PRICE 10 CENTS

Will Seek $88,300 At Special Town Meeting

Taking their turns at the penny bowl are these lads and lassies, helped by their mothers and dads. They were entertained at the auditorium, with a chance to take home all the shiny, bright pennies they could hold in one hand. (Cole Photo)

Schools Need $84,500; BPW May Ask $3800 For Motor

A special town meeting has been called by the selectmen for 8 p.m. Nov. 21 at the auditorium.

It will consider three articles calling for $84,500 for school needs.

A fourth article may be inserted by the board of public works for money to replace a small electric pump which has burned out at the pumping station.

Chairman J. Everett Collins said the BPW article, if inserted, would run about $3800.

Thus the voters will be asked to approve expenditures of not more than $88,300 at the third special town meeting this fall.

The second special meeting approved additional funds for the new high school while the first — called by the BPW for drainage funds — failed due to a lack of a quorum.

Thaxter Eaton Will Retire In March Of 1956

Town Treasurer Thaxter Eaton will retire at the end of his current term in that office.

He announced his retirement this week, stating: "I will not be a candidate for office next March".

He has served in that office for 26 years and will complete 27 years of service when his current term expires. He was first elected in 1929.

Mr. Eaton has been elected to the treasurer's office for a longer

Cement Company "Mystified" Over Treatment Here

"We're mystified and dumfounded over our treatment", the head of an industry trying to settle here told the Townsman this week.

He was Walter Thomas, head of the Acme Cement company of Stoneham. His firm has been attempting to start a cement storage plant at the old coal yards on Fletcher st.

As matters now stand, his firm is expected to apply to the appeals board if it wishes to secure permission to operate here.

MRS. BYRON CLEVELAND JR.

CLEVELAND - COLLINS

At a 3 o'clock ceremony Saturday in St. Laurence's church, Lawrence, Miss Suzanne May Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph
A. Collins, 32 Olive st., Methuen, became the bride of Byron R.
Cleveland Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs.
Byron R. Cleveland, 63 Salem st.
The Rev. John Wilson, O.S.A., performed the ceremony before an altar arranged with Fuji chrysanthemums, snapdragons, rhododendron leaves and cymbidium ferns.

The bride, who was escorted by her father, wore a traditional gown of hand clipped imported French Chantilly lace over shimmering blush pink Skinner satin, fashioned with scooped decolletage, silhouetted with an etched banding of iridescent paillette and seed pearl embroidered satin and had a fitted Elizabethan bodice and belled bouffant skirt set with jewelled satin bandings which echoed the neckline and termina-ted in a full court train. A double coronet, paillette and seed pearl trimmed, held her long imported veil of silk illusion and she carried a crescent shaped bouquet of stephanotis, white baby orchids and ivy.

The bridal attendants included
Miss Mary Jane Collins as her sister's maid of honor; Diane Collins, another sister of the bride;
Ann Cleveland of Andover, sister of the bridegroom; Mary Jane Cyr of Augusta, Me. and Catherine Murray of Winchester as bridesmaids.

All wore waltz length gowns of jewel tone red velvet with scoop necklines, empire waist and full skirts. They wore ice pink feather headpieces and gloves and carried small bouquets of pink chrysanthemums with ivy.

Gilbert Guertin of Andover served as best man and the ushers included Ted Gordon of Lawrence,
Cornelius Shea of Ballardvale,
George F. Redman of Andover, David Southwick of Lynn and the junior usher was Frank Collins, brother of the bride.

A reception in the Andover Country club followed the ceremony with many out of town guests attending.

Following a wedding trip, the couple will reside at 6 John st., Methuen.

The bride is a graduate of Notre Dame academy and Lasell Junior college. She is associated with Bolta Products of Lawrence, as a secretary. The bridegroom was graduated from Kimball Union academy and Babson Institute. He is a member of Delta Sigma Pi.
Mr. Cleveland is associated with
J. H. Horne and Sons, Lawrence.

Elander & Swanton Clothing Store Is Triple 1945 Size

Elander and Swanton's men's clothing store celebrates its 39th anniversary this week with the announcement of another expansion.

The new quarters opened this week triples the size of the store as it was in 1945, according to Stanley M. Swanton. Modern lighting and equipment throughout the store are among the many improvements added through the past few years, he explained.

Carl E. Elander first opened a small tailor shop back in 1916 in the Valpey block. It was in 1918 that he moved to 7 Main st. and 10 years later the business again moved - to its present location at 56 Main st. A line of men's furnishings was added at that time to the tailoring, cleansing, repairing and pressing.

Mr. Swanton joined Mr. Elander
as a partner in 1944. He was owner of a men's store in Lawrence at that time.

The store expanded two years later, by moving the tailor shop to the second floor. A line of boy's clothing and a men's and boy's shoe department were added in 1953.

In addition to Mr. Swanton and Mr. Elander, customers will be served by Al LeGendre, with the firm since 1944, in charge of the men's department; and Tom Tetreau in charge of both the boy's department and shoe department.

Elander and Swanton also has a branch store in Exeter, N.H.

Give them a Faith to live by

Worship with them this week

Naturally you want them to have all the good things in life . . . a happy home . . . a good education . . . plenty of chances to meet other nice young people. But be sure to give them the most precious gift of all . . . Faith.

The wonderful part is that faith is yours to give . . . no matter who you are, what you do for a living, how much money you have in the bank.

Faith is the gift you give a little at a time. Every week you worship with the children at your church or synagogue. The youngsters see you . . . the biggest, smartest, most important people in their world . . . asking God for help, thanking Him for blessings. Then it's clear to them . . . here they can always find the strength they need, always find the happiness they want.

Then you've done the best a parent—any parent—can do.

CEMENT COMPANY
SAYS IT'S MYSTIFIED

Mr. Thomas said he can't yet tell whether that application will be made.

Permit Not Revoked

The company has already erected the storage bin, despite an initial temporary suspension of the building permit by selectmen, followed by revocation of the permit by the selectmen.

Building Inspector Ralph Coleman has explained that he, as issuing authority for the permit, must also revoke it. He has not done so, thus the work was completed on the building's exterior.

There is some work remaining in the interior Mr. Thomas explained.

Must Get Permit

Town Counsel Vincent Stulgis has ruled that the firm must receive permission to operate here, even though the area is zoned for industry. His decision is based on a clause in the building code, relating to the operation of industry.

Thus, the future of the cement firm will be determined by the three-member appeals board headed by Atty. James Eastham. That board must unanimously agree, for state law requires that all members must agree before a petition may be granted.

Residents Opposed

Residents of the Fletcher st. area first opposed the erection of the storage bin there, complaining of dust, noise, traffic hazards and the danger of having 30-ton trucks operating on the street. It was pointed out that the street itself would not accommodate the trucks when cars are parked on both sides of the street.

The selectmen then suspended the building permit for five days to study the matter. Following that study, they revoked the permit, pointed out that Atty. Stulgis ruled that a permit to operate must be secured before building continued.

The building inspector, meanwhile, did not revoke the permit and most of the exterior work was finished.

Other Access

It has been pointed out by officials in the town that another access to the yards could be secured if the firm could buy some property in the area. Mr. Thomas explained that he had talked with some residents who own the property, but did not divulge their conversation.

He has also pointed out that the plant will not make cement and there will be very little dust from it.

Valuation

The firm has purchased the land, valued by the assessors at $500. The coal pocket, however, is valued at $15,000 for a total property valuation in the assessors' lists of $15,500. The Cross Coal company, which formerly owned the land, was taxed $821.50 for it this year.

Person of the Week

Frank J. Leone Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Leone, 44 William st., has been selected the most outstanding person at Punchard for this week.

Frank was born in Lawrence but has always lived in Andover. He has attended the public schools for 11 years.

He was president of his home-room in his freshman year, a member of the dance committee, and Camera club.

He participated in football in his freshman year. When the basketball and baseball season arrives he will participate in these sports.

Photography

In his sophomore year, he was the Red Cross photographer. He worked for a local newspaper as a photographer during the summer and is continuing it through this school year. He is the Punchard sports photographer for the Townsman. Aside from this, he is an instructor of photography at the Andover Youth Center.

Frank plans to study business administration at college.

Junior Ring Committee

The following people have been selected to work on the Junior class ring committee: David Best, chairman; Charles Dalton, Carol Desrocher, Ralph Arabian, Alan Cate, William McCullom, Gail Higgins, Marjorie Ortstein, Sandra Nadeau, Sandra Ritchie, and Joseph Sullivan.

Attended Conference

Bernard M. Kellmurray, director of guidance, Andover public schools, attended the 20th Educational conference of the American Council of Education and the Educational Records Bureau at the Hotel Roosevelt in New York city last week. Mr. Kellmurray is serving his second year of a four-year term on the Public Schools Advisory committee of the Council, which is concerned with the evaluation of educational standards and practices throughout the country in colleges and universities, public and independent school systems.

Represented Andover

William J. Igoe, counselor for boys in Punchard highschool and a member of the Social Studies department, represented Andover last weekend at the fifth annual session of the Industrial Council, being conducted at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N.Y. This is a national forum of educators and industrialists, attended by more than 1000 delegates from all sections of the country.

Guidance Department Notes

Benjamin W. McKendall Jr., admission officer of Brown university visited the Guidance office last week, showing slides of the new building developments at Brown and talking with senior boys interested in applying for admission.

Miss Ruth Rothenberger, Dean of residence at Lasell junior college, two weeks ago interviewed girls in the senior class who may wish to enroll at Lasell next year.

Last Wednesday, Charles Sparks of Boston university visited the guidance office for the same purpose and talked with a number of prospective candidates for B.U.

During the course of the year — and particularly in the fall and early winter — many representatives of schools and colleges, as well as industry and armed forces, will discuss with Punchard seniors the various opportunities available to them. Students attend these interviews on a voluntary basis, selecting only those which have a specific appeal to them individually.

Salem Witches Had Nothing On Ours; Abbot House Built As Fort Against Indian Attack

By KAY NOYES

The Benjamin Abbot homestead, one of the oldest houses in Andover, is located at 7 Andover st. near the Hartwell Abbot bridge. It was erected in 1685 by Benjamin Abbot as a home for Sarah Farnum, his new bride, and it was to become the home of ten generations of the Abbot family.

The two and a half story farmhouse with its long sloping northern roof has a great many interesting as well as unusual features. The front walls are most interesting as they contain a layer of brick between the inner and outer sheathing of wood. The bricks were covered with a plaster made from clay and crushed shells mixed with straw. The outer boards that went over this plaster were first called "clay-boards" but later became known as "clap-boards". Although the method of construction has changed through the years, the term clap-boards is still used and today refers to the outer layer of covering.

Protection Against Indians

The quaint well house on the eastern side made it possible for the occupants of the homestead to draw water without going out-of-doors, thus making it easier in stormy weather and safer during an Indian attack. Benjamin, when he built the attached well house, was probably being more cautious than most, as his family had experienced the terrors of the Indians. A younger brother had been captured in the raid of 1676 and kept in captivity for several months before being returned by a friendly squaw. Another brother was killed in the Indian massacre which took place not too far from the South church on Central st.

Old Construction

The spacious rooms on the ground floor radiate from the large plastered center chimney and a fireplace may be found in every room. The kitchen at the time it was built was so low studded that it was practically impossible for a person to stand in an erect position. This uncomfortable situation was corrected by James Holt 2nd, who as the husband of Sarah Abbot, eldest child of Benjamin, had the back roof raised. In the attic, the old rafters of the original roof may be seen with the bark still on them.

Some of the oak timbers in the ceiling are 15 inches square and around the base of the front porch the long-headed hand wrought nails, which were most likely hammered out on the village smith's anvil, still remain.

Witch's Curse

This weatherbeaten house which has stood for almost 300 years had not been completed too long when its owner became involved in the trial of Martha Carrier for witchcraft. Old records say it started with an argument between Benjamin Abbot and the Carrier family over the laying out of a certain amount of land. When the argument got out of hand, Martha Carrier was said to have put a curse on Benjamin which was to last seven years. Fantastic as it may seem, Benjamin shortly began to suffer great pain from a swelling in his foot and from an open sore in his side. The accusations of Benjamin and his wife against Martha, the record states, along with intolerant views of the day, soon had Martha on trial for witchcraft. It was one of the most notable trials ever held in Salem, in which the standard judicial procedure was quickly circumvented with the result that the woman was hanged. The troublesome foot and the sore which had festered on Benjamin's side since he had been supposedly cursed soon healed, when Martha Carrier was put to death.

became the secret meeting place of an abolition society and it has been rumored that some of the more fervent members concealed runaway slaves here.

In a more gracious vein, the homestead in the "gay 90's" under the delightful hospitality of Miss Mary Alice Abbot became a popular rendezvous for guests, who enjoyed sipping tea on the front lawn under the majestic elm.

Elm Tree Legend

According to legend "a man came along on horseback and stuck an elm switch in the ground and from this grew this wonderful tree". The legend may be a little far fetched but the tree, a magnificent specimen as seen in the picture, could compare favorably with the largest of its kind. In 1919, four tree surgeons were consulted to try to preserve its majestic beauty. Four wagon loads of rotten wood from inside the tree were replaced with nine tons of sand, stone and cement which was only a portion of the work required to give the tree back some of its youth. In spite of all past efforts, the tree blew down in the hurricane in September, 1938.

Sold To Dewings

In 1933, almost 250 years later, the homestead was sold by the Abbot family to Mr. Arthur Dewing of Newton who intended it for the Society for the Preservation of Antiquities, but at the time they had more old homes than they could maintain so were not interested. It then became the property of Mr. Dewing's daughter, Mrs. Lloyd Morain of California, who is the present owner.

The charming farmhouse with its large barns still stands in all its rustic dignity as an enduring monument to its original builder and is presently occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Philip Vigeant and Mrs. Vigeant's mother, Mrs. Ethel Robertson.

Women's Meeting

A meeting of the Massachusetts Women's department of the Congregational churches will be held at the Pawtucketway church in Lowell today. Delegates from the United Church Guild are planning to attend.

OBITUARIESMRS. MARY E. LANE

Mrs. Mary E. (O'Leary) Lane, 75 Chestnut st., wife of state police Sergeant Joseph M. Lane of the Framingham barracks, died the morning of Oct. 27. She was admitted to the Lawrence General hospital three weeks ago.

She was a native of this town and was the daughter of Cornelius and Bridget O'Leary.

Besides her husband, she leaves a daughter, Mary Theresa, a second grade student at Central school; a son, John Joseph Lane; three sisters, Sister Helen Patrice of the Order of Charity stationed in Nova Scotia, Mrs. Margaret Lynch of this community and Mrs. Dorothy O'Laughlin of No. Andover; three brothers, Vincent and Thomas O'Leary of Lawrence and Frank O'Leary, U.S. Army, stationed in New York city.

The funeral was held Oct. 29 from the late home with a solemn high Mass of requiem in St. Augustine's church.

The Rev. John J. Lane of St. Charles' Church, Woburn, was celebrant; The Rev. Henry B. Syvinski, O.S.A., deacon, and the Rev. Walter W. Lavin of St. Agnes' church, Reading, sub-deacon. Seated within the sanctuary were the Very Rev. Patrick J. Campbell O.S.A. pastor; the Rev. Joseph A. Curtin, pastor and the Rev. Maynard T. Malone of St. Charles' church, Woburn; the Rev. John J. Lane, pastor and the Rev. Walter J. Doyle of St. Theresa's church, North Reading; the Rev. William B. O'Connor of St. James' church, Boston.

James E. Sheard was the soloist and Miss Mary F. Lanigan was organist.

Burial was in Holy Sepulchre cemetery where Father Lane and all priests attending the Mass conducted committal services.

The bearers were John McDuffie, Francis Lane, James Roche, Daniel Murphy, James Lynch and Daniel Reilly.

HOWARD E. PILLSBURY

Howard E. Pillsbury, 65, 34 Cottage rd., Newbury, a former engineer in the local water department, died Sunday in Anna Jacques hospital, Newburyport.

For 14 years in the 1920's and 1930's and again in 1945 for about a year Mr. Pillsbury served as chief engineer at the Andover pumping station at Haggett's Pond.

Surviving are his widow and a daughter, Mrs. Isabel B. Dole, both of Newbury.

Funeral services were held Tuesday in Newburyport.

Growing with Andover, ELANDER & SWANTON'S today celebrates its 39th year by formally opening its newly expanded and completely modernized store.

The newly doubled floor and window area makes room for additional stock and will permit better service and display than ever before possible. The store is completely air conditioned for year 'round shopping comfort.

Founded in the Fall of 1916 as a small tailor shop in the old Valpey Block, corner of Post Office Avenue and Main Street by Carl Elander, the business has progressed until today, in its new dress, it represents one of the finest men's and boy's apparel stores in New England.

The Elander & Swanton policy of good, substantial quality at fair prices has made this new store possible. That policy will continue as the cornerstone of this business.

Selectmen Too Arbitrary

The selectmen have acted in a high-handed way in denying a full and complete hearing to five insurance agents who are seeking a share of the town's insurance business.

The matter came up some days ago, when five of the town's six agents appeared before the selectmen and asked "a fair distribution" of the business. It is now handled exclusively through the Smart and Flagg agency, which gives each of the other agents a portion of the commission. They do not, however, write any of the policies.

The five agents wanted to write some of the business with their own companies . . . and asked the selectmen to consider their request.

The selectmen agreed to consider it — and approved a meeting within two weeks or so, after the five agents had an opportunity to examine the policies. The five men arranged for an experienced insurance engineer-analyst to come here from Boston to go over the policies with them — so that the division could be worked out for presentation to the selectmen at that meeting. It was believed that a representative of the Smart and Flagg agency would be present at that meeting, so all sides could be heard.

It would have been a fair and open discussion of the problem which has come up several times during the years. That meeting would have thoroughly cleared the air, whatever eventual decision was made by the selectmen.

But the three elected officials couldn't see their way clear to allow that discussion.

They arbitrarily made a decision prior to that meeting and before the five agents had a chance to make their presentation based on an examination of the policies.

We believe that decision was too hastily made. It appears to have been a deliberate attempt to forestall the honest discussion of town business with all interested parties.

We believe that no matter what decision was eventually reached, whether the selectmen found the present system to be the best available or determined that a change would be to the town's best interests, that meeting — promised to the agents — should have been held and all facts considered before a decision was taken.

The selectmen, by a hurried ruling, have cast a shadow of doubt on the whole affair — so that now many people will wonder why it was considered necessary to avoid a frank, open discussion.

Only a reconsideration — with a public hearing for all interested parties — can clear the air.

The selectmen should take immediate steps to hold that hearing and then make their decision based on all the facts presented to them.

Planned Spending In Future Debated By Planning Board

A capital expenditure program for the town is under consideration.

The planning board voted Monday night to ask the Finance committee for a meeting soon to discuss methods of setting up such a program and the need for it here.

Members of the board, following a suggestion for its creation by Chairman Eugene A. Bernardin Jr. pointed out that the program will definitely be required if the town is to undertake many major projects in the future. Reference was made to a plan, in use in some towns and cities, under which the community plans ahead for six years. Each year, the municipality plans a major expenditure for six years ahead — thus preventing all projects from being considered at once and from too heavy a tax load being created from approval of too many projects in the same year.

Discussion of the capital expenditure program came up as the board, meeting in the library, discussed its master plan and many questions to be answered by it.

Priority Items

The board decided that industrial and residential zoning would require immediate action so that articles may be put in the March town meeting warrant. They also decided to immediately discuss, with Consultant Nord Davis, off-street parking problems, and streets and highways within the town. The board also has placed the sewer and water problems high on its list of items requiring immediate solution for possible action next March.

What Our Readers Say—

To the Editor of the Townsman:
I must express regret that the public school teachers of Andover feel they are entitled to something which 90 percent of the teachers in the state do not have — weekly salary payments. Involving, as it does, so much unnecessary effort and expense, I feel sure that most people do not regard it as for the best interests of the town.

I speak freely because I am approaching the retirement age and am not a candidate for re-election as town treasurer next March.

Sincerely
Thaxter Eaton

Down the Years with The Townsman

50 Years Ago — November 1905

The following names were placed on the list of voters by the registrars Saturday night: Percival Dove, William A. Donahue, Philip W. Foster, Frank S. McDonald, George A. Stewart and Charles Torrey.

A large class of 180 will be confirmed at St. Augustine's church by Bishop Brady, following the 10:30 Mass Sunday morning. There will be 15 in the first communion class.

Miss Faith Leonard formed a dancing class at the meeting of the November club Tuesday of this week.

Machinery is now running in the new mill of the Smith and Dove company in Abbot village. The new building gives the firm some much needed room as their business has expanded.

The Bradlee Mothers' club held its first meeting of the season in the kindergarten room last Tuesday afternoon.

The Rev. Arthur Gray Cummings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Cummings, has accepted a call to the First church of Middleboro, beginning his pastorate there next Sunday.

Punchard high school friends will be glad to learn that the prize won by the school in the voting contest of a Boston newspaper last spring. The prize consists of six pieces of statuary.

The Tuesday club held its first meeting of the fall season with Mrs. Charles H. Shearer at the Ocean View hotel, Winthrop.

Dr. E. C. Conroy has moved from the Barnard block to the Chickering place recently purchased by him.

Several members of the Free church parish were delegates at a recent conference held in the Trinity church in Lawrence.

25 Years Ago — November 1930

Republican candidates received strong support from Andover in the state election held Tuesday, although a Democratic governor and senator were elected statewide. Precinct four, from Morton st. south, went dry by a small margin while the other three precincts voted "wet".

Miss Mabel F. Brightman, children's librarian at Memorial Hall library, tendered her resignation at a meeting Tuesday night. She has accepted a position in the Newton library.

The Stowe junior high school football team will go to Billerica Saturday to play the Mitchell academy team. The Punchard team will meet Danvers at the Playstead Saturday at 2:30.

The annual memorial service for veterans who gave their lives in the World War will be held in the town hall Sunday at 7:45 p.m. They are arranged by Legion Post 8.

The Red Cross roll call will start Nov. 11 and continue until Nov. 28. All but 50 cents of each membership fee remains here for local services.

The League of Women Voters opened their season Tuesday with a luncheon in Christ church parish house, which attracted 150 members. Mrs. John M. Birdsall is the new president.

Another "Miss Charming" will be selected at the weekly dance to be held in the Knights of Columbus hall this evening under the auspices of the St. Augustine's Dramatic club.

The monthly meeting of the Woman's Guild of Christ church will be held next Thursday afternoon at 2:30 in the parish house.

A regular meeting of the Courteous Circle of Kings Daughters was held in the South church vestry last Monday afternoon.

St. Matthews lodge will hold its annual visitation banquet in the town hall Wednesday evening at 6:30.

10 Years Ago — November 1945

The Ways and Means committee of the Shawsheen Village Woman's club will hold a dessert bridge, Nov. 13, at 2:30 p.m. for charity. It will be in the Shawsheen School hall.

The first of this year's forums will be held in the library at 7:45 Monday evening. The subject will be "Jobs For All" and a short film will be shown.

The annual firemen's ball will be held Nov. 21 in Memorial auditorium. There will be an amateur night entertainment.

The American Legion and the Auxiliary are planning a big whist and bridge for Nov. 30 in the Memorial Gymnasium, with proceeds going to the rehabilitation fund.

Punchard students received a verbal spanking from Police Chief George Dane this week. He said Halloween would have been the quietest ever if the students hadn't started pulling up fences, signs and the like.

The United Victory Fund drive comes to a close Friday with a feeling of confidence that the goal will be surpassed. Mrs. William T. Rich is general sales chairman.

Punchard beat Stoneham last Saturday, 12-6 and takes on a powerful Needham team this Saturday. Observers claim the teams are about even, based on both having played Concord and both having won.

A United Council of Church Women has been formed here. Representatives of all denominations will take part in the new organization.

The Punchard Glee club has cancelled its plans to sing with the Community orchestra, due to the many activities at Punchard this year.

Fireman Joseph O'Donnell, USN, has arrived home from Cuba to visit his aunt, Miss Kate O'Donnell of Center st.

Maine City Adopts Resolution On Death Of Henry Boland

A resolution on the death of Henry J. Boland, brother of Postmaster Stephen A. Boland, was adopted Oct. 17 by the So. Portland Me., city council.

The late Mr. Boland was a businessman in that community and had served on the city council for two terms. Copies of the resolution were sent to Postmaster Boland and the Most. Rev. Francis J. Boland, resident chaplain of the Veterans' hospital in New York.

In part, the resolution stated: "For six years, until he retired from political life at the end of his second term, he contributed his vast experience and his keen judgement to the wise solution of the vital and intricate problems which confronted the city."

"He seldom failed to reveal a subtle sense of humor which was a constant source of delight to his many loyal friends and associates. In spite of his many honors and accomplishments, modesty remained throughout as one of his greatest virtues, silently proclaimed in demeanor and attitude".

Shawsheen School Chapel

The Shawsheen school held its regular chapel program on October 28th before a large gathering of parents and friends. The combined fifth grades under the direction of Mrs. Joseph Fingleton and Mrs.

William Durgin, fifth grade teachers, were the stars of the morning. Mrs. Miriam McArdle, director of music, supervised the youngsters musically.

Announcer James Romano opened the program with "Father We Thank Thee", which was followed by the "100th Psalm" by Judy Leadbitter. The theme for the morning was Autumn and Halloween was brought to mind instantly by Karen Ingenthron's recitation of "A Halloween Wish". Janice Colburn followed with "A Dream" and George Martin's piano solo called "Halloween" made the audience see witches and goblins. "The Jack-O-Lantern" was recited by Irene Walsh, followed by the chorus of the entire fifth grades singing a medley of songs. "An Autumn Party" was recited by Nancy North. The Audience then enjoyed "Melody of Love", played by the flutophoners Edith Clark, Margaret Hatem, Cynthia Burleigh, Jack Craig, Nancy Campbell, Kathy Ammon and Caroljean Locke.

Judy Groleau, Herbert Westbrook, Jane Carpentier and David Noyes recited a four-part piece entitled "A Smile", which comes in handy no matter what the season. The program came to a close with the "Salute to the Flag" and the entire audience joined in sing-rant at the request of the committee deal with the school addition, Shawsheen addition and the new Ball school.

They request $45,000 for a new school, six-room addition. The bids were substantial, the amount of $151,000 estimated for site development and construction.

The Shawsheen school is still in the drawing stage. The Perley F. Gilbert Associates recommended that $32,000 be requested above the original appropriation. They base figures on adding four rooms to the present structure that nearly like the present will be new addition will utilize existing facilities of the present building, they reported.

The sum of $7500 will be requested for preliminary plan for a new school in Ballardvale work, the committee indicated would be completed by March that an article could be in the annual town meeting for approval of a new school in the Vale.

Save Time

The board pointed out that the time can be saved by approving the special town meeting rather than waiting until March for the preliminary study. It is expected that the Board will consider its article Friday at its regular meeting.

Reasons for Request

The decision to request additional $45,000 for the school addition was reached week when bids were opened. The board found that the bid was $32,600 over the estimated costs of building a school. It was the Lowell and Son construction. Lowell which bid $183,600.

The town last spring approved an expenditure of $175,000 for the six-room addition. Since that time, the school committee added a library. It was pointed out at the meeting, however, another architect estimated costs prior to town meeting. Since that time, the Perley F. Gilbert Associates have been recommended by the board to do the work.

In addition to the obvious cost of $32,600 to the total bid, the committee was informed that about $5000 should be added for increased architect's fees which are figured at eight percent of construction costs at $6000 to $10,000. Rising construction costs that line have also been noted.

SPECIAL TOWN MEETING NOV. 21

rant at the request of the school committee deal with the West school addition, Shawsheen school addition and the new Ballardvale school.

They request $45,000 for the West school, six-room addition. The bids were substantially over the amount of $151,000 estimated for site development and construction.

The Shawsheen school addition is still in the drawing stages, but the Perley F. Gilbert Associates recommended that $32,000 be requested above the original $85,000 appropriation. They based their figures on adding four rooms to the present structure that will be nearly like the present wing. The new addition will utilize the heating facilities of the present building, they reported.

The sum of $7500 will be requested for preliminary plans for a new school in Ballardvale. That work, the committee indicated, would be completed by March so that an article could be inserted in the annual town meeting warrant for approval of a new school in the Vale.

Save Time

The board pointed out that a lot of time can be saved by approving the special town meeting article rather than waiting until March to ask for the preliminary study.

It is expected that the BPW will consider its article Friday night at its regular meeting.

Reasons for Request

The decision to request an additional $45,000 for the West school addition was reached last week when bids were opened.

The board found that the lowest bidder was $32,600 over the estimated costs of building and site development. It was the Louis Marion and Son construction firm of Lowell which bid $183,600.

The town last spring approved an expenditure of $175,000 for the six-room addition. Since that time, the school committee has added a library. It was pointed out at the meeting, however, that another architect estimated the costs prior to town meeting. Since that time, the Perley F. Gilbert associates have been retained by the board to do the work.

In addition to the obvious addition of $32,600 to the total expenditure, the committee was informed that about $5000 should be added for increased architect's fees which are figured at eight percent of construction costs and that equipment should be boosted from $6000 to $10,000. Rising costs in that line have also been noted during past months, the architects said. Thus the committee reached a figure close to the $45,000 included in the special town meeting article.

Shawsheen Will Cost More

The Shawsheen school addition, formerly estimated at $85,000, will go much higher according to the architects, based on current prices. The committee discussed several approximate figures, pointing out that it would be impossible to call another special town meeting in another month when the bids for that project came in over the estimate. Thus, they felt, ample funds should be sought now so that there will be no need to call another meeting.

New Ballardvale School

The Ballardvale school situation was discussed at some length with three representatives of the Bradlee School PTA.

Joseph Serio, Albert T. Warner and James L. Butler served as a delegation from the PTA to inquire about plans for the area.

They were told that the school committee favors a new school in Ballardvale and would take steps to have preliminary plans drawn for presentation at the annual town meeting in March.

Deserve Same Treatment

The three representatives from the Vale pointed out that the children there deserve the same treatment as children in other parts of town — and were assured by Secretary William Doherty that the town wouldn't stand for unequal treatment.

The question of facilities — gymnasium, auditorium and cafeteria — prompted the discussion. The men had been asked whether they thought all three were necessary in the new school. Their opinion was that the children should have just as much in the way of facilities as other school children have.

Get Out The Vote

Several committee members urged the three men to discuss the situation with the PTA in Ballardvale and "get them out" to the town meeting Nov. 21. It was pointed out that approval now of money for preliminary plans would save many months, as the eventual appropriation could then be requested in March at the annual town meeting. All three men agreed that they would help get the voters out to the town meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Smeltzer and son, Edward, of Clark rd. were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Doucette of Wilmington.

TOWN INSURANCE REMAINS UNCHANGED

representative of Smart and Flagg, after the present policies had been studied by the non-writing agents.

The meeting was tentatively arranged last week at a meeting between the non-writing agencies and the selectmen.

Asked For Business

At that time, the agents asked that the selectmen give them an opportunity to write a share of the town's business.

They are receiving an annual payment from the Smart and Flagg firm under an arrangement set up some years ago.

Thus, the agents were asking that they be allowed to write some of the business rather than merely receive some money each year, while handling none of the policies.

They claimed that the town's best interests could be guaranteed while giving each of the six agencies some of the business.

An analyst from Boston was to come here to examine the present policies for the group, prior to their proposed meeting with the selectmen.

Selectmen Decided

However, the selectmen, at their Monday night meeting, said they felt there should be no change in the present arrangement, whereby the Smart and Flagg agency handles all town insurance and remits a certain percent of the commission to the other agents.

Equal Distribution

The five - Eugene A. Bernard Jr., Doherty Insurance agency, W. Shirley Barnard agency, Douglas N. Howe and R. C. Simmers - had called for "an equal distribution" of the insurance business.

They said one of the agencies would be designated to service the account each year, to eliminate confusion. The five also suggested that their companies would welcome some of the town's business.

A representative of the Smart and Flagg agency declined to discuss the matter with this newspaper, pointing out that any insurance agent must first receive permission from his client before divulging details of the client's insurance. The statement from the selectmen was written soon afterwards.

Statement

"However well informed and capable of managing a town's insurance the selectmen try to be, they haven't the time or facilities to continually check rates, forms, changes in the insurance market, and the many other details involved in a complex insurance program like the town's.

"Placing the responsibility for the town's insurance with And-over's oldest and largest agency, engaged exclusively in the insurance business for more than a century, with the experience, facilities and affiliations so important to do the job well, gives the Town, without expense beyond the actual net premiums for the insurance purchased, the insurance supervision for which many businesses as well as municipalities, have on their payrolls well paid insurance managers.

"The present responsible agent makes careful periodic surveys of all policies and of the town property; recommends changes as conditions require; makes recommendations for keeping insurance rates down; acquaints town officials with new or extended coverages as they become available, handles all details relating to losses, and does all this at lowest cost to town consistent with the coverage purchased. And it has done this to the complete satisfaction of the successive boards since 1906!

"Dividend savings alone for the past 10 years have totaled over $25,000 and further savings to the town have resulted from constant checking of conditions for rate credits.

"Division of responsibility means no responsibility.

"When insurance is divided among several agents, it is exceedingly difficult to avoid omissions, eliminate overlapping coverages, prevent gaps in protection and properly coordinate all of the town's insurance - unless there is a salaried insurance manager - or unless one agency is definitely responsible for the job.

"Carelessness, lack of experience, lack of knowledge are costly in the handling of insurance just as in anything else - often more so. These are conditions frequently encountered when municipal insurance is made a political football.

"There appears, then, no benefit to the town in adopting the suggested division of insurance. The present program is better for the town. And it does not exclude the local established brokers. They share in the commission in accordance with the practice common in municipal insurance.

"While this naturally reduces their expense allowance, the supervising agency accepts the commitment agreeing to contribute a portion of their commission in the interest of businesslike supervision of the Town insurance and harmony in the local insurance industry.

"The selectmen therefore feel that there should be no change in the present arrangement since a better plan for supervising the town's insurance has been pro-

SCHOLARSHIP FUND CREATED BY GROUP

during the period from Sept. 15, 1940 to and including July 25, 1947. The trust agreement specifies that the veteran must have received an honorable discharge or continued to serve in the Armed Forces.

Other Scholarships

Other scholarships may be awarded to children of non-veterans or veterans whose service does not fall within the specified dates.

In the case of veterans' children, they may be in the graduating class of any high school, private school or other institution which provides a diploma or certificate equivalent to a high school diploma.

Other children must be in the graduating class of the Pynchard Free school or any other public high school in the town.

National Bank Trustee

Miss Greeley said the Andover National Bank will act as trustee of the fund and make final decisions on the recipients after recommendations have been made by a school's headmaster or dean.

The bank will act as trustee without the customary trustee's fee, she said.

The Servicemen's fund turned over $16,766.99 to the bank under terms of the trust. At the same time, the Servicemen's fund trust itself was extended for one year to handle collection of some $4200 in outstanding loans. Thus the total scholarship trust fund will eventually total over $20,000, she said.

$800 annual income

Income from that total should provide approximately $800 income a year, Miss Greeley explained and may be used for either four scholarships of $200 or eight scholarships worth $100. No scholarship may exceed $200 under the trust fund.

Miss Greeley said a student may, if the trustee wishes, receive the scholarship for several years during his or her college career. Thus, a student might receive aid for four years while attending college, depending on need and scholastic standing.

The trustee will consider, for scholarships, only those students who have "attained a good rank" and are "desirous of pursuing studies in a higher institution of learning or professional school".

Couldn't Build Home

Miss Greeley explained that the Servicemen's fund trustees felt the money remaining in the fund since the war would not be sufficient to build a home for the veterans organizations, as suggested by the veterans. The trustees, because of their belief that the building could not be built for the money, determined that the scholarship fund would be of greatest benefit to children of veterans and thus to the veterans themselves. They amended the original trust agreement, requiring a poll of all veterans in the town, so that that step would not be necessary.

Trustees of the fund, all agreeing to the scholarship fund, are Miss Greeley, James P. Christie, J. Everett Collins, Chester W. Holland, Charles O. McCullom, Vincent F. Stulgis and Harold W. Wennik.

George Reed brought last Saturday's football crowd to its feet with excitement when he scored the first Punchard touchdown. A Lexington player is about to fall on top of him, across the goal line. At left is Bill Fisher, number 38. (Leone Photo)

Playing good second-half football, the Blue Devils of Punchard overtook a strong Lexington club, winning 13-6, in last Saturday's game.

Thus they sport a 3-1 record for the season as they prepare for this Saturday's game at Winthrop high school.

A poor first half had Punchard rooters downcast, as Lexington scored once in the first quarter after a home team fumble on its own 45. A holding penalty pushed the ball deep into Andover territory. Then a pass from Lexington's Dave Adzigan to Jack Vance put the ball on the one and Adzigan took it over from there.

It wasn't until the third quarter that the Punchard club showed much to give their rooters encouragement.

A bad pass from center put Lexington in trouble, as an attempted punt failed. The Blue Devils took over on the Lexington 13. Alec Thompson and Dick Smith pushed it to the five where George Reed carried for the TD.

The second Punchard score

Will Reconsider Application To Enter Lowell St

The board of public works at its Friday meeting, will reconsider the application from the Shawsheen Luncheonette to create an access from its property to Lowell st.

The board has asked that Shawsheen residents interested in the application attend the meeting at 8 p.m.

At present, the luncheonette has access only on Poor st. town officials explained, and seeks to enter a driveway onto Lowell st. The application has once been turned down by the BPW but will be reconsidered, according to Chairman Sidney P. White.

came on a 60-yard run-back of a Lexington punt by Bob Dwyer in the fourth quarter. Bill Vickers passed to Bill Fisher for the extra point.

Although that ended the scoring, the thrills were far from over. A 64-yard pass from Lexington's Adzigan to Bill Evans was completed on the Punchard eight. A rock-solid defense, however, stopped the Lexington threat at the three where Punchard took over on downs.

BPW Hears Report On Water Dept.

Members of the board of public works are this week studying a report on the water department from BPW engineer Ralph Preble, who also acts as head of the water department.

Chairman Sidney P. White, commenting on the report after its receipt last week, indicated that serious study should be given its recommendations.

The report itself urged modernization of the equipment at the pumping station; added motorized equipment for greater efficiency with the current work force; and the seeking of additional water sources in the town, apart from Haggett's pond.

Mr. Preble's report pointed out that water supply is a big item, with the necessity for developing an adequate supply for industry being a major factor.

The full report will appear in next week's Townsman and will also include a subsequent report on the Elm st. water problem.
