VIEWS OF THE NEWS

By LEONARD F. JAMES

As our country finds itself increasingly involved across the world we can be excused if we sometimes think that every international incident is of equal importance in our foreign policy.
Momentary headlines may place the spotlight upon the Balkans, Palestine or Iran. Yet as we try to evaluate relative values we must realize that some parts of the world are vastly more important than others. Of them all, Western Europe and the Far East take first place, because inevitably we must look at them in relation to Russian policy and ideology.
Russian Interests in Far East One barely-noticed incident at the recent Paris conference indicates Russia's great interest in the Far East. Vishinsky opened and closed the conference with a proposal that the Council of Foreign Ministers should make a treaty for Japan. In itself the suggestion might seem reasonable, but there is a catch which Secretary Acheson undoubtedly anticipated and certainly perceived.
Vishinsky suggested that those nations which had signed the sur-

Parking Meters Set New Record

The latest collection from the town's parking meters which included the last days of July brought in $194.75, the largest single day's collection since the meters were installed.

Although the weather was unseasonably warm and humid several days last week the two big "Value Days" offered by the town merchants brought a large number of shoppers to the business section and this, it is believed, accounted for the record collection.
The total amount collected from the meters during July was $173.52 making the total for the present year $6162.38, and the total since the meters were installed $10,010.97, one half of which goes to the town until the meters are paid for.

AUTOISTS TOLD TO KEEP HANDS ON WHEEL

Motorists who drive with but one hand on the steering wheel and the other dangling out the window or sometimes about a fair companion are going to be stopped by enforcement officers of the registry of motor vehicles.

"Many serious accidents to other motorists, pedestrians, and offending drivers as well have been the direct result of this unsafe driving habit. Therefore, I have issued instructions to all registry inspectors to report violators to me for disciplinary action", stated Rudolph E. King, Massachusetts registrar of motor vehicles.

"Highway safety demands full time application and attention to driving and this requires the use of both hands, unless the operator is especially licensed because of an infirmity.

"Observations and justifiable complaints indicate a rapid growth of this hazardous practice which must immediately be eliminated.
There is no room on our crowded highways for show offs."

Events Planned For Playgrounds

Several interesting events are planned for the playgrounds Friday of this week.

One of the highlights of the programs will be the boxing bouts to be held at the Central playground at 3 p.m., the Shawsheen at 3 p.m., Indian Ridge at 10:30 a.m., and Ballardvale at 7 p.m.
The youngsters of the West Center playground will hold their doll show Friday at 10:30 a.m.

It is expected that a large number of entries will participate in these events which annually attract a large crowd of spectators.

Another event coming soon is the annual carnival to be held on the Ballardvale playground Aug.
16. A large committee is making arrangements for an attractive program.

A watermelon eating contest drew a number of eager contestants last Friday at the Indian Ridge playground when events for the younger and the older children were staged.

In the contest for the younger group the winners were: 1st, Eddie Ratyna; 2nd, Lana Done; 3rd, Tommy Auchterlonie. For the older children the winners were: 1st, Rosalie Milne; 2nd, Billy Emmert and 3rd, Judy Auchterlonie.

Strict Safety Standards Enforced At Pomp's Pond

Andover Infirmary Model For Others

The Andover infirmary is a model for other small town infirm-aries, writes Minna J. Detsch, district director of the state department of public welfare who, following an inspection here commends Arthur W. Cole, local welfare agent for the excellent administration and service extended to all.

In a letter to Mr. Cole regarding the annual inspection the district director says:

July 22, 1949
Mr. Arthur W. Cole
Board of Public Welfare Andover, Mass.
My dear Mr. Cole,

In accordance with Chapter 121, Section 7, the department made its annual inspection of the Andover Infirmary on June 13, 1949.

The Andover Infirmary, in many ways, is a model for other small town infirmaries in that it offers a pleasant, comfortable home amid attractive surroundings, well managed by intelligent personnel who are concerned with the welfare and comfort of each resident.

The house is well arranged for the care of aging and handicapped persons, with ramps instead of stairs which connect each floor, a modern innovation for safety.
The dining room for both men and women is especially attractive, set up with small tables, gay table covers, and a capacity for twenty persons. The men's sitting and smoke room in the basement is comfortable, and suitably furnished; the women have no sitting room but may use the ma-tron's on occasion. Single rooms are available for all residents, well furnished, and have extra comforts such as bedside lamps, radios, comfortable chairs, and personal belongings which add

Start Resurfacing Of Main Street

The work of putting a hot-top on Main street from the railroad bridge to the post office started Monday.

Employees of the board of public works have been preparing the street for the past two weeks by raising manhole and sewer covers along the stretch of roadway to be completed.

Workmen of the Warren Brothers Road Co., started Monday to lay the 1800 tons of hot-top which is expected to go as far as the post office. Their work is to be completed early next week.

Guards Do Night Sentry Duty To Keep Bathers From Beach After Dark

In order to uphold the strict safety standards now in force at Pomp's pond volunteer overnight sentry duty has been established by guards at the beach.

In view of the records and probability that people will attempt to visit and go swimming after hours at the beach, Head Lifeguard Donald D. Dunn inaugurated night watch three years ago by calling upon the staff to volunteer for any night they were free.
Then, bunking in the guard house, the guards would politely inform the night callers that the beach was closed for the day and that a moonlight party would have to be planned elsewhere.

This system kept the guards pretty busy the first year with Mr.
Dunn and Warren Deyermund, now instructing at the University of Western Carolina, taking turns during the week. The next season, Mr. Dunn, Jack Arabian, Clark Otis, and Frank Donovan kept the watchful night owls busy so that nocturnal frequenters gradually realized the rule was being en-

State Approves Housing Plans

Final plans of the veterans housing development on Morton street have been approved by the state housing board, Atty. Charles G. Hatch, chairman of the local housing authority has announced.

Bids for the construction of the 56 dwellings units in 12 buildings will be advertised for three weeks at the end of which time they will be opened and the contract awarded.

It is anticipated that with these steps completed the actual breaking of ground for the project will occur before the end of this month. A sewer to connect these homes with the Chestnut street sewer is in the process of construction.

The new buildings to be erected in the 4.6 acres will be arranged about a horseshoe-shaped thoroughfare off Morton street. They will be what is known as row houses with four, and in some cases five families living in each.
The two and a half story structures are arranged so that each family will have living quarters on the ground floor and sleeping quarters upstairs.

Construction is expected to take about nine months so that occupancy will not take place until about June, 1950.

PUMPING RECORDS BROKEN

Long Dry Spell Brings New Daily Mark Up To
3,344,000 Gallons

Daily records for gallowage at the pumping station have been broken several times during the two exceedingly dry months of June and July until a new high mark of 3,344,000 gallons was set for pumping July 29. The daily average for a year is about 1,700,000 gallons.

The first time the old high record of 2,507,000 gallons was broken this season was June 13 when the high mark of 2,750,000 gallons was reached in a single day. Subsequent high marks followed as the dry spell continued.
On July 2 it went up to 2,776,000; July 3, to 2,820,000; July 28 it reached 2,889,000 and finally July 29 it set the new mark of 3,344,000 gallons. July 28 and 29 will be remembered as two excessively hot and humid days.

Despite this steady drain upon the town water supply brought on by the prolonged drought which has caused excessive lawn sprinkling by householders and almost continuous irrigation of gardens by farmers in West Andover, the water in Haggetts pond is only three feet below normal at present.

Although this is lower than it was at this time last year, when the dry spell came in August, it has been lower on many other occasions.

Should any curtailment of water be necessary it is expected that the first to feel the restrictions will be householders who sprinkle their lawns several hours a day.

Lodge Promises Action On Protest

The protest made by the selectmen and board of public welfare against the proposed increase in the personnel of the welfare department and the installation of extensive records drew a quick response from U.S. Sen. Henry C.
Lodge.

The directive received from the state department of public welfare contained a threat of withdrawal of federal funds unless the personnel of the department was increased 150 percent and a much more elaborate set of records kept.

Letters of protest were sent to several of the town's representatives in the federal and state governments and the following reply has been received from Sen.
Lodge:

Board of Selectman and Public Welfare
Andover, Massachusetts
Gentlemen:

I have received your letter of July 26th telling me of the directive which you have received requiring that your department personnel be increased by 150 percent and that very elaborate records must be kept. You tell me further that there is a threat that no Federal funds will be available unless the mandate is approved. You also ask for my reaction.

Let me say that I will do anything that I can do to help and that I am at once taking this matter up with the Federal Security Agency with a view to immediate remedial action. I will keep you posted.

Very sincerely yours,
Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr.
United States Senator

The American Woolen company once again has the distinction of being the town's heaviest taxpayer with a real estate assessment of $46,437.30 bringing it to the top of the 1949 list of those who pay the largest tax.

The Lawrence Gas & Electric company with a personal tax of $43,539.63 and a real estate assessment of $1929.60 is just behind the American Woolen company, the combined sums bringing its total up to $45,469.23.

Other large taxpayers as rethe New England Tel. & Tel. company $16,304.40 personal estate, the Tyler Rubber company

Study Telephone Exchange Grouping

The suggestion made by the board of selectmen to group the Andover and Lawrence telephone exchanges is being investigated, according to a letter received from the state department of public utilities in answer to one from the selectmen with a petition relative to the protest against the recent increase in telephone rates.

Action on the petition will be deferred until disposition of the case in the supreme court, according to the letter, and action on the grouping of exchanges awaits a report from the telephone company.

The reply from the state department was as follows:

Receipt is acknowledged of your letter dated Friday, July 15, suggesting the grouping of Andover and Lawrence areas into a single exchange together, with which you enclosed a petition signed by a number of Andover residents protesting against the increase in telephone rates between Andover and Lawrence. The matter of the aforementioned petition has been filed pending the action of the Supreme court in the disposition of the rate case matter now before it.

Your suggestion to group the Andover and Lawrence exchanges is being investigated and after the department receives a report from the telephone company on this proposition, you will be advised what can be accomplished along this line.

Sincerely,
Thomas A. Flaherty,
Chairman

Andover Infirmary Model For Other Communities

much to the contentment of the residents. Toilet facilities are adequate.

As the public safety inspector approved the building as recently as 1948, there is only one suggestion for safety and that is that the local fire department be asked to inspect regularly once or twice a year.

The menus as presented are plentiful, provide good nourishing food with fruit and vegetables. If surplus commodities are not already in use, an application may be made to Mr. J. H. Havey, division of commodity distribution, 600 Washington st., Boston, Mass., who will provide such commodities as fruit, fruit juices, and vegetables as they are distributed as surplus, and may offer more variety and help reduce the cost of food.

In the medical care program, although the physician of choice is highly approved, it is recommended that all residents on admission have physical examinations, including chest x-rays, and annually thereafter, to prevent insofar as possible the development of any illness; that simple records be set up by the physician for the use of all visiting physicians, the visiting nurse, and superintendent.

The personnel is adequate for the present number of residents and have done much to improve the infirmary since their occupancy. The fact that all are of one family who complement each other's abilities makes for cooperation, a pleasant atmosphere, and well ordered household.

The department thanks you and your assistants at the infirmary for your cooperation and courtesy to our inspector, Mrs. Doyle, and commends you for the excellent administration and service which has been extended not only to dependent residents, but to self-supporting persons who need kindly sheltered care.

Very truly yours,

AT THE LIBRARY

The following books have been added to the Memorial Hall Library:

The Track Of The Cat Clark

Without question, Walter Clark can write brilliantly, easily and forcefully. His new novel is a long, vivid telling of a hunt for a black panther, and its terrifying effect on those who lived in the canyon. Two brothers, a father, mother, sister and another brother and his sweetheart are involved, and each personality emerges as the hunt progresses. Excellent!

Tomorrow We Reap Street

The Dabney family, whose story has been partly told in "Oh, Promised Land", "Tap Roots" and "By Valor And Arms" appear again in this new story by James Street; this time it is largely about Big Sans Dabney, direct descendant of Sam Dabney, the founder of the strain; the setting is the Valley of Lebanon, Mississippi, and the time is 1890, the period when the nation was sowing the harvest in the South that the world is reaping today.

Eve And Christopher Corbett

The author of Mrs. Meigs writes of a beautiful and tempestuous woman, Eve Cheyney, whose selfishness affected all those who came in contact with her in the midwestern town in the 1880's.

Come Clean, My Love Taylor

This one is fun for those who enjoyed "Chicken Every Sunday." It tells of what happened to "Bruce" and her son Wyatt, when the alimony stopped and left them with no means except the profits of a run-down laundry.

The Lottery Jackson

Twenty-five stories by the author of the piece of fiction for which this book is named, and which drew the largest mail ever caused by a fiction publication in the New Yorker. The story that caused the furor is included.

Marshwood Roberts

Four sisters lived in and loved the old house, Marshwood, with its antique and beautiful furnishings, happy in their own ways until twin babies are left on their doorstep. Then the four found this upheaval resulting in changes, fast and strange, as each realized what she had missed by staying bound to the old home.

The Rock Cried Out Stanley

Harmon Blennerhassett and Margaret Agnew, were secretly married, despite the fact that they were related. The resulting commotion in their Irish homes drove them to America, to the Ohio Valley at the period of Western expansion. Their happiness was simple and complete, until Aaron Burr came into their lives.

O Shepherd, Speak Sinclair

Lanny Budd, secret agent, inherits a million dollars to spend in any plan that will prevent future wars. The program he evolves makes this as exciting as any of his previous books of war adventures.

Arabella Heyer

Arabella, oldest daughter of a poor Yorkshire clergyman, is on her way to London to seek her fortune in wealthy marriage, if possible, when the coach breaks down and she is compelled to take shelter with Mr. Beauvais, the wealthy socialite. Arabella is "something different."

Death Draws The Line Iams

A mystery, somewhat flippant, but voted one of the best twelve of early 1949.

Mirror For Man Kluckhohn

Dr. Kluckhohn, professor of Anthropology at Harvard, attempts to break down the walls of prejudice that separate people, nations and understanding. He shows what we can do with this science in the important task of reconciling conflicting cultures facing us today. He insists on the basic unity of mankind and believes that it can be developed if we will work at it.

Engagement

The marriage will be solemnized at a nuptial mass Saturday, Sept. 10 at 9 o'clock in St. Augustine's church.

Unemployment Claims Drop

Claims for unemployment com-pensation in Massachusetts de-creased by 10,301 for the week ending July 30, 1949, according to an announcement by Antonio England, director of the division of employment security.

This is the largest single drop in claims since the new benefit year began on April 1, 1949, Eng-land explained, and is the first time in this period that the claim load has dropped in two successive weeks.

During the week the divisor received 181,391 claims for bene-fits. Of this number 158,063 were state claims for unemployment compensation and 23,328 were ap-plications for allowances under the G. I. bill. This was a decrease of 6,910 in state claims and 3,391 in claims for veterans' benefits.

England attributed the decrease to the slightly improved employ-ment situation and to the increase in the number of persons who were exhausting their benefits. State claims are now being ex-hausted at the rate of about 4,000 a week the Director notes.

During the week ending July 30, 1949 the state agency paid out $2,897,254 in state unemploy-ment benefits, and another $484,090 in veterans' allowances.

The balance in the state unem-ployment fund on July 22, 1949 was $134,031,687.59.

The accordon was invented in Vienna in 1829.

Dunstable Man Fined
On Speeding Charge

Francis P. Kiernan, 29, of Dunstable was arraigned in district court at Lawrence last week on charges growing out of a chase by Officer Robert Deyermund last June 23 which started on Central street and ended in Tewksbury square when the defendant's machine pulled away for the police car.

Officer Deyermund testified that he clocked the defendant's auto at 55 miles an hour on Central street.
He followed, he said, twice pulled behind the machine and sounded the siren only to have the driver put on more speed and leave the police car behind. The defendant testified that he did not know it was a police officer who signalled him to stop.

He was fined $20 for failure to stop on signal of a police officer and $10 for speeding.

Nearly 1,000,000 housing units were turned out in 1948.

Officer Rescues Dog
From Rogers Brook

It was a grateful pup that officer John Deyermund rescued from Rogers brook in the rear of the Barnard building Saturday morning.

Hemmed in by the high walls on both sides of the brook the animal had been struggling for a long time to get out and was nearly exhausted when police were notified.

Taking a pole with a large noose on the end, Officer Deyermund lassoed the pup and hoisted it to dry ground only to get doused with a spray of water as the animal shook itself and then followed him through a nearby store, down Main street and to the police station before finally deciding to seek its home.

Solstice Stones Unique
On Summit Of Holt Hill

The solstice stones on the Charles W. Ward reservation atop Holt hill, made up of eight tons of weathered granite, the two in center being old mill stones. The front center stone nearest the camera points north. The long narrow stones show the direction of sunrise and sunset on the longest and shortest days of the year. (Look Photo)

On the broad summit of Holt hill in the Charles W. Ward reservation the infrequent visitor is rewarded by a unique arrangement of solstice stones, 40 feet in diameter and constructed in a star shape of nearly ten tons of old weathered granite. This creation is surrounded by carefully spaced Zodiac stones of different type stone, one of which is part of a petrified tree. The stones within the circle are so placed as to point north east, south and west.

Situated on Holt hill, the highest point is Essex county, the four narrow shafts of stone which point horizonward, between the compass points are the solstice stones, a unique and arresting creation.
Stones pointing eastward show where the rises on the shortest and longest days of the year.

By the same token, stones pointing westward indicate solstice of December and June. Our sunset in June is our old, old midsummer night celebrated in so many lands in long ago times.

The Holt hill solstices are believed to be the only stones of their type in the country and indeed they are the only calendar stones of this time and place.

Of particular interest is the site of the stones, the Charles W. Ward reservation. On a clear day one may climb the observation tower of the forestry department and see in the distance the sand dunes of Ipswich, the blue hills of Milton.
Mt. Monadnock and Mt. Agimen-ticus in Maine. Looking down from the tower one sees the solstice stones implacably etched in the green of the grass.

Surrounding countryside lends itself to the stolidness and quietness of the stones; nearby beauty is given by pastures, and a forest of young pine trees. During his active life, Mr. Ward had more than 10,000 trees set out for reforestation.

Admittedly, much has been written about Andover, its ancient trees and beautiful old homes, yet too few Andover residents take full advantage of the opportunities and enjoyment derived from a visit to its many enviable historical spots. The solstice stones on Holt hill are acclaimed by all those who see them and reservation officials are always cordial in their welcome.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

THE WELFARE DIRECTIVE

Seldom has anything aroused the ire of our usually complaisant town officials more than the directive that the welfare department personnel be increased 150 percent and that a new and more detailed records of cases be kept for daily and monthly reports.

Such an order would cost the Town of Andover about $7200 a year, the board of selectmen and public welfare has figured, while at the same time pointing to its endeavor to administer the department as economically as possible yet with justice to all concerned.

The 150 percent increase would mean the addition of three more persons. It is based upon a government-compiled table that in places where the combined case loads are between 150 and 250 (as is the case in Andover) the personnel will consist of one agent, two social workers and two clerk stenographers.

That such a mandate is issued only for the purpose of creating more jobs is the considered opinion of the board as no complaint from any quarter has been received about the way the work is being carried on now. They view the proposed changes as needless and wasteful calling for "useless details" in records "that would shame the army at its red-tape worst."

It is of more than passing interest to note in the board's statement that old age assistance and aid to dependent children now constitute the town's second most expensive department, surpassed only by the schools.

No wonder then, that Messrs. Hardy, Collins and White object to changes that would saddle any more expense upon it, especially changes which they deem unnecessary in a department being handled by "our own capable, honest and economical official."

In their appeal to our elected representatives at Washington and Boston they seek some measure of relief from this ruling in the desire to eliminate a waste of taxpayers' money. Let's hope they succeed.

THESE FAULTS CAN BE FATAL

There are ten common traffic violations that cause 90 percent of all traffic fatalities and 70 percent of traffic injuries.

These, Police Chief George A. Dane says, have been tabulated by engineers of the A.A.A. and, for the interests of everybody's safety, should be called to the attention of motorists and pedestrians with all possible emphasis.

Topping the list is a fault common with many people, and that is crossing a street between intersections. In some places this constitutes a traffic violation for which the offender may be fined.

Other causes of accident attributed to the pedestrian are, failure to yield right of way at an intersection, crossing a street against a signal light, and being under the influence of liquor.

Faults recorded against the motorist are, driving without due care and caution through intersections, speeding in residential areas and in heavy traffic, failure to yield to pedestrians, especially when turning at intersections, ignoring signal lights wilfully or from lack of attention, cutting in and out of traffic without regard for the rights and safety of others, and driving left of the center of a street or highway.

If you find your faults listed here, now is the time to eliminate them. These faults can have grave consequences. They have proved fatal to others.

PROGRESS WITHOUT POLITICS

According to a statistical bulletin published by a large life insurance company, a typical baby girl born in 1900 could count on surviving for 50 years. In 1946, the expectancy was 69 years.

In the last 20 years, according to the same study, maternal deaths connected with child bearing have dropped to one-fifth of the former prevailing rate. In a brief period of time, there has been an amazingly heavy decline in child death rates from such diseases as measles, diphtheria and scarlet fever.

Such facts as these have great significance today, because of the organized effort now being made to force this country to accept compulsory government health insurance, on the theory that our health standards are woefully low. The truth is that during the present century absolutely revolutionary progress has been made in treating the ill, in preventive medicine, and in improving longevity. And every impartial observer has found that in this regard we are far ahead of the countries which have accepted socialized and regimented medicine, where the doctor is nothing but a civil servant and politicians establish the policies and give the orders.

No one denies that we must seek by every sound means to attain higher health standards yet, and to see that the masses of the people get the best possible attention. But if we are to reach that goal, we must keep politics out of the picture. Socialized medicine is not the answer.

render terms with Japan should participate in the peace treaty discussions. This is a very different attitude from 1945, when Russia refused to continue discussions until China—a signatory power—left the conference. In 1945 Chiang-Kai-Shek's government represented China. Today the communist Mao Tze-tung would be regarded as the potential leader, although there is yet no actual communist central government.

Thus if Vishinsky got his way there would be an even split in numbers, with the United States and Great Britain on one side, and the Soviet Union and Communist China on the other. It is very doubtful that Vishinsky expected acceptance of his suggestion. What is important about it is that it indicates Russia's thinking. And it brings again to the front the difficult issue of United States attitude towards China. Although the subject has received little attention since the Communist occupation of Shanghai and the retreat of the Nationalist forces, it is certainly going to come up soon again in Congress. It is too vital a matter to be left to mere chance policy. And yet a United States policy, in the sense of a definite line of procedure, will be most difficult to formulate.

Aid Europe or Far East?

Two years ago we were faced with the problem of assistance to Western Europe and the Far East. Despite our vast resources we rightly felt that we could not give effective aid to both areas. So we decided upon Western Europe. Critics of that policy claim that we did ourselves a disservice by not giving China all-out assistance. Supporters of European aid contend that Europe is of primary importance, that our China policy must await developments over which we have little control, and can scarcely influence at this time. Briefly, the decision had to depend upon whether we regarded the Russian danger as greater in Europe or the Far East. These two points of view merit considerable attention because public discussion on future policy will probably become heated and partisan.

The Case Against Our China Policy

Those who criticize our past China policy claim that we have blundered badly in "letting the dust settle" before adopting positive action, because we have virtually allowed Russia to take over. On the other side are those who believe that we were in more immediate danger from Russian control of Europe, and that we could not be effective in China, whatever we might be able to do there. The case for those who criticize our China policy is that we went to war with Germany and Japan to prevent German-Japanese domination of Eurasia. Pearl Harbor was not the cause of war; it was Japan's recognition of our policy in China. We refused to recognize Japan's conquests in China because we felt that an independent China was necessary to our own security. Japanese expansion would not stop in China but would gradually be extended across the Far East. If our policy was that up to 1941 then, say the critics, it should be precisely the same in purpose today. We still cannot afford to see China dominated by another power.

Russia Now Greater Danger Than Japan Was

Russia now replaces Japan as the expansionist power, and is a greater danger than Japan ever was because she has achieved one major victory already—in Eastern Europe. In 1939 Moscow made a deal with Nazi Germany, and only broke the non-aggression pact over the division of spoils. Russia claimed the Balkans then; today she has them. The present danger is greater because there are no two partners to quarrel. Russia's geographical position gives her the advantages of the German-Japanese alliance without its weaknesses. Within her western frontier, from Germany to Yugoslavia, she can consolidate against

MEET—

ANNA M. GREELEY

A resident of Andover for over 20 years Miss Anna M. Greeley is well-known in the legal profession and has made many friends through her active participation in local organizations and clubs.

The daughter of James E. Greeley, she for many years was assistant treasurer of the James E. Greeley Co. She is a member of the Boston and Massachusetts bar association and the Sigma Iota Chi sorority and is a permanent president of the Beta Mu Alumnae chapter of the Sigma Iota Chi sorority of the Portia Law school.

Despite the fact that she is actively engaged in the practice of law in Andover and Boston Miss Greeley has held several offices in recent years. She is a past grand regent of Court St. Monica No. 783, Catholic Daughters of America; past district deputy of the state court of the Catholic Daughters of America, former secretary of the Andover Service Men's association and a former member of the board of directors of the Andover League of Women Voters.

A graduate of Pynchard High school, Boston university and Portia Law school, Miss Greeley was admitted to the Massachusetts Bar Nov. 9, 1938 and the United States of America district of Massachusetts Bar June 24, 1941.

the West, and then protect her rear by extending her influence over China, India and Iran. Thereby she need not fear a two-front war. Thus, say the critics, the safety of Europe depends upon Asia; the United States must seek security in both Europe and the Far East.

The conflict between Japan and China gave Russia the opportunity to realize her objectives. The one place from which Russia was highly vulnerable was Manchuria. For if North China and its industrial potential could be united under a central Chinese government supported by the United States, Russia would be unable to expand in Asia and would also be in constant danger of a two-front war.

Why Did We Fight in the Pacific?

The danger to the United States is today the greater because Russian moves are deliberately calculated and are part of Moscow's announced conviction that communist and non-communist countries cannot permanently live in the same world. Mao Tze-tung has said categorically that "the Communist Party of China is . . . a party established and developed with the Communist Party of the Soviet Union as a model . . . all revolutionary forces . . . must organize an anti-imperialist united front headed by the Soviet Union."

If our foreign policy is supposed to contain the Soviet Union, at what point in the Pacific do we start to contain it? Where shall our allies be encouraged to take a stand? Or shall we let Asia go entirely? If so, why did we fight in the Pacific? This point of view has merit. Its critics contend that practical factors, and some unknowns, have not been properly evaluated, and that the prime importance of Western Europe to United States security has been greatly minimized. Their point of view is a proper subject for later discussion.

forced that no one swims in the water after 8:30 p.m. or dark. This season, a chain barrier across the driveway has proved most effective and emphatic, but Life-guards Donald D. Dunn, Joseph Ratyna, Jack Arabian and Clark Otis take turns and are on hand to challenge those insisting upon visiting the beach.

The guards believe that citizens do realize the value of the effort that the Pomp's pond staff has made to safeguard the bathing public as the boys perform this work on their own time and expense.

Then, with their regular day duty, cleaning details, and water purification methods by chemicals, the guards hope that more Andover residents will visit during hours and take advantage of the bathing conveniences afforded them.

Blackhawks Win Second Half Title

The Blackhawks behind the superb pitching of Ted Boudreau defeated the Dodgers 8 to 5 on the playstead Monday night to win the second half championship of the Andover Twp league.

Mike Davey was the losing pitcher. He was relieved by George Craig in the 6th. Boudreau relieved Lou Gleason to become the winning pitcher when the Hawks came up with four runs in the 5th. Wennik, Lawrence and Serio featured the play of the Hawks while Mulse and Souter were the hitting stars for the losers.

Tonight at 6:15 o'clock the Dodgers, first half champs, will meet the Hawks in the first of a three-game series to determine the league championship. The second game will be played Monday, Aug. 8, and the third game, if necessary, will be played Wednesday, Aug. 10.

WINDHAM PLAYHOUSE

A large group of members of the Andover Organ Institute attended the comedy "Years Ago" at the Windham Playhouse Wednesday night.

This nostalgic comedy of family life by Ruth Gordon, recounting the days when she was a young girl in the town of Wollaston, Mass., is continuing on the Windham stage until Saturday.

Chevi Colton portrays the young heroine who dreams of becoming a great actress some day, and Marion Morris and Richard Deacon are parents of "Years Ago", which is still drawing enthusiastic audiences to the playhouse on Route 111 near Cobbetts pond.

Next week, Tuesday Aug. 9 through Saturday, Producer A. Everett Austin is presenting one of America's greatest plays, "The Glass Menagerie" by Tennessee Williams.

FIRST ROAD OF RAILS

The first road of rails in the United States is said to have been a short inclined track used as early as 1795 to convey brick and other clay products from kilns on Beacon Hill, Boston, to a street below. In 1807 Silas Whitney built a short railway at the same location. The first railway company which actually built and operated a railroad in this country was the Granite Railway Company, incorporated by the Massachusetts legislature on March 4, 1826. That railroad began operations on October 7, 1826.

At the beginning of 1948 there were 225,806 miles of railroad owned in the United States, with a total of 403,164 miles of track.

The General Sherman tree in Sequoia National park is estimated to be 3,500 years old.

Board of Public Works Has Not Bought Pump

Inquiries received by members of the board of public works have caused them to issue a statement to the effect that no money has been spent recently for the purchase of a centrifugal pump.

In March 1948 the board received an appropriation of $6500 from the town meeting for improvements at the pumping station on Bancroft road.

Specifications were drawn and bids received, all of which were over the appropriation. The board rejected all bids and later will call for new ones. Members feel that prices are dropping and the next bids may be low enough to award the contract. The only money expended from the appropriation is a small charge for the survey.
