Andover Building Permits Set Milk, Crops, All-Time July Record

Andover construction achieved an all-time record in the month just ended when building permits totaling $430,000.00 were issued by Ralph W. Coleman, inspector of buildings at town hall. The imposing amount is singular in that it represents all taxable property. The figure was double that of July, 1951.

Hay, Fruits Victims Of Dry Spell

The worst drought in 134 years has caused catastrophic damage to Andover's farmers, withering crops in the fields, denywithering ing them a second crop of hay for cattle and reducing fruit harvest expectations immensely, it was determined by the Andover Townsman in an extended survey of the situation. All farm products will be scarce and what is available will be offered at high prices to local consumers.

HEAVY LOSSES

Essex County Agricultural school estimated to the Townsman that truck farmers without methods of irrigation would lose from 50 to 90 per cent of the normal yield. They said that the normal Andover corn is 100 bushels per acre while this year the harvest might run as low as 10 bushels per acre. Tomatoes were yielding 50 per cent below normal. Fruits, which promised a slim season, because of poor Spring conditions, will be affected even more, with good apples, pears and peaches being rare items in the Fall market.

Hay Withered

Dairy farmers looked into a grim winter. Most farmers, those without irrigation, have lost their second crop of hay, which is usually the best. They are already feeding the first crop of hay to cattle. Milk production had dipped low and "he prospects of its increas ing are not overbright. Feed for the winter is the big problem with all indications being that milk prices will be boosted appreciably, owing to increased costs.

Even tightening the hay short-age is the fact that an embargo has been placed on Canadian hay, because of the foot and mouth disease, cutting off that source of supply. Andover farmers will have

Andover Farming

Revealing was the information given out by the Essex County Agricultural school as regards the extent to which Andover residents are devoted to farming. Latest figures available there indicate that 280,000 bushels of vegetables are marketed yearly by local farmers, who till about 800 acres of soil. They said Andover's 675 cows produced 2,053,000 quarts of

"GUYS AND DOLLS" - The current New York stage play of that name never brought more laughs and joy than the Doll Show staged at the Central playground recently. Above photo shows a galaxy of "dolls", live ones and manufactured ones. But, lo and behold, sitting right there in the middle of the picture is a real live little "guy" and he has his fa vorite doll clutched in his hands. ANDOVER LAWNS ARE THREATENED

Water is cheaper than grass seed.

Andover residents were advised Thursday by botan-ists associated with the Essex County Agricultural school to douse their lawns now or be prepared to buy grass seed in the Fall. They said that lawns should aversaid that lawns should average one inch of water per week to remain healthy.

A little water is worse than none at all, they explained as, they said, the watering should be sufficient to reach the roots. New lawns are most apt to fall victim to the dry spell owing to the fact that roots have not penetrated deeply into the earth. Best time for watering is the nighttime, they reported.

A Boon to Engineers

A new iron is now available for ndustry. Unlike ordinary cast iron it is not brittle and can be bent or twisted. The new material, known as Ductile Iron, can be made readily and economically and at the same time has several times greater strength than ordinary cast iron with greater ductility and shock resistance. It is now being used for production of jobbing castings and a variety of shapes ranging up to fifty thousand pounds in weight. Typical applications of Ductile Iron include pipe, crank shafts, plow shares, annealing pots, screw clamps, and a variety of other parts.

The Candidates

Despite all the shenanigans at Chicago the delegates to the recent conventions came up with nominees whom political observers across the nation consider to be each party's strongest candidate.

In Dwight D. Eisenhower and Adlai E. Stevenson the American voters have before them two highprincipled men who will conduct the coming campaign for President of the United States on a clean and high plane in keeping with the deep regard they have for that exalted office.

In many respects their selection by the conventions was somewhat similar. Each was sought for the job and as a resultenters the campaign free from the yoke of any particular group or person.

Both are men of high calibre and in recent speeches reveal they have a complete grasp of the task before them, not the least of which is to bring unity within the ranks of their parties.

Both realize the challenge confronting us by forces both at home and abroad, yet with due humility are prepared to face the critical problems that face this nation's leader, and buoyed by a rugged idealism and high regard for America's destiny are certain to place our country's welfare above all other considerations.

The selection of two such men of high integrity augurs well for the future.

This being general election year, we're going to hear a lot about economy in government - indeed, we'll hear about umpty thousand times as much as we'll see. - Bridgeport (Conn.) Post.

Some campaign whispers seem to have a loud speaker attachment.

Tree Warden Sticks To Guns; Protesting Workers' Return

THURSDAY

Tree Warden George Abbott stuck to his guns after having discharged Leo Pimpare, River st., Ballard-vale, from his $58 per week job in the Tree and Moth department, despite the fact that three of Pimpare's fellow workers in the department quit their jobs briefly in protest to the dismissal. He moved into regular employment one of the men who had quit his job in protest to Pimpare's firing.

More than two weeks ago Tree Warden George Abbott discharged Leo Pimpare from his duties. He informed Pimpare that he was being informed Pimpare that he was being replaced because he was not a veteran and his appointment was only temporary. Two days after the firing, three other workers in the department left their jobs in protest. They were John Lynch, Harry Reidy and Herbert Lister. Two workers in the department, James Buss Sr. and James Buss Ir. continued to stay on the job.

Jr. continued to stay on the job.
On the next Monday's meeting of the selectmen, the matter was aired in closed session. The issue was discussed further during the following week and the three pro-testing workers were reinstated in their jobs but the status of Pimpare remains unchanged.

On Monday of this week the three employees resumed their employment and Herbert Lister was given regular status, having previously been a temporary worker. Lister worked in the department for a year and a half up to Oct. 1951 and worked the last six weeks of 1951. He resumed employment on June 1 of 1952.

As a result of the firing of Pimpare, charges flew hot and heavy. Speaking for himself, Pimpare said he was being replaced because his superior believed he planned to run for the office of tree warden at the next town election. He said he has been a permanent employee of the department since last September.

Tree Warden Abbott, who has headed the department for the past 17 years, said that when he told Pimpare that he was going to replace him with a "veteran" he meant a veteran of the tree department as well as a veteran of the military service. He said that he had never heard Pimpare was going to run for the office of tree warden to run for the office of tree warden and that this would in no way enter into the controversy.

Also taking a voice in the issue were the four veteran posts in An-dover. Commanders of these military organizations announced that they are dedicated to protect the rights of veterans but they would not urge that a man be deprived of his means of livelihood because he

Strawberries

Even next year's strawberries have been hard hit by the summer dry spell. A large Andover strawberry farmer said that this year's crop was only 25 per cent of normal, where no irrigation existed. He said that next year's strawberries are dependent on this year's runners and only 10 per cent of them are growing in desired strength. Round Up

Round Up

The round-up picture was a black one for the farmers, who derive a livlihood from their hard battle with the soil. But even equally concerned was the Andover housewife who tries to present a nourishing menu in an era when living costs challenge the family living costs challenge the family pocketbook.
