Civil Defense Director Issues Instructions

Information and instructions about bomb shelters have been received at the office of the civil defense director and as these will not be distributed to the public directly, a resume has been prepared by Albert Cole Jr., civil defense director, for the benefit of all residents of the town.

As a preface to the issuance of information in the first bulletin, Director Cole calls attention to a recent statement made by Gen. George C. Marshall, secretary of defense in which he said, "The situation has been alerted and common prudence dictates that we must remain on the alert for some time to come."

The following bids were received for the repair: T. T. Johnson, $398. Alex F. Henderson, $470.06; Philip I. Gaudet, $415.53 with Douglas fir, and $497.70 with long leaf pine. The board voted to award the contract to T. T. Johnson.

Water In Haggett's Down 65 Inches

Latest readings at Haggett's pond pumping station reveal that the water is down 65.7 inches, the lowest mark it has reached in many years. The extreme low mark last fall was 57 inches. Lack of rain and a ground water table much lower than usual account greatly to the present very low mark.

Appoint Two New Teachers

Two teachers were appointed to the school system at a regular meeting of the school committee Tuesday night.

Robert McIntyre of Waltham was added to the high school staff as mathematics teacher at a starting salary of $2500, and Miss Beverly A. Bloomberg of Lowell was assigned to the Bradlee school at a starting salary of $2300 to teach a new second grade class. Both appointments were made after an executive session in which several candidates for the positions were interviewed.

Miss Bloomberg, who makes her home at 208 Fairmont st., Lowell, attended the Choate school, Brookline, and was graduated from Smith college last June with an A. B. degree. She majored in sociology and was a minor in elementary education. She has done considerable practice and observation teaching.

Mr. McIntyre holds A. B. and Master of Education degrees from Northeastern university, Boston, where he has served as an assistant backfield coach for the football squad. He previously taught in Wellesley.

Veterans Move Families Into Housing Project

The veterans' housing project is occupied with about 30 families and the rest of the 56 units in the new buildings off Morton street are expected to be occupied by Oct. 15.

There was very little formality with the opening. About 15 veterans to whom apartments had been awarded dropped around last Friday night and paid their rent to J. Edward Manning, the custodian, and many of them had furnishings in their cars which they left in their apartments.

However, actual occupancy did not take place until Saturday when the first group moved in with others following earlier this week. Open house will be held Saturday for public inspection. Work on the roads and sidewalks, which has been holding up the opening of the buildings, has been completed and very little more remains to be done.

The formal dedication will take place next Memorial day when the horseshoe drive around which the buildings have been erected, will be named Memorial circle and a suitably inscribed plaque erected.

Among the first occupants of the new apartments were:

Charles W. Richards, Don B.

Plans for a new two-story elementary school building of 18 classrooms for the center of the town and a one-story building of six classrooms at West Parish have been presented by the school building committee following the recent study of school needs.

The West Center land, buildings and equipment would cost $350,000, the center $750,000, and with $100,000 allowed for contingencies would make the total cost of the two buildings $1,200,000.

To finance the construction the committee recommends the transfer of $350,000 from available funds and from the Post War Rehabilitation fund, and an appropriation of $50,000 from the 1951 tax rate. It recommends that the balance ($800,000) be financed by a 15-year bond issue with annual serial maturities. This would add approximately $2.48 to the tax rate in 1952, the year of highest cost. This would diminish annually until it dropped to $1.50 in 1966, an average of $2.18 for the 15-year period.

The state will bear approximately 21% of the construction cost under Chap. 645, Acts of 1948, but the payments from the state will be made in the form of a proportionate annual refund.

are interested in reforming the cub scout pack that is sponsored by the Shawsheen P.T.A. A number of adults, both men and women, are necessary to direct and plan a unit. Miles Pendleton, chairman of the cub pack committee at the Free church, has invited any parents who may be interested in having a cub scout pack in Shawsheen to visit any of the regular monthly pack meetings of cubs and their leaders at the Free church. A visit of this kind would enable the parents to see how the cub scout organization operates. Assistance will also be given in forming a unit by experienced leaders. Information may be obtained by calling Calvin Metcalf, Arnold Schofield, Walter Caswell or Mr. Pendleton.

YOUR NEW SOCIAL SECURITY

By H. L. Leighton
MANAGER LAWRENCE OFFICE

Under the social security act prior to Sept. 1, 1950 a person who reached the age 65 and retired from employment could receive monthly benefits, if he were "fully insured". To be fully insured, he must have worked at least one half the time between Jan. 1, 1937 and the time he reached age 65. There were many people in the Lawrence area who could not meet this requirement. Some of them may have need, for instance, of twelve quarters of coverage, but had only nine quarters. These people were not "fully insured" and, therefore, could receive no benefits.

The amendments of 1950, which became effective Sept. 1, relaxed these requirements by stating that any person who became 65 before Sept. 1, would be "fully insured" if they had six quarters of coverage.

This immediately changed the picture for those persons who had been told previously that they had no benefits due them. They were now "fully insured" and all they had to do was to file a claim again. The Lawrence office has screened their files for these cases and have found approximately 500 persons who can be qualified under the 1950 amendments.

We have attempted to contact these persons by mailing them an application to complete and return to us. Unfortunately, some have moved and left no forwarding address.

There are undoubtedly many who knowing they did not have the necessary quarters did not contact this office. Of these of course, we have no record. We would advise these persons that if they worked 18 months or more between Jan. 1, 1937 and the time they reached age 65, they should inquire at the Lawrence Social Security office at 202 Broadway as to the possibility of their being entitled to benefits under the expanded act.

Garden Club Opens Season

Members of the Andover Garden Club met Tuesday morning, Oct. 2, at the Andover Inn for the first lecture of the new season. During the social period before the meeting coffee was served by Mrs. Henry S. Hopper, chairman of the hospitality committee, and her committee members Mrs. Foster C. Barnard and Mrs. Guy B. Howe.

Specimens of roses, chrysanthemums, autumn crocuses, and colchicum raised by members were on display.

New club members were distinguished by their gay corsages which Mrs. Robert Richards of Groveland had fashioned. The following have recently joined: Mrs. William J. Bride, Mrs. Thomas F. Critchley, Mrs. Douglas Donald, Mrs. John M. Kemper, Mrs. William W. Kurth, Mrs. Walter H. Partridge, Mrs. William G. Perry, Mrs. Edward Nichols, Mrs. William T. Rich, III, Mrs. Horace N. Stevens, Jr.

The horticultural committee consisting of Mrs. Charles W. Arnold, Mrs. John M. Stewart, and Mrs. Nathaniel Stowers have planned a series of twelve trips for the coming year. The first of these will take place at 10.30 a. m., Tuesday, Oct. 10, when the Waltham Field Station will be visited.

Mrs. Edwin L. Bramley, chairman of the conservation committee, announced that subscriptions to several magazines have been given to Memorial Hall library.

On Friday, Oct. 20 there will be a "Show Me" tour through Miss Bessie P. Goldsmith's Woodland. Those club members interested are asked to meet at Mrs. Frank M. Benton's, 9 Salem st. at 10:30. A box lunch, walking shoes and old clothes will be in order for those wishing to learn first hand the interrelation of soils, forests and water.

Each month Mrs. Robert Richards, chairman of flower arrangements, will illustrate various periods in flower arrangements. Her October creation was an interpretation of the Victorian done with perfect feeling for the rich color and mass of that time. The flowers in the bouquet were all from the garden of Mrs. L. Joseph Eno, a member from Atkinson, N.H.

Mrs. Frank M. Benton, president, introduced the speaker of the day, Arthur B. Beaumont, formerly a professor at the University of Massachusetts, now with the soil conservation service, U. S. Department of agriculture.

It must be remembered that the probable period of advance warning will not be sufficient to permit the movement of large numbers of people over considerable distances, hence, during an attack, persons must seek the nearest shelter even though its effectiveness may be less than desirable.

In residential areas the safest place for the householder to take shelter is in his own basement. If the house does not have a basement he should arrange with a neighbor to share the neighbor's basement.

Apartment house owners should select the most suitable sections of their basements and set aside sufficient space to accommodate all of the inhabitants of the building.

Owners of large department stores, office buildings, hotels, etc., should set aside sufficient space on basement floors to provide shelter for the normal number of occupants during periods of peak activity. Such shelters should not be marked outside the building as public shelters as they would be designed to accommodate only the building occupants.

The general characteristics of a good shelter will be described in a later issue.

Meanwhile Mr. Cole is preparing his study and survey of the personnel and equipment, supplies and facilities of the town which may be useful in carrying out preparations to cope with a major disaster or other emergency.

Anyone desiring further information on the civil defense program may reach him at his office on the second floor of the town house.

Civil Defense Instructions

"In one important respect the present emergency is unlike any other which the American people have been faced....Today we live in the era of the guided missile, the atomic bomb, the long range planes and submarines, capable of delivering attacks far from their home bases.

"In the light of recent experience it would be folly for this country to assume that it will remain forever free from such dangers....If the fighting in Korea should cease tomorrow our increased responsibility would still be with us."

From time to time instructions will be received at the local office which Director Cole will pass on to the public through newspapers.

The first bulletin notes that while future civil defense plans will doubtless provide for the selective and gradual construction of various types of shelters the immediate problem is to organize for the most effective use of existing means of shelter.

Any shelter is better than none in protecting the individual from the dangerous effects of the atom and direct radiation of an atom bomb burst.

It must be remembered that the probable period of advance warning will not be sufficient to permit the movement of large numbers of people over considerable distances, hence, during an attack, persons must seek the nearest shelter even though its effectiveness may be less than desirable.

New Teachers

 The superintendent was empowered to arrange for the board of public works to hot top the Bradlee school driveway at a cost not to exceed $300.
 Harold Howe II, Punchard headmaster, called attention to a new state law which says the principal shall be responsible for various monies in the school. He proposed that all monies such as class dues, class books and class gifts be brought together and set up under one account with Mervin E. Stevens, head of the commercial department, to administer it. He also proposed that $100 a year be paid to the person responsible.
 The board voted to approve Mr. Howe's plan for centralizing all high school activity finances and appropriated $100 a year to conduct the program.
 As for the athletic association which is much larger and more involved, the board decided at the suggestion of Mr. Howe to have it operate as at present. There is about $4000 annually involved in the school activities income and $6000 in sport. These will be consolidated into two funds.

 Supt. Kenneth L. Sherman suggested putting on an additional bus for the increased school population. After some discussion it was voted to have the superintendent make a survey of the bus situation and report back to the board.
 During a discussion of the music program it was suggested that J. Everett Collins, director of the Andover Male chorus, train a group of boys in choral work. It was decided to have Mr. Sherman make further study of the situation and report later.
 Doris Halbach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Halbach, 159 Lowell st., has begun her studies at Lasell Junior college in Autumn-dale.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

THE PRIMARY VOTE

Looking over the local vote in the recent primaries it is interesting to note the support given Daniel Needham and Arthur W. Coolidge in the six-sided Republican contest for governor. While Mr. Coolidge carried the state, Andover Republicans gave Mr. Needham, who made a personal visit to the town, 718 votes and the successful candidate only 695.

At the same time they endorsed the candidacy of former State Treasurer Fred J. Burrell with 1079 votes to 735 for Roy C. Papalis in the contest for treasurer.

Congressman Edith Nourse Rogers, running unopposed, got a splendid vote here and J. Everett Collins topped the list of six candidates in the contest for representative with 1672. Representatives Giles and Longworth with 1327 and 1305, respectively, followed in that order, winning the nominations.

On the Democratic side 543 members of that party voted here but 155 of them failed to mark their ballots for Governor Dever, who while unopposed, got only 388. Other unopposed candidates for renomination fared better. Cornelius J. Twomey for councilor received 468 Democratic votes, John E. Hurley for treasurer 449, Thomas J. Buckley for auditor 443, and John W. Coddair, Jr., for senator 429.

Even with a contest in a field of four Francis E. Kelly for attorney general got 415 votes and Joseph A. Horan, a local candidate in a six-man fight for representative, got 395, both more than the head of the ticket.

It's all food for thought, especially with the cracker-barrel debaters, but in the election next month the independent voter will have much to say about the outcome.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

Smoke filling the skies over the eastern section of the country for several days from the chain of forest fires raging along the Alcan highway and the Canadian Northwest makes a rather phenomenal prelude to Fire Prevention week which will be observed October 8 to 14.

The attention centered upon the great pall as it hung overhead should also serve as a reminder of the tremendous loss suffered annually from fires, most of them due to carelessness.

Each day there are hundreds of fires in American homes, stores, factories, schools and hospitals. Each year 11,000 Americans die needlessly in fires and twice that number are severely burned or disfigured for life.

These are just a few of the reasons why several agencies are cooperating in a drive to reduce fire and fire hazards.

With winter approaching they call attention to the advisability of making a check of heating systems, and to the care that should be taken to clean up accumulations about the house, in cellar or attic, that might easily be the cause of fire with the attendant danger, damage and destruction that make it such a menace.

By LEONARD F. JAMES

Military victory in Korea will not be enough. Merely to push the communist invaders back to the 38th parallel, artificially dividing south from north Korea, is not the real answer to the Korean issue. If the United Nations forces stop there, then everyone is just about where he started in June with the outbreak of hostilities. For it is axiomatic that the victor does not win a war just to regain the conditions that existed when the war started. He must finish off in a better position than before, so that trouble cannot start up again. But perhaps the problem of Korea is almost impossible of satisfactory solution.

Is Korean Solution Possible?

The primary aim of the United Nations must be to win the war and teach the aggressor a lesson. But how is this to be accomplished? Military success is now likely. The question is—What to do with victory? The Monday morning diplomat can come up with an easy answer. Korea should be united under an independent government which must be chosen in free and carefully supervised elections. The blue-print is easy to draw up. But it is the professional diplomat who must establish a workable policy, not just a theoretical one. And he is dealing with human beings, with foreign and ambitious powers, not merely with pencil and paper. Whatever he does will be open to criticism, largely because his critics will ignore the complexities of international relations and the constantly changing tactics of Russian policy.

Stop At 38th Parallel?

What are the practical problems that work against the setting-up of a free and independent Korea? Let's take the first alternative. Push the enemy back to the 38th parallel and hope that the communists have learned a lesson. Accept their word that the northern army will disperse to their homes and cease to be a future threat. Then hope for the best.

What do we do then? We must obviously station some kind of army in south Korea to protect it against another Russian-inspired attack. Would Russia sit idly by and accept what amounts to a defeat of one part of her policy? Would she accept the situation with good grace? Certainly not. She would set her propaganda machine to work and inform Asia that south Korea is nothing less than a bridgehead for continued western imperialism. Useless for us to deny it. Perhaps we know that we're doing the right thing. Would the Asiatics? The net result would be that Korea would resemble Germany. The country would continue to be divided into two parts, with the communists in the north certainly arguing that they are still the champions of unity and independent nationalism.

Or Take All Korea?

What's the other alternative? That the United Nations forces cross the 38th parallel and liberate North Korea from the regime that started the war. If it is assumed that Korea must have an independent government, some steps must be taken to guarantee it. And the first obvious step is to prevent crooked elections under communist control. Therefore, it would seem absolutely essential that our forces take over the whole of Korea. But that again is by no means so easy as a blue-print can make it seem. We are certainly aware that north Korea did not start the war alone. It is not just a civil war. Russia is testing out the will-power and the strength of the United States. Is it really to be supposed that Russia or Communist China would agree, either in the security council or in outside negotiations, to permit what are predominantly United States forces to overrun Korea and come up to their very frontiers?

Can We Win—Either Way?

What are we left with? Accept our success up to the 38th parallel and try to persuade everyone that we have succeeded in our purpose. Or face the not impossible issue of open conflict with Russia. If the United States forces do push into northern Korea, then we confirm the historic fears of Russian policy by putting her real enemy within fifty miles of Vladivostok. Some weeks ago it was reported that two Chinese armies moved up to the North Korean-Manchurian border. So far Russia appears not to have pushed Mao Tse-tung on Communist China into this war. But it is by no means improbable that advance by United Nations forces could be the signal for Chinese troops to start moving. This could mean real and total war.

What Are Our Intentions?

Whatever the decision, it must be sold to the American public—and not used as a political football for the forthcoming elections. We are potentially nearer to war than at any time since 1945. The survival of the United States should take precedence over party politics. The decision must be national and bi-partisan.

What Our Readers Say —

VOTING HOURS TOO SHORT

Editor of the Townsman:

In last week's issue you lamented the fact that "little more than one-third of the registered voters bothered to go to the polls" September 19th. You called this "Neglect of civic duty" "one of the unexplainable aspects of the primary election."

I agree that more should have voted but I think there is at least a partial explanation why so many did not cast their ballots. Neither my wife or I voted, although we fully intended to do so. We went away for a few days that week, and purposely delayed our departure from Andover from Monday until Tuesday morning because of the election. But when we tried to vote, about 8 a. m., on Tuesday, we found the polls would not open for another hour! We had to leave town without voting.

There were others at that same polling place at 8 o'clock that Tuesday morning and they were as surprised as we were that the polls were not open. Whether some of them voted later or not I do not know.

Many Andover people work in Boston. They must vote before they leave here, or after they return. Nine o'clock is too late for many to vote in the morning and 6 p. m., is not late enough to accommodate many at night.

It seems to me that those who in their "wisdom" decreed a shorter time for the polls to be open erred in their judgment. And your statement that "little more than one-third of the registered voters bothered to go to the polls" is hardly correct. How do you know how many people stayed away from the polls? Undoubtedly many tried to vote but were unable to do so because they were not allowed to vote before 9 o'clock or after 6 o'clock, the only hours they could have done so conveniently.

No, those who did not vote were not entirely to blame. The election officials deserve some of the censure.

They continued to flash a great offense and dominated the play until the third quarter. Toward the end, the unseasonal heat began to tell on the Danvers team when the Blue and Gold began to click and finally scored, after which Watson made the point that brought victory to the home team.

Need $1,200,000 For New Schools

A special town meeting will be called in a few weeks at which the report of the building committee will be submitted and a request made for funds to start the new buildings.

The school survey made in 1949 brought a report that six of the seven elementary school buildings are antiquated, that the number of available classrooms is insufficient.

The town meeting this year authorized the appointment of a building committee to bring in plans for these two new buildings. The firm of Tucker & Rich, architects was selected to make the drawings and Dr. Homer Anderson, former superintendent of schools in Newton, was engaged as educational consultant.

The question of a site for the central building presented no problem since the town has the land already available on Bardet street. The proposed plan is to eliminate the Dove and Stowe schools when the new building is completed, and retain the Jackson.

After several locations had been considered for the West Andover district the committee recommended the purchase of approximately 12 acres on Beacon street, well located as far as the school population is concerned and off the heavily traveled highway.

The one-story structure would have a kindergarten, an assembly room, a combined gym-cafeteria, rooms for the principal, a health clinic and a conference room as well as six classrooms.

The cost: Building $290,500; architects and consultant fees, $19,500; site improvement and sewage disposal, $20,000; furniture and furnishings, $15,000; land $5000; total $350,000.

The building for the center of the town would have 18 classrooms, an assembly room, a combined lunchroom and gym, and two kindergarten rooms.

At the time of the survey report there was considerable discussion about 12 classrooms for the center. The committee recommends plans for 18 rooms, stating that it costs more to make additions than to do all the work at once and if the Stowe school is to be continued considerable money must be spent for renovation and annual maintenance.

Cost of the central school: Building, $662,000; architects and consultants fees, $40,000; site improvement, $15,000; furniture and furnishings, $33,000; total, $750,000; contingencies, $100,000; cost of both, $1,200,000.

Members of the school building committee are Charles C. Kimball, chairman, Kenneth L. Sheman, secretary, Herbert P. Carter, Gordon L. Colquhoun, Roy E. Hardy, Harold T. Houston and Stanley F. Swanton.

Always a keen observer of human nature Miss Neidlinger keeps her audiences in continual laughter with reenactments of the most embarrassing and incorrect moments that have actually happened on the concert stage to the great and would-be prima donnas.

Punchard High

ASSEMBLY COMMITTEE

Farold Howe, II, headmaster, has appointed a number of faculty members from both junior and senior high schools to supervise weekly assemblies and to arrange a varied assembly program. The different types of assemblies—sports, movies, musical, cultural, current events—will be held in weeks to come.

Those on the faculty committee are as follows: Punchard, Charles Gregory, chairman; Miss Lillian J. E. Fox, Kenneth K. McKiniry, Donald D. Dunn, Bernard M. Kellmurray, and Mervin E. Stevens.

Junior high, Benjamin Dimlich, chairman; Miss Mabel Marshall, Miss Katherine Sweeney, Miss Alice Bisbee, and Robert Collier.

Assembly

In Monday's assembly Mr. Howe said that from the 94 students of the class of 1950, 55 have entered institutes of higher learning, with 35 attending four-year colleges. He also stressed the importance of doing good work all through high school and not just the senior year, since college entrance authorities judge applicants on work done in all four years of high school.

The pupils all enjoyed the showing of a short version of "Mutiny on the Bounty" with original cast.

Chest Essay Contest

The community chest is once again sponsoring a prize essay contest in which Andover pupils from grades 5-12 are participating. According to the bulletin put out by these sponsors, the purpose of the contest is "to encourage students to be concerned with the basic problems of people."

Thirteen essays, from Punchard will be submitted to the judges, representing the thirteen divisions of English. The winning class essayists will each receive a certificate while a grand total of 12 inscribed trophies and $300 in U. S. government bonds will be awarded the final winners of the contest.

The Punchard student council is launching a community chest drive to which all students are asked to contribute from their own earnings. The donations will be collected in a future assembly.

Service Club

The members of the Punchard service club held their first meeting last Thursday and elected their officers. Judy Marland was chosen president and Sally Bassett, secretary.

This club is composed of pupils who are interested in doing the small jobs which need to be done to help make Punchard more efficient. Each member receives points for his various "services" and when he has earned a sufficient number of points, he will be given a Punchard emblem.

Jonathan Travels... But Not Too Far!

Jonathan Swift

Dear Folks:

October 5, 1950

On Monday, October 9th, Jonathan Swift moves from 77 Main Street to 16 Park Street (opposite the Fire Station).

He has dusted off the counters of an old country store. Propped up the ceiling with "genuwine", hand-hewn beams and rolled out the buggy wheels of honest progress.

WHY? Because the old country store had a charm and friendliness all its own.

WHY? Young and old gathered around the Cracker Barrel... Jonathan has one, too!

WHY? You could count on your country store to offer the newest and finest wares at prices that couldn't be beat, by cracky!

WHY? The old principles of character, thrift and quality never changed... Jonathan's haven't either. He has just added a few modern improvements with a cinnamon-drop flavor.

So, come you all, October 9th, and give that Yankee caution a jolt! THE LID IS OFF THE BARREL.

Sincerely,

The Swifts
