VIEWS OF THE NEWS

By LEONARD F. JAMES

It is not quite clear what the American Medical association proposes to do with its anticipated $3,500,000 "campaign" fund to "educate the public." A requested $25 contribution per doctor is presumably to be used to persuade the public to oppose a government medical program. That may be a worthy aim. Yet it might be asked whether that substantial fund—if it is realized—could not be used to better advantage in educating the public to voluntary medical insurance. The alternatives apparently to be inferred from the A.M.A.'s stand are that we keep the present inadequate system of medical service or go whole-hog into nationalized medicine.

Educate The Public—For What?

If the A.M.A. does proceed to "educate the public" against socialized medicine it may unconsciously serve the people by causing them to think more seriously about voluntary medical insurance. For it becomes increasingly evident that rising costs of hospitalization and surgery are driving proper medical care beyond the reach of the average citizen.

Not that the A.M.A. deserves too many thanks for its possible effect on the public mind. For it was not many years ago that authoritative pronouncements from that organization denounced even

EDWARD P. HALL

Outstanding Speakers For University Series

As the University of Life, sponsored by the Andover Council of Churches moves into its fifth week it is expected that the unusually high ratio of attendance which it has had will continue, for the three speakers who are to appear this week are of outstanding interest.

F. Alexander Magoun, who will give the chapel address and speak to the young people, is an outstanding speaker in the field of human relations. He has taught at M.I.T. for the past 19 years and is at present professor of humanities there, as well as president of Human Relations, Inc., a corporation specializing in public relations.

Prof. Magoun will speak to the whole group on "Religion in the Home," and to the young people on: "Are You the Answer or the Problem?"

The Rev. T. Leonard Lewis, Th.D., president of Gordon College of Theology and Missions and Gordon Divinity school, will address the church seminar on the topic: "Christianity and Contemporary Religions." Educated in Wheaton college, Ill., the Northern Baptist Theological seminary, Chicago, and at the University of Chicago and Loyola university, Dr. Lewis is a representative of a conservative school of theology, and will therefore present a somewhat unusual and provoking point of view that ought to be stimulating.

The speaker to the Bible seminar will be Rabbi Herschel Levin, M.H.L. of Temple Emanuel in Lawrence. Returning by popular demand, Rabbi Levin will address the group on the subject: "The Ten Commandments from the Jewish Point of View."

The chapel devotional service will be led by the Rev. Levering Reynolds, Jr., and the buffet supper will be served by the women of the West Parish church.

LOUIS E. GLEASON

Louis E. Gleason is a candidate for the office of selectman and assessor at the coming town election.

Born in Wellesley where he attended the public schools, he entered the leather business in 1919 and was associated with the H. E. Gutterman company of Boston until 1932. Later he was connected with the Bissell Leather company as sales manager.

In 1940 he formed his own company, known as the Hawthorne Tanners, Inc., in which he holds the position of treasurer and is actively connected with its management.

Mr. Gleason has been a director of the Andover Taxpayers' association for five years and has been elected to the presidency the past three years.

At present he is vice-president of the Andover Catholic club and a member of both the Andover and Salem Country clubs. For the past 30 years he has been a member of the Newton Lodge of Elks, 1327, and holds membership in the Boston Shoe Associates.

Mr. and Mrs. Gleason, the former Teresa Remmes of Andover, have three children, Louis E., Jr., Virginia Ann and Janet, and they reside at 61 Woodland rd.

Five-Day Week Sought By Police

Members of the police department have a request for a reduction of their working hours which will come before the town meeting Monday, Mar. 14 for action.

They are asking that their present six-day work week be reduced to a five-day work week, which would put them on an equal footing with other town departments.

At the present time, they point out, they work six days a week in addition to all holidays and by the reduction of hours which they seek, they would receive two consecutive days off, something they get now only during their annual vacations.

The selectmen have increased the police department budget to allow for this change, but will bring the question before the people at town meeting for their decision.

Plans New Housing On Walker Avenue

Plans for a new housing development on an extension of Walker avenue, off North Main street near the Lawrence line, were discussed with the board of public works at its meeting Monday night by Mrs. Anna McDonald of Shawsheen Village.

Mrs. McDonald has had a large acreage engineered and laid out into 32 house lots and is ready to let the contract to level the land, lay water and sewer pipes to conform with the town system, and build a gravel road through the tract, all at her own expense.

She presented her plans to the board to get its approval of the type of construction which the plans called for. As they conformed with present regulations the board voted its approval.

A representative group from the finance committee met with the board to review the bids for construction of the new steel bridge on Central street. The group will report back to the committee which will give its opinion within a few days. When this is made the board will proceed to let the contract.

A Mr. Holt of Lawrence addressed the board relative to the sewer assessment on an undersized lot on Dutton road. The lot of 46 ft. frontage was established before the zoning laws went into effect. He understood it was too small for a house and he would have no need to enter the sewer system. He was advised to contact the board of appeals for relief in case he intended to build, as the board might deem it proper to grant a variance. He started that if allowed to build he would pay the assessment.

James Turner of Shawsheen Village, owner of property at the corner of Burnham road and Arundel street, asked abatement of the sewer assessment as he already had his property connected with the system on the other street. He claimed he would have no benefit of the new sewer. No action was taken on the request.

The board granted an application for one light on Lincoln st. and two lights on Upland rd. In each case before any light installations are ordered the board makes a survey of the location at night time in order to get a true picture of conditions.

The Lawrence Gas & Electric company is to make a survey of Highland road in order to install better street lighting there. A new development at the upper end of Chestnut street is being laid out with about a dozen house lots and building is expected to start there soon.

SIDNEY P. WHITE

Sidney P. White of Argilla road is a candidate in the coming election for the office of selectman and assessor. He was born in Andover, has lived here all his life and received his education in the public schools.

For the past 11 years Mr. White has served on the board of public works, 10 years of which he has been chairman. When Mr. White first took office on the board of public works in 1938, the town owned but one small dump truck and a pair of horses, all other necessary highway equipment being hired, at a terrific expense to the town.

During the first few years as chairman of the board, he worked diligently with the finance committee and taxpayers association, with the determination to prove to them the tremendous advantage in the town owning, rather than hiring, its equipment. As a result, the townspeople, at various town meetings has been willing to accept Mr. White's theory and invest money as recommended for good equipment. The value of the equipment has been proven in dollars and cents, as well as in service rendered. He feels that a large part of the success of this program is due to the type of equipment purchased and the way in which it is cared for by the men of the department.

In 1945, as a result of a needed survey pertaining to the water and sewerage expansion for a growing town, Mr. White was appointed by the moderator to serve on a special committee for that purpose. Consequently, a study was made, a complete report filed and many of the improvements recommended in this report have been accepted and installed.

Mr. White is the owner and proprietor of the Wild Rose farm on Lowell street, where he operates a retail and wholesale milk, cream and poultry business. He has spe-

Pre-Town Meeting At Legion Tonight

Candidates for town offices and individuals sponsoring articles in the warrant for town meeting have been invited to attend the pre-town meeting to be held at 8 o'clock tonight by Andover post, 8, American Legion in the legion rooms.

Legion Auxiliary Donates To Resuscitator Fund

The drive the Legion post is making for funds to purchase a new resuscitator is going along splendidly. Among the latest donations is one of $25 from the Women's auxiliary to the post which the committee has received from Mrs. Margaret Cilley, auxiliary president.

The post started the fund with a donation of $50 and is sponsoring the campaign to raise $350 more. Contributions may be made to committee chairman Albert Cole, Jr., at the central fire station.

WILLIAM A. DOHERTY

William A. Doherty, member of the school committee for the past 18 years is the only member seeking re-election this year. Mr. Doherty has served as secretary of the committee for the past five years. He first ran for the board in 1931 on the platform that the doings of the school committee should be reported in the press and always gave full reports of the board meetings in the columns of the Eagle-Tribune. For 17 years he fought to open the board meetings to the press and the public. This was achieved during the past year, and since last spring the press has been free to attend the board meetings, and a representative of the Andover Taxpayers association has been a regular attendant of the meetings.

Under the sub-committee system of the nine member board Mr. Doherty served 17 years as a member of the sub-committee on buildings and 16 of those years as its chairman. He also served the past few years as a member of the athletic committee. In this capacity he supervised all repair projects on the school property and the purchase of new equipment. He also took an active part in the erection of the Junior High school and the Memorial auditorium-gymnasium.

In all his years on the board he never has missed a regular, a special or a sub-committee meeting. In addition to his duties as a member of the school committee, Mr. Doherty has taken an active interest in the various school activities. He served as president of the Puncard High School Alumni association and has been a member of the alumni executive board for about 20 years. He is the present statistical secretary of the alumni association.

Mr. Doherty was formerly employed as Andover reporter for the Eagle-Tribune for 22 years. He has been in business for the past 14 years, being associated with his brother, James D. Doherty in the Doherty Insurance agency. He belongs to one of the oldest families in St. Augustine's parish, being a son of the late William J. Doherty, contractor for many years, and he makes his home with his mother, Mrs. William J. Doherty, at 21 Harding st.

Presents Preview Of Town Meeting

A preview of the town meeting was presented Monday night by the League of Women Voters when they held a meeting at Williams hall, Phillips st., to which candidates for town offices were invited and special articles in the town warrant discussed.

The hall was well filled at 8 o'clock when Mrs. John B. Hawes, president, called the meeting to order and introduced Wallace E. Brimer who acted as moderator. Candidates for the town offices were allowed two minutes to address the gathering.

As the articles in the town warrant were read and explained by Roy E. Hardy, chairman of the board of selectmen, Stanley F. Swanton, secretary of the finance committee, presented that organization's viewpoint and Louis E. Gleason, president of the Andover Taxpayers' association announced the latter's stand on each question.

Of interest to many was the announcement by Mr. Gleason that the taxpayers' association had approved the reduction of the weekly hours of firemen from 70 to 56, which will bring them in line with many other cities and towns.

The "hottest" issue in the town warrant seemed to be the article dealing with the fixing of the assessment rate to be charged to abutters on new sewer installations.

The board of public works more than a year ago voted to place an assessment of 100 percent on all new sewer construction. Pine and Elm street abutters were the first to get their bills under that ruling and immediately rose up in arms against the increase over the old rate. Abutters on Dufton and Burnham roads are also looking for a reduction in the rates assessed for their new sewer installation.

Speakers at the meeting presented both sides of the question which appeared to present the biggest single issue of the evening.

Another pre-town meeting will be held tonight by Andover post, 8, American Legion at the post rooms. All citizens are invited to attend.

Women Voters Urge All To Vote Monday

The League of Women Voters through its president, Mrs. John B. Hawes, reminds citizens of the town that it is their duty to exercise their right to vote Monday at the town election.

The league, which is a non-partisan organization, feels that it is important for all to know for whom they are voting so that they may make the wisest choice of candidates for the various town offices.

Wedding...

Humphrey—Ball

The altar of the Trinity Congregational church of Lawrence was artfully decorated with candles, palms, ferns and split philodendron and huckleberry trees formed in pyramidal shape for the wedding Thursday, Feb. 24, of Gertrude Mary Ball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Ball of 93 Saunders st., Lawrence, and Irving Malcolm Humphrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Humphrey of Winchester and Rye, N. H.

Several hundred friends and relatives of the young couple were present at the candlelight ceremony performed at 4 o'clock by the Rev. Perry Haines, Jr., of Lawrence.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a veil of imported, hand embroidered fillet, part of her mother's wedding gown. The full skirt of her ivory satin gown flowed into a long, sweeping train. Her semi-cascade bouquet of tritons and azaleas was centered with a corsage of white orchids.

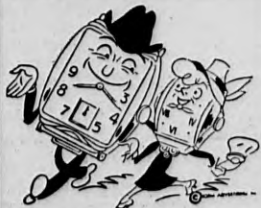

In the bridal party were Mrs. J. Rodney Ball, Jr., of Andover, sister-in-law of the bride and matron of honor, Miss Anna S. Byam of Hartford, Conn., maid of honor; Mrs. Charles C. Horton, of Rumford, R. I., and Mrs. Charles Q. Adams of Winchester, sister of the bridegroom, bridesmaids; Miss Priscilla Ann Ball of Andover, niece of the bride, and Miss Patricia Ann Adams of Winchester, niece of the bridegroom, flower girls.

Roland K. Humphrey of Watertown was best man and ushers were Charles Q. Adams of Winchester, J. Rodney Ball, Jr., of Andover, Francis E. Griffith of West Somerville, Charles C. Horton of Rumford, R. I., and Dr. Homer J. Squires of Cambridge.

With their aqua tissue faille gowns styled with bouffant skirts, the attendants wore matching half hats. The matron of honor carried glaucous lilies, yellow tritons and double daffodils with ivy streamers, and the bridesmaids' flowers were geranium poetes and double daffodils with ivy streamers.

The flower girls carried nosegays of talisman roses, forget-me-nots and white azalea blossoms. Their poke bonnets were of the same daffodil yellow as their hoop-skirted gowns of tissue faille.

At the reception in the church vestry where the bridal party received in a setting of native green hedge, azaleas, and huckleberry trees, in the form of a terrace garden, the Joseph Pulvino trio presented a program for the many guests present from Providence, R. I., Hartford, Conn., Portland, Me., Durham N. H., Whitinsville, and Boston.

FREDRIC S. O'BRIEN

Atty. Fredric S. O'Brien is a candidate for the Andover Housing authority of which he has been chairman since its origin in May, 1948. During the short time the board has been organized it has made great strides toward the accomplishment of its goal. It has polled the veterans for their preference on housing matters, it has selected and developed plans for veterans' housing, has chosen the land, and has had its plans approved by the State Housing board.

Atty. O'Brien was born and educated in Lawrence. He graduated from Dartmouth college and Harvard Law school, and practiced law in Lawrence since 1938 in the office of his late father, Atty. Michael S. O'Brien. From 1942 to 1946 he was in the navy and saw duty in both the Atlantic and Pacific theatres. He was injured at Formosa and was returned to this country.

The Housing authority is about to acquire land and start construction. With other members of the authority he has made intensive research into the problems and requirements of Andover and its veterans and would appreciate the opportunity of helping to complete the project which the Town of Andover has entrusted to its authority.

Heads Children's Hospital Drive

Vincent F. Stulgis of 22 Cheever circle, member of the school committee and of the Lawrence Bar association, has been named Andover chairman of the Children's Medical Center campaign which opens March 22.

Active in affairs of the community and post commander of Andover post, 8, American Legion, Mr. Stulgis will organize a committee to canvass the town during the hospital's drive.

Mr. Stulgis has a personal reason for volunteering his services for this cause, for his daughter has been under treatment at the Boston Children's hospital since birth in October, 1947.

"I found that it is the best hospital one could have for children and the work of its medical personnel is excellent," said Mr. Stulgis upon accepting the chairmanship. "No case is too small or too big for the Children's hospital to handle. I have a warm spot in my heart for this institution and intend to help its fund campaign as much as I possibly can."

Goal of the Children's Medical Center campaign is $11,500,000 to build a modern, 12-story structure, fully equipped with the latest medical facilities, on a site adjoining the present Boston Children's hospital. A generous public has already contributed $4,500,000 and the balance of $7,000,000 is to be raised this year, according to Mr. Stulgis.

A graduate of Northeastern university Law school, Mr. Stulgis saw three years overseas service in the Pacific during World War II. He is chairman of the Andover republican town committee.

ELIGIBILITY RULES

The following eligibility rules for interscholastic athletic competition under which athletics at Punchard High school are conducted, have been put out by the Massachusetts Secondary School Principals' association.

If athletics are to justify themselves in a secondary school program they should:

Emphasize good sportsmanship, upright conduct, and the spirit of fair play.

Place a premium on the values which accrue from fair play.

Eliminate as far as possible the practices which tend to destroy the worthwhile values of the game.

Teach respect and consideration for opponents as either guests or hosts at the game.

Cultivate respect for the authority of the school personnel, coaches and game officials.

Develop self control, self direction and sound judgement.

Discourage profanity and obscene language at all times.

Demonstrate that the rules of the game are mutual agreements, honorable in spirit as well as in letter and that the stealing of an advantage in sport is dishonorable.

Convince everyone that athletics really aim to promote the mental, social, and moral welfare of the participants, as well as his physical well being.

Promote the game for the players—and as a game only: not as a matter of life and death, of lasting glory in victory, or of disgrace in defeat.

"A real sportsman is always a gentleman. He who plays fair in the strenuous game of life; who is clean of body and mind and soul; who associates with honest men; who is courteous to friend and foe; who is too chivalrous to wound the feelings of others; and too sensible to lower his respect for himself; whose hopes and dreams are founded on the rock of determination; who looks you straight in the eye; who meets victory without boasting, and defeat without bitterness; and all life with a smile; who loves his friend, his country and his God; is a gentleman." Presents Views On Plan Of World Federation

Taking issue with the views on World Federation expressed by Leonard F. James in The Townsman of Feb. 3, Thomas H. Mahoney of Boston, co-chairman of the Massachusetts branch, United World Federalists, presents the views of that organization in the following statement to The Townsman:

The Andover Townsman of Feb. 3, 1949, contained an article by Leonard F. James on World Federation and "its elusive nature"—and doubtful practicability. While admitting the clear logic of the proponents of World Federation the author seemed to charge World Federalists with attempting to legislate effective world government into existence "in a vacuum"—the present absence of a world "community of interest and purpose." He argued that the burden is upon World Federalists to prove not only the present practicability of World Federation but the steps which can be taken to achieve it—the steps to "strengthen" the United Nations into a limited World Government. The present article is prompted by a desire to answer the James assertions.

Let us begin with a consideration of the present status of world organizations for peace and determine whether it is adequate to maintain international peace and the national security of the individual states.

The United Nations' charter contains a magnificent statement of purpose—the maintenance of international peace and security. It does not provide machinery which is adequate to achieve that noble purpose. The Security council, primarily charged with the responsibility of achieving that purpose, and theoretically capable of binding all member nations, has been and can be paralyzed by the exercise of the veto by a Great Power. In matters of substance a negative vote by any one of these five powers prevents action. The veto has been used 30 times by the Soviet Union and twice by France. By reason of impasses reached and threatened, it has been impossible for over two years to establish a United Nations security force, to provide an international atomic energy control or to secure limitation of conventional armaments.

The Security council could not, in the face of a Soviet Union veto, have adopted or applied the Truman Doctrine to Greece or Turkey. It could not have prevented the Czechoslovak coup of February, 1948, or the Chinese Communist overwhelming of North China. It cannot in the face of such a veto prevent similar coups, in Finland or Norway. The charter permits the exercise of the veto by an aggressive Great Power to prevent interference with its own aggression against other states, whether that aggression is direct or indirect.

The general assembly, with recommendatory powers only, cannot bind the member states or the Security council to any international action. Its recommendations for partition of Palestine was not followed, but challenged by the Arab states. Its recommendations for elimination of Yugoslav aid to the Greek guerrillas has been ignored and flouted by Yugoslavia. Its recommendations for setting up a republican form of government for all Korea, has been defied by the Soviet Union. Even its establishment of the Interim committee, the Little Assembly, within the provisions of the charter has been boycotted by the Soviet Union and its satellite states.

Between a Security council theoretically capable of binding the member states, but subject to paralysis by the veto and the general assembly theoretically and practically incapable of binding them, the United Nations, in the political field—as was true of the League of Nations before it—is inadequate to meet and solve the problems of peace and security with which it has been, is and will be confronted.

Let us now consider whether anything should be done to overcome these deficiencies.

There are those who say, "Let the United Nations evolve into a stronger organization." But the record of three years has failed to show any evolution toward strength. That record, certainly so far as the Security council is concerned, has emphasized the inadequacy of the United Nations.

It may be argued that the Western Union—composed of Belgium, Luxembourg, The Netherlands, France and the United Kingdom—the North Atlantic Alliance—the suggested alliance of these five nations and Canada and the United States—and the Organization of American States, are such evolutionary steps under Article 51 of the charter.

But Article 51 confers no rights upon states. It merely recognizes an inherent right of self defense in every state—a right to resist armed attack, and to combine with other states therefor. This article recognizes that the United Nations may be unable to challenge or to overcome aggression by a Great Power against another state by reason of the exercise of the veto by such power, and that in such event every member state is free to defend itself or its neighbor. There can be little doubt that the Western Union and the proposed North Atlantic Alliance are directed against possible aggression by the Soviet Union and founded upon the proposition that the United Nations could offer no help in such a contingency in the face of a certain Soviet Union veto.

Whether time enough exists for successful evolution is another serious question. If the United Nations is to evolve to this point, it must evolve before the pattern of international conduct based upon an armaments race is so set that war will result. Physicists have told us that by 1948 or 1949 the Soviet Union will have discovered the secret of the atomic bomb, that in three more years it can catch up with the bomb production of the United States and thereafter out-produce our country. Without question they have biological or bacteriological weapons now. Therefore, the time is rapidly growing shorter for evolutionary or international change in the character of the United Nations.

Let us now consider the proposals of the World Federalists. They suggest that the Soviet Union may have certain problems which should be recognized and solved if possible—access to warm water ports, internationalization of the great waterways such as the Suez and Panama canals and international rivers and equality of access to the natural resources of the world. They suggest an attempt to solve these problems by international conference and as an integral part of such solution the conversion of the United Nations into a World Federation. In the event that the Soviet Union definitely and finally refuses "to go along," they suggest that the other nations proceed to create a federation.

Amendments to the charter may be adopted by the general assembly or by a general conference such as that held at San Francisco in 1945. If such amendments are ratified by two-thirds of the member nations including the five Great Powers they become effective. If the Soviet Union refused to ratify all other nations desiring such amendments could organize under Article 51 as a world federation, and continue membership in the United Nations for discussions in the general assembly and Security council with the Soviet Union and its satellites. Such an organization, open to the Soviet Union whenever it might see fit to become a member, would undoubtedly have an overwhelming preponderance of military, naval, air, economic, etc. power and constitute an effective deterrent to aggression by any nation.

It may be argued that without the Soviet Union there could be no world federation. Is the United States of America no less the United States of America because it is but one of more than twenty American states? Would the United States of the World be any less the United States of the World if it contained 53 of the present 59 members of the United

Radcliffe Club Plans Spring Fashion Show

Fifteen spring styles will be the highlight of the spring fashion show, "A Salute To Spring," to be presented by the Radcliffe college alumnae club of Andover, Thursday, March 17, at 8 p.m., in the Memorial auditorium.

The new season's most charming styles for all ages from tots to teens will be introduced and described by Miss Marjorie Smith of the Punchard High school faculty as the juvenile and teen-age models appear on stage.

Clothes for the show, which is to benefit the Radcliffe college 70th anniversary fund, are from the new Jonathan Swift shop. Tickets may be obtained from any of the following: The Jonathan Swift shop, Mrs. L. Denis Peterkin, Miss Miriam Putnam, Miss Lillian Fox of Punchard High, Miss Sally Westhaver of the Junior King's Daughters of the South church, or from any member of that group.

Nations scattered all over the world?

The World Federalists suggest as a minimum authority to be delegated to such a World Federation: (1) power to enact a code of international law regulating the relations between states, providing for disarmament by states to a point necessary only for domestic policing, prohibiting war and compelling submission of all international disputes to adjudication by such law; (2) power to enact a code of world penal law applicable to individuals and prohibiting the manufacture, possession or use of weapons of mass destruction; (3) power to establish a judicial system with compulsory jurisdiction over states and international disputes, and (4) power to establish an executive department with peace or police powers adequate to enforce such international and world law.

The nations are now struggling with what we call international law, based on customs and treaties. International law and world law enacted by a legislative branch of a world federation would be simpler and more effective.

The present World court has no compulsory jurisdiction. The Soviet Union cannot be brought before the court against that nation's objection or without its consent. A system of world courts with compulsory jurisdiction under a world federation, alone would be completely adequate.

The United Nations has found it impossible to develop an international security force. Under a world federation this would be no more difficult than establishing a regular army, an F.B.I. and a corps of department of justice marshalls by the United States.

World Federalists assert that there can be no permanent world peace without world order; that there can be no stable world order without world law; that there can be no effective world law without a world authority to enact it; that there can be no adequate world authority without a delegation to it or pooling in it of sufficient power to enact, interpret, apply and enforce world law directly upon the individual; that until and unless a world federation is established with such authority, world peace and world order is unlikely or impossible; that the challenge is such and the conditions existing in the world are such that world federation must be achieved by the exercise of man's God-given reason within a comparatively brief period of time and cannot be left to evolution; that appreciating the alternative to world federation, man can, should and will compel the change.

Presents Readings For Service Club

The Andover Service club was entertained at its meeting last Thursday night at the Andover Inn by Miss Doris Letourneau, reader, of Lawrence, who gained the distinction two years ago of participating in the national finals of the oratorical contest sponsored by the American Legion.

Introduced by Victor Mill, Jr., who with Clinton D. Shaw had charge of the evening's entertainment, Miss Letourneau presented a varied program which included offerings of a serious nature and some in a lighter vein. She also related some of her experiences with the youngsters in her two classes which she is now teaching in Lawrence. Miss Letourneau expects to enter Emerson college next fall.

Another large gathering was present when the president, Frank L. Brigham, called the supper meeting to order. The Rev. Philip M. Kelsey, pastor of the Union Congregational church, Ballardvale, offered the blessing. Drawing for the free dinner was won by Kirk Batcheller. The door prize was won by Thaxter Eaton.

Pres. Brigham announced that the next meeting, to be held March 10, would be in charge of Dr. Nathaniel Stowers and his civic committee.

In the absence of T. Augustine Farragher who was detained by business, Eugene A. Bernardin, Jr., acted as secretary. Three new members were accepted: Francis J. Rodericks, 1 Lincoln circle; Mason F. Arnold, 105 Elm st., and Douglas N. Howe, 402 N. Main st.

Copies of the projects suggested to be undertaken by the club were presented to the members. Dr. Stowers, chairman of the committee in charge of this feature, announced that they would be discussed at the April 7 meeting.

MOVIES AT BALLARDVALE

At 8 p.m., Thursday, March 10, there will be a movie hour at the Ballardvale branch of the Memorial Hall library, open to junior and senior high school students and adults. The films to be shown include "Wing Over Ireland," "One World Or None" and "Dare-devils Of The Alps."

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

DON'T NEGLECT YOUR DUTY TO VOTE!

Next Monday, March 7th, is election day in Andover.

We cannot over-emphasize how important it is for all registered voters to go to the polls and vote. Too many countries now, do not have the privilege of free expression of personal rights.

Last year only 56% of the voters cast their ballots at the town election, which is too small a percentage for a public-spirited town like Andover.

For the office of selectman and assessor, this paper endorses Louis E. Gleason, president of the Andover Taxpayers' association. A group of prominent citizens recently said, "Mr. Gleason is very friendly, energetic and able, and has always shown fairness and independence of thought in making up his mind as to what is best for the interest of the town." We feel this is an accurate evaluation of Mr. Gleason's past service.

For the election to the board of public works, we endorse the re-election of John H. Kelley, whose record on the board since 1946 has been most commendable, and worthy of consideration for another term. There are six candidates for the other office on this board who, we believe, are fairly matched in their qualifications. The election of any one of these candidates will give the town of Andover a capable man for the office.

For the four offices on the Town Housing authority there are five candidates and, again, we believe the election of any four will provide efficient men.

We endorse the re-election of William A. Doherty for school committee. Mr. Doherty has served on this board efficiently and conscientiously for the past 18 years.

We realize, of course, some of our readers will disagree with our selections. However, no matter what your feelings are, be sure to vote — and urge the other members of your family and your friends and neighbors to do likewise.

VETERANS' HOUSING

All signs seem to point to the fact that construction of dwelling units for local veterans will start this spring. The state board has approved the plans of the Andover Housing authority and when the local authority signs the contract for financial assistance, some $670,000 will be available for the local work.

Andover has been working on this project for some time, and, as a matter of fact, has made more progress in the business than almost any other town in the Commonwealth.

Andover veterans are fortunate that the local housing authority has been so active.

POLITICS AND MEDICINE

The surest way to improve American medical service is to keep politics out of it. Doctors in this country have proved through the years that they are very well able to continue on their own, and it is just plain common sense to state that if those who attend us when we are ill, were to be told what to do, and what not to do, by a few politicians, the results would probably be disastrous.

Statistics indicate that in every country where government has socialized or dominated medicine standards of care, have either become static or declined. The workings of bureaucracy do not make for initiative. Less and less attention is given to research and experiment. Doctors are forced, under a panel system, to take more patients than they can properly handle, and the public health suffers.

voluntary medical insurance schemes. But now that large danger looms ahead, the A.M.A. is trying to catch up with public opinion. That organization is now pretty solidly in favor of voluntary schemes. It is virtually consolidated against any government plan, whether state or national.

Stand Still Or Move Forward?

The arguments against socialized medicine, or compulsory medical insurance, depending upon choice of phraseology, will be increasingly heard. Medicine will deteriorate, anything the government has a hand in will be a boondoggle, people will chisel for unnecessary medical care, doctors will be overworked. Not all of those charges are insuperable obstacles. Criticism about government interference may be valid. But one factor must not be overlooked. A medical crisis can be a major financial catastrophe to a family. And too many people cannot afford that crisis. Therefore the public must be educated to insure itself against that hazard, as it does against fire and death and other major losses. Health is virtually the major consideration for families. Its protection should be the prime necessity. This could have been a worthy cause for public education by the A.M.A. That association can be justly criticized for failing to recognize that obligation.

Socialized Medicine Not Radical In England

The British scheme—very definitely socialized medicine under a socialist government—has probably come to stay. But it should be remembered that it was a Conservative government that recognized the need for public medicine. It is very doubtful whether a Conservative government of the future would reverse the trend back to relatively private medicine. For it was Churchill's former government which pronounced that "the care of personal health should be put on a new footing and be made available to everybody as a publicly sponsored service."

Socialized medicine is not a radical change in England. Certain aspects came in under the Liberal Party some 35 years ago. Ever since 1912 most employed adults have been covered by a compulsory National Insurance Act which provided against sickness and unemployment. The present change is one of degree. Now all persons are eligible regardless of age or income. And it must be remembered that those who choose to retain their right to private medical care may enjoy that privilege. But those who could not formerly afford adequate medical care can now get it.

The criticism of the British scheme that wigs, artificial limbs, glasses and the like can be had by everyone for free does not disprove that needs exist. That patients queue up for hours is not evidence solely that people enjoy getting something for nothing. It could be that real needs can for the first time be satisfied. A nation won't be harmed by being healthier.

What For The U.S.A.?

Here in the United States the trend towards increasing group medical insurance, in part supported by employers, is evidence of an awakening of public opinion to medical needs. But there is still very much room for further public education. If more people joined such schemes, the costs would be reduced. A major job lies ahead. Fear of British developments should not immunize us to evident needs.

Educate For Voluntary Medical Insurance

British experience and American medical needs can suggest to conscientious men a solution that provides essentials without nationalization. There must be some way to improve upon present condition without going to extremes. The A.M.A. campaign fund could well be used to educate us to educate ourselves. The British Medical association, conservative as it is, agrees that "everybody who wants it should be able to get complete health service without having to pay doctors' bills."

Denouncing a government plan is not enough. There is only one substitute for nationalized medicine. And that is a well-organized voluntary method under a free enterprise system, cheap enough to meet the needs of all. But it won't come by itself. We must be the ones to decide to get it.

MEET—

MRS. THEODORE E. WARD

Through all the miles of travel, all the exciting experiences and outstanding achievements, Mrs. Theodore E. Ward (Susan Ripley) has retained that simple, gracious all the exciting experiences and distinctive.

She modestly calls herself a housewife but listed among her past and present activities are many accomplishments far removed from that realm. Manager of the Andover Community orchestra, and violin teacher in the Andover Public schools, Mrs. Ward is a graduate of Abbot academy class of 1928, and the Institute of Musical Art of New York. She also attended the Juilliard School of Music, Carleton college in Minnesota, and the Middlebury, Vt., music center. She studied under the noted Mischa Elzon.

At one time the solo violinist with the San Antonio, Texas, Symphony orchestra, violinist for the movie sound track orchestra, Mexico City, Mexico, she has also traveled a great deal during her teaching career. Her talents have been utilized by the public schools of Wakefield, North Andover, The Union Settlement in New York City, and the Providence, R. I. Community music school. Her violin has been heard with Horace Britt and Mischa Elzon playing with the Middlebury String quartet.

Mrs. Ward was born here and lived here for the first 18 years of her life. Then came her years of travel and education, and now she has returned to make her home at 7 Abbot st. Her father is Philip F. Ripley, well-known Andover resident, and she has a sister, Helen, and a brother, George, of Allentown, Penn.

Do You Know Massachusetts?

DO YOU KNOW THAT . . . Up to December 31, 1948, a total of 67,502 Massachusetts veterans had borrowed $440,635,394 under the G.I. loan plan for the purchase of homes, farms or business. The Veterans Administration's guarantee and insurance of these loans totaled about $191,028,000 . . . Massachusetts at the close of 1948 had a total of 97 airports and seaplane bases of all classes . . . Production of Massachusetts' fishing industry is exceeded in the United States only by Alaska and California in weight and only by California in value . . . A Bureau of Labor Statistics survey shows that the average construction cost of new single-family dwellings started during 1947 in the Boston area was $7,700, exclusive of land, landscaping or seller's profit. Only 21% of these homes cost less than $5,250, which was regarded as the top in moderate priced housing before the war . . . Of the 10,133 manufacturing establishments in Massachusetts that reported for old age insurance taxation during the first quarter of 1947, 3,868 had less than eight employees, 8,823 had less than 100, and only 270 had 500 or more employees . . . At its recent annual meeting, the town of Harwich voted to establish an official planning board.

REPORT from the State House

By PHILIP K. ALLEN

In addition to the issuing of certificates and licenses for motor vehicles and the enforcement of the laws regulating their operation, the registry of motor vehicles is also charged with the providing of special services. Because of the fact that these services have not been given a great deal of publicity and because they demonstrate a willingness on the part of the state to consider the problems of the individual, they are reported in some detail.

There is the case of the amputee and paraplegic for example. Under federal law, any veteran of World War II who has a service-connected injury resulting in the loss or the loss of use of one foot or above the ankle is eligible to receive $1,600 toward a car. This car must, of course, be specially fitted to serve the individual's needs. Once the car is purchased, however, the driver of that car must be licensed to operate it. For this purpose a division of veteran's facilities and handicapped has been set up within the registry of motor vehicles to test the operating skill of these drivers and to issue licenses.

In addition to these licenses the division is authorized to issue so-called "courtesy" stickers to those in this category who own their own cars. This sticker, fastened to the windshield or rear window, allows the disabled operator while driving his own car to stop at a convenient location for the purpose of doing an errand, but not for the purpose of unlimited parking. Any fraction of law or local ordinance, of course, or any abuse of this privilege when reported by the chief of police of any police department is followed immediately by the removal of the sticker and the suspension of any courtesies that may have been previously extended to the individual. It is interesting to note that to date 721 veterans have been licensed to drive and have been issued such courtesy stickers.

Originally only the disabled veteran was given the privilege to operate an automobile. In recent years, however, this right has been extended to other disabled persons, provided, of course, as in the case of the veteran, that the individual has been deemed fit and able to operate that vehicle safely.

In the case of the person whose leg or arm has been amputated (not service-connected), a test is given by this division to determine his ability to operate either a car specially equipped for him or an ordinary vehicle by means of a brace or an artificial limb.

Much more complicated is the case of those who are afflicted with an ailment or disability which might cause them to lose consciousness or control. For these there must, of course, be a more frigid test and a complete investigation to find whether they are physically or mentally able to operate a vehicle.

Epilepsy is the most common disease in this category, for seizures quite frequently result in immediate loss of consciousness without warning. Nevertheless, if a person, according to a written certificate from his doctor, has been free from seizure for a protracted time and it is reasonable to assume from the doctor's report that seizure will not occur, the division is authorized to issue a license to that person to operate a vehicle, upon completion of an exacting test. Furthermore, in order to continue to hold that license, he must be examined by his doctor every three months and a certificate as to his health must be submitted to the department by his doctor, all of this for an indefinite period.

Only four other states give real consideration to the licensing of epileptics to operate motor vehicles. In most of the other states there are no requirements other than a superficial physical examination.

The paraplegics (who are paralyzed from the waist down) and the hemiplegics (paralyzed on one side) are thoroughly examined and are required to present evidence in the form of a medical certificate that spasms during which they lose their equilibrium will not occur. The paraplegics, of course, must pass a rigid test in a car equipped with complete hand controls, while

What Our Readers Say—

Dear Sir:

We read with interest Mr. James' article in the Townsman on February 3 challenging the position of those who are advocating world federation.

We have read, also, the reply to Mr. James written by Mr. Thomas Mahoney, an outstanding Boston lawyer, who is a leader in the World Federalist effort.

It is our hope that many citizens of Andover will give thoughtful consideration to both points of view.

Lying-In Hospital Fund Now $362,050

Mrs. F. Tyler Carlton of 18 Cheever Circle, community chairman in the general campaign of the Boston Lying-In Hospital's $400,000 remodeling and rehabilitation fund program, urged local team workers to complete all assignments during the month, following the final dinner of the general campaign Tuesday night at the Hotel Vendome in Boston.

At that time it was announced that the fund total stood at $362,050. However, Dr. Thomas R. Goethals, chairman of the project, assured the assembled workers and leaders that the effort was not finished. "We will carry on for the next month," he said. "There are a number of commitments outstanding in all committees, including your local teams, and we are certain that by the time of the campaign's official closing on March 31, we will have reached our goal."

MIND THE GRIND!

There are scads of different coffee-makers—percolators, drip, vacuum and regular coffeepots. And which ever kind you use, coffee should be properly ground for it. That's why I recommend A&P COFFEE. When you buy, the fresh coffee beans are ground just right for the way YOU make coffee.

Factory ground coffees can't give this individualized service, and that's one reason A&P COFFEE tastes better. Try it and see!

BREAK BREAKFAST
MONOTONY!

Serve A&P GRAPE JUICE, chilled. It's the pure, undiluted juice of purple-ripe Concord Grapes. So refreshing—a royal treat for a few pennies a glass! Keep a bottle in the refrigerator. Serve it in tall glasses with ice and soda to make a hit with the young crowd. In pints or quarts at A&P.

DATED FRESH—RATED TOPS!

Want absolutely fresh bread every time? Get MARVEL BREAD at A&P. The Freshness Date is right on the wrapper. MARVEL has the rich, yet delicate taste of bread made with the finest ingredients and baked to perfection. Try it for golden toast, delicious sandwiches, or just plain buttered!

TROOP MEETINGS

Troop 70 of Christ church met Friday, Feb. 25, in the parish house. The troop was in charge of Senior Patrol Leader Bancroft Frederickson in the absence of Scoutmaster George Luedke, who is ill. Instruction in Morse signaling and games were on the program.

Troop 72 of the Free church met in the vestry Friday, Feb. 25, with Scoutmaster David MacCord in charge. The patrols are busy preparing for the annual Scout-oral to be held by the District committee in April.

Troop 76 of Ballardvale met Tuesday evening, Mar. 1, after a lapse of a week due to vacation. The troop meets in the Scout room of the Fire house with Arnold Schofield, Scoutmaster.

Scout-o-Ral

The third annual Scout-o-Ral will be held in Case Memorial cage, Phillips academy, Saturday afternoon, Apr. 2. Complete details of the affair will be given next week. This year a new plan went into effect February 13, and will continue to March 26, whereby each patrol of each troop will be able to have points awarded to them in advance of the Scout-o-Ral. Points to be awarded prior to the Scout-o-Ral are based on the following: (1) — points to each patrol maintaining a 75% average attendance of four out of six meetings; (2) 25 points to each patrol bringing in a new boy with his application signed and enrollment fee paid; (3) each patrol in troop will be awarded 25 points if the troop committee holds two meetings during the period of time designated above; (4) 25 points to each patrol registering and participating in all events.

Advancement

The Andover district troops are making a much better showing this year in advancement and it appears that there may be several scouts who will reach Eagle rank during 1949. Dr. Nathaniel Stowers, chairman of the advancement committee, has suggested a fine slogan: "First" by fourteen, "Eagle" by sixteen. If more boys climb the scouting trail and become first class by fourteen years of age and Eagle scout by sixteen the benefits derived by the boys from the scouting program will be greatly increased.

Red Cross Opens Drive For Fund Of $10,290

Ernest S. Young, fund chairman, presided and introduced Roy E. Hardy, chairman of the chapter, who announced Andover's quota of $10,290.

The activities of the past year were outlined by the chairmen of the various volunteer services. In paying tribute to the solicitors who help supply Red Cross with the ammunition it needs to carry on its great efforts to alleviate human suffering, Mrs. C. Edward Buchan quoted Royal C. Agne, national director of fund raising: "Suppose that you were to stand by an imaginary window to observe an unusual but possible procession made up of the people who in 1948 benefited from Red Cross services. What a varied lot of people they are—those from disaster-stricken areas; those in the armed forces calling on Red Cross field directors; veterans in hospitals; the families of servicemen and veterans; those who are aided by blood collected through the Red Cross; those neediest children in many lands overseas; and thousands of others. They are marching 10 abreast. Such a line of 10 passes your line of vision at every tick of your watch. Do you know how long you would need to stand there by your window until the last line passed? Through 24 hours of every day, for exactly one week."

"Again stand at your window on the morning of March 1st. Another procession goes by your window. Volunteers in fund-raising 10 abreast—four million of them on their way to their neighbors' homes on March 1st to ask that the many needed services shall be kept flowing through Red Cross channels—you will need to stand by your window through days and nights for more than 100 hours until the last line will have been lost in their rounds of house to house solicitation."

Solicitors for the local campaign include:

Ballardvale—Mrs. William McIntyre, Mrs. Arthur Weiss, captains, Mrs. Robert Auchterlonie, co-captain; Mrs. Paul Payne, Joseph Stott, Mrs. Peter Quinn, Miss Adelaide Webb, Mrs. Harold Grant, Mrs. Alfred Webb, Mrs. John Hall, Jr., Mrs. W. A. Viets, and Mrs. Franklin Haggerty.

Zone Speed Law For Route 28

Zone speed laws are going to be put into operation soon on Route 28 which includes all of Main st. Speed of 30 to 45 miles an hour for the various zones were discussed and decided upon at a recent meeting held at the Andover state police barracks.

Police Chief George A. Dane attended the discussion together with Ald. Louis A. Scanlon, commissioner of public safety of Lawrence, the police chiefs of North Andover, Reading, North Reading and Stoneham, Inspectors Charles Bailey, Ernest Perry and George Hancock of the registry of motor vehicles, and two engineers of the state traffic division.

Zone speed laws are to be put into effect shortly on all Massachusetts highways. This is the result of legislation giving the state board of public works authority to make such regulations.

Sections of the highway are to be marked with signs showing the maximum speed. Autoists will not be allowed to exceed the rate in a particular zone.

Signs made with reflecting buttons which will be visible for night driving, will mark zones indicating speeds of not more than 30-35-40-45 miles an hour.

While local zones at the top of the hill near the academy, and that from the railroad bridge to Shawshen will be marked "30" Chief Dane says that the 30-mile rate is the highest that will be allowed.

He also calls attention of motorists to the fact that despite the signs indicating the zone speed, the law designating speeding as "any speed unreasonable and improper at the time" is still in effect and will be strictly enforced.

Zone speeds aren't in effect in other states and Chief Dane believes that such markings on the highways of Massachusetts will be of great assistance to out-of-state motorists who are accustomed to them.
