VIEWS OF THE NEWS

By LEONARD F. JAMES

A paradox of the present record prosperity is the crisis faced by retired workers who are supposedly insured against financial need after age sixty. The program of old-age insurance, instituted originally as part of the New Deal, covers 35,000,000 who are contributing from the weekly pay envelope to buy an annuity for old age. The average monthly check received by a retired worker and his wife is around $40. But with the present dollar worth only 60 cents in comparison with 1940 buying power, the average couple receives actually about $24 a month. Two results develop. Those retired people who can still find jobs endeavor to eke out their meager income by working. Or else they are forced to go on relief. Consequently, despite an all-time high in employment, the relief rolls are growing. Old-age insurance was supposed gradually to replace relief assistance. But today more than one out of every five persons over 65 is on relief.

75 Receive Diplomas At Punchard Graduation

Several Awarded Prizes at the 89th Annual Commencement Exercises Held Tuesday Evening

Seventy-five students were graduated from Punchard High school Tuesday evening at the 89th commencement exercises held in the Memorial Auditorium.

During the program, at which the graduates appeared in black and white caps and gowns, various honors were awarded and four honor students delivered essays.

The graduating students marched in to their places on the stage to the strains of Mendelssohn's "War March of the Priests", from "Athalia", played by the school orchestra, and the Rev. John S. Moses, a member of the school committee and one of the Punchard trustees, offered prayer.

The Salutatory and Essay, "Preparation for the Goody Life", were given by Joan Capen. Two essays were then given, "The Better Things of Life" by Jane Black, and "The Abundance of Opportunities in Careers", by Eric Halbach. The Glee club, under the direction of Mrs. Miriam Sweeney McArdle sang "The Heavens Resound" by Beethoven.

Kenneth L. Sherman, Superintendent of Schools, then awarded the prizes.

The M. E. Gutterson prize for Excellence in the Study of Botany, $5, to Andrew Hofer.

The Harvard Club prize to the Junior boy in the College Preparatory group who has the highest average for the year, a book, to Carl Gahan, Jr.

The Conroy prize for the best Ex-tempore essay by a Senior, given by the late Dr. Edward C. Conroy, former chairman of the school committee, $5, to Jack Sherman.

At a recent meeting of the girls and boys who are to serve next year, Paul Wennik and Mary Oliver were elected captain and lieutenant respectively.

Phillips Academy Graduates 248

Phillips Academy graduated a class of 248, including 11 Andover boys, at exercises held in the Cochran Chapel of the Academy last Sunday. Dr. Leonard Carmichael, president of Tufts College, delivered the commencement address.

Qualified members of the class were presented for initiation into the Cum Laude society by Emory S. Basford, chairman of the English department. Scholarships, prizes and diplomas were awarded by Headmaster Claude M. Fuess. After the exercises, alumni, parents and friends were guests at a buffet luncheon at the home of Headmaster and Mrs. Fuess.

At the alumni luncheon Saturday, William E. Stevenson, president of Oberlin College, called for a stock-taking and reappraisal of American educational programs, aims and purposes, so that our schools and colleges may meet the challenge of what he termed "this dynamic age."

Pointing out the steady progress made at Andover under the administration of Headmaster Claude Moore Fuess, he praised Dr. Fuess for establishing a program which has enabled Andover to meet present-day requirements.

Charles S. Gage of New York, president of the Andover Alumni association, presided at the luncheon. Among the other speakers were Walter F. Downey of Boston, president of the Headmasters' association, John P. Stevens, Jr., of New York, chairman of the Andover Fund, who reported briefly on the progress of Andover's drive

Television Reception Good Here Local Dealers Say Pictures Enthuse Their Audiences

Television broadcasting was inaugurated in New England Wednesday evening and the reception here in Andover of the newest marvel of the century was reported to be exceptionally good.

The first video station in Boston—WBZ-TV—started its programs at 6:15 after beaming a series of test patterns over the air earlier in the week so that sets and antenna could be adjusted.

While several local residents had their video sets ready for the dedication program, the Temple Electrical and Radio Shop, and the Andover Home Service, local dealers, prepared for the television debut with a little ceremony.

Harold Phinney conducted an "open house" at his Main street shop and many took advantage of the opportunity to drop in during the evening hours to view the pictures flashing across the screen.

Open Radio Series At West Church

As one of its public services, Radio Station WCCM has turned over a 15-minute weekly program to the West Parish church for the next thirteen weeks. The series will be aired on Thursday mornings at 10:30.

The Rev. John Gilbert Gaskill, pastor of West Parish church, initiated the series today by appearing personally on this morning's program.

The program each week will consist of musical selections and news about the church activities. It is being sponsored by the Junior Women's Union of the West Parish church. The ladies have sold commercial announcements on the program, the proceeds of which will go to the church treasury.

AT THE LIBRARY

"ADVENTURES IN READING"

The "Adventures in Reading" list used by various church groups to deepen the spiritual life of men, women and children, to encourage familiarity with the Bible, to foster a spirit of brotherhood among all people and to arouse interest in world problems, has been revised for the reading season 1948-1949. As in previous years the list aims to suggest more inspiring, wholesome and profitable reading, and has now become a project of such proportions that some fourteen thousand copies of it are used by churches.

Many of the books have been shelved in a separate section in the Memorial Hall Library, to facilitate selection and to give the reader a chance to look over the material critically. Several titles now on order appear on the list, and will be added to the shelves when ready.

Are You a Good Reader? Here and there one will find a bold and daring soul who will make a selection of "best" books published during a certain period of time. One hundred prominent Americans have been willing to list books which, while not naming them specifically as the "best" books ever written, they do feel are ones which should be read by every American. The books were skillfully annotated by Miss Emily Wedge, and arranged in order of their popularity. If the casual reader who wishes to feel that his book selection has not been too haphazard, will set himself a book a month, let us say, with one of the more serious or lengthy to go along on a long stretch, he will find himself that well-read man of whom Emerson said, "Our high respect for a well-read man is praise enough of literature." And this could happen in less time than the one-a-month allotment would indicate, for some of the books chosen are easily and quickly read. First on the list comes "Plays" by William Shakespeare. This may be one for the long haul; as Miss Wedge says, "... here is a whole gallery of people whom one comes to know and live with, profoundly enriching the understanding of life, and creating scenes and phrases that are a part of the world's heritage of culture." Second choice is "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn," by Mark Twain; here is the epic of "Huck," son of the village drunkard, who ran away from home and floated down the Mississippi on a raft with his friends, Tom Sawyer, and the slave Jim. No small part of the experience is their adventure with the ambitious sharpers who try to relieve them of their money.

Christian Science Directors Meeting

Declaring that democratic government is the instrument through which an irresistible, spiritual force is being channeled into the affairs of men, the Christian Science Board of Directors at Boston, Monday, June 7, urged Christian Scientists, in annual meeting, to work strongly and actively for the defense of free governments throughout the world.

Rightly conceived, the Directors told the Annual Meeting of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, democratic government is something more than an aggregation of legislative acts and legalized rules of conduct.

"It is the orderly unfolding of the moral character and spiritual integrity of its citizens," the spokesmen for the worldwide Christian Science movement affirmed. As such, they said, free government rightly merits active defense of its sacred purpose, in addition to the pious declarations of allegiance to its outer form.

Thousands of Christian Scientists from many parts of the world heard the Directors issue a distinct challenge to the proud, boastful "Goliaths of today, as they go to and fro in the earth. Denying God, they are denying their own life, for God is the only life of man," they stated.

In free governments, now seriously endangered by the modern Goliaths, the Directors commented, there is a force that gathers its strength from "the same eternal truth given by Christ Jesus in his peerless Sermon on the Mount." Ultimately it shall be seen, they said, that "no individual or nation on earth can withstand the power and presence of God and His Christ."

The Directors' statement highlighted a series of papers and reports made to the annual meeting. Set against the background of the great Mother Church dome and the church park resplendent with mid-Spring blooms, the reports stressed the renaissance of religious activities throughout the postwar world, and reemphasized the privileges of free assembly and freedom of worship as the human symbols of "spiritual freedom."

COURTEOUS CIRCLE The Courteous Circle of the King's Daughters will hold its annual meeting Monday, June 14, at 6:30 o'clock in the South church vestry. Mrs. Harvey Turner is chairman of the summer committee. The devotional service will be led by Mrs. Carrie Pomeroy. A business meeting will follow with annual reports and installation of officers.

Sherman Elected Legion Commander

Kenneth L. Sherman, a veteran of two wars, was elected Commander of Andover post, 8, American Legion, at a meeting held last Thursday evening in the post headquarters in the Barnard building.

Others elected for the ensuing year are: first vice-commander, Richard Wrigley; second vice-commander, Angus S. Stewart; adjutant, James F. Robent; finance officer, Robert Prescott; chaplain, Alden Cook; historian, Thomas Duff; service officer, James D. Doherty; sergeant-at-arms, Joseph Medolo; executive committee, George C. Napier, Arthur L. Coleman, John H. Gould; delegates to the state convention at Worcester, Kenneth L. Sherman, Stafford A. Lindsay, Thomas P. Dea, Arthur L. Coleman; alternates, Charles Flanagan, Joseph T. Remmes, Joseph A. Joran and Frank Shiebler.

The new commander, Kenneth L. Sherman, superintendent of schools, is a veteran of both World Wars. In World War I he was in the regular Navy as midshipman, serving on the U.S.S. Maine. In World War II he was discharged from the Navy with the rank of Commander, having served in the South Pacific, and in the last months of the war and for some time afterward, was commander of the surface craft attached to air bases engaged in air-sea rescue work. Mr. Sherman is also past president of the Andover Service club and past president of the Essex County Teachers' Association.

Vice-Commander Wrigley will be chairman of a very active membership committee which will start to function immediately. Veterans who wish to belong to the local Legion post should contact him or one of the members of the committee.

The problem that Congress must face sooner or later relates to the size of benefits paid out by the insurance plan and to the coverage of the insurance program. Recognizing the problems involved, President Truman last month requested extension of the program to 20,000,000 workers not yet covered, and asked for an increase of at least 50% of the monthly average of $24. His request for making 60 the eligible age for women was based on the argument that wives are usually younger than their husbands. In many cases an insured worker cannot retire at 65 because it will be a few years before his wife becomes eligible for a wife's benefit, and both cannot live on his benefit alone. The present law denies benefits to any person earning more than $15 in any month. The President requested raising this limit to $40 per month.

Another issue is the insurance collected by widows and other surviving dependents of workers who die before 65. The average check for each dependent survivor is $15 a month, with a purchasing power today of approximately $9 only, compared with 1940 prices. The result is that living costs force many to go to work, earn more than the meager ceiling permitted under the insurance laws, and thus force them to lose the benefits due them. Or else they are forced to ask for relief.

A further gap in social security that needs attention is the large number of workers not covered by the program. Some 23,000,000 jobs are not covered. The workers in these jobs pay no social security contributions, build up no annuity for their old age, and consequently may become charges upon public relief. There are, of course, two opposite arguments. Some proponents claim that the local community should take care of its needy, since local agents know local conditions and can act accordingly. This stand ignores the problem of a large industrial community where the needy can scarcely be adequately provided for out of local funds. Furthermore, this solution, if it actually is one, is based on charity, both unpredictable and unpalatable. Other people favor the insurance plan because it is essentially self-help. The worker, like any citizen who purchases any form of insurance, is paying his contribution to the society-group plan to cover loss.

Unless action is taken by Congress, the actual purchasing power of benefit payments under old-age insurance will drop and the number of persons on relief will continue to grow. Pointing up the tension today between the democracies and Communist Russia, the President urged the importance of extension of the program at a time when the democracies are accused of inability to protect their people against the economic and social uncertainties of modern civilization.

In this larger framework, the issue is significant.

Last year, 33 per cent of all persons killed on America's streets and highways were pedestrians. Watch while you walk!

Naval Air Training For College Graduates

Naval aviation training and immediate commission in the rank of Ensign is being offered to college graduates who can qualify for flight training, Commander F. O. C. Fletcher, Jr., of the Office of Naval Officer Procurement at 495 Summer St., Boston, has announced.

College graduates, including those who are now completing their senior course, as well as former members of the Armed Forces and Naval Reserve officers on inactive duty, who are under 25 years of age are eligible to make application, Commander Fletcher stated.

The program provides for an indoctrination period, followed by eighteen months flight training and two years of active duty. It is expected the initial class of appointees will report to Pensacola, Florida about July 1, 1948.

Punchard Wins One, Loses Two

PUNCHARD 6, TEWKSBURY 4

After trailing for three innings, the Punchard High baseball team came to life and defeated Tewksbury, 6 to 4, in a game played at the Andover Playstead last Wednesday.

Tewksbury got off to a good start, snatching a two run lead in the first and adding another in the fourth. In this same inning, however, the Punchardites scored three times to knot the score.

Punchard sewed up the game in the next inning when they chalked up three more tallies. The visitors managed to get a single run in the sixth.

CHELMSFORD 4, PUNCHARD 2

Jack McCarthy, sophomore pitcher for Punchard High, lost a heartbreaker last Friday, when he pitched a one-hit ball game, only to lose to Chelmsford, 4 to 2.

McCarthy showed good control as he walked four and struck out five. Taylor of Chelmsford was the only opposing batter who was able to connect with one of McCarthy's pitches. The Punchard High team made a total of six errors in the game.

BILLERICA 3, PUNCHARD 2

By scoring two runs in the last half of the ninth inning with two away, the Billerica baseball team edged out Punchard by a score of 3 to 2 at Billerica last Thursday.

Bob Wetterberg and John Gracie competed in a twirling duel which was not decided until the two Billerica runs were scored in the last of the ninth. Belanger was walked by Wetterberg, Forsley struck out, but Neidzewski came through with a single to score Belanger and make the count two all. Torpey and Gracie both reached base on balls. Belanger flied out to Beauchesne, but Parker smashed a clean hit which scored Neidzewski with the final run.

Class Supper and Class Night

Last Monday night the Senior class night exercises and class supper were enjoyed. A delicious chicken pie supper was served. After dinner, the graduates sat around and sang songs that they themselves had written. Later they went upstairs for the class parts. The speakers were: John Pingree, Class Prophecy; Walter Lloyd, Class Will; Joan Gallagher, Statistics; Fred Cole, Class History; Mary Colombosian, Advice to Undergraduates.

Rehearsals

The Seniors practiced marching for graduation last Monday and Tuesday mornings. Mrs. Miriam Sweeney McArdle directed the orchestra in the "War March of the Priests" from "Athalie" by Mendelssohn. Most of the students were dismissed by ten o'clock, but the speakers and special committees had to stay and put their affairs in order and practice still further.

The Back Yard Gardener Says:

When it comes to being busy, the proverbial one-armed paper hanger with the hives has nothing on the back yard gardener at this time of year.

Memorial weekend Mom and I spent considerable time pruning the honeysuckles, the big quince bush, the lilacs, and the Forsythia. In another week or two it will be the bridal wreath and the mock orange which will receive attention.

It sure was tough going in that quince bush. The thorns were tougher than my old hide and, according to the neighbors, I used language which should have been censored. You see I had neglected to do a pruning job each year on that quince bush. One-third or one-fourth pruned out each year is a good rule. If you do that and cut right down to the base, you have little trouble. I didn't and I did.

The idea is to prune when the flowers have gone by on such shrubs as I mentioned. Cutting out the old shoots at the base induces new shoots. Flowers are formed on last year's wood, and the older the shoot gets the less chance there is that it produces new wood.

Of course, all of this depends to some extent on the way you want to manage the particular shrub. If you want to keep it down to a height of three or four feet, you have to do considerably more pruning than if you want to let it grow higher. But for goodness sake, don't cut such shrubs at the end of the branches. Get down and cut them back to the base. That's why it's well to do some cutting each year. Otherwise the shoots get growing so close together you can't get in with a saw, nor can you get in with a pair of clippers. Cutting at the end makes the bush look like a G. I. hair cut, which isn't what nature intended.

There are, of course, exceptions to these general rules. For instance, the butterfly bush and the hydrangeas are pruned right to the ground each spring. The reason for this is that these two shrubs produce flowers on this year's growth. So as is often the case you have to remember the particular habits of the bush you're pruning. Take barberry

Plan Field Day For Charity Fund

A field day at which Irish sporting events will be featured, will be held at the Brookline town field Sunday, June 20, for the Archbishop Cushing charity fund.

A large gathering is expected as the Cork hurling team and the Kerry football team are scheduled to meet the best All-Star team that Boston can put forward to defend the claim that they have the better players. There will be other athletic events to fill the afternoon, together with music by two bands. A large committee under the Rev. Gerald L. Bucke is working for the success of this affair.

For instance, if you want to make it into a close clipped hedge, prune it often. Otherwise prune as you would the quince.

In pruning hedges, remember this. Keep the top a little narrower than the bottom of the hedge. It allows for sunlight to reach the lower branches and there is less chance of their dying out and making the hedge top heavy with green growth.

Still another point to be gained, I am told, is that during a winter of heavy snow, such as we had last year, a hedge narrower at the top will hold the weight to better advantage.

Last week you remember I mentioned keeping those plants well supplied with fertilizer to make up for the plant food leached out by the rainfall. I checked up with the weather station at the University and found that we had better than six inches of rainfall which is almost twice normal. We had only two perfect days during the month of May. On 21 days it rained with the other eight days cloudy. That, of course, is one reason why the work has piled up. Gardens that should have been planted long ago are still to be planted.

NEW BULLETINS AVAILABLE FOR SUMMER MEAL PLANNING

A penny spent now for a postal card can mean dollars saved later this summer on food, declares Extension Nutritionist May E. Foley at the State University in Amherst.

"We have the largest supply of free food bulletins and leaflets in recent years," Miss Foley declares, adding that all leaflets are simple and well illustrated.

Topics include "Green Vegetables in Everyday Meals," "Food for Two," "Get More from Your Freedom Garden," and "Root Vegetables in Everyday Meals." These are all issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Miss Foley advises housewives to send also for a leaflet entitled "Salads from Your Home Garden." This is designed especially for use with local garden vegetables.

All the above leaflets, she adds, are free to Massachusetts residents by addressing a card to the Mailing Room, University of Massachusetts, Amherst—stating the leaflets desired.

The three-year-old and his father were being pushed toward the rear of the rapidly filling elevator. A kindly woman turned to the dad and said, "Aren't you afraid your little boy will be squashed?"

"Not a chance, lady," answered the father. "He bites."

Radcliffe Club To Meet June 12

The Spring meeting of the Radcliffe club of the Merrimack Valley will be held Saturday, June 12, at three o'clock at the Log Cabin in the Bird Sanctuary on the Phillips Academy grounds. This is a social gathering, before parting for the summer vacation, although some necessary business will be transacted. Refreshments will be served, and there will be a sale of articles for the benefit of the Anniversary Fund. Mrs. L. D. Peterkin, of 45 Salem street, is in charge of the arrangements, assisted by Miss Constance Fitzgerald of North Andover, and Mrs. T. V. Ferris and Miss Helen Devlin of Lawrence. It is urged that all members attend this meeting.

The Board of Selectmen at Monday night's meeting voted to expend $600 to bring the assessors' maps up to date, to include new sub-divisions and all new house construction since the last time it was done, about 1942.

A communication from Mrs. Frank L. Purdon of the Andover Improvement Society regarding improvements on the westerly side of School street, from Central street to Lupin road, was received and referred to the Board of Public Works. Mrs. Purdon is chairman of the School Street Improvement committee.

Bids on the parking meters to be installed in the business area of the town were discussed at Monday night's meeting of the board but no action was taken. Installation of the meters is expected to improve traffic conditions along Main street and in the vicinity of Elm square.

The selectmen have asked the members of the newly-appointed Housing Authority to meet with them Monday night to discuss some of the features of the veterans' housing law. It is expected that the new board will organize at that time.

Dr. Fuess, on his last appearance before the alumni as Andover's head, paid a warm tribute to the men who preceded him at Andover, to all of his associates and to the youngsters graduating this year. Dr. Fuess will retire on July 1, after forty years of service to Phillips Academy, fifteen of which he spent as headmaster.

At the Prize Day exercises the following Andover students received awards:

Edwin Snell Weaver, 32 Phillips street, department prize for aural ability. Awarded to those students in their first year of French who get the highest marks on a special examination to test aural comprehension. The George Webster Otis scholarship.

Elmer R. Harris, 66 Main street, the John Cornell scholarship.

Robert James McCoubrie, Jr., 5 Highland Wayside, the Frank van der Stucken prize for proficiency in organ playing.

Charles Flather, 45 Abbott street, the John P. Hopkins prize for attendance.

Donald Kenzie Cameron, Jr., 1 Kensington street, the Joseph Cook prize for excellence in Greek, and the John P. Hopkins prize for attendance.

Douglas Lee Adkins, Porter road, the Society of Inquiry scholarship and a prize for recitation from memory of poetry or prose open to students in Latin 1.

In the annual ball game, Exeter pulled out a thrilling 10-inning victory, 3-2, over its Andover rival. The game had been rained out Saturday and was played Sunday, for $3,500,000, and Oswald Tower, dean of the Phillips Academy faculty, who introduced retiring Headmaster Fuess.

Television Reception Is Good Here

To make everything just as clear as possible, a 50-foot aerial had been erected on the roof, and this was augmented by a pre-amplifier which brings in all patterns clear and distinct. Those who visited the Temple shop during the evening were most enthusiastic over Television after seeing this newest form of entertainment.

At the Andover Home Service, 1 Essex street, Theodore F. Tarbox and Mrs. William H. Rackle had cleared the center of their store and placed about 35 chairs where the personnel of the Andover National bank and other guests enjoyed the broadcast. The reception was excellent. A special antenna has been erected on the roof to receive the signals, and they came in so well that the same picture could be seen clearly on two sets at one time.

Tonight the Andover Home Service will have as its guests members of the Andover Savings bank staff, and Friday night town officials will make up the audience.

Those who saw Wednesday night's pictures of the dedicatory program were very much pleased with the reception here.

Sales of television sets are expected to increase now that the first New England broadcast has begun. While the numbers who have sets in this locality is few, it is estimated that by Christmas the number will take a big jump and that in another year many homes will be witnessing television broadcasts from several New England stations.

Attend Library Association Meeting

Otto Coelln of Screen Magazine and See and Hear will make a general talk on equipment standards, which will be followed by demonstrations of various types of audio-visual equipment. The first of the general sessions of the conference will be held Monday morning, June 14th, with Pearl S. Buck speaking on "How Libraries Can Influence Public Opinion." The General Conference will run through June 19th. Its tone can be judged from the theme selected — "The Challenge of Public Affairs."

Free Wives
"I hear you advertised for a wife. Any replies?"
"Sure. Hundreds."
"Good. What did they say?"
"They all said: You can have mine."

OIL BARREL SUPPORT
A good precaution is to have the oil barrel for your kitchen stove on a masonry or metal support: and that is also according to the legal requirements. If the support is wooden and a fire happens to come, the heavy barrel of oil speedily crashes to the ground. This ruptures all the connections, scatters the oil, and gives the firemen a roaring conflagration to combat. The cellar or the back porch is not the place for an oil barrel anyway, if you can possibly avoid it.

SODALITY NOTES
The Blessed Virgin Mary sodality of St. Augustine's church will hold its last meeting for the season June 14th at 7:30 p. m. in the lower church. All members are urged to attend this meeting, as plans will be made for a party. If a member cannot attend the meeting but would like to go to the party, please get in touch with Miss Dorothy Finno or Miss Mary Coupe.

VIEWS OF THE NEWS

By LEONARD F. JAMES

The word "isolationist" longer fashionable, even the idea remains. By those who delude themselves that complete isolation is desirable and possible—or perhaps by those who are concerned with party control, broader issues—the preferred is "nationalist". Two weeks ago, "nationalist" element in Congress attempted to overthrow the partisan foreign policy leadership of Vandenberg by reducing amount to be spent under the Loan Recovery Program. While this country reverts to isolationist tendencies and remains as the center in international affairs will most certainly be decided at Philadelphia next week. If the Vandenberg forces have their way will write a "nationalist" ticket, control of the Republican party defeat the new post-war Republican leaders and their foreign policy.

Award Oil Burner Bid For School

Lawrence Firm Lowest Bidder for Installation

The bid for the installation of an oil burner and tank for Shawheen school was awarded to the Eidam Tire and Service company of Lawrence at Monday night's meeting of the school committee. The Eidam company had the lowest bid of $3,700 for an outside tank.

Chairman Gordon Colquhoun presided at the meeting at which all members were present. Dr. Malcolm B. McTernan, Mrs. A. Graham Baldwin.

Following the reading of minutes by Secretary William Doherty, Edwin H. Waterhouse, the engineer for the committee, gave a complete analysis of bids for the installation of an oil burner and tank. On a motion, Vincent D. Stulgis, award was made to the Eidam company.
