Residents of West Andover will have an opportunity to find out what industrial rezoning means to them at a meeting Monday night in the old North District school.

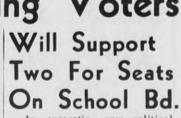

The industrial development committee will sponsor the informal hearing as a result of many pointed questions from West Andover res-idents whose land may be within the proposed industrial area.

Questionnaires sent out by the industrial group asked the land owners whether they would sell their land and also requested spe-cific data as to location, size, use, utilities and other specific materi utilities and other specific material.

Want Answers First

Homeowners in the area and those who own larger tracts of land have been asking questions about the proposed rezoning. Many have not sent back their question-naire, hoping to get further information before committing themselves to favoring or disapproving the proposal.

An energetic, new political committee will sponsor two candidates for the school committee in the annual town election.

The group of young parents, most of them with children in the primary grades, has been meeting informally and will soon hold a public meeting for all others who are interested. Candidates

Sponsored by the group are can-didates Phillips B. Marsden Jr., 9 Lockway rd. and Mrs. C. Edward Buchan, 81 Central st. The new political organization will take an active part in the campaign, but does not yet intend to step into other elective races, unless, as one member put it "The situation gets too bad". (Continued on Page 24)

Selectmen Claim Actions Right To Protect Town

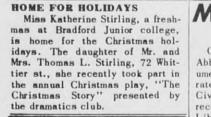

A financial understanding with William V. Heard by the board of selectmen - under which the town holds a check for $2500 and an assignment for another $2700 to assure the town of proper roads and utilities in his development - apparently is not a new proce-dure in town.

For this week a check for $1000 is being sent to William T. This-tle, treasurer of the Maplewood Homes Inc., which has been on deposit with the town clerk since July of 1954.

It was part of an original $2500 agreement with the selectmen, with a check for $1000 and one for $500 having been returned to the firm as it completed parts of the work in its development. Return of the final check coincides (Continued on Page 23)

Memorial Hall Library Was Built At Site Of Ruinous Fire

Out of the ruins of the Joseph Abbot fire emerged a cultural monument - a monument to comme rate those who had fallen in the Civil War and one we, of Andover, recognize as the Memorial Hall Library.

John Smith's Idea It was the brainchild of John Smith, who during his travels in Germany in 1870, observed the use of the public library and wrote from Dresden to his son Joseph: "You mention in your last letter "You mention in your last letter received here that there was nothing yet done with the lots up town where the buildings were burned. I have thought the corner lot, where Joseph Abbot's shop stood, would be a fine place for a Memorial Hall". Just so was the Memorial Hall Library conceived those who gave their lives in the war between the states. It was with this thought in mind that John with this thought in mind that John Smith, the active head of the Smith and Dove Co., who landed in this country in 1816 with only "a shilling, a Bible and his ma-chinists' tools", donated a large sum of money to be used for the purchase of land and as a building fund towards a practical and cul-tural memorial.

Interest Was Great

Not wasting any time some 300 citizens of the town met at the Town Hall on Dec. 17, 1870 to discuss the conditions of the 35,000 dollars pledged by John Smith, Peter Smith and John Dove. The conditions on this money, which was to be donated for the purpose of "erecting a library and reading room for the use and benefit of the residents of the town" stipulated that the sum of 15,000 dollars should be raised by volun-tary subscription. Fifteen thousand dollars was no small sum to

Opened In 1873

The building itself, of Italian architectural design, was built of brick with trimmings of Andover granite and was completed at a total cost of 43,000 dollars. Appropriately enough, the Memorial Hall library officially opened its doors to the public on Memorial Day in May, 1873.

To fill the shelves and to keep the library functioning properly, books were donated and a beques of 3,000 dollars was given by John Byers in memory of his brother, Peter, with the condition that "the library shall be open at such hours as may be most convenient for the working people". Thanks To Donors

Today, the Memorial Hall Li-brary as we know it, with its well-trained staff, looks much as it did after its face lifting in 1928. And for the excellent facil-ities which are afforded us, we should thank the 703 contributers who so willingly donated from 1 cents to 25,000 dollars for this memorial which has aided, in so many ways, the general education of the town speople.

be raised as the assessed taxes for the entire town were only 33,000 dollars. It was even suggested at the meeting that each taxpayer should double his tax for one year and thus insure the desired amount. And although 300 turned out for the meeting their enthusiasm and drive easily made up for the ones not present. Raised Their Share

By the 31st of the month, some 3,500 dollars was lacking and "for a short time the fate of the Memorial Hall hung in the balance" until some alert soul remembered that in 1866 the town had voted some 4,500 dollars toward the erection of a soldiers memorial. The building of the Memorial Li-brary was assured when it was unanimously agreed that this sum should be applied to its building fund.

Poor Gleason Street!

Poor, old Gleason Street.

Been here these many years; carried the weights of countless horses hooves, wagon wheels, car tires and human feet; been taken care of by the town every so often when conditions got too bad and, several times a year, has had snow plowed off her black-top cover.

Poor old street - just about as wide as several others in the area. Been around for a long time, longer than many in town. But they're accepted and Gleason is not.

And now, no-one wants the street.

The town says it isn't accepted - but has been doing work on it for many, many years.

Property owners along the street say they don't own it. thus the town must.

A while back, the town meeting voted to put in a water main worth $5000, so that a few folks could build their homes there. Town Counsel said the town couldn't spend the money because the street isn't accepted - but the town has obviously been spending money on the street for many years without question.

Despite that ruling, the voters approved the request for money for water.

Now the town counsel has, if we interpret his technically-phrased letter correctly, ruled that the town can't do the work.

Yet there even seems to be some doubt about his ruling and we can understand that too, for nowhere does he say "yes" or "no" - the wording never gives a specific answer and we ask you to read it and see for yourself, in this week's edition of the Townsman.

The matter is left up to an interpretation of the interpretation of the town counsel.

There seems to be one ray of light - a bill in the state legislature that will allow the selectmen to accept certain streets that are not up to modern standards but have been considered town streets for many years.

Gleason street is on that list, to the best of our knowledge. At least it was recommended by the board of public works and we assume the selectmen have it securely and permanently on the list of streets to be quickly accepted when the legislature acts.

When that will be, though, is anyone's guess. Might be January or might be next summer sometime. Can't tell 'bout the Great and General Court, except that it will get to the problem before it prorogues next fall.

Meanwhile, the folks with land on Gleason street need water so they can build their homes. They bought the land believing it to be fronting on an accepted street - in good faith, only to have the doubtful ownership problem arise.

Poor old Gleason street - just when it's about to come of age, and get some houses along its sides, something has to come up to stop it.

We'd guess, though, that the town will eventually wind up taking care of the street just as it has for the past 100 years or so - and most officials in the town agree. So why all the legal dilly-dallying? Let's use some common sense, instead.

Tip to motorists: Remember that A great many people see thempassing on hills and curves is a selves as others see them, but they grave mistake. refuse to believe what they see.

What Our Readers Say—

COLLINS WRITES ON GROWTH

To the Editor of the Townsman: "I read with some misgivings the letter of Daniel E. Hogan Jr. in your issue of Dec. 8. One of his quotes struck home to me as I'm sure it did to many of your readers — "to catch up with the needed improvements, we badly need some young blood to hasten the catching up". "I fear Mr. Hogan has lost sight of the fact that "we need taxes to hasten the catching up". It is not as easy for the majority of our overburdened taxpayers to find the wherewithal as it is apparent-ly for Mr. Hogan. 'Rome was not built in a day' nor Philadelphia, nor Boston, nor Lexington, nor Concord. Wise heads have made America grow and 'in stride'." J. Everett Collins

Sewer Assessment Set For Vale By Public Works Board

A Ballardvale sewage assessment of $54,142.57 has been a proved by the board of public works.

The betterment tax represents $3.24 a foot for some 16,511.49 feet along which the sewer line

The BPW decided last week to set a $125 minimum charge for those whose frontage would not bring their payment up to at least that figure.

Chairman Sidney P. White, suggesting the move, said he believed it would be unfair for a property owner with a few feet of frontage to be able to enter the sewer for only a few dollars, where it would cost others a far larger sum.

The board agreed, also, that the payment of the minimum charge will be credited against any fu-ture assessment if the sewer is extended past the property which has already been connected.

Isham infirmary at Phillips academy shared in the recent grant of half-a-billion dollars from the Ford Foundation.

The infirmary will receive $10,-000, as one of the privately supported hospitals and infirmaries receiving money to help in expanding their services to the public. Merrimack college was the largest local recipient, getting $141,-600. The money will be used to help raise teachers' salaries, unterms of the grant. Bon Secours hospital and the Lawrence General hospital also received money under the huge grant. Both institutions said the funds will go toward their building funds.

Perhaps the biggest Christmas present to be given this year was the announcement by the American Woolen company that it will in-crease wages by 10 percent, based on current prosperity.

Thursday afternoon in the Free church vestry the Ladies' Benevo-lent society held one of its regular sewing meetings.

The annual meeting of the Andover C. E. Union was held in the Ballardvale Congregational church Friday evening, Daniel H. Poor of Ballardvale was elected president for the comint year, to succ Gayton Abbott of West Parish.

The sleighing is at the best, after Saturday and Sunday's snowfall which left an even, white mantle of snow without drifts. The Andover Guild recently issued its annual report for the year ending Oct. 1. Relief work is the oldest department of the Guild, which was organized to meet prob-lems created by the panic of 1892. But with prosperity among us, that department is not functioning very much, having helped only 19 families during the past year.

Selectmen Asked To Discuss Long-

Range Finance Plan

The planning board has invited the selectmen to discuss long-range financial planning for the town A letter of invitation has been sent to the board of selectmen by Mrs. Virginia Hammond, secretary of the planning group, asking the selectmen to set a date for the meeting.

The letter asks the advice and cooperation of the three-man board of selectmen in setting up a fi-nancial plan and quotes a section of the law which establishes that activity as part of the planning board's function.

The planning board has several times discussed and accented the pressing need for a financial plan for the town. It would involve establishing a priority listing for major projects requested by the various departments and boards. It also would include recommen-ding a method of financing the ects as they come up.

FinCom Approved Members of the Finance com-mittee, sitting in with the planning board recently to discuss the idea, agreed that the plan is an important step in sound town planning. It was generally agreed, at that time, that the various town boards and departments would have to cooperate in order to provide the planning board with information it would need to establish a priority list.

There has, as yet, been no date set by the selectmen for their meeting with the planning board to discuss the financial plan.

Annual Party

The annual children's Christmas party of the Andover Sportsmen's club will be held at the club Dec. 18 at 2 p.m.

Gifts will be given to children of members and there will be movies and refreshments. Thomas Blunt has requested that all gifts, labelled with the recipients name, be left at his home, 70 Salem st., before Friday

with receipt of approval from town engineer Halph Preble that Westwind rd. is in creditable shape. Planning Board Chairman Eugene A. Bernardin Jr. this week pointed out that the planning board was informed by its then chairman, Kirk Batcheller, that the selectmen were going to do something about the Heard de-velopment. That was last spring, Mr. Bernardin stated. He pointed out that the planning board and selectmen have never entered into an agreement on the matter, other than the information passed along by the chairman at the time.

The selectmen have pointed out that the town engineer has estimated costs of finishing work in the Heard development at up to $6000. They claim they have $5200 assured them for performance of the work. Don't Control V.A.

"We don't control the VA", the selectmen exclaimed. They explained that, if the Veterans' administration has been requiring that $400 from the sale of each house be retained by the local bank, then that is the VA's business and not the selectmen's. Total of $13,200

It was reported that about $13,200 has been held up through V.A. action plus the check and assignment to the town. The se-lectmen have pointed out that the action was originally taken to assure the town that all proposed streets in the area and utilities would be in good shape before the developer left the work. None of the selectmen would say, this week, whether the board would take any action on the matter towards a reduction in the amount of money now being held up, apparently to assure the town of adequate road and utility construction. Pike School Honor

Atty. Thomas Sullivan told the board members that the section of the general laws on which part of the town counsel's ruling was based was adopted in 1907 -while Gleason st. had been in existence before that date and therefor not included in the law. Sub-Division Law

Atty. Stulgis told the Townsman this week, however, that the subdivision control law clearly outlines a situation like the Gleason st. problem and says that it is a sub-division. Under that ruling, the homeowners on Gleason st. will have to file plans for a sub-division with the planning board and get that board's approval be-fore the street can be accepted and town work done on or under the street.

It was brought out at the meeting Thursday that Gleason st. is on the list of unaccepted streets which will come under a bill now filed in the legislature. That bill, it is explained, will allow the selectmen to accept certain streets which were long thought to be accepted streets.

May Not Be Accepted

But Atty. Stulgis this week told the Townsman that Gleason st. may not be on that list when the time comes for the selectmen to act. He said the street never has had any homes along it, as have about 30 others which are being considered for acceptance under the emergency legislation.

He also pointed out that streets, to be accepted, have to live up to certain standards under sub-divi-sion control laws and regulations. Thus, he said, it is quite possible that Gleason st. might not be on that accepted list when the selectmen take action next year. It is believed that the legislature may act on the bill early in the session so that the local boards can proceed with proper action early in the spring. Mr. Stu

Mr. Stulgis pointed out this week that the planning board had asked for his ruling on whether Gleason st. should be considered as an accepted, unaccepted or other kind of way and whether the area is a sub-division or not. The request came after Atty. Sullivan told the planning board that he believed Gleason st. did not qualify as a private way under the statute and, thus, the planning board would not have jurisdiction over house lots there. Special Meeting

It was pointed out at the last special town meeting that both Fred Doyle, who sold the lots, and the people who bought them believed that the street was accepted and that the sale of lots was not under the heading of a was not under the heading of a sub-division.

The voters approved $5000 for a water main along the street, even after town counsel told them he believed it would be illegal. Several voters pointed out that they wished to be fair with wouldbe residents of Gleason st., because the town had put in water along other streets where homes were to be built and the property owners on Gleason st. had bought the land in good faith, believing the street to be accepted.

Said Opinion Reversed It was shortly after the special town meeting that Atty. Sullivan appeared before the BPW to ask consideration of his legal inter-pretation which would allow the BPW to put in water mains even if the street is unaccepted. He told the BPW that he would have prepared that interpretation

ephone, that the proposal was legal. Thus, Atty. Sullivan in-formed the BPW, he was surprised by the ruling given at town meeting and was unprepared to refute

Will Appear Atty. Stulgis is scheduled to appear soon before the BPW to dis-cuss its powers and responsibilities. He is also to discuss and explain his ruling on Gleason st., according to Chairman Sidney P. White. But Mr. Stulgis said this week that he has not, as yet, had a request from the board to discuss the matter. COUNSEL'S RULING

"Gleason street, being an un-

accepted way, comes within the control of the Subdivision Control

Act. "The Planning Board, estab-lished under our General Laws Chapter 41, Section 81A and said law being accepted by the Town Meeting, gives the Planning Board authority to make a master plan as also voted by the town meeting and the right to ensure adequate laying out of ways, water sewer-age, drainage and any other re-quirements in subdivisions.

Subdivision of lots on Gleason street have not been approved by the Planning Board and it is therefore my opinion that unless the subdivider meets with the requirements such plans cannot be ap-Proved. "Chapter 41, Section 77 states that no water, sewer, drain, water pipe or light shall be installed un-less such way has been laid out in accordance with the statutes. This statute applied to the old planning board set-up and it is my opinion that it carries over under the new Subdivision Control Act.

"Other subdividers have been required to put up a bond to en-sure compliance with the sub-division control law by putting in their own water, sewerage, drain-age and building of the ways to a finished surface before any build-ing permits are issued, and in my opinion Gleason street is no exception. "I find under G.L. (General Laws) Chapter 41, Section 81M, the legislative statement of pur-
