Lack Of Town Facilities Cited

The planning board has banned all sub-divisions in a huge block of land bordering on No. Andover — including proposed developments off Elm st. — until the town's master plan is completed.

That carefully-considered move came Monday night after the board saw preliminary plans of still another major development in that area.

300 New Homes

In all, plans are before the board for some 125 homes in that area. Developers have also verbally told the planning board of an additional 160 at the Flying

Plan Parties, Parades For Halloween Night

Andover youngsters will eat 6000 cookies the night of Oct. 31.

And lucky boys and girls will get a fist full of pennies while others eat a variety of "delicacies".

All this will go on at the annual parties for the youngsters Halloween night.

The Recreation committee and representatives of PTA groups and other organizations have planned fun and food for boys and girls in each section of town except Shawsheen. There, a vote was taken not to have a party as

New School For Vale

The school committee will ask the town meeting next March for a new school in Ballardvale.

Chairman Anna Greeley told a joint meeting of the planning board, school committee and members of the finance committee that the board will go ahead with plans for a school to replace the Bradlee school.

Members of the planning board agreed that the most important school need at the moment is replacement of the Bradlee with a building that will also take some of the children now being transported to Central school.

Another new school, it was generally agreed, will be needed in the Elm st. area, where the plan-

Selectman Stafford A. Lindsay, chairman of the drive here, said that amount represents special and big gifts but does not include any of the schools nor the house-to-house canvass.

Other big and special gifts still are expected, he pointed out.

VOTE PROMPT ADDITION TO SHAWSHEEN SCHOOL

The four-room addition to the Shawsheen school will be built.

The school committee Tuesday night voted to add the four rooms, with a representative of Perley F. Gilbert associates promising to have preliminary plans ready in three weeks and final plans within two months. Bids, he said, could be requested before the end of the year. Work on the addition should be complete by next September, it was indicated.

Miss Hodges Tells Of Travel

MISS MARY J. HODGES

Miss Mary Jane Hodges of Shawshen has just completed a series of travel talks at the Memorial Hall Library.

The three meetings were based on pictures taken during her three trips to Europe and a recent tour around the world.

The library hopes to continue with a discussion group, whose primary interest will be travel, its philosophic and aesthetic aspects.

Miss Hodges has been associated with book and magazine publishing in New York for the past four years. The study of journalism and the fine arts have afforded her a dual role as interpreter of such interesting observations made during her travels. She hopes to be able to bring the mysteries of foreign countries to the American public in painting and story form.

As travel becomes more accessible and convenient to the public, Miss Hodges feels the mutual goodwill of tourist and native, founded on good manners, intelligent interest, and exchange of ideas, will do much towards forming one world.

It is her belief that the library discussion group may offer an opportunity for those who have traveled and those who hope to travel to share and impart their knowledge and experiences.

A student of Languages, Miss Hodges encourages the prospective traveler to master the fundamentals of at least one foreign tongue before attempting to take his trip. Even a basic familiarity with the native language will double the tourist's enjoyment of his visit, she explained.

After four years of study in the United States and two years in Italy, Miss Hodges is now specializing in portraits. Her style is "traditional laced with French impressionism". In the field of journalism, she has abandoned non-fiction for the greater freedom of the short story, where she combines "Baedeker and Freud."

Her next trip is scheduled for January, 1956, when she plans to visit Austria and the Netherlands.

Storm Does Little Damage To Town

The three inches of rain dumped on Andover over last weekend caused little damage, Town Engineer Ralph Preble reported this week.

Some house cellars were wet and the usual flooding took place in the park and playstead. It was reported Monday morning that the football field was under water.

But the brook on Chestnut street was "about an inch" from spilling into the street and yards, according to the engineer. Another hour of rain might have made the situation highly damaging, he explained.

A few minor casualties of the storm were reported. One was an oil truck in a housing development on Brookfield st. Its front wheels were clear of the ground as its rear end settled into soft earth recently back-filled into a drainage trench. The constant rain had caused the ground to give way when something heavy tried to pass over.

Mr. Preble and assistant Donald Bassett spent much of the weekend and Monday making inspection trips through the town so that any threat of damage could be spotted at once.

MISS COUTTS SEES FIRST SNOW OF SEASON

Miss Bessie A. Coutts of the Andover Savings bank, returning through the Berkshires Sunday from the Fall conference of the Savings Banks Women's association held in Northampton, saw her first snowfall of the year.

Services Over-Taxed Now

Town Engineer Ralph Preble has told the board that sewer lines are now taxed to capacity - lacking any opportunity to take on the load proposed for them.

Water pressure in the Elm st. section is low, he warned, and would be decreased even more if the additional homes were built and sold.

Drainage would become an immediate problem, the board felt, with the development of areas where there could be terrific run-off once streets and driveways were hot-topped and the water no longer could find a place to seep into the ground.

School Needs Cited

School problems also would be raised, the board felt. They mentioned the possibility of each home having a minimum of two children - or 600 children coming into the town and requiring school facilities.

Area Described

Formal notice of the board's decision, in letter form, was sent to the Realty Construction company of Boston, John Phillips Enterprises and Clinton Goodwin. All three have sub-divisions in the area. Notice also went to the selectmen and town clerk.

The notice specified no sub-divisions in an area from the No. Andover town line west along Salem st. to Main st. Northerly along Main st. to Elm square and northeasterly via High st. to the No. Andover line.

"Until the Master Plan for the

The area included within the black border - running down Salem st. to Main, along Main st. to Elm sq. and out High st. to the No. Andover line has been temporarily closed to sub-divisions by the planning board, because town facilities are not adequate to handle the many new homes proposed for the area. The planning board will keep the area closed for the sub-divisions until the master plan is ready about the first of the year.

town of Andover is completed, which will provide for orderly development of this area, we feel that development of the density indicated by your plans cannot be handled by present town facilities. Drainage of surface water, sewerage and water supply are all inadequate" the notice read.

Builders Concerned

The Realty Construction company, whose project on the Flying Feather Farm would run to 160 homes according to a previous planning board meeting with the firm, also planned 66 homes through the Birchall Construction company.

John Phillips Enterprises, owned by Harry Axelrod, planned about 17 houses in an area behind Westwind rd. and connecting with the 66-home development of the Birchall firm.

Mr. Goodwin is the engineer for the Downing estate development, which would hold up to 30 or 40 houses.

The plans submitted to the board Monday night were for 66 house lots behind Westwind rd., between Elm and High streets.

The plans showed sewage in the development connecting with the town sewer on High st. Drainage would also connect to existing town drains and the water mains would be connected to those installed in the development by the firm.

No plan has yet been shown the board for the Flying Feather Farm, but it is known that some 160 homes were planned there.

Mr. Axelrod, whose 17-home development is separate from that of the Birchall firm, would connect to its sewer lines, it is reported.

The 66-home development proposed by the Birchall firm called for houses ranging from $17,000 to $22,000 with three, four or five bedrooms and houses in at least six different styles.

Selectmen Agree Fully

The decision of the planning board to stop all sub-divisions in the area temporarily was taken after full agreement of the selectmen.

Might Cost $225,000

Selectman Sidney P. White, also chairman of the board of public works, estimated that service improvements to carry the added load caused by all the proposed new homes in the area could run to $225,000.

Chairman J. Everett Collins told the Townsman that certainly something had to be done to let the town catch up with its self, so that new building will not completely overwhelm present facilities. He pointed out that the board of selectmen, in his opinion, could even instruct the building inspector to halt all permits in the town if that extreme measure became necessary. He believed, however, that the decision by the planning board in the present situation would be sufficient, giving the master plan an opportunity to recommend required changes.

Mr. Collins, fully supporting the planning board, pointed out that any estimate of costs for services in the area do not include new schools.

By KAY NOYES

Industry and continuous industrial expansion has always played an important role in the economic growth of a town and it was here in Andover in the early 1800's that the first manufacture of flax was begun.

Although the history of flax dates back almost 10,000 years to the Stone age and was grown in this country as early as 1626, it was not until more than 200 years had gone by that the precious plant was first manufactured by two boyhood friends.

Dreamed of New Mill
John Dove and Peter Smith had, as boys, worked in the flax mill owned by John Dove's father back in their native Scotland and had long dreamed of starting a flax mill here. They managed to interest Peter's brother, John Smith, in their venture. John Smith already owned a mill privilege on the Shawsheen river as well as a machine shop in Frye Village. It was he who furnished the necessary capital for Mr. Dove to return to Scotland, where he obtained further knowledge of the flax industry.

The new mill built by Mr. Smith was made mainly from Frye Village bricks, as the land between the river, Burnham rd. and the railroad tracks was rich in a very fine quality of clay. At least 300,000 bricks a year were made in the kiln, which was located behind the present Motor Mart, about where Argyle st. is now.

New Firm Begun

With the completion of the new mill and the business know-how obtained by Mr. Dove, the three men became pioneers in the manufacturing industries of the country and in 1864 a joint company was formed under the name of the "Smith and Dove Manufacturing Co."

Their venture was successful. However, the business was moved to Abbot village - a section around the lower end of Essex st., near the river.

The mills in Frye village have long since been torn down and in their places have arisen other businesses of today.

Location

This picture would be the view from the stone terrace of the Sacred Heart school looking towards the Manor.

The administration building, which is what it was built for and not a school, was not of course built at this time. The dirt road in the foreground is the forerunner of our present Haverhill st. The mills to the left of the picture, near the 100 ft. tower, have been replaced by the Woodworth building, the Shawsheen Market and Riverina rd. The mill on the right has been replaced by the New England Milk Producers association and the little white blacksmith shop is now the site of the Hardy Brush Factory.

As can be noted in the picture, the river had not been channeled and walled in as is the condition at the present time, but was merely a wide marshy stream. The crude bridge has been replaced by a very picturesque stone arch, built by William Wood.

If one has very keen eye sight, the Smith mansion, which is today the Shawsheen Manor, might be seen just over the closed in bridge that connected the two mills.

Forerunner of Laundry

It was in this area between Hussey's pond and the river that the famous Andover Stocks were located. "The Stocks were Andover's early version of a wet-wash laundry". Any time after three o'clock on a Sunday afternoon, the roads would be well traveled with people from Andover and Lawrence pulling wagons filled with clothes and even carrying tubs of clothes on their shoulders, all on their way to the community out-door laundry. Washing was not allowed on the Sabbath but one minute after midnight the scrubbing began and continued through the night until Monday noon.

The changes that time has brought about create a vivid contrast in the present scene and that of over 100 years ago in Frye Village.

Women Observe World Community Day Wednesday

United Church women of this community will observe World Community day next Wednesday at 10 a.m. in Christ church.

After listening to a speaker on "The Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations", the women will be served coffee by a Christ church committee headed by Mrs. Claxton Monro.

During the observance, preschool children may be left in the nursery where members of the Newcomers club will care for them.

Co-chairmen of the day are Mrs. Robert Hatton and Mrs. Richard Penick.

They have asked that men's and boy's clothing, clean and in good repair, be brought to the meeting as part of the Parcels For Peace program.

Mrs. Florence Watt and Mrs. Margaret Gunn of the Free church will be ushers at the affair. All Andover women have been invited.

Goodwin Seeks $12,389 For Drainage Work

A bill for $12,389 was presented to the board of public works Oct. 13 by Engineer Clinton Goodwin.

That sum was the balance of $15,449 due the Haverhill engineer for Rogers brook and Shawsheen Heights drainage plans, studies and specifications.

Mr. Goodwin credited the town with payment of $3060 on the total.

The board decided to postpone payment of the bill until it receives a ruling from Town Counsel Vincent Stulgis on the legality of payment.

He rules some days ago that none of the money appropriated for drainage could be spent if the job could not be completed, as voted by town meeting.

That ruling brought to a halt efforts of the board to get at least some of the drainage work done. The question of whether the appropriated money could be used, in part, to pay the engineer for work accomplished prior to the special drainage town meeting will be answered by the town counsel.

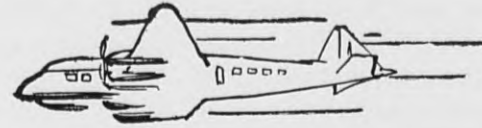

He will also be asked to check on the board's contract with Mr. Goodwin to be certain that the items in the bill fall within the work directions contained in that document.

The bill contained items under preliminary drawings for both projects, survey of conditions for Rogers brook and Shawsheen Heights and contract plans and specifications on which bidders based their estimates.

Celebrates Birthday

The Townsman began its 70th year last week.

The only public notice of our 69th birthday was the designation on page one: "Volume 69, number one". But we, ourselves, took note of the occasion by resolving to continue and expand the role of your community newspaper.

The Townsman has a proud history. Although it has appeared in several faces, dating back to that first edition in 1887, its primary place in the community has never changed.

The paper began as a means of telling Andover folks what was going on in their town — and that still is the primary function of the Townsman.

We will continue to expand our news coverage, giving you more information about the town as it, itself, continues to grow.

Features will take their rightful places in our pages — telling you about your town's history, unique hobbies and experiences and interesting developments in all sections of the community.

Our editorial policy, always one designed to promote the best interest of the town, will remain constant. We will try our level best to recommend those things in town government that appear good for the town and to disapprove those which may be of little value.

We will not hesitate to comment on current questions, fearing disagreement from any quarter.

For a good newspaper's responsibility lies not in fearing an honest divergence of opinion.

Rather, it is our duty, while keeping news and editorial comment completely separate, to make such recommendations and comments as are needed, regardless of every consideration but one: Is it good for the town?

Thus, as we begin our 70th year serving our town, we resolve to continue and expand our services — news, features, editorials — so that we may completely and fully perform the role of a true community newspaper.

Debate Town Right To Work On Private Land

A debate over town responsibility to private property and the legality of spending town money on private land went unresolved at the board of public works meeting Oct. 13.

The matter came up over the proposal to do some work on the lawn of Herbert Dawson, 11 Yale rd. A portion of the lawn and some shrubs were washed away during the hurricanes last fall.

Chairman Sidney P. White, reporting to the board, said two half-days had been spent dumping stones and fill into the washout at the end of the street. He said he recalled an earlier agreement to repair part of the lawn and replace a few shrubs washed out when the road went out.

Henderson Opposed

Secretary Alex Henderson asserted "It was an Act of God" and held that the town should not be responsible for work on private property. He was reminded by the chairman that the water that did the damage came from the town road.

Henderson explained that he feared there would be no end to the requests for town work if the board approved this measure.

"How can we legally do it?" he asked.

He also pointed to a similar problem at Bannister and Dascomb roads but Chairman White declared it to be a problem caused by the actions of a private property-owner and not the direct result of water from town roads doing damage.

May Lead To More

Member Allen M. Flye agreed with Mr. Henderson that approval of this work might "Lead into many petitions for similar things." He asked the board how it could say no to others if the Dawson work is done.

Member Leroy Wilson said he had not viewed the Dawson property and did not feel able to comment on the problem.

Member Francis Reilly told the board members that he would be against the proposal unless there has been an understanding that the work will be done.

Mr. White, explaining the amount of work involved, said it amounted to about $20 for loam and seed and possibly $10 for shrubs which could be taken from town property and transplanted there.

WEDDING INTENTIONS

The following wedding intentions have been filed in the office of the town clerk:

Byron R. Cleveland Jr., 63 Salem st., and Suzanne M. Collins, 32 Olive st., Methuen.

George Cashman has returned to Andover and gone to work for the American Express company.

Miss Pearl Nason has accepted a position as cashier for Dr. C. H. Shattuck at his pharmacy in Everett.

25 Years Ago — October 1930

Only 264 votes were cast in Andover in the special county primary for sheriff. The primary was made necessary by the death of Sheriff Arthur G. Wells. The election will be held in the November state elections between Frank E. Raymond and Matthew A. White.

ESSENTIAL ELEMENTS

There is much more to your prescription medicine than the drugs and chemicals that go into its compounding. Perhaps the most essential elements are the skill and the integrity of the pharmacist. PLAN PARTIES ON HALLOWEEN there were many private parties scheduled and other youngsters could attend the one in Central district.

The various committees will serve, in addition to the cookies, some 1470 lollipops, 1470 ice creams, and 1120 bottles of tonic. They'll use 1250 paper cups but only 500 straws.

Other youngsters will get up to 100 dozen doughnuts and 31 gallons of cider.

3 Parades Planned

The parties will be preceded by parades in West Parish, Ballardvale and Central. In the center of town, starting time is 6:30, with all paraders asked to be on hand at 6:15. The All-Girl band will lead the parade from the corner of Elm and High streets to the auditorium.

Parade times have not yet been announced in the other two areas.

Up For Grabs

When the parades are over, all sections will offer entertainment for the small youngsters. In Ballardvale, No. District and Central, huge goldfish bowls will be filled with shiny, new pennies. Pre-school youngsters in costume, followed by the first through third graders, will have a chance to keep as many of the pennies as they can hold in one fist.

Central Entertainment

At the Central celebration, Val Ellia, a clown formerly with one of the leading circuses, will entertain. He'll provide a puppet show and magic for the small tots.

Dance Later

Later in the evening, there will be a junior-senior dance at the auditorium, with Chet Harnden furnishing the music.

There will be refreshments for these older folks too.

The parties will be held in the Ballardvale Community rooms, No. District Improvement association hall, West Parish school hall and in the Memorial auditorium.

Affair Costs $500

The recreation committee has announced that some $500 is needed for expenses, with many donations making up the deficit between that figure and a town appropriation of $300. Each group runs its own party, asking for the refreshments it needs and money for prizes and entertainment where needed.

POOR PARTRIDGE PERISHED PAINFULLY

Mrs. Ernest Dick of High Plain rd. was mighty surprised to hear glass flying around her living room Monday morning, as she was working in another part of the house.

After the shock wore off, she found splinters of glass all over the room and a dead partridge.

Seems the bird came flying out of the rain, smack into the window. Maybe he saw his own shadow and thought he had a fight on his hands, or maybe the rain was too much for him as it was for everyone else.

Youngsters Will Collect For Needy Halloween Afternoon

Youngsters from four Andover churches will again be collecting money for the United Nations Children's fund when they call at homes on Halloween.

The "Trick or Treat" boys and girls with orange and black badges will ask their neighbors for contributions between four and six that afternoon, under the sponsorship of the Andover Council of Churchwomen.

The fund supplies needy children throughout the world with needed supplies of many types.

Children participating will include those in the Baptist church Sunday school. Miss Beulah Denison, primary department superintendent and Mrs. Kenneth Thompson, superintendent of the junior department, will assist them.

Others include the Young Peoples' fellowship of Christ church, under Gale Barton, Thomas Stirling, Elsie Kellog and Kitty Sides and West Parish Sunday school, supervised by the Rev. E. Clayton Burgess and Mrs. William Stewart. The South church Sunday school is taking part in the program for the third year.

Mrs. John C. Brown is general chairman.

Cement Company Must Get Permit

The building permit of the Acme Concrete company for construction of a $5000 steel storage bin at the coal yards on Fletcher st. has been revoked by the selectmen.

The firm, with main offices in Stoneham, must now ask the board of appeals for permission to operate their business there.

The area is zoned for industry, so Building Inspector Ralph Coleman issued the permit for construction of the bin some weeks ago.

Residents of the area, however, complained to selectmen when the construction work began.

A hearing on the matter was held in the town hall two weeks ago, with residents of the street protesting the type of business to be conducted there. They claimed that trucks to be used by the company will run up to 30 tons and require 10-11 feet to pass on a street.

Huge Trucks

The residents' complaint centered around the inability of such trucks to pass along Fletcher st. if cars are parked on both sides of the road. They also told the selectmen that dust, noise, hazards to the children and other factors were involved in the complaint.

A representative of the firm told the selectmen that his company waited 30 to 45 days from the time it received the building permit and that objections should have been raised then.

No Other Choice

Building Inspector Coleman said he had no other course than to grant the permit, because the area is zoned for industry and the proposed bin came within that zoning requirement.

The cement firm also informed the selectmen that little dust should result from operations there because cement would not be manufactured there.

Board of Appeals

Selectman Stafford Lindsay, secretary of the board, said the building code mentions the necessity of a firm obtaining a permit to operate as well as taking out the more usual building permit. Granting of such a permit comes within the scope of the board of appeals, to which the matter has now been referred.

Residents of Binney st. entered the picture this week, as they presented selectmen with a petition against the business. They claimed Binney st. should not be expected to carry such truck travel and that children use the street for sliding in the winter, a practice made hazardous if the trucks were operating.

YOUR GOVERNMENT

Board of Public Works

Engineer Ralph Preble to check request of Miss Miriam Carpenter, living on private way off Chestnut st., for permission to enter Chestnut st. drainage pipe at private expense. She complained of "a big puddle" that settles in front of her house.

Jerry Dwyer asked board to consider Greenwood rd. water extension. Agreed to make application to board for consideration in 1956. Explained that his new homes on Greenwood rd. will need water, although temporary service can be gained by piping across lots from North st.

Moody Johnson, 175 No. Main st., told the board, a tree, formerly considered on his land, actually is only 15 inches on private property with the rest on town land. Asked the board to do something about taking it down before it falls down. Mr. Preble was directed to investigate.

Some landowners around Haggitt's pond will receive requests from the board to name a selling price for their land. Purchase being considered as part of protection for town water supply.

Gave permission to George Duffton to extend sewer main on Chestnut st. at his own expense in order to connect a new house. Extension will only be between 20-50 feet. Town will refinish street surface at Duffton's expense.

Selectmen's Business

At Monday night's meeting, selectmen heard complaints from John Abercrombie and Joseph Campopiano of water damage on Hidden rd. Questioned board about town meeting vote on drainage there. Referred to board of public works.

Residents of Sutherland st. talked about septic tank overflows in the neighborhood. Were referred to BPW and health board.

PTSA invited selectmen to next meeting Oct. 26. Board will be represented there.

PAPER DRIVE THIS SUNDAY BY CATHOLIC CLUB

The Andover Catholic club will hold its paper drive this Sunday, starting at 1 p.m.

All streets in the town, including Shawsheen and Ballardvale, will be covered by the paper committee. They have asked that all paper be left near the street. Funds from the paper sale go toward the club's charitable works.

Lions Seek Funds For Eye Research

Andover Lions, 38-strong, will sell electric light bulbs door-to-door Sunday afternoon from 2-5.

They will be seeking money for the Massachusetts Eye Research fund, supported throughout the state by some 7000 Lions.

The drive for funds through the light bulb sale was started Oct. 17 at the regular Lions meeting at Andover Inn.

In conjunction with the door-to-door sale of bulbs at regular retail prices, the Lions club has announced that bags of bulbs may be purchased at Macartney's and at the Coffee Mill, both Friday and Saturday of this week.

Edwin E. Leidich, president of the Lions club, has explained that one-half the proceeds will go to the Massachusetts research fund while half will remain in Andover for another project to be announced later.

May Charge For
New Water Service

The possibility that new water connections may have to be paid for by the homeowner was raised at the board of public works meeting Oct. 13.

Chairman Sidney P. White asked the board members to "think about" charging for the town work in connecting new services.

He pointed out that 200 new services in a year would cost the town about $10,000 - at $50 per connection.

He suggested that either a flat fee or a pro-rated figure might be established to underwrite the cost of new services.

Engineer Ralph Preble told the board that some 40 percent of Essex county towns now do not charge for services while others have worked out some manner in which the homeowner can pay an adequate fee for the work.

Mr. White explained that, with the use of about $10 or $12 worth of water a year, it takes a number of years before the house service pays for the cost of installation.

Rhoads Elected Chairman Of Development Com.

William W. Rhoads was elected chairman of the industrial development committee at its first meeting Monday night in town hall.

Secretary of the committee will be David Thompson.

The five-man committee met to organize and discuss the problems it will seek to solve in the months ahead. Offering assistance to the group was Elmer E. Young, field representative of the state department of commerce.

The committee met with both the board of selectmen and the planning board during the evening for brief get-acquainted discussions on industrial problems facing the town.

At the planning board session, the committee was offered office space with the planning board. Members also suggested that the committee might well concern itself with possible industrial sites within the town, making recommendations for rezoning such areas as soon as possible.

It was agreed that the planning board, development committee, Consultant Nord Davis and Engineer Clinton Goodwin should meet soon to go over work done on the town's master plan.

Raymond Schlapp Will Seek Office Of Clerk Of Courts

Raymond W. Schlapp, former state representative for this district and present assistant clerk of superior court, has announced that he will be a candidate for the clerk of courts position in the 1956 elections.

A resident of Methuen, Atty. Schlapp will seek the office left by the death of Archie N. Frost of this town. The election will fill the office until 1958, the unexpired term of Mr. Frost.

Mr. Schlapp served in the Massachusetts House, but interrupted his term to serve in the Navy during World War II. His wife, Mrs. Alyce Schlapp, replaced him in the legislature.

Tammany Attending State Police School

William F. Tammany, 15 Brechin terr., a patrolman in the local police department, is attending a month-long state police school in Framingham. He began duties there Oct. 10, according to Chief David Nicoll, and will have a full schedule of classes and drill during the month's training.

The town meeting voted to send one officer to the school this year, the chief explained. He pointed out that there is a lot of value in having the men get the training and hopes it will be possible for others to attend the school during the coming years.

NAMED COUNCILOR

S. Perry Congdon II was elected a councilor at the 126th annual convention of the Essex County Teachers' association, which met in Boston recently. Mr. Congdon is an English teacher at Punchard.

NEW SCHOOL IS SOUGHT FOR VALE

ning board this week temporarily called a halt to sub-divisions. Members of the planning board pointed out that the halt is temporary, until the master plan is received and rezoning can be requested at town meeting.

There was considerable discussion about a site in that area, with the planning board proposing a section between Elm st. and Westwind rd. recommended by Engineer Clinton Goodwin and Consultant Nord Davis. The school committee, having often mentioned the Carmel woods area in the past, discussed the difference in the two sites. Both are in the same general area.

Mr. Goodwin said the site he suggested could be purchased and developed for less money than the town-owned Carmel woods could be made suitable for a school and required playing area.

Mr. Kiernan of the Perley F. Gilbert associates, which surveyed the Carmel woods area for the school committee, said Carmel woods could be used without extensive site development - utilizing the ledge there as a base for the building rather than taking it out, a recognized expensive project.

Member Albert Cole suggested that, despite the discussion over sites, it seemed to be agreed that a new school in that immediate area would be necessary. Most of those present agreed that population growth in the area indicate that necessity within a few years.

All members of the planning board and school committee were present, as were William Mackintosh, Atty. Charles G. Hatch and Harold Rutter Jr., members of the finance committee and town engineer Ralph Preble.
