VIEWS OF THE NEWS

By LEONARD F. JAMES

Russia's development of the atomic bomb clears the air of a lot of wishful thinking. It should also force congress to stop pussyfooting around the subject of Western Europe defense. Even congressmen who have persuaded themselves that the comparative seclusion of their western states entitles them to the extravagance of isolationism, must now be ready to face stark reality.

Hanging on to our wishful hopes that the future can be bought the easy way, we have assumed that our sole possession of the atomic bomb gave us an ace in hand. Realizing somewhat vaguely that Western Europe is of some concern to us, we have played with the idea of moral support of European Union so long as we weren't really involved.

Peace Not Bought The Easy Way

Pressed a little closer on the Berlin issue we recognized the need to save face by means of the air lift. But we still were apt to shut one eye to the fact that Berlin wasn't itself the real issue but

The committee will hold a "kick off" dinner soon. Persons interested in volunteering their time to this vital project may call Miss Putnam at the Memorial Hall library and receive an assignment
for the drive.

Here is a group of them just leaving the academy grounds for a jaunt downtown to see the attractive shops and stores in our business section. Smiling at you from left to right are Joan Pope of Burlington, Vt., Anne Dunsford of Chelmsford, Joan Morrison of Andover, Elizabeth Hopkins, a member of the faculty from England, Sally Mason of Fairfield, Conn., Cynthia Faigle of Andover and Ann Linda-mood of Tiptonville, Tenn. ## Punchard Wins At Chelmsford

An inspired Punchard High school football team found itself in the second half of the game at Chelmsford Saturday, breaking a 6-6 tie to score two touchdowns for a 19 to 6 victory.

Chelmsford with single and double reverses that the Blue and Gold could not fathom, scored an early touchdown that was featured by a 23-yard end run by Kerrigan.

Punchard rallied and in a drive
that saw Eddie Dwyer making two long runs and Ray Collins adding yardage by line plunges got the ball to the Chelmsford 14
where Dwyer passed to Joe Ray-ball for a score.

Starting the second half Punchard really got going. Two runs by Cliff Lawrence brought the ball close to the Chelmsford goal
where a fumble stopped the drive.

Brennan, the 140 pound tackle

New Author Holds Autograph Party

Andover's first autograph party was held Monday afternoon at the Andover Bookstore from 3 to 5 p.m., when Catherine Ridgeway McCarthy was kept busy autographing copies of her new novel,
"The Definition of Love."

The first such party of this kind in the town was a very successful affair. Held on the publication date of the new book it drew numerous readers and friends of the author to the Andover Bookstore,
many to purchase copies of her story and many to congratulate her upon her success.

Copies of the new book went on sale all over the country Monday and reviews have appeared in New York papers.

Boosters To Aid All-Girls Band

Progress in the plans which the Boosters club has for raising funds to purchase 100 new uniforms for members of the Pun-

Andover Man Chosen To Represent Board On Morton St. Work

James M. Gordon of Lowell st., an Andover man engaged in construction work for the past 35 years except for a period during World War I, was named by the Andover Housing authority as clerk of the works for the new veterans' housing construction on Morton street.

Mr. Gordon will act as liaison agent between the architect and contractor and will be the representative of the housing authority on the job to see that the plans and specifications are followed.
He will take up his new duties
Monday, Oct. 3, and will remain on the job as long as the local housing authority thinks it necessary.

The appointment was made after eight candidates, all Andover residents, were interviewed by the board. Members felt that a local man would be preferred if they could find one that would be qualified and in the selection of Mr.
Gordon they feel that they have obtained the type of man needed for the work.

Mr. Gordon first worked as a carpenter for various construction companies and then as foreman for Horn Bros., of Boston, and for Hazeman & Hannis of Boston.
He supervised construction of the boy scout camp in Waltham, supervised construction and maintenance for the Ohio Carpet Co., in West Warren, served as foreman for the U.S. Rubber Co. of Lowell in construction of their Lowell plant, served as lay-out
man in the Portsmouth navy yard,
and more recently has been a general contractor. At one time Mr.
Gordon was also foreman of the Prindaville Construction Co., in construction of the Jersey Ice Cream plant at Lynn.

Mr. Gordon, father of Trial Justice Richard K. Gordon, was born in Scotland but removed to Lawrence at an early age. A member of the British War Veterans,
having served with the Kiltie Regiment in the first World War, he came to Andover about 20 years ago and has lived here ever since.

Foster C. Barnard, Noted Citizen, Dies

Foster Carnes Barnard, 52, prominent business man and a member of one of Andover's oldest families, died Tuesday afternoon at his home, 14 Cabot rd., after a short illness.

A real estate agent for many years and a veteran of the first World War, he had long been active in the civic affairs of the community although never seeking public office for himself.

Born in Andover Nov. 28, 1896,
the son of Henry Warren and Mabel (Paradise) Barnard, he attended the local public schools, the Mitchell Boys' military academy in Billerica, and Phillips academy,

leaving the latter in 1918 to enlist
in the U. S. navy.
After his honorable discharge
from the navy, he became associated with his father and brother in J. W. Barnard & Son, an Andover shoe manufacturing concern established by his grandfather and continued by members of the family. He advanced to the position of general manager, a post he held until the company discontinued operations in 1930, when he became engaged in the real estate business with his father.

A trustee of the J. W. Barnard estate and an incorporator of the Andover Savings bank, Mr. Barnard also was treasurer of the Davison Associates, a holding com-

Community Party For Hallowe'en

The committee on recreation
for the Town of Andover is planning an innovation that is sure to please the youngsters and receive the approval of grown-ups
as well—a big community Hallowe'en party to be staged Monday night, Oct. 31, at the Memorial gym.

All the youngsters of the town will be invited. A big program for their entertainment is being arranged and funds are being solicited to provide them with refreshments to top off a pleasant evening.

This is the first time anything of this kind has been done in Andover and those sponsoring the plans feel confident that it is going to prove a big attraction for the young people of the town.

The program, still only in its tentative stages, will be in two

Shawsheen Only One In Use To Be Rated O.K.

School Consultants Report Findings of Survey of Buildings

Andover should envision the eventual replacement of all elementary school buildings now in use except the Shawsheen, and should close the auditoriums in the Indian Ridge and Stowe schools immediately, consultants engaged to make a study of the school building needs reported Tuesday night to the survey committee.

Recommended as the first step in the proposed replacement program would be the erection of a new 18-room elementary central school. The second step would be the building of a seven-room elementary school in West Andover.

In their findings the consultants reported:

The Indian Ridge building should be withdrawn from use as a school as soon as appropriate facilities can be made available.

The West Center school is entirely inadequate and should be abandoned as soon as it is possible to provide suitable housing facilities for the children of this area.

The future of the Bradlee area
cannot be predicted at the present time. As the building will have to be used for some years the unsatisfactory conditions now existing should be remedied so far as possible.

It is found that Andover has experienced a healthy growth in population and is continuing to grow. New homes are being built to accommodate this increase in population. The birth rate has grown rapidly and the effect has now reached the enrollment in the elementary grades, creating an immediate demand for more classrooms, especially in the central area.

Andover is in excellent financial condition to undertake the proper steps in the solution of the schoolhouse problem.

The survey was made by Dr.
Jesse B. Davis of Boston university and his associate, Cyril G.
Sargent, formerly of Phillips academy faculty but now with the Harvard School of Education.
Funds were provided by a special article adopted at the town meeting last March, which was sponsored by the school committee.

The survey committee consisted of the school board, Gordon L.
Colquhoun, chairman, William A.
Doherty, secretary, Mrs. Katherine
A. Baldwin, Mrs. Dorothy T.
Partridge, Atty. Vincent F. Stul-
gis, and Supt. Kenneth L. Sherman, together with a group of citizens who were invited to participate in evaluating the needs of the schools. The latter includes,
Leo R. Daley, L. Frazier Colpitts, Roy E. Hardy, chairman of the board of selectmen, Mrs. Edward J. O'Connor, Arthur R. Lewis, Victor Mill, Jr., C. Carleton Kimball, member of the Taxpayers association, Miss Barbara A. Loomer and Ralph B. Wilkinson. All were present at the meeting except Mr.
Wilkinson who was unavoidably detained.

Various phases of the report
were discussed during which a general plan of procedure was outlined. It was brought out that the next legal step would be the calling of a special town meeting
for the appointment of a building committee and a request for an appropriation of $30,000 to con-

New Elementary Schools Needed

tinue the work by employing an architect, together with an educational consultant, to prepare building plans from which it may be possible to estimate with reasonable accuracy the cost of future construction.

Report Accepted

The survey committee voted to meet again the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 18 for further discussion of the report.

After the survey committee adjourned the school committee members went into session and voted to accept the report of the consultants.

Referring to the auditorium of the Indian Ridge and Stowe schools during the discussion, Supt. Sherman stated that the former has not been used for an assembly since last spring and the latter is used only in a limited way.

In making the survey of the Andover school building plant the consultants report that they kept in mind the following principles: The good modern school is structurally safe, healthy, comfortable and attractive; the school plant and its individual units must be planned to meet the needs of education in a modern American community; school buildings are accessible; and the building is economical to operate and maintain.

They reported that the present school plant consists of seven elementary schools in actual operation, together with the junior and senior high school buildings.

The date of construction of these buildings is as follows: West Center (front part) 1848, (remainder) 1891; John Dove 1876; North 1893; Indian Ridge (formerly Abbot Village) 1893; Stowe 1893-94, rebuilt 1896; Bradley 1897; Jackson 1904; high, 1917; Shawshen 1924; junior high 1935.

Seven were constructed prior to 1900 and only the Shawshen is less than 25 years old. This is rated the best elementary school rated the best of elementary school buildings.

Using the McLeary profile chart to evaluate the schools the ratings were: Jackson and John Dove, very poor; Indian Ridge, inadequate; Stowe generally poor; Bradley, very poor; senior high, satisfactory; Junior high, satisfactory; Shawshen, satisfactory.

Discussing population and enrollment trends the report says that the population of Andover has increased from 8,268 in 1920 to 11,920 in 1945. This represents an increase of 3652 persons, or slightly over 44 percent in 25 years.

Birth Rate

The birth rate reached a high spot in 1947 when 256 births were recorded. There is evidence, the report says, that the high birth rate in the past few years may have reached a peak for the Andover birth rate dropped from 256 to 210. This is in keeping with the national pattern.

The birth rate from 1930 to 1948 is shown as follows: 1930, 161; 1931, 157; 1932, 158; 1933, 152; 1934, 115; 1935, 138; 1936, 134; 1937, 139; 1938, 116; 1939, 137; 1940, 124; 1941, 139; 1942, 208; 1943, 216; 1944, 203; 1945, 199; 1946, 234; 1947, 256; 1948, 210.

Regarding new home building the report says the rate of home construction in Andover during the past few years again represent typically the pattern of release of the pent-up demand of the war period, when little or no construction was possible. For the central area east of the railroad track, there have been built since 1940, 232 homes. Of these 133 are within a one-mile radius of the central elementary school facilities. In addition there is a new housing project calling for 56 more homes bringing the total number of new or anticipated homes in this area to 288.

In the Ballardvale Bradley school district there have been approximately 23 new units of construction. In the Shawshen section 53 houses have been erected and in the west Andover area 96 homes, of which only 27 lie within a half-mile radius of the present West Center school.

The total number of new homes built, together with the anticipated housing project, is approximately 437. In addition there seems every reason to believe that Andover will continue to experience a healthy and substantial further increase in the number of new dwellings, particularly as watermain are extended beyond present locations.

Future Enrollment

A table shows the public school enrollment projected through 1956. The table indicates the following estimates:

That the total enrollment will increase from 1508 (the grand total for 1948 minus the veterans in the special class to 1989 in 1956. This represents a total increase in school population over 1948 of 481 pupils.

The elementary school enrollment will increase from 860 in 1948 to 1193 in 1956, an increase of 333 pupils. This is an increase of 38 percent over the 1948 enrollment.

The enrollment for grades 7 through 12 will increase by only 148 pupils, but will then experience a continual increase as the "bulge" which is now passing through the elementary school begins to make itself felt in full force on the secondary school level.

These figures, the consultants conclude, leave little doubt that the present number of elementary school rooms is not at all sufficient to house the elementary school enrollment and still maintain desirable class size.

Overcrowded Classrooms

Andover is already confronted with the problem of overcrowded elementary classrooms in the first three grades in the Jackson and John Dove schools, the report goes on to say.

With today's understanding of the nature of the learning process and of the significance of individual differences, there is clear awareness of the need for the teacher to act as an observer and guide in enabling each child to attain maximum intellectual, social and emotional growth.

In order to permit the teacher to function effectively in this role, the desirable elementary class size is usually placed in the neighborhood of 25 pupils per teacher. Indeed, there seems no justification for accepting a larger class size in the elementary school than is today currently the pattern in the secondary school. Classes of over 30 pupils per teacher are no longer defensible in terms of the modern elementary school program.

Table VII shows that there would need to be provided 33 elementary class room units in 1949, expanding to a maximum of 43 units in 1954. These classroom units are conservatively estimated on the assumption of a pupil-teacher ratio of 30 to 1.

It is clear that Andover is confronted with a pressing elementary school problem and that additional elementary school space is a necessity.

Financing Project

Discussing the school capital outlay the report states that the 1948 legislature enacted a law (Chap. 645) providing for a state grant on a debt-service basis for approved school building projects. This money is made available by the state on an equalization basis and would in the case of Andover represent 20 percent of the total approved cost of construction.

It was brought out in the discussion that the town is in an excellent financial condition.

HELPS FOR HANDICAPPED

Each year there is a concerted effort made on the part of those who are concerned with the welfare of the handicapped to bring before the public a reminder of the valuable manpower available in those who through accident, inheritance or war injury are denied the privileges and pleasures of their fellow men.

This year, the week of October 2 has been designated as "Employ The Handicapped Week," and as a small part in its observance the Memorial Hall Library will display material in book and pamphlet form, fiction and non-fiction, selected for the handicapped individual and for those interested in the subject of rehabilitation.

In the following list, which represents in part the books on display, material is listed that approaches the subject from many angles—biographies of those who have risen in courage and physical mastery above their misfortunes; intelligent and useful information for those who are afflicted; suggestions for rehabilitation and personal adjustment; even fiction that contains the lift of understanding and sympathy. All books may be borrowed for home use.

Out On A Limb Louise Baker
This biography of a girl who lost a leg in childhood is a light-hearted bit of encouragement for any amputee.

Anne Sullivan Macy Nella Brady
Anne Sullivan Macy, after a stay in the Tewksbury almshouse, was restored from blindness at the Perkins Institute, and later had a great influence on the life of Helen Keller.

I Begin Again Alice Bretz
A remarkable autobiography of a woman who lost her sight in middle age and made the adjustment to her handicap.

Louder, Please! Ernest Calkins
The author, an expert in the art of printing, has been deaf since childhood.

Born That Way Earl Carlson
One man who turned his misfortune into a life of service to others similarly afflicted. Dr. Carlson was a victim of spastic paralysis. Another book on this subject is "Your Child And Mine" by Mary Louise Hart Burton and Sage Jennings; it describes the treatment,

Flight of Grouse Mystery of Nature

The so-called "crazy" flight of the ruffed grouse—partridge to some—is Mother Nature's way of scattering the young of the species. At least, that's what scientists believe. Yet they have much to learn about this unusual phenomenon, says William Sheldon of the wildlife department at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst.

Already two birds have flown through windows on the campus, and within the next two weeks this same unusual event will happen in many places. Anyone finding or hearing of dead partridge is urgently urged to call the wildlife department at the university. Arrangements will be made to pick up the wings and tails or the birds themselves.

The university wildlife department is beginning a two-year study of the grouse. By studying the wings and tails of the dead birds, they can determine the age and the sex and may be able to learn more about the "crazy" flight.

FISHING WITH HANDS VIOLATES STATE LAW

Raymond R. Cole of Gaines, Pa., recently learned the hard way that non-commercial fishing in Pennsylvania must be done with hook and line, says Pathfinder news magazine.

Cole happened to catch a 28-inch trout with his bare hands. He had it mounted, displayed it proudly in a tavern, told all comers about his fluke-feat.

Conservation officers heard the story. Cole was hauled into court, discovered that catching fish with your hands is likely—as it did in his case—to cost $20 per fish.

The 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Philip I. Gaudet of 17 Cuba st. was observed recently with a party in the French-American hall, Lawrence, attended by about 150 guests. Many beautiful gifts, cards and a purse were received.

KEEP SKIRTS SHORT TO SAVE APPLE TREES

Keeping the skirts of your apple tree short is one of five important steps in controlling orchard mice, says Charles C. Scott, Jr., mammal control supervisor of U. S. fish and wildlife service with headquarters at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst.

Mouse control should be a regular orchard practice, says Scott. Meadow mice if allowed to nest at the base of a tree will girdle and kill it in one winter. Pine mice work on the roots. The tree loses its vigor and dies gradually.

Actual control practices can be grouped into mechanical protectors, keeping clean tree bases, trapping, natural enemies, and a regular baiting program.

The most satisfactory means of control is, of course, a combination of all five. Full information on these five practices can be obtained from county agricultural agents or direct from the service in Amherst.

A Wakefield truck driver escaped serious injury last Friday afternoon when the 16-wheel truck he was operating and a Boston and Maine train collided at Jacques crossing, off Andover st. One side of the train was damaged its entire length.

Alfred Benedetto, owner and operator of the truck which was loaded with stumps, rocks, sand and gravel, reported to police that as he approached the tracks he stopped, then started up again in low gear, looked to the right and left and then saw a train (from Portland to Boston) almost upon him.

He said he applied the brakes, threw the motor in reverse and jumped. He reported an injury to his knee and being shaken up.

The snow plow attachment on the forward end of the truck apparently caught the front end of the locomotive at the side as steps and air conditioning units the entire length of the train were ripped off or badly damaged. The truck was not overturned.

The train proceeded to Boston with its passengers. The snow plow attachment was reported broken, the radiator punctured and the motor shifted, but it was able to go on its own power.

Load of Barrels Rolls Down Hill

When the driver of a Watson-Park Co. truck shifted gears going up a hill on Ballardvale road just before noon Wednesday, the ropes holding 30 barrels of formaldehyde, each weighing 500 pounds, broke allowing the barrels to roll off the truck and down the hill.

Another truck from the plant with a gang of men rounded up the barrels and reloaded the truck. Only one barrel was found to be leaking, the others were intact.

Man Finds Wallet Lost by Neighbor

One young lady in Shawsheen Village was made much happier earlier this week through the alertness and honesty of John Gaudet of 7 Fletcher st.

Mr. Gaudet found a bulging wallet in front of The Townsman office at 58 Main st., Monday afternoon and stepped in to inquire if it belonged to one of the office force. Upon being opened it was found to contain a sum of money, photos and the name and address of a Union street girl.

"Well, I'm going right over there," said Mr. Gaudet, surprised to find that the wallet belonged to a neighbor. "I'll bring it over and give it to her."

The return of the lost wallet must have been a pleasant surprise to the owner.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

OUR DEBT TO EDUCATION

There are thousands of us who can honestly proclaim that what we are or what we hope to be we owe to our teachers as well as our parents.

This statement of Eric A. Johnston, former president of the U. S. chamber of commerce is of great interest at the present to parents who are now entering their Young Hopefuls in the schools of the land, and to citizens everywhere.

The debt of America to the profession of education is astronomical, says Mr. Johnston, who feels that for a number of years we did not acknowledge that debt. He now sees the times changing and more interest being centered on education by laymen than ever before.

The value of a good teaching staff in a community is of immense importance in shaping the careers of thousands of youngsters toward their goal in life.

The high standing which Andover schools have in the state is a clear indication of the fine group of men and women who are in our teaching staffs.

Only a short time ago The Townsman had occasion to comment on Punchard's fine record of having 42 percent of this year's graduating class going to continue their education in institutions of higher learning. The significant part of the announcement from the guidance director was that all of the students of the 1949 class who had applied for admission to advanced institutions had been admitted, the majority of them being enrolled in degree-granting colleges and universities.

This record speaks well for the teachers of Andover's schools, many of whom in recent years have been called from the local ranks to more remunerative positions in other communities.

Good education is essential to our expanding economy, and a school system backed by sufficient operating funds is necessary in maintaining the good teaching corps to make this possible.

BLOOD DONORS

The visit of the Massachusetts bloodmobile here earlier in the month was rewarded with donations of 108 pints of blood. On a similar visit last January 114 pints were received, a record that placed Andover in second place on the state honor roll.

Committees of Andover chapter, American Red Cross, worked diligently to make the visit of the bloodmobile even more successful than the one in January and after all their effort felt somewhat disappointed that they did not better the previous record since the amount just received in the two-day stay was not quite up to the one-day donations made earlier in the year. The quota is 100 pints a day, the amount the bloodmobile is prepared to receive.

Officials tabulating the names of donors noted the apparent lack of interest shown by younger persons in this noteworthy cause and felt that in a town the size of Andover far more young people would be willing to make donations of blood to help save human lives.

The chapter has expressed its deep gratitude to all who responded to its appeal and helped materially to provide this particular form of health insurance for the people of the town.

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

"Freedom Goes Where the Newspaper Goes," is the slogan adopted for the 10th anniversary of Newspaperweek which will be observed nationally October 1 to 8.

What is freedom of the press and why is it considered so important? Freedom of the press means different things to different people. To most of our citizens it means freedom to criticize public policy and public officials fearlessly and to expose evil wherever they find it.

In reality the free press performs many functions. The greatest service is in publishing the news accurately, fully, and fairly with variety and balance.

According to Prof. J. Edward Gerald of the University of Minnesota School of Journalism, when we speak of freedom of the press in terms of our idealism we have in mind the right of every American to express himself, and to seek thereby his destiny in a society of political equals.

In the legal aspect, he says, freedom of the press could be better defined as a set of ground rules which society, through the courts, has established to define the restrictions of freedom of utterance. American society depends on free discussion, agitation, and reform for the changes which we associate with progress. The national ideal seems to tolerate all utterances except those which amount to physical violence to our political system of peaceful change.

Our courts represent a society which has made no immediate plans for its own dissolution but which will undertake to tolerate agitation for orderly and lawful change.

We know what has taken place in Russia. Therefore, it is imperative that newspapers remain free in order that the American people preserve their freedom. Freedom goes where the newspaper goes.

Views of The News

merely one aspect of the basic difference between Russian and American objectives. Even the Atlantic Alliance at first received little more than paper support from us. We tried to eat our cake and still have it by supporting the theory that harm to one means harm to all, always provided that we were free to decide what constituted harm and to whom. Circumstances finally forced us to face facts, and now we admit that we are morally obliged to honor our guarantees. There's even a saving idea in the "moral" argument! In effect, we still seem to dodge the realistic fact that physically we can't afford not to accept our obligations.

Numbers of Bombs No Real Superiority

Then there was still the "out" that we did have that bomb as a final argument, if the worst came to the worst. But now the situation has radically changed, and we'd better face the issue squarely. We no longer have that advantage. And if some of us should be tempted to look slightly edgewise at facts, we should remind ourselves that the comforting theory of American superiority in numbers of bombs is a fleeting advantage. There came a time when the safety of mere numbers is an illusion. No matter how far ahead we go in production, there could arrive that precise time when Russia might decide that she could strike a crippling blow. Our superior numbers could not then counteract the devastation of our communication centers and our centralized government. Mere numbers of bombs would not solve the stupendous problem of feeding millions of citizens who depend for their food upon a highly organized transportation system.

Time To Face Facts Squarely

We are now faced with the unpleasant fact that there are two possibilities for the future. Russian discovery of the bomb can mean a greater chance for peace; it can mean war. No side-stepping can take us out of that shadow. So we've got to get down to business and formulate our policy accordingly. Should we conciliate Russia and thereby hope to buy time and possible peace by reducing armaments and getting out of Europe, or should we follow our present road of armaments and Atlantic Alliance?

Appeasement Means Surrender

Those who support the philosophy of treading softly must reckon on all the consequences. If we leave Europe to their own devices and let them run their own show as best they can, there's only one foreseeable result if past experience points anywhere. Europe won't be able to resist, and we only buy a short reprieve for ourselves. For the history of aggressive dictatorship shows clearly that the dictator cannot stop short of total conquest once he embarks on war. Whatever area is not brought under his control may one day be the spot from which ultimate defeat comes. Clearly, appeasement is no answer. Senator Vandenberg call it "surrender on the installment plan."

Does Firmness Mean War?

If we continue our military plans with the Atlantic nations are we inciting Russia? Very obviously the Russian propaganda machine would continue to say so. It's part of the Kremlin game to win their objective the easy way if a mere matter of thundering words can do the trick. Or, if the moment is opportune, by soft words, but it may be argued, when we had a clear superiority over Russia through our possession of the atomic bomb, Moscow did not really make efforts to set up international control. The United States offered to destroy her stockpile if adequate guarantees of effective control were instituted and if the veto power were not permitted. Russia countered with the untenable proposition that discussions—and only discussions—on international control should start only after our bombs were destroyed and then with the provision that any agreements arrived at were still subject to the veto power—to Russia's "No" to any measure of control that didn't suit her. Was Russia really scared of us? It would not appear so.

And yet we must realize that Moscow perhaps saw its own image by suspecting that we might do just what she would have little compunction in doing, were she in a favorable position. She

Since devaluation of foreign currencies operates somewhat as a reduction in United States tariffs, Massachusetts industries likely to feel a tightening in competition may include woollens and worsteds, cotton goods, leather manufactures and canned fish, where-as others that should find some what lower priced raw materials include the Commonwealth's industries manufacturing rubber goods, soaps and other vegetable oil products, chocolate, jute products, chromium plate, Egyptian cotton goods and Mediterranean fruits . . . Of the August total this year, more than 800 units were public housing, so that the number privately built was about 25% less than a year ago, as calculated from reports of the department of labor and industries . . . must have felt uneasy. Or perhaps only pride and face-saving were the issues. She might well have wished to make such a deal only when she could sit as an equal across the table.

It could be that Russia is now quite willing to start bargaining over international control. She is certainly in the position to do so and it may be her pride that made her reluctant formerly. The Kremlin boys are shrewd operators, well able to bring their ancient horse-trading abilities into the

Why Do They Want to Put A&P Out of Business?

The answer is to be found in the formal complaint "they" have filed with the court. By "they" we mean, of course, the anti-trust lawyers from Washington who are out to destroy A&P.

They say . . . and these are the anti-trust lawyers' own words . . . that we "have regularly undersold competing retailers."

To this charge we plead guilty:

We confess that for the past 90 years we have constantly stepped up the efficiency of our operations in order to give our customers more and more good food for their money.

The American people have seen nothing wrong in this. By their ever-increasing patronage for 90 years they have shown that they like this low-price policy.

Apparently the people still see nothing wrong in this today. All during the past week — since the anti-trust lawyers made their charges — we have been deluged with phone calls and letters from men and women in all walks of life who want us to know they are opposed to this effort to put A&P out of business.

An enormous number of customers are telling our store managers and clerks that they want to continue to enjoy our low prices for quality foods.

Farmers and other suppliers are asking what they can do to preserve this efficient outlet for their products.

Our 110,000 employees are asking us to protect their jobs and pensions.

Labor leaders are wiring us their opposition to this threat to labor's living standards.

If all these people will be hurt, why then do the anti-trust lawyers want to put A&P out of business?

Low Prices Don't Hurt Anyone

The anti-trust lawyers say because we are able to sell food cheaper than other grocers, we make it impossible for those grocers to compete with us.

If this were true, we should have all the food business in the United States by this time.

Just the opposite is true. In 1933 we had 11.6 per cent of the nation's food business. Now, according to the anti-trust lawyers, our share has decreased to 6.4 per cent in 1948. Anyone can see we have nothing even approaching a monopoly.

As a matter of fact, there are about 30,000 more individual grocers in business today than there were ten years ago.

There are about 275 more food chains in business today than there were ten years ago.

In other words, we have more competitors in the food field and do a smaller share of the nation's food business than before.

Where is this alleged destruction of other grocers? Where is there any evidence of their inability to compete with us?

Do You Want Higher Prices?

As anyone can see, the only purpose that would be served by putting A&P out of business would be to raise food prices.

Who would this benefit?

We were the first merchants to set the pattern for low cost, low-profit distribution. Our example and our competition has led other grocers to keep their prices down.

Remove A&P from the picture and food prices are bound to go up.

Remove A&P from the picture and the way will be cleared for the destruction of every other efficient large-scale distributor.

Is this what the American people want?

Is this in the public interest?

modern political market-place. They are shrewd enough, too, to take advantage of any hesitancy on the part of the other fellow. But they are also realists. They've probably estimated what damage they could do at any given time by atomic warfare. And they can have little doubt of our hitting power. New weapons have never prevented a war, but this modern weapon is devastating beyond all imagination. They might strike first, but they've probably calculated that they still couldn't come out as the victor in any sense of the word.

Strength Can Mean Peace

If their opponent were only the United States they might be willing to chance a gamble, even a long one. But if Western Europe remains our real defense line, the frontier on which we'd make a very real first stand, the odds would be far from favorable to Russia. Our best plan is obviously to work hard for international control of atomic weapons. But that cannot be our sole reliance. Strength still impresses the Russians—and others. While we redouble our peace efforts, we must remain vigilant and unceasing in preparations to be able to defend ourselves in the last eventuality.

World War 1 Vets Receive Dividends

Francis P. Markey, director of Veterans' Services, has been informed by Walter V. Robinson, Veterans Administration insurance officer for the Boston regional office, that some 435,000 veteran-holders of World War I insurance will receive special dividend checks ranging from a few dollars to several hundred dollars.

"The payments total 40 million dollars," Mr. Robinson said. "They will go to persons who took out U. S. Government Life insurance on a permanent plan at any time prior to January 1, 1944, and kept it in force through December of 1948."

Not all permanent plan policyholders are entitled to this dividend because some have not built up their full reserve. Moreover, no special dividend is payable on any USGLI term policy.

Mr. Robinson explained that most of the recipients already have received regular dividends annually on their policies. The additional dividend is the result of a recently-completed restudy of the condition of the USGLI trust fund, and the amount of the reserve which is necessary to meet obligations.

Mr. Robinson emphasized that there is no connection between this dividend payment and the forth coming special dividend on National Service Life (World War II) insurance. Assets of the two insurance programs are maintained in separate trust funds, and the operations of one have no bearing on the other.

FOSTER C. BARNARD

(A Tribute)

In the death of Mr. Foster C. Barnard, Andover has lost a good friend and a sound citizen. Never a seeker of public office or prominence of any kind, he was yet one of the best known and respected members of our community. His advice was often sought in town and social affairs. He served on various committees quietly but effectively, as one who knew his own mind, the facts in the case and who was never in a hurry to impose his thoughts on others, but also as one of whose presence all were well aware and with whose opinion all would have to reckon.

Conservative by nature and convictions gleaned from his thinking and his experience. All who knew were familiar with the modest introduction he so often used: "I may be wrong, but". There would follow his verdict, firm as a rock, which one could skirt, but neither move nor ignore. He did not seem to like the making of decisions. There was a gentleness in his nature that must have made them hard. But his position in life made them necessary and he never shirked. But he was never jealous of them. They had nothing to do with his affections or his friends.

Although his friends knew he was never physically over strong, they little suspected how narrow a margin he had. His constant friendships, his ready hospitality, his quiet good sense and his never-failing presence created an illusion of permanence which was not there. His going comes as a sudden and unexpected shock, and a very deep and painful loss.

DISTRICT MEETING

Calvin Metcalf, district chairman, presided over a meeting of the Andover district committee Thursday Sept. 22 in the Memorial library. Harvey H. Bacon, North Essex Council scout executive attended the meeting. Mr. Metcalf reported on a camping site that he is able to provide for Andover scouts. He spoke of the fine cooperation that has been extended by property owners in connection with access to the camp grounds and in the matter of obtaining drinking water. Merrill Burnett, troop committeeman of Troop 72, was elected chairman of a camping committee to be formed to administer the camp. The committee members will be chosen by the various troop committees. The land will later be divided into troop camping areas and rules and regulations regarding the use of the camp and safety rules will be formulated. A group met in the square at 2 p.m. Saturday to ride to the camp and inspect the grounds. John Carver who has been associated for many years with Cub Pack 72 of the Free church will head up cubbing activities and development in the district. Mr. Carver has been active also in regional cubbing affairs in District I of New England. Calvin Metcalf, district chairman, and Walter Caswell, district commissioner, will soon see troops in connection with the 40th anniversary crusade inspection and records. Troop 75 of St. Augustine's church was well represented at the meeting with three members of the troop staff present.

Summer Camp

The Andover district broke attendance records for Camp Onway this year. About two out of every five scouts in Andover attended camp. Next year it is hoped that at least 50% will attend summer camp. The following is a chart of attendance by district for the past two years.

Group Life Insurance Continues To Grow

Reflecting the increasing social consciousness of business management and the interest of workers in family security, group life insurance continued to grow in the first half of this year as more employers made this form of protection for workers' families available to their employees and more workers enrolled in group plans, the Institute of Life Insurance reports.

At June 30, approximately 17,000,000 workers owned some $39,000,000,000 in life insurance under nearly 47,000 group contracts. The number of workers protected, the amount of life insurance owned and the number of group contracts all represented new high records. The gain in workers enrolled in these plans in the six months was about 300,000 and the insurance owned was up about two billion dollars.

"The number of persons sharing in this protection was, of course, much greater than the number of policyholders," said the institute. "The protection is actually for the benefit of the families of the workers insured. In many cases, of course, group insurance is only a part of the protection programs of the workers, but increasingly it is becoming an important supplement to the individual life insurance policies which they own."

In addition, about 5,000,000 persons who had borrowed from the banks or bought goods under installment contracts were protected to the extent of their obligations under the form of group life insurance known as creditors insurance. This use of group life insurance, the institute points out, protects both the lender and the family of the borrower.

The total of group life insurance, including creditors insurance outstanding on June 30, was approximately $40,500,000,000 under more than 55,000 contracts. The number of individual policies under these contracts was 22,000,000.

BUY HOOD'S SUPERTEST WITH THE NEVER-EQUALLED 11-YEAR RECORD FOR RICH TASTE AND QUALITY Hood's long experience in selecting better farms helps bring you Supertest Grade A Milk

Extra Richness, Superior Flavor of Supertest Maintained by Constant Vigilance

Hood safeguards the quality of Supertest at every step in its production to make certain that it reaches you in all its richness, fine taste and pure goodness. Hood's country control experts constantly check farms, herds and milking equipment. Hood's laboratory technicians make frequent tests of milk from each producer. Every piece of plant equipment is sterilized before and after use. These are some of the reasons why Supertest is the finest Grade A Milk ever produced in such quantity in New England.

Hood's Supertest is a typical example of the extra care that goes into all Hood products. Whatever brand of Hood's Milk you may be using, you can be certain that it is as fine as any you can buy for the price you pay.

Extra Rich, Superior Flavor Makes Milk Drinking a Pleasure

Children who don't like other milk often take eagerly to the extra richness and finer flavor of Hood's Supertest Grade A Milk. In many cases the whole problem of persuading a child to drink an adequate daily amount of milk is solved when the family starts having the Hood Route Salesman deliver Supertest regularly!

STRICT REQUIREMENTS ASSURE EXTRA RICHNESS, QUALITY AND FLAVOR FROM FARM TO TABLE

It's not every dairy farm that can qualify as a producer of Hood's Supertest! H. P. Hood & Sons take great care in selecting only those dairy farms in each producing area of New England which meet Hood's standards of quality and which produce milk of fine flavor and richness. Among all Hood producing farms, only the very finest were selected for the production of Supertest—and, after being selected, every Supertest farm is inspected at regular intervals to be certain that it continues to meet the high Supertest standards of cleanliness. Supertest herds, too, are examined regularly by veterinarians. Since 1938 Hood veterinarians have made over 114,500 examinations of Supertest cows! This is part of Hood's continuing program to bring you pure, richer, finer-tasting Supertest—the finest Grade A Milk ever produced in such quantity in New England!

Start giving your family the extra richness and flavor of Supertest—today!

From Fine Dairy Farms Comes Supertest—New England's Finer Grade A Milk!

On Supertest farms, cows are fed a scientifically balanced ration, to assure their production of milk that is better-tasting and richer than legal requirements call for. Hood pays a premium to Supertest dairy farmers for the extra high quality milk!

Seven Vital Requirements Give Supertest Its Richer, Finer Flavor

Supertest Grade A Milk represents the pride of accomplishment of 103 years of progress by H. P. Hood & Sons. The superiority of Supertest comes from strict adherence to these seven basic points:

1. More carefully selected farms.
2. More frequently tested cows.
3. More appetizing flavor.
4. More carefully pasteurized.
5. More rigid cleanliness and care.
6. More intensive laboratory control.
7. Requirements enforced by the Supertest Council.

RESULT: Richer, creamier, finer flavored milk!

JUNIOR HIGH

By MARY E. BISHOP

J. V. TEAM LOSES

Last Monday the Punchard J. V.'s played the regular Monday game against the Johnson J. V.'s at Punchard, and were defeated, with a score of 19-0. Next week the game will be played at Draut, and we are all looking forward to welcoming back a victorious team. 57 ambitious boys signed up and reported to coach Carl Martini Monday afternoon for the first football practice of the season. The 20 boys selected will constitute the Andover Junior High football team.

Our School Band

Everyone is very proud of our All-Girls' band when it appears at a football game it makes an excellent impression on all who see and hear it in performance. This year we have the finest band we have ever had. 100 girls have registered for membership and as soon as the new uniforms are available all members will be able to perform with the unit.

The band is busily rehearsing all the new music and formations for the Danvers game Saturday, under the direction of Mrs. Miriam McArdle, the organizer and director. Already the band has made two excellent appearances at the Concord and Chelmsford games and is looking forward to a very busy season, which will end with the Johnson game Thanksgiving day.

Orchestra Awards

The following students in Junior High received orchestra emblems for outstanding excellence in orchestral music last year, at the music assembly held in the auditorium, under the direction of Mrs. McArdle last Friday: Mary Alice Shea, Judith Nowell, Joyce Mowat, Carol Valentine and Barbara Gould.

Cheer Leaders

The moral of the Andover Jr. High football team will very efficiently be upheld in the coming games by the following cheerleaders chosen by Miss Frances Collins, the girls gym instructor, and Maureen McKay, captain of the squad: Barbara McKay, Vivian Marchese, Eleanor Doucette, Janet Svenson, Clarie Van Coppenolle, Marjorie Retelle, Arlene Pariseau, Josephine Collins, Anne Smith, Florence Golden and Patricia O'Neil. They will practice three times a week.

School Bank Opens

Tuesday morning the school bank opened for a very successful first week proving that the school is thrifty minded. There were many depositors. Those taking charge of the seventh grade were: Maureen McKay and Marie Sullivan; eighth, Sally McCullom and Patricia O'Neil; ninth, Joan LeMay and Rita Tisberta. The bank was open to the faculty Wednesday.

Parent-Teacher Association

The Parent-Teacher association tea was held at 3 p.m. Wednesday in the music room of the junior high. Acting principal, Benjamin F. Dimlich, spoke on "Problems Confronting the New Junior High School Student." After this was discussed parents had a chance to meet and become better acquainted with the teachers of the school. The following girls were selected to serve refreshments at the tea: Vivian Marchese, Joan Robinson, Mary Ann Doherty, Mary Ann Garabedian, Mary Lee Adriance and Ann Cleveland.

Essay Contest

"Our Community Chest" is to be the subject of a Greater Lawrence essay competition. Any subject relating to the work of the chest and its organizations may be permitted as the essay subject also.

P.T.A. Invites Parents To Kindergarten Tea

The Parent-Teacher association extends a very cordial invitation to parents and friends of the kindergarten children to attend a tea on Wednesday, Oct. 5, at 3 p.m. in the kindergarten room of the John Dove school.

Miss Louise Sherman, teacher and supervisor of all kindergartens in Andover, will speak informally on the activities of the kindergarten and the part that parents may play in helping their children through the kindergarten experiences.

As this is not a meeting of interest to children, it would be greatly appreciated if parents could make other arrangements for their care during this time.

Special note to parents of afternoon kindergarten children: There will be no afternoon kindergarten on the day of the tea.

Last year the average American consumed a half pound of tea.

Punchard Wins At Chelmsford

gave Punchard a break in the fourth quarter and after the ball was worked down to the 24 Collins plunged through for a score.

Nick Mauceri's interception of a pass started Punchard on another drive that ended in a score when Collins went over for six more points. A Dwyer to Lawrence pass made the extra point.

A good following of Punchard's loyal rooters attended the game and had plenty to cheer about as they saw the team put on the drives that brought victory.

New Elementary Schools Needed

Dr. Davis reported that before the state approves funds it must be presented with the educational requirements of the proposed building.

In response to questions regarding school construction he said the cost per cubic foot for recent buildings on which he had worked ranged from 76.6 cents to $1.10, although a drop of about 18 per cent had been made within a year on the higher item.

A third step in the recommendations reads: Until such a time as it is possible to take step two it is recommended that pupils from the West Center school be transported to the new elementary school. . . . With the completion of step three Andover would then have 42 elementary classroom units, including kindergarten rooms, which would seem adequate to take care of the predicted elementary school enrollment.

As soon after these three steps are taken as the town may deem it possible, consideration should be given to replacing the Bradlee school with a modern elementary school of six or seven rooms.

A big grocery chain had in the same issue, almost two pages devoted to an explanation of a problem confronting them.

committee within the next few days.

The idea of a community program for Halloween is new here yet several organizations who have been sounded out about the party are heartily in favor of it and have already made contributions toward its success.

As the committee is expanded other organizations in the town will be solicited for funds. From present plans it seems that about $300 will be required to stage the good, lively entertainment the sponsors hope to have on this occasion which will also serve to keep youngsters off the streets Halloween night playing pranks that may lead to property damage or getting into mischief in other ways.
