The Newspaper Leads

In the comparatively recent past, the local newspaper was about the only place where merchants could advertise their wares. Since then, other important media have come into existence - notably the radio and television. But, despite the inroads these have made on retailers' advertising budgets, the newspaper is still the dominant factor in the field by a wide margin.

That statement is substantiated by a recent survey of the advertising practices of department stores in all sections of the country. It found that the typical store allocated 80 per cent of the advertising dollar to newspapers, nine per cent to television, four per cent to radio, three per cent to direct mail, and four per cent to other media.

The local newspaper offers the surest means of reaching the masses of the people - whether with a news story or an editorial opinion or an advertising message. And that's why merchants place it first when dividing up their advertising appropriations.

Incidentally, one wonders if there are still people who regard advertising as a waste which adds unnecessarily to the cost of goods. Actually advertising acts as a possible factor in holding prices down by creating the widest possible demand for merchandise, and thus making mass production and mass distribution possible.

The Biggest Pie Eater

All of us - workers, consumers, investors - have a direct interest in progressive, profitable, and expanding industry. What isn't so generally realized is that government has a tremendous interest in this

Last year's financial experience in a big manufacturing company is fairly typical. It paid salaries and other employee costs of $1,146,700,000. It declared dividends of $121,600,000, which went to the shareowners who made its existence possible. And it set aside for taxes the neat sum of $422,500,000. After government takes this first bite out of the owner's earnings, it takes a second bite out of what is left and paid him in dividends.

In other words, the workers get the biggest cut of the financial pie. Government is next, and the owners run third.

It was private capitalism which made this nation strong and great, and without which dictatorship, tyranny and decay are just around the corner. Marion, (Ind.) Observer.

POLICE SEEK WEAPONS OWNED BY TEEN-AGERS

Atty. Gen. George Fingold that was issued after a recent school fatality in the Greater Boston area has been read by Patrolman Robert V. Deyermond in all of the schools.

The purpose of this safety measure by police is not so much to make it unpleasant for anybody' but to know where such weapons are and what control they are under.

To date the police have taken a
.60 mm automatic pistol of German make, a Japanese army rifle, and sling shots from teenagers. The sling shots were taken only after they had caused damage.

Police also recovered a cutlass and other Civil War weapons that were taken about a week ago in a break at the Andover Historical Society. Three lads, two from Shawsheen and one from Lawrence made the break and took several weapons in a display. They have been returned.

Since the Fingold announcement was read in the schools several boys have come forward voluntarily with information that they have collection of firearms at their homes. Nothing will be done to prevent such collections, the police being interested principally knowing where they are and who is responsible for them.

Police are concerned mainly with knowing if small firearms or switch-blade knives are in the possession of teen-agers, and request information of anyone knowing of such cases.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASE

MUST BE REPORTED

The board of health is giving notice that any physician who visits a case involving a contagious disease must report it to the board in writing. This also applies to parents or a guardian if there is no physician.

Any child who is absent from school because of a contagious disease must have a note from his physician or school doctor before returning to school.
