VIEWS OF THE NEWS

By LEONARD F. JAMES

Twisting the British lion's tail was until recent years a popular sport in this country. Any lecturer from across the Atlantic could expect to be attacked on Britain's policy in Ireland, India, the Middle East and, immediately after the war, Greece. The empire tail has been worn considerably shorter in recent years, in fact several knots have been tied in it. But simultaneously the American eagle has grown more tail feathers.
Many of us, with particular reference to the editors of Life appear not to have noticed this.

Can We Afford Economic Isolationism?

It is not an uncommon historical fact that as one nation declines, another grows stronger.
And as it does so its responsibil-ties increase, usually without conscious effort or desire on the part of that nation. Today's fact is that the United States is inevi-

Opens Local Season With 12-0 Victory Before Big Crowd

Concord High school's outstanding gridiron squad retained its unbeaten record when it opened the local football season here Saturday by defeating a fighting Punchard eleven 12 to 0 before a record opening day crowd estimated at 5000.

It took the Concord boys only three plays to register their first touchdown after the opening kickoff. Basile skirted his right end, reversed his field and in a 46 yard run went over for the first six points. Collins blocked the try for the extra point.

The visitors started another drive from their 26 to Punchard's 37 at the end of the first quarter.
On the first play in the second period Pierce took a handoff from King and went around left end for a 37 yard romp for another touchdown. Collins again blocked the try for the extra point.

Punchard took the third period kickoff and made two first downs to the Concord 40 before losing the ball. The rest of the period was nip and tuck.

In the fourth period the Punch-ard offense started to click. They

Resort Promotion Lagging In County

The resort businesses in northeastern Massachusetts are "missing the boat" in getting their share of new customers through failure to maintain a regional advertising and promotional program, a New England Council spokesman declared here yesterday.

Essex County Associated Boards of Trade members meeting at the Andover Inn were told by Gale Emerson, manager of the council's recreational development department that the "unparalleled scenic and other recreational attractions of Essex county in general, and the North shore in particular, should be promoted as a 'package' if a potential tremendous increase in vacation dollar income to the region is to be realized.

"Within the boundaries of this Commonwealth such competitive recreational centers as the Berkshires, Pioneer Valley and Cape Cod have lured tourist business right from under your noses," Mr.
Emerson asserted, adding that "in nearby New Hampshire, which has fewer vacation visitors than Massachusetts, there are six regional organizations operating year-round programs to attract tourist dollars."

New Engineer To Start Oct. 3

Warren O. Petersen of Haverhill, the new town engineer appointed by the board of public works to succeed Charles T. Gilliard, will take over his new duties Oct. 3, it was announced at the board of public works meeting Tuesday night.

The board also awarded the contract for 200 tons of run-of-mine bituminous coal to A. A.
Caffrey of Lawrence, the lowest of five bidders who quoted a price of $13.48 per ton. The other bids were: Andover Coal Co., $13.90; B. L. McDonald Co.,
$15.50; George Gage, $15.50;
Cross Coal Co., $15.50.

It was announced that the installation of about 1500 feet of water pipe on High Plain road was nearing completion. Employees of the department are now engaged on sidewalk and repair work in and around Stevens and North Main streets.

A & P To Oppose Federal Suit

Describing the suit to dissolve the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company as a threat to the welfare and living standards of every American citizen, officials of the company announced they would oppose it with every legitimate means.

The suit, filed in the federal court for the Southern District of New York, asked the court to dispose of its manufacturing and processing facilities and to break the company into smaller chains.

The statement said in part:
This action is a threat to the welfare and living standards of every American citizen. If successful, it will mean less food on every dinner table and fewer dollars in every pay envelope.

This is not just an effort to destroy A. & P. but an attack on the entire system of efficient, low-cost, low-profit mass distribution which this company pioneered.

A. & P. was the first chain store in this country, and the methods we developed have been adopted by other grocers, as well as merchants in other lines. There are today literally hundreds of chain stores and voluntary groups of individual merchants operating with the same methods and in the same pattern here under attack.

If the anti-trust lawyers succeed in destroying A. & P., the way will be cleared for the destruction of every other efficient large-scale distributor.

A hearing on the petition of the Boston and Maine railroad for approval of the installation of automatic gates at the Tewksbury and Andover street grade crossing in Ballardvale has been set for 10 a. m.
Wednesday, Oct. 19 in the hearing room of the department of public utilities at the state house, Boston.

The proposal of the railroad to install and operate flashing light signals and half-gates electrically operated at this crossing in place of the manually operated gates is being opposed by many 'Vale residents.

Their chief concern is the safety of school children of the district, half of whom have to cross the railroad tracks four times a day.

When the proposed change was announced last spring a committee of Ballardvale residents enlisted support of the board of selectmen in opposition and the Ballardvale P.T.A. sponsored the circulation of a petition against the plan.

Over 300 signatures were secured and these were given to the selectmen to be presented to the department of public utilities at the hearing.

The P.T.A. is forming a committee to be present at the hearing to carry the protests of the district before the board.

From the railroad the selectmen some weeks ago received information that of 67 trains, 53 of them passenger and 14 freight, pass the crossing daily.

The railroad also told the selectmen that this proposed type of pro-

Will Report On School Survey

A report on a survey of school building needs in Andover, made by Dr. Jesse B. Davis of Boston university, will be heard by the larlyschool committee and a participatory committee of citizens at a special meeting to be held at Goldsmith library, Punchard high school, Tuesday, Sept. 27, at 7:30 p.m.

Funds were provided for this survey by a special article in the annual town warrant last March, which was sponsored by the school committee.

Dr. Davis undertook the survey shortly after that time, and has been assisted by Cyril Sargent, formerly of the faculty of Phillips academy, and now associated with the Harvard School of Education.

The citizens committee was invited by the school committee to work with the members in evaluating the needs of the school department's physical properties.

Included in the group are Roy E. Hardy, chairman of the board of selectmen, Victor J. Mill, Jr., Ralph B. Wilkinson, Leo F. Daley, L. Fraser Colpitts, Miss Barbara A. Loomer, Mrs. Edward J. O'Connor, Arthur R. Lewis and C. Carleton Kimball, a member of the finance committee.

Results of the survey will be used by the school committee in its future planning of the local school system.

14 Evening Study Courses Offered

On Oct. 17 the Andover Evening Study program for adults will open at Phillips academy for the thirteenth season. The program, which consists of 14 separate courses this year, will continue through Dec. 8.

These courses are staffed by members of the Phillips academy faculty and by teachers from neighboring schools and colleges, all of whom serve without pay. All proceeds beyond the actual costs of operation are given annually to charitable and educational causes in and around Andover. To date, a total of $4,500 has been so given. This adult school is open to all men and women; those whose formal education has been limited are especially welcome.

The evening study program this year includes fields widely ranging in interest and content. In the field of foreign study there is a course on the civilization of France, which has been so important to our own. A course entitled "Seven Rebel Thinkers" presents a series of important ideas in various fields, dramatized in the lives of seven famous men, among whom are Socrates, Jefferson, Pasteur, Einstein and others.

In the field of literature and the arts are courses linking art and poetry, one on the reading of fiction and one on the reading of plays. Other courses are concerned with music, amateur photography, studio art, fire-fighting, trees of the Andover region, effective speaking, swimming for women and keeping fit.

On or before Monday, Oct. 3, the charges are $1 for enrollment and a fee of $1 for each course taken. After Oct. 3 the registration fee becomes $2 but the charge for each course remains the same. Registration blanks, in the last pages of the booklet describing the courses, may be obtained at any of the following places: Memorial Hall library; Stevens Memorial library, North Andover; the Lawrence Public library; the Nevins Memorial library, Methuen; the Lowell Public library and the Haverhill Public library.

Heads Sportsmen's Emergency Detail

Chester Harnden was named head of the emergency detail of the Andover Sportsmen's club at the organization's first meeting. He will replace James H. Mosher who has served for some time as head of that detail.

Raeburn Hathaway of Bartlet street, winner of the club's essay contest held last spring, reported upon his two weeks' experience at the Massachusetts conservation camp, giving an interesting day-by-day account of his activities.

Bowling Lesson

Two coeds were at a bowling alley near the campus. "I never bowled before. Tell me what I'm supposed to do," said coed No. 1.

"Just be careful not to knock all the pins down with the first ball," replied No. 2, "because then you get cheated out of the second throw."

PUNCHARD HIGH

NEW SPEECH CLASSES

This year in Punchard High school there are being inaugurated new classes within the English department. It has been the general feeling that a course in speech should afford the following opportunities:

To help students organize and speak their thoughts clearly, distinctly, and effectively in and out of school;

To help students to acquire a reasonable, elementary knowledge of, and proficiency in, the fundamentals of speech, namely: voice, poise, expressive action, vocabulary, pronunciation, articulation, enunciation, and the everyday speech activities;

To give the student the best possible practice in the development of personal speech proficiencies;

To help the students become careful critics of their own speech and the speech of others;

To help students become literate and effective listeners.

To carry out these general aims, considerable experience with the different types of speech activity (conversations, informal talk, oral readings, reports, interpretations of good writing, etc.), primarily for the purpose of attaining proficiency in the fundamentals of speech, will be given. High school students should find a worthwhile outlet for their increasing social consciousness through this study of speech.

These classes are under the direction of Mervin E. Stevens, long a member of the Punchard High faculty. Many years of private lessons in voice, of membership in the acting group at the Gloucester School of the Theatre, of production of plays with amateur and semi-professional groups makes him exceptionally well qualified to take over this work.

Pencil Sales Campaign

The excellent Punchard school spirit is certainly being displayed by the way in which the students, as well as many other loyal supporters, have been purchasing the "Blue and Gold" pencils, conveniently inscribed with a football schedule of Punchard games. The Junior class has been sponsoring this sales campaign to raise money for its treasury. Have you bought a pencil?

Cheerleaders

Bessie Christie, captain of the cheerleaders, met recently with Miss Frances Collins, physical education supervisor, and Ethel Hibbert to choose this year's cheering squad from the 16 candidates. The girls selected for the squad are as follows:

Bessie Christie, captain, Marion White, Grace Engel, Nancy Chadwick, Suzanne Markey, Barbara Parsons, Jean Dumont, Eva Giovinco, and Peggy Grecoe.

Notes

The sophomores met Tuesday to elect their class officers who are: president, Raeburn Hathaway and vice president, Emil Ross.

The faculty advisors to the students are: seniors—Miss Margaret Hawkesworth, juniors—Miss Agnes V. Dugan, sophomores—Miss Helen C. Munroe.

A committee will soon be appointed to discuss plans for the senior square dance, to be held in the gym Monday night, Oct. 10.

The seniors will hold their class elections Friday.

Riches by Degrees

Samuel Johnson was at the commencement exercises of a London university. Almost all the honors were bestowed on citizens who had made financial contributions to the school.

"This must be a very wealthy university," commented a companion.

"Not yet," quipped Johnson. "but it's getting richer by degrees."

The half-hour dramatized programs will be heard over station WLAW for 13 weeks each Saturday from 3 to 3:30 p.m.

Described as "a candid search of the tensions in American homes", the program will be created from the real life stories of everyday families, with names and situations disguised to protect identities.

The series is sponsored nationally by the public affairs department of the American Broadcasting company and the Family Service Association of America. Family service agencies and ABC stations in more than 200 cities are cooperating in the public interest to present the broadcasts.

The Rev. Alexander S. Twombly, president of the board of the Family Service association of Greater Lawrence reported that the "Family Closeup" series will present the problems of American families as they are, without judgement or preaching, with emphasis on the root cause of conflict.

As a Red Feather service of the Lawrence community chest, the counselling help at the Family Service association of Greater Lawrence is available to all without cost or on a fee basis, and regardless of race, creed, color or income.

Grant Pole Locations For Veterans' Housing

The board of selectmen Monday night approved a petition of the Lawrence Gas and Electric Co., calling for the erection of one pole on the westerly side of Morton street near Chestnut st., and four poles on the easterly side of Morton st. to points southerly from Chestnut st. These will be installed to service the buildings on the veterans' housing site.

The board voted to attend the hearing in Boston to be given Oct. 19 on petition of the Boston and Maine railroad to install automatic gates in Ballardvale and to notify all interested organizations and individuals in the Vale.

A campaign of civic betterment is underway by real estate boards throughout the country under the sponsorship of a special committee of the National association of real estate boards.

Giving her assistance at the ground breaking for the veterans' housing project is Brenda L. Eldred, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Eldred of Main street. The father is commander of Andover post, 2128, V.F.W. and the mother is junior vice-president of the V.F.W. auxiliary.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

ADULT EDUCATION

Far too many people cling to the old fashioned idea that their formal education comes to an end on Commencement Day.

Their first objective is in securing a position and getting on with adult life. Later, they may find that they have spare time on their hands, and cannot seem to put this to good use.

Evening Study programs are the answer to this problem. And Andover is indeed rich in such opportunities. Late September marks the opening of many such courses which will prove of inestimable value to those who will devote one or more evenings a week to any of a variety of subjects.

The Phillips Andover Academy Evening Study Program is open to men and women of the community. It is now in its 13th season and has an average enrollment of about 500. The courses are staffed by members of the Academy faculty, supplemented by teachers from neighboring schools as well as qualified citizens of the community.

The teachers give their services without pay. Any revenue remaining after the cost of expenses, is devoted to institutions furthering the cause of education.

The courses are many and varied. Art, music, literature, photography, swimming, nature study, physical fitness and public speaking are a few.

Phillips Academy is not alone in offering evening education to adults.

Merrimack has evening courses for those who wish to obtain higher education. These are co-educational, and are conducted three evenings a week.

The Memorial Hall Library evening programs are another fine source of enlightenment. Movie film is used extensively to graphically illustrate the various subjects which are taken up by the groups.

Other sources of evening study are the Chamber Music Group, and the Merrimack Valley Bird club, both of which will find ready response from interested parties.

That one is never too old to learn is a time-honored adage. Those who do not avail themselves of the wide-spread opportunities offered in Andover are doing themselves an injustice.

IN ENDLESS CIRCLES

Even in this ever changing world, there are still a few things which appear to have survived the passage of time.

Although the cigar store Indian remains only as a museum piece, one of its eye-catching counterparts spins determinedly along.

That's the barber pole, the universal marker of the tonsorial artist's workshop.

It's been modernized, streamlined, electrified, and glorified, yet the endless circling of its red, white and blue ribbons continues to serve as the symbol of a profession, which, on the other hand, has been quick to adopt newer tools and techniques.

While the wooden redskin outside the tobacco shop was a native advertising device, the barber pole dates back to early European civilization. Like the crossed flags of the Army signal corps insignia, the barber pole's design was suggested by practices long since discarded.

Time was when the barber was also a medical practitioner of sorts. His present willingness to give many a defenseless patron advice on a sure cure for the common cold is perhaps a throwback to that long forgotten era.

In days when blood-letting was the cure-all for one's ailments, it was to the barber shop that the afflicted person was taken. Or if a molar of bicuspid had to be extracted, the red, white and blue pole designated the location for that unhappy experience.

So it was that the white band signified the fillet, or bandage, and the red, the human blood. There are differences of opinion on the original import of the blue stripe. Some feel that it was to signify the heavenly treatment received at the hands of those old time Jacks-of-all-trades.

In ancient times, a basin hung from the barber's pole to complete the motif. This part of the design has been abandoned except in rare instances, and by all but a few stubborn purists.

Let no more changes be made in this time-honored trade mark. There has been change enough in this troubled old sphere.

WHO HAS A STAKE IN THE RAILROADS?

Who owns the railroads of the United States—and who has a stake in their welfare and solvency? The answer is: Practically everybody.

That's a big statement, but it is easy to prove. First of all, some 2,000,000 people own railroad stocks and bonds.

But that's only the beginning. More than half of all railroad securities are held by insurance companies, banks, and educational institutions and foundations. Thus, every person with a savings bank account or an insurance policy has indirect ownership in the railroads. And the income from railroad securities is an important factor in keeping many of our most distinguished universities going.

Naturally, the public interest in the railroads is not limited to such financial considerations as these. Every farmer and every business depends upon swift, efficient and reasonably priced railroad service to move crops and goods to market. Every consumer is served daily by the railroads, whether he realizes it or not. Every unit of government shares in the billion a year tax bill the rails pay.

The railroads are a national asset we couldn't do without—an asset in which all of us share in one fashion or another.

tions that Britain can no longer afford. However, Life's editors, while not batting an eyelash over Tito's order for a $3,000,000 United States steel mill and a $25,000,000 loan smugly announce that the "United States is not under any inherent compulsion to sell to and buy from the rest of the world in important amounts." This remark arises from the current British economic crisis.

In as striking a piece of editorial gobbledegook as has deliberately appeared in some time, these gentlemen, while deliberately abstaining from telling Acheson and Hoffman "how to handle" Britain's crisis that is met partly by the devaluing their currency by 30 per cent, offer two suggestions, so important in the eyes of the editorial board that they are italicized for greater emphasis. First, say these gentlemen, it is useless to look exclusively to the ills and faults of Britain for diagnosis and cure, and second, to argue simply that Britain must be saved is dangerous, because only postponement of disaster lies that way.

Economics And Politics Inseparable

The first contribution is elementary, and fortunately our delegates at recent conferences had long been aware of this fact. The second offering is curious. Now, either there is disaster if Great Britain collapses or there isn't. If to argue that to save her leads to disaster, the obvious conclusion is to let her go. But presumably that brings disaster. To make their observations more profound the editors conclude with devastatingly simple observation: We believe that the new world of the 20th Century can be a good and well-ordered world. Obviously a "well-ordered" world suggests two thoughts. One, that effort must be made to produce order; the other, that presumably we have a great deal of concern over the kind of order that does result. And, the editors to the contrary, we are compelled to buy from and sell to other parts of the world. We have increasing surpluses that must be sent abroad, and we must make those sales possible by buying from other nations.

For this is no longer a matter of convenience or condescension. The American eagle's tail feathers are not mere ornamentation. They are marked Greece, Turkey, Middle East, and more will grow as Britain finds herself unable to maintain her present role in India, Arabia, and the Far East. Why? Because Britain's so-called empire is rapidly becoming a vital concern of ours.

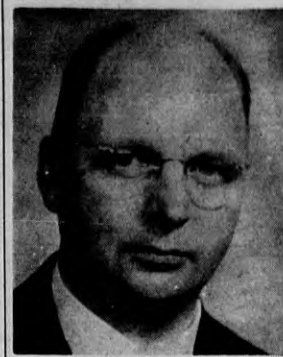

Where Britain Leaves We Go In?

Britain simply cannot afford the financial strain of garrisoning Malaya, Hong-Kong and the Suez area and those other places which while under British rule have been the cause of criticism of British methods. Endowed with that peculiar gift of seeing everything as black or white, we have labeled British foreign policy accordingly. Now that Britain is trying to reduce her military budget from the high 20 per cent of her national income, we begin to feel a sense of uneasiness. What if Britain should get out of Hong-Kong, the last effective check on the Chinese communist flood? What if she leaves Southeastern Asia completely? Will not communism then have greater chance to spread? Is not this the kind of move that Russia is waiting for? Will we become alarmed at possible future danger to Australian independence? Would we just as soon see Egypt or some little Arabian state stand guard over the Suez Canal?

Of course, if we have no interest in any of these places, if without misgivings we can imagine Russian influence in these areas, then the editors are right. Let's forget about Europe's economic worries and bother only about how best to destroy our own surpluses without ruining the economy, let's build an impregnable wall around our coasts. And of course, scrap the Atlantic Alliance. And the consequences? Not only will Britain get out of those areas, with another nation virtually treading on her departing heels. The greater part of Western Europe will be awash. And the easiest course for Europe will be

The Barriers Between

The story of a conflict that caused the artist-correspondent-hero, home from the war, to desert fame and publicity and try to find freedom from his sense of guilt.

Pride's Castle,

by Yerby
Pride Dawson, a hard, money-getting, embittered Southerner, one of the Robber Barons of the 1870 period, built an empire over the people whose lives he destroyed by his ruthless competition. Two women loved him, Sharon O'Neil, lovely and generous, and Esther Stillworth, who thought no price too great to get her man.

And here are a few mysteries that may have missed your eye: The Hangman's Tree, Disney; House of Storm, Eberhart; Murder Is An Evil Business, Bramhall; Shoes For My Love, Leslie; Blue Harpsichord, Keith; The Cabinda Affair, Head; Lady Killer, Cox; A Rope For The Baron, Morton; Spin Your Web, Lady! Lockridge.

A Cup Of Courage, by Lewiton
This is a story intended for younger readers, but still of some interest to adults who will watch with interest a girl's effort to meet a family crisis.

Lord Johnnie, by White
An excellent story for those who enjoy reading about the sea, and who enjoy a rugged personality; Lord Johnnie, used as a pawn by the English and French in pre-Revolutionary days, had but one burning aim—to be a gentleman!

A Woman Of Samaria, by Ingles
A fictionalized version of the woman of Samaria, to whom Jesus made the eternal promise. It is the story of Plotina, whose life was troubled and confused until the moment at the well.

My Love Is Young, by Parson
When a young girl has everything, youth, beauty, wealth, on her side, it is a shock to discover that the one thing she wants most of all is very apt to be hard to find, and to get, especially if it is

Stalin And Co.; The Politurbo
Thirteen men, headed by Stalin, control the Soviet and direct the activities of world Communism. This book contends we must know them as individuals as well as parts of the entire movement. The author, Walter Duranty, was Moscow reporter of the New York Times.

Ant Hill Odyssey, by Mann
The director of the National Zoo is one of Washington's most beloved people; the adventure in his life began at the age of twelve when he went to work on a Montana ranch; his most recent expedition was to the Fiji and the Solomon Islands. His travels include Brazil, Mexico, Arabia, Switzerland and the Pacific. First hand reporting of a naturalist.

Female Persuasion, by Thorp
Because these women, pioneers in living, protested against house and kitchen and family ties, the women of our day have the freedom and privileges which they take for granted. Among them, Amelia Bloomer, Louisa McCord, Catherine Beecher, and Jane Swissheim.

to give way before the red tide of communism. The result would doubtless be an ordered world, extremely well ordered from Moscow.

Economic Aid For Political Ends

The problem before us is not merely a matter of generously trying to keep Britain above the economic tide. It is urgently a question of saving and reviving her to carry on an essential job. It is very probable that Britain could go on doing a pretty satisfactory job for less money than it would cost us to do the same work. In past years Great Britain has for economic reasons played a significant part in world affairs.

It had to be able to guarantee a source of raw materials, and a market for its finished products. Now economically battered she cannot maintain her political influence.

We do not have such pressing economic problems, but we find ourselves in foreign affairs for a different reason but with the same end in view. We want political equilibrium in the world and so we must adopt economic measures for political reasons. To guarantee political safety we must pay the economic price. We may agree that the new world can be a good and well-ordered world, but we'd better have the imagination and perspective to realize that somebody else won't get it for us.

Hartwell Abbott was elected Master of Andover Grange at the annual election of officers held Tuesday Sept. 13. Other officers elected were: overseer, Franklin Allen; lecturer, Grace Allen; steward, William Barron, Jr.; assistant steward, Eleanor Goff; chaplain, Richard Williams; treasurer, Harry Wright; secretary, Gladys Colmer; gatekeeper, Vesta Darby; Ceres, Wilmer Abbott; Pomona, Florence Barron; Flora, Catherine Goff; lady assistant steward, Marilyn Darby; pianist, Marion Henderson; executive committee for three years, Alex Henderson.

Post Office Prepared To Handle Student Laundry

Within the next few weeks, the Andover post office will begin to handle some 600 parcels a week of student laundry, a task which will continue throughout the school year.

The United States post office department is, among other things, the largest dispatching agency for student laundry parcels. With four centers of learning in Andover, the local postal headquarters has considerable of this business.

An idea of the size of this task is gained when one considers that about 350 cases a week are sent from and returned to Phillips Andover academy; 100 cases to Abbot academy; another 150 cases to the Sacred Heart school for Boys, and not a few to students of Merrimack college, who at present live in private homes.

The local post office, postmaster Stephen T. Boland states, is ready to meet the increased demand for the shuttling of students laundry back and forth from the school to their homes.

He urges that specially-made laundry mail cases be used, since they are constructed sturdily, and will withstand repeated handlings. The use of insurance and special delivery postage is also advised by postal officials.

Transfers Made By State Police

With the end of the summer season at Salisbury Beach, two state police officers from the Andover barracks who were on duty there for the past few months, have been reassigned to the local headquarters. They are patrolmen Walter M. Kornachuk of Danvers, and Carl M. Larson of Norwood.

Another change in the personnel of the Andover barracks saw patrolman George H. Strout of Salem, stationed here for several months, go to Framingham. He was replaced here by patrolman Arthur F. Lebrun, who was previously at the Framingham barracks.

Do You Want Your A&P Put Out Of Business?

Last Thursday in New York, the anti-trust lawyers from Washington filed a suit to put A&P out of business.

They asked the court to order us to get rid of most of our stores and also the manufacturing facilities which supply you with A&P coffee, Ann Page products, Jane Parker baked goods, and other quality items we produce.

This would mean higher food prices for you. It would mean less food on every dinner table and fewer dollars in every pay envelope. .

It would mean the end of A&P as you know it.

This poses a basic question for the American people: Do they want to continue to enjoy lower prices and better living? Or do they want to break up A&P and pay higher prices, and have lower living standards?

What do you want?

Why Destroy A&P?

This suit was brought under the anti-trust laws. These are good laws. They were passed about fifty years ago to prevent any company, or any group of companies, from getting a monopoly in a field and then raising prices to the public.

A&P has never done any of these things.

Nobody has ever shown that we have anything even approaching a monopoly of the food business anywhere. As every housewife knows, the retail grocery business is the most competitive in the country and we do only a small part of it.

Nobody has ever said we charged too high prices — just the opposite. This whole attack rises out of the fact that we sell good food too cheap. We would not have had any of this trouble if, instead of lowering prices, we had raised them and pocketed the difference.

Nobody has ever said that our profit rate was too high. During the past five years our net profit, after taxes, has averaged about 1 1/4% on every dollar of sales, which is less than almost any other business you can think of.

The American people have shown that they like our low-price policy by coming to our stores to do their shopping. If A&P is big, it is because the American people, by their patronage, have made it big.

Obviously, it is the theory of the anti-trust lawyers that the people have no right to patronize a company, if their patronage will make that company grow; and that any big business must be destroyed simply because it is big, and even if the public gets hurt in the process.

JUNIOR HIGH

By MARY E. BISHOP

ASSEMBLY

Last Friday a "How do you do" assembly was held, at which time teachers in charge of various activities were introduced to the school and then explained their activities. Benjamin F. Dimlich was in charge of the assembly, while Ruth Sullivan led the flag salute and welcomed the new students on behalf of the school and faculty. Mary Alice Shea gave a piano solo, and Joyce Mowart rendered an accordion solo. All three girls are members of the ninth grade. Others taking part were Miss Evelyn Parker of the business department, who explained the system of school banking, and Donald D. Dunn, head of the physical education department who explained the various sport activities, the color teams, also how you may win an emblem.

School Banking

School banking will begin Tuesday of next week, and we all hope the art of thrift will be practiced by the pupils of Andover Junior high. The girls assisting Miss Evelyn Parker and Miss Beatrice Stevens at the cash registers in the cafeteria are Maureen Darby, Sal-elle, and Arlene Pariseau, all tele, and Arlene Pariseau, all chosen from the business division.

The first classes of religious education for this year will commence about Oct. 1 for all churches.

The school library opened Tuesday for its regular periods throughout the school year. Dure there for library references and to borrow books. Students librarians assisting Miss Katherine Sweeney are: Shirley Clegg, Arvilla Mason, Sally Ann MacCullom, Anne Lord, Judith Colena, Marilyn Dickson, Maxine Wainwright, Marjorie Retelle, Mary Lee Adriance, Christine Mayard, Mary Minard, Peter Corey, Carl Buschman, Alberta Briggs, Judith Nowell, Diana Sorota, Joan Silva, Helen Andrews, Irene Martin, Judith Autcherlonie, and Katherine Lloyd.

The Puncard J.V.'s played the Tewksbury J.V.'s at Tewksbury Monday afternoon with the following ninth grade boys participating, George MacCafferty, Gilford Effinger, Louis Missisola, Marco Stefani, James Dolan, Robert Merrill, Gardner Robinson. These boys have been trained by Coach Walter Roberts along with the regular Puncard varsity team.

The score was 28-6 in favor of Puncard. Among those of the junior high who helped us gain such a great victory were MacCafferty, Effinger, Mirisola and Dolan.

This team is now scheduled to play every Monday and will be called the Monday League.

The first fire drill of this year was carried out very satisfactorily Friday. The whole building was cleared in exactly one minute and 40 seconds.

All girls interested in being a cheerleader have been practicing for the past week. They are: Ann Smith, Patricia O'Neil, Josephine Collins, Florence Golden, Barbara McKay, Marilyn Early, Cora Reed, Louise Mullen, Vivian Marchese, Carol Pratt, Roberta Dickson, Nancy Eldridge, and Marjorie Davis. Very soon a cheering session will be called and the vacant places in the squad will be filled by some of these girls.

The special programs for the combined assemblies have been decided upon and they're sure to prove very enjoyable. They are, Dec. 8, Alfred Cavalleri, a young concert violinist who has had much experience over the radio and nationwide touring; Feb. 6, 1950, Wasanth Wan Singh trio presents the music and dances of India; April 14, Trampoline Stars perform unbelievable aerial maneuvers on the auditorium stage; April 25, Howard Cleaves shows "Animals Unaware" a colored movie which contains many secrets of the animal world; May 17, James Coletta a captain in intelligence during the World War II, tells his own adventure story of "Intrigue" behind the enemy lines.

Thanks, Your Honor!

The judge had just awarded a divorce to a wife who had charged non-support.

"And," he said to the husband, "I have decided to give your wife $50 a month for support."

"That's fine, judge," the man replied, "and once in a while I'll try to slip her a few bucks myself."

Do You Want Higher Prices?

There is much more involved in this case than the future of A&P. The entire American system of efficient, low-cost, low-profit distribution which we pioneered, will face destruction and the public will suffer.

A&P was the first chain store in this country. For more than ninety years we have tried to build a sound business on the simple formula the founder gave us: "Give the people the most good food you can for their money." Year after year we have tried to do a better job, make our business more efficient, and pass the savings on to the consumer in the form of lower prices.

Our efforts along these lines have led other grocers to keep their costs and profits down.

In the old days before A&P, food that cost the grocer 50¢, often sold as high as $1.00 at retail.

Today, food that costs the grocer 50¢ generally sells to the public at less than 60¢.

The methods we pioneered have been adopted not only by other grocers, but by merchants in other lines. There are today literally hundreds of chain stores, voluntary groups and individual merchants operating with the same methods and in the same pattern here under attack.

If the anti-trust lawyers succeed in destroying A&P, the way will be clear for the destruction of every other efficient large-scale distributor.

Who Will Be Hurt?

There has never been any question in our mind that it is good business and good citizenship to sell good food as cheaply as possible. As Fortune Magazine said about A&P some time ago, "It is firmly attached to the one great principle — the selling of more for less — that has made the desert bloom and the nation wax great."

We sincerely believe that we have helped the American people eat better and live better.

We believe that the hundreds of thousands of farmers and manufacturers who have voluntarily sought our business have profited by our fast, low-cost distribution of their products.

We know that our 110,000 loyal employees enjoy today, as they always have, the highest wages, shortest hours and best working conditions generally prevailing in the retail food industry; and that these men and women have found in A&P good opportunities for security and progress.

We know that thousands of businessmen — the landlords who rent us our stores, the haulers who operate our trucks, the people who supply us with goods and services — have a big stake in our operations.

Obviously, all these people will suffer if this company is put out of business.

What Shall We Do?

We admit that the interests of the owners of A&P are of little importance.

Frankly, they could make an enormous amount of money by breaking up A&P, as the anti-trust lawyers wish, and selling off the parts.

But is this what the American people want? Do they agree with the anti-trust lawyers that our food prices are too low, and that we should be put out of the picture so other grocers can charge more?

Frankly, if this were the case, we would not want to continue in business.

But we seriously doubt that this is the case. Twelve years ago, an effort was made to tax this company and other chain stores out of business. The public rallied to our support. They said they liked our quality foods and our low prices. As a result of their opposition, the tax was defeated.

Now we are faced with this new attack through the courts. We are faced with the heavy costs and all the trouble that lawsuits involve.

But we believe this attack is a threat to millions of consumers who rely on us for quality foods at low prices; to farmers who rely on us for fast, low-cost distribution of their products; and to our loyal employees.

We feel that it is our responsibility to all these people to defend, by every legitimate means, this company and the low-price policy on which it was built.

P.H.S. Prepares For Chelmsford

Punchard High school's football squad came out of the opening game with Concord last week without injuries and started Monday in preparation for Saturday's game at Chelmsford.

This game will open Chelmsford's season and the latter will be out to avenge the 20 to 0 defeat pinned upon them by Punchard last year.

In the practice this week Coach Walter C. Roberts paid particular attention to perfecting the downfield blocking which was not up to form last Saturday. With the line men Donald D. Dunn, line coach, stressed the defensive play in order to tighten up the frontier for Chelmsford's attack.

The Punchard J. V. team opened up its season Monday at Tewksbury with a 28 to 6 win.

Plans are underway to form a Monday league for the junior varsity teams to include Tewksbury, Dracut, Johnson and Punchard. A schedule will be drawn up and will be put into effect shortly.

Full Service Vs Cash and Carry

You know there is very little difference between them! —In the Cash and Carry stores YOU do the work—you do the picking up of your order, you do the carrying of it to your car. (In most instances), and you do the WORK OF CLERKS who would ordinarily wait upon your needs.

In the Service Store, well, the word alone describes their full attention to your needs—YOU don't have to lift your hand for anything!—just think of that the next time you might visit a Big Super Store—YOU'RE ON YOUR OWN! —the FULL SERVICE STORE IS GETTING TO BE A THING OF THE PAST—that is why we are constantly advertising the merits of this market—WE DO BUSINESS THE HARD WAY.

Now, the difference between the two?—For all the advantages of services that we offer—the difference in terms of the prices of the merchandise is slight.
