Whatever the reason, he ambled in and curled up for a snooze amid the tables and chairs of the caf- (Continued on Page Six)

Alas, The Sturdy Pine Is No More

Down in West Orange, N.J., it's a luxury to have a tree growing in your own yard.

So the Henry M. Wolfson's thought they were fortunate, indeed, to have a large pine tree smack in the middle of their yard at 288 Argilla rd. They have lived there seven months, since Mr. Wolfson came to work in the Western Electric plant.

And for seven months, they fought to save the tree. First, the garage was built so that there would be no need to remove or damage the pine. Then tree experts were consulted - with land bulldozed away on all sides, could the tree live. "Yes", they said, "it'll live because the roots go straight down for quite a distance."

But a few neighbors were skeptical - they thought the tree should be removed - can't live with the earth moved away on the sides, they avowed.

Someone was hired to build a dry wall around the tree; only last Sunday plants and spring blooming flowers were planted around the wall.

And just as the Wolfson's thought they had the problem licked, along came a sharp squall.

Monday night, it was, when a sudden wind storm uprooted the tree.

"We can save some of the plants around the wall", a doleful Mrs. Wolfson said, "but I'd hesitate to try another tree there".

Adding to their problem is the fact that a second tree nearby was uprooted and a third was sheared off in the sharp storm.

And that's where the custodians found him Tuesday morning.

After a few shakes of the head to be sure it was true and some head-scratching over a more obvious problem — how to move the animal — it was decided to shoot him.

And that they did — with a small shotgun hastily recruited from a custodian's home.

That ended the story of the wistful skunk who wanted to soak up a little book-larnin.

But he made his impression in the field of letters all the same.

Though the little fellow died before much of man's knowledge soaked through his furry, striped coat, he created a sensation that had educators and students alike talking about him.

For they learned one undeniable fact — nature's gift to a skunk may be alright for the animal but it sure smells bad when it gets into the ventilating system.

If he could look back, the little skunk who wistfully sought some of man's knowledge would perhaps be amused to see teachers scurrying about with de-odorizers — and to see nose-holding students paying complete attention to the little skunk who wasn't there.

W. Parish Church Took Active Stand On Slavery

West Parish Church

By KAY NOYES

Andover, more than 100 years ago, comprised the area which is now North Andover as well as South Lawrence. It was at this time that the beautiful stone church in West parish — the oldest church edifice continually in use, in Andover was built.

In this great area there were but two meeting houses plus the chapel at the Theological Seminary. Even though, for more than 50 years, the people who lived west of the Shawsheen river had tried, in vain, to divide the South parish and have a more central church built.

It was proposed in 1771 to build a larger church in the South parish but this was of little help to the parishoners who lived five or six miles away and thus they refused to be taxed on a new church in the same location.

Capt. Holt's Proposal

In 1826, through the efforts of Capt. Solomon Holt, it was voted to build a stone meeting house on the westerly side of the river. The good captain also donated the land on which the new meeting house was to be built, as well as the land for the horse sheds.

Dedicated on Dec. 26

The building of the church was no small task. Even though the golden stone used in the construction of the church is native Andover granite, there were still some 50 casks of lime, lumber, 36,000 shingles, nails and glass to be hauled from Salem, Mass. — some 12 miles away. This evidently did not hinder the progress, for on the 26th of December in 1826 the meeting house was dedicated and the Rev. Samuel C. Jackson became the first minister of the new church.

The architect who designed the building is not known, but the proportions of the church are considered to be almost perfect. Quite often students from M.I.T., who were studying architecture, would be brought out here to inspect the measurements of the church.

fairs of the day, as it was one of the first to take an active stand against slavery as well as taking a strong stand against "ardent spirits". The stand being that "No person would be admitted to the church who will not agree to abstain from the use of ardent spirits except as medicine and from all traffic of same".

Tradition has it that the original bell was cast by Paul Revere, but at present, no trace can be found of its whereabouts after it was given to Hiram French in exchange for a new bell.

In "America"

The graceful spire of this lovely country church was supposedly the one Samuel Smith referred to in his now famous "America".

The Reverend Hugh B. Penney is the present minister at the old West Parish church, under whose guidance plans are being made for enlarging the vestry although the original building will not be altered.

The initials of Reuben Frye, the mason who built the church, and the date of his work may still be seen on the Keystone over the front entrance where he carved them more than 100 years ago.

Used Foot Stoves

The exterior of the church was influenced by the Baptist church in Salem, Mass., and the interior by the Dunstable church. In the winter, the church was heated by two stoves but the floors were still cold so the women used to bring their foot-stoves, which were small square tin boxes with a little door on one side and an iron receptacle for the hot coals inside, in an attempt to keep their feet from freezing. If the minister was one who liked to air his oratorical powers, the coals were pretty cold by noon.

STATE STILL PLANS ACCESS IN VALE

Lowell junction itself is apparently doomed - but one may be placed nearby in Wilmington to serve industrial areas in that town, Andover and Tewksbury. It would be at the junction of Vale rd., he explained.

Members of the Industrial Development committee also listening to the report concerning the new highway and its probable effect on the town, heard Mr. Davis relate the results of a conversation at the state BPW Monday afternoon.

"They were not hostile" to the access near Lowell junction, he said, but feel that it must be at the intersection of Vale rd. Otherwise, the engineers stated, the new road would have to go under or over the existing Vale rd., at steep construction costs.

Immediate Action

Immediate zoning of the area was recommended by Mr. Davis, for he said the state would view the interchange more kindly if signs of progress were evident.

He pointed out that Tewksbury, Tewksbury, and Andover, by combining their strength, might exert proper pressure on the state if they planned the areas for industry.

The state might go as far as taking land in the Vale rd. area for an eventual interchange but would not build it yet, Davis declared. He said they "will not build it until it is justified."

MacMackin's Prediction

Planning board member Robert MacMackin said he had urged some action in the area long ago, feeling that a traffic count in the Dascomb rd. area - on which that interchange is based - would change when the Lowell junction area began to develop. Eventually, he predicted, there will be little traffic at Dascomb rd. interchange, with most going off Route 28 at Vale rd.

Feed The Hungry

CARE — the national organization devoted to the welfare of cold and starving folks in other lands — has a worthwhile Christmas project.

We here in Andover will load our Thanksgiving tables with some 10,000 calories, according to official estimates.

At the same time, people all over the world will go hungry.

CARE will send 110 pounds of protein foods, such as cheese, butter and powdered milk, to starving youngsters for each donation of $5. The food comes from government surplus — a supply that would require Bostonians to eat for 124 years before it was gone.

The government makes the food available to CARE. Your donation covers packaging, mailing and distribution. It is a worthwhile cause.

Cooperation Needed

A cement company wants to erect a storage bin on Fletcher st., at the site of the coal yards.

They are being hampered in their efforts by the citizens of the area, who object to trucks, dust, noise and traffic hazards which may arise.

We feel full sympathy for the residents of Fletcher st. The trucks to be used are huge and would move only with difficulty along the street.

But we also feel badly that a new business — one probably destined to pay its share of real estate taxes here — is having such difficulty in getting its work underway.

Seems to us that some acceptable compromise could be worked out — such as the company putting its own road through some land in the area so that Fletcher st. need not carry the 30-ton trucks used in the cement business. It is our understanding that such a move can be accomplished if all hands will cooperate rather than fight.

We feel that this type of industrial expansion is as necessary as is the larger project in an area like Lowell Junction. Both serve to keep our industrial-residential balance so that the individual property owner will not be completely overburdened with taxes.

Let's hope that some positive, cooperative efforts will be made to satisfy both the residents of the area and the cement firm.

Down the Years with The Townsman

50 Years Ago — October 1905

The following persons were named delegates to the Andover Conference at Trinity church, Lawrence, by the Ballardvale Congregational church: Deacon Thomas Matthews, Mrs. Alfred Greenwood, Mrs. J. H. Smith, Deacon Orrell Ashton and Mrs. Irving R. Shaw.

Mrs. Henry W. Barnard tendered her many friends an "at home" at her residence on High st. Wednesday afternoon. The house was decorated with chrysanthemums and pinks.

The new house of Charles Jameson, replacing his old house destroyed by fire last summer, is nearly completed. He expects to move in sometime next week.

The Woman's Union of the South church conducted an autumnal supper in the vestry last evening. It was a social as well as financial success.

A special meeting of the Guild was held Tuesday of this week to choose a president in place of J. Newton Cole. Burton S. Flagg was elected to the office with Alfred L. Ripley replacing Mr. Flagg as treasurer and Miss Agnes Park was named corresponding secretary.

D. J. Michellini has purchased two lots of land on No. Main st. from Mrs. Thomas E. Gray. The land is located a short distance below the rubber factory on the left hand side.

About 16 members of the Andover Country club were delightfully entertained by one of its members, Lyman A. Belknap, in his barn on Central st. The evening was spent in a delightful way with cards and a plentiful supply of cigars supplied by the host.

Miss Kate P. Jenkins left town Wednesday to spend several weeks with a friend in Montclair.

25 Years Ago — October 1930

Arthur L. Coleman was inducted into office as commander of American Legion post 8 last Tuesday evening. It is his second term in the office, while many of the other officers also were installed for their second terms.

The fair of the Andover Fraternal Building association, which was poorly attended last Friday due to the rain, will be held again tonight.

John V. Holt presided Monday night at the annual meeting of the Historical society. Mr. Holt was reelected president during the election of officers. Speaker of the evening was the Rev. Newman Matthews, on the subject "The Earliest Settlers of Andover".

The Young People's Fellowship will hold a Halloween dance in Christ church parish house this evening.

Eugene Mercier of Juliette rd., Shawsheen, had his left hand badly cut Tuesday afternoon by a circular saw. He was sawing wood in the section of town bordering on Reading when the accident happened.

More than 200 persons ate the Harvest supper served by the Free church Woman's Alliance Wednesday night. The play "Leave It To Dad" was presented later in the evening by the Free Church Players.

Punchard and Exeter high school will renew their annual football game Saturday at Exeter. Punchard has won 14 in the series and Exeter has taken four.

Saturday is the last day for payment of real estate taxes without interest. After that date, interest will be charged as of Oct. 15 states Tax Collector William Cheever.

The board of health is now carrying out Schick tests. Two inoculations have been given in public schools and the second is due next Monday in the parochial schools.

10 Years Ago — October 1945

In celebration of the 300th anniversary of the first Christian church in Andover — the North Church — the Rev. Frederick B. Noss, pastor of the South church, will preach on "The Worship of God in Andover in Days Past" Sunday morning. The North church and its parish, were divided to create the South church in 1711.

Miss Margaret Lane of Boxford will join the staff of the Memorial Hall library next month. She is presently librarian at the Brockton high school and is a Wellesley college graduate.

The Varsity club met at Punchard this week to discuss plans for the year. Those eligible for the club are senior band members and letter men.

Eight boys received 4-H pins for completion of their projects during the monthly meeting of the 4-H county club.

Punchard meets Stoneham Saturday at the Stoneham field, with the game apparently a toss-up. Each team has tied an eleven that the other beat. Last week, Punchard tied Ipswich, 7-7, but Stoneham beat that team, 13-7. Punchard has beaten Concord, 19-0 while Stoneham played Concord in a scoreless game.

Phillips academy lost to the West Point Plebes at West Point Saturday, 20-0.

The board of public works, school committee members and representatives of the school department discussed concrete stands seating 5000 persons, at a meeting Monday night. It was felt that there will be more interest in athletics in the future, while attendance has been good this year.

Joseph A. McCarthy was reelected president of the Taxpayers association at the annual meeting Monday night.

Things bring worries... unless—

It's true that possessions may bring worries as well as satisfaction.

As you acquire a house, a car, furniture, jewelry and a bank account, you can (and should) start to worry about what may happen to 'em.

Your house may burn up or blow away. You may hit somebody with your car or a golf ball and get sued for big dough. Or somebody may steal your car or diamond ring. And so on.

The only cure for such worries is to carry plenty of fire, windstorm, theft, liability and other insurance to protect you in case of any kind of loss.

And that's WHERE WE COME IN to help you.

Students who care to accept will be invited to lunch at the university commons and will also be given tickets to the B.U. - North Carolina football game in the afternoon. There is no cost involved, but students must arrange their own transportation to and from Boston.

Boston college has extended a similar invitation for Friday, Nov. 11, including lunch and the B.C. - Holy Cross freshman game.

Junior Class Meeting

Last Monday, the members of the junior class had their annual class meeting. The meeting consisted of class dues and class rings.

It was voted that we would pay $6 this year instead of the customary $4 for the Junior year. This was made so we could obtain enough money for our expenses at the beginning of our senior year.

Nominations were made for a chairman of the ring committee. Voting is going to take place in our home rooms at a later date. The person who is nominated and the president of the Junior class are going to pick 10 people to be their committee. In these 10 people, each Junior homeroom will be represented.

Procedure in Case of Accident

In case of accident, the nearest faculty member will take charge of the victim and the following procedure is suggested by Mr. March:

Render the necessary first aid.

In the event that you need assistance or the problem presented is beyond your knowledge, you may call for the following faculty members: school nurse, members of the physical education department, principals.

If the accident occurs during the time the principals are on duty at the school, they should be notified as soon as possible. Students or by-standers may be dispatched to bring help and notify the principals.

Secure all the details you can about the accident - time, place, circumstances, persons involved, and witnesses.

Make out the accident form provided in the triplicate. (A copy to principal, school nurse, and the athletic or physical education department.)

The parents' permission must be obtained before taking a victim to a hospital or doctor, unless it be an extreme emergency.

In the event that a student witnesses an accident, he or she should notify the nearest faculty member; and that faculty member should carry out the provisions of this bulletin.

In case of serious accident on the athletic field or in the gymnasium, the faculty member in charge shall exercise every precaution to see that proper procedure is followed. If it is serious, the principal desires to be notified as quickly as possible. The less serious may be reported the following morning by leaving with the principal the form properly filled out and any other information pertinent to the accident.

A statement from the managers declared: "It was unanimously voted to provide added care for the guests in the present home by utilizing the facilities available at the Nevins Home for the Aged in Methuen."

Cited as reasons for the move were added nursing facilities at the Methuen home and the rising cost per resident in the local home. The action also makes it possible to care for both men and women, the managers pointed out.

PIKE SCHOOL P.T.A. MEETS NOV. 7

The Pike school PTA will meet Nov. 7 in the cafeteria for the first time this fall.

Teachers will be in their rooms from 7:30 to 8 p.m. for discussion with parents. A business meeting will be held at 8, with an informal discussion period following for any questions or suggestions.

Wesley Spencer, vocational and educational counsellor from Boston, will speak to the group.

skilled business, he explained, with modern plants; properly landscaped grounds; private, off-street parking and perhaps a 500-foot frontage on a street.

Surrounding the industrial area within a reasonable distance, he said, should be properly zoned residential areas.

Keep Area Good

Of one thing Mr. Davis was certain. "Why break down that nice area when you don't have to?" he asked.

Thus he discouraged thoughts of small homes in the area, but rather suggested keeping lot sizes large to encourage larger and better homes.

Several additional points were offered by the consultant concerning the area.

He said a large plot of land should be zoned for light industry there, rather than strip-zoning the new Route 28.

Home building should positively not be allowed in the area zoned for industry, he declared. "If you're so concerned to get industry to help you" then you must give them a good place to locate, he told the group.

Lowell Junction

Of the Lowell junction area, Mr. Davis suggested: its use for heavy, less pleasant industry — where odors might exist or vast amounts of coal are required or existing rail lines are needed.

He pointed out that the two possible industrial areas are bisected by the new highway — a good inducement to industry.

Route 110

He also suggested that the relocation of Route 110 may provide still another interchange in the area proposed for industry in West Andover. That would be of still greater value to the town, he said.

Zoning By March

The combined groups briefly discussed the possibility of zoning for industry in the next town meeting. It was pointed out that hearings must be held and the article inserted in the warrant by Jan. 20.

However, Planning board Secretary Virginia Hammond said she believed the zoning could be handled by that time and should be introduced at the March town meeting.

Informal hearings in December could be held, she said, to be followed by legal hearings early in January.

Blue Devils Face Lexington Saturday

Punchard trounced Stoneham, 25-0, Saturday at that town's field.

The Blue Devils scored twice in the first quarter and again pushed across a pair of TD's in the third period.

The first score came when Bill Vickers went across from the three after a march from the Punchard 32.

Shortly after, on a quick opener, Alex Thompson raced from his own 35 with the assistance of good blocking from George Reed and Co-captain Larry Lynch.

In the third period, Punchard marched 70 yards to score. Bill Fisher took a Vickers pass on the four and went over for the third TD. Later in the quarter, Thompson intercepted a Stoneham pass and carried 27 yards to the Stoneham three. He went over for the fourth touchdown on the next play.

Punchard lost one additional opportunity to score late in the first half. They had the ball on the one-foot line but failed to push it across. Stoneham missed a score in the final 10 minutes when a touchdown was called back for offensive holding.

Saturday's game will be at the Playstead against Lexington.
