services until it has become a decided force in the life of the community. It has proven its worth down the years, and in 1947 showed the following statistics: Total number of books held by the library, 43,316; newspapers and periodicals which the library receives regularly, 139; total number of registered borrowers, 3,855; total number of books, records, magazines, etc., loaned to the people of Andover during the year, 105,382.

The library now serves the schools, clubs, organizations, members of out-lying districts as well as residents in the center of town—all with the same intention that prompted its founders: to all who will make use of its privileges, it offers the incalculable opportunity of self-improvement, the greatest gift of a free society to its people.

Central P.T.A. To Elect Officers

The Andover Central P. T. A. will hold its final meeting of the season Wednesday evening, May 19, at 8 o'clock in the Memorial Auditorium when officers will be elected and Senator Philip K. Allen will discuss juvenile delinquency.

The state senator has promised to give one of his frankest talks on the responsibilities of every community to properly acknowledging and meet the pitfalls confronting the youth of today. Sen. Allen has made an exhaustive study of this subject and will present details of specific cases. He maintains that Boy and Girl scouts, boys' clubs and similar organizations could be utilized to greater advantage in acquainting youth of its responsibilities, and will outline steps that could be taken in achieving this goal. Due to the candid nature of the talk he intends to make, Sen. Allen insists that no children be present during the discussion.

Prior to the discussion there will be a true enactment of a class period in social studies conducted by Miss Mabel Marshall, who will be assisted by members of her seventh grade class.

Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Henry J. Dolan and her committee, Mrs. Justin Curry and Mrs. V. Malcolm Laitinen.

The Back Yard Gardener Says:

Well friends, grubs and maggots are on the march again to do damage to vegetable crops and lawns. I saw a note this week that cabbage maggot eggs had been found at Waltham no May 3. Since we had favorable weather conditions during the winter they expect a heavy infestation.

As you probably know, the eggs which develop into cabbage maggots are laid by a small black fly much like a house fly. These eggs will be laid for about a month depending a bit on the weather.

The simplest control in the home garden is to put a little disk around the stem of the cabbage plant as you set it into the ground. This will hold, too, for cauliflower and other members of the cabbage family. This disk is about two inches square and split to the middle with a hole in the middle just large enough to fit around the stem of the plant. This disk keeps the eggs from being laid at the base of the plant. You can buy disks all prepared at the hardware store or at florist supply shops.

The folks up at the university tell me that Japanese beetle and May or June beetle grubs will be starting their work soon and will be doing a lot of damage to your lawn area.

As you probably know, May beetles are more abundant some years than others. The grubs which feed on the grass roots are especially destructive during the second year of their cycle. They become beetles the third year after the eggs are laid.

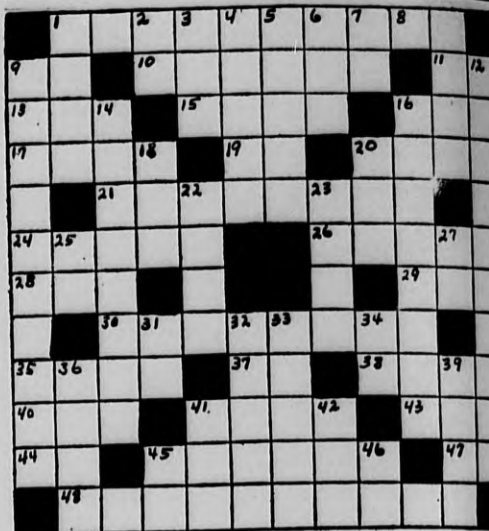

The Japanese beetle grub completes its cycle each year and the young grubs will start to feed in the upper layers of the soil just as soon as it warms up in the spring. If you had large numbers of Japanese beetles last year, you are pretty sure to have grub injury this spring.

The control recommended for proofing an established turf is as follows: A 5 per cent DDT dust, 10 pounds scattered over 1000 square feet. If you use a 10 per cent dust you need only 5 pounds per 1000 square feet. You can use DDT 50 per cent wettable powder. In that case you would use only use one pound.

These dosages are not so strong that they will affect earth worms, but they will take care of the grubs. It usually takes about two months for the insecticide to work into the soil and become completely effective, so if you think your lawn area is populated with grubs it's a good idea to "grub proof" it at once.

Full dosage will be effective for at least four years on most soils. Thoroughly water the insecticide into the turf immediately after ap-

Plan More Active Part In Town's Civic Affairs

League of Women Voters Adopts Interesting Program For Year At Annual Meeting

A far more active interest than that previously shown will be taken this year in all town affairs by Andover members of the League of Women Voters.

This was decided at the annual meeting of the league held at the Log Cabin off Highland road Tuesday, May 4, at which officers were elected for the ensuing year and other important business transacted.

Members who gathered at the Log Cabin at 12:30 brought box lunches, and dessert and coffee were served by Mrs. James H. Grew and her committee.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Douglas M. Dunbar, the retiring president, who announced the convention held at Boston this week.

Committee reports were read by Mrs. J. Lewis Smith, secretary; Mrs. T. Dennie Pratt, finance; Mrs. C. Edward Buchan, education; Mrs. Ralph Spector, economic welfare; Mrs. Philip K. Allen, international relations and evening discussion groups; Miss Miriam Putnam, legislation; and Mrs. Alden S. Cook, social welfare.

After reports from committees were received, the budget for 1948-49 was adopted, and the new by-laws presented by Mrs. A. Graham Baldwin, were adopted with a minor change.

The current agenda, which pledged the league to a more active interest in town affairs, was presented and adopted. It was as follows:

1. Voters' Service. Employment of every practicable plan for getting citizens to fulfill their obligations as voters; to register, and to vote intelligently.

2. "Know Your Town Study." Discussion groups, working simultaneously, each considering one specific area of local government; the result of all the studies to be pooled at an open meeting to be held just prior to Andover's town election and town meeting. A folder to be published for wide distribution, giving information on government at federal, state and local levels, with special emphasis on the rights of citizens at town meeting.

3. This agenda shall not be considered as preventing the League of Women Voters of Andover from taking a stand on local governmental issues falling within league platform limits on which we can be effective.

Election of officers took place, with the following results: Mrs. John B. Hawes, president; Mrs.

C. Edward Buchan, first vice-president; Mrs. Frederick Butler, second vice-president; Mrs. Byron Welner, treasurer; Mrs. Douglas Dunbar, secretary; Mrs. Walter Partridge, Jr., chairman, Mrs. J. Lewis Smith and Mrs. Cleveland Gilcrest nominating committee.

The newly-elected president announced the following chairmen of committees: Mrs. Dudley Fitts, bulletin; Mrs. T. Dennie Pratt, finance; Mrs. Philip K. Allen, international relations; Mrs. Robert Saltonstall, Jr., North Andover representative; Mrs. George Follansbee, publications; Mrs. Alden S. Cook, social welfare; Mrs. Ernest L. Wilkinson, voters' service.

Other chairmen are to be elected later by the board.

Mrs. Hawes then gave an enthusiastic report of her experiences at the convention of the national league at Grand Rapids. This was a working convention, and the agenda adopted for the next two years was:

The League of Women Voters will work for United States policies directed toward an enduring world peace, supported by a strong United Nations and made possible by a sound domestic and world economy. To this end the league will support:

1. The United Nations and its specialized agencies, including their development through increased use, adequate budgets, and improved procedures under the present charter.

2. Use of all means available under the charter to increase the security functions of the United Nations.

3. A full information program on methods to strengthen the United Nations in order that it may better fulfill its stated purpose.

4. Promotion of international reconstruction and expansion of world trade.

The league will analyze: Federal taxes and expenditures in order to understand and support such fiscal policies and make for a stable domestic economy.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

SMOKING CARS

There are a great many people who do not like to ride in a smoking car when on a train. Smoke is offensive to some, even to smokers at times. That is the reason, presumably, why the railroads set aside a certain car on every train for the smokers—to keep them from annoying the non-smokers.

But there are many more smokers than there used to be, and many of them seem to have the idea that they should be allowed to smoke in whatever car they please. Just get on one of the commuters' trains to Boston any morning in the week, and you'll probably get the impression that there are more smoking cars than otherwise.

Most of the morning smokers are young people, many of them girls, apparently enroute to Boston to attend school. And too many of them pay absolutely no attention to the "no smoking" signs. The conductors don't always pay attention to those signs, either.

Unquestionably those in charge of the trains have more difficulty enforcing the no smoking rules today than they did in former days, and some of them have apparently thrown up their hands and cried, "What's the use?"

But it does seem as though the Boston & Maine had an obligation to those who do not want to smoke, and who do not want to smell smoke on their way to and from Boston.

People who do NOT smoke in cars plainly marked "no smoking" certainly do not offend anybody by refraining from lighting a cigarette. Some of those who DO smoke in cars plainly marked "no smoking" do offend with every puff!

It would seem as though the conductors should at least call the attention of smokers to the fact that they are "out of bounds" when they smoke where they are not supposed to.

THE BIG THIRD GROUP

Archbishop Cushing, addressing the Steel Workers Convention in Boston Tuesday, spoke of the important roles that both labor and management play in the nation's welfare, and he added a word of wisdom. There is an important third group, he said, which is the public. In that group are both labor and management, and if either labor or management goes too far that third group—the public—suffers.

In other words, whenever there is a dispute, or disagreement, between labor and management, the outcome of that dispute, or the struggle that ensues before there is an outcome, may seriously hurt the public.

Almost every dispute between labor and capital is finally settled. Why is it so often necessary to go through a mild form of warfare before the banner of peace is again flung to the breeze?

THE FLOWERS THAT BLOOM IN THE SPRING

Andover, in common with the rest of New England, is busy donning a spring dress of beauty—lovely spring flowers. The season has been a little backward, and the real beauty of nature will not be fully manifest for a little time, perhaps, but already there are many flowers blooming, and the sight is a pretty one.

All that blooms, however, are not flowers. The tree blossoms have a beauty of their own during May, and the fruit trees especially should be very attractive from now on. It is worth traveling about a little, with one's eyes wide open, just to drink in the wonderful sights that nature is providing.

DON'T RUSH TO BUILD UP INVENTORIES

There will be some who think they see in the present situation a warning to stock up and increase inventories sharply. In so doing they will not only create an unbalanced market but they will defeat their own purposes, for if this "grabbing" becomes widespread it is quite certain that inventory controls will be slapped on at short notice.

Let's treat this situation calmly and intelligently.

The Harvard Summer school announces a gay round of social events for students attending the first post-war session. Highlights will include weekly afternoon tea dances, Friday evening informal dances and old time square dances. There will also be afternoon outings to historical landmarks and evening eating tours of famous Boston restaurants. We are under the impression that the students may also be able to find a few spare moments now and then to devote to their studies.

Two matrons were discussing the problem of household help. "How long was your last cook with you?" asked one. "Oh, she was never with us," replied the other. "She was against us from the start."

"A nation whose citizens can read and write but whose reading tastes do not rise above the level of desires for the excitation of adolescent emotions is easy game for dictators."

U.N. Facts and Faces . . . . . ICELAND

Iceland, an island republic on the rim of the Arctic Circle in the North Atlantic, has the world's oldest parliament, the Althing, which was founded more than 1000 years ago by the first European settlers. Governed by Denmark during much of her history, Iceland severed the last ties to that Kingdom when it became a republic in 1944. Of great strategic importance during World War II, the volcanic island now is vital to aviation and shipping using the great circle routes. Her 132,000 people depend mainly on commercial fishing for a livelihood. Iceland's representative to the United Nations is Thor Thors. Iceland's national flag shows a red cross outlined in white, upon a dark blue background.

REPORT from the State House

By SEN. PHILIP K. ALLEN
HISTORICAL COMMENT

For the past few weeks we have been discussing the presidential primaries, the national conventions and the college of electors in a parenthetical way, feeling that timely topics such as these should be injected into this column from time to time.

We go back now to the continuation of our study of State Government. We have discussed the duties of the Governor, the Lieutenant-Governor, and the Governor's Council, which make up the central portion of the executive branch.

There are, however, four elected constitutional officers whose offices constitute four of the twenty departments authorized by law. These officers represent the rest of the top level executive branch. The Secretary of the Commonwealth is the recording officer. Under him are five divisions:

The Archives division, which store and care for all documents; the Corporations division, which records and issues charters and certificates of corporations, organizations, etc.; the Election division, which tabulates the statistical records of elections and issues all ballots and election papers; the Engrossing division, which engrosses bills enacted by the House and Senate on special typewriters in script; the Public Document division, which publishes all the laws as they are made.

Also under the direction of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, there is a Supervisor of Public Records who sells public documents to citizens of the Commonwealth, the Director of the State Census who directs all census taking, and the State Registrar of Vital Statistics, who prepares vital statistics of births, deaths and marriages.

The Treasurer and Receiver-General is the finance officer of the Commonwealth, who receives and pays out all monies, cares for and invests both trust and sinking funds, levies assessments, and distributes the school fund, so-called. Under him is the Emergency Finance Board, the Massachusetts Public Building Commission, the Commission on Firemen's Relief, and the State Board of Retirement.

The State Auditor is the auditing officer of the Commonwealth. His is the task of auditing the accounts of all State offices periodically.

The Attorney-General is the law officer of the Commonwealth. Under him are the District Attorneys and Medical Examiners. It is his duty to appear for the Commonwealth in civil proceedings and in capital cases, to advise the district attorneys, to prosecute violations of law, and to settle small claims.

These four elected constitutional officers and the Adjutant General with the Governor, Lieutenant-Governor and Council constitute the executive branch of the Commonwealth. Under the Governor and Council, however, appear officers and divisions who do not seem to fit into constitutional departments. These will be taken up next week.

FINANCE COMMITTEE

The Finance committee met Monday night at the Town House and organized with Howell M. Stillman chairman, and Stanley F. Swanton secretary.

Other members of the board are: Victor Mill, Jr., Dr. Harry V. Byrne, Hugh Bullock, Harold G. Bowen and Elizabeth H. Lewis.

America's security begins right in your home. Make your future secure and you are helping make your country's future secure, too. That's what the Security Loan means to you. Your part in this bond drive is to sign up for automatic bond buying through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or the Bond-A-Month Plan at your bank if you are self-employed. U. S. Savings bonds are truly security bonds, which require the allotment of only a little spare cash each week, and yet return a whopping big nestegg in 10 years. For example: as little as $3.75 invested regularly every week will bring you $2163.45 by 1958. AMERICA'S SECURITY IS YOUR SECURITY!

The big plant at Ballardvale formerly owned by the Craighead and Kintz Manufacturing Company, totally destroyed by fire and about $300,000 worth of wool stored in it is ruined. Five freight cars filled with wool are also burned. The wool had been stored there two weeks previously by a Boston firm to get it away from Boston because, according to the Townsman of May 13, 1898, the owner feared Spanish gunboats might bombard Boston. E. Frank Lewis requested that the Andover Fire department call upon Lawrence for help, and he finally sent word to Lawrence, personally, and offered to stand the entire expense of having the Lawrence Fire department come here.

Says the Townsman, anent the fire: "The alarm struck only once on the fire bells. The citizens of Andover are entitled to a first class fire alarm service. By all means, let us have our fire alarm system overhauled and put into first class running order."

Says the Townsman, editorially: "The palm for no trespassing signs should be given to a West Parish resident who has just posted in a conspicuous place: 'All fowls are forbidden to trespass on this land!'"

Do You Know Massachusetts?

DO YOU KNOW THAT . . . Massachusetts factory wage earners worked an average of 40.1 hours a week and earned an average of $50.37 wages, of which $2.56 or 5.1% was for overtime, and had $4.83 or 9.6% a week deducted for federal income taxes. These facts are shown by a study just completed by the Dept. of Labor and Industries of detailed returns from 811 concerns as of September 1947. . . . 68 1/2% of the workers were male, 32% female. . . . Of the male workers, 61 1/2% earned $50 or more per week; of the female workers nearly the same proportion earned $35 or more per week. . . . The term "turnpike" came from the gates on early Massachusetts toll roads. The gates were turnstiles, a center revolving post into which were stuck the sharpened ends of poles or "pikes" . . . In March this year there were 916,300 motor vehicles registered in Massachusetts, 51,900 more than a year ago and 156,500 more than in March 1941. . . . The first ready-to-wear suits for men were made in Boston about 1830 by John Simmons, who later founded Simmons College from the fortune acquired in his business. . . . ## NEW BOOK LIST FOR MOTHERS

A new book list has been prepared for mothers of pre-school children and those in kindergarten and the first grade. This list, an outgrowth of the discussions held by the mothers at their morning meetings during the pre-school story hours, has been compiled to fill the need occasioned by rainy days, sick-a-bed days, and "what-can-we-do-now?" days, which occur all too frequently. It seems here are the titles of books prepared for the very smallest fingers, things to make and do, games to play, and puzzles to work. There are two short sections of books explaining the value of play in the young child's development, and these are available in the adult library. All mothers who are confronted with this recurring problem are invited to ask for one of the lists, called "Easy Crafts For Little People." Young People's Observance

On the afternoon of Wednesday, June 9, the seventy-fifth anniversary of the day on which books were first issued from the newly opened Memorial Hall Library, there will be a special program for the children and any adult friends who may wish to attend.

At 3:35 o'clock, there will be a showing of pictures of Andover—some old and some new. Miss Lane is planning to tell stories during the afternoon. The public is cordially invited.

Treasure Chest Progress
To date, more than half of the amount required to buy the thirty books for the Treasure Chest project has been donated through the various schools and at the library. Three children in one family have presented two books, titles which were on the required list, and one ambitious pair of Shawshen workers ran a private circus and raised the sum of $2.66, which they added to the fund. Boys and girls are all interested in sending this box of books to children abroad to promote the feeling of international friendship. Thursday afternoon, this week, sixteen children will meet to select the books for the chest, which is being made by Owen Hinckley's woodworking class at school. Adults who wish to contribute to the fund will have an opportunity at the desk in the main reading room.

Books-Across the Sea Exhibit

Thirty-seven books have been mailed to Andover from the headquarters of the Books-Across-The-Sea station. These books are from the Edinburgh Public Library, and are sent as examples of the work done in the publishing fields of Great Britain, and in the hope of increasing knowledge and understanding between our countries.

There are several children's books in the collection, and some are on display in the cases, but any book may be borrowed for home use by our patrons. The subject matter is extremely varied, some in pictorial form, some a series of photographs, with a great distinction in the quality of paper used. The books may be seen in the main reading room and in the Young People's Room.

WCCM Accents Andover Doings

An Andover mother of two children will have a chance this Friday to find out what the guidance department of the Andover school system is doing when she interviews the guidance head over station WCCM's Accent on Andover program. Mrs. George J. Adams of Pasho street will be asking the questions of Mr. Bernard Kellmurray, the director of guidance. Martha Ann Fieldhouse, a pretty PUNCHARD High sophomore, will complete the program with a few piano selections.

Other Accent on Andover programs:

Saturday, May 15—"Hi Time Disc Jockey show," featuring two PUNCHARD High school disc jockeys.

Monday, May 17—Review of Townsman news, narrated by Tom Frank, written by Florence Perlman; Court St. Monica, C. D. of A., talk by Mrs. Hortense Coupe.

Tuesday, May 18—Merrimack College Day, the Rev. Joseph T. Gildea, dean, will speak; the Rev. William J. Wynne, Glee Club director, will play a piano solo.

Successful Bazaar Held At Abbot

The success of the annual Abbot Birthday Bazaar held last Saturday on the school campus was the result of the combined support of both community and campus. The community support was perhaps more thorough-going and more enthusiastic than ever before, both Andover and Lawrence as well as the city of Boston contributed both wares and customers for the occasion.

Weather was no inducement, but crowds came from our town and from a number of distant places.

The parents of students who traveled farthest from farthest to be here were Mr. and Mrs. Guillermo E. Gonzalez of San Juan, Puerto Rico. Their contribution of beautiful Puerto Rican handwork arrived before them, and appeared on the Arts and Crafts table at the bazaar.

In the name of Miss Marguerite Hearsey, the Faculty, and the students at Abbot, the school wishes to express its immense gratitude to both Andover and Lawrence friends and business organizations whose interest and generosity made the bazaar one of the best the school has had. The beneficiaries both in this country and overseas would join us in expressing thanks to all.

Dr. Fuess Speaks At D.A.R. Meeting

The group of more than 50 state officers and members of the Priscilla Abbott chapter, D.A.R., were greatly interested in the talk given by Dr. Claude M. Fuess, headmaster of Phillips Academy, at the chapter's organization meeting last week.

Dr. Fuess related the story of Washington's visit to the former Deacon Isaac Tavern, 70 Elm street, where the meeting was held, and of his meeting with little Priscilla Abbott. He further told of Washington leaving the tavern in company with Samuel Phillips and continuing to the Mansion House at Phillips Academy. While there Washington sat in a chair which, upon his leaving, was immediately "made sacred" with a word by Phoebe Foxcroft Phillips, and has been kept so ever since.

Mrs. Warren S. Currier, state regent who installed the officers of the local chapter, spoke impressively of the duties and obligations of members. She enumerated the objects of the Daughters of the American Revolution as follows:

1. To perpetuate the memory and spirit of the men and women who achieved American Independence, by the acquisition and protection of historical spots, and the erection of monuments; by the encouragement of historical research in relation to the Revolution and the publication of its results; by the preservation of documents and relics, and of the records of the individual services of Revolutionary soldiers and patriots, and by the promotion of celebrations of all patriotic anniversaries.

2. To carry out the injunction of Washington in his farewell address to the American people, "to promote, as an object of primary importance, institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge," thus developing an enlightened public opinion, and affording to young and old such advantages as shall develop in them the largest capacity for performing the duties of American citizens.

3. To cherish, maintain, and extend the institutions of American freedom, to foster true patriotism and love of country, and to aid in securing for mankind all the blessings of liberty.

Mrs. Guy B. Howe, regent of the Priscilla Abbott chapter, also spoke with great emphasis of the ideals and principles of Americanism to which the chapter members have dedicated themselves.

The members of the new chapter are most grateful for the support and assistance given them by representatives of the schools of Andover, the American Legion, the American Legion auxiliary, the Historical Society, the Sons of the American Revolution, and many of Andover's outstanding citizens.

FASHION SHOW

Ford's Window Display Unique

The unique window display in Ford's Bakery shop recently was the subject of an illustrated article in Vitality News, a publication that circulates among more than 8000 members of the baking industry from coast to coast.

A colorful rose arbor took the spotlight in the display. "And this garden grew a nice crop of sales, too," the paper said. "A strong merchandising push was given the promotion for two weeks before Mother's Day. Nylon stockings were awarded as an added incentive to the salesgirl selling the most Roses-in-Snow cakes. Owner of the shop is Harold Heselbine."

A picture of the window display accompanied the article and showed how attractively it had been arranged.

RED CROSS NOTES

The Red Cross Blood Mobile Unit came to Andover for two days in April seeking blood donors for the State Blood Bank. During these two days, calls came in to the Andover Red Cross chapter headquarters seeking immediate help. Three of our citizens were seriously ill in hospitals. Two of these, both veterans, needed five pints each. A third veteran, from North Andover, needed ten pints of blood. Twenty-one of our 163 donors had the satisfaction of knowing that their blood was instrumental in saving a life that very day.

The public is beginning to understand the importance of the civilian blood program to the health of the whole community. Some of the blood given is allotted as whole blood. The remainder is used for fractionation. With blood fractions, doctors can now prevent measles, treat burns and shock and prevent bleeding.

When a donor contributes to the blood program, he may help to save a life. And what is more, he insures the blood needs of his own family for one year.

With state-wide support of the blood program, whole blood and blood products will be available to each resident of the state as needed, free of charge.

While the U. N. General Assembly and Security Council continued working toward a solution for troubled Palestine and the Trusteeship Council charted measures for the protection of the City of Jerusalem, other vital, if less spectacular, U.N. activities went on at a steady pace.

In the field of human rights, a committee of the Human Rights Commission convened for the third time to consider again a pair of precedent-making U.N. documents: the International Declaration on Human Rights and the Covenant on Human Rights. Under the chairmanship of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the committee had before it comments from U.N. Members, instructions from the Economic and Social Council and amendments suggested by the Commission on the Status of Women.

Cheer up, says the Government in a personal little pamphlet, we are providing variety by importing ginger in syrup from China and crystallized fruits and glace cherries from France. You don't believe this? It comes from an official pamphlet. If he wants to buy clothes for himself and family, he buys the 44-page pamphlet, price six cents, takes along a tape measure and carefully measures the "small handkerchief (of area not more than 1 sq. ft.)" for 1/4 coupon; for his child he finds, "Bodice, vest, trunks, knickers for underwear (including plich knickers), plich . . . Bodice, 15" length; Vest, 23" length and 23" chest; trunks or knickers, 23" from top of waist (centre front) to crutch and thence to top of waist (centre back)," 1 coupon. How many government employees work out and apply similar regulations? Two million. How many laws and decrees? Over 20,000. How often are such laws and decrees turned out? One every three hours.

Bureaucrats Unlimited
Our grocer spends his waking hours reading laws that are more frequent than editions of a city newspaper. And during his sleeping hours he probably has vivid nightmares in which the Ministry of Food tells him what he may eat, the Ministry of Health dictates on building, the Treasury tells him where he cannot go abroad, the Board of Trade regulates his clothing, and 2,000 minor officials are dedicated to the sole task of rationing bread! But he is gradually climbing the mountain of official red tape to reach the Shangri-La of the promised "happier future," perhaps muttering as he struggles upwards, Churchill's famous compliment burlesqued into, "Never have so many done so little for so few."

Can It Happen Here?
But, it may be asked, how does this concern us? Lest it be thought that it can happen only in Britain, may it be suggested that there are not a few in the United States who are infatuated with blue-prints to plan life efficiently and happily. On paper it is not difficult to draw plans whose simplicity carries conviction. From a simple beginning, the what-can-we-control-next brigade can sooner or later lose sight of the individual, forcing him to fit into the jig-saw puzzle that has been created. For the danger is that a plan here demands one there to guarantee success of the first, and another one to take care of that possibility, another to forestall that eventuality, until the English grocer might well become the American citizen in every walk of life.

Planning For What?
Few will today defend completely unregulated rugged individualism, but the other extreme holds manifold dangers. The removal of incentives in England has resulted in a vicious circle of conditions that could be duplicated anywhere. The British working-man sees little point in working overtime because there is so little to buy with his extra cash; he can't buy because he doesn't produce enough, because whatever he produces is sold abroad to buy food. This, of course, can be explained to him, but being human he loses patience after three years of hoping, after repeated crises (another name for mistakes, poor judgment, or inability?) that seem to bring only further shortages and demands. And yet those who advocate government planning promise security, arguing that while capitalism, the right to produce and sell for private profit, may be able to offer economic progress, only the "planned" society can provide stability. On paper that looks promising. But some skeptical citizen always interjects the disturbing question, "What is to be stabilized, to be kept steady and constant?" What is? Profits, or prices, or money wages, or buying power, or employment, or output, or distribution, or—? Actually, the planner wants progress as well as stability; he wants greater income, better conditions, more available goods. If he doesn't, what is he planning for?

Restrictions vs. Plans
Perhaps Britain can show a way out of the maze, since it is the example of the avowed planned, Socialist State! Of course, any discussion of that country must take into consideration a desperate post-war situation that demanded government restrictions to guarantee low food prices on scarce commodities, to share equally available clothing and consumer goods, just as any government has the obligation to consider the interests of the majority instead of the few. But government restrictions such as we have on child labor, minimum hours, monopolies and the like are very different from government ownership, control and planning. Somewhere, between planning and its anticipated achievement creeps in a paralysis that stifles initiative. On paper the objective can be gained. In actual operation the human characteristics of ambition and incentive cannot be ignored. Just as the chemical equivalents of the human body cannot yet be fanned into life by the scientific hand, so planned economy seems yet incapable of supplying ambition and incentive. There must be left to the citizen the right to improve himself, elusive though that may sometimes appear. While the opportunity exists, effort is not lacking.

Crisis in Coal

The British Government met its first real crisis in the coal mining industry, admittedly in bad condition for the past twenty years. But since the Government claimed that the lives and jobs of England depended upon coal, power and transportation, emphasized again by the Prime Minister in early 1947, the Government should have prepared itself and its citizens for every eventuality. But the crisis hit the average citizen unexpectedly. On a Friday afternoon in early February 1947, Mr. Shinwell, Minister for Fuel and Power, announced to an astounded House of Commons that because of the coal shortage, as from the next Monday, electricity supplies were to be drastically restricted or even cut off in London, the Southeast, the Midlands, and the Northwest. At a moment's notice a government pledged to careful planning was forced to order the closing down of virtually two-thirds of Britain's industry. Shinwell declared that such a stoppage would last only three or four days, at most a week. It actually lasted three weeks, threw millions out of work, and cost the country an estimated $200,000,000 in exports. As Anthony Eden rightly criticized, "The danger of a breakdown must have been evident last spring, for it is in the spring that the coal budget for the next twelve months is prepared." He added that the Government had encouraged by speeches and sales tax reductions the purchase of electric fires and heaters at a time when electric generators could not provide the anticipated consumption of electricity. Furthermore, exports of mining equipment and electric generators had been encouraged! Incidentally, that same Minister of Fuel and Power lost his job, reappeared as the Minister for War, and only last week reaffirmed the Government's nationalization program. While he admitted, on May 2, that the Government had made "far too little detailed preparation in the formulation of schemes for nationalization," especially in the coal industry, he next day stated that the Government "would never be satisfied until we have nationalized all the major industries." Mr. Shinwell's blunder on coal was not his first. Two years ago he launched a campaign to get industries to convert from coal to oil. Many did so only to find that oil increased up to 50% in price and that the Government did not have the credits to purchase enough foreign oil.

And Forced Labor

Another interesting incident in the "forced labor" law. An official British Government publication of September 1947, asks, "What of the individual's right to come and go, write, think, and speak as he pleases? In no country of the world are these sacred, inalienable rights of the individual more closely protected than in Britain." Yet in November of that year the Government introduced the so-called "direction of labor" law. Women between 18 and 41 and men between 18 and 51 who lose their present jobs or who work in unessential jobs can be directed to whatever work the Minister of Labour determines. Quite obviously, unemployment can be created by the withholding of fuel and raw materials to unessential trades. The British citizen may wonder whether other rights will be restricted, if a "crisis" occurs. His immediate prospect is more restrictions and shortages. His incentive is that proposed by Cripps, Minister for Economic Affairs, "the interest of country first and personal interest a bad second." Cripps argues, sincerely, that the result of state planning is to "increase the liberty of the individual citizen."

And Let the Buyer Beware!
And there's the rub. Your planner is sincere, he thinks he knows what's best, and the more he plans the more he must plan until the circle is completed. Nations need government restrictions just as people must have regulations in their daily behavior, but all such restrictions should be designed to protect the individual from losing his rights. A country should weigh all the possibilities before it entrusts itself to the idealistic planner. He is easy to hire but most difficult to fire.
