State Defers Proposal for South Main Street

Notice has been received by the selectmen from William F. Callahan, commissioner of the state department of public works that he does not deem it advisable at this time to incorporate 1800 feet of South Main street, south of Wheeler street, into the state highway system.

The notice says that the state department contemplates resurfacing operations on North Main street will be underway before July 1, thus closing the gap between the town paved area at the Shawsheen river bridge and the Andover-Lawrence line.

Dollar Campaign Runs To June 30

The Republican women's "dollar campaign" in Essex County is now in its final stages. It has taken longer to cover Andover than anticipated and therefore the drive will run until the end of June.

Some parts of the town have not yet been solicited so don't be surprised if someone knocks at your door during the next few days.

At the report meeting in Swampscott last Tuesday the contributions listed by Andover led the field by a large majority. Andover has turned in to date about $900.

This drive has now extended beyond Essex county.

P. A. To Graduate Largest Class In Its History

Phillips Academy's 172nd commencement exercises will open Saturday, June 10, with alumni activity occupying most of the day. The annual alumni luncheon will be held in the Case Memorial cage at 12:30 p.m. and will be presided over by Sumner Smith of Lincoln, class of 1908, president of the alumni association.

Speakers at the alumni luncheon will be Robert G. Page 1918, president of the Phelps Dodge corporation, and Headmaster John Mason Kemper. In the afternoon there will be a baseball game between Andover and the alumni, and in the evening the Phillips academy Dramatic club will present Henry IV, Part I.

On Commencement day, Sunday, June 11, Andover will graduate a senior class of over 250, one of the largest graduating classes in the history of the school. The commencement speakers will be the Rt. Rev. Henry W. Hobson, Bishop of Southern Ohio, president of the academy's board of trustees, and Headmaster John Mason Kemper.

Town Population Jumps To 12,261

Andover has a population of 12,261, a gain of 1139 over the 1940 census count, according to an announcement by Paul G. Carney, New England supervisor for the U. S. census bureau.

One of the first of two Massachusetts communities to be tabulated, the result, Carney stated in reviewing all New England returns that have been received, show a shifting of dwelling areas of urban workers from nearby cities to nearby suburban districts.

Clad in gold tasseled blue caps and flowing blue gowns the 94 members of Punchard high school's 1950 graduating class received diplomas at the 91st commencement exercises held Tuesday night in the Memorial auditorium.

The program was opened with a procession by the orchestra to which the graduates marched to their places on the stage. After prayer was offered by the Rev. Frederick B. Noss of the South church the senior class glee club was heard in Dinkson's "Thanks Be to God."

The traditional extended essays of other graduation exercises were eliminated this year in order to modernize the program. A brief salutatory was given by Martha Ann Fieldhouse after which the commencement address was given by Vice-Admiral Morton L. Deyo, U. S. N., Ret.

The senior glee club sang "Happy Days" and this was followed with the presentation of prizes by Kenneth L. Sherman, superintendent of schools.

Just think of it! For every 1.7 people who ride our buses, there could be ONE MORE CAR ON THE ROAD! Imagine 25 more cars jamming into the business area every time a bus pulls in. That's what would happen if the smart people who now travel by bus should decide to use their own cars.

BRIEF ENOUGH

The young reporter had been told over and over again that his stories were too long-winded and that he must cut to bare essentials. So his next story came out this way:—

"J. Smith looked up the shaft at the Palace Hotel this morning to see if the lift was on its way down. It was. Aged forty-five."

Jane Weldon of 1 Johnson st., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Weldon, who was among the 126 graduates at the 48th annual commencement of the College of St. Elizabeth, Convent Station, N. J. Miss Weldon received her A. B. degree.

Receive Diplomas
At Gov. Dummer

Andover boys who received their diplomas at Governor Dummer academy's 187th annual commencement exercises at Byfield were: John C. Gallagher, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. Roswell Gallagher, 107 Highland rd., and Allen B. Rogers, son of Irving E. Rogers, Sunset Rock rd. Dr. Claude M. Fuess, principal emeritus of Phillips academy and trustee of Governor Dummer presided at the commencement dinner.

Both Andover boys were awarded special prizes. In making these awards A. Macdonald Murphy of the faculty said: "John Currier Gallagher of Andover. For four years Jack has been consistently high on the honor roll. Editor-in-chief of The Archon, an enthusiastic contributor to every activity in which he participates, a gracious and considerate host to visitors at the school, Jack offers proof that one of our leading authorities on education can produce a well-educated son."

Of Allan Buttrick Rogers Mr. Murphy said: "Al is the sort of boy of whom Leigh Hunt was speaking when he said, 'May his tribe increase.' Without ever Richard Harvey Sears Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Sears of Rockwell House, Andover, will be graduated from Hebron academy at the 146th commencement exercises Friday, June 9. Sears, who has been varsity hockey manager and a member of the varsity tennis team, will enter the University of Colorado next fall.

thrusting himself forward, he has accepted important responsibilities - Chairman of the spring dance and assistant coach of league base ball, to name but two - and he has carried them out loyally and well. Hard-working, thoughtful of others, courageous on the athletic field, Al is one of our most prize-worthy boys."

During the past year young Rogers also served on the business board of the school yearbook, The Milestone, was a member of the glee club and played football and basketball.

Gallagher was chairman of the Red Cross committee, served on the commencement committee, and participated in soccer, track, and lacrosse.

The Rev. Frederick B. Noss has been appointed to represent the Massachusetts organization as delegate at large to the general council of the Congregational and Christian churches to be held June 22-26 in Cleveland, O.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

CONGRATULATIONS GRADUATES

Our congratulations to the 94 young people who received their diplomas Tuesday at the 91st commencement exercises of Pynchard high school.

These 56 girls and 38 boys have been associated for many pleasurable years which graduation brings to an end. This important milestone in their lives, now crowded with lively memories of class room and social activities that fill the final days of school, brings them to a parting of the ways.

Many of the 1950 class will enter schools of higher education to continue their studies while others will branch out into fields of business and industry, each seeking a career in life that brings promise of success and happiness.

They go forth today upon a troubled world with rumblings of strife and unrest filling their ears. Yet few high school graduates started out on a path strewn with roses. Over the years all have been confronted with the same challenge of life, its competitions, its discords, and the hazards of its times.

During their years in Pynchard these new graduates have been prepared by the careful guidance of their teachers for this important step along life's journey. Many other Pynchard graduates have started out with similar training and have won distinction for themselves in various fields of endeavor. Many of this year's class will do the same.

To all the 1950 graduates now leaving their "fair Pynchard" congratulations and best wishes. May your paths lead to that horizon of success that is your goal.

"The boys up in Washington are jumping around like grasshoppers on a hot stove, regarding a policy on China, Russia, India, etc., and can't seem to agree on one for any of them. However, when they start getting dizzy, they can always take time out and get in agreement on one thing and that is to spend more money, and create more Bureaus."—Waldoboro (Me.) Press.

VIEWS OF THE NEWS

BY LEONARD F. JAMES

Senator Brien McMahon has come up again with his "happy thought" for foreign policy. Buy peace from Russia for a good slice of a $50 billion gift to be diverted from national defenses. McMahon's position as chairman of the joint committee on atomic energy lends a certain weight to his utterances. But his listeners should carefully examine his thinking, for some of his argument is quite thin. The senator has not demonstrated that he understands the very vital difference between "collective action" and "alliances." This is vital indeed, for upon the choice between these two our fate may hang.

What Is An Alliance?

Any definition of abstract terms should be mentally pictured by the speaker and the listener. A simple homely illustration usually clears away a lot of wordage that means nothing. So to explain collective action and alliances, let's take a row of twenty houses as our illustration. Fire breaks out in the fourth house. The alarm is raised and every householder trundles out a hose and starts to wet down his own roof. Every man for himself. In the fourth house the fire gets such a good hold that the men from the third and fifth houses finally wake up to realities. So they yank their hose over and try to put out the fire in the middle house.

But by this time their effort is too late. Their houses go up in smoke too, the wind changes, and fire sweeps down the street. This is somewhat the way alliances work between nations when their own individual interests are concerned - but not before. The other householders hoped that if they attended to their own business, the fire wouldn't get them. And nations act that way, choosing not to recognize that danger anywhere must be faced squarely.

What Is Collective Action?

On the other hand if, at the moment the fire was announced, every householder brought his hose to the source of the fire maybe it could have been checked, with only smoke damage to one house. That sort of cooperation is "collective action." Danger to one is automatically danger to all. If nations would adopt that policy, a war could be localized and quickly stopped. The probability is that the potential aggressor would think many times before inciting the collective action of all nations against him. Certainly his chance of ultimate success would be very much reduced. And it is more than likely that aggression could be headed off.

Does McMahon's thinking seem to include collective action? He is terribly concerned about the cost to the United States of building a defense against atomic war. He admits that physically we can't defend ourselves adequately. What are his solutions to the problem? He advocates expanding the military and economic strength of the free world. To this he would add what he properly calls "expanding moral strength," the belief in an ideal. And he wants the United States to influence world opinion. With this point of view no one would disagree. Unless people and nations have determination to follow a course, they can be easily deflected. But the senator must go further. He is convinced that we can't afford the competitive costs of armaments and retain our free enterprise system. We cannot - alone. But we've got to stop thinking of ourselves as Russia's sole opponent. Decent men everywhere cannot be sympathetic to Russian objectives and methods. And even if the United Nations have not been too successful, we've got the Atlantic Pact.

Is Atlantic Pact An Alliance?

Is the Pact a reversion to alliances or is it the beginning of moral strength plus a will to unite and face the common danger squarely? It can become whatever we choose to make it. Our thinking can let it slip into an alliance where no one is sure of anyone else. Or it can become a collective organization where even the smallest nation can have confidence in us.

But the senator seems to believe that a United Nations meeting in Moscow would help solve the problem by piercing the Iron Curtain. He still wants to offer $50 billion over a five-year period and make it available for worldwide assistance to all nations provided they would reduce armaments by two-thirds and agree to international control of atomic energy.

Can Freedom Be Bought?

It must never be forgotten that one of the communist techniques to beat a strategic retreat to fool the enemy. And Stalin would be prepared to sell many a promise for a few billion dollars. But when that money is spent what have we? Is it to be supposed that even an apparent air-tight international control system cannot sink? There is still no substitute for ability to defend oneself. For in truth, any system of international control means that a nation must give up certain rights. And say that some day Russia should decline to cooperate? Has freedom been bought once and for all? That is what Russia would like to have us believe. Freedom is never gained for all time. It must be defended day by day wherever it is threatened.

Defense Is Insurance

Of course it costs money to keep our freedom. But the money is spent on insurance. And insurance isn't a matter of spending what you can afford. It is spending against a loss that you can't afford. That is how money must be spent for defense. For there are no "happy thoughts" in foreign affairs. "New approaches" in international politics should not be a substitute for strength until there is no danger of war. Freedom can't be bought for cash, or by making a deal, or by appeasing a potential aggressor. The most obvious attempt to buy peace occurred in 1938, perhaps the shabbiest deal in modern times. Western Europe sold Czechoslovakia to Germany in order to buy peace. But it eventually bought only war.

If we have forgotten that incident, Russia has not. And that Munich affair is worth recalling, for it points the direction in which Russia would wish western politics to go.

Diplomas Awarded To 94 At Punchard

SALUTATORY

By Martha Ann Fieldhouse

Trustees of the Punchard Free school, members of the Andover school committee, superintendent of school, principal elect, acting principal and faculty of Punchard, parents, friends:

On behalf of the class of nineteen-fifty, I welcome you to the ninety-first annual commencement exercises of Punchard high school. During the past twelve years, and the last three years in particular, we have been preparing ourselves for the responsibilities we shall soon be assuming as we take our respective places in the social, political, and economic life of this great nation. We owe a large debt of gratitude to you, who through your unselfish and devoted guidance have made this education possible. We have become more and more conscious of the tasks that lie ahead of us and have gained from our classes a portion of that knowledge which is necessary to accomplish those tasks. Through supervised sports we have acquired a sense of sportsmanship and fair play and have developed stronger, healthier bodies and cleaner, more alert minds. Perhaps our greatest asset, however, has been our development socially. We have been in close contact with individuals, representative of all types; and by working with them we have gained tolerance for all groups, however different they may be from ours. Likewise, we have matured in our ways of thinking and reasoning and have acquired a truer sense of the values of life. With these assets to back us, and with those which we shall gain through future experiences, we are about to take our places in the world, confident that we shall succeed.

Shawsheen Home Damaged By Fire

Damage estimated at several thousand dollars was done by fire which swept from the kitchen to the roof of a 250-year-old house at 88 Lowell st., Shawsheen, Friday night. Effective work by firemen checked the blaze and kept the loss to a minimum.

The fire started in a partition near a heater which, it is believed, was being used to dry plaster in the building. The place is being remodeled by its new owner, Charles A. Swift Jr. Firemen battled with the blaze for more than an hour in response to an alarm from box 651 sounded at 8:02 p.m. The relief came in at 9:41 p.m.

VALEDICTORY

By Arlene Kupis

Tonight, as we, the class of nineteen hundred and fifty, are concluding our carefree years of high school, we realize that we are turning our backs on our childhood days. Rather fearfully yet eagerly we are embarking upon the exciting adventure of adult life. We are anticipating many novel experiences and all the satisfaction, material and spiritual, that we hope to gain in the next few years which will be so important in ultimately molding our way of life. Whether our plans include further education at the college of our choice, initiation into the business world, or technical training, each and every one of us is hopefully awaiting an opportunity to go forth and successfully meet the challenge that the world offers us to make for ourselves happy, satisfying lives. With our training and the confidence of youth, we are assured that we shall be able to do this, overcoming any and all obstacles that may lie in our paths.

Fellow classmates: Let us enter upon these unknown experiences with stout hearts and open minds. Let us step forth bravely into the world and take our rightful places as thinking adults among all the peoples of the world. As we do this we must face all responsibilities and duties squarely, confident that through achieving them we can gain the peace-of-mind which is such an integral part of a happy life. As a part of the younger generation, we must also be willing to rise to any emergency that may offer itself in the future. Finally, let us, through a more cooperative spirit in understanding people, work steadily toward greater security for everyone and for the betterment of the world.

Two more games Thursday and Friday will end the junior high nine's baseball season. They have made a fair showing in past games but ran into strong opposition against Salem, N. H. Junior High in an away game. The score was 8 - 6. Again they were defeated in a game at the home field by Tewksbury, the score being 10-2. Especially to be commended in these games are Jack Carver, Paul Wennick, and Joe Morgan.

Last Monday a special Memorial service was held with both the junior and senior high present. Joe Ratyna, senior high president, led the assembly in the flag salute which was followed by the singing of patriotic songs. The Rev. A film entitled "Task Force Frigid" was presented after the solemn reading of Civil and World War I and II honored dead.

Notes

The junior high is back to its regular schedule now that the final exams have been tackled and passed (we hope).

The school library has been closed for the remainder of the year and all books must be returned immediately.

Direction for short plays to be presented in final assembly has begun and choral work will start in the near future. Everyone has taken a share of the work and plans are progressing rapidly.

Final voting for sophomore class officers was held Tuesday morning. The following will serve their grade next year: James Dolan, president; Louis Mirisola, vice president; Shirley Murray, secretary; Gene Deady, treasurer. George MacCafferty, social committee chairman.

Thursday, a special assembly will be held in which Louis Fingar of the Andover Savings bank will present a film. Also, on Thursday morning, Miss Beatrice Stevens will take a division on a tour of the bank.

Enters Graduate School of Banking

Wallace M. Haselton, manager of the time sales department of the Andover National bank, is a member of the class of bank officers which will enter the graduate school of banking at its annual summer session this year. The session will be held at Rutgers university, New Brunswick, N.J.,

from June 19 through July 1.

Mr. Haselton is one of 1,000 men who will attend the two-week session of the school, which is sponsored by the American Bankers association.

The graduate school, which is open only to bankers of officer rank, was founded by the A. B. A. in 1935 to provide an opportunity for advanced study for experienced bankers. The faculty consists of outstanding bankers, lawyers, economists, bank supervisors, and government officials, who, during the session, will cover all phases of banking, economics, law, government, and related subjects.

In addition to attending the summer session, plus similar sessions in 1951 and 1952, Mr. Haselton must complete two years of extension study at home and write a thesis based upon original research in some phase of finance, to be eligible for graduation.

Wedding...

SULLIVAN - DARBY

At a 2 o'clock ceremony in St. Augustine's church, May 28, Miss C. Theresa Darby, daughter of John T. Darby, 19 Washington ave., became the bride of Edward T. Sullivan Jr., son of Edward T. Sullivan of 32 Clarendon st., North Andover. The Rev. Henry B. Smith officiated in a setting of spring flowers. A reception followed at the North Andover Club.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, wore a sheer white marquisette gown with Peter-Pan neckline and inserts of Chantilly lace on the bodice and bouffant skirt. Her cathedral train was bordered in rows of matching lace and her satin edged finger-tip veil of imported French illusion fell from a bonnet type shirred tulle and satin headpiece. She carried a white prayerbook centered with a white orchid with lilies of the valley and satin ribbon streamers.

The maid of honor Miss Mary A. Darby, sister of the bride, was gowned in heavenly blue taffeta with a halo of matching faille and rosebuds and carried a colonial bouquet. Miss Joan Reilly of North Andover was the bridesmaid and wore pink faille with matching headpiece and colonial bouquet. The Junior bridesmaids were Ann Marie Sullivan and Cornelia Barry in pink and blue gowns, duplicates of the bridesmaids and maid of honor.

Following a wedding trip to the White Mountains the couple will reside in North Andover.

The bride is a graduate of Punchard high school, Andover. The bridegroom is a graduate of Johnson high school, North Andover and is a veteran of three years service with the U. S. Marine Corps.
