Would Remedy Conditions at Clark Brook

Some temporary solution to correct conditions in the vicinity of Clark brook which have brought complaints from Ballardvale residents will be sought by the board of selectmen.

The board of health has received a number of protests about conditions in that area and as a result the selectmen wrote to the state department of public health.

The reply from Vlado A. Getting, commissioner, which was read at the selectmen's meeting Monday night, said in part:

"The examination shows that Clark brook at this point spreads out to form a shallow pond approximately 300 feet long and 100 feet wide. At the time of the examination there was very little flow through the pond. The pond was covered with duckweed, and a mixture of green and blue-green algae. At the time of the examination there was a slight odor about the pond, but it was not disagreeable at that time.

"A highway drain from the immediate vicinity crosses Andover street, passes the local playground, extends under the Boston and Maine tracks and discharges into the Shawsheen river. This drain is reported to receive domestic

Mercury Drops To 45 Degrees

Morning temperatures during August have been noticeably cool, particularly in the past two weeks when they frequently dropped as low as 50 degrees. Early morning risers were given a real chill, however, last Tuesday when they saw 6 a. m. readings as low as 45 degrees here in town and 44 in Ballardvale. By 8 o'clock the temperature was up to 60 and continued to rise until early afternoon.

Pomp's Staff Gives Naval Demonstration

The latest techniques in naval swimming tactics were demonstrated last Thursday evening at Pomp's pond by the lifeguards.

Before a group of 75 naval reservists of Div. 1-17 of Lawrence, led by Comdr. Donald D. Dunn and Lt. Meehan, the lifeguards, Clark Otis, Richard Kydd and Bancroft Fredrickson demonstrated elementary forms of rescue, self rescues in boats, and swimming rescues.

Under the floodlights, which were turned on after dark, Guard Jack H. Arabian demonstrated how one's clothing could be used to maintain buoyancy in the ocean.

While Comdr. Dunn gave a running commentary on the events Lifeguards Arabian and Fredrickson swam through a sea of burning gasoline using a modified push-breaststroke, while PARD member Robert McCabe assisted them, standing by in a lifeboat.

Guards Otis and Fredrickson are members of the USNR division 1-17, while Guard Arabian is connected with USNR Division 1-15.

The exhibition was also viewed by a crowd of more than 200.

Heavy Rainfall Over Weekend

A weekend rainfall of more than 24 hours duration amounted at 2.42 inches according to records at the observation tower on Holt hill kept by Jack Campbell, forest fire ranger.

This brought relief to parched gardens and also cut down the forest fire danger which before the storm was working into class 4, considered as very dangerous.

The rain began to fall about 4 p. m., Saturday and continued with but few intervals until Sunday night. The highest rainfall recorded in the state during this period was at Oxford where 5.5 inches were recorded.

Higher Water Level For Dam At Ballardvale

A large delegation of Ballardvale residents appeared at the meeting of the board of selectmen Monday night regarding their protests against conditions caused by the lowering of the water at the Vale dam.

In attendance also were E. Francis Leland, Jr., representing Adams & Leland Co., part owners of the dam; Russell Kumph, representing the Shawsheen Rubber Co., part owners of the dam; and Perez O. Lewin, supervising engineer of the American Woolen Co. All were prepared to cooperate as far as possible to aid in relieving the conditions which caused the complaints.

It was brought out at the hearing that the county inspects the dam every two years and, as many leaks were found in it, insisted that they be repaired. It was necessary to lower the water at the dam in order that workmen could make repairs. This lowered the river and drained numerous mud flats further upstream.

The officials agreed that when the repair work is finished the flash boards will be maintained about nine inches higher than ever before. This will make conditions above the dam better than ever before. It is expected that the repair work will be done sometime this fall.

Kenilworth St. Made One-Way

Kenilworth street in Shawsheen Village was made a one-way street easterly to Main street, by a vote of the board of selectmen Monday night.

This action follows one of the many requests made earlier in the year by the Shawsheen PTA at a conference with the selectmen following a fatal accident. The matter has been under study since then.

The street is only 18 feet wide. As the newly-surfaced Main street will have new traffic markings, it was felt that the change should be made at this time.

William Hatch of Lupine rd., was drawn as a juror to serve at the session of superior criminal court opening at Lawrence Sept. 18.

Frank L. Purdon, 65 Central st., was drawn to serve as a juror at the session of superior civil court opening Sept. 11, at Salem.

The petition of Consentino Garafora of Lawrence for a junk license was tabled for further investigation.

The selectmen have received letters from Senators Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., and Leverett Saltonstall, and from Cong. Edith Nourse Rogers regarding the petition of several West Andover residents

A special town meeting late in October will be asked to appropriate close to $1,000,000 for two new elementary school buildings, one in the center of 18 class rooms, another in West Parish of six class rooms.

This is the next step in the modernization and expansion of the elementary school system and follows the school committee's approval of preliminary plans presented by the school building committee at a joint meeting last week.

A survey of the entire school system made early in 1949 brought forth the report that the town should envision the eventual replacement of all elementary school buildings except the Shawsheen.

Recommended as the first step in the replacement program was the erection of a new 18-room elementary central school. The second step would be the building of a seven-room elementary school in West Andover.

In their findings the consultants, Dr. Jesse B. Davis of Boston university, and his associate, Cyril G. Sargent, formerly of Phillips academy faculty but now with the Harvard School of Education, also reported that:

The Indian Ridge building should be withdrawn from use as a school as soon as appropriate facilities can be made available.

The West Center school is entirely inadequate and should be abandoned as soon as it is possible to provide suitable housing facilities for the children of this area.

The future of the Bradlee area cannot be predicted at the present time.

As a result of the report the town meeting last March appropriated $10,000 for a study and

KAYWORTH-KENNIS

Miss Joanna Karolina Kennis, R. N., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen F. Kennis of High Plain rd., became the bride of Alfred E. Kayworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Kayworth of Bowling Green, Fla., at a 2 o'clock ceremony, Aug. 19, in the Lawrence street Congregational church, Lawrence. The Rev. H. Gardner Anderson performed the ceremony. The guest pews were marked with white gladioli. Miss Mildred Moore was the organist and Ernest Kress of North Andover rendered "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was gowned in candlelight nylon net, fitted bodice, yoke, long fitted sleeves, and skirt side panels of imported Chantilly lace, and nylon net skirt fashioned with a long flowing train. Her finger-tip veil of illusion was draped from a cap of matching lace and satin and she carried a cascade arrangement of white roses and stephanotis, centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Frances A. Arold of North Andover as her sister's matron of honor, wore a lilac bouffant colonial gown of mousseline de soie, off the shoulder effect and carried salmon pink gladioli with baby's breath. Miss Frances Dick of Lawrence, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Almeda Cunha of Methuen were the bridesmaids. They wore similar gowns in peacock blue and carried deep rose gladioli and baby's breath. All the attendants wore coronets of baby's breath.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Kennis chose navy blue with metallic embroidery, matching velvet hat and purse corsage of scarlet gladioli.

The bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Royal Turner of Methuen wore a navy blue sheer with matching accessories and corsage of scarlet gladioli.

Roland Korb of Methuen served as best man and the ushers were Frank Barber and Frederick Minzner of Methuen.

A reception followed the ceremony on the lawn of the bride's home with guests present from New York, Mt. Herman, Manchester, Windham, New Braintree, Worcester and Portland.

The bride is a graduate of Lawrence High school, Manter Hall, Boston university and Lawrence Generalhospital school of Nursing, where she is clinical instructor.

A. Graham Baldwin, school minister. A reception followed at the Log cabin in the academy bird sanctuary.

The bride wore her mother's and grandmother's wedding gown, itself an heirloom since the embroidered tunic was part of her great-great grandmother's wedding dress, and her mother's wedding veil. She carried pale yellow roses and stephanotis.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Francis de Luze Verdery of Natick, and the two bridesmaids, both cousins of the bride, Miss Sarah Lowell Whitcomb of Bethlehem, Penn., and Miss Mary Elisabeth Eastman of Woodstock, Vt., all wore white frosted organza and carried delphinium.

Daniel C. Schneider of Chicago was best man for his brother, and the ushers were Lawrence W. Barss, brother of the bride and Harold Jack Geiken of Charlevoix, Mich., Peter Q. McKee and J. Richard Lux of Andover, who, with the bridegroom, are members of the faculty of Phillips academy.

The bride, a graduate of Abbot academy, attended Bryn Mawr college and is a graduate of the Boston School of Occupational Therapy.

Seek Volunteers For Hospital Aid

The Lawrence General Hospital Aid Assn., which includes a number of Andover women, needs help in many lines in addition to the actual volunteer hours given at the hospital.

Help will be invaluable on the financial end so that new projects may be undertaken. Annual membership dues are $1, and everyone in Greater Lawrence is earnestly urged to join. Also, various money-raising activities are in prospect, and there will be ample opportunities to help.

As an example of welcome assistance, one member of the community is helping in making holiday favors for the hospital trays on special days.

"There must be many talents around Greater Lawrence," one official observes, "that would be of much help. Can you make posters? Have you good books to donate to the hospital library? Will you contribute toys to the children's ward? Would you work in a sewing group? Will you sell, and buy, tickets to money-raising events? Are you interested to join the aid association and invite others to do likewise? And could you spare a forenoon weekly in actual work at the hospital.

"If the answers to these questions is Yes, kindly contact Mrs. Samuel Waugh, supervisor of the volunteer program, at the Lawrence General hospital.

What Our Readers Say—

THE COMSTOCK HOUSE

Editor of The Townsman:
Your readers may be interested to know that the "historic landmark" pictured in your issue of Aug. 10, as on the way from Highland road to Hidden Field, is a relic of the days when Andover was an important center for printing religious tracts and books. This was the "bindery." In subsequent years with many changes it has been used as a dwelling house, at one time for married theologians and their wives, and later for Phillips academy families. The name "Comstock House" more recently used was given obviously as a courtesy to the memory of Prof. Comstock, long a teacher at the academy, and has no connection with the story of the building.

Asks Vacationists To Care For Pets

An appeal to vacationing pet owners not to neglect their animals was made today by Carlton E. Buttrick, president of the Animal Rescue League of Boston. Mr. Buttrick urged that those people who have taken a pet with them to their summer homes or who have acquired a pet during the vacation period make arrangements far enough in advance so that the animal will not be left behind when the summer home is closed.

Pets should be kept in or near the house for at least two days prior to the leave-taking to insure being present at the last minute when the house is closed. Pets deserted at beaches and summer resorts suffer greatly as they are not prepared to fend for themselves.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

THE HOME FRONT

This has two battle fronts—our military operations in Korea and the battle on the home front. It is of the utmost importance, adds the Massachusetts Committee for the Hoover Report, to every citizen to realize how much is at stake right here at home.

We are being subjected to an all-out attack on everything we cherish, our basic principles, our status as free people, our American incentives to work and own and save. These are in jeopardy, it asserts, as it points out that the battle on the home front can be won by applying the American principles of thrift, prudence, economy and efficiency to the important business of government.

It is the business side of government, it says, which creaks with obsolete methods, and, as this is part of our danger on the home front, recommends a five-point program for action.

These are;— First, stop the downhill coast toward socialism: expose to light every dark corner where communism hides: practice Americanism instead of just preaching it.

Second, revitalize the American incentives to work and own and save, and restore the traditional rewards to individuals for producing more and better services and material goods.

Third, stop the inflationary process, which by cheapening the dollar, defrauds all thrifty Americans who have insurance policies, social security cards, and savings accounts.

Fourth, reread the American constitution and its Bill of Rights which are the foundation stones of our American Government, and bring that government back home where it was born—where it thrives—where it belongs.

Fifth, lets exercise our citizenship for a change. Use our influence to obtain the adoption of the Hoover blueprint for a better government at a better price so that every tax dollar will count.

Remember, it is your government. It will be as poor as irresponsible and as inefficient as you will tolerate, or as economical and as effective as you demand.

VIEWS OF THE NEWS

By LEONARD F. JAMES

LONDON—British business does not reward skills which meet competition. Quite the reverse. The rewards go to those who negotiate and maintain restrictive deals. Quite a bit of the old school tie idea. Is poor old Jenkins—a member of a trade association—not doing too well? Let's shove up the price to protect him. Perhaps it is not quite so bad as this. But it's close enough to give an indication of the way British business has never operated under the American system of really free enterprise, has never subscribed to a policy of free and competitive prices.

Barbering—By Trade Association

Let's take a look at a few of these trade associations. The obvious ones come to mind—steel, cement, building supplies all nicely tied up each in its own monopoly. But there are some that cause the eyebrows to raise. For example, there are the hairdressers, the tobacco trade, and stationery. Let's see how the hairdressers operate. The association is under the sole control of a council of 39 members, divided equally between manufacturers of hairdressers' articles, wholesale dealers in such goods, and hairdressers—barbers to you. Members are elected by the council on a blackball system. No reason need be given for refusing an applicant. And then the association rigs the market. "No hairdressing service shall be supplied to the public or advertised at prices less than those shown on the Protected List." And what if a member gives you a cut-rate clip? He'll probably appear on a "stop list" and denied all supplies. Or he can be fined $100 if he wants to remain a member.

Radios—At Fixed Prices

Radios are also interesting. The kind of machine you'd get for $20 would run you somewhere around 60 here. The manufacture of tubes is confined to 12 firms, nine of which belong to the appropriate association. Of the others only one has any sort of domestic business. Cut-rate stores? Not in England. Tubes are sold to the public at a fixed price with no competition whatever. Nothing shall be done by members of the association "which would either reduce selling prices of tubes as fixed by the association...or form an inducement to purchase from one seller rather than another." We were told that these associations weren't really restricting production. But we could get no satisfactory explanation of the above quotes! We think it looks like a pretty effective boycott.

Writing Paper Is Controlled Too

How about a simple thing like writing paper. That's not rigged? There's a Stationers' Association—and it's no spring chicken. It's been in operation since 1905 under a variety of names. Manufacturers are asked, in what is quaintly or perhaps impishly called the Code of Ethics for the trade, to confine the sale of stationery goods so far as possible to retail stationers or shops with a stationery department. And retailers are requested to give preference to goods of the association, especially to those whose resale prices are enforced through the association. No Member may give a discount or deal with any organization formed for the purpose of obtaining goods at

Cement—At One Price

A real pippin is the Association piously claims has no merchant agreement enough. It hasn't. It doesn't. The whole of the cement industry is in the hands of 16 firms, all closely interlocked. Between them they control works making cement, with differing costs per ton produced. But the citizen finds that a federation requires its members to handle only "federated" controlling its products customarily strangleholds. member jumps over the rebates and discounts can't be held. Or fines can be levied. The most effective weapon withholding of supplies, means the offending merchant distributor is finished. other member of the federation sell to him. And nobody makes cement. At least, long. Merchants who play the game are guaranteed ample margin a sheltered existence. Competition is not only a spot crude financial suicide.

And Building Materials

These same practices are to practically every branch building supplies trades. About the average citizen? He does he rarely receive improved products. He receives even the benefit of prices. There seldom are The British consumer is mercy of trusts in practically everything he buys. Trusts from other trusts, each of which guaranteeing profits even least efficient member, and the next buyer a good deal. And down at the bottom is the consumer. He virtually buys what is allowed to buy, at the price of the quality determined monopolies. Why should he about nationalization of rail or coal, or steel, or any product? That's why so simply doesn't excite the citizen. He has very little to He may even benefit.

Investigating committees usually oppose the interference manufacturer's right to set prices if he wants to. But deny the right of association interfere with individual manufacturers and distributors. The advocate that legal action be taken to prevent agreements that trade.

If there is any lesson learned from British methods it is that the United States has no need to go down the road of nationalization. In Britain is short, wages are low and necessarily small because of prices. The real trouble with British business is not that it is nationalized but that it has long been protected from competition at home. The honest citizen can see little difference between socialists and British industrialists. The effects are the same. In the United States there is danger of nationalization if the customer is the boss.

Will Ask $1,000,000 For New Central And West Parish Schools

preliminary plans for new elementary schools in the central and West Parish districts and Moderator Arthur Sweeney appointed the following building committee: Charles C. Kimball, who was afterward elected chairman; Selectman Roy E. Hardy, Gordon L. Colquhoun of the school committee, Supt. Kenneth L. Sherman, who was elected clerk; Stanley F. Swanton of the finance committee, Harold T. Houston and Herbert P. Carter, former school committee members.

They engaged Dr. Fomer W. Anderson, former superintendent of schools in Newton, as educational advisor, as is required by the state before funds of the state are made available. The architectural firm of Tucker and Rich of Boston was later engaged to prepare sketches.

The building committee with Dr. Anderson and Architects Tucker and Rich attended the meeting last week together with the entire school committee. Mr. Colquhoun, chairman, William A. Doherty, secretary, Mrs. Katharine A. Baldwin, Mrs. Dorothy T. Partridge and Miss Anna M. Greeley.

Preliminary sketches of the proposed buildings were presented and discussed. That for the central district was a two-story building of 18 class rooms with auditorium, cafeteria-playroom and special rooms designed in such a manner that if only a 12-room building was deemed necessary six rooms could be eliminated.

During the discussion of this plan it was agreed that anything less than the proposed 18 rooms would be inadequate in view of the trend toward a steady increase in the school population everywhere.

The proposed building would face Bartlet street in front of the John Dove school and would line up with the present high school building. The Dove and Stowe schools would remain intact for the present.

In discussing the cost of this building the sum of $625,000 was mentioned.

Proposed plans for the West Center school included an assembly hall, playroom-cafeteria as well as the six class rooms. The 13-acre site of the old Carter farm on Deacon street, just off Lowell street, was discussed. This, it is understood, has been offered to the town for $5000. The sum of $261,000 was used in discussing costs.

Other phases of the elementary school program were brought up during the evening, including the situation at Indian Ridge and Shawsheen.

It was felt that the center and West Parish buildings could be built for less than a million dollars. It will take the architects about two more months to complete their plans for the buildings and when this is done sometime late in October a special town meeting will be called to appropriate money for the work.

The special town meeting may accept or reject the plans or vote any changes it deems necessary.

Would Remedy Conditions at Clark Brook

sewage from some of the nearby houses and also at times to carry a portion of the discharge from Clark brook. At the time of the examination this drain was practically stagnant. A strong, disagreeable odor of sewage was observed in its vicinity. The results of analyses of samples of water collected from this highway drain show that it contained a large number of bacteria characteristic of sewage, was devoid of dissolved oxygen and grossly polluted, probably from the discharge of sewage from the nearby houses.

"The results of analyses of samples collected from the pond on Clark brook show that it contained a considerable amount of dissolved oxygen but also contained bacteria characteristic of pollution in such quantities as to make it unsuitable for bathing purposes at the time of the examination.

"The department understands that the town of Andover has prepared preliminary plans for an extension of the municipal sewage system to this section of the town. The department is of the opinion that such an extension should be made as early as practical in order that nuisance conditions in this vicinity may be eliminated."

The letter goes on to say that the department will be pleased to discuss the matter further with the board. The latter, in view of the school situation here, felt that some temporary solution might relieve the conditions for the time being and has asked the state department if some such solution can be arranged.

Mrs. Charles F. Smith and daughter, Martha, of Elm st., are at Ocean Park, Me., for a vacation.

AT THE LIBRARY

The Bizarre Sisters Walz

Written in novel form, the tragedy surrounding the Randolph family actually happened. The locale is the isolated plantation on the Appomattox, rightly named Bizarre, which belonged to Richard Randolph, and the cast numbers in it the members of his household.

John Adams and the American Revolution Bowen

Honest John Adams has not had his entire due from biographers so that it is good to have this book by Catherine Drinker Bowen, which, though about the young John Adams—it begins with the formative Braintree years and closes in 1776 when he was forty-gives something of the background of a man who contributed so much to our early history.

The Town Richter

This book is the third in a trilogy which began with the "The Trees," a story of the Lucketts and their constant trek west whenever their isolation became threatened. In this latest book, Sayward, the eldest daughter, now old, sees her children grown-up with a life very different from her own.

If You Were Born in Russia Goodfriend

An objective treatment in text and pictures of Soviet life as seen through the day to day happenings in the life of a middle-road Russian family.

The Collected Tales De LaMare

Twenty four tales by Walter De LaMare, long a master of the eerie, mystical and introspective, edited with an introduction by Edward Wagenknecht.

Roosevelt in Retrospect Gunther

Gunther intended at first to write a brief, character sketch but changed his mind in the light of the wealth of material, printed and anecdotal.

Simple Speaks His Mind Hughes

Originally written as a series for the Chicago Defender, with only the Negro reader in mind, this becomes a revealing account of simple, of the things that bother him, of his daily life and brings to the average white person an understanding that he does not ordinarily share.

Ramparts We Guard McIver

The author has attempted to clarify the meaning and nature of democracy, a much less simple concept that most of us are wont to think, in the belief that only a thoughtful understanding of its principles by our citizens can make democracy secure against its enemies.

Of Men and Mountains Douglas

Almost an autobiography, William Douglas has sought to share with others his love of the mountains and the region he knew so well. Stricken with infantile as a child, he started hiking through the foot-hills around Yakima, Washington, to get back his strength. He discovered early that richness in life is found in adventure and he found that in his mountain climbing, as well as the opportunity as he puts it to "know himself and God."

World Enough and Time Warren

In his latest novel, Robert Penn Warren, author of the Pulitzer prizewinner, "All the King's men" has reconstructed a Kentucky Murder case of the 1820's. It is the story of a young man, in love with a woman he has never seen and of his meting out of justice to her betrayer. The turbulent politics of the period and the frontier are well-handled.

Trailer Overturns In Shawsheen Sq.

Collision of a trailer truck and a passenger automobile in Shawsheen square last Thursday night caused injury to two persons, upset the trailer, tied up traffic and brought out the fire department to wet down the street to minimize the danger from fire.

Solomon Brown 40, of Portland, Me., operator of the truck was admitted to the Lawrence General hospital for treatment, and Mrs. Germain Brouillard of 295 N. Main st., a passenger in the auto, was reported to have suffered a shoulder injury in the crash. Brown was released Friday afternoon and returned to his home.

According to the police report of the accident the trailer truck was going west on Haverhill street and the auto operated by Alphonse Brouillard was going north on North Main street when they collided in the square. The driver of the truck swerved so sharply that it caused the load to shift, overturning the trailer which was carrying 10 or 12 tons of lobster and clams to New York.

Officers Frank Koza, Raymond F. Collins and Alfred Robb were quickly on the scene and they were joined shortly afterward by Chief George A. Dane, Sergt. David L. Nicoll and Officer Richard Caldwell. They directed traffic at the intersection and handled the large crowd of spectators that gathered after the crash.

Wreckers were called to help right the overturned vehicle but it was not until some hours later when another trailer had been sent by the owners the Benson Lobster Co., of South Portland, and transferred the load, that it was righted.

Police Check Solicitor For Vet Magazine

A man soliciting advertising, subscriptions or donations to a veterans' magazine, the proceeds of which were "to take care of the wives of the boys sent to Korea," left town hurriedly last Monday at the suggestion of police.

It was after a couple of telephone calls were made to a woman on Main street that local authorities heard of him. In the first call she was asked for funds. She was told to leave the check in the mail box and it would be picked up. In the second she was reminded that she had failed to follow directions as the man had visited the house and had not found the check.

A personal call was then made during which the woman was told that another woman on Main street had given him a check for $200. The solicitor was still putting on his sales talk at the door when Police Chief George A. Dane walked up the steps behind him. He nearly wilted when he turned and saw "the law."

The solicitor, who was found to have been operating a new car, went to the station and after a talk with the chief agreed to leave town. Chief Dane refused to give him a permission for soliciting, without which he could not operate here. Police also checked with the woman who was supposed to have given the man $200 and found that his story was not true.
