All ready to take off for their annual outing at Canobie Lake park these youngsters are part of the hundreds from the town playgrounds who swarmed into six busses Tuesday morning for a big day of sports, games and other amusements at the New Hampshire resort under the supervision of the playground instructors. (Look Photo)

Merchants Offer Two Value Days

Many outstanding values will be offered by Andover merchants in the two big Value Days to be held here Friday and Saturday, July 28 and 29.

In line with their custom of other years this annual event is offered every mid-summer when prices are reduced so that shoppers will be able to make real money-saving purchases during these two days.

All merchants who are joining in these Value Days are offering values that will make it well worth while to set aside a few hours for shopping on at least one of them.

The Townsman today is carrying the advertisements of the co-operating merchants which list many of the principal items they offer at reduced prices. They include all kinds of merchandise. They are the same quality carried on their shelves during the year and are being presented at very attractive prices.

State Primary Registrations

In preparation for the state primaries Tuesday, Sept. 19, the board of registrars of voters has started holding sessions for registration in each of the six town precincts.

The first session was held Tuesday night at the town house. Future registrations will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. as follows: Aug. 1, Sacred Heart school, Balmoral st.; Aug. 3, Grange hall, West Parish; Aug. 10, fire station, Ballardvale; Aug. 15, Peabody House, Phillips st., and from noon to 10 p.m. at the town house Aug. 18.

You are qualified to vote if you are a citizen of the United States, 21 years or over on election day, have been a resident of Massachusetts for one year immediately preceding the election date, have been a resident of the town for six

ANDOVER VALUE DAYS

Friday and Saturday

Friday and Saturday, July 28 and 29, are Andover's Mid-Summer Value Days. These semi-annual bargain events are staged through the co-operation of Andover's merchants and present a genuine opportunity to make outstanding savings.

Today's issue of the TOWNSMAN contains advertisements by participating merchants - read these ads and make your shopping list now.

Look for the blue and white pennants in the store windows, they are your guide to real values.

Water Ballet In Rehearsal

Following the successful presentation last year of a synchronized swimming pattern in ballet form, the musically-minded "Mermaids of Pomp's" are at it again. Practice has already begun, with the lists still open for candidates, during the daily rehearsals on the beach in which the public address system is used.

This entertaining activity is in preparation for the Aug. 13, show which will include high diving act, tight-rope walking, and a water pageant.

Police To Have Own Gas Tank

Petition of the police department to store 500 gallons of gasoline in an underground tank in the yard at the rear of the town house was approved by the selectmen Monday night subject to approval of the fire chief relative to the installation of the tank.

Two bids to install plumbing fixtures in the office of the welfare department in the town house were received and the contract awarded to Buchan & McNally for $53.80. The other bid from W. H. Welch & Co., was $69.75.

Many Entering Water Carnival

The number of entries being received for the annual water carnival to be held at Pomp's pond beach, July 30, gives promise of many spirited events in these competitive games.

Under the supervision of Head Lifeguard Donald D. Dunn the life-saving staff has arranged for competition in two age groups, one from 8 to 14, the other from 14 up.

The events will include free-style stroke, side stroke, breast stroke, and back stroke.

Competitors of all ages may enter the underwater distance swim which will be staged from the raft toward the shore. Boat races have been arranged to satisfy the enthusiasm of small craft handlers, while boat sinking contests will provide laughs and

Answer Fire Call In North Andover

Box 94, the out-of-town call, was sounded at 11.03 p.m. Saturday night and local apparatus went to fill in at North Andover while firemen of that town were fighting a destructive blaze that destroyed the barn on the Campion Hall site, owned by the Jesuit Order and loaned to William A. Mazurenko of that town.

The latter's own barn was destroyed by a $12,000 fire July 12, 1949. The loss Saturday night included hay, a $1000 truck, a large amount of roofing paper, and a two-ton cement mixer valued at $3500 owned by Lewis & Scott Construction Co. of Andover.

SUMMER DAZE

When a garage man makes a mistake, he adds it on your bill. When a preacher makes a mistake, nobody knows the difference. When a lawyer makes a mistake, it was just what he wanted, because he has a chance to try the case all over again.

When a judge makes a mistake, it becomes a law of the land.

When a doctor makes a mistake, he buries it.

But when the editor makes a mistake--GOOD NIGHT! (Anon.)

The annual pet show was held at the Shawsheen playground last Friday afternoon but only five children with animals arrived for the event. owned by Virginia Forbes; second prize to "Scalliwag", owned by Alan Flye, and third prize to "Blackie" owned by Marie Cote. Winnie Lee's "Melinda" won the first prize for birds.

On Friday, July 28, a hat show will be held and prizes will be awarded for the cutest, funniest, prettiest, largest, smallest and most original hats.

The schedule for next week is as follows: Monday, July 31 - modeling with clay; Tuesday - art lessons; Wednesday - mat weaving; Thursday - leather making; Friday - the special event will be a doll show.

Visits Mexico

Mr. Earl Baker Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Baker, Sterling st., returned last Sunday from an extended trip through Mexico. The trip was made the latter part of June following Mr. Baker's completion of his junior year at American International College of Springfield. He made the trip accompanied with a college classmate. Scores of cities, towns and villages were visited which allowed an intimate study of the Mexican people. Mr. Baker was impressed with the great difference between the classes of people in Mexico as compared with the United States. There appears to be no middle class with its division of lower, medium and upper middle middle class as in this country. The people are either well to do or in poverty. There are a surprising number of Indians in Mexico and parts of the country are quite wild.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

HOARDING ON THE HOME FRONT

Rumblings from the Korean front have started a wave of hoarding on the home front.

Some of the more selfish, remembering the shortages and rationing of past war days, are already making their "scare buying" felt in food and retail stores.

President Truman in his message to the nation last week found it necessary to spike this dangerous practice. He branded the hoarding of food as "foolish" and the run on sugar as "ridiculous." "We have more sugar available than ever before," he told the American housewife. "There are ample supplies of other basic foods also."

The President also pointed out that any person who is selfishly trying to get more than his neighbor "is doing exactly the thing that any enemy of this country would want him to do."

How long the war in Korea will last or how far it may spread is problematical. From the President's message it is certain the United States is going to be placed on a war footing to meet the spread of communist aggression.

War is fought with tanks, planes and food. It will cause a revision in home-front economies. The military equipment will have to be produced from materials now going into autos, refrigerators, television sets.

What of home necessities? The fear of rising prices in food, clothing, tires, is what leads people to buying more than they need. Hoarding creates shortages, shortages create higher prices. Hoarders eventually hurt themselves and their neighbors.

"If I had thought that we were actually threatened by shortages of essential consumer goods," said President Truman, "I should have recommended that price control and rationing be immediately instituted. But there is no such threat. We have to fear only those shortages which we ourselves artificially create."

Buy only the things you actually need. Do not be stampeded into "panic buying". It will only bring higher prices which will eventually lead to ration controls.

VIEWS OF THE NEWS

By LEONARD F. JAMES

STOCKHOLM—The Korean situation receives a great deal of attention in Swedish newspapers, yet the people themselves seem to be relatively unconcerned about Russia. News broadcasts are the usual brief reports and there are practically no commentators to analyze the news beyond recognition. Perhaps this factor may be one reason for apparent unconcern. The public are not distracted by distorted opinions of those trying to gain momentary notoriety. Yet this alone is not the reason for the average Swedish attitude. Perhaps "average" is a misleading term, for for there is no such point of view or person. There are individual opinions, yet they seem to fall into a fairly definite pattern. Why should Sweden appear to be only slightly disturbed by the Russian menace? Is this attitude mere bravado - a sort of whistling in the dark - or is it a necessary acceptance of an unpleasant situation about which Sweden can do very little?

Sweden Would Resist Invasion

It is true, of course, that her small population could do little against Russia's hordes. But it is equally certain that Sweden would fight if attacked. If defense preparations are any indication then Sweden's intentions are evident. The Swedes don't like Russia and they don't hesitate to say so. Always good for a laugh in vaudeville show or revue is a well-directed crack at Russia. The newspapers are equally ready to say just how they feel about Moscow, and not merely in a spirit of bravado.

Sweden has lived for centuries in the shadow of Russia. She has fought Russia many times in the past. And Russia still remains a traditional enemy. But those close associations with hard political facts have given the Swedes - and most Europeans - a perspective that we have yet to gain fully. The Swedes realize that diplomatic negotiations with Russia cut very little ice, and that as a nation she can have very little influence upon international relations. But she has demonstrated her belief that the ability to put up resistance is a greater deterrent to invasion than is reliance upon promises or neutrality. For Europe realizes that neutrality is not a condition which a nation maintains simply because she so chooses. It is merely a condition permitted by a belligerent power.

Why Is She Not In Atlantic Pact?

Sweden is well aware that she could not hope to resist Russia alone for long. But she would make the cost of invasion something to be considered. The measures of Sweden's defenses are difficult for an outsider to know, but the spirit of public opposition to Russia's ideas and methods suggests a reason for some self-confidence. Why, then, is Sweden not in the Atlantic Pact? Why did she not participate in a general Scandinavian defense pact? And why has she now publicly supported the United Nations action in Korea? There is good reason for each of these stands.

She is not in the Atlantic Pact because of her geographical position. Her proximity to Finland makes her international policy a rather delicate matter. The Finns dislike Russia but must fall in line to a certain extent. Were Sweden to join the Pact Russia might bring further pressure to bear on Finland, possibly even invade her, as a sort of counter-balance. This could certainly disturb the international situation. It might be argued, of course, that Sweden is playing both ends against the middle. But to jump to such a conclusion is to lose geographical and political perspective. Finland has only three million people, and Sweden another seven. Both are close to Russia, and they could fight little more than a delaying action. And there is no little merit in the belief that there is value in having a sort of buffer state between Russia's westward limits and America's eastern frontier anchored on Iceland and Norway.

Sweden could probably gain very little in a Scandinavian Pact or alliance. She is the only one with any real sort of defensive equipment. And it is argued by some that those defensive weapons had better not be spread too widely or too thin. And now that Norway is in the Atlantic Pact, it is probably just as well that Sweden retains its "buffer" position.

Public Approval for U.N. Action

But these practical arguments have not blinded the Swedes to the need for support of the non-communist world in the Korean crisis. They live close enough to Russia to appreciate the implications of the incident. They know that the democracies are facing the alternatives of certainly falling separately or most probably surviving in unity. They therefore show Russia their reaction to aggression, while retaining a real appreciation of practical considerations.

What Russia means to do no one can determine with certainty. But time and time again one hears the opinion that the Korean crisis is a repeat performance of early Hitler tactics, that this is a trial balloon of Russia to find out whether the democracies have the nerve to stand together. And many here feel that America's prompt action has made the Atlantic Pact a reality, that the United Nations has solidified because of the support of so many non-communist nations. The calmness expressed in scattered opinions gives the impression that the Swedes don't really want a fight under present conditions. Time will tell. But even an aggressive-minded nation is not going to play from weakness that hasn't much chance of certain success.

The air-tight floaters are made by soldering two fruit juice cans together with a harness attachment which fits about the waist to maintain buoyancy of the entire body and allowing the pupil to concentrate on the strokes while being kept afloat. The floaters were made by Jack Arabian. Their size is shown by the pair he is holding.

Will Resist Hike In Food Prices

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company, the nation's leading food distributor, moved against inflation today by pledging to "resist all unwarranted price rises with all our might."

The pledge was contained in one of the rare public statements issued by John A. Hartford, chairman of the 91-year-old food chain, who said that A&P "will cooperate with our national government in the present crisis."

"We will make every effort to hold our inventories at the lowest point consistent with good service to our customers," he said, "because hoarding, whether by wholesalers, retailers, or consumers, will cause higher prices."

"We will continue to maintain the lowest profit rate generally prevailing in the entire retail industry. Our net profit now is less than one cent on each dollar of sales."

Police To Curb Illegal Use Of High Headlights

"More people are killed in motor vehicle accidents happening at night than during the daytime," stated Chief of Police George A. Dane today regarding the illegal use of high beam headlights.

"Motorists must realize the serious danger of glaring headlights. Registrar of Motor Vehicles, Rudolph F. King, has appealed to all police chiefs of every community in the commonwealth to begin an immediate check on this night driving hazard, and police officers of the Andover department are going to co-operate with the registrar and members of his department," said Chief Dane.

In his message to the chiefs, Registrar King pointed out that modern sealed beam headlights were developed to help correct night driving hazards and that when properly aimed they will produce a stronger and better driving light but one that is dangerously glaring when thrown into the eyes of approaching drivers.

The law provides that operators of motor vehicles must tilt their lights to the low beam when approaching within 500 feet of an on-coming vehicle or when driving on well-lighted highways.

"Massachusetts motorists must comply with this regulation while driving in the nighttime. Education in the proper use of sealed beam lamps has been emphasized for several years past and there is no excuse for failure to comply with the law," concluded Registrar King and Chief Dane.

A Pledge to the American People

by

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company

We will resist all unwarranted price rises with all our might.

We will make every effort to hold our inventories at the lowest point consistent with good service to our customers, because hoarding, whether by wholesalers, retailers or consumers, will cause higher prices.

We will continue to maintain the lowest profit rate generally prevailing in the entire retail industry. Our net profit now is less than one cent on each dollar of sales.

We will continue to strive for more efficient distribution.

We will fight waste of food, or time, or money all along the line so as to narrow the spread between wholesale and retail prices.

We will devote all our energies to giving you the most good food for your money every day of the week.

We will strive always to do what is honest, fair, sincere and in the best interest of our country and our customers.

As most of you know, this company and the low cost, low profit policies that built it are under attack.

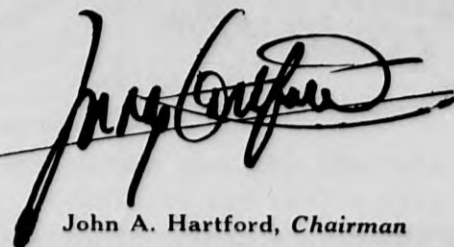

We are defending ourselves against a suit brought by the anti-trust lawyers to put A&P out of business.

But the greater conflict in which our country is now engaged takes precedence over all else.

Today, with our boys fighting in Korea, we believe that all citizens and all businesses, big and little, should devote themselves wholeheartedly to the public interest.

We promise the American people that we will cooperate unhesitatingly with our national government in the present crisis.

We promise you that we will continue to do everything in our power to put more buying power in your food dollar and more good food on your dinner table.

ANDOVER VALUE DAYS Andover Value Days

This past January, our store conducted a gigantic sale on canned fruits, vegetables, juices and condiments - remember? We sold 350 to 400 cases before we were through with it! It was intended to save you money on dozen and case purchases . . . you were most pleased with this event, otherwise we would not have sold such a terrific quantity!

Value Days Are Here Again
A far different condition exists now in regard to world behavior, as compared to last January when we ran that sale . . . should we attempt the same kind of sale? We have made purchases which would allow you considerable savings if you bought in a similar manner to that of six or seven months ago . . .

Sales . . . Savings
We think of this matter only in a business sense . . . it means sales for us and savings for you. Wouldn't a sale now save you money . . . as compared to having you buy piecemeal during the next three or six months at higher prices? OF COURSE IT WOULD! We have absolutely no more control of prices than you have . . . we are at the mercy of the fellows ahead of us. If a price is too high and we think that an article isn't too generally called for, we don't buy it - neither would you.

The merchandise we have purchased (and it was bought right) should be in our store within the next ten days; it consists of:
ORANGE JUICE - GRAPEFRUIT JUICE - GRAPEFRUIT SECTIONS - TOMATO JUICE - CORN - KETCHUP - PEACHES - WAX & GREEN BEANS - OLIVE OIL - TOMATOES - OLIVES - APPLE SAUCE - BLENDED SECTIONS - ETC.

. . . all every-day items that you use frequently! Not too much of an investment attached to them, either, and all items which you have bought by the case and dozen lot in the past because it was easier to have a few on hand rather than to be buying them every other day . . . minus the saving.

We are asking you to be the judge as to whether we should run this sale or not. Let us hear your side of it . . . we have told you ours!

Local Skippers Win At Ipswich

Andover skippers were the only Turnabout sailors to maneuver against a six knot Ipswich tide in the Sunday race.
The fresh southeast wind and rip tide were working together to make the beat to the weather mark a tedious process.
Polly Hogan's Flying Saucer came in first with an hour lead over Jimmy Whipple's Short'n Sweet. The other 11 boats were unable to get around the first leg.
In the North Shore class Bill Hogan's Willy beat Gray Whipple's Clipper by just two minutes. Walter Partridge came in fourth.
The heavy seas over the bar and knock down puffs were a challenge to any skipper and many accidents occurred at the moorings. At least a dozen boats had to be towed home. The Willy was dismantled when an O boat bore down on her at her mooring.
The Turnabout and North Shore fleets are planning to leave Ipswich for Marblehead race week this next weekend for nine days of morning and afternoon series.

Many Entering Water Carnival (continued from Page One) thrills as rowers and bucket handlers battle it out until one of the boats is sunk. For the youngsters there will be a penny toss to decide the championship. The tots will scramble for pennies as they are tossed into the water by a member of the staff. One of the highlights of the carnival will be a greased watermelon contest, a scramble over a melon coated with grease. This promises to fill the role of the grand finale as it is tossed into the water for a free-for-all scramble. Only the older swimmers will be allowed to enter this contest since the winner is required to do a solo job of eating his hard-won prize. The events should provide an attractive program for adults as well as youngsters. It is scheduled to start at 2 p.m.
