What were the long-range plans for the settlement of Germany? And how does the present situation stand up to those plans? The Potsdam arrangement was for long-term occupation. That has gone over the side. And simply because Russia and the western powers have ceased to cooperate. Neither slade fears Germany except as an ally of the other. Or perhaps circumstances force up to rationalize the situation in this manner. But if events are any sort of a guide, they indicate that Russia is corpect, and that we are wrong. There is nothing to prove that our policy has created dependable German support, even in Western Germany.

Few Contests Loom In Coming Elections

Goldsmith Contest
Won By Seniors

Many parents and friends as well as the ninth graders of Junior High and the entire student body of Punchard attended the annual Goldsmith contest held in the Memorial auditorium last Friday afternoon. The winners, Gregory Arabian and Virginia Lawrence of the senior class, each received $5.

The six participants, who were coached by Mervin E. Stevens of the Punchard faculty were as follows: seniors, Gregory Arabian and Virginia Lawrence; juniors, Robert Hinckley and Bessie Christie; sophomores, Raeburn Hathaway and Regina Levin.

In addition to a memorized selection each contestant read a seltion from "Western Star", a poem by Stephen Vincent Benet about the western migration of the pioneers.

The judges' decisions were based chiefly on the reading selections which were assigned the day of the contest. The judges were Willey appear before the 4:30 o'clock deadline for filing this afternoon, the mining papers in circulation up to this morning indicated that there would be only six contests for town offices in the election Monday, Mar. 6.

The judges' decisions were based chiefly on the reading selections which were assigned the day of the contest. The judges were William Johnson, superintendent of schools in Georgetown; Fessenden Wilder, senior master at Brooks School in North Andover, and Robert Higgins, instructor of English and public speaking at Phillips academy.

The boys' glee club under the direction of Mrs. Frank J. McArdle sang two selections and Edward Lawson of the senior class favored with several piano selections.

4 Inch Snowfall Brings Out Plows

A northeast snow storm Tuesday covered the greater part of New England and left a blanket of about 4 inches here, the largest of the season to date.

Town plows were ordered out early in the morning and in the afternooi they were joined by four hired plows to keep the roadways

This was the first time the plows were out in January, although sanding trucks had been busy on several occasions earlier in the month.

Spring Styles Will Feature Slender Suits

Now that spring is near, you will want to think about prints and suits and toppers. Suits will be slim, and toppers, short. Many will feature the drop shoulder and bloused back, both of which are fashion news for this spring, according to Marian Corey. Writing in McCall's for February, she describes other spring styles, with a scribes other spring styles, with a word about sleeveless, bare-neck southern fashions:

When hesitating over a print "When hesitating over a print, keep your mind firmly on the fact that small prints make up well; and a dark print is ever useful. When spring comes, slim suits and short toppers come too. That may not sound new, but they look new.

"Everything is new about the bat-wing jacket, successor to last year's butterfly coat. It blouses at back, and is used for evening as well as sports.

"Six pockets and no buttons make a spring topper very new. It will be a big season for these little coats. Most short coats are buttonless now, but usually have plenty of pockets. Finally, there is the polo coat, now called 'my camel's hair' whether made of camel's hair or not. One model is a shorter version, back belted, its collar and revers in flight.

"The drop shoulder and the bloused back are important spring fashlons, and both appear in a suit-dress model for spring. The same two fashlons are found again in a striped dress, which also makes a cool casual for the south. Another drass has the suitsouth. Another dress has the suit look, which is the spring look; actually it is one-piece. "'Bare necks and no sleeves'—

A Salute To The Boy Scouts On Their 40th Anniversary

We welcome this opportunity during Boy Scout Week, February 6-12, to extend birthday greetings to the Boy Scouts of America on their 40th anniversary.

Their program of character building and citizenship training is a distinct asset to our community. The more Boy Scouts we have today the better America will be in the years ahead.

Scouting stands for the highest ideals in our national life. Let us do all in our power to expand this vitally important movement.

PUTTING BRAKES ON THE SPEEDERS

The pledge of Trial Justice Richard K. Gordon to stamp out speeding in Andover will be heartily welcomed by every 1939 is now to be abandoned. We body but the speeders themselves.

Motorists who comply with the law too often see many flagrant violations of the traffic rules by those who seem to be in a great hurry. For their own protection and for the protection of pedestrians they will concur with the court in

As Justice Gordon observes, no speeder has the moral or legal right to say that a life is worth the few seconds he may gain by traveling at a speed which is greater than reasonable and proper through the town.

Local police, with the small number of officers they have to cover all the roads of the town, have been doing commendable work in curbing speeders. Now they can continue their efforts, confident of the support of the local court.

A NOTABLE BIRTHDAY

America's boy scouts and leaders, now numbering 2,300,000 strong, are observing the 40th anniversary of their organization from Feb. 6 to 12. Andover's scout membership is 231, a gain of 43 in a year. Scouting has become so woven into the American way of life it is difficult to recall when our nation did not have this character-building, leisure time program for its smashed her industries, American

THE MOVES BEHIND THE NEWS

Seldom has a book of recent years attracted such wide attention as the candid and blunt volume "The Road Ahead" by John T. Flynn, now in its fourth printing.

Mr. Flynn wrote this book about America's "creeping rev olution" to answer a question: Where are we heading? He feels the road is obvious. It is a road with several stopovers. The first is socialism on the British model. There we come to a fork, one prong leading to communism, the other to fascism. He believes it is a mistake of the first magnitude to hold the American Communist party and its dupes to be the chief internal enemy of our economic system and our form of government. Not that he underestimates the danger from communists whom he terms a traitorous bloc in our midst, but "they are not as dangerous to us in the struggle now under way to change our internal institutions as another wholly indigenous movement.'

The leaders of this movement are more dangerous because they occupy positions of power, are more numerous, more respectable, and are not tainted with the odium of treachery. He tabs them socialist planners operating after the style of the British Fabian Socialists, who in their plan of social reform first accustom the citizens to look to the state for the correction of all their ills.

'Only when we see the picture as a whole," he says, "can we understand the reason behind the struggle to arouse the Negroes of the South; understand the strange collection of regained much of their former swhich have created such havoc in the political parties power. "Strangest of all, to those who have looked upon the Christian church as the great bulwark against the march of communism and socialism, is the extent to which the churches have been paralyzed by our socialist conspirators."

Reading this excellent volume one can more readily perceive some of the real "moves behind the news."

A GRASS-ROOTS COUNTRY

The government of this nation is dominated by small towns and the rural areas — not by the great city populations. That striking fact is developed in an analysis of the U. S. congress cow. She can offer Russia an open published in the December issue of the American Press.

Introduced at the after-dinner session by Frank L. Brigham, past president of the club who had charge of the program, the Pale Hose leader launched his talk by asking the $54 sport question of the past season, what is the matter with the Red Sox?
"Man for man L would say they

"Man for man, I would say they are the best in the American League," he said. "If they would hustle a little more in the spring and early summer they would not have had to go down the line tied at the end of the season."

In the hour and 10 minutes of his talk, mostly in a humorous vein, he told his audience that it was going to be an interesting race in the American League next season. "If the Red Sox could take that left field fence with them they would be a tough club to beat all season."

He felt that his own club, which finished last in 1948 with 101 games lost, and sixth in 1949, would be an improved team this year. He placed a greate deal of his confidence in this prediction on the return of Gus Zernial, who was batting 358 when he was hurt last year. He paid a nice tribute to Luke Appling, "the best hit and run man in baseball right now," and felt that teams who did not have long hitters would have to pay more attention to work on the bases and bunting. Base stealing, he said, was a lost art but it can be done.

Fenway park is a tough ball park for a visiting club, he went Fenway park is a tough ball park for a visiting club, he went on to say. One reason was because the Sox have the range of that left field fence. He also said he thought they knew what was being pitched, especially when they got a man on second. Williams, he said, can hit to left field. Onslow tells his twirlers to pitch him inside to make him pull, and to give him breaking stuff to make him hit into the dirt. Then with the infield switched to the right they can cut down some of the slugger's hits.

His views of what television has done for baseball were novel. Some players now have private signals for the woman at home, such as touching the back of the cap to mean "I love you dear." He told of umpires, who once turned their backs to the audience when they dusted the plate, now being sure they face the camera when they perform this chore.

At the conclusion of his talk a movie of the last world series was shown.

LEADER'S MEETINGS

A training meeting was held bb. 1 in the council office at 31 Feb. 1 in the council office at 31 Jackson st., Lawrence by Herbert Keogh, council commissioner, for district, assistant district, neighborhood, and field scout commissioners. Walter Caswell of Shawsheen and Arnold Schofield of Balardvale are the district and assistant district commissioners resistant district and assistant dis sistant district commissioners respectively of the Andover district.

Representatives of all districts of the North Essex council will meet with James F. Hennessey, Lawrence superintendent of schools, at the Lawrence scout office Friday, Feb. 3, at 7:30 p. m. Mr. Hennessey is chairman of the leadership training committee of the council.

Posters

A limited supply of boy scout osters, 13 by 20 inches, are available for business and civic estab-lishments to display. They an-nounce 1950 as the 40th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America. Any of these establishments who desire to have a poster may obtain one by calling Walter Caswell, commissioner, telephone 62. A poster is on display at the Memorial Library.

District Meeting

All district committeemen, scoutmasters, cubmasters, and troop committeemen are asked to reserve Thursday, Feb. 16 at 8:00 p.m. for the monthly meeting of the district. The meeting will be held on the second floor of the neld on the second floor of the Memorial Hall library.

New Explorer Uniform Ruling

Explorers in troops wear regula-tion khaki cap, shirt, and trousers with explorers B.S.A. strip over the right pocket, and a maroon tie. Explorers in explorer posts wear forest green cap, shirt, trousers, and a brown tie. However, since many of the senior scouts are or will be officers in the troops the khaki uniform is acceptable to the commissioners.

Post 72 of the Free church now meets every Wednesday evening at 7 p. m. in the vestry, with Fred Schaberg, advisor in charge. The explorers are working on the apprentice explorer rank. Members who already have star or life rank in the troop may continue to work for eagle rank. An active commit-tee will be registered along with the boys in February.

Jamboree

Scouts or explorers who are in-terested in going to the national jamboree at Valley Forge where 40,000 boys will camp, should notify their leaders at once since applicants are coming from the other districts of the council and only a full troop will go or about 32 boys. The estimated cost is $80. at the present time.

30 Years Added To Life Span In Past 100 Years

The baby born in this country in 1950 can look forward to 30 more years of life than did the infant of just 100 years ago, according to the Institute of Life Insurance. While the expectation of life at birth was approximately 40 years in 1850, it is nearly 70 years today. The greater part of the gains have been the result of reduced mortality in infancy and reduced mortality in infancy and early childhood.

"Not only is the increased life span noticeable at birth, but all through childhood and up to middle life," the Institute commented. "At age 20, the increased expectation of life today, compared with 1850, is about 10 years at age 40 it is about 5 years. By the time age 60 is reached, the benefits of medical advances and better living have just about run out, so that the expectations of life at ages beyond that is little different from that of 100 years ago. But the curbeyond that is little different from that of 100 years ago. But the cur-rent emphasis in a large part of medical research, such as that aid-ed by the life insurance medical research fund, is on diseases which take the greatest toll at the more advanced ages. If the achievements of the past century at the younger of the past century at the younger ages is only partially parraileled in the efforts at the older ages, the 1950 babies can look forward to added expectancy at even the advanced ages.

"The past century's health advances in the United States, adding materially to the lives saved in infancy, childhood and early life, have added greatly to the number of persons at or over re-tirement age today. Many millions more are today on the threshold of 'old age' than in previous generations and the aged are increas-ing at a greater rate than total population. Those 65 and over numbered only slightly over half a million in 1850; today they num-ber more than 11,000,000. While the population has increased nearly seven times, those 65 and over have increased 19 times. In just the past decade some 2,000,000 have been added to the rolls of those 65 years of age or more.

HULME WILL FILED

The will of Samuel P. Hulme, filed at the registry of probate in Salem, bequeted all of his property to Alice E. Gill and nominated her as executrix.

Mr. Hulme, who died Jan. 12, set forth that although he was mindful of the fact that he had other relatives, that "because of the fact that 1 am engaged to marry Alice Gill I desire to dispose of my property as I have indicated." The instrument was signed Jan. 12, 1933. No estimate of the value of the estate was listed.

Outline Reasons For New Reservoir

water might possibly be a danger to the community or even a serious inconvenience to the individual

"At the present time all water used in the town is pumped to the low service reservoir with the exception of that which is directly drawn from the distributor system before it has an opportunity to reach the reservoir. The present reservoir contains 1.5 million galreservoir contains 1.5 million gallons when full and the high service reservoir contains 0.5 million gallons when full, making a total available storage of 2.0 million gallons. This storage available for distribution is the only real quantity of water that the town can rely on the time of distributions of distributions of distributions of distributions. on in times of distress. Every effort is made to keep these reservoirs full at all times and it is only durhas lived in Andover for the past three years, coming here from New Jersey with his wife and son, 13, a pupil in the Junior high the reservoirs should be large enough to meet the demand when called upon.

"The present fire flow requirements amount to 750,000 gallons and the maximum daily demand of last summer was 3.510,000 gallons; a total of 4,360,000 gallons to be obtained from the present storage of 2,000,000 gallons! Had one pump failed last Summer, and had a serious fire occurred at the same time there would have been only thirteen and one-half horus water in storage—definitely not sufficient for the present or future, and the reason that increased reservoir capacity is needed. Furthermore, had both pumps failed un-der such conditions, even with both reservoirs full the system would have been drained in just eight

The Board of Public Works at "The Board of Public Works at present has tentative plans for the construction of a six-million gal-lon reservoir to augment the existing storage. This reservoir when completed will result in a total available storage of eight million gallons. Under similar de-mand conditions this available storage would last for four days if it is assumed that one pump at Haggetts Pond were to be run continuously. If no pumping were to be done during this time the tom of the inverted tray, a fac-tor that also aids in the quick release of the cubes. As an addi-tional feature, gases serve to pre-vent the bearings, upon which the tray is mounted, from becoming frozen or stuck.

Thus, it is claimed that the apparatus of this invention is posi-tive in operation, fool-proof in action, and capable of use without trouble.

The application for this patent,

Mr. Schaberg, a member of the firm of Gerrish Peters & Co., re-frigeration equipment, Lawrence, has lived in Andover for the past

"It has been forecast that the water demand will reach 4,500,000 gallons maximum daily between 1975 and 1980. At that rate of demand the above-mentioned eight million gallons of storage would serve for about one and one-half days with no pumping or two and one-half days with one pump running continuously. From this it can be seen that the town will again be faced with the necessity of enlarging the Low Service Reservoir about thirty years hence. However, it is not economically juustificable to construct a huge reservoir at this time, and one of the capacity selected is sufficiently large to adequately serve its purpose of maintaining the low service storage during its economic life.

maintaining the low service storage during its economic life. "It is felt that the foregoing is a fairly concise explanation of why new reservoir is urgently needed at this time. However, it should be definitely stated that the reservoir is by no means the end of contemplated and needed water works con struction-it is only the most urgently needed item.

"Water works expansion for a growing community or for a grow ing demand is a continuing process Larger and more efficient pumping capacity is needed for the High Service System. The force main to the High Service Reservoir needs to be rehabilitated for the present and will need enlargement in the funture. No doubt the High Service Reservoir will need enlargement in the near future for the same rela-tive reasons that the Low Service

Reservoir needs enlargement now.

"Enlargement of the basic storage basin at Haggetts Pond will soon be indicated and the pumping facilities at that location will require enlargement if the daily average demand continues to increase as it has in recent years. At the present moment a new boiler is required at Haggetts Pond to replace one installed in 1910 and which has recently been condemned by the insurance inspectors. "Also high on the list of improve-

"Also high on the list of improvements needed within the next ten years is the continuation of the force main from Phillips Street to Bancroft Road Pumping Station. It is hoped that the reason for this and certain other needed water works improvements may be brought before the public before the town meeting."
