VIEWS OF THE NEWS

By LEONARD F. JAMES

"There is no Soviet-imposed blockade in Berlin, there is no threat of starvation in Berlin." Thus began Vishinsky in the Security Council discussions last week. Those who have followed the news since last April know differently, and can't be fooled by such obvious nonsense. But how many of us are being taken in by what seems to be Russian willingness to accept control of the atomic bomb? General Romulo of the Philippines regarded as a "chink in the wall" the Russian proposal for simultaneous signing of an agreement outlawing the bomb and establishing effective control.

Words Without Meaning? The suggestion is high-sounding and the intention is apparently pure. But there's many a catch in the proposition. One catch is how to "outlaw" the bomb; another is the interpretation of "control"; and the third is an earlier but recent Russian proposal that the Big Five "reduce by one third during one year all present land, naval and air forces." How a bomb could be outlawed is an extremely difficult matter to appreciate. The word "outlaw" applied in past times to one who was declared to be outside the law; his "murderer" could not be punished because the law had ceased to operate. But to talk today of outlawing a bomb or a nation is to use words without consideration of practical problems. The second catch is in the interpretation of "control." The Russians have repeatedly rejected any form of control not to their liking. In fact they don't want control in the positive sense; they want control free from outside inspection and interference, which would inevitably result in no effective control at all. They are simple.

Women Voters To Meet Oct. 19

The League of Women Voters of Andover is holding its first meeting at Christ Church Tuesday, October 19th. Dan H. Fenn, Jr., from the United Nations headquarters in Boston will speak on "Problems Facing the U. N." Luncheon will be served at 12:45; guests may come in after the luncheon to hear the speaker at 1:30. Anyone who is interested in attending should call Mrs. Frederick Petersen at 1492W or Miss Fannie Davis at 34R before Monday, October 18th to make reservations.

The League of Women Voters is a non-partisan organization whose purpose is to promote political responsibility through informed and active participation of citizens in government. This year special emphasis is on the U. N. which is so all-important.

For the time remaining before election day, the League will devote its energy towards explaining to the community the referendum questions to appear on the November ballot and to urging everyone to go to the polls on November 2.

Other aspects on the League program include study of public education at the local, state and national levels, taxation and social welfare problems such as the Youth Service board and the parole system.

All women in the community are welcome and urged to join. Miss Fannie Davis is the membership chairman.

Merrimack River Report Reveals Interesting Data Remedial Measures Proposed To Make It Safe For Recreational Purposes and Aquatic Life

A wealth of interesting information about the Merrimack river is contained in the report of the Joint Board established by the Legislature to study the sanitary conditions of the stream and to make recommendations for the disposal of sewage in the river valley. Today, with its waters polluted by decomposing organic matter, remedial measures are proposed to make it safe for recreational purposes and aquatic life. Many Andover residents can recall the time when the Merrimack was used extensively for recreational purposes. It had numerous boat clubs along its banks, was the scene of races and regattas that attracted thousands, had bath houses and famous swimming holes, and disciples of Isaac Walton annually lured many a finny beauty from its waters.

The Joint Board notes the increasing demand on the part of residents of the valley to use the river more extensively for similar recreational purposes. "The Forestry Division and the Division of Fisheries and Game of the Department of Conservation,"

SELECTMEN OPPOSE RIVER PROJECT

The selectmen have gone on record as being unanimously opposed to the question on the ballot November 2, which would establish a Merrimack River sewerage district for the purpose of constructing and operating sewerage works in the river valley. Chief objection is that it is estimated it would cost Andover taxpayers $50,000 yearly for 40 years, which would mean a big jump in the tax rate.

Punchard Triumphs Over Reading, 20-0

By JACK McCARTHY

Punchard High School gridgers coached by Walter Roberts and Donald Dunn, played their best game of the current season last Saturday when they triumphed 20-0 over a speedy Reading outfit. Entering the game as underdogs, the Blue and Gold pushed the strong home club all over the gridiron. The tricky running and passing of Charles "Fish" Dwyer and the fast stepping of Herbert Deveaux plus the powerful charging of Ray Collins, helped the Andover boys chalk up their third consecutive victory of the season.

Punchard scored in the opening minutes of the second quarter. Deveaux started the action by returning a Reading punt 14 yards to his own 30. The Blue and Gold thus began a long 70 yard drive resulting in a touchdown. After working the ball to Reading's 22 yard line, Dwyer unleashed a long pass to Alan Chetson who carried the ball unmolested into the end zone. Sid Watson's conversion was good. Punchard 7, Reading 0.

Reading, however, bounced back as they marched from their 44 to Punchard's one yard line. During

Veterans Get Data On Homes Housing Authority Chairman Explains Board's Progress

A large gathering of veterans heard Atty. Frederic S. O'Brien, chairman of the Andover Housing Authority, give a comprehensive review at the Legion meeting last Thursday night of the progress being made by the local board.

Atty. O'Brien appeared as guest speaker at the invitation of Commander Kenneth L. Sherman of Andover post, 8, in order that former servicemen might have an opportunity to learn what the Authority is doing to provide low-rental homes for veterans.

In discussing the subject Atty. O'Brien explained the difference between the laws relating to veterans' housing. He also made reference to remarks addressed to local veterans the previous week by a member of the Salem Housing Authority, and concluded by saying that the veterans of Andover will be housed in as good or better dwellings as soon, if not sooner, than those of any place north of Boston.

A question period followed. During the business meeting Angus Stewart, chairman of the Armistice Day banquet and the Poppy Day committees, announced

Community Chest Goal Here $18,430 Drive Opens Monday—More Volunteers Needed

Vincent Treanor, chairman of Andover in the coming Community Chest campaign, announced today that Andover's goal will be $18,430. The total amount of money sought in the campaign is $190,044, the largest amount sought by the chest in peacetime.

Mr. Treanor also announced that of a total of 20 thousand persons served by the chest, approximately 2,186 were residents of Andover, which is a substantial increase over previous years.

The official campaign dates are October 18 to November 1. The campaign opening supper will be held in the Lawrence Boys' Club gymnasium with the Hon. Max L. Pinansky, former Justice of the Municipal Court, Portland, Maine, as the guest speaker.

Sunday, October 17, will be Red Feather Sunday, with the churches of all denominations in Andover explaining the purpose of the chest to the congregations.

Mr. Treanor has asked for assistance in the campaign from any resident of Andover who can give a little time. "There are going to be some homes unsolicited unless we can secure the voluntary manpower to do the job", was the chairman's statement as the campaign opening drew nearer.

In a letter to all his campaign workers, Mr. Treanor stated: "Figured in money standards, the bill comes high. $190,044. is needed."

Merrimack River Report Reveals Interesting Data

It says, "have indicated the possibility of developing the Merrimack river for recreation by constructing park sites, bathing beaches, picnic and camping grounds, and other recreational facilities, provided the pollution of the stream would not prevent such development. To comply with the plans of the recreational and fishing interests, the quality of the water must be so improved as to permit fishing and bathing."

The board reports that the stream drains 5006 square miles, 1208 of which are in Massachusetts, and 3798 in New Hampshire.

"The sources of the river are in the White Mountains of New Hampshire," it reports, "and the river is formed at Franklin, in that state, by the confluence of the principal tributaries, Pemigewasset and Winnepesaukee . . ."

"The total fall of the river from Lake Winnepesaukee to the sea is estimated to be about 500 feet. Within the limits Massachusetts . . . there are two dams across the river—the Pawtucket Dam at Lowell, at elevation 87.8 above mean sea level, and the Lawrence Dam at Lawrence, at elevation 39.2 above mean sea level.

"As the result of the impounding of the water of the river by the dam at Lowell, the flow in the stream is sluggish between the New Hampshire boundary and this dam. Similarly, between the city of Lowell and the dam at Lawrence the flow in the streams is sluggish except for a short distance below the Pawtucket Dam.

"Below the city of Lawrence the river has considerable fall to the point where it is affected by the tides about two and one-half miles above the Haverhill bridge."

All this, and other facts about the stream, become pertinent now as the question of accepting an act to establish a Merrimack Valley Sewerage District to construct and operate sewerage works in the river valley, will come before the voters November 2.

Discussing existing sewer facilities in Andover-Lawrence area, the report states: "The Town of Andover has approximately 15 miles of sanitary sewers with approximately 1350 connections. The collected sewage is discharged through a 30-inch pipe into the Merrimack river near the mouth of the Shawsheen river. In addition to all of the Andover sewage, this sewer also drains 98.3 acres of South Lawrence. When constructed, this outfall was lowered in South Lawrence to drain in by gravity. . . . The main sewer is large enough to handle all the dry weather domestic sewage flow and the essential industrial wastes of Andover."

Of Lawrence it says: "The City of Lawrence has about 77 miles of combined sewers and 22 miles of sanitary sewers, with approximately 16,000 connections. The domestic sewage of Lawrence is discharged into the Merrimack river and the Spicket river through a total of 15 outlets. Four of these outlets are on the south bank of the Merrimack river, and one of them is the Andover outfall sewer into which part of South Lawrence is drained. There are nine outfalls on the north bank proper, and two outlets on the Spicket river near its mouth. The most important of these 15 outlets is the Spicket main sewer discharging into the Spicket river at the foot of Garden street, which drains about 1500 acres and serves 50,000 persons in Lawrence and Methuen. . . ."

"Most industrial wastes are discharged directly into the Merrimack river, although some of them are discharged into the north and south canals, and some of them are discharged into the Spicket river, especially near its mouth . . ."

The remedial plan recommended by the Joint Board, after studying construction of a trunk sewer, calls for a more economical measure, that of constructing interceptors along the river banks in the Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill and Newburyport areas to treat municipal sewage and industrial wastes before they are discharged into the river. The cost would be in the vicinity of $30 million, financed by 40-year bonds.

This regional treatment plan would be somewhat the same in all four areas. In the Lawrence region five interceptor sewers are recommended. These would be: the North Bank interceptor, the Spicket Main interceptor, the South Bank interceptor, the Trunk interceptor, and the Sow Brook interceptor.

They would intercept all sewage and industrial wastes and conduct them to a treatment plant, the proposed site of which would be on the north bank, off Marston street between the Essex County school and the old dump.

Describing the South Bank interceptor the report says: "Six large outfall sewers from Lawrence, Andover and North Andover must be intercepted along the south bank of the Merrimack River. The first of these is the 6.0-foot circular Shanty Pond combined sewer which discharges into the river beneath the bridge at the foot of Broadway Avenue. To gain elevation and to reduce backwater effect, this sewer will be intercepted at the corner of Wolcott avenue and Rowe street, which will thus become the point of beginning the South Bank interceptor.

"Starting as a 30-inch circular sewer the interceptor will run easterly along Wolcott avenue (extended) and Merrimack street, increasing in size to 36-inch, 42-inch, 48-inch and 60-inch circular sections as industrial wastes and the 36-inch Parker street outfall are intercepted.

"At the foot of Osgood street, where the 54-inch municipal sewer will be picked up, the interceptor will change to a 5.5-foot semi-elliptical section, increasing gradually to a 7-foot section as heavy mill increments and the Andover sewer are included. About 100 feet from the concrete bridge across the Shawsheen river, the interceptor will leave the street and turn south across the Shawsheen river to avoid the concrete bridge abutments.

"After the river is crossed by means of a 60-inch pressure sewer, the 7-foot interceptor will run along Sutton street in North Andover about 600 feet and then leave the street to follow the Merrimack River bank to the mouth of Chocickewick Brook. In this stretch the two North Andover sanitary sewers will be intercepted along with industrial wastes which may be accommodated in the existing sewers.

"At the mouth of Chocickewick Brook, after the last outfall sewer is intercepted, the 7-foot semi-elliptical section will discharge into a 60-inch pressure sewer crossing to the north bank of the Merrimack River, there to join with the North Bank interceptor to form the Trunk interceptor leading to the treatment plant. The overall length of the South Bank interceptor, including pressure sewers, will be 1.86 miles."

The treatment plant of Marston street would "consist of racks, influent pumps, grit chambers, carbonation channels, grease floatation and flocculation tanks, primary settling basins, aeration tanks, secondary settling basins, a chlorine contact chamber, affluent pumps, sludge and grease pumps, sludge thickening tanks, vacuum filters with accessory sludge handling equipment and an administration and laboratory building."

An operating personnel of 70 persons would be required at the Lawrence plant.

The report discusses the trunk sewer plan at length, but recommends the regional treatment plan as it is better adapted for future growth and it is the cheaper plan.

this drive Reading compiled four first downs, but was halted by a strong Punchard goal line stand. Andover took over and immediately punted out of danger and Reading's Charles Doucette ran back to the Punchard 11, but again the home club was halted.

Punchard again scored in the early stages of the fourth quarter when Deveaux raced from the Reading 40 around left end to the 10. As he was about to be tackled he lateralled to teammate Ray Collins who carried the ball into the promised land. Collins hit the center from the one yard line to give Andover a 14 to 0 lead.

Punchard again tallied for the final touchdown when Dwyer hurled a pass from the Reading 14 into the waiting arms of Clark Otis. The attempted conversion was blocked. Punchard 20, Reading 0.

P.A. Rallies To Win 13-7 At Cambridge

Andover Academy's grid warriors had to come from behind to win over the Harvard Freshmen 13-7 at Cambridge Saturday.

Trailing 7-0 at the half, Coach Steve Sorota's 1948 team put up a stubborn defense to stave off Crimson surges in the third period and after halting a Harvard march, made its first score. The tally came when Pete Gardere galloped 33 yards around right end, and Berkowitz converted to even the score.

P. A.'s rigid defense halted the Crimson Cubs at the Andover 19-yard line and seven plays later Dick Collins carried the ball over from the 10-yard line.

Harvard predominated the first half and Bob Ray climaxed a second quarter drive by bucking for a touchdown, following a 32-yard run.

Basketball League To Open in November

The Inter-Church Basketball League will open its season the first week of November, according to plans made at its meeting Friday night. Henry J. Dolan presided.

Representatives were present from the South, Free Christian, Andover Baptist, St. Augustine's, West Parish and Christ churches.

There will be three classifications, juniors, intermediates and seniors. The junior section will be up to the age group of 13; the intermediate group from 13 to 15 and the seniors, 16 years of age.

Upon reaching the age of sixteen during the basketball season, a boy may go to the senior age group if he so desires. If he wishes, he may stay with the intermediates; however, he can only be with one group, the intermediates or the seniors. This policy also includes the juniors.

The next meeting of the church league will be held Friday, October 22, when new officers will be elected.

Kentucky is excelled only by North Carolina in the culture of fine tobacco.

Pastor Describes Duties As Chaplain

At a meeting of the Senior Women's Union of the West Parish church recently, the Rev. John G. Gaskill, pastor of the church, related some of his experiences as chaplain of the 127th Evacuation hospital.

He told of his duties as chaplain at the Dachau concentration camp, which his unit entered the day after its capture by the American forces, and also described visiting some of the famous cathedrals of Europe, including that of Rouen shortly after it had been bombed.

The meeting of the Union was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gaskill on Lowell street. The Rev. John Dugid, president, was in the chair.

During the business meeting, Mrs. Charles Newton, Mrs. Annie Thomes, Mrs. John Brodhead and Miss Louise Kelsey were appointed to act as a nominating committee to bring in a slate of officers at the next meeting. Plans were also made for a supper to be held Wednesday, October 21, in the Grange hall.

Following the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Earl Slate.

Community Chest Goal Here $18,430

ed for 13 Red Feather services. Andover is asked to raise $18,430. of this amount.

"Computed in volume of service, it is the cheapest value the men, women and children of Andover can buy for their own good. Every worker and every potential giver will agree that no price tag shows the human value of treatment for a child needing immediate medical care—nor that of providing care and foster homes for helpless and neglected children—nor that of the lowered rate of delinquency made possible by our youth agencies.

"The people of Andover can be proud of their generosity in helping to make the Chest drive a success last year. I feel confident that they will once again demonstrate their belief in the work of the 13 chest agencies by giving generously of their time and money to make this community project a success.

"If we fail to raise our goal in Andover, it means a curtailment of essential services—and this is unthinkable. I believe Andover will rebound and will see to it that we meet our goal on November 1."

SCHOOL GUILD TEA
The Catholic School Guild will have a tea Sunday afternoon, October 17, from 3 to 5 o'clock in St. Augustine's school hall. The committee in charge has planned that the first hour be devoted to the tea to be followed by a social hour with the sisters.
All mothers are invited to attend.

Veterans Receive Data From Housing Chairman

that the Andover Country club had been obtained for the banquet to be held Saturday night, November 13.

The sum of $25 was voted for the welfare fund.

After a few remarks, following his introduction by Commander Sherman, Atty. O'Brien spoke as follows:

To get down for business:

Andover has voted to adopt Chapter 200 for veterans housing. It is very important that you keep this clearly in mind. Four different laws govern housing, but Andover has accepted only Chapter 200.

The Federal law on low income housing came into being in the 1930's. For instance, under this, Lawrence set up a Housing Authority and built housing on the upper part of Essex Street.

Emergency temporary housing was authorized by a Massachusetts law right after the war. Under this, certain barracks-type housing was built in several communities.

The next bill was the so-called Chapter 372 which went into effect May 23, 1946. This is the law under which Lawrence and Salem and many other communities have built.

The final bill—which is the only bill under which your Housing Authority is entitled to act is Chapter 200—enacted April 6, 1948.

Question one—why is Chapter 200 the only one your Authority can work on? The special town meeting was called last May or June for this Housing vote. The vote of the special Town Meeting gave the selectmen power to act under Chapter 200. No power has ever been voted under Chapter 372. When your Housing Authority was appointed its only power was to act under Chapter 200.

Why am I so insistent that you realize we have power only under Chapter 200? To answer that let me compare Chapter 372 and Chapter 200.

1. Chapter 372 started in 1946 while Chapter 200 began in 1948.

2. Housing authorities set up under Chapter 372 had been organized and operating two years before they took on Chapter 200. Authorities operating under Chapter 200 only, were organized during the summer of 1948 and are still suffering birth pains. Those operating under both laws are more long-established.

3. Under Chapter 372 the City or town appropriates the money for the project. Under Chapter 200 the State guarantees your bonds and mortgages but neither the State nor the town appropriates any sizable sum. The town voted us $500. Salem voted Mr. Miller who addressed you recently, $515,000 under Chapter 372.

This question about where the money comes from is important. He who controls the purse strings runs the show. Under Chapter 200 the State guarantees the bonds so the State controls every movement made under that law. Nothing can be done without long hours of conference with the State—and even their rules change every time you try to get an answer. Under Chapter 273 when the town appropriates the money things move much more quickly and the local Board has some real power to get things done.

4. Under Chapter 372 single and duplex houses can be built. Under Chapter 200 probably only multiple housing can be built. I say "probably" because even the State Board is not yet positive about this.

5. Under Chapter 372 the veteran's rent is used to cut down the city's investment and after five years the houses are to be put up for sale. The rent for a single or half of a duplex might run $65 to $75 a month minimum. Under Chapter 200 the rent covers light, heat, water, rent, taxes and interest and may run $40 to $50 a month. Chapter 372 veterans pay for their utilities and heat separately.

A. Chapter 200 houses will probably be permanently kept under an authority although the law

Baked "Cape Cod Turkey"

EASY TO COOK—ECONOMICAL TO SERVE

Pound for pound of hearty, body-building protein, fish is a better buy—especially when you choose cod called "Cape Cod Turkey" because of its savory goodness, or haddock, the favorite of all New England fish-lovers!

Bake or roast the whole cod or haddock . . . filled with your favorite stuffing, or simply seasoned with sprigs of parsley and a lump of butter inside. It's easy, if you just follow these simple rules.

Remember: fish is known by nutritionists as a "complete protein" with the plus of necessary amino acids, vitamins and minerals, including iodine, which nutrition authorities urge everyone to obtain. Get your share and enjoy a Cape Cod Turkey feast today—or tomorrow.

"CAPE COD TURKEY" WITH SAVORY STUFFING

Select a 4-pound fish, head and tail left on, cleaned and prepared for baking. Wipe fish with damp cloth and rub with seasoning mixture inside and out. Stuff with Savory Stuffing and sew together or fasten with skewers. Put a few gashes on top of fish and place strips of salt pork or bacon in gashes.

Preheat oven to 400° F. and oil the baking pan well. Place an oiled cheesecloth on pan and lay fish on it. Brush fish with salad oil or butter and bake 9 minutes per pound (if head is left on); 12 minutes per pound (if head is off).

When fish is done, remove to platter by lifting it in cheesecloth. Serve with lemon or lime wedges, garnish with parsley. Serves 4 to 6.

Savory Stuffing: Mix together 1 cup bread crumbs, ½ cup melted butter or margarine, ½ cup hot water, ¼ tsp. salt, ½ tsp. sage, ½ onion minced, ½ tsp. pepper.

at present calls for their sale after 26 years.

To sum it up: Chapter 200 is brand new and the houses built under it will in all probability be multiple units of brick construction for rental only at the lowest possible rent. Chapter 372 is much older and houses built under it are single family or duplex type, wood, will be sold in five years and rent for roughly twice to 2½ times the rent of Chapter 200 housing.

So much for the difference in the law. Let me now take up Mr. Harry Miller who spoke to many of you on October 1. Mr. Miller is the chairman of the Salem, Mass. authority. The information I have on Mr. Miller's speech I have taken from the Tribune of October 5. I assume that the Tribune has reported the talk accurately.

The information I have about the situation in Salem is the result of a conference I had with the Mayor of Salem and the secretary of their Housing Authority this morning. This also, I assume is accurate.

Under Chapter 372 Salem has appropriated $515,000. To date they have converted 16 houses from single family to three family houses and they have built 3 duplex houses. They also remodelled a city-owned house (like Andover's Shaw property on Main street) into a three family unit. The total housing provided is 54 family units. Comparing the relative sizes of Salem and Andover, your selectmen and Frank Markey did the same thing without Chapter 372 when they remodelled the Shaw property.

Mr. Miller pointed out one thing which you must keep in mind—Salem has not yet produced a house, or a foundation, or even a plan of a house under Chapter 200, other words Salem, which started 200 over a month and a half before we did—and with a group all organized and already accredited by the State, has progressed little further than Andover which took on the job green in June of 1948.

I am not blaming Mr. Miller or his Authority in Salem for not producing houses yet under Chapter 200. Not one city or town in the whole state has been able to do as much as turn a sod under Chapter 200 yet. Why the delay?

1. The first reason is the red tape which Mr. Miller said any but an apathetic group would easily cut. I don't know Mr. Miller, but his speech wasn't apathetic—yet he hasn't been able to get through it.

2. The paper work is enormous. Mr. Miller has a whole paid full-time staff, yet he is not ready to begin to build.

3. The theory of Chapter 200 is permanent housing well planned for the best housing of you gentlemen for your whole lives is necessary. The theory of 372 calls for quicker, shorter lived housing.

4. The mayor and the secretary tell me Salem cannot start to build under 200 until the spring. Much as your Authority would like to have housing for you now, it has had to face the realization that no housing under Chapter 200 can be started until the spring also.

Enough for explaining: Now to our plans for Andover: Sites have already been picked. They are excellent in the opinion of the authority and have been approved by an official of the State. The type of housing selected by your Authority as supplying you with the best housing, at smallest cost is the so-called garden type where each family has its own entrance and there are no common hallways. It must be noted that Mr. Miller who spoke so highly of the cheaper cost of single units and how the veterans prefer single dwellings, has requested the same type of dwellings as your own authority has requested.

What have we done besides decide on the location and type of housing? We have finished the so-called part one of the application to the State. We have analyzed the 99 questionnaires which were returned to the Authority by the veterans. We have interviewed architects and shortly will choose one to draft the plans.

Your Authority has met approximately twenty times. It has made eight or nine trips to Boston for long, drawn out conferences with the State Board. It has received all possible cooperation from the officials and selectmen of Andover in completing the tremendous material required by the State.

In finishing let me tell you that the veterans of Andover will be housed in as good or better dwellings, as soon or sooner than those of any place north of Boston acting under Chapter 200.

JUNIOR HIGH

By JANET THOMPSON

ASSEMBLIES

During the last period Thursday, October 7, a combined assembly was held on Fire prevention. Mr. Nelson of the Junior High introduced Fire Chief C. Edward Buchanan of the Andover Fire department. Chief Buchanan then introduced George E. Haselton of the Merrimack Fire Insurance Company of Andover, who in turn presented the chief speaker to the assembly, Mr. Butler of the Fire prevention organization of New England. Mr. Butler demonstrated the common fire hazards, particularly those caused by rubbish, electrical appliances, gasoline, and other cleaning fluids.

The assembly Friday was in charge of Miss Evelyn Parker of the Business department. She introduced Louis Finger of the Andover Savings Bank, who talked about thrift. Mr. Finger stressed the importance of learning to save while very young. He demonstrated posters from various foreign countries, which showed that children there are taught thrift, also.

Religious Education

Religious education classes began last Wednesday during the seventh period. Those taking Religious Education went to their various churches for instruction. Student Council Student Council meetings are held during seventh period Mondays, in which the various problems of the school are discussed.

Banking

Last Tuesday was the school's first banking day, and seventy-seven pupils deposited their money, which amounted to $98.05.

English Conference

This weekend, the English teachers of the Junior High faculty, Miss Beatrice Stevens, Miss Anni Angelo, Miss Nancy Hird, and Miss Katherine Sweeney, will attend an English Conference at the Normal School, Keene, N. H.

Home Economics Conference

Miss Angie Dantos of the Home Economics department, attended a Home Economics conference in Swampscott during the past weekend.

Sports

The first boys' intramural soccer games were played last Tuesday, with eighty-four boys participating. The Reds defeated the Greens, 2-0, and the Golds defeated the Blues, 1-0.

Thirty-nine girls reported to Miss Collins last Tuesday for intramural soccer. Because so few reported to the Gold, Blue, and Red teams, their games were forfeited, and the Greens, with nineteen girls on the team, were given the victory.

The girls on the teams are as follows:

Greens—Capt. Judy Maddock, Betty MacMillan, Janet Valentine, Betty Horn, Jean Farrell, Barbara Wright, Carol Valentine, Gail Thompson, Earline Goff, Patricia Sanborn, Ann Smith, Ann Sutherland, Barbara Williams, Maxine Wainwright, Olga Sarkisian, Leslie Westfall, Shirley Plegg, Maureen Darby and Claire Van Copenalle.

Golds—Capt. Eileen Skeirik, Eva DeAngelo, Edith Doherty, Marie Cote, Arlene Pariseau, Clara Bassett, Marlon Noss and Marlon Washington.

Blues—Capt. Jean Pearson, Rita Tisbert, Carolyn Erler, Joyce Williams, Ruth Miller and Nancy Norton.

Reds—Capt. Lucille Spinella, Janet Svenson, Sandra Guertin, Priscilla Tompkins, Joan Coneybear and Janet Thompson.

Home-making

In the seventh grade home-making classes, the girls have been studying the basic seven and are labeling their file boxes. They have also been making cocoa, cinnamon toast, and cheese tidbits.

The eighth grade girls have finished cutting their skirts of corduroy, wool, spun rayon, tweed, gabardine, or tropicals, and they are now starting to piece the skirts together.

The girls of the ninth grade home-making classes have completed the canning of the garden specials, grape jellies, jams, and marmalade, grape butter, and tomatoes. They are now studying nutrition.

Uncle Sam Says

Any day soon you may be faced by some real bugaboos if you are not salting away a part of your wages every pay day. Bugaboos can pop up unexpectedly and now is the time to prepare for them. They can hit you in many ways—money needed for your children's education, enough money to retire, or suppose your wife or your children should become sick? The best attack on these bugaboos is to buy U.S. Savings Bonds, week after week, month after month, year after year. So sign up today for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or, if self-employed, for the Bond-a-Month Plan at your bank.

LITERATURE

The Literature Department of the Shawsheen Village Woman's club under the chairmanship of Mrs. Walter Webster, met Wednesday morning at Phillips Inn for their first in a series of book reviews by Mrs. Lewis A. Putnam. Morning coffee was served prior to the meeting.

Antique Department

The Antique Department went on a very interesting historical trip recently to Concord. Among the famous homes that they visited were those of Louisa Alcott, Ralph Waldo Emerson and the Hawthorne House. Here they met Miss Margaret Lothrop, daughter of the author of the "Five Little Peppers" and Miss Lothrop gave a most interesting talk to the group and showed the wedding gown and "Going away" outfit that was worn by her mother and grandmother. There were twenty-five members in the Study group that made the trip and they all enjoyed a luncheon at The Wright Tavern in Concord square. The group climaxed their trip at the Country store.

The Antique Study group is under the chairmanship of Mrs. Edwin L. Bramley.

Their next meeting will be held at the Historical House in Andover November 12 and their speaker will be Mrs. Alexander L. Peckham. Mrs. Peckham is vice-chairman of the State Antique committee and an authority on glass collections. She will bring a number of very interesting goblets with her for an exhibit and her lecture promises to be very fascinating.

Allen and Collins Guests at Luncheon

Senator Philip K. Allen and Rep. J. Everett Collins were among the guests who attended the luncheon given by Governor Robert F. Bradford at the Boston City club last Thursday.

The state officials gathered at the City Club from all over the Commonwealth to hear their chief executive praise them for the unity they are showing in supporting the entire Republican state ticket in the coming election.

The governor predicted victory in November for the nominees of the party—but warned the assembled group against over confidence.

Lieut. Governor Arthur W. Coolidge and State Treasurer Lawrence W. Curtis also attended the luncheon.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

YOUR HELP IS NEEDED!

When the Community Chest asks you to make your annual contribution, how much are you going to give?

If you realize fully how much the Red Feather agencies do for the community, and how much they depend on everybody's help to make it possible for them to do their work, there can be only one answer to that question. You will give, of course, just as much as you possibly can. And, if you even add a little to that sum you probably won't hurt yourself, and you will be putting your money where it will do a lot of good.

Thirteen Red Feather agencies serve the Andover community. What if each of them had its own separate drive, and you were called upon to give to each? That's the way it was once, and it was costly. It was costly to the contributors, and to the agencies, too, because under that setup they are not able to do the fine work that, with better organization and support, they are doing today.

Be generous when the Red Feather visitor comes to your house. He, or she, will be there between October 18 and November 1. And, if by chance, nobody happens to call on you, that doesn't mean that you need not give. That won't happen very often, but if it does in your case won't you send your contribution in?

OUR STATE PRISON

The series of articles that State Senator Philip K. Allen is writing for The Townsman have proved very enlightening. Here is a man writing of subjects about which he is very well informed, and for a reading public who have, or should have, a great deal of interest in them.

Last week he described the "archaic institution" at Charlestown which is familiarly known as the State Prison. It is, as he explained, an old plant which has been in operation since 1805. In 1878, because it was overcrowded, it was temporarily abandoned and the inmates were moved to the new State Prison at Concord. But soon the "new" State Prison became a Reformatory, and the old place, somewhat remodelled, to be sure, was reoccupied.

"At the present moment," his article states, "there is no plumbing system in a majority of the cells — the bucket system is still in use. There are no dining facilities, and the inmates, after getting their food from the cafeteria, eat in their cells."

We do not believe prisoners should be pampered, but certainly they should be treated like human beings. Are people who live under the above described conditions treated as if they belonged to the human race? The present prison population is 600.

Happily, plans have been prepared for a new State Prison — as Senator Allen points out — and bids will let this fall. Nothing should be allowed to curb this forward step in a place which, for many years, forward steps, apparently, have been few and far between.

WHAT TIME IS IT?

Nowadays, there isn't anything very complicated about the time of day. Most of the year the country runs on Standard Time, and during the summer a large section of it moves the hands ahead an hour and switches to Daylight Saving Time. As we cross the nation, the time zones change at established intervals, and in all cases the change is one hour. It's simple enough.

But it wasn't always that way — and it might not be that way yet if it hadn't been for the railroads. Sixty-five years ago Standard Time didn't exist. Every town had its own time, and so, even, did many business concerns. Railroad stations held a confusing series of clocks — each line used the time in effect where its home office was located.

The railroads realized that something had to be done to bring order out of this chaos. The hundreds of different times in effect throughout the country were a constant and growing headache. The movement to standardize time began in 1872. And eleven years later, November 18, 1883, every railroad clock was stopped at a given hour. When they started again, Standard Time, with its four time zones, was a going concern in the United States. It was gradually accepted by the people, and 35 years later Congress recognized Standard Time and made it official. The railroads had foreseen an important national need, and through voluntary agreements they furnished a workable solution.

American workers are increasing, say investigators at Northwestern University, and by the year 2000, they predict, the employment of men and women over 45 years of age will be a major problem. That'll be the day when there'll be many a wish "for the good old days of 1948."

Cecil B. DeMille, in a newspaper article, tells why he has put a bathtub in many of his films. But it was not the reason you think. It was not to keep them clean.

One hundred thousand new pamphlets describing the Bay State's year-round vacation advantages are being distributed by the Massachusetts Development and Industrial Commission. No question about this state's supremacy as vacation land, and it is every bit as good a place to live in and work in month in and month out, also.

According to provisional estimates, the population of the country is now above 146,000,000, an increase of 11 percent in eight years. And that boost can't be blamed on inflation.

Is there a week in the year which is not a "Week" for something or other?

ly trying to get precisely what they want, what will work to their advantage in order to further their fixed intention of gaining more power. Let us examine Russia's idea of control, for if there are those who will claim that Russia shouldn't be judged uncharitably, that her intentions are honest but clumsy, perhaps the record will suggest that charity had better begin at home, a charity of self-enlightenment.

Baruch Plan

The so-called Baruch plan for international control of atomic energy was proposed in June 1946. Its intentions were clear then, they are still clear. First, atomic energy with its vast powers of destruction must be internationally controlled with adequate safeguards. Then, existing supplies of atomic weapons must be destroyed and the manufacture of them discontinued completely. In short, first find proper control so that no one nation can get the advantage over any other, then eliminate atomic weapons.

Control A La Russe

International control means just what it says. The Authority to be set up must have free access to inspect everywhere, to penetrate all boundaries, and very clearly the force to make its decisions honored. But the Russian counter-proposals have always denounced any international control that could step across Soviet borders. Gromyko, Soviet member of the Atomic Energy Commission, insisted in June and July 1946 that first existing stockpiles be destroyed. Then, and only then, should measures for control be discussed. That may sound reasonable, but observe the snare. After the Americans have destroyed their bomb, Russia will be ready to discuss methods of control, giving her time to develop her own.

"Efforts made to undermine the activity of the Security Council, including efforts directed to undermine the unanimity of the members of the Security Council . . . are incompatible with the interests of the United Nations." Translation of this diplomatic verbiage is simply: the Security Council must take over the problem, and each member has the right to veto any of its proposals. So, the American bomb destroyed, Russia could go on vetoing proposals for international control. And then they've got what they wanted. Gromyko stood by his guns and repeated the same argument in February and March 1947. And so the discussion has gone on since.

The Same Old Wolf?

Less than two weeks ago Vishinsky came up with the proposal that caught some people off guard. "Why not raise our hands and stop the production of atomic weapons? . . . Why not decide that selfishness will not occur?" Then he implied that America wasn't the only nation with the bomb. Having scared those who jumped to the conclusion that Russia had one, he let the suggestion sink in over night and then proposed — from Russia — that the Atomic Energy Commission proceed to draw up a plan whereby the prohibition of atomic weapons and international control be put into operation simultaneously.

Is this really a "chink in the wall"? Is the veto to be eliminated? Such has yet to be demonstrated. Until it is, the rest is talk and little else, words spun around with frills that fail to change the real purpose. And remember that three weeks ago Vishinsky proposed that nations within one year reduce their military forces by one third. That sounds fine, if we forget that Russia probably has 5,000,000 troops under arms. Is there any method of guaranteeing that Russia would carry out her part of the bargain? For the real joker in the Russian proposals is that we are asked to make these arrangements without there being any kind of international police force to supervise atomic and military disarmament. And what must never be forgotten is the question that should be applied to all Russian suggestions: Are we convinced of her honest intentions and good will? Has she demonstrated either? If we are thinking of buying Vishinsky's proposition we'd better not be fooled by the label on the package. The old warning still stands. Let the buyer beware.

Charles G. Dawes, late Vice President, was the first director of the U. S. Bureau of the Budget.

MEET —

JOHN H. GRECOE

Believed to be one of the youngest veterans of World War I in this area, John H. Grecoe, retail jeweler and optician, owns one of the finest small-town jewelry stores in the United States. This business has grown from the tiny shop which occupied the space between the original Hill Hardware store and Miller's Shoe store at 41 Main street, to its present impressive position in the short space of years.

Born in Cambridge, Mass., where he attended the public schools, Mr. Grecoe graduated from the Bradley Polytechnic Institute in Peoria, Ill., and worked for the largest importers of Swiss watches in New England, specializing in repairing of the delicate watches. In the five years prior to his moving to Andover in 1934, Mr. Grecoe was the manager of the jewelry repair departments in several Boston stores and in St. Johnsbury, Vt.

In connection with his profession, Mr. Grecoe has been the sponsor of 51 young men who also desired to become proficient in this field and all of these men are now either gainfully employed in this line or are operating successful businesses of their own, an achievement of which he can be justly proud.

An outstanding athlete in High school and college, he is an active member of Kiwanis, American Legion, V.F.W., Forty and Eight and the St. Augustine's Men's club.

Mr. and Mrs. Grecoe and their five children, three boys and two girls, live at 17 Florence street.

By SEN. PHILIP K. ALLEN

The Department of Industrial Accidents is another one of the twenty departments which is comparatively little known, but which is performing a difficult and complicated job. Its primary function is the enforcement of the Workmen's Compensation Act. The Department itself is managed by the Industrial Accident board, made up of nine members appointed by the Governor and approved by the Council to serve five year terms at $7,000. The Chairman of the board receiving $7,500. Under this board are a secretary, ten field inspectors, a medical advisor (a position unfilled at the moment), and the Division of Self-Insurance.

There are two factors to take into consideration in any study of this department. One is that payment of workmen's compensation is compulsory for employers of four or more employees, including charitable institutions, which latter are compelled to provide workmen's compensation for laborers, workmen and mechanics.

The second factor is that the employer pays the premiums at rates approved by the Commissioner of Insurance and the employee pays nothing.

The way the department functions is, roughly, this: Every employer reports every injury no matter how minor to the department as well as to his insurance company. An inspector then is dispatched to investigate the case and to determine the status of the individual involved, both as to the facts of the injury, the treatment, and the dependency status, if any. He then makes his report to the Chief Inspector. If the case is clear-cut, for example, a fatal injury in line of duty, the insurance company by mutual agreement with the widow or dependents agrees to pay the amounts required by law. If, on the other hand, the case is not clear-cut, the widow, or dependent, files claim for compensation with the Industrial Accident board and requests a hearing.

One member of the board hears the case and makes findings of fact and rulings of law where necessary. If either party is aggrieved with his decision he may request a review by the Reviewing board of not less than three members. If either party is aggrieved with the decision of the Reviewing board, he may certify the matter before the Superior court which must enter a decree in accordance with law. Thereafter, further appeals may be made from the Superior to the Supreme Judicial court where the opinion is final. This decision is applicable to all cases, including death.

Some idea of the magnitude of this task may be had when one realizes that there are approximately 400 fatal cases in Massachusetts every year and that in 1944 during the peak of wartime production there were 395,000 reported injuries.

Under the Workmen's Compensation Act which has been in existence since 1912, benefits are based upon the following disabilities: (1) temporary total disability; (2) temporary partial disability; (3) permanent and total disability; (4) specific disability for loss of fingers, hands, toes, feet, and eyes; (5) dependency for death; (6) dependency during disability period. As a general statement, the basis of disability compensation is the average weekly wage at the time of injury.

Under temporary total disability, the injured employee receives a weekly compensation not to exceed $25, nor less than $18 and not in the aggregate to exceed $10,000.

Under the temporary partial disability, the injured employee receives the actual difference between partial earnings and average weekly wages, not to exceed $25 a week and not in the aggregate to exceed $10,000.

Under permanent and total disability, the injured employee after his grants have totaled $10,000, gets one-half the average weekly wages, not to exceed $25 a week for life or during the continuance of his permanent and total disability.

If the employee has a specific injury, that is loss of one or more of his fingers, hands, toes, feet, or eyes, in addition to his disability compensation whether it is temporary total, temporary partial, or permanent total, he gets certain scheduled sums per week for specific periods of weeks depending on the nature and degree of loss.

Under the death benefits, the widow receives $15 a week for life if she does not remarry. A dependent child under 18 receives $5 a week until the age of 18, and a child over 18 who is incapacitated from earning receives $5 a week for life unless the disability is removed.

In addition to all the above an injured employee receives $2.50 a week for his wife and each child under 18. Furthermore he is entitled to hospital bills, physician fees, and medicines. These charges and fees are proscribed by the Industrial Accident board, although the hospital and physician may be of the employee's choice.

Some idea of the amount involved under the workmen's compensation act is that on the average each year $20,000,000 is paid by insurance companies in Massachusetts in money and medical benefits to injured employees and for dependents.

There are, of course, some employers who do not want to insure their employees with an insurance company. Those which after investigation are found by the Industrial Accident board to be financially able to pay workmen's compensation out of their reserves are licensed to self-insure. This is handled by the Division of Self-Insurance within the Industrial Accident department. There are at Announcement is made of a gift of $30,000 for a new dormitory at Phillips Academy, Melville C. Day of New York, class of 1853, is the donor. Mr. Day previously had given two dormitories, Taylor and Bancroft.

From all parts of the town come reports of a new crop of raspberries. It was one of the latest crops known and many pickers were keeping busy, according to the Townsman of half a century ago.

Punchard Elms, residence of J. Warren Barnard, is being greatly improved by the widening of the piazza and the repairing of the fence. It was also expected that the place would be given a new coat of paint.

Marriage takes place of Arthur Boutwell, son of Selectmen Samuel H. Boutwell, and Susan N. Moulton, at Oswego, N. Y.

Mrs. William Walworth purchases the Wilbur block on Maple street.

"For some time," we say, "complaints have been uttered about town to the effect that local letters and especially postal cards were delayed in their delivery. This morning Postmaster Bliss' attention was called to a postal card which was deposited in a box on Wednesday afternoon and not delivered until Thursday at 6 p. m. The postmaster says it is the first time he has received any complaints and requests that in the future he would like all complaints to be made directly to him."

The semi-annual conference of the Andover Conference is held at the South Congregational church. The Rev. Frank R. Shipman, pastor of the church, calls the delegates to order. John C. Brewster is elected moderator. About 100 feet of the Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill tracks have been moved to the east side of North Main street from the railroad bridge.

25 Years Ago — October, 1923

Pay Rolls Higher During August

Average Weekly Wage Here Up To $55.13, Report Shows

Employment and pay roll earnings in the principal manufacturing industries of Andover showed a decided increase in August as compared to the month of July, according to the statistics compiled by the Department of Labor and Industries.

This trend was general through the state, the department reported, with an increase of 9715 workers and an increase of $850,034 in the amount of weekly payrolls.

The department canvasses about 2000 manufacturers each month and it is believed that these returns indicate quite accurately the trends of employment and earnings in all manufacturing throughout the state.

Nine establishments of Andover reported for the week ending August 15 a total of 3483 wage earners received $192,007 in total wages paid, which was a weekly average of $55.13. These figures showed increases of 1.3 in employment, 4.2 in total wages paid, and 2.8 in average weekly earnings.

Abbot Notes...

Using his topic "The Large Nations and the Small Democracies", Andre Michalopoulos will address the students and faculty of Abbot Academy Saturday evening, October 16, at 8:00 o'clock. The lecture will take place in Davis Hall and the public is invited to attend. Mr. Michalopoulos was onetime member of the Greek War cabinet in London and former Greek Minister of Information for his country in America. During World War II he was entrusted by his Government with the short-wave English and French war information broadcasting. Mr. Michalopoulos will make an analysis of the political and economic relationships between the great and smaller nations of the Western Democratic family, showing how the decisions of the great powers and particularly the United States affects the daily life of the ordinary people in every democratic country.

This week, the campus was divided into two teams for the year's competition between the Gargoyles and Griffins. New girls will take on their permanent emblems in a colorful ceremony today, some wearing the orange and green, and others the orange and black for Gargoyle or Griffin respectively. Miss Hearsay will address the school at the close of the ceremony. Competitive playing will start next week in field hockey and basketball.

Wednesday evening of this week the school had the pleasure of hearing the Hon. Philip K. Allen speak on several aspects of our democratic form of government. The address was followed by a discussion of some of the issues of the day. Sen. Allen is a trustee of Abbot and his daughter, Miss Nancy B. Allen, is a member of the Preparatory class at Abbot.

Sunday evening vespers will be led by the Rev. A. Graham Baldwin of Phillips Academy.

ART

Every Friday a group of artistically inclined students spend a period in the art room, and with the aid of Miss Frances Dalton bring forth some very surprising results. A plan of study for the coming year has been worked out by Miss Dalton, covering a large field.

The first assignment is a creative composition in water color of the mythological "River Styx." These are already underway, and a variety of interpretations are being painted.

After Christmas anatomical study of the head, neck, and shoulders will be taken up, followed by a pencil portrait.

In March the classes will study paintings; Italian, Spanish and French for technique, composition and style.

A figure composition will follow this, using pen and ink conte crayon or water color.

During the last term the "artists" will make contour and gesture drawings. The last assignment will be an Andover street scene, with special attention to perspective.

Assembly

You can prevent a fire in your home! Last Thursday afternoon, a combined assembly was held with the Junior High school in the auditorium. The subject was fire hazards. Fire Chief C. Edward Buchan introduced George E. Haselton of Smart and Flag Insurance Agency. Mr. Haselton said that it was National Fire Prevention week, and that he hoped with the help of Mr. G. Butler, the speaker of the afternoon, we could make every week fire prevention week. He then introduced Mr. Butler, who has been touring New England, to speak on fire prevention.

Mr. Butler told the students that $700,000,000 dollars worth of damage had been done in the past year and 11,000 lives were lost. He gave some startling demonstrations of overloading wires and other household hazards, and left the audience with the thought that, "Fire prevention costs nothing and is your own individual responsibility."

Presidential Series Interests P.A. Students

Widespread interest is being shown by Phillips Academy students in the program of presenting each Wednesday the cases for the 1948 presidential candidates. Established by Frederick S. Allis, Jr., of the History department this series has already presented some of the so-called "Splinter Parties" such as the Vegetarians, the Prohibitionists and the Greenbacks.

Last week William H. Harding of the faculty presented the case for Thomas E. Dewey and the Republicans. This week Howard Johnson of Phillips Exeter Academy presented the case for President Harry S. Truman and the Democrats.

On following Wednesdays Miles S. Malone, also of the Andover History department, and a native of Alabama, will speak in support of Governor J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, and his Dixiecrats, and the Rev. A. C. B. Murphy of Lawrence will speak in behalf of Henry Wallace and the Progressive Party.

First D.A.R. Meeting To Be Held Sunday

The Priscilla Abbot chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will hold its first meeting of the year Tuesday, October 19th at 2:00 o'clock in the Andover Historical house on Main street.

A member of the Massachusetts D. A. R. board will be the speaker of the afternoon. Refreshments will be served by Mrs. George Glennie, chairman, Mrs. Guy Howe, Mrs. Henry Stevenson, and Mrs. John M. Murray.

Mrs. Guy Howe, regent of the Andover chapter, extends a cordial invitation to all women who are interested in joining this patriotic organization, to attend the meeting.

Library

The Goldsmith Library in Punchard, which was named for William G. Goldsmith a former principal of the school, recently received a large gift of books, covering all fields: science, literature, hobbies, sports and many others. The cataloguing of these books has been under way for some time and will soon be completed. The students will then have available to them these books, for use in class work as well as their own personal enjoyment.

Magazines

That all school work does not come out of a school book is evident from the fact that many students are taking subscriptions to the Reader's Digest, Coronet, or the Atlantic Monthly, through the school. These magazines will be used in connection with English work.

Photo of Local Girls In British Newspaper

In the September 3rd edition of the Andover, England, Advertiser, just received by Miss Harriet Schofield of 11 Tewksbury street, Ballardvale, there appeared a photo of the three local girls who visited there last summer.

Besides the Misses Ruth Leitch, Judy and Virginia Hardy, there also appeared in the photo G. D. Young and Mrs. U. Sainsbury who entertained the visitors while they were there.

ADULT MOVIE PROGRAM

Wednesday evening, October 20, there will be a film hour at the Memorial Hall Library for the general public, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Films to be shown are "Tall Tales" (a musical number) "Football Parade of the Year 1947," "Wing, Claw and Fang," "Fish-Hook Sequence from Captains Courageous" and a film on the United Nations. All are welcome.

You are interested in the baseball situation. You will find special articles by Harold Kaese and Roger Birtwell in the Boston Globe every day. Make the Globe your Boston newspaper. (Adv.)

WEDDINGS...

CRONIN—LEACH

At an impressive ceremony in St. Augustine's church, Sunday, September 26, Miss Mary I. Leach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Leach of North Andover, became the bride of Joseph F. Cronin, son of Mrs. Margaret M. Cronin of Lawrence. The Rev. Matthew F. McDonald, O.S.A., officiated at the 4 o'clock ceremony and Miss Eleanor King of Lowell, friend of the bride, sang "Ave Maria" and "Mother At Thy Feet is Kneeling."

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a gown of white satin cut in princess style with lace inserts and yoke which formed a high neckline and extended over the shoulder to become part of the sleeve. Her finger tip veil of illusion bordered in white satin was attached to a wreath of baby orchids and orange blossoms and her bouquet was composed of white gladioli with an orchid center.

Mrs. Joseph Gaudette, who attended her sister as matron of honor, chose a satin gown in honey beige designed in an off-the-shoulder effect. The hoop skirt, draped to form a bustle, was accented with blue flowers which matched the flowers of her wreath and her arm bouquet was of mixed gladioli and sweet peas.

William P. Cronin, brother of the groom, was best man and the ushers were Leonard Leach, cousin of the bride, and Louis L. Rivet, brother-in-law of the groom.

Mrs. Roger Leach, the bride's mother, wore a royal blue dress with black hat and accessories. She had a shoulder corsage of red rose buds centered in white gladioli.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Margaret M. Cronin, wore an orchid corsage on her royal blue ensemble with which she wore a matching hat and white accessories.

Included among the guests at the reception in Legion hall, North Andover, were friends from Boston, Exeter, N. H., Ithaca, N. Y., and Louisville, Ky.

The bride, a graduate of Lawrence High school, has been employed in Andover and her husband, also a graduate of Lawrence High school and of Coyne Electrical Institute, is a veteran and a member of the Naval Reserve. He is now employed as a salesman.

They will live in Lawrence when they return from a wedding trip to New York, Washington and Kentucky.

NELSON—DRAPER

At a 4 o'clock ceremony, Saturday, October 9, in the South Congregational church, Miss Glenna Faye Draper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Draper of 27 Bartlett street became the bride of Richard Adrian Nelson, son of Mrs. Myrtle Nelson of 66 Vine street, Saugus, the Rev. Frederick B. Noss, officiating.

Miss Marlon Abbott, organist, played the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mervin Stevens, as he sang "Because," "Still as the Night" and "O, Perfect Love."

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a fitted white satin gown with a square neckline and carried a crescent of stephanotis and white roses.

The attendants, all sisters of the bride, were Margaret Draper of Washington, D. C., maid of honor, and Joan and Jane Draper, bridesmaids. Their velvet gowns were styled alike with an off-the-shoulder effect, the honor attendant's in rust and the bridesmaids' in peacock blue. They carried crescents of mixed pom pom chrysanthemums and wore matching plumes in their hair.

Everett Nelson of Saugus was best man for his brother and the ushers were Nathaniel Edmunds of Lynn and A. Melcher Anderson of Schenectady, N. Y.

Among the guests who attended the reception in the church vestry were friends and relatives from Orono, Me., Glastonbury, Conn., Rochester, N. H., Berlin, N. Y., Waltham and Boston.

The young couple will live in Saugus when they return from a wedding trip to Maine and New Hampshire.

STILLMAN—HEYL

The wedding of Miss Adelaide C. Heyl, daughter of Mrs. William C. Heyl and the late Mr. Heyl of 32 Prospect terrace, East Orange, N. J., to Lewis M. Stillman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howell M. Stillman of Morton street, took place Saturday evening, October 2, in Christ church, Short Hills, N. J. The 8 o'clock ceremony was performed by the Rev. Robert F. Beattie, rector of the church.

Given in marriage by her brother, Captain Rodney W. Heyl, U.S.A.A.F., stationed at Albany, Ga., the bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. William J. Stillman of Glen Ridge, N. J., as matron of honor and Alice J. Burton of Summit, N. J., as maid of honor.

James H. Prentice of New York City was best man and the ushers were William J. Stillman of Glen Ridge, N. J., and Frederick E. List of Upper Montclair, N. J., brother and brother-in-law, respectively, of the bridegroom.

Burnett Andrews, organist of St. Peter's church of Morristown, N. J., played the wedding music.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. When Mr. and Mrs. Stillman return from a trip to Nantucket, they will live on Beacon Hill, Boston, where Mr. Stillman will begin his law practice.

FINNEGAN—SHEEHY

A reception at Hibernian hall in Lawrence, followed the wedding of Miss Catherine A. Sheehy, daughter of Mrs. Mary A. Sheehy of Argilla road and John F. Finnegan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Abbot Notes...

Using his topic "The Large Nations and the Small Democracies", Andre Michalopoulos will address the students and faculty of Abbot Academy Saturday evening, October 16, at 8:00 o'clock. The lecture will take place in Davis Hall and the public is invited to attend. Mr. Michalopoulos was onetime member of the Greek War cabinet in London and former Greek Minister of Information for his country in America. During World War II he was entrusted by his Government with the short-wave English and French war information broadcasting. Mr. Michalopoulos will make an analysis of the political and economic relationships between the great and smaller nations of the Western Democratic family, showing how the decisions of the great powers and particularly the United States affects the daily life of the ordinary people in every democratic country.

This week, the campus was divided into two teams for the year's competition between the Gargoyles and Griffins. New girls will take on their permanent emblems in a colorful ceremony today, some wearing the orange and green, and others the orange and black for Gargoyle or Griffin respectively. Miss Hearsey will address the school at the close of the ceremony. Competitive playing will start next week in field hockey and basketball.

Wednesday evening of this week the school had the pleasure of hearing the Hon. Philip K. Allen speak on several aspects of our democratic form of government. The address was followed by a discussion of some of the issues of the day. Sen. Allen is a trustee of Abbot and his daughter, Miss Nancy B. Allen, is a member of the Preparatory class at Abbot.

Sunday evening vespers will be led by the Rev. A. Graham Baldwin of Phillips Academy.

ART

Every Friday a group of artistically inclined students spend a period in the art room, and with the aid of Miss Frances Dalton bring forth some very surprising results. A plan of study for the coming year has been worked out by Miss Dalton, covering a large field.

The first assignment is a creative composition in water color of the mythological "River Styx." These are already underway, and a variety of interpretations are being painted.

After Christmas anatomical study of the head, neck, and shoulders will be taken up, followed by a pencil portrait.

In March the classes will study paintings; Italian, Spanish and French for technique, composition and style.

A figure composition will follow this, using pen and ink conte crayon or water color.

During the last term the "artists" will make contour and gesture drawings. The last assignment will be an Andover street scene, with special attention to perspective.

Assembly

You can prevent a fire in your home! Last Thursday afternoon, a combined assembly was held with the Junior High school in the auditorium. The subject was fire hazards. Fire Chief C. Edward Buchan introduced George E. Haselton of Smart and Flagg Insurance Agency. Mr. Haselton said that it was National Fire Prevention week, and that he hoped with the help of Mr. G. Butler, the speaker of the afternoon, we could make every week fire prevention week. He then introduced Mr. Butler, who has been touring New England, to speak on fire prevention.

Mr. Butler told the students that $700,000,000 dollars worth of damage had been done in the past year and 11,000 lives were lost. He gave some startling demonstrations of overloading wires and other household hazards, and left the audience with the thought that, "Fire prevention costs nothing and is your own individual responsibility."

Presidential Series Interests P.A. Students

Widespread interest is being shown by Phillips Academy students in the program of presenting each Wednesday the cases for the 1948 presidential candidates.

Established by Frederick S. Allis, Jr., of the History department this series has already presented some of the so-called "Splinter Parties" such as the Vegetarians, the Prohibitionists and the Greenbacks.

Last week William H. Harding of the faculty presented the case for Thomas E. Dewey and the Republicans. This week Howard Johnson of Phillips Exeter Academy presented the case for President Harry S. Truman and the Democrats.

On following Wednesdays Miles S. Malone, also of the Andover History department, and a native of Alabama, will speak in support of Governor J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, and his Dixiecrats, and the Rev. A. C. B. Murphy of Lawrence will speak in behalf of Henry Wallace and the Progressive Party.

First D.A.R. Meeting To Be Held Sunday

The Priscilla Abbot chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will hold its first meeting of the year Tuesday, October 19th at 2:00 o'clock in the Andover Historical house on Main street.

A member of the Massachusetts D. A. R. board will be the speaker of the afternoon. Refreshments will be served by Mrs. George Glennie, chairman, Mrs. Guy Howe, Mrs. Henry Stevenson, and Mrs. John M. Murray.

Mrs. Guy Howe, regent of the Andover chapter, extends a cordial invitation to all women who are interested in joining this patriotic organization, to attend the meeting.

Library

The Goldsmith Library in Punchard, which was named for William G. Goldsmith a former principal of the school, recently received a large gift of books, covering all fields; science, literature, hobbies, sports and many others. The cataloging of these books has been under way for some time and will soon be completed. The students will then have available to them these books, for use in class work as well as their own personal enjoyment.

Magazines

That all school work does not come out of a school book is evident from the fact that many students are taking subscriptions to the Reader's Digest, Coronet, or the Atlantic Monthly, through the school. These magazines will be used in connection with English work.

Photo of Local Girls In British Newspaper

In the September 3rd edition of the Andover, England, Advertiser, just received by Miss Harriet Schofield of 11 Tewksbury street, Ballardvale, there appeared a photo of the three local girls who visited there last summer.

Besides the Misses Ruth Leitch, Judy and Virginia Hardy, there also appeared in the photo G. D. Young and Mrs. U. Sainsbury who entertained the visitors while they were there.

ADULT MOVIE PROGRAM

Wednesday evening, October 20, there will be a film hour at the Memorial Hall Library for the general public, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Films to be shown are "Tall Tales" (a musical number) "Football Parade of the Year 1947," "Wing, Claw and Fang," "Fish-Hook Sequence from Captains Courageous" and a film on the United Nations. All are welcome.

You are interested in the baseball situation. You will find special articles by Harold Kaese and Roger Birtwell in the Boston Globe every day. Make the Globe your Boston newspaper. (Adv.)

CRONIN—LEACH

At an impressive ceremony in St. Augustine's church, Sunday, September 26, Miss Mary I. Leach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Leach of North Andover, became the bride of Joseph F. Cronin, son of Mrs. Margaret M. Cronin of Lawrence. The Rev. Matthew F. McDonald, O.S.A., officiated at the 4 o'clock ceremony and Miss Eleanor King of Lowell, friend of the bride, sang "Ave Maria" and "Mother At Thy Feet is Kneeling."

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a gown of white satin cut in princess style with lace inserts and yoke which formed a high neckline and extended over the shoulder to become part of the sleeve. Her finger tip veil of illusion bordered in white satin was attached to a wreath of baby orchids and orange blossoms and her bouquet was composed of white gladioli with an orchid center.

Mrs. Joseph Gaudette, who attended her sister as matron of honor, chose a satin gown in honey beige designed in an off-the-shoulder effect. The hoop skirt, draped to form a bustle, was accented with blue flowers which matched the flowers of her wreath and her arm bouquet was of mixed gladioli and sweet peas.

William P. Cronin, brother of the groom, was best man and the ushers were Leonard Leach, cousin of the bride, and Louis L. Rivet, brother-in-law of the groom.

Mrs. Roger Leach, the bride's mother, wore a royal blue dress with black hat and accessories. She had a shoulder corsage of red rose buds centered in white gladioli.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Margaret M. Cronin, wore an orchid corsage on her royal blue ensemble with which she wore a matching hat and white accessories.

Included among the guests at the reception in Legion hall, North Andover, were friends from Boston, Exeter, N. H., Ithaca, N. Y., and Louisville, Ky.

The bride, a graduate of Lawrence High school, has been employed in Andover and her husband, also a graduate of Lawrence High school and of Coyne Electrical Institute, is a veteran and a member of the Naval Reserve. He is now employed as a salesman.

They will live in Lawrence when they return from a wedding trip to New York, Washington and Kentucky.

NELSON—DRAPER

At a 4 o'clock ceremony, Saturday, October 9, in the South Congregational church, Miss Glenna Faye Draper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Draper of 27 Bartlett street became the bride of Richard Adrian Nelson, son of Mrs. Myrtle Nelson of 66 Vine street, Saugus, the Rev. Frederick B. Noss, officiating.

Miss Marion Abbott, organist, played the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mervin Stevens, as he sang "Because," "Still as the Night" and "O, Perfect Love."

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a fitted white satin gown with a square neckline and carried a crescent of stephanotis and white roses.

The attendants, all sisters of the bride, were Margaret Draper of Washington, D. C., maid of honor, and Joan and Jane Draper, bridesmaids. Among the guests who attended the reception in the church vestry were friends and relatives from Orono, Me., Glastonbury, Conn., Rochester, N. H., Berlin, N. Y., Waltham and Boston.

Nursing Home Well Staffed

Coles Nursing Home at 10 Summer Street, Andover, is a safe, restful home for the chronic invalid, convalescent or bed patient.

Here, the patient is served good, healthful, appetizing meals prepared by Mrs. Pauline Coles, who has the interests of her patients at heart.

The Home is refreshingly clean and cheery, with more of a "home" than Nursing Home atmosphere.

There are five registered nurses in attendance, and they, as well as Mrs. Coles, endeavor to raise the patients' morale to effect a speedier recovery.

Mrs. Coles has had patients who have stayed with her as long as six years at a time, benefitting by careful, attentive nursing and nutritious meals to suit the individual needs.

Mrs. Coles started the Coles Nursing Home after the death of her husband, and the home has such an excellent reputation, that there is a waiting list of those wanting admittance.

Good food and competent, careful nursing are vital to the physical and mental improvement of the chronically ill. The patient gets both these at Coles Nursing Home. Telephone Andover 1389 for more detailed information.

Walnuthurst Dairy Supplies High School Cafeteria

The Walnuthurst Dairy on So. Main Street, Andover, owned by Burton A. Jenkins, has a fine reputation for cleanliness and good service for the customer.

To show you the quality of the milk and the fine condition of the dairy, Mr. Jenkins welcomes visitors there at any time. You would find this an interesting expedition. The milking, processing and pasteurizing under sterile conditions mean health for your family. When a dairy owner invites your inspection, you ought to take your family, especially the children, to show them the importance of clean, germ free milk.

All these precautions are for yours and their benefit. The daily quart of milk required by each child might be more appealing if the child knows the story behind it.

The Walnuthurst Dairy supplies the High and Junior High School Cafeteria, which in itself is an indication that the dairy sells clean, wholesome, top quality milk and cream.

All Walnuthurst Dairy Milk comes from local farms from a mixed herd and is pasturized fresh every day. Every possible precaution is taken to see that you get the best for your baby or growing child.

This business was started in 1913 by John A. Jenkins, carried on by his widow during the war, and now is run by the son, Burton A. Jenkins.

Why don't you telephone Andover 994 and try a quart of this excellent milk tomorrow?

Average Tax Rate Up $3.30 In State

The average tax rate in Massachusetts cities and towns jumped $3.30 this year to reach a record $42.34, according to a report just released by the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers' Associations. Added to the tax boosts of 1945 and 1946 it brings the average increase for the past three years to nearly $10.

The figures show that the dubious double distinction of the highest rate and the greatest increase goes to Newburyport with a figure of $67 and a one-year jump of $17.60. At the other extremity, the figures show, Gosnold continued to lead the field with a rate of $16, while the largest decrease was $19 in Webster. Rates are down in 49 communities, unchanged in 33 and up in the remaining 269, the release states.

"Although the end of climbing tax rates is not in sight there are indications that the 1949 increase may be smaller than the increase of the past three years," said Lyman H. Ziegler, Federation specialist in municipal government, in commenting on the statistics. If 1949 brings another round of salary and wage increases for municipal employees, it hardly seems likely to be on the same scale as the increases of the past two years. It seems even less likely that the cities and towns will continue to resist some inflation of their assessed valuations.

"A major factor in preventing more sensational increases in local tax rates has been the continuous increase in federal and state financial benefits. The importance of these benefits can best be shown by a comparison of net payments (total payments less all assessments and charges) from the Commonwealth to its cities and towns before the war and to-day. In 1941, net state payments aggregated $51 millions; this year they will be close to $100 millions. This means that if State benefits this year had been at the pre-war level, the average local tax rate would be approximately $50 instead of $42.34."

"Massachusetts today is probably placing a greater weight on the property tax than any other major industrial state. As a rule, other states have opened new sources of revenue to their local governments long before reaching our present overburdened level of property taxation. To date Massachusetts has resisted the new trend. If all real estate and tangible property in Massachusetts were assessed at its fair cash value as of today, the average tax rate would not exceed $25. Recent figures show that single homes, on the average, are being assessed at approximately one-half of sales price. On multi-family homes and commercial buildings, the proportion is higher.

"No one today advocates raising assessments to present market levels which are considered highly abnormal. But responsible persons are increasingly proposing moderate increases, accompanied by some steps to improve assessment methods and to reduce obvious inequities. The increase in city valuations between 1947 and 1948 was actually less than the value of new construction. From this, it is argued, that in fact, it is the tax rates which have borne the full brunt of inflation, whereas it would be better to distribute the inflationary effect between rates and assessments. Conversely it is argued that raising assessments is an insidious device to conceal the higher costs of government, which should remain in the open. And, it is held, too, that as a practical matter it is residential property which is so much underassessed and this is the one class of property which it is politically inexpedient to tamper with."

Too Late, Old Man

Their quarrel had degenerated into shrieks and yells and tears and jeers.

"I wish to heaven I had taken my mother's advice and never married you," the wife shrielled.

Hubby's jaw dropped in amazement.

"Here, wait a minute," he demanded; "do you mean to say your mother tried to keep you from marrying me?"

"She certainly did," the wife rejoined, "she fought tooth and nail against it."

"My God!" the husband cried. "How I have wronged that woman!"

Extra Braid Varies Short Hair Style

An extra braid with your short hair, and you have a different hair personality whenever you choose, according to Hildegard Fillmore. Writing in McCall's for October, she gives you the advice of a prominent New York hairdresser on how to buy the hair piece, and also a few pointers on how to wear it:

"Christian Jungst, hairdresser to many of New York's smart young career women, gives sound advice to his clients on buying that extra hair piece. He says: 'Do give time and attention to matching the color. Don't send a skimpy sample of your own hair to the manufacturer. Even an expensive custom hair piece can have an off-shade look if an insufficient amount of sample hair is sent in.'"

"Mr. Jungst believes that braids should be worn as your own hair grows, and suggests that you attach the braid within the heaviest mass of your own hair. If you follow this rule, your extra hair will never look false.

"To keep your braid in place, slip bobby pins, crossed, at the spot where you wish to attach the braid. Now run a large hairpin through the loops at the end of the braid. Fasten hairpin over and under the crossed bobby pins.

"Now arrange the braid as you wish to wear it. When you reach the end, again slip crossed bobby pins through your own hair, again anchor braid with a hairpin pinned through bobby pins. Use other hairpins, of course, along the braid where needed. Properly secured in this manner, neither end of the braid should come loose or show.

"After removing the hair piece, unbraids it, hang over a hanger, or lay flat in tissue paper in your dressing table drawer. When braid is soiled, dip lightly in a lather of mild toilet soap, rinse, blot flat in a towel, hang to dry."

the moment 150 companies doing business in Massachusetts who are self-insured.

There are also employers whose applications for workmen's compensation insurance to two insurance companies are denied because considered too great a risk by those companies. In these cases the employer appeals to the Industrial Accident board for certification. The company is then investigated by the Division of Industrial Safety of the Department of Labor and Industries and, upon their recommendation, the employer is certified to the Commissioner of Insurance.

The Commissioner of Insurance who has a pool of insurance companies then equably distributes this insurance to mutual and stock companies in that pool. This is called assigned risk insurance and is commented upon here because it is one of the few times in Massachusetts Government where by statutory provision, three departments work jointly.
