American Legion Post

Observes Armistice Day

Andover post, B American Legion, observed Armistice Day Thursday evening, in honor of the 26th anniversary of the armistice which ended the war of the World War I.

The banquet was held at the Square and Compass Club with 65 members and guests present. An enjoyable program was presented and a colored dinner served Robert Volker, junior vice commander was in charge of the event. He was assisted by Commander Richard Wrigley of post 8, Commander Dorothy Sw拓宽 of the All Woman's post, and Robert Volker.

Commander Wrigley welcomed the gathering and after Chaplain John G. Gaskill, of the West Parish church, gave the Benediction. Streets were placed up the plaque, a volley fired by the firing squad, and the names of unsung heroes who served in the war were read.

The guest speaker of the evening was Raymond Taylor, who paid tribute to the brave men who died in battle. He spoke of their sacrifice and how they died for their country. He also spoke of the importance of remembering those who gave their lives for our freedom.

The program was concluded with the presentation of the Colors by the Color Guard and the singing of the National Anthem.

The event was a success and the members of the American Legion Post 8 would like to thank all those who attended and made the night a memorable one.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

TROUBLE ON THE HIGHWAYS

Throughout the country, the problem of heavy commercial traffic has become acute—as a long list of governors, congressmen, and other public officials have testified. First of all, the huge, modern commercial truck-and-trailer outfits are breaking down the roads faster than we can maintain them. Highways are choking with commerce, while the amount of traffic is steadily increasing. The problem of widening the existing highways is certainly in the crowded, and are needed for ordinary motor car and truck traffic. This phase of the problem is further complicated by the fact that some operators are breaking down the roads faster than we can maintain and rebuild them. Highways which are capable of withstanding the weight of these huge outfits are breaking down the roads faster than we can maintain and rebuild them. The tax factor grows steadily more serious. This is a controversial matter. It is clear that the motorists are, to varying degrees, subsidizing this private commercial business by comparison. By comparison, the highways the motorists carry, the roads, the highways the motorists are carrying, and the highways the motorists which are carrying. The highways the motorists are carrying, and the highways the motorists are carrying. The highways the motorists are carrying, and the highways the motorists are carrying. come even nearer to reaching our goal. I can not help but feel that in this particular year, that the results have been most encouraging. "

We wish to thank the people of the surrounding area who have shown such interest in the work of the clinic. We also wish to thank the members of the clinic staff and the children who have been treated. The clinic is not only a source of comfort and relief to the children, but also a source of joy and satisfaction to the staff. We hope that the clinic will continue to grow and that it will continue to serve the children of the community.

The clinic is open every day from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and is staffed by trained professionals. The clinic is located at 100 Main Street, Andover. Please feel free to contact us if you have any questions or concerns.

Yours sincerely,

Officer's Oriental Dinner

The winning of the council will indicate that such practices in-crease the gambling spirit and encourage other forms of speculating. The council had already expressed their regret to the Massachusetts state department, was the guest speaker of the evening. He spoke about the necessity of raising taxes and the part the organization had taken in raising money for veterans of both wars.

At the conclusion of the ban-quet a dance was held in the school gym, started with a war dance. The high school students who were building a radio station on the school grounds together with some members of the Massachusetts high school who attended the city were guests of the organization. The festivities were opened this afternoon by a minute of silence for deceased comrades.

Dr. Alfred E. Stearns, Noted Educator, Dies

He became known as a leader and educator throughout the academic community on the basis of his research. He also was a leader in the highest academic standards among students. He was a leader in the school's athletic department as well as a leader in the academic department in which he served as president of the university.

In public appearances he was known for his ability to present an idea in an easily understood manner. His teaching methods were simple but effective. He was an effective speaker and an inspiring teacher.

He had been a member of the New England Board of Education for many years. He was a member of the Massachusetts State Board of Education and had served as its president.

He was a member of the American Association of University Professors, the American Educational Research Association, and the American Historical Association.

He was a member of the Massachusetts Historical Society, the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, and the Boston Athenaeum.

The funeral will be held at the late home at 2 p.m. on Monday.

Taps were sounded at 11 p.m. on the funeral day.
