DEVELOPMENT COMMITTEE WILL MEET MONDAY

The newly-appointed industrial development committee will meet next Monday night in the town hall.

Selectman Stafford Lindsay, secretary of the board, notified the five members of the committee of the meeting.

At that session, called for for 7:30 in the welfare office the committee will elect a chairman and secretary. They are expected to review the town's problems and determine a course of action.

Members of the committee are William W. Rhoads, 15 Cabot rd.; Robert A. Watters, 5 William st.; David M. Thompson, Porter rd.; King MacRury, Lowell st. and Harry Axelrod, Alden rd.

An additional $200,000 was voted for the new high school Monday night at a special town meeting.

Four hundred and twenty votes were counted for the proposal and only 24 against it, after an hour of debate which featured sharp questioning of the building committee by interested citizens.

The outcome seemed constantly in doubt, as a sizeable group of the 528, citizens checked in applauded vigorously any statement or question designed to prove that the money should not be appropriated.

However, when the actual votes were counted, only 24 adamant individuals stood publically against the measure. Some were observed who did not vote at all, however.

Both the finance committee and the Taxpayers association went on record for the appropriation, as

TOWN MEETING APPROVES MONEY

 did several individuals speaking from the floor.

Brimer For Article
 Wallace E. Brimer, describing himself as a man who "has the reputation of trying to save in spite of everything" urged adoption of the article.

He told the voters that the project would cost more later, so it should be begun now.

Many Questions Asked
 Searching questions from the floor covered almost every step that the high school building committee has taken since the town meeting last spring when the money was originally voted.

Citizens asked whether the school could not be planned to come within the money voted then; whether savings could be effected by cutting down the auditorium now planned for 750; if rebidding would result in savings; whether ledge might be expected when excavation begins for the building; how the architect is paid and how much; how the Stoneham high school compares with the one planned here.

Building committee Chairman Gordon Colquhoun answered most questions, with the occasional assistance of members Stanley F. Swanton and Melvin L. Weiner.

In response to one question as to the type of assistance of a professional nature available to the committee in its planning, Mr. Weiner pointed out that meetings had been open but few if any citizens had come forward with help. Thus, the committee had to do the best it could, he added. The questioner had been requesting detailed information about ledge and site borings prior to the remarks by Mr. Weiner.

No One Feels Worse
 "I don't think there's anyone who feels worse about this than the building committee," Chairman Colquhoun told the voters.

He listed the various steps taken by the committee since the spring town meeting and itemized the problems encountered in attempting to find savings which would bring the structure within the original estimate of $1,300,000. Those savings could not be found, he reported. "It is both legally and morally right" to come back to the voters with the problem, he said.

Lose Investment In Plans
 It was pointed out several times during the meeting that the school could not be built at its present size without the extra money. The redrawing of plans necessitated by radically changing the concept of the building would cause the loss of some $70,000 already invested in the plans, it was stated. When the question was first put to the meeting by Moderator Roland Sherman, most voters stood in favor of the article.

His request that a count be avoided by making the vote unanimous was foiled by several shouts of "No" so the count was taken by the selectmen.

Continuance Allowed To Friday In Case Of Preston Steele

A local motorist, Preston S. Steele, 49, 430 Andover st., has been held in $525 bail by Lawrence district court Judge John J. Darcy, following three charges against him by local police.

His case will be heard tomorrow, the result of a continuance requested by Police Chief David Nicoll in court Oct. 8.

Steele was charged by police with operating while under the influence of liquor, leaving the scene of an accident after causing damage to a fence owned by the town and drunkenness. He pleaded not guilty to the charges.

Police told the court that Steele driving his car, sideswiped the town fence at Phillips and Central streets; continued and turned into Abbot st., where he drove over a low stone wall and across a front lawn, cutting down several small trees while so doing; then drove back across Abbot st. where he hit another stone wall.

Steele was taken to the Lawrence General hospital by Patrolman Duncan Cairnie, where he was treated for a cut over his right eye. His car was towed away.

The continuance was granted after Chief Nicoll told the court that the defendant was the only injured party although considerable property damage was caused.

Troop 71, sponsored by Shawsheen P.T.A., was awarded a Class B camping award in its first participation in a district camp-o-ree, held at Treanor's Hobby Horse farm. The troop received its charter in June with 15 boys registered. They have shown much enthusiasm since organizing and have worked hard toward advancement in scout craft.

The camp-o-ree was attended by seven scouts and senior patrol leader Gordon Schwartz, who recently passed his eagle rank before the council board of review. The formal eagle presentation will be made at a special ceremony to be announced at a later date. The following scouts: Quartermaster Doug Robertson, Scribe Hugh Blackmer, Bruce Schwartz, Jeff Davis, George Snow Jr. and Robert Hanson, were under the leadership of troop committee chairman George Snow and troop committeeman Ray Bevan and Scoutmaster Arthur J. Walsh.

Historical Society Meeting Oct. 18; Exhibit Is Planned

The semi-annual meeting of the Andover Historical society will be held Oct. 18 at 8 p.m. in the Amos Blanchard house, 97 Main st.

Guest speaker at the meeting will be Henry D. Grimes of Methuen, a descendant of Hannah Duston. His talk will be about his ancestor.

In other Historical society activities, it has been announced that a memorial exhibit of the art work of Mrs. Gilbert N. Jones, who died here in 1953 in her 90th year, will be open to the public during the remainder of the month.

Mrs. Jones was a member of Mrs. Esther Stevens Brazer's first class in stencilling and painting of early American decoration. That craft had become practically a lost art until Mrs. Brazer revived it. Mrs. Jones work, at the exhibit, will include painted trays, samples of designs and the steps used in transferring the designs and painting them, samples of her watercolor painting, pieces of jewelry, tools and other items.

GEORGE WALKUP KILLED IN FALL

fell some 12 feet when a staging between two ladders toppled, according to police. They said one of the ladders broke, causing the staging to fall.

Mr. Walkup's companion on the job, Joseph Berthiaume, 52, of Gilbert st., Lawrence, also fell but landed on a grassy plot. Mr. Walkup is said to have landed on his head on a hot-top driveway.

The fire department ambulance was summoned and took him to the hospital about 4:30 p.m.

Mr. Walkup was a member of the firm of George E. Walkup and Son, painting contractors. A resident of No. Andover for a year, he was a native of No. Reading.

A resident of 738 Waverly rd., No. Andover, he was a veteran of World War II, seeing duty aboard the USS Boston, a cruiser which saw service in the Pacific. He had also been stationed in Japan during his tour of duty.

Mr. Walkup was an attendant at St. Michael's church, No. Andover.

He is survived by his wife, Alice (Hajj) Walkup; a daughter, Mary Ann; his parents, George E. Walkup of this town and Mrs. William Nickerson of Providence, R.I.; three sisters, Yvonne, wife of William Bower of Providence, R.I.; Rose, wife of John Sowinski of New York and Virginia Walkup of this community; a brother, Arthur Walkup, also is an Andover resident. Also surviving are several nieces and nephews.

The funeral will be held today from the John Breen funeral home, 6 Tremont st., Lawrence.

SHAWSHEEN P. T. A. AGREES TO ADDITION

A large gathering heard several questions on the subject, including a query about using the old, abandoned Richardson school for some grades, thereby easing the condition in the Shawsheen school.

Other questions included the use of prefabricated school buildings, as is being done in a few communities; the possibility of getting another architect's opinion about the addition and the chance that the school, with addition, might be outdated in five or six years.

The discussion resulted from a report of the Pearley F. Gilbert associates to the school committee stating that some $100,000 would have to be spent in the present school in order to add the four rooms.

Much of the work, the architects said, must be done if the addition is to be undertaken. Thus, they recommended a new school rather than spend $100,000 for repairs plus $85,000 for the rooms themselves.

Richard Stevens Is Fish Expert For State Of Wisconsin

Richard I. Stevens, son of Mrs. Clinton H. Stevens, 72 Morton st., is an ace trouble-shooter for the conservation department in Wisconsin.

A recent article on his activities, appearing in the Milwaukee Journal, described Stevens' duties in the state's fish hatcheries.

Stevens, while working for the state, is studying for his doctorate at the University of Wisconsin. He received bachelor's and master's degrees from Brown university. He graduated from Phillips Academy in 1943.

His work includes experimental projects in attempts to get brown trout to spawn several months earlier than usual; treatment of deceased fish through injections of drugs into food pellets and investigation of various feeding methods.

Recently, Stevens devised a system that allows the big tank trucks to carry twice as many trout as before. He noticed that the trout seemed to gather in the tank's corners during a trip, so he had dividers placed in the tanks — creating more corners.

United Fund Plans Residential Canvass

Special gifts to the Greater Lawrence United Fund are running 10 percent over last year's gifts in that category for the three agencies conducting the drives.

Chairman Stafford A. Lindsay announced this week that $16,000 has been raised so far, only in the big gifts division.

It represents a 10 percent increase over the 1954 total for the United Fund, Red Cross and Visiting Nurse association, he explained.

The mercantile division, under Dr. Douglas M. Dunbar, began its solicitations this week, Selectman Lindsay announced.

Scheduled to begin its drive next Tuesday is the house-to-house division, under Red Cross executive Secretary Barbara Loomer.

That group will continue to canvass until the 25th, when a report will be made by team captains at the Red Cross headquarters on Elm st. Miss Loomer said it is hoped that everyone will have been seen by that time.

The Abbot academy and Phillips academy chairmen are already conducting their solicitations, Mr. Lindsay reported.

As plans were being made for the house-to-house canvass, six meetings were held in the town's precincts. Representatives of the United Fund spoke to the workers and gave instructions on the solicitation.

Students Constructed Coffins In Harriet Beecher Stowe's Home

By KAY NOYES

The stately stone house once situated on Chapel ave. on the site of what is now the Andover Inn was the residence of Harriet Beecher Stowe, author of one of the most highly controversial novels on slavery.

Contrary to popular belief "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was not written in this house but rather an addendum to the book, "Key to Uncle Tom's Cabin", which was started one week after the Stowe family occupied the stone house in December of 1852, was written there. Mrs. Stowe named the house the "Stone Cabin" which had originally been built in 1828 as a gymnasium "to strengthen the bodies" of the Andover Theological students. Ironically enough, it later became a workshop for manual training students whose specific task at that time was the making of coffins.

As a professor at Andover Theological Seminary, Calvin Stowe and his family were given permission by the faculty to live in the remodeled coffin shop, which had been transformed by the care and ingenuity of this exuberant mother of seven children into a pleasant home for her brood.

Social Activity Shocking
Never before had Andover Hill been the scene of so much social activity as she created. Being a woman of abounding enthusiasm, she opened her house for parties, concerts, and merrymakings until "the trustees looked grave and expressed doubts of the influence upon the Seminary of so much gaiety". It is said that she was extremely fond of tableaux and charades and once prepared a Christmas tree with a variety of humorous presents for a faculty party, which was quite a shocking event as Christmas parties at that time were unheard of.

Rode White Horse

She was also very fond of the out-of-doors and was frequently seen riding through the town on a white horse. Pomp's Pond was a favorite spot for her horseback riding parties as was Prospect Hill, where the Charles Ward Reservation is located. Her beautiful hymn, written in 1855, which goes, "Still, still with Thee when purple morning breaketh", was inspired by the panoramic view from this spot.

Lost Her Son

Her memories of 12 years in Andover were not all happy ones. While visiting with a friend in New York, she received a telegram that her beloved son, Henry, a freshman at Dartmouth, had been drowned. She returned home to find her son's body in its casket and the house filled with weeping classmates who had escorted it down from the college.

A year after her loss she wrote "The Minister's Wooing", a novel inspired by her tragedy and expressing another mother's feelings over the loss of a son at sea. The mother in her novel went insane, which could well have been her fate had it not been for the severe doctrines instilled in her as a child.

Moved To Hartford

In 1864, Professor Stowe left his position at the Seminary and the family moved to Hartford, Conn., thus the Andover chapter came to an end.

The stone house was then used as a dormitory for the students and was being referred to as "Uncle Tom's Cabin" by the people of the town.

Became An Inn

Around 1887, a large frame structure, such as you see in the picture, was added to the house and for 42 years it was used as an inn.

In 1929, the original building was moved to Bartlet st. where it still stands being used as a faculty building for Phillips academy.

Famed Works

The now famous works that Mrs. Stowe wrote while in this old house will never pass out of history and such praise and glory as she received in this country as well as abroad has never before been bestowed upon any citizen of Andover.

The beautiful Chapel cemetery at Phillips Academy, near the site of her old home which she loved so much, is the final resting place of the little woman whose book was instrumental in igniting the fuse that exploded the struggle between the States.

Well Done!

The voters are to be congratulated on their action at town meeting Monday night.

The decision to make $200,000 available now for the new high school appears sensible — despite the fact that the extra money no doubt will have an impact on the tax rate during the next few years.

Wallace Brimer, describing himself as a man who has a reputation for saving money, urged the voters to adopt the article because costs would be greater at a later date.

It was just that point, apparently, which did a lot to convince the voters of the wisdom of appropriating the money.

The School Building committee also built a convincing case for the added sum. It was pointed out that, while savings will be made whenever possible, it would be humanely impossible to cut off $200,000 from the cost of the building and its equipment without drawing plans for an entirely different school of less capacity.

To justify their decision, the voters need only to know that a national report on school building costs, just released, tells the story of boosted material costs throughout the nation. It tells us that bids on new schools are coming in between 10 and 12 percent over estimates in many sections of the nation — not only here in Massachusetts. Thus, the problem is of national scope and need not — and should not — be thought of in terms of an architect's error here.

We believe that the building committee has done a good job in its work to date — and that the architect is capable.

We wish them good fortune in the busy weeks and months ahead, as the problems of construction and equipment will no doubt pose many problems requiring quick, sensible solutions.

"Uncle Sam has a boarding house reach when it comes to grabbing tax money. The states get only the leavings."

Reading Beats Punchard, 19-14

Reading high school, coming from behind in the final quarter, beat Punchard 19-14, Monday afternoon at the playstead.

Reading took an early lead in the game, when Bill McMahon ran the kickoff some 84 yards for the touchdown.

Late in the second quarter, McMahon intercepted a Punchard pass and Reading scored two plays later.

In the final moments of the first half, Punchard scored on a 67-yard pass play from Bill Fisher to Fullback Dick Smith. Fisher was moved from his end position to a halfback spot, took a lateral from Quarterback Bill Vickers deep behind the Punchard 33-yard line and let fly to Smith, on the Reading 25. Smith took the pass without breaking stride and went over for the TD.

In the third quarter, Punchard scored quickly after taking the kickoff. They moved to the Reading 29 in seven plays; Vickers passed to Fisher at the 12 and on fourth down, Vickers flipped to George Reed for the second Punchard touchdown. A fake placement play, when Alex Thompson threw to Fisher, scored the point and Punchard led, 14-13.

In the fourth period, Punchard had the ball on the Reading seven, with three downs to make two yards. They hit the middle of the Reading line three times without picking up the two yards, turning the ball over to Reading on its 5½-yard line.

An illegal Punchard substitution, moments later, set up a Reading first down on its own 38. A few plays later, McMahon received a 50-yard pass play from Quarterback Russ Runge, scoring the winning touchdown.

Many fans at the game thought Punchard had gained possession of the ball just before that final pass by the Reading squad.

It was on a pass play, with the ball popping out of the Reading man's hands and into the waiting fingers of a Punchard man. Interference was called, however, with the ball going to Reading.

Earlier in the game, when McMahon took off on his long run on the kickoff, many fans thought he stepped out of bounds at the Punchard 16 — feet from where he caught the kick. Head Linesman Harold Driscoll said "no", however and allowed the play to stand.

Punchard's next game will be Saturday afternoon at Chelmsford.

An interesting service was held last Sunday night in the Baptist church when the Rev. A. T. Belknap officiated for the last time in the church he has served for five years. The event was made the occasion of a united farewell by the other Protestant churches of the town.

The fall meeting of the North Essex Congregational club was held in the dining hall of Phillips academy Monday evening. The club was guest of the Seminary church.

The Seaman's Friend society held the first social of the season last Friday evening in the West Parish church vestry.

The clambake held by the Andover Athletic association in the clubhouse last Saturday afternoon was a huge success.

The annual meeting of the Andover Guild was held Tuesday evening at Guild house. Speaker was the Rev. H. Usher Munro, rector of St. Paul's church in No. Andover.

Neighbors' night was observed by Andover Grange Tuesday night. Over 160 persons partook of a bountiful supper prepared by ladies of the home Grange after they witnessed a baby show put on by the No. Andover Grange and heard a reading by a member of the No. Reading Grange.

The snow rollers which were recently purchased by the town arrived last Saturday morning and occasioned quite a bit of curiosity. There are two of them, each weighing 4380 pounds. Four horses abreast can be used on them.

25 Years Ago — October 1930

Flames swept through the Kellog Boynton house on Hidden rd. Sunday night. The house is owned by H. Bradford Lewis. Blames on defective wiring, the flames destroyed an ell and gutted the upper story, with considerable damage to the ground floor from smoke and water. Many academy boys helped carry furniture out of the house when it appeared that the whole structure might burn.

Arthur L. Coleman, commander of American Legion post 8, was chosen to serve a second term at a meeting in Legion hall Tuesday night.

The annual memorial Mass for the deceased members of Andover Council 1078, Knights of Columbus, was sung in St. Augustine's church Columbus day morning at 7:30 with a large delegation from the Council's membership present.

Mrs. Mary Pitkeathly of Maple ave. was tendered a farewell party recently at the home of Mrs. Minnie Rodger on Maple ave. Mrs. Pitkeathly will leave soon for Scotland after spending the past 15 years here.

The Andover Mother's club sponsored a whist party recently at the home of Mrs. Ralph Berry on High st.

The sophomore class at Punchard will tender a reception to the freshman class in the Punchard auditorium this evening. Allan Milnes is chairman of the social committee arranging the affair.

All donations of articles for the hope chest to be given away at the annual fair of the Andover Fraternal Building association should be in the hands of the committee as soon as possible.

The camp of George Lannan on River rd. was destroyed by fire early Monday morning. The department was called at 3:30 a.m.

10 Years Ago — October 1945

C. Carleton Kimball was elected chairman of the Andover Chapter, American Red Cross, at the annual meeting Sunday evening. The meeting heard an interesting report from Ruth Hayes, a local girl whose Red Cross unit was the first to land in France after D-Day.

Mrs. Mary Collins Regan, town accountant for 15 years, has resigned. George C. Napier has been appointed to the position by the selectmen.

Carl H. Stevens, veteran of both World Wars, has been installed as commander of American Legion post 8. He is a police officer.

The Andover P.T.A. will hear a discussion of a proposed new school at a meeting in Memorial auditorium Wednesday evening. School committee chairman Arthur Lewis will tell the members about the school.

A series of dances will be held this month by the Andover Guild. Master of ceremonies will be Benjamin Dimlich.

Reading high, with three wins to its credit this year, will meet Punchard Saturday at the playstead. Reading beat Danvers earlier this season, while Punchard lost to the down-county team.

The Phillips academy eleven, having beaten Harvard B. team, will try to out-score the Yale B. team this Saturday, in one of the most important games on its schedule. There will be a tea dance following the game and the Phillipian will issue an extra immediately after the game.

The Pioneer Group, made up of librarians from towns about the size of Andover, met at the Memorial Hall library last Wednesday. About 20 attended.

meeting overwhelmingly approved the article for money to allow its completion. (Look Photo)

CRUCIAL SCHOOL MEETING TUESDAY

combined boards will have before them a recommended school site in the Elm st.-Westwind rd. area, which might take some of the pressure off the Central school and draw some students from the Shawshen school as well.
Although near Carmel woods, the site - as recommended by Engineer Clinton Goodwin and Consultant Nord Davis - lies on some 12 acres of flat land. It was proposed by Mr. Goodwin at a planning board meeting recently. Carmel woods has often been discussed as a site for a new school by some members of the school committee.

The planning board has already received a report from its engineer on a proposed school site in Ballardvale. He recommended the ball field - a location almost universally accepted because of its location, topography and ownership by the town.

It is expected that the joint meeting next week will also discuss a recent report by the architects - Perley F. Gilbert and associates - concerning the Shawshen school situation. That report was made available to the planning board and has been studied by both Goodwin and Davis.

B. P. W. Can't Spend Money For Drainage

The board of public works may not spend any of the money voted for drainage at the town meeting last spring.

That ruling was received from Town Counsel Vincent Stulgis, after the board asked him to decide whether money already voted could be spent, even though it would not complete the projects — Rogers brook, Shawsheen Heights and related jobs.

The BPW has about $221,000 available, voted last spring. A special town meeting, at which an additional $305,000 was requested for the same drainage projects, failed because far less than a quorum was present.

In presenting his ruling, Atty. Stulgis referred to General Laws, Chapter 44, Section 20, relating to proceeds of the sale of bonds to be used only for purposes specified. His ruling said:

Ruling

"My interpretation and opinion of this statute is that you must be able to do the entire job with the said funds; or if the bids are above the appropriations, then to ask the town meeting for further funds; otherwise you must abandon this project until sufficient funds are available. The article as spelled out and voted at town meeting on the above mentioned projects specifies what work shall be done and therefore must be strictly complied with.

"This same rule applies even where funds are raised by taxation and no bond issue is involved. The above opinion is supported by authoritative sources".

BIG PARTY FOR CHILDREN COMING

committee's office in town hall last week made tentative plans for the town-wide parties. Representatives of various civic and social groups were at the meeting, as were members of the recreation committee.

They planned to have parties in Ballardvale community hall, West Center school hall, North District Improvement association hall and in Memorial auditorium.

Younger Folks

The younger children will start their parties at 7 p.m., following the horribles parade at 6:30. After games and refreshments, they will give way to the Hallowe'en dance in Memorial auditorium for the teen-agers, slated for 8:30 p.m.

The Punchard Girls band will lead the horribles parade which will form in the square at 6:30. Francis Markey, secretary of the Recreation committee, said the usual route is up Main st. to either Chestnut st. or Punchard ave. and thence to the auditorium.

Prizes, some donated by merchants and organizations, will be given for the best costumes.

Meeting Oct. 17

Final plans for the gala affair will be made at a general meeting Oct. 17 in town hall at 7:30. Mr. Markey has issued an invitation to anyone interested in the program to attend.

At the meeting last week were Recreation committee members George Stanley, L. Gleyne Yeaton, Walter Pearson, Bart Smalley and Francis P. Markey.

Others attending were Mrs. Yvonne Moreau, Mrs. Harold Cook-son, Alfred Moreau and Mrs. Helen L. Robinson, all of the North District Improvement association; George Snyder, representing the playgrounds; Edward F. Gregg of West Elementary P.T.A.; John F. Tansey Jr., Shawsheen P.T.A.; Douglas Hutcheson, American Legion, Post 8; Anna F. Walsh, Teachers association; Mrs. Vicky Wrigley, Ballardvale P.T.A.; Headmaster Lindsay March, Punchard high school; Raymond Pellerin, D.A.V., Chapter 18; Thomas P. Eldred, V.F.W. Meeting Oct. 18 To Decide Future Of Home For Aged

The Andover Home for Aged People at 4 Punchard ave. has temporarily closed.

William D. McIntyre, president of the board of trustees, explained this week that the closing may be only temporary.

He explained that two residents of the Home have been transferred to the Nevins home in Methuen, where hospital facilities and nursing care are available. Those facilities are not available at the home here.

Mr. McIntyre pointed out that the same overhead expenses are required for two patients as for six or more. Thus, he said, it was decided that it would be more practical to transfer present residents to the Nevins home than to try to keep the necessary help on duty here.

Applications for residence in the home will still be received, he said. They will possibly be transferred to the Nevins home, however. Mr. McIntyre said the local board of trustees will remain and that the organization will certainly stay active.

A meeting Oct. 18 at the Home will determine whether the home here will be reopened and under what conditions the reopening might take place. Also to be discussed is the possibility that future applications for residence may be sent to the Methuen home with the local trustees screening the applications and offering other assistance.

Mr. McIntyre explained that it is difficult to get a matron now, due to the long hours required.

Bloodmobile Here Monday-Tuesday At Free Church

The Red Cross bloodmobile will be at the Free church next Monday and Tuesday from 1-7 p.m.

Frank M. Lilley, chairman of the blood program here, has explained that walk-in donors will be accommodated between appointments with as little delay as possible, but that appointments can still be made by calling 1496.

He has also pointed out that under the new policy of the Massachusetts Red Cross, each donor protects his own and his family's blood needs for one year. The only charge, he has explained, would be a hospital fee for administering the blood.

Members of business firms or other organizations also have their blood needs and those of their families protected for a year of their organization meets its quota of donated blood. Any donor whose place of business is out of town may ask that credit for the donation be given to his place of business.

Transportation to the free church will be provided on request and baby-sitter service will be available at the church, Mr. Lilley said.

PUPPET SHOW TUESDAY AT MEMORIAL LIBRARY

A very special puppet show is being presented to the young people of Andover at the Memorial library on Tuesday afternoon Oct. 18 at 3:45.

The young puppeteers who worked so hard this past summer making puppets have prepared a play, based on the story of the "Five Chinese Brothers", by Claire Huchet Bishop. Michael Azarian, Chuckie Smith, Teddy Smith and Billy McCarthy are going to take the parts (it could be that one man in his time will play many parts!)

Tickets are necessary for all who wish to attend. There is no charge for these, but they must be asked for beforehand.
