Doing Something About the Weather

Far out in the stormy North Atlantic Ocean seamen (1) aboard the Canadian weather ship H.M.C.S. St. Stephen, prepare to release a radio-equipped balloon which will radio back reports on weather conditions in the upper atmosphere. The St. Stephen (2) is one of 13 weather ships, supplied by eight countries and financed by 10, which make up a network arranged by the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO), a specialized agency of the United Nations. The ICAO weather ships are on constant duty, ready to radio passing aircraft late weather information, and to participate in search and rescue operations. A specialist (3) maps weather data coming from a weather balloon and prepares it for broadcast to passing planes and shore-stations.

New Sewer Rate Agreement Made

A plan by which new sewer assessments may be based was discussed by the board of public works Wednesday night in connection with the payment of the use of a sewer at the new science building of Merrimack college.

It was agreed that payment would be made on the basis of 80 per cent of the water used and it is expected that such a rate might be made to take care of the disputed rates on Elm and Pine streets, Burnham and Dutton roads, and all future sewer assessments.

This agreement was reached with Merrimack college in connection with the new science building under construction. To be put into effect it will have to be signed by the board of public works, the selectmen and directors of the college. It may be terminated by either party in one year.

A letter was received from Edward Crossley of Mill st., asking that the town tar the road in order to keep the dust down. This was taken under advisement.

Charles Dutton of Canterbury st., who petitioned for a water extension on the street a year ago, asked for a decision on his petition in eight days. The board is to take the question up with the finance committee next Wednesday and give its decision the next day.

Bids on 6-in. water pipe were received as follows:
Warren Pipe Co., Everett;
$1.67 a foot; fittings 12 cents a pound; the pipe delivered from stock, the fittings three to six weeks.

R. D. Wood, Philadelphia;
$1.59 a foot; fittings 12 1/2 cents a pound; one week delivery.

U. S. Pipe Co., $1.62 a foot; fittings 12 cents a pound; 30-day delivery.

Abbot Notes...

The lacrosse season is on at Abbot academy with the first match game played on Monday afternoon. The Gargoyles took the first honors. Practice games will be played between the Gargoyles and Griffins until the final teams are chosen for the field day play-off, May 28.

Wednesday evening of this week, the campus enjoyed a dance recital presented by the Wednesday Night dance group under the direction of Miss Gwendolyn Elroy of the school's physical education department, assisted by Miss Dorothy Judd, the head of the department. The dance compositions were adaptations from the works of Vachel Lindsay, Peter Warlock, Stephen Foster, and George Gershwin. Costumes, lighting, and backgrounds contributed to the success of the program which was an outstanding event in the year's calendar.

Thursday afternoon, May 19, Miss Marguerite Hearsey entertained the mothers of Abbot day scholars at tea in the Draper hall McKen rooms. Invited to assist Miss Hearsey were the wives of Abbot's trustees who live in the community: Mrs. E. Barton Chapin, Mrs. Burton S. Flagg, Mrs. Irving Southworth, Mrs. George Abbot, Mrs. Philip K. Allen, Mrs. George Sawyer.

The program for Saturday evening will be the presentation of students of Miss Emily Hale's speech classes. The following girls will give readings: Margaret Black, Nancy Rogal, Carol Quigg, Dorothy Lampert, and Ann Bronaugh.

Miss Marguerite Hearsey, principal of Abbot academy, will attend the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the founding of Deerfield academy, Deerfield, Mass., which is to take place Friday and Saturday, May 21 and 22. Educators from all over New England have been invited to be present. Dr. Claude Fuess, former headmaster of Phillips academy, will be one of the principal speakers.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

SPEEDING A MENACE

Andover police have a speeding problem on their hands and unless drivers recognize the necessity of co-operating, drastic steps may become necessary in dealing with it.

Some of Andover's through roads constitute temptation spots for some drivers with a heavy "gas" foot and the result is too much speeding and the taking of too many chances. The police department is not sufficiently manned to allow for constant vigilance and patrolling of these spots so that about the only alternative is to do less warning and more prosecuting of those who violate the speed laws. A few severe lessons to those who look upon all through roads as speed highways will be far more effective than any program of coddling by warnings.

The speeder gets little sympathy generally because of his defiance of the rights of others and the normal rules of safety. He too often by his use of roads manifests a feeling that roads are for him exclusively and not for the many. He too often jeopardizes not only his own life but the lives of others who have great respect for the rights of all and the accepted rules of safety.

Andover must not tolerate reckless speeding either by her own or transient drivers. Andover people will laud Chief Dane and his officers for the program of enforcement that is planned unless the speeding menace takes care of itself.

INVEST IN U. S. A.

The 1949 U. S. Savings Bond Opportunity drive is underway — May 16 to June 30.

Our government asks us to invest $1,040,000,000 in Series E bonds during the next six weeks.

We, the people of Andover, are asked to do our share and our government has decided that if we subscribe to $88,549 in E bonds during that time we will have performed our patriotic duty.

Roy E. Hardy, chairman of the Andover board of selectmen, has accepted the assignment of chairman of the Opportunity Drive to direct the efforts of the various agencies through which Andover will seek to not only attain the goal of $88,549 but to far oversubscribe it. Chairman Hardy is confident that Andover will pile up another splendid mark of patriotism in this latest drive and sends forth a message to all the people of our town asking them to send Andover gloriously over the top.

The slogan of the drive is — "Put More Opportunity In Your Future." The objective is to have every American buy bonds where he works and to further promote participation in the two automatic savings plans, Payroll Savings and Bond-A-Month, in order to meet national, state, county and community quotas.

The symbol of the 1949 drive is one steeped in American tradition and great in dramatizing the history of a peoples' determined search for Security and Opportunity, THE COVERED WAGON OF THE 1849 GOLD RUSH.

Every individual holder of Savings Bonds becomes a better citizen interested in better government because, like corporation stockholders, he has a financial, as well as an active, stake in Uncle Sam.

Andover's quota in this drive is high, being based upon the splendid and patriotic response in all previous drives. Andover citizens will again come through with true American spirit, and support Chairman Hardy's leadership so solidly that when he reports the results to the U. S. Treasury Department, the government's answer to the people of Andover will be:—

Well done — Andover — well done.

AFTER TEN YEARS

It is a source of regret to note the passing of the Andover Community orchestra which has decided to disband for lack of support.

A community enterprise of high ideals it worked hard in the 10 years of its life to bring good music to the people of Andover.

Directors of the organization were constantly on the alert for talented musicians, going into several neighboring communities to recruit capable performers for its ranks. Members rehearsed often and long under capable leadership to present programs of standard music which on many occasions provided excellent entertainment for those who attended its concerts.

That it has been forced to disband after struggling for a decade to enrich the town's cultural life seems like an expression of apathy difficult to associate with the people of Andover. It deserved a better fate.

Views of The News

In most provincial centers only one third of the council was in dispute. Only A Comparative Labour Defeat.

Furthermore, the loss to Labour is a comparative one. In 1947 the Conservatives gained 800 such seats and Labour lost some 640 outside London; last week the Conservatives made a net gain of 792 seats while Labour lost a net total of 700. And the contested seats at this election had been won by Labour in 1945 when it was at peak popularity. One important consideration to be remembered is that in 35 by-elections for parliamentary seats at Westminster—seats vacant through resignation or death—Labour has won every one since 1945.

Workers Dissatisfied With Labour Party?

Nevertheless, Labour must regard itself as now on the defensive, with the issue for the 1950 parliamentary or national election by no means determined. Although local council elections are fought essentially over local issues it is significant that in last week's contest many formerly 'independent' candidates adopted national party labels and were returned as party members; and national issues were most obviously reflected in the results. Labour lost its very clear majority in the industrial stronghold of Manchester, and took a definite defeat in Birmingham, Newcastle and other towns where the workers' vote is preponderant. And these towns are lost at a time of comparative prosperity and following the removal of many irritating rationing restrictions.

A Middle Class "Protest"? Very probably the middle class—many of whom certainly voted Labour in the 1945 parliamentary election—registered a protest at what they regard as Labour extravagance in the spending of public money and the obvious policy of taxing the middle class to pay for various social benefits to labor. It may be a protest against the recent high-tax, austerity budget. It could be exasperation at the repeated "crises" which the British public have faced since 1945.

And the Labour Government should be worried about the problems that can still beset before the legal end of its five-year existence that began in July 1945. Already there are signs that British export trade has gone over the peak; and Germany threatens soon to become a serious trade rival. Four years after the war the Allied area of Germany is back to 90 per cent of pre-war industrial capacity. The British find not only that their export market is dwindling but that they now have competitors for what is left. And to complicate the situation still further they find that their raw-materials costs are too high for the competitive finished-products market.

And Dearer Raw Materials The downward trend in world prices of raw materials which Britain must purchase abroad works adversely for government-buying on a long-term basis. Most raw materials and foodstuffs imported into Britain are purchased by the government, and often on a three-month price basis. The purchaser consequently pays the price paid by the government, even although the world price may have dropped considerably since the government contracted for the materials. As a result, the British wholesalers and manufacturers of finished products are paying up to 50 per cent more than is paid by the American buyer on the world market.

One obvious result is that the British manufacturer finds his finished product too high-priced for the foreign market. He may try to maintain his exports by slashing his prices and taking a smaller profit. Actually the prices of British goods are 12 per cent higher than in 1946; the British manufacturer is being pushed out of the North American market. Something has to give way—prices, profits, wages, or the market.

MEET—

LEVERING REYNOLDS, JR.

When the Rev. Levering Reynolds, Jr., was installed as pastor of the Free Christian church in November, 1945, he brought to his new congregation and to his townspeople an enthusiasm and sincerity which has endeared him to all who know him.

A native of Boston where he was born in 1908, he graduated from Howe High school in Billerica and then attended Cambridge High and Latin school for post graduate work before going on to Harvard where he received his A.B. degree. At Andover-Newton Theological school he studied for his B.D., and now after receiving his S.T.M., from Harvard Divinity school last year, he is a candidate for his degree of doctor of theology.

Before he came to Andover three and one half years ago, he had held pastorates in Franconia, Colebrook and East Jaffrey, N.H. President of the Andover Council of Churches and a member of the Andover Service club, the Rev. Mr. Reynolds is married to the former May Mosher and has one son, Levering Reynolds, III, nine years old. They live at 61 Shawshen rd.

Advantages Of Devaluation

Consequently there is agitation for devaluation of the British pound sterling, whereby a pound would cost $3 instead of present $4. Were that done a British car costing $1000—or £250—would then sell for $750 and thus attract the buyer. Such a condition is naturally attractive to the seller. But the other side of the medal shows that raw materials from the United States would cost more, for the British pound would then buy only $3 worth.

And Disadvantages

The dilemma for the British government is a serious one. If its exports stop, its imports decrease. Not only do the workers lose their jobs, they also cannot get essential foods, since wheat, oils, meat and sugar must be imported. If money is devalued, imported foods cost more and food prices must rise in Britain. Rising cost of living must be met either by further government subsidies on foods—to be paid for by higher taxes on the middle class—or by raising wages. That would complete the circle by raising the cost of manufactured goods and thus losing further foreign markets. And apart from domestic considerations the danger to be feared from devaluation is that the United States might keep out cheap competitive British goods by raising duties on imports.

The Conservatives Can Win

It could be argued that British labor should be grateful for benefit received—cheap medical assistance food and the like. But any pronounced trend in unemployment could remove gratitude and place the blame upon the government of the moment. Such labor defection and middle class exasperation could well swing the election to the Conservatives. While, therefore, the local elections must not be regarded as positive proof that Labour is finished they may indicate the temper of a people that could be easily swung to the Conservatives should the next few months bring about worsening conditions in the export market and employment.

REPORT from the State House

By Philip K. Allen

Last week we covered the various salary ranges in the state service classification system set up by the division of personnel and standardization with the authorization of the legislature.

In any system such as this, it is, of course, necessary to reclassify positions. Prior to 1946, the so-called Griffenhagen report of 1945, which contained suggested reclassifications, was not accepted by the legislature for many reasons. The report was based on an employee questionnaire method and upon additional advice from the separate department heads, and therefore, was not an objective study. Some of its recommendations also in changing salary grades would have forced the civil service system to be suspended. Needless to say, it also recommended the expenditure of a great deal of money.

This report, then, having been rejected, the division of personnel and standardization was instructed, in 1946, to reclassify all the classified positions in the state service. For this purpose, a team of five analysts have been continuously checking departments and making recommendations.

All of the hospitals and institutions under the department of mental health have been done as has the registry of motor vehicles, and others are in process. Most of these changes necessarily cost money, and therefore, the suggested reclassification must go before the ways and means committee before the money is appropriated for these reclassified positions. The final result, then, depends on the legislature.

In addition to the duties explained above, the division of personnel and standardization must administer the rules of the commission on administration and finance concerning budget requests for personal services; the processing of requisitions for personnel for all positions, vacations, and sick leaves.

It might be interesting to note that in the state service in Massachusetts, any one who has over nine months service is entitled to two weeks' vacation with pay; any one with over five years' service is entitled to three weeks' vacation; and any one who has over 10 years' service is entitled to four weeks' vacation with pay.

As to sick leave, every employee is entitled to 15 days per year. Unlike the armed forces and federal service it cannot exceed 120 days. In other words, by the judicious use of sick leave, a state employee in Massachusetts can have accumulated a substantial number of days by the time it is necessary for him to retire.

Currently before the legislature, are two bills: one to give a flat $300 raise across the board to state employees, and another recommending a $300 increase in salary Grades 1 through 30; $360, Grades 31 through 48; and $240, Grades 49 through 74. Which one of these bills will become law is difficult to say, although it is quite certain that there will be a general increase in the salaries of all state employees.

Grandmothers Attend Mother, Daughter Event

Among the large crowd at the annual mothers' and daughter's banquet given by the A.P.C. Sorority at the South church last Thursday, were seven groups of grandmothers, mothers and daughters.

The grandmothers and mothers were, Mrs. Francis E. Atkinson and Mrs. C. Edward Buchan; Mrs. John Franklin and Mrs. William P. Foster; Mrs. Amelia Jenkinson and Mrs. Robert B. Hatton; Mrs. Rufus Harlow and Mrs. Robert L. Mower; Mrs. Bessie Pitman and Mrs. Norman Pitman; Mrs. Clara Walker and Mrs. L. Fraser Colpitts; Mrs. Jesse E. West and Mrs. William V. Emmons.

More than 100 people enjoyed the fine roast dinner served by "Bob" Sutton. After the dinner a very nice monologue entertainment was given by Mrs. Betty Campbell Saunders of North Andover. Mrs. L. Fraser Colpitts was the chairman and Mrs. Robert B. Hatton had charge of the decorations. Mrs. William Edwards had charge of entertainment.

JUNIOR HIGH

By JANET THOMPSON

ASSEMBLY

The topic of Friday's assembly was "Water Safety," with both Donald Dunn of the faculty and Principal Milton Nelson cautioning the students about its importance. They pointed out the many thoughtless mistakes made in the water by people, who as a result, have lost their lives.

Homemaking

Last Wednesday Mrs. Moore of the Essex Agricultural school spoke to the eight and ninth grade girls, concerning the home-making program of that school. Mrs. Moore discussed the various courses offered girls at Essex Aggie and the many opportunities given for future careers.

The girls in Miss Angie Dantos' seventh grade homemaking classes have covered their food work for the year and are now learning to use a sewing machine.

The eighth graders are busy making samples of the different types of seams, buttonholes, etc. Instead of a final exam, the ninth grade "homemakers" will be given research work to do and will make sample notebooks that will illustrate the various kinds of cloth and fibers, good grooming, and so forth.

Ninth Grade Picnic

Committees are now hard at work preparing for the ninth grade class picnic which will be held June 9th, at Cranes beach. This picnic is more democratic than the proms of previous years because it will cause less time to be taken from class work, will enable more people to attend, and will be inexpensive. For safety's sake the students have been divided into groups, each with a reliable captain.

The captains are as follows: Raeburn Hathaway, Marilyn Meek, William Hood, David MacFarlane, Felice Pomerleau, Barbara Foley, Jean Farrell, Daniel Worcester, Peter Caswell.

Following the picnic, an informal dance will be conducted in the school gym.

Sports

Girl's softball started Tuesday, with the Reds defeating the Greens 6-2, and the Blues taking a 6-4 game from the Golds. The girls who reported are as follows:

Blues: Jean Pearson, captain, Joan Pearson, Ruth Morgan, Carolyn Erler.

Golds: Marion Washington, captain, Jane Ann MacAskill, Eva De Angelo, Marilyn Earley, Mary Fountain, Lorraine Lees, Dorothy Dunn, Arlene Pariseau, Carole De Roches.

Red: Janet Thompson, captain, Janet Svenson, Marion Campbell, Priscilla Tompkins, Vivian Marchese, Judy Nowell, Joan Coneybear, Marie Sullivan.

The art work of Mrs. Dorothy Sanborn's and Miss Frances Dalton's pupils will be on display in the Junior High school June 1st and 2nd. Plan to attend this excellent exhibit.

Rehearsals are under way for the Memorial day program to be presented May 27, under the supervision of Miss Mabel Marshall.

Miss Marshall's seventh grade social studies classes, having completed their Latin American notebooks, are now studying, briefly place geography of Canada, Asia, Europe, Africa, and Australia, the types of government of the countries, and their places in the economic world.

Members of the Junior High faculty have been invited to attend the Junior promenade which will be held Friday, May 20, in the gymnasium.

After working diligently on their list of 12 books for a home library and reasons for their choice, the Junior High students on Monday passed their papers into the English teachers, who in turn gave them to Miss Margaret Lane of the Memorial Hall library contest.

AUCTION SALE

The Woman's union of the Free church will sponsor an auction sale on the church lawn, weather permitting, at 10 a.m., Saturday, June 4. In the event of rain, the auction will be held in the parish house.

Charles B. Torrey of Belmont, N. H., will be auctioneer.

Articles large and small are being solicited and will be called for by contacting Miss Margaret Laurie, 59 Whittier st., or Alexander Black, 44 Chestnut st. The March circle will have charge of refreshments.

Police Teams Gain In Revolver League

Conclusion of the fourth round matches in the New England Police Revolver league showed that both Andover police teams made substantial improvement in their marksmanship since the opening round last fall.

While both teams were in Class 10 when they started some months ago the final standings just issued show that Team 1 of the local police with a score of 4195 jumped up to Class 5 where it captured 10th place, and that Team 2 moved into Class 7 where it took 9th place with a score of 4021.

In the fourth round matches Officer Joseph F. O'Brien won a medal for taking first place in his class with a score of 1084. Officer O'Brien shot with Team 2 in Class 7.

Members of the department are not content to rest upon their laurels but are going to continue practicing regularly so that they can enter the trials to qualify as experts.

The cost of ammunition has been a big factor in police revolver training. The matches in the league are conducted with 22 calibre bullets provided by the department. To qualify as experts a 38 calibre bullet must be used and members of the local teams are now making their own ammunition to be used in practice matches. They have the necessary equipment in the police station and spend much of their spare hours in making the ammunition at their own expense.

MEMORIAL DAY

All cub scouts and boy scouts have been invited to march in the parade on May 30. Watch The Townsman for details on the parade.

Annual Camporee

Arnold Schofield, assistant district commissioner, has been visiting troops in connection with the council camporee to be held on June 10, 11, and 12 at Camp Dad Sargent, Pomp's pond. This will be the 21st year that the encampment has been held. Instructions have been issued to all Patrol Leaders explaining the program. The official Patrol Leader's Handbook is being used to guide the patrols in proper camping. Troops must report at camp not earlier than 4 p.m., on the opening day accompanied by an adult leader, and all troops must be registered by 6 p.m. There will be Catholic and Protestant Pastors present on Sunday and each scout is required to attend services. Camping will be judged by the "Knight Eagles" and green bar awards will be given to patrols who qualify. Competition in semaphore and Morse signalling, first aid, knot tying, compass and string burning by flint and steel will be held Saturday at 8:30 a.m. Senior patrol leaders and junior assistant scoutmasters will not be allowed to compete. The camporee awards and checking out of patrols will begin at 2 p.m., Sunday. As usual an infirmary with qualified first aid attendants will be set up for the duration.

Advancement

It is expected that several scouts will qualify for Eagle scout rank this year. Jack Arabian and Gregory Arabian of Troop 72 are the only registered scouts of Eagle rank at present. Boys who are progressing well toward Eagle are as follows: Life scouts Daniel Worcester of Troop 75, Peter Caswell of Troop 70, Thomas Burnett, Calvin Hatch, and William Hood of Troop 72, Star scouts Alfred Duke of Troop 76, Alan Douglass, Robert Hatton, John Belka, and Robert Metcalf of Troop 73.

Hike

Friday May 13, scouts of the Free church Troop 72, met at the church for a hike to Prospect hill, and a weekend camping experience. The troop returned Sunday afternoon. Baseball equipment was brought along for scheduled games each afternoon. Cooking was on a patrol basis except on Sunday. On this day the boys cooked individually in order to pass cooking tests. The boys also had the opportunity to study requirements for out-of-door tests such as nature, compass and woodcraft. Church services were held on Sunday with The Rev. Levering Reynolds Jr., conducting a camp service. Church attendance was arranged for all faiths.

Meetings

Cub Pack 72 of the Free church met Wednesday, May 11, in the church basement. C. Edward Buchan, firechief, was the guest speaker.

Troop 70 of Christ church met Friday, May 13 with Walter Caswell, committeeman, in charge. An hour of baseball was enjoyed and plans were made to play ball on Saturday. It is planned to arrange a game with Troop 72 in the near future. Instruction groups in first aid and signaling were on the evening's program. The program was in charge of Raeburn Hathaway, patrol leader.

Life Scout Peter Caswell has completed the requirements of the pioneering merit badge with Dr. Nathaniel Stowers, merit badge examiner. A troop court of review will be held in a few weeks since several scouts are completing Star Scout, first class or second class rank requirements.

Academy Railroad Club Operates Model System

Views of the model electrical railway system which the Railroad club at Phillips academy operates in the basement of Peabody house. (Photos by Robillard)

Phillips academy boasts of one of the few school Railroad clubs in the country.

Increasing in facilities since 1941, it has grown until now, in the basement of Peabody hall, the set consists of over 600 feet of track, 35 cars, both of the freight and passenger varieties, and five locomotives. The track is "O" gauge, and the models are for the most part products of Waltham Models Co. and the General Models Corp. The cars are four and one half inches high and from eight to twelve inches long.

Club members make their own cars and engines from model kits, paint and name them, set up and repair the track, and keep the 12 volt electric circuit in good working condition, thus learning a bit about electronics as well as about craftsmanship.

The permanent 600 foot track rests about four feet above the floor and on a busy evening trains race around the outer and inner parts, the upper and lower parts, cross over bridges, pass under bridges, move through fifty feet of tunnels, pass each other, switch tracks, change directions by means of a turntable, or rest in yards.

Mock landscape surrounds the track at all points but is provided with pigeon-holes through which members can make repairs. Models are controlled at a master panel at which members operate switches, regulate train speeds and control maneuvers.

The Railroad club, headed by President David Brown, a senior from Tenafly, N. J., consists of ten members or more. Most prominent in club work are junior: William Stone of Kalamazoo, Mich., and Lewis Smith of Concord, senior Fred Reynolds of White Plains, N. Y. and lower-midder John Goodnow of Greenbush, Mass.

Central PTA Holds Annual Election

At its annual meeting Wednesday evening, May 18, in the Memorial auditorium, the Central PTA presented an interesting and informative talk by Miss Margaret Walker, associate professor of education and director of teachers' training at the Framingham State Teachers college, on "How Children Learn."

Miss Walker discussed teaching and learning methods at elementary, junior high and senior high levels, and in some measure explained that what might seem to a parent a state of confusion in the classroom is really a step in the process of education by thinking and doing. Miss Walker stressed the value of correlation of subjects rather than the teaching of individual, unrelated subjects.

The business meeting was opened by Mrs. Harrison Brown, retiring president of the association, who brought out the information that the Andover Central PTA is the largest such organization in the state.

The results of the election of officers were as follows: Roland Fraser, president; Mrs. Glenn H. Roundy, first vice-president; Mrs. John B. Cecil, second vice-president; Miss Mary Burke, corresponding secretary; Miss Anni Angelo, recording secretary; Howard Porter, treasurer; directors, Mrs. Harrison E. Brown, Geoffrey Glendinning, Mrs. Phillip Hogan; program committee, Dino Valz, chairman, with Mrs. Miles Pendleton and Miss Luella Dunning on the committee; ways and means committee chairman, Mrs. Edward J. Douglas; membership committee chairman, Mrs. Robert E. Maynard; refreshment committee co-chairmen, Mrs. Arthur Covell and Mrs. Almon Daniels; publicity chairman, Mrs. Frederick Bredbury; hospitality committee chairman, Mrs. Elbert Weaver; nominating committee, Mrs. George Sanborn, chairman, with Mrs. Stephen Sorota and Mrs. Charles McCullom.

Mrs. Brown then handed the gavel to Mrs. Roundy, first vice-president, who introduced the program committee chairman, Mr. Valz, who presented Miss Walker. A short question and answer period followed Miss Walker's talk, after which the meeting adjourned.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Henry J. Dolan, assisted by Mrs. Justin Curry and Mrs. Merrill Burnett.

An average small room will take one gallon of paint per coat for smooth finish walls.

The new G-E Conversion Oil Burner fits right into your present heating plant—changes it to a thoroughly automatic unit—provides your home with clean, comfortable, low cost heat. The entire installation may be made in a few hours—before heat from the old fire leaves the house. From then on, your G-E oil burner pardons you from annoying furnace tending chores. You'll simply set a thermostat once—your G.E. will quietly, efficiently, and safely take care of your comfort, day and night. Investigate—come in, or write for free literature.

Wilmington Triumphs Over Punchard, 4-0

Bob Goss of Wilmington silenced Punchard bats last Friday afternoon on the Andover playground by pitching his team to a 4 to 0 victory. The Andover boys came up with 6 hits during the battle, three of which came in one inning, but because of excellent support by his team mates the visiting finger held the home club scoreless.

Hair Types Indexed At Polly Prim Shop

There is no doubt about it, a woman's hair is indeed her "crowning glory," for no costume looks well if the hair isn't neat and well-groomed. A visit to Polly Prim, 66 Main st., will provide the basis to a smart coiffure, in a scientifically given permanent wave. There are three test curls taken before the hair is waved to show accurately the proper lotion for every hair type. This method of making sure takes away the old hit-and-miss type of permanent and insures the finest wave for every time to come, as there is a record on cards of the lotion, type of wave and length of time to set the curl, for this also is carefully checked. The feeling when you know you look your best is well worth the moderate cost of keeping your hair beautiful with a scientific wave.

One of the most important things in being a charming person is to forget yourself, and you cannot do that until you know you look your prettiest. Polly Prim is well aware of this, as they feature a haircut especially suited to your individual face type and personality. For a special party they will set your hair in a lovely, different way. Polly Prim has made a careful study of hair and people so that their work will make everyone happy, from seven to seventy.

Save A Rope . . . Bailey
The Leadon Bubble . . . Branson

The new rector of St. Alban's church in Jericho was vastly different from the retiring one, to the disturbance of many of the vestrymen and parishioners. John Carlisle threw all his strength and talents into drawing into the church those who had a real need for its comfort, its recreation and its service.

Spit And The Stars . . . Mende
A boyhood, in ugly, unattractive slums, with strange and distorted personalities the bleak depression of it and its effect on one child is the theme of this book.

Charade . . . Morris
A character study of a group of people, a German poet, his wife, mistress, son, and daughter who all take refuge in a lodge in a Polish forest. Unusual.

The Portable Sherwood Anderson

The entire novel "Poor White," seven episodes from "Winesburg, Ohio," six other stories, five portraits, newspaper writing and letters all selected from the works of the famous writer.

Aunt Bel . . . McCrone
Aunt Bel, "a managing kind of body," as her husband called her, continues the story of the Moorhouses of Glasgow as begun in "Red Plush." Here she shows her talent for matchmaking, and helps along many of the local romances.

And Then You Came . . . Bridge
Scottish West Highlands was the destination of a young English architect, Nora Congreve, who wanted to excavate verified forts of the early Iron Age. Mystery, romance and adventure are set off with the arrival of a mysterious yacht and its intriguing passengers.

Non-fiction titles too good to miss:

From Day To Day . . . Nansen
Odd Nansen's remarkable diary kept in German concentration camps; the script was so fine that it required a magnifying glass to read it. The sheets were hidden in the hollowed centers of the prisoners' breadboards, and smuggled out a few at a time. This is an incredible classic of inhumanity surpassed by humanity, terror lightened by superhuman courage, and the hatred that proved human love beyond all destruction.

Life Of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle . . . Carr
Excellent coverage of the life of one literature's big men; here is his philosophy as a man, a soldier, a diplomat, a thinker and the creator of the world's best-loved fictional character, Sherlock Holmes.

John Dickson Carr, the author, had access to papers never made public, and shows us Doyle in an intimate light, largely as a seeker after truth.

MERCHANT MARINE SPRING BOOK DRIVE

A letter has come to the library asking that there be some attention called to the annual book drive for the American Merchant Marine Library association. The organization delivers in the form of forty-volume rotating libraries deposits of books to merchant ships, coast guard vessels and stations, light ships and lighthouses, transports and maritime training ships. During the month of March, 1,760 books and 7,900 magazines were so distributed by the Boston port.

The association asks that readers send their books to be put to such good usage; they ask for current and recent best-sellers, better mysteries and westerns; World almanacs and dictionaries; biography, travel, science and history. Pocket books are needed and so are the best popular magazines. Books and magazines may be left at the Memorial Hall library, from which they will be forwarded. Mention that your gift is for the Merchant Marine drive.

BIRD WALK

On Saturday, May 21, the Massachusetts Audubon society will sponsor more than 60 local bird walks throughout the state as part of a state-wide census. The local trip will start at 8 o'clock at the home of Paul H. Leslie, 30 Summer st., Methuen. The woodland adjacent to Mr. Leslie's home will be covered on foot until noon. The spring migration will be at its height and a wealth of varieties and individuals should be present. Oscar M. Root of the Brooks school faculty will be the leader.

City Of The Bees . . . Stuart
Frank S. Stuart, a Scotsman, worked for seven years as a beekeeper. This is his story of the life of a colony of wild bees over a span of one year. In a prose that is almost a rhythm, the author has drawn a delightful and delicate picture of the world outdoors.

Government Securities
Are No. 1 Investment
Of Thrift Institutions

An interesting picture of how the people's savings are employed by principal thrift institutions for the benefit of the individuals and families themselves and the economy at large is provided by figures compiled by the federal reserve system.

These figures show that U. S. government securities are now in first place as an investment medium for the combined thrift institutions as against last place before the war. Real estate mortgages, which pre-war were in the No. 1 investment position, are now in second place. Investment in business and industry is third, as it was before the war.

The savings institutions studied by the federal reserve system are life insurance, mutual savings banks, and savings and loan associations. Along with U. S. savings bonds, these thrift institutions represent a major part of the long-term savings of the American people and the backbone of their financial security.

Aggregate holdings of federal government securities of these institutions added up to just under $30 billions at the end of 1948, or exactly one-third of their combined assets. The comparable figure in 1939 was less than $9 billions, or 18.6 per cent of the combined assets. The total invested by thrift institutions in mortgages on homes, farms and other buildings aggregated approximately $27 billions at the end of last year, or 30 per cent of the combined assets. This percentage is somewhat below the comparable proportion in 1939, but otherwise the current total is nearly double the $14.3 billions of such holdings in 1939.

As to business investments, combined holdings of business securities of the principal thrift institutions were $22.5 billions at the end of 1948, or 25.3 per cent of all their assets. The comparable figures were $10.1 billions and 21.8 per cent in 1939.

The classification of cash and miscellaneous investments is down substantially from prewar. Miscellaneous assets of the principal thrift institutions aggregated $10.1 billions at the end of last year, or 11.3 per cent of their combined assets, as against $13.3 billions, or 28.7 per cent, in 1939. Total assets of these institutions combined were $89.1 billions at the end of 1948 as compared with $46.3 billions at the end of 1939.

GIRL SCOUTS

Troop 27, Girl Scouts, met Wednesday, May 11 in the Christ church parish house. The girls gave their reports on trees and then plans were made for the hike. It was decided that they would meet at the church.

Saturday, May 14, at 8 a.m., the girls left to climb Mt. Monadnock accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hatton and Francis Morgan. Once there the girls divided into fast and slow climbers. Lunch was eaten at the top. The girls had a fine time, despite bumps and bruises and newly air-conditioned dungearees.

PRICE CUTTERS

Everyone knows the fallacy of the "Bargain Sales" advertised in some big city stores. Selling at a loss is only a bait to get you in the store to sell you something else, mostly at a higher profit.

Don't be misled. Our home town merchants sell honest merchandise at honest prices, and best of all are right here to make good if anything goes wrong.

Over Half Million In Building Fund

First report meetings of volunteer workers in the Catholic parish phase of the million-dollar Merrimack college building fund campaign showed that $146,599 was turned in, according to an announcement by Charles W. Trombly of North Andover, general chairman of the campaign.

This amount, with the $364,548 on hand from other phases, makes a grand total of $511,147 received to date in the campaign which is now being conducted to raise funds for the new college.

The Catholic parish phase report meetings were held in the participating parishes located in the area of solicitation. Due to the fact that the campaign covers such a vast area, many of the parishes were unable to hand in their reports by the stipulated time so the final Catholic first report figures should be higher than the one mentioned above.

Only a small per cent of the more than 60,000 Catholic wage-earning prospects, who have been called upon by His Excellency, the Most Rev. Richard J. Cushing, D.D., Archbishop of Boston, to support this essential undertaking, have been solicited as yet.

Judge Trombly stated: "We are very pleased with the results of these first report meetings. It is gratifying indeed to see the fruition of the efforts made by the thousands of volunteer campaign workers. There is still a great deal of work to be done, however, and I am sure that the present efforts will not slacken until the campaign goal has been reached."
