VIEWS OF THE NEWS

By LEONARD F. JAMES

We who spend our money through the Marshall Plan should know what we are contributing to European recovery, and appreciate that private business will be assisted in the United States and participating countries, that private profits will be made, and that dollars will become available abroad for future purchases in the United States. True enough, we are primarily underwriting European recovery. In the long run we are securing future markets and maintaining our own production and prosperity at home. For it is axiomatic that prosperity comes not from the mere possession of money, but from full employment and its large purchasing power. Idle farms and factories mean unemployment and depression. Busy enterprises mean increased national wealth. And the Marshall Plan costing, despite all the penny-pinching of certain Congressmen, a mere three weeks expenditure of war-time days, may well prove a sound investment over the years.

Emergency and Recovery Goods
The money is to be expended in grants, or gifts, and loans with grants the major portion this year. These grants are essentially in what may be called emergency goods of food, fuel, and clothing materials, goods which cannot yet be adequately produced by European nations. Later on, emphasis will be shifted to recovery or production goods such as machinery, metals, and equipment to be bought on credit. The decision on whether a country is to receive outright grants or only loans rests with the United States and depends upon circumstances.

Welfare Delegates Hold Meeting Here

An instructional meeting of representatives of the public welfare agencies in several surrounding towns was held Monday at the office of Arthur W. Cole, agent of the Welfare Board.

At the meeting which was addressed by a field representative from the state board, were delegates from Chelmsford, Methuen, North Andover, Reading, Dracut, Billerica, Tewksbury and Wilmington. These towns comprise district three with headquarters at Lawrence.

Purpose of the morning and afternoon sessions was to receive instructions for the inauguration next September 1 of uniform procedures in public welfare which become effective on that date. In the discussion, the group of about 25 delegates conducted a question and answer session during which all phases of the new procedures were brought up for detailed explanation.

The meeting was one of several being currently held in other districts of the state prior to the new regulations going into effect.

Winners of the Central playground pet show had to stand a few feet apart to pose for our photographer last week owing to the cats' desire to become better acquainted with the birds, and the dog's eagerness to meet up with the Tabbies. However, there were no casualties as they posed, and we have, from left to right: John Yancy, Diane Nicoll, Gerald Burbine and George Finger. (Surette Studio)

Boats Valuable For Water Safety

Boats may be considered valuable pieces of equipment for life-saving, recreation or exercise. In conjunction with the Red Cross water safety program throughout the nation, Head Lifeguard Donald D. Dunn of Pomp's pond presents the following "Hints for Better Boating" for the added pleasure and safety of those who enjoy this summer outdoor recreation:

Boat or canoe-handling knowledge and swimming ability are paramount in safety. But if these skills have not yet been acquired, it is too late to think of them when an upset occurs. The most important thing to remember at that time is: A BOAT OR CANOE CONSTRUCTED OF WOOD CANNOT SINK. Use it as a life preserver.

Empty or full of water, right side up or bottom up, these small craft will return to the surface and float. And they have enough buoyancy to keep afloat people who cling calmly to them.

The simplest way to "stick to the ship" and await rescue is to take hands across the bottom of the craft. Do not grasp each others' hands—instead, have one person hold the other by the wrists. If the grip becomes weak

On that night members of the Authority will meet in the office of the Veterans' Service Officer at the Town House and will be available to assist eligible veterans or their dependents in filling out the application blanks.

At the meeting last Monday evening all members of the board were present. They are: Atty. Frederic S. O'Brien, chairman; Atty. Charles G. Hatch, vice-chairman; Winthrop Newcomb, treasurer; Ernest N. Hall, assistant treasurer; and Stanley F. Swanton, secretary.

The board went over the material presented in the questionnaires filed by applicants and also discussed proposed sites.

Also present at the meeting was H. G. Welland of Methuen, the state expert on planning and the selection of sites, who went over these phases of the project with the board.

Much progress has been made by the local Housing Authority since it organized earlier this month and made application for $600,000 of state funds for local housing.

Andover's Hostel Has Many Visitors

Seven cots don't go very far when there are 35 young people on the waiting list, but when it is a warm July night and the young people are members of the American Youth Hostel that is a very minor item. This was the situation over the weekend of July 17, a situation easily remedied when they rolled out their sleeping bags and enjoyed the friendly night air around the Andover Hostel at 10 Brook street.

This was the largest group ever to stop at the Andover Hostel at one time although there have been many large groups there during the 10 years of its existence. Young people come individually or in groups. They may be sponsored outings with a leader

Any Scouts who have been away and are now interested should contact the Scout headquarters Monday through Friday, 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. at 31 Jackson street, Lawrence. The weekly charge of $12.50 includes insurance and is a most reasonable charge.

Last week the campers enjoyed a bus trip to Lake Winnepesaukee and a ride on the Mt. Washington II. This week the Scouts go by bus to the foot of Mt. Chocorua, hike up the mountain, camp overnight, and return the next day.

One of the high spots at camp this year is the nature trail laid out and engineered by Dr. Nathaniel Stowers, District chairman of advancement. Various kinds of trees and shrubs are plainly marked with metal tags explaining their characteristics. There is also information given about insects, birds, wild animals, and rock formations. Much interest is shown by the boys and visitors in a caged red bat and the covered spring.

Explains Operation Of Blood Program

"Inquiries received at the local Red Cross headquarters regarding our blood program indicate that there is a misunderstanding on the part of some donors to its operation," Mrs. Foster C. Barnard, Chairman of the Blood Program registration said today.

"If any member of a family donates a pint of blood to the Blood Bank when it is in our community," Mrs. Barnard explained, "it entitles them to whatever blood may be needed by the family for one year. (By the family unit, the Red Cross specifies father, mother and minor children living under one roof.) Cards are mailed to all donors and must be presented at the time of a request for blood.

"We would like to call attention to the fact that this program can only work if our people are foresighted enough to give blood and provide this protection for their families. The supply available at Red Cross headquarters is dependent upon your cooperation.

"Let us all bear in mind that the blood program of the American National Red Cross is here to stay and the unit will visit Andover at least once every year.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

TOO MUCH SECRECY

The increase in the cost of the new sewer installation, as levied on the abutters of Pine and Elm streets, was the occasion of considerable dissatisfaction on the part of those who must pay the bills for the improvement to their property. For many years the rate of assessment for such installation has been $1.10 per foot, but the new rate is $3.01. That is a big increase, but it is, we are told, based on increased costs. The town, of course, gains nothing from the bigger assessment; it merely stays that much out of the red, because in all such cases somebody—the town, of the abutters—must meet the full costs. If the abutters did not, the town will have to.

But that has been one fly in the ointment!

The Board of Public Works voted last November to assess the total cost of any new sewer extension 100 percent, "this ruling to become effective with the assessment of abutters on the construction of a sewage system on Pine and Elm streets."

The Pine and Elm street abutters knew that there was going to be some increase over the old rate of $1.10 per foot, which had been in effect for so many years. Not having been told about the action of the Board of Public Works last November, however, it came to them as a considerable shock when they got their tax bills in the Spring, to find that the rate had been greatly increased to $3.01 per foot.

The Board of Public Works should, of course, have made public back in November that the rates were to be assessed "100 percent." Holding back the information was a mistake.

WHERE DO THE OLD CARS GO?

A short time ago somebody in Gloucester wrote a letter to the Boston Globe complaining about allegedly poor train service on the Gloucester branch of the B. & M. The letter was printed and it started quite a series of letters, some pro and some con.

More recently the Globe, in a news column, date-lined Gloucester, said, "Whether the letter is responsible or not, things have improved. Cars have been painted and repolished. Three air-conditioned coaches, missing since the start of World War II, have been returned."

We doubt very much if any cars have been painted and repolished. It only seems that way to the Gloucesterites who was responsible for that story. No doubt, the Gloucester branch has had some better cars, but isn't it possible that those cars have been taken from other lines? And isn't it possible that other lines—where there are fewer complaints—have been given the older conveyances?

There are some pretty ancient specimens riding between Andover and Boston right now—including a number of cars with windows that absolutely refuse to open, no matter how hot it is. The running time is satisfactory between here and Boston. The trains are frequent and they usually get one to Boston, or to Andover, on time. But what we couldn't do with a fairly modern coach or two!

BE CAREFUL IN AUGUST, TOO

Every month has its own dangers, warns the National Safety Council, so it is always best to be careful.

July's accidental deaths (the country over) are chiefly due to traffic conditions, with vacation travel at its peak; to drownings, which are also high in the list; to excessive heat.

August's accidental deaths are attributed mostly to traffic (especially in rural areas) to heat and to drownings.

Always take care. Does it ever pay to take a chance?

"In Thermal, California," says Time Magazine, "the temperature hit 110 on the same day that it was 98 in Boiling Springs, North Carolina, and 59 in Cool, California." What of it? One day, recently, right here in town the temperature reached the high 80's ANDOVER!

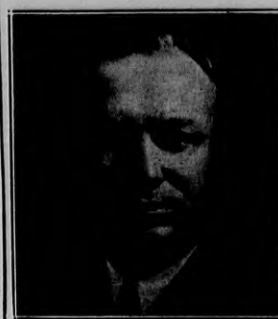

Crane Brinton, a noted Harvard professor, in his recently published book entitled "From Many One", cautions against expecting a world government in our time and compares the United Nations to a "spray which we've got to keep using; we may not even then get the perfect fruit . . . but we ought to get a crop."

Headlight glare is regarded as the greatest hazard of night-driving motorists, according to a survey conducted by the American Automobile Association. Be considerate. Tilt your lights for an approaching car.

The summer tour of duty for 12,000 members of the Massachusetts National Guard, just closed at Camp Edwards, cost well over a million dollars. Pay and allowances were estimated at $700,000; food $300,000; transportation $34,000; motor fuel $18,000; and medical $15,000. Mars demands exceptionally high tribute.

Lone swimmers and rash divers who do not look before they leap add to the toll of summer casualties.

KENNETH L. SHERMAN

The organizer and first principal of the Junior High school and the man responsible for the present guidance department, reading and writing systems and student government policy in our Junior High school, Kenneth L. Sherman, Superintendent of Public Schools, also has an outstanding record in the service of his country. A graduate of the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis and of Boston University, he served during the first World War as a midshipman and as a Commander in this last war. The patrol force which he commanded for 15 months was decorated for its patrol work afloat in the South Pacific. In the last year of the war he commanded surface craft for air-sea rescue out of Quinset Point, Rhode Island.

Born in Monson, Massachusetts, in 1903, he was principal of the Dedham Junior High school prior to his appointment to the Andover School System 14 years ago. He is a Mason, a member of St. Matthews, a past president of the Andover Service Club, the Andover Teachers' Association, the Essex County Teachers' Association and the Dedham Teachers' Association. He is presently commander of the Andover post, American legion, Director of the Andover Guild, and a member of the Sunapee Lake grange, Newbury New Hampshire.

He and his wife and son, Jack, who graduated from Pynchard High school in June, live at 7 Locke street.

Formerly commander of the Andover post of the American legion, a deacon and church school superintendent at South church, he was also president of vice-president of the Massachusetts Andover Council of churches, sets Council of churches, president of the Andover Service Club and of the Harvard Club of Andover.

During the first World War he was a sergeant first class, Det. Medical department, stationed at Camp Devens. He and Mrs. Eaton, the former Lucy Allen, now reside at 49 Abbot street.

Selected Comment

The Housing Authority

(Brookline Chronicle)

The Town Meeting members were overwhelmingly in favor of creating a Housing Authority under the provisions of the new State housing plan, and now the ingenuity of the Authority will be put to the test to provide low-rental housing for veterans.

We were among those who deplored the possibility of construction that does not conform to our building and zoning laws, but the statements by the Selectmen to the effect that plans must have the approval of the Board allayed our fears in that respect to some extent, but we could not help recalling the fact that the State has overridden our Board on matters of erection of billboards and granting liquor licenses, and we sincerely hope that such cannot be the case in the matter of construction contrary to our Building Laws.

We agree with Selectman Lurie that we made a mistake in allowing our pride to prevent our having taken advantage of Federal funds for building construction several years ago, for had we acted, as did many communities, we now would have a town office building and our fire headquarters.

Blames 16-Year-Olds

(Newton Graphic)

Sixteen-year-old drivers are involved in three to nine times as many fatal automobile accidents as middle-aged drivers, according to the Automobile Safety Foundation.

In attempting to explain what the record shows, the Foundation says that research experts blame lack of driver-training, together with three characteristics of youth: (a) too much energy, which shows up in excessive speed; (b) inability to keep attention on driving; and (c) the tendency to "show off."

While the experts are probably correct in their analysis, we are inclined to believe that the average youngster is often the victim of overconfidence. Without adequate experience in the handling of motor vehicles, the young man or woman assumes an ability to meet any emergency that may arise. This confidence in one's ability is a valuable trait but, before it can be a positive asset, must be tempered with experience.

IS SOCIETY TOTTERING

(Newton Graphic)

We find it rather difficult to understand the mental conclusions of some of our leaders who continue to warn us of a "society, tottering on the brink of disaster."

It is quite a habit with so-called leaders to tell the world that its people are on the eve of destruction. This is difficult to endorse because the people of the world, despite wars and troubles, are probably enjoying the highest standard of living in their history.

We live in a great age, with power and machinery adding to the comfort and convenience of individuals. This process has been going on for years and is having an effect everywhere. In some areas, it is more pronounced than in others, but it continues everywhere.

Down the Years with The Townsman

50 Years Ago—July, 1898

Sewer construction slowed up because of solid ledge rock on Park street in front of the fire station. Much blasting and drilling necessary.

Three new teachers are named for next September in the public schools are Miss Katherine Robinson, Miss Bessie M. Willgoose and Miss Evelyn Reed.

Walter Lamont is named pipe inspector in the new sewer construction work.

Mrs. Barnett Rogers and daughter are enjoying the sea breezes at Salisbury Beach.

W. H. Gile and family are at Perkins' Inn, Hopkinton, N. H., from whence they are enjoying the superb carriage drives of that region.

Editorializes The Townsman: "If the United States is directly over China, Andover must be right on top of the Chinese sea, and the sewer contractors could tell you that it is mighty hard work to keep it from leaking through."

"The fourth year of the Abbott Village Coal society," we report, "closes next month and it has been the most successful of all. The membership is now 123, the highest number yet reached, with shares for 370 tons of coal valued at $2,450."

The trustees of Memorial Hall have acceded to the request of the Andover Cricket Club to allow the challenge cup won by the club in 1889, 1890 and 1891, to be placed on exhibition in the hall. It will be on display within a few days.

25 Years Ago—July, 1923

Preliminary work on the new varsity playing field at Phillips Academy, made necessary by the erection of the Case Memorial cage building on Brothers Field, is now under way. . . . The removal of Pearson Hall to the south side of the new quadrangle and the erection of a handsome recreation hall at its east side has radically changed the old seminary campus.

A supervised swimming beach is now assured to Andover as the result of an enthusiastic meeting called by The Townsman. Ten of the men present gave a sum sufficient to guarantee employment of a life guard and to afford swimming instruction beginning August 1. A temporary committee is named, consisting of the following: J. F. O'Connell, Roy E. Hardy, Philip P. Cole, J. C. Souter, W. C. Crowley, I. R. Kimball, D. L. Coutts, F. A. Buttrick, Dr. W. D. Walker and Dr. J. J. Daly.

Several cases of rabies are reported.

The Knights of Columbus carnival fund is richer because of a successful bakery sale in W. C. Crowley's store. The ladies in charge of the sale: Mrs. C. J. Bailey, Mrs. C. I. Doherty, Mrs. John F. O'Connell and Mrs. David Hartigan.

The Salvation Army has a carnation day to raise funds.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert F. Fraser and family are at their home on Salem street after spending a week in New Hampshire.

An oil painting, "The Old Pewter Pitcher," by Mrs. Fred W. Wallace, is accepted by a jury of the North Shore Arts Association for exhibition at Gloucester.

Number plates will be removed from automobiles and registrations will be revoked for the non-payment of excise taxes in accordance with the new state law, warns Tax Collector James P. Christie.

Nineteen windows are broken in the Stowe school. It is believed to be the work of children after playground closing hours.

Must have had a lot of rain ten years ago! A headline in The Townsman reads, "Unusual Phenomenon Called Sun Appears."

REPORT from the State House

By SEN. PHILIP K. ALLEN

Perhaps the most important division within the Department of Education is the Division of Elementary, Secondary Schools and Teachers Colleges. It is in this division that standards are established for courses, curricular changes are made, teacher qualifications are set, and in the main, since state subsidization of schools is now so large, control is exacted in a large measure over the elementary, secondary schools and teachers colleges.

It is interesting to note that Massachusetts established the first teachers' college in America in 1839, in Lexington. After a few years it was transferred to Framingham and the present Framingham State Teachers' College is therefore the oldest of the Teachers' College not only in Massachusetts but in the country. Others are located at Bridgewater, Fitchburg, Lowell, North Adams, Salem, Westfield and Worcester.

In addition to the Teachers Colleges there is the Massachusetts School of Art which is located on Brookline Avenue in Boston which is one of the oldest schools of art in the United States and has been administered by the Department of Education since its founding.

The Barnstable State Teachers College at Hyannis is not at the moment operated by the Department of Education. The use of its property has been temporarily turned over to the Massachusetts Maritime Academy. Whether the Maritime Academy will be permanently stationed at Hyannis is for the future to say.

In the Department but not completely regulated by the Department are the fifteen trustees of the Bradford Durfee Textile School in Fall River, the fifteen trustees of the Lowell Textile Institute, the fifteen trustees of the New Bedford Textile School and the three Commissioners of the Massachusetts Maritime Academy.

Also within the Department of Education, but not only a part of it, is the Teachers Retirement Board which passes on the retirement qualifications imposed by the State on teachers having reached the age of retirement. The Board, located at Nashua street in Boston, as far as we have been able to find out, was placed in the Department of Education because it was impossible to find another Department in which it would logically go. Again we see the impact of the Constitutional amendment which established not more than twenty departments.

The analysis of the Department of Education will be concluded next week.

We editorialize: "Andover is a hospitable town. The officials ask motorists to take their time while here."

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Northery give a linen shower in honor of Miss Betty Proctor, soon to be married to Walter F. Lewis.

The engagement is announced of Delight Dawson Hall to Trye E. Rothe of Copenhagen, Denmark.

Former Local Man In Bomber Crash

Capt. William P. Renny, a former Andover resident, was one of the four persons in a U. S. Air Forces bomber who escaped with minor injuries when the big plane crashed and burned in making a landing at Newark, N. J., last Friday.

Capt. Renny, son of Mrs. Anne Renny of 8 Elm court, received but slight burns and scratches in making his escape through the emergency hatch.

A qualified glider pilot, Capt. Renny has been in the service since 1941. He was in action in Europe, where he received his present rank, and is aide to Maj. Gen. Robert M. Webster, commanding general of the First Air Force, who was also aboard the bomber and who assisted the copilot to escape.

Capt. Renny is married. His wife, the former Dorothy Bishop of Boston, and two children, William A. Renny, Jr., and Bonny Alice Renny, live in West Newton. He has three brothers, Alexander of 7 Washington avenue, a printer on The Townsman; John, of Andover, and Sgt. James Renny, who is stationed at Brooklyn, N. Y., doing military escort duty for veteran dead; also two sisters, Misses Helen and Margaret Renny of Andover.

Communicating with his relatives here after the accident, Capt. Renny said that he would be back on duty in a few days.

ize the information on family composition and finances contained in the questionnaires, then find out how many homes are needed, and to find out if homes can be erected at a figure which the veteran needing housing can afford to pay.

After this is done the Authority will then select the site, subject to approval by the state, and select the plans, which are also subject to state approval.

Qualified veterans and their dependents are again reminded by the board that but a few days remain for filing applications. To be eligible a veteran must have served at least 90 days with the armed forces of the nation, or be a dependent of a person who so served and died while in service; or be the wife, mother or other dependent of a person who is so serving.

The leading roles in the Windham Playhouse production of "Outward Bound" will be taken by Everett Austin and Beatrice Ganz. There will be a performance every evening at 8:30, continuing through Sunday evening, August 1st. A special afternoon performance will be given Sunday, July 31st, at reduced prices.

Boats Valuable For Water Safety

through fatigue, change over and let the other person do the holding while the first one rests.

In still water it is easy to propel the capsized craft toward the nearest shore by kicking the legs and making swimming motions with the free arms. If the current is carrying you with it, as it inexorably will, you can still approach the shore on a long diagonal course and land safely some distance downstream from where you capsized.

Always check your boat before using to make sure seams are tight, oars are dependable and oarlocks in order. If you use a heavy stone anchor, stow it so that it will fall free if the boat upsets and can be cut loose. If stowed carelessly it may catch and wedge in the capsized boat, greatly reducing its buoyancy. Heavy outboard motors attached to small craft also cut buoyancy in case of upset. Attach a long line to your motor so you can tie the other end of it to a spare oar or billet of wood in case you want to ditch it if the boat capsizes. This floating object will mark the location and you can return for the motor after you and your companions are safe.

TOWN HALL PLAYERS AT WEST NEWBURY

"Candida," George Bernard Shaw's greatest romantic comedy, will be the fourth attraction of the Town Hall Players at the West Newbury Summer Theatre this season. The play will open its week's run Monday, August 2, succeeding the current laugh-winner, "John Loves Mary," which closes Saturday, July 31.

Dramatic Henrietta Moore will have her innings as the witty, sparkling "Candida," the role that brought Katherine Cornell the greatest triumph of her career. Cast opposite as her husband will be striking Michael Stanley, recently of the Broadway productions, "Follow the Girls" and "Made in Heaven."

Van Williams, young Warner Brothers' star-in-the-making, plays Marchbanks, the love-sick poet who imagines himself in an affair with the happily-wed "Candida."

Gardener Says:

The one thought which was uppermost in my mind as Mom and I came home from the Farm and Home days at the University was this—that we Americans have the greatest country on earth. And yet, we seem to be afraid of our way of life.

This thought was expressed by several speakers. Bill Cunningham of the Boston Herald Traveler put it this way—"we've got to stand up and be counted. We've got to state our belief in our American way of life and we shouldn't be afraid to state our beliefs. The one thing which would do more toward world understanding would be for every youngster to learn at least one foreign language."

Bill Aviret of the New York Herald Tribune stated the same thing, only in other words, and Mrs. Mannheim of the Amherst League of Women Voters was another speaker who emphasized the importance of voting to emphasize our belief in our way of life.

Cunningham said that in Italy, where people had never voted before, they turned out 90 per cent. The best record the Americans have made was 62 per cent. Mrs. Mannheim emphasized the importance of turning out at the primaries for it's there that we select our candidates. With poor candidates on the ballot, the voter has just about as much choice as trying to decide between two eggs of questionable quality.

Well, I could go on telling you of the fine ideas and thoughts which we brought home with us. Some of them I'll think about as I weed the garden and pick my beans and corn during the coming weeks.

That talk by Mr. Hixon of Worcester on flower arrangement was a humdinger. A little bit of this and that and not much of anything and you have a good floral arrangement. The points he emphasized were variety of shape and size. Make your arrangements to suit your container and any old container can be used. A pitcher, for instance, is intended to be used for pouring. Make your arrangements just as though the flowers were pouring from the pitcher.

Have a point of emphasis, group your colors in such a way that the eye will look first at that point of emphasis and then follow around the rest of the arrangement back to the point of emphasis.

He re-emphasized the old fact that in cutting flowers for floral arrangement, that you should use a razor blade. Tests showed that flowers of the same length when cut with a razor blade will take up water in 12 minutes as against 20 minutes when cut with a knife and considerably longer when cut with the scissors.

Another mighty important point in connection with flowers which Mr. Hixon made was that no preservative has yet been found which will keep flowers fresher longer than just water. In other words, every day, change the water in your flower vases and your flowers will last much longer than by any other method.

Well, that's enough to indicate that one does pick up many ideas from trips like these. I'll be passing along more ideas in the weeks to come.

Gifts Galore Shown At Baker Refrigeration Co.

As well as freezers, refrigerators and stoves, have you seen the beautiful wedding gifts at the Baker Refrigeration Co., at 2 Essex street? They are marked down for quick sale, and well worth seeing.

There were some dainty little wall clocks any bride would love, an unusual coffee decanter with matching sugar and creamer, and for a very special gift—an 8 piece set of stainless steel cooking utensils. Everything, including the double boiler was low and broad enough to fit well on any unit of gas or electric stove. Stainless steel utensils require very little water in the cooking process, which means extra vitamins for you.

Every bride needs electrical gifts. Why not a beautiful waffle iron or an electric toaster. There were lamps of all types, and colorful cranberry glass beverage sets. Two other charming gifts, for children, this time—a gay and silly Minnie Mouse lamp for some lucky youngster, and a pastel music box that looks like a small radio. When the dial is turned, bell-like music tinkles on and on, while Mother Goose characters travel across the little screen.

If you are puzzled by the gift problem, go into the Baker Refrigeration Co., and see how easy it is to find the right gift at a reasonable price. Tel. 1934.

Verette's Is In The Square And Always On The Square

Verette's Restaurant in Andover has a fine trademark—Verette's in the Square, on The Square. Cleanliness seems to be the watchword, and diners there have said it is Mother's only competitor.

Ernest J. Verette, proprietor, was born in Methuen, and has been a resident of Andover for twenty years. He served in the First World War as Mess Sergeant with the 103rd Infantry of the 26th YD Division.

Mr. Verette started at the age of fourteen to learn the baking business, entered the Army in 1917, was discharged in 1919, and since then has been Chef and proprietor.

His daughter Jacqueline is in charge of the dining room, while his son Ernie is general manager, and another daughter, Germaine, is a waitress here. Mr. Verette and his capable staff are shown above.

Have you ever noticed the sign over the kitchen door in this well run restaurant? It is an invitation to you to come in and inspect the kitchen at any time. Mr.

or a battery replacement. Any accessories needed for your car can be purchased here, and of course, Cities Service Gas and Oil, which speaks for itself where quality is concerned.

Fraser's Service Station is equipped to give your car a perfect lubrication job, and can take out all the squeaks and squawks that herald your progress down the street. Even if your car does not look like this year's model, it doesn't have to sound like a 1916 Jalopy because you haven't been to Fraser's for a much needed lubrication job.

Have you done anything about next winter's fuel and range oil? Fraser's will deliver enough now to fill your storage tanks. Don't wait until cold weather, for we may have another fuel shortage, and it is a good idea to keep the tanks full.

Mr. Fraser has been in business here for 3 years, and has made himself a reputation for courtesy and efficiency which would be hard to rival. Tel. 155 for fast and helpful service.

But even the outright grant or gift is not entirely without controls. And it must be thought that the ultimate consumer, in Great Britain, let us say, will receive free bread. He pays for it. But the money received from the consumer will not be at the free disposal of the British Government. Neither does the American farmer give away his wheat. The process is straight-forward despite the many agencies and individuals involved. Private Profits From Gifts

The American farmer sells his grain to the elevator operator who sells to the miller, all dollar sales. The United States Treasury, through its agent, pays the miller for the wheat he exports under the plan. But the miller does not charge all that the traffic will bear. First, the Office of International Trade must issue an export license to the miller, and it will issue such licenses only to those millers whose price is reasonable. Then the European Co-operation Administration, usually called the ECA, another American agency, allocates flour to Great Britain. There the importer buys from the British Government, sells it to the flour merchant, who sells to the wholesale baker, who distributes bread to the local grocer, and thus to the housewife. All sales are in English money. Again, private profits have been made. But these profits must be reasonable, for the Office of International Trade, the OIT, will check on the distribution of flour to see that the price of bread to the consumer is not too high that the United States could be accused of profiteering. The ECA will keep hands off while the profits are reasonable, but can threaten restriction of further supplies if the British and other governments do not restrain profits down the line. In Britain, where prices are closely controlled, the consumer may actually pay less for his loaf than does the American housewife.

U. S. Controls On Funds

Meanwhile, the British Government has received pounds sterling from the flour importer as payment for the flour. The Government must deposit in a special account a sum in pounds equal to the dollar cost of the flour. Funds from this account may be used only with the approval of the Economic Co-operation Administration, and only for purposes that will aid Britain's recovery. Some of this money will come back in the form of critical materials that we need; some will be used for payment of ECA expenses in Europe.

The loan phase of the Marshall Plan will provide greater opportunity for private business firms than will the grants, because of the nature of the goods to be purchased, equipment to increase the output of Europe's farms and factories. Private business will handle the operations and is expected to sell some $4,500,000,000 worth of goods during the next four years. However, export licenses for manufactured goods sold via loans will be supervised by the OIT which will certainly favor those exporters whose prices are considered reasonable. Again, the foreign importer and distributor will sell for what they can get, with the ECA ready to threaten reductions or withholding of loans if profiteering becomes evident.

Purchases of materials with the borrowed money will not be restricted to goods from the United States, although materials in surplus must be bought from this country.

Recovery Means Prosperity

It might be argued, of course, that in supplying European countries with machinery and equipment we are building competitors for the future world markets, and that in the long run we may lose a large section of our export trade. This is a hasty conclusion, for further thought must suggest that a poor man can buy very little. Similarly, a nation which cannot sell, certainly cannot buy. The American business man who sells, demands payments in dollars that he can spend here, not in francs or marks or pounds that must be spent in the country of their origin. Obviously, the foreign nation can pay in dollars only if it has received such dollars in payment for goods it has sold in America. The more productive a country is, the bigger market it offers. A simple analogy might be the huge potential market in China if each male Chinese could afford to buy a pair of American trousers; huge profits would be awaiting some one. But first, the Chinaman has to be able to earn wages to pay for pants. If China could be developed into a productive country, there is a huge market for America. It is the purchasing power which provides the market. Europe is eager for endless supplies of goods. The Marshall Plan proposes Europe's recovery, and thus its purchasing power.

An interesting topic for further consideration is the way in which further loans and grants to Europe are providing not only dollars for purchases in the United States, but aiding in other ways the reconstruction of Europe.

AT THE LIBRARY

Among the new books added to the Memorial Hall Library, the reader can often tell from the title the subject matter of the book. For instance, the following list more or less speaks for itself:

How To Color Photographs With Oils, Seemann; Psychologic Care During Infancy And Childhood, Bakwin; Home Guide To Repair, Upkeep and Remodeling, Crouse; The Pleasures Of Sketching Outdoors, Hoagland; Developing Your Child's Personality, McHugh; Household Electric Refrigeration, Wostrel; Bright With Silver; Fox Fur Farming, Pinkerton; Dairy Cattle Feeding And Management, Largon; Allegro: a play, Hammerstein; Creative Ceramics, Lester; Elements Of Radio Servicing, Marcus.

But some titles need to be annotated in order to present their substance in a way that will appeal to the reader... such as these:

IRREGULAR GENTLEMAN Bellah James Warner Bellah believes that romance is still very much alive, and proves it in this new book that reminds one of Negley Farson's "Way Of A Transgressor." He believes that the ideal way to find life entertaining is to take a map of the world, close your eyes and jab at it with a pin. Where the pin hits—GO! Here are the names of many of the world's well-known people, as Bellah recalls his experiences with them in far-off places.

HOG ON ICE Funk

Did you ever wonder about such expressions as "You need a Philadelphia lawyer," or "bring home the bacon," or "as independent as a hog on ice?" Dr Funk has traced hundreds of our queer expressions from all trades and professions, "gentry and peasant," churches, sports, etc., and tells how the sayings came into common use. STREET CORNER SOCIETY

White For three and a half years the author, Assistant Professor of Sociology at the University of Chicago, lived in an Eastern city's slum district inhabited by Italian immigrants. He learned the language, lived in with one of the families, played and worked with the old and young and always noted keenly the things about him so that the experience, now printed here, is an actual sociological study of a slum district.

WE CALLED IT CULTURE Case Chautauqua—the "immense culture-peddling machine," sponsored by businessmen, school and church men in each community who guaranteed the bureau against loss—built up audiences estimated at 35,000,000 in the peak year of 1924. Now the commercial aspects of the venture are inspected, the managements, the contracts, the super-salesmen, the booking, etc. Victoria Case, the author, was an advance booking agent in Oregon for the Ellison-White System.

THE LAST BILLIONAIRE Richards

This has been called "an unconventional, unbiased and uninhibited" life of Henry Ford. This isn't just the biography of Ford the business man, but is the story of his personal life, filled with such episodes as his campaign against cigarettes, his love of dancing and violins, the soy-bean diet era, his eating fads, his relationship with the press, and his extreme humanity! Alive, rather startling reporting!
