The work of applying a new surface to South Main street has been progressing slowly since the start was made some weeks ago at the Lawrence line. Photo shows workmen have now brought the new hot top down into Shawsheen square. Motorists who use this part of the state highway expect that it will not be too long before the entire street surface is brought up to the level of the raised manhole covers which they have been trying to avoid since last June. (Look Photo)

Pomp's Staff Stages Gala Aquacade

Before an estimated crowd of 1100 the Pomp's pond lifesaving staff and its guest performers last Sunday staged the largest and most interesting aquacade in the history of the beach.

Included in the gathering were spectators from Haverhill, Lawrence, Methuen, Quincy, Marlboro, Concord, Medford, and South Carolina.

Under the direction of Donald D. Dunn, head lifeguard, and with Philip Christie of Chestnut st., Boston radio station announcer, as master of ceremonies, the program got under way at 2 o'clock with an exhibition of lifesaving by the staff and PARD members.

Various types of rescues were demonstrated by Guards Richard Kydd, Jack Arabian, Bancroft Fredrickson, Joseph Ratyna and Gregory Arabian, with PARD members Paul Cronin, Richard Berube, George Henrick and Robert Leet.

This was followed with an excellent demonstration of canoeing by a father and son team, Clifford A. Pulsis, director of safety services for the Cambridge Red Cross, and his son, Todd, 9. They were assisted by Richard Berube and George Henrick.

In this demonstration were shown the basic paddling strokes, the use of a canoe in life saving, and self rescue in a capsized canoe.

Vale Bridge Under Repair

Repairs on the Ballardvale bridge at Andover street will be much more extensive than was at first expected.

The board of public works removed the two top layers of planks on the floor of the bridge in order to replace decayed timbers on each of the outside spans.

Upon removing the planking they found that it will be necessary to remove the timbers in all five bays rather than just two. The timbers showed a great deal of decay on the top side which could not be seen from underneath.

The bridge will be thoroughly retimbered and replanked with new material which will be treated with a preservative, and all metal work will be scraped and repainted. There is also some iron work to be done on the frames.

It was expected that the bridge would be closed for only three days but so much decayed lumber was found that it will take several more days to complete the work.

Installation of a new 2500 gallon-per-minute pumping unit at Haggett's pond pumping station sometime this fall was assured by the recent action of the board of public works in awarding a contract for the project which will increase the pumping capacity 100 percent.

This vital improvement in the water system was authorized by an appropriation of $15,000 at the last town meeting and is part of the overall expansion of the system to meet the growing needs of the town.

Topsfield Fair
Opens Sept. 3

The 1950 edition of Topsfield fair, Sept. 3-9, Sunday through Saturday, will be the "biggest production of them all," according to Essex Agricultural Society officials who are completing the program for the 126th renewal of New England's oldest county fair.

This year Topsfield will come up with another "first"-greyhound racing with pari-mutuels. Officials say it will be the first such racing at a fair in the East, possibly in the country. Outstanding dogs from top tracks will compete here on a new $50,000 track every night, Monday (Labor day) through Saturday.

The colorful history of the Topsfield exposition contains such other "firsts" as: Carver's famous diving horses (first time in the East); the late and great Lucky Teter (first appearance in the East); night harness horse racing, and a dozen other entertainment and agricultural features.

Prize money for entrants in the various farm and home shows will reach a record high of $8500 this year and this inducement is expected to attract exhibits exceeding 1949's peak of 10,000.

Haggett's Pond Down 57 Inches

The water in Haggett's pond is now down 54 1/2 inches below the high water level, but the board of public works is not contemplating any restrictions on its use at this time.

A year ago the water was down 42 inches below the high water level. The pond this spring was down 12 inches below the mark of last spring so that the draught on the supply is about the same as a year ago.

The average pumping now is 2,600,000 gallons, which is a little greater than a year ago when the lowest mark reached was 57 inches below the high water level.

United Nations Banner Simple to Recognize

LAKE SUCCESS, New York—The flag of the United Nations, now flying in Korea, where armed forces are in the field with U.N. sanction to restore peace, can easily be recognized by its distinctive color and marking.

The flag is a pale blue, associated with U.N. since the days of the San Francisco conference, which in 1945 wrote the U.N. Charter. Centered on the flag is the seal of the United Nations—a map of the world, centered on the North Pole and wreathed by a pair of olive branches.

The flag was officially approved by the U.N. General Assembly late in 1947, and has been in use by U.N. missions in every part of the world. The flag was displayed by U.N. missions as a recognition sign in often dangerous situations in Palestine, Indonesia, Greece and Kashmir and has been seen in Korea since January, 1948, when the first U.N. representative arrived there.

TRIAL DATE SET

The selectmen have received notice that the action of James M. Gordon vs. the Andover board of appeals has been set for trial in the jury waived session of superior court at Lawrence, Monday, Sept. 11.

Mr. Gordon's petition to establish a golf driving range on Lowell street in West Andover has been rejected by the board.

"It appears to me that this man is abnormally lazy," said the officer. "What is your opinion, sergeant-major?"

"Well, I shouldn't like to do him an injustice, sir," was the reply, "but if it required any voluntary work on his part to digest his food he would die from lack of nourishment."

Do You Know Massachusetts?

DO YOU KNOW THAT... A marked dispersion of retail trade to the smaller places occurred between 1939 and 1948. Of the fifty Massachusetts municipalities where sales gained most in percentage in that period, only nine were among the fifty largest retail centers of 1939. These nine were Salem, Chelsea, Greenfield, Framingham, Wellesley, Chicopee, Westfield, Leominster and Barnstable....Of the 351 Massachusetts cities and towns, 112 have housing authorities and up to date 88 of them have received approval for 15,835 veterans' housing units under the state-aid program. Of these, 4,817 are now completed and 8,175 are under construction... The Division of Necessaries of Life reports that in June the cost of living in Massachusetts was 0.2% lower than a year ago. Clothing was 4.3% lower, food 1.9% lower, rents 3.1% higher, fuel 2.4% higher and sundries 2.7% higher than in June last year....During the two years, 1948 and 1949, there were 9,639 people naturalized in Massachusetts, more than in any other state except the big states of New York and California. From a sample of approximately 2,000 new single-family dwellings built in the past year in the Boston Metropolitan area, U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics reports that 80% have full basements, more than 40% have expansion attics for additional bedrooms, 55% have individual sewerage disposal, usually septic tank, and 85% are built by promotional or speculative builders.

Books On Korea
And The Far East

Until recently Korea was a relatively remote part of the globe to most of us. Swiftly it has come to have tremendous importance. Something of its background, its history and the events which led up to the crisis which has culminated in the United Nations' action will be found in articles and books at the Memorial Hall library.

Among the recent books are: Korea Today, McCune; The United States and Japan, Reischauer; The Rise of Russia in Asia, Dallin; Half Slave, Half Free, Abend; New Forces in Asia, Lasker; Independence and After, Nehru; War or Peace, Dulles; Danger From the East, Lauterbach; China Shakes the World, Belden; American-Russian Relations in the Far East, Tompkins.

AT THE LIBRARY

NEWER BOOKS

Summer is a relatively quiet time for book publishing. However, the stream of new books poured into the library's collection, while diminished, still continues. Good reading will be found among the titles listed below.

Hie to the Hunters

A story of the friendship between two boys, 16-year-old Sparkies, a native of the Kentucky hills and Didway Hargis, a rich, city boy whom Sparkie rescues from two young bullies. When Did runs away from home, the Sparks take him into their one-room shack, where he enters into the hill life, shares the work as well as the play—polecat and opossum hunting corn and tobacco raising. Another Plum Grove story.

On the Wisdom of America

Lin Yutang
Returning from a spiritual journey through American writing, Lin Yutang, well-known Chinese writer and philosopher, has selected those which show the best values of American culture from Benjamin Franklin to E. B. White and has added his own comments and interpretation.

Easter Fleet

Marie-Anne Goulee and the other women of the French fishing village of Concale felt that God would punish their town for the sacrilege committed when the oyster sailing fleet sailed out on Easter Sunday. The boats came back safe and with a good catch. However, all was not to be well with the village.

Night Journey

A suspense story that deals with betrayal, desertion and treason. It is the story of Paul Haldan, of his mission behind enemy lines and of his crime committed while acting under orders. Well written.

Roosevelt: From Munich to Pearl Harbor

A study in the creation of a foreign policy, this was undertaken because of the work of historians like Beard and others who offer seemingly valid proof that Roosevelt plotted to bring the United States into World War II despite his profession of peaceful intent. Rauch's examination of the evidence convinced him that this thesis was incorrect, made possible through falsification or omission of material. This book then is not only a factual account of the events of the period, 1938-1941, but a 'point-by-point refutation of the isolationist thesis'.

Comes the Comrade!

Orme
The author, a refugee from Poland, married to a Hungarian aristocrat, tells in a delightfully human fashion of the impact on their village when the Russians came to liberate it from the Germans. They learned quite quickly to distinguish the Alices, the "Good Russians", from those that they had to spend most of their ingenuity keeping one step ahead.

The Doctor's Wife Comes to Stay

Swinerton
About Rose, a gently deceptive woman, more complicated than the face she presented to the world, of her relationship to her husband, a stern and honest Scottish doctor and to Rex Tweed, her son-in-law, a young portrait painter, whose life and marriage she influenced.

The Wisteria Trees

Logan
An American play based on Anton Chekov's "The Cherry Orchard".

Building a Log Cabin, Hunt; Behold the Mountains, Smythe; Use Your Head in Tennis, Harman; Trailer Book, Cooper; The Eastern Brook Trout, Elliot; Yacht Sails, Their Care and Handling, Ratsey and DeFontaine.

"Atlantic" Fifth In Ipswich Meet

The Andover handtub "Atlantic" finished fifth in a group of 10 Class B entrants in the firemen's muster held Saturday at Ipswich.

The tub, operated by the Andover Handtub association composed mostly of fire department members, was manned by a rejuvenated crew. While it threw a stream of 143.8 feet which was under the mark set a week before, the effort was considered better than previous record as adverse conditions worked against all entrants.

When the tub appears in the meet next Saturday at Essex it will be known as the "H. Bradford Lewis," the name of its donor.

About 40 persons from Andover attended the Ipswich meet to add vocal support to the efforts of the local crew. Another large Andover crowd is expected to be present at the Essex meet next Saturday.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

RESURFACING MAIN STREET

Motorists who have been bumping over raised manhole covers on North Main street since last June will be pleased to observe that some progress is being made toward the completion of resurfacing that stretch of state highway.

It was back in mid-June that employees of the board of public works started raising the covers in preparation for the hot top. They finished before the end of the month.

Then after some weeks' delay, the work of applying the new surface started, only to run into trouble the first day when workmen had to stand around idle due, it was explained, to some breakdown at Peabody where they were getting the material.

Then the work stopped. Another delay of several days and it started again, but progress has been slow, the explanation being that material was not arriving fast enough.

Meanwhile, motorists were driving over and around the numerous "islands" of raised manhole and water box covers all along the street, encountering sudden bumps, particularly at night time, when a wheel would hit one of the raised covers in the dark.

They have been comparing the progress of the work with that on another part of Main street being done under Chapter 90, the section between the post office and Chapel avenue.

The board of public works put "collars" on the covers in July, and the resurfacing started July 31. It was finished August 8, in just six working days. On some of the days workmen put in over 300 tons a day, and on the record day they put in 465 tons.

That part of the highway being done in Shawsheen Village is three times as long as the section here in town.

Judging by past progress, does anyone want to venture a guess when it will be finished?

GOVERNMENT SPENDING

No other event since Pearl Harbor has aroused the country as the sudden invasion of South Korea by communist troops.

This unprovoked assault turned the "cold" war into a "hot" one. It also brought prompt unification of effort at Washington where political leaders of both parties approve the policy which has committed the nation to active resistance to communist aggression.

With preparations for mobilization of the military as well as the domestic resources of the country are being made there is also talk of new and heavier taxes, price and wage controls, allotment of essential materials.

It is impossible yet to see where the march of present events will lead us yet it is inevitable that our expenses for military and related purposes will rise.

National security demands that the government be given adequate power and resources to deal with the emergency, but while the war machine is being geared up for greater effort it would appear that this is a good time for a re-examination of all government spending.

Greater outlays for military purposes should necessitate the strictest possible economy in government. Further waste and unnecessary domestic spending should not be countenanced.

While no one can see what the turn of events will bring in the struggle against communism, there should be no further divergence toward socialism, toward the welfare state, or government pampering of the individual. Our tax money should not be spent for any purpose which can be accomplished by private enterprise.

VIEWS OF THE NEWS

By LEONARD F. JAMES

LONDON — British business is run for profit—with no chance of any loss. The prophets of doom who constantly predict that American business will follow in the footsteps of British nationalized business simply don't understand that competition isn't in Britain.

On the statute books is a law to nationalize steel and iron in January 1951. This move is not a staggering change over from private enterprise to government ownership. It is merely a switch from private to public monopoly. Of course, there may be a large number of steel companies, but that doesn't mean that prices differ. In Britain these businesses organize together to fix prices, quotas, and even the size of the market. If business should become socialized in the United States, then someone is applying a principle merely for principle's sake. In Britain the change-over barely ripples the surface, except for blowing of whistles by locomotives approaching Essex street crossing.

In a game freighted with friction and replete with thrills, Court Lincoln of North Andover defeats Hardy & Ross team 7 to 6 on former's field.

At Colonial during the week will be Betty Compson, Marion Davies, Mae Murray, Adolphe Menjou.

New auto regulations put into effect by Registrar Frank A. Goodwin, 1, prohibits use of horns attached to motors, and 2, requires drivers of cars not equipped with windshield wipers to have windshields open when weather conditions are such as to interfere with visibility.

Prosperity Through Restrictions

For decades British business has guaranteed relative prosperity—for the businessman—through restrictions. Markets have been deliberately limited, price competition eliminated. This is not mere heresay or sharp criticism. The record of published reports speaks for itself, and at times rather startlingly.

For instance, there are three companies who control all the sheet and plate glass in Britain. Of the three, one actually runs the other two. Again, the Cement Makers' Federation covers one hundred percent of the total output, all shared through agreements between sixteen companies. Try and break into that club! Oh yes, you can buy yourself a sandhill and make cement—but you will find it very hard to get rid of the product. The distributors are organized too, or should it be blackmailed. Take asbestos cement. Four firms control ninety-five percent. Cast iron pipe? Another four have that hog-tied. And not as individual companies, but as trade associations.

And Price-Fixing!

For what purposes? Very worthy ones—on paper! Let's take, for instance, the Bicycle and Motorcycle association. It is an organization to safeguard the users—and this word is capitalized in the document—of such goods. Where's the joker? The members agree "not to dispose of any goods....in a manner contrary to that provided in regulations.... issued by the association." In simple language— not to sell at prices not specifically prescribed by the manufacturers.

There are no anti-trust laws in Great Britain, and the result is that the consumer is really less important than a nice steady income for the fellows who own the business. As a result of widespread recognition of this a committee has been appointed to report on Resale Price Maintenance. Its function was to report whether in view of widespread fixing of minimum wholesale and retail prices, any measures are desirable to prevent or regulate it.

You may wonder how a manufacturer may fix a minimum price for an article and force a wholesaler or distributor to stick to it. Why not buy something similar somewhere else? That's where this business, blackmail comes in. Trade association members take collective action to enforce prescribed prices. If the distributor fails to observe the dictated price of the product of any one producer, then all producers agree to withhold supplies. More commonly, the enforcement of resale prices is entrusted to a trade association including both manufacturers and distributors. They usually operate a complicated system of rules whereby resale prices are enforced by warnings, fines, the denial of supplies, or expulsion from the association. The sword always hanging over a would-be offender is the withholding of all such supplies within the entire trade association.

The manufacturers naturally defend their actions. Many seem to have convinced themselves that in order to take full advantage of the potential demand for an article they must cater for a particular price range. They also argue that if a nationally advertised article is sold at varying prices in neighboring shops, the demand for it substantially decreases. However, the multiple retailers by no means agree with this. They claim that the fixing of prices by manufacturers eliminates competition and is an improper interference with distributors' freedom. They feel that it is the right of the retailer to assess his market and fix his price accordingly. But the distributor, large or small, hasn't much say.

Dividends Not Permitted

Manufacturers go even so far as to prohibit the sale of products on a dividend basis. For example, some manufacturers refuse to sell to retail establishments which return surplus trading profits—on any articles in the store, not just the particular brand of the manufacturer—to their customers. Or if they do permit the retailer to issue a dividend, then the price charged for the article must include the full amount of the dividend!

By such enforceable restrictions the low-cost distributor has only two courses left to him. He can use his surplus to reduce the prices of articles whose prices are not maintained, or he can spend it in additional services to the consumer. But such courses are objectionable. Where the number of price-maintained goods is large, then only a few items can be substantially reduced. And secondly, the diversion of competition from prices to services can involve useless waste of manpower to provide service that is by no means necessary or desired by the consumer.

Business is a Boycott!

There isn't competition in Britain. But there's a boycott worked by the manufacturers. And it's perfectly legal. And who can be surprised if the consumer today isn't really concerned about a public monopoly instead of a private one. Anyway he looks at it he's being fleeced. And maybe he hopes for improvement from public control. Probably only hopes by this time.

Win Trophies At Marblehead

Andover skippers returned from a week at Marblehead with their full share of trophies.

In the Turnabout class Dick Whipple won the Eastern Yacht Club series against Marblehead and Winthrop's best skippers. Mrs. Philip Hogan won the Boston Yacht Club series, and Fred Bradley's Betty B captured the Corinthian cup.

In the Pleon series Bill Hogan's Willy won the North Shore class, and Polly Hogan's Flying Saucer won the Turnabout class.

The North Shore fleet championship, raced the last day of the Corinthian series, was won by Bill Hogan in the Willy.

The racing in all classes was close, the boats coming in as a fleet and the wins only seconds apart.

After the last race the little 9-foot Flying Saucer started to sail back from Marblehead to Ipswich, with a stopover at Manchester, the smallest sailing craft to make the 20-mile trip, sailing along with the returning North Shores.

Next week the Turnabout and North Shore fleets will convene at Newburyport, for the Saturday-Sunday regatta of the American Yacht Club. The following Thursday they will race at Annisquam, and Friday at Sandy bay, Rockport.

Children Set Fires

Children playing with matches and youngsters smoking cigarettes are known by police and fire officials to have started some of the numerous grass and brush fires which have occurred lately.

Authorities issue warning that anyone caught setting grass or brush fires, particularly with the ground as dry as it is now, will be prosecuted.

Firemen yesterday answered a second call in two days to a fire off Canterbury street on land of the country club. This is believed to have been a rekindle of the previous day's fire. With the ground so dry these fires, officials say, burn deeply into the ground. Over 1200 feet of hose had to be laid to extinguish yesterday's blaze.

The work was started July 31, and with the interruption of one day on account of rain, was finished Aug. 8. During this time over 300 tons of material were applied daily and on one working day a record of 465 tons were put on.

Progress is being made on South Main street from the Shaw-sheen bridge to the Lawrence line. Manhole covers and water gate boxes were raised early in June, in preparation for the new surface on the street. Motorists have had to drive around them and over them for the past two months while several delays have been experienced in getting the material to go along faster with the work.

Meanwhile traffic in this Shaw-sheen Village stretch of the state highway has been rerouted, first by way of Union street and later by way of Poor street. The work has now progressed from the Lawrence line down to the square. When this is joined to the resurfacing done in the past two years, Main street will have an entire new hot top from the Lawrence line to Chapel avenue.

Owners Must License Dogs

Owners of unlicensed dogs are receiving notices from Police Chief George A. Dane that dogs over three months old must be licensed and that failure to comply with this law makes the owner liable for a fine of $5 to $15.

Over 1200 dogs were licensed last year but many owners have been lax in having their pets re-licensed this year. Chief Dane has a list of all owners who have not complied with the law to date. Those who fail to heed the final notices being sent out will be brought into court.

In the past few months Chief Dane has had to get rid of a large number of dogs, about 40 of which have been given to the M.S.P.C.A.

Obituary...

MRS. MARIA E. BOULE

Mrs. Maria Exilia (Dayon) Boule, 64, of Montreal, Canada, died suddenly Thursday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Telesphore Rouillier, 75 North st., with whom she had been visiting for the past week. Death was due to natural causes, Dr. Parkinson L. Oddy, associate medical examiner announced.

The funeral was held Monday in Plessisville, Canada.

Pomp's Staff Stages Aquacade

The "Mermaids of Pomp's" held the attention of the crowd as they performed their beautiful water ballet routine in swimming patterns. Under the direction of Mr. Dunn and student director, Maureen Darby, the following took part in the ballet: Judith Nowell, Joyce Sullivan, Barbara King and counselors from Camp Maude Eaton, Mary Hennessey, Mary Lou Sullivan, Ruth Sullivan and Nancy Cooke.

A comedy lifesaving demonstration with staff members dressed in clown costumes illustrated that aquatics can be fun.

The daring tightrope walker "Kid K. O." was discovered to be Lifeguard Richard Kydd who introduced a little more comedy than he expected. He planned to have the rope, as he started walking, to touch the ground by means of a cleverly devised rubber strip on one end. Much to his surprise, however, the rubber reached its expanding limit before the rope touched the ground and he was left high in the air on the rope. He finally did succeed in "walking" the rope with the aid of sympathetic bystanders.

The grand climax to the afternoon's activities was the skillful diving show by Cliff Pulis, who executed various dives from the high tower.

The whole program was carried out with a typical aquatic background of boats and canoes filled with spectators, and a beach decorated with crepe paper and numerous posters.

The committees who so generously gave their time and effort to make the carnival a success comprised the entire staff and the following: Posters and signs, Arch Apkarian, Anne Sullivan, Alan Nowell, Patricia Black and Dawn Dunn; radio publicity, Phil Christie; costumes and equipment, Mrs. Michael Jay, Anne Sullivan, Mrs. Ruth Fredrickson, Mr. and Mrs. Rayburn Hathaway.

pump and revamped the floor framing.

Delivery of the new pump is expected in October and installation will be completed 14 days after receipt of materials.

The new unit can deliver 3,600,000 gallons a day and will be used in summer time when the demand for water runs high. At present it is about 2,600,000 gallons daily.

The two present units, one an electric pump and the other steam, can each deliver 1250 gallons per minute. They will be retained. They increase the stand-by protection in case of emergency and will also be used in colder weather when the daily demand is much lower.

Other parts of the water system improvement for which an additional $34,500 was appropriated last March, have been done and some of it is in the process of completion. This work included pumps and piping at the reservoir and cleaning and relining of sections of the high reservoir mains.

A car-load of quality

Here's quality you can hear, feel and see. You'll thrill to the quiet of Ford's two great engines—the V-8 and "Six." Only Ford in the low-price field offers you this pick of power. What's more, you'll find both engines are "hushed" to a whisper and engineered to save you money. Then, too, you'll love the feel of Ford's smooth, road-hugging "Mid Ship" Ride on big sofa-soft seats. And one look will tell you why Ford was named the "Fashion Car" again this year.

White sidewall tires and wheel trim rings optional at extra cost.

with plenty of beef!

"YOUR CHOICE
OF V-8 OR 'SIX'
POWER"

Just 10 minutes behind the wheel and you'll know that Ford's got plenty of muscle. You'll feel the smooth stops of 35% easier-acting King-Size Brakes. You'll get the sturdy "feel" of the rugged "Lifeguard" Body that's now "sound-conditioned" for silence. And you'll find Ford a sound investment—its low first price, low upkeep, and high resale value make it the savingest car in its field.

There's a Ford in your future...with a future built in.
