VIEWS OF THE NEWS

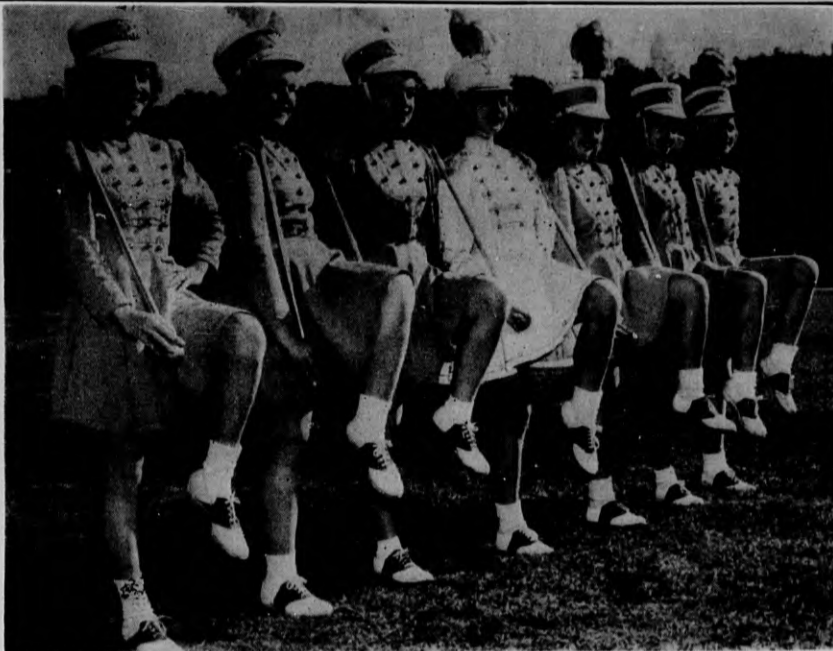

By LEONARD F. JAMES

So we thought that Uncle Joe Stalin was really a decent old gent who didn't really agree with Gromyko, Molotov, Vishinsky and company. A kindly codger who one day would end all this bickering over Berlin with a mere wave of the hand. The fellow who really didn't agree with the tactics of his underlings, and would be only too ready to listen to an emissary like Vinson. The same Uncle Joe with whom the Wallace boys could solve all difficulties around a table.

Stalin Shows His Hand

Some of us thought so. Quite a few didn't. And Joe didn't even bother to play up to those who were cheering for him. In fact he proved himself to be as good a communist as he has always been, despite the wings which some people have tried to pin on him. He came out into the open with an old familiar communist technique of misrepresentation and insinuation. In his newspaper interview last week he attempted to shift the blame for the international crisis from his own government to the Western

- No. 2—Highway funds, approved;
- No. 3—Vacancies in state office, approved;
- No. 4—Birth control, defeated;

The Merrimack River proposal was rejected by a large vote in cities and towns along the banks of the river, although the voters of Newburyport, Newbury, Salisbury and West Newbury showed they favored the plan.

Coddaira Winner Over Sen. Allen

Atty. John W. Coddaira, Jr., Democrat, of Haverhill, defeated his Republican opponent, Senator Philip K. Allen of Andover in a close race for the office of senator from the Fourth Essex district, by a total of 22,946 to 20,668.

Atty. Coddaira rolled up a commanding lead in his home town which was more than Senator Allen could overcome in the rest of the district.

Atty. Coddaira was born in Haverhill, received his early education there, at Holy Cross College and Boston University School of Law. He is a member of the

A record number of 6456 Andover voters went to the polls Tuesday and gave their usual strong support to Republican candidates in an election which saw a surprising Democratic sweep all over the country.

Only two Andover men were seeking office in this election. Rep. J. Everett Collins received 5080 votes here in a contest that returned him as one of the three representatives of this district in General Court. The total vote for the district was:

Collins (R) 13,659; Giles (R) of Methuen, 14,640; Brainard (D) of Methuen, 12,788; Longworth (R) of Methuen, 13,449.

Senator Philip K. Allen was endorsed by 4517 voters here in his bid for a second term, but was topped by Atty. John W. Coddaira, Jr., of Haverhill in a close contest. The total vote; Allen (R) 20,668; Coddaira (D) 22,956.

Results of other county contests in which Andover voters participated were:

Councillor, Fifth District; Alfred C. Gaunt, (R) Methuen, 110,063; Cornelius J. Twomey, (D) Lawrence, 135,312.

Register of Probate: Richard J. White (R) Lynn, 108,642; John J. Costello, (D) North Andover, 121,192.

County Commissioner: J. Fred Manning, (D) Lynn, 110,981; C. F. Nelson Pratt, (R) Saugus, 104,346; William H. Haskell, (R) Marblehead, 79,885; William J. O'Leary, (D) Haverhill, 96,040.

County Treasurer: James D. Bentley, (R) Swampscott, 108,275; Thomas F. Duffy, (D) Lynn, 119,429.

An analysis of the local vote shows that while Republican candidates were being strongly supported, Dever and Buckley ran ahead of other Democratic candidates at the top of the ticket, and that Cornelius J. Twomey of Lawrence and John J. Costello of

Supt. Sherman Says Replacement Value Would Be $2,379,000

A valuation analysis of the town's school building was presented to the School committee at its meeting Monday night at which time the members decided to make an inspection of the buildings at an early date.

All members were present, except Dr. Malcolm B. McTernan and the Rev. John S. Moses when the meeting was called to order at 7:45 o'clock by Chairman Gordon Colquhoun.

Following the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting by Secretary William A. Doherty, the financial statement was studied and accepted.

Supt. Kenneth L. Sherman presented the committee with a valuation analysis of the school buildings. This comprised of a complete survey of the building costs, insurance and replacement costs. The total replacement cost of the school buildings of Andover would be $2,379,000. The superintendent explained that the maintenance of these buildings entails considerable cost per year.

The School committee decided to make an inspection of the buildings at an early date.

Mrs. Dorothy T. Partridge reported that Dean Jesse B. Davis would be present at the Nov. 15th committee meeting. Dr. Davis will be present to explain to the committee survey cost and just what a building survey means to a school.

Following the discussion regarding building surveys, the committee went into a short executive session. Meeting adjourned at 10:20 p.m.

Model Plane Meet Held On Playstead

The much-delayed flying meet of the Andover Model Airplane club was held Sunday afternoon on the playstead. Unfavorable weather conditions on the three previous Sundays prevented the event from taking place earlier.

The meet was marked by unusual success in that practically no damage occurred to the miniature planes. Several of the models were provided with effective mufflers which considerably deflected the noise created by the small gasoline engines that power the planes.

Many of the models exhibited at Sunday's meet were built by beginners who are testing their equipment for the first time.

Lexington Halts Pynchard, 12-7

Pynchard high's five game winning streak was halted 12-7 by the Lexington griders last Saturday at Parker Field, Lexington. This was the second defeat in seven starts that the local club has suffered.

Although the Andover boys held a 7 to 6 lead at the half, the "Minutemen" surged from behind in the last quarter to take the game from them.

The services of Nick Maurel, Pynchard center, and fullback Ray Collins were sorely missed as time after time the enemy backfield broke through the line for much yardage.

The flip of the coin was won by Lexington, who chose to kick. Cliff Lawrence of Pynchard returned the pigskin 19 yards to his 34, from there the Blue and Gold tried three rushes netting only 5 yards. Dwyer's punt was blocked and the victors took over on the Andover 30.

Ricket picked up 2 as he hit the center, while Captain Rudd crashed the Pynchard line for a first down on the 18. Three plays later Lexington scored when Rudd looped around right end for a touchdown. The attempted placement was blocked by Dwyer.

In the early stages of the second period, Dwyer sauntered far behind his line and hurled a tremendous pass to Otis, who was brought down on the home club's 20. Deveaux and Lawrence forwarded the ball to the six from where Deveaux carried it over to tie the contest up. Sid Watson promptly booted the extra point to send his team out in front 7 to 6.

No scoring occurred in the third quarter as both teams battled back and fourth on the gridiron.

950 Collected by Meters

Andover's parking meters which have been in operation since August 29, have yielded $1,950 to the town up to October 31, according to Town Treasurer Thaxter Eaton.

Meters on Chestnut street, which took in very little in this time, have been changed to give two-hour parking for a nickel. These have not been in operation at this rate long enough to note much difference in the amount of money collected.

Dr. Laubach To Speak At South Church Tuesday

Dr. Frank C. Laubach, world renowned "Apostle of Literacy" and internationally known Christian statesman, is back in the United States after another amazing campaign in West Central and South Africa. He will speak at the South church Tuesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock.

For his remarkable application of the "Laubach Method" to hundreds of languages and dialects enabling illiterates to learn to read quickly, Dr. Laubach has been welcomed, honored and decorated by the presidents and kings of many countries.

Not only a remarkable teacher and psychologist, but a mystic, Dr. Laubach has been called "an unbeatable combination of realist and idealist". He believes implicitly that the world program of the Christian church is the only sure hope for lasting world peace and that prayer is the most powerful force in the universe.

PUNCHARD HIGH

By PATRICIA PETERKIN

Miss Katherine Irwin, director of admissions of Pembroke College, visited the guidance office, where she held interviews with a number of senior girls who are interested in college, and who wished to learn more about Pembroke. This week a representative of the Katherine Gibbs Secretarial school conducted several interviews.

It is the policy of the guidance department to arrange for visits from school and college officers whenever they may be travelling in this area, since it affords the seniors, and sometimes the underclassmen, an opportunity which might be unavailable without individual trips to the various institutions.

The Junior Red Cross drive is now underway at Punchard with collectors in each homeroom getting as many contributors as possible.

The collectors, under the direction of Miss Louella Dunning, faculty advisor, are hoping to achieve 100% in each room.

Open House

Next Tuesday evening, November 9, from 7:00 to 8:30, open house will be held at Punchard. The teachers will be in their classrooms to meet with any parents who wish to see them. All parents of Punchard students are invited.

P. T. A.

The membership of the Central Parent Teacher Association is enlarged this year by an increased number of parents of Punchard students having joined. It is hoped that this increase will continue.

Library Club

The library club of the Goldsmith library at Punchard has recently been organized, consisting of about twenty-two members under the direction of Miss Lillian J. E. Fox.

The members of the club are:

Nancy Rody, Gladys Cairns, Isobel Valentine, Elizabeth Lloyd, Judith Napier, Janice Bowen, Marion Giata, Ruth Anne Chadwick, Patricia Black, Maurice Shea, Sebastian Cavallar, Doris Nicoll, Edith Gordon, Arlene Cupis, Bancroft Fredrickson, Vivian Bell, Blanche Znamierowski, Jeanette Sarao, Sally Sutcliffe, Constance Midolo and Mary Morrissey.

Library To Hold Open House Nov. 14

EARL L. CRUM

All friends of the library are reminded to keep open the afternoon of November 14, Sunday, so that they can be present at the annual Open House of the Memorial Hall Library. This has proven one of the most popular of the many ventures sponsored by the library, and each year finds the number of guests increasing. The special feature of the book exhibits will be an exhibit of Japanese picture books. New books, with suggestions for Christmas purchases, will be on display.

Mr. Earl L. Crum will speak on "Heidelberg University After the War." He is professor at Lehigh University, and is well able to speak on his subject, having been officer in charge of the re-opening of the University of Heidelberg, serving with the American Military Government.

Light refreshments will be served, and a warm welcome will be extended to all friends who attend.

Sgt. Elmer T. Churchill Stationed In Japan

100 years after the First Woman's Rights Convention at Seneca Falls, because the plot of this Connecticut story is based on the unfortunate place of women at that period.

I THREE WED Gabriel
Because a young Parisian girl resembled greatly the unfortunate Marie Antoinette, she became a dupe in the plot to save the queen's life. Aylum, Pennsylvania was to be a shelter for the fleeing French aristocrats. It was here, at the period of the fall of the French court, that the queen was to be hidden. Thrilling!

THE LIVING IS EASY West
The story of a climber—in this case a woman whose driving ambition was to get to the top in Negro society, and to take her family with her.

THE TIME IS NOON Haydn
Six young people are the main characters in this story of the fabulous twenties. It is their desperate struggle for happiness, living as though the prosperity and glitter would last forever. A long, realistic story that cannot claim to be a happy one.

THE DAMSEL DEBONAIRE Walsh
Another Maurice Walsh story, set in Northern Ireland. All the charm of the old country, families who pride themselves on their lands and their horses, and a girl,

Mary Morris, who determines to hold fast to all that she has. Done with the author's usual talent.

MELISSA Caldwell
Because her mind had been trained by her strange father into unnatural and distorted channels, Melissa brought to her marriage with Geoffrey a set of problems and misunderstandings. Aggravated by his jealous sister's attempts to destroy it, this story of their marriage is fascinating, exciting reading.

MORNING SONG Raphaelson
Mary Miller was the daughter of a Russian mother and an Austrian father. At his death, the burden of supporting the mother and young brother fell upon Mary, who was but fifteen years old. The setting is New York of the 1920's. This is a novel of adolescence, and courage and family life.

THE HOME PLACE Morris
A strange and novel way of telling a story is this book about a Nebraska farm, with both words and pictures to bring to life a part of the American scene. This novel technique is a vivid one, and could be used extensively to paint true pictures of our way of living for our friends across the sea. This may be the beginning of a new publishing idea.

ROOL BACK THE SEA Doolgaard
In 1944 the British bombed the dikes of Walcheren to clear out the Germans who barred the way to Antwerp. This is the story of what assault on the little communities and the steadfast people who played their parts. Translated from the Dutch.

BEST AMERICAN SHORT STORIES OF 1948 Foley, ed.
Martha Foley, the editor, makes an interesting comment on the short story output for this year. She says that tension is the most notable tendency in all the stories she examined for inclusion, and in those she selected.

MY DOG LEMON Holland
Ray Holland, editor in chief of "Field and Stream" has been telling of Lemon in the Saturday Evening Post, but now has collected the stories and retells them here, from the day of the dog's purchase to his moment of success as champion.

Discusses County Board of Trade

How the various boards of trade in Essex county cooperate through the Essex County Boards of Trade to get things done for the betterment of each other was described Thursday night by Lester Friend, president of the associated boards, at the Andover Service club meeting at the Andover Inn.

Organized in 1908, the county organization made up of delegates of various boards representing practically all of the cities and towns in the county. The first result of such cooperation, Mr. Friend said, was that the Essex County Agricultural school came into being.

He told how the county association had succeeded in getting certain improvements on the Newburyport Turnpike, which he termed the most dangerous in the state and crowded 80 per cent over capacity.

The county group has an Elm Free Beetles committee now working to save the beautiful elms from ravages of the insect, now definitely established in several sections of the county.

The group is also working on a clam purification project for some location north of Boston to restore the industry which, he stated, was at one time a $10 million business in the county.

Following a brief question and answer period, Mr. Friend then swung into a discussion of his hobby, model live steam locomotives. He had two models and a film of moving pictures to illustrate his talk. The first model was one upon which he has spent 3000 working hours and has about 1000 more to go before it is completed. Locomotive and tender were about eight feet long and weighed 400 pounds. When completed it will haul six or eight men.

The other was chassis of a model he is building of the "Southern Pacific" type. This will be capable of hauling six or eight men when completed.

Mr. Friend, a member of the N. E. Live Steamers association, has 1800 feet of track at his Danvers home. Once a month members from all parts of New England gather with their models, build fires in them and get steam up for hours of racing and tests.

Moving pictures, some in color, were shown of the various meets staged there since the association was organized about 1936, and other shots were shown of live model steamers in various parts of the country, which included entrants from numerous places, including Canada.

These models run on tracks of 3-inch gauge. The tracks built by Mr. Friend are raised on trestles three feet or more high, so that the operators can ride a straddle behind their models and keep their feet clear of the ground.

Following the meeting, members spent some time in getting a close-up of the models and asking questions about their construction.

Harold E. Heseltine brought up the subject of the club's participation in another "Old Fashioned Christmas" program. It was decided to consult with local merchants before taking further action.

Henry J. Stevenson was the holder of the ticket for the free dinner at the next meeting.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

AFTER ONE YEAR

It was just one year ago — on November 6, 1947 — that the present owner took over The Townsman. The Consolidated Press, Inc., on that occasion printed an editorial in which was set forth briefly the aims and intentions of the management.

We pledged ourselves to maintain the same high standard that has marked Andover's weekly through the many years of its existence, and we said it was our intention to improve the paper, and to expand it.

We have certainly lived up to those promises. To say so in blunt fashion is not boasting, however. It is merely putting down here what the records of the year prove.

Before the present management took over the paper it had been printed in the form of a magazine for a number of years. Within a short time — on February 12, 1948, to be exact — we broke away from the magazine format and made The Townsman a newspaper once more. Later on we lengthened the columns of our pages. And we have, we believe, printed more news in each issue than had been the case for some time.

And now, on the first anniversary of The Consolidated Press, Inc., as publishers, we renew our pledge of one year ago — to maintain the same high level of efficiency that has prevailed, and to improve the paper in every way that we can.

AMERICANS ALL

Political campaigns always bring forth a lot of controversy and, in some quarters, even hard feeling. For the moment too many seem to forget that they are Americans and that even if they do differ politically there is no real need of going overboard in criticism of the other fellow.

Now that the voting is over, and no more state and national candidates must do any more pleading for votes, it's a pretty good time for us to remember that we are, in fact, a united American people. There probably never was a time when such a feeling of oneness should be manifest as now.

With the world in turmoil, we owe it to ourselves, as well as to the world, to work for the same end — peace and prosperity.

THE SYSTEM CALLED CAPITALISM

An international organization of churches has gone on record as being opposed to communism on the one hand, and what it calls "laissez-faire capitalism" on the other hand. The system which it holds out as the ideal seems to be a middle-of-the-road socialism, much like that which the Labor government has been putting into effect in England.

It may be that a mild form of socialism has a theoretical appeal. Certainly, no one can oppose the goal of greater economic security for all people. But the harsh fact is that every step in the direction of total government, no matter how short it may be initially, makes the next step inevitable. That is happening in England, where a form of forced labor is now in effect. When a man cannot change his job without the permission of the state, and when the state becomes a mass employer, there is nothing to protect the people from ultimate dictatorship. The fact that Mr. Atlee and his leaders are men of good will is not the point. They will be followed by other men, and the government is deliberately building up the powers which prepare the way for a man on a white horse — for a Hitler or a Mussolini.

No intelligent man denies that there are faults in the capitalist system. But the big thing to remember is that the faults constantly become fewer and are possible of correction by the people. No other system ever placed in practice has shown so great capacity for self-improvement. And no other system has given the masses of the people a tithe as much in the way of material benefits and luxuries.

THE COMMUNITY ORCHESTRA

Sunday afternoon, November 21, the first concert of the season by the Andover Community Orchestra will be given, and we hope the community will give the organization the support that it merits. Even if it were not planned to aid a local group with the proceeds, the concert would be worth patronizing, but the fact that some of the money realized will aid such a splendid organization as the Boy Scouts should prove a double incentive.

SHE READ THE ADS

It pays to read the advertisements. Not only does one learn of bargains, and find out where they can buy things they need, but it is even educational.

A subscriber called the office the other day, and exclaimed, "I never knew there were so many places of business in Andover until I started reading the advertisements in The Townsman!"

A Pennsylvania doctor, after 50 years of practice, figures that he has traveled the equivalent of 20 times around the earth just making calls on patients. That is a lot of traveling, counting the stops, which were probably numerous.

With the election over, only a few more important days—Armistice Day, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas—come before it'll be time for us to think up some New Year's resolutions.

And, by the way, after this week there will be only 39 more shopping days to Christmas.

powers. The record shows his manipulation of the facts.

Stalin Tells Stalin the Truth

First it must be remembered that the interview was with a Pravda (Truth!) correspondent. The questions were as carefully planted as were the replies. "Is it true," asks Stalin of himself, "that in August of this year agreement had already been reached among the Four Powers on the question of Berlin?" "Why, yes," he answers himself, "that is true," and then explains to himself that the other three powers declared the agreement null and void, "i.e. they violated the agreement."

The Russian Squeeze Begins

Let's look at the facts with a brief explanation of background. Between April 1 and June 16 (take note of the dates) the Soviet Military Commander demanded that all passenger and freight trains from the Western zone of Germany to the Western-Powers sector of Berlin be checked by Soviet authorities; he claimed that any regulations were a matter of Russian control alone; he interfered with barge traffic to Berlin; and he tried to interfere with railroad traffic in the American sector of Berlin.

And Tightens

On June 18 the Western Powers instituted a new money currency for Western Germany, but not for the Western sector of Berlin. On June 19 the Soviets suspended passenger rail and road traffic between Berlin and the Western zone. On June 22 Russia announced her intention of permitting only Soviet marks as the currency for Berlin, thus intending to get complete economic control of the city, including the Western sector. On June 23 the Western Powers issued a new B mark in their sectors of Berlin. That same day the Soviets ordered all railroad and barge passenger and freight traffic into Berlin halted owing to "technical difficulties."

Stalin Makes a Suggestion

After fruitless negotiations between the military commanders in Berlin the matter was taken to Moscow. And on August 2 Stalin said in effect, "If you want this issue settled tonight, it's simple. Here are the conditions. Russia will issue her own Soviet mark in the whole of Berlin, and will remove all restrictions imposed after the announcement of currency reforms in the Western zones." The jokers were two. Russia was to assume sole control of currency in Berlin, and the restrictions imposed before June 18 would still remain.

Using these general suggestions

Molotov sent the Western Powers an offer which, stripped of diplomatic verbiage, said in addition to the above terms: the Allies have lost their right to be in Berlin; the USSR reserves the right to reimpose the blockade whenever it sees fit; and Berlin is now absolutely a part of the Soviet zone of Germany.

But Not An Agreement

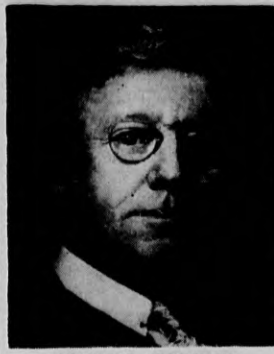

Naturally the Western Powers would not agree. Discussions collapsed, and once again the three powers met with Stalin, on August 23. The ensuing double talk seemed to indicate that removal of controls would include those from April 1, and the military commanders would work out plans for Four-Power control of Berlin currency.

The so-called "agreement" of August 30 mentioned by Stalin was, according to Moscow's own words at that time, to be put into operation "on the basis agreed between the four military governors" regarding the circulation of Soviet marks in Berlin. This meant Four-Power agreement. When they came to talk turkey, the three powers found that Marshal Sokolovsky took a different stand. Restrictions prior to June 18 would not be removed; restrictions could be increased; Berlin currency would be under Soviet control exclusively; and further discussions on rail traffic restrictions would be opened only if the Western powers would agree to restrict their air lift operations. That is the "agreement" of August 30. And it is hard to believe that Sokolovsky thought it up all by himself.

Stalin Has Something To Sell

And from Stalin, the man who has always proclaimed the inevitability of war so long as capitalism exists, comes the charge that the present leaders of the United States and Great Britain have adopted a "policy of aggression." More interesting is the charge

FRANK L. BRIGHAM

Vice president of the Merrimack and Cambridge Mutual Fire Insurance companies, Frank L. Brigham has been instrumental in the organization and development of many worthy associations. Born in Bradford, Vt., in 1879, he was educated in the schools of Lisbon, N. H., and attended Burdett college. Before he came to Andover in 1913, he served his native town in the capacity of town clerk, treasurer and representative to the Legislature from Bradford. Organizer and past president of the Vermont State Association of Insurance Agents and a past president of the Mutual Fire Insurance Association of New England, he was elected president of the Andover Service Club for the current term of office and has been a vital factor in the growth and development of this organization.

A member of the United States Chamber of Commerce, a 32 degree Mason, Knight Templar, Shriner and member of all I.O.O.F. bodies, Mr. Brigham holds a chair on the Speakers' committee of the Fire Waste council and is actively associated with the South Congregational church.

He and Mrs. Brigham, the former Winifred Whitcher, reside at 9 Punchard avenue.

Do You Know Massachusetts?

DO YOU KNOW THAT . . . Real estate activity as measured by the number of sales in 23 leading Massachusetts cities, reported during the six weeks ending October 16, was within 4% of the high level in the same period last year . . . The first watch factory in America was established by Luther Goddard at Shrewsbury, Mass., in 1809 . . . Springfield with 244 new dwelling units started, Worcester with 157, and Newton with 150 were the three leading cities in Massachusetts home building during September . . . The grasshopper weather vane on Faneuil Hall in Boston was made and placed there in 1742 by Deacon Shem Drowne; it was knocked down and damaged by the earthquake in 1755, was damaged again during the fire of 1761, but came through the great fire of 1872 unscathed . . . Assessed valuation of real estate and personal property in Massachusetts on January 1, 1948, was $6,779,259,000, an increase of $188 million over 1947 and $658 millions since 1941 . . . Average salary of all principal classes of women office workers in Boston the first of this year was $37.31 a week, compared with an average of $40.03 in ten other leading cities of the country, the U. S. Dept. of Labor reported . . . "Surging Cities," a book just published by the Greater Boston Development Committee, is "must" reading for all interested in the trend of city growth . . . The West Springfield Planning Board is preparing a complete revision of the town's zoning bylaw.

(Compiled by the State Planning Board)

that the six "neutral" nations of China, Canada, Belgium, Argentina, Colombia and Syria who tried to find a solution are "lending their support to a policy of aggression." Mr. Stalin ignores the fact that he is the head of the nation which has subjugated a dozen nations—Poland, Estonia, Latvia, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Bulgaria and so on—that his country is waging open warfare in Greece and France via the Communists, that the pattern of his fine hand is to be seen in China and Korea. To those who know the facts, Stalin's interview must look particularly clumsy, for it reveals that Stalin has been running the show all the time. But Marshal Stalin is a shrewd operator. He has a package to sell, and the interview is his way of putting the package on the market. It is a package well worth examining.

REPORT from the State House

By SEN. PHILIP K. ALLEN

In the Department of Labor and Industries, but not subject to its jurisdiction, is the Division of Employment Security, located at 881 and 781 Commonwealth avenue. It is run by the director, Robert E. Marshall, of Worcester. Under the director, there are five assistant directors.

The first assistant director is in charge of executive functions. These include public relations, legal advice on matters pertaining to interpretation of law and the conduct of cases brought to court, the training of employees, the dissemination of information, and a laboratory of research and statistics.

The second assistant director has charge of the Department of Benefits. In this department contributions from employers are processed, and rates are computed for all employees quarterly and annually.

The forty full time employment offices through the state are under the supervision of the third assistant director. These offices offer employment service to the unemployed. In this department they have also established a clearance system whereby if a highly classified job in one area cannot be filled, other areas are canvassed both within the commonwealth and other adjoining states.

The field staff is under the fourth assistant director. This staff investigates for the division mainly on overpayments. They also audit the books of employers.

The business management of the entire division is under the fifth assistant director who is charged with internal operation of the office and the handling of personnel. It is important to realize that the Division of Employment Security is the only department within the commonwealth that raises its own revenue. The money which is raised in taxes upon employers of one or more people must be used exclusively for the payment of benefits and not for administration.

The administration costs are granted by the federal government. The employer of eight or more employees pays a three percent payroll tax to the federal government, with the provision that if the employer is compelled to pay a similar tax to his own state he may withhold from the federal tax an amount equal to ninety percent of the federal tax.

Since the Massachusetts tax is similar to the federal tax, an employer of eight or more now pays 2.7% payroll tax to the commonwealth and .3% to the federal government. Under this system the federal government gets nearly ten million dollars annually out of Massachusetts, yet their grants to the commonwealth for administrative purposes are about fifty percent of this total.

From this 2.7% tax the Division of Employment Security has collected since 1936 nearly $424,000,000 and currently has reserves amounting to $173,000,000 in the unemployment trust fund in Washington. These facts stamp this division as the largest insurance business in New England. It would be manifestly impossible for private insurance enterprise to insure for unemployment, since unemployment is governed by economic cycles which are largely unpredictable and therefore unmeasurable.

Next week we will discuss the principles and methods of benefits paid to the unemployed by this division.

Who Am I?

"I am the foundation of all prosperity. I am the fount from which all blessings flow. Everything that is of value in this world springs from me. I am the salt that gives life its savor.

"I am the sole support of the poor, and the rich who think they can do without me live futile lives and fill premature graves.

"I have built America. I have built her matchless industries, laid her incomparable railroads, created her cities, and reared her skyscrapers.

"I am the friend of every worthy youth. If he makes my acquaintance when he is young and keeps me by his side throughout his life, I can do more for him than the richest parent.

"I keep bodies lean and fit, minds alert, and when I am neglected, both bodies and minds grow fat and sluggish. I am even the parent of genius itself.

"I am represented in every paper that flies from the press, in every loaf of bread that comes from the oven, in every train that crosses the continent, and in every ship that sails on the seas.

"Fools hate me, wise men love me. The man who keeps his hand in mine throughout his life never dies—because that which he has created with my help lives on after he is gone. The man who shirks me and scorns my aid never really lives, even though he may continue to breathe.

"Who am I? What am I? I AM WORK!"

Harold Sturmy of Medford, became the bride of Philip Byron Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Brown of Andover street, Ballardvale.

White chrysanthemums decorated the altar for the eight o'clock double ring candlelight service, solemnized by the Rev. Alexander Henderson, pastor of the church.

The organ music flowed into the traditional wedding march as the bride entered the church on the arm of her father. She wore an ivory satin colonial gown with finger tip veil attached to a coronet of orange blossoms and carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis with an orchid centerpiece.

The bride's sister and maid of honor, Miss Lois Sturmy, wore a colonial gown with hoop skirt caught with flowers, of dusty rose taffeta, and carried a cascade bouquet of fall flowers with a coronet to match.

The two bridesmaids, Miss Lorraine Perry of Medford and Mrs. Justin Hagar of Natick, wore colonial gowns of aqua taffeta with hoop skirts caught with flowers and carried cascade bouquets of fall flowers with coronets to match.

Miss Marilyn Steeves of Medford was the soloist and sang "I Love Thee" and "O Perfect Day." Edwin Roy Brown, brother of the groom, was best man and the ushers were Austin Day of Boston and Arnold Schofield of Ballardvale.

At the reception at Memorial hall, Mrs. Sturmy, in a fuchsia gown with white accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses, and Mrs. Edwin Brown in a royal purple gown with silver accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses assisted the bridal couple as they received their many guests.

T. J. Scanlon Co. Sells Glidden Paints

Do you dislike the shape, height or width of a room in your home? In the Glidden Company's fascinating color Harmony Booklet at T. J. Scanlon's up to the minute store at the corner of Broadway and Essex Streets, Lawrence, we found all the answers to your room problems.

The Glidden Company, manufacturers of superior paints for interior decorating, house painting and barn and other farm buildings, offers you much valuable information. It is so simple to change apparent shape, height or width of a room with the proper use of color in strategic spots.

Glidden colors are preferred by both homemakers and color authorities because they are easier to use, and are styled to go with today's rugs, fabrics, draperies and other furnishings. An opinion poll on wall finish colors among 178 leading decorators, showed a three to one preference for Glidden colors because they have greater clarity, richness and real character.

Glidden colors are styled by leading decorators. When a color is chosen for Glidden after exhaustive research, it is practical and correct from every standpoint.

At T. J. Scanlon, you can get any type of Glidden paint for inside or out, and practical advice as to its use.

If you are building or remodeling, no doubt you'll visit T. J. Scanlon to choose the building hardware that suits your needs, and you really shouldn't leave until you have chosen the Glidden paint in your chosen colors, to turn that house or that uninteresting room into a charming interior to be enjoyed by the whole family.

SOUTH CHURCH NOTES

Next Sunday, November 7th, is Every-Member Canvass Sunday for the South church. Solicitors will call during the afternoon on all those who have not sent in their pledge cards for the coming year, before Sunday. It is hoped as many as possible will send in their pledges as this will lighten the work of the solicitors on this one afternoon.  If you're serving less meat than you did when prices were lower, you can make up for it by giving extra thought to other foods. Choose your family's favorites at your A&P... and please everybody from Pop to the pup!

SUPER SPAGHETTI
 Even without one meatball, spaghetti can be mighty satisfying... especially when it's A&P's ANN PAGE SPAGHETTI fixed like this: Cook an 8-oz. package according to package directions; drain. Combine 1½ cups (a 10½ oz. can) tomato puree, 1 small onion (chopped), ½ cup grated carrots, 1 tsp. celery salt, 1 tsp. sugar, 2 tbsps. Worcestershire sauce and 2 tbsps. fat. Cook over low heat 5 minutes. Place spaghetti on platter; add 4 quartered hard-cooked eggs and sauce. Serves 4.

CHEESE HIT
 To make sandwiches that supply some of the protein which meatless menus may lack, I use protein-rich cheese. And to make this pinch-hitter for meat score an extra big hit, I team it with MARVEL SOUR TYPE RYE BREAD from the A&P. I've never eaten tastier rye bread, and every luscious loaf is guaranteed fresh. Try it!

PAMPER YOUR POOCHI
 You can bet your dog won't demand meat if you feed him DAILY DOG FOOD from the A&P. My terrier's tail tells me this nourishing, ready-to-serve canned dog food is dog-gone delicious in Meat, Fish or Cheese flavor. Start pampering your pooch today... vary his diet with all three flavors. Treat him to DAILY DOG FOOD.

"POP-EYE" PLATTER
 Would-be "Pop-Eyes" would be pop-eyed if you were to serve A&P CANNED SPINACH so: Sauté 2 tbsps. finely chopped onion in 2 tbsps. fat. Stir in 2 tbsps. flour, ½ tsp. salt, ½ tsp. dry mustard, dash pepper. Add 1 cup milk, gradually. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly till thickened. Remove from heat. Stir in ½ cup grated cheese; add 3 eggs, slightly beaten, and 1 can A&P SPINACH (2½ cups). Mix well. Pour into greased ring mold. Bake in moderate oven, 350°F., 50 to 60 minutes. Serves 6.
