Offers To Give Water Pipe

The Realty Construction company has offered to provide 1000 feet of 12 inch water pipe and fittings to the town for improved water service to its proposed development off Elm st.

Atty. Albert Sartorelli told the planning board Monday night that the pipe is valued at $4.41 a foot and fittings run the cost up

Selectmen Vote Open Meetings

Andover's selectmen have opened their doors.

By a unanimous vote Tuesday morning, the board agreed to allow the newspapers and public to attend regular weekly meetings at 7:30 each Monday night.

Selectman William V. Emmons made the precedent-breaking motion and Selectman Stafford A. Lindsay seconded it. Chairman Sidney P. White added his approval.

The action brought to an end many years of closed selectmen's meetings, after which the secretary handed over the minutes to Town Clerk George Winslow to be given to representatives of the newspapers.

Business connected with the welfare department will continue to be privately discussed, as required by law, and personal business of citizens that may come to the board from time to time may also be handled privately, it is pointed out.

Dr. William V. Emmons soundly trounced Atty. Richard K. Gordon, 2878 to 1573, in Monday's election. John Shepard tallied 867 votes.

Top vote-getter, although unopposed for office, was Moderator Roland H. Sherman, with 4489 votes out of a possible 5449 votes cast.

In other contested offices, David M. Thompson piled up a commanding lead over Benjamin C. Brown. The vote was 3241 to 1853. Thompson led in every precinct.

MISS ANNA M. GREELEY

Miss Anna M. Greeley, in a nip and tuck race, edged out Wilson Knipe Jr., 2328 to 2170. James S. Martin ran far behind with 799 votes.

Frederick S. Allis and Reta Buchan rolled up terrific pluralities over their seven opponents in every precinct. Their final

The Finance committee has approved the new South school.

Member Charles Hatch Tuesday night told the school committee that approval would be given the new structure, estimated at $980,000 by Perley F. Gilbert associates, architects engaged by the school committee.

Board Secretary William Doherty said Wednesday that the school committee will ask the voters at town meeting to amend the article so as to appoint a special building committee. That special committee will be named to include all five present members of the school board, he explained, plus Town Treasurer Anna M. Greeley and Mrs. Dorothy T. Partridge.

ARCHITECTS ASK VOTERS TO COMPARE SCHOOLS

The school committee and representatives of the Perley F. Gilbert associates agreed Tuesday night that costs of the new South school should be compared with the cost of the Central Elementary school, if that building were to be constructed today.

Frank Kiernan of the architectural firm said the Central school, plus heating plant, at today's prices, would exceed the cost of the South school. He pointed out that there are more square feet in the new building, planned for the Ballardvale and South Andover area, than in the Central school. Comparisons of per square foot costs with the new high school, he said, are unrealistic because that cost varies with the size of the building, thus making a comparison of little value.

Town Manager Question Was Thoroughly Debated By Many

Blows were struck for and against town manager during the past week, as the time for decision came nearer.

Voters will be asked to give their decision Saturday, when considering an article that would allow the question to come before all the voters via the ballot.

Moderator Offers Speed-up Solution

An attempt to save time at town meeting Saturday, without interfering in any way with the rights of the voters, is being made by Moderator Roland Sherman.

In his efforts he has the approval of the selectmen and Finance committee.

Briefly, the effort is toward eliminating the reading of all articles in full - at a proposed saving of an hour - and passing in a group all budget items that have not been singled out for individual debate by any voter.

A statement from Mr. Sherman this week explains his suggestions in detail:

Preview Meeting Debated Schools

A long discussion of the school department budget, during which the Taxpayers association expressed its displeasure with its size, highlighted the preview town meeting Feb. 29.

The second session, called for March 2, attracted some 25 persons who discussed budgets, residential and industrial rezoning and heard association President Henry Wolfson outline the reasons behind recommendations of the group.

At the meeting last Wednesday, Mr. Wolfson told about 75 persons that the school committee had granted both routine increments and a pay raise to teachers and other personnel - giving them far more than other town employees probably will be granted. Both the taxpayers and the Finance committee have recommended a $3 increase for other departments.

A long discussion over the way school personnel receive normal step rates in their salaries included a debate between Mr. Wolfson and Supt. Edward I. Erickson over how many teachers left the system in the last year to accept better paying jobs. Mr. Wolfson said three had done so while Mr. Erickson said it was four.

Rezoning Ok'd.

During the Friday night meeting, the Taxpayers president told the group that the residential rezoning would have a good effect on the town by restricting its growth. He also said industrial rezoning is needed, but felt that some reduction in the size of the West Andover zone could be undertaken. He said the Taxpayers would recommend a zone roughly bounded by the river, Fish brook, North st. and River rd. and a strip along Route 28. Whether the article as written can be amended is a big question, he explained. Authorities, he pointed out, are not certain whether a rezoning article can be amended to include less than the original provisions or not.

Tax Rate

During the meetings, Mr. Wolfson said there was little in the budgets, other than the school committee budget, that can be cut down.

That a $57 tax rate is inevitable he declared, can be seen by the fact that the budgets alone - including the original $6 pay raise - would cause the town to spend enough to equal $57 per thousand.

PROMOTED TO LT. COL.

William J. Collins has been promoted to lieutenant colonel in the U. S. Air Force at Maxwell Air Force base in Alabama. A former resident of Washington st. here, he has been attending staff and command school since last October.

He is a graduate of St. Augustine's school, St. James high school in Haverhill and the University of Alabama, from which he received his B. S. degree in aeronautical engineering. He later received a B. S. degree in industrial engineering from the same university.

PLAN BEE EXHIBIT

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Neunzer attended a committee meeting in Concord recently to help plan the Middlesex County Beekeepers association exhibit at the flower show in Boston. The Neunzers will be at the booth on March 17.

Annual Lenten Musical Service At Free Church

The annual Lenten musical service at the Free Christian church will be presented March 18 at 7:30 p.m.

All three choirs of the church will participate in the service and the guest organist will be Ivar Sjostrom, organist and musical director at the Second church, West Newton. For many years Mr. Sjostrom has been recognized as an outstanding church musician and recitalist, having been heard many times at Methuen Memorial Music Hall, as well as throughout New England. Donald L. Amy, organist of the Free church, will direct the choirs.

The chief choral work to be sung will be the Senior Choir's presentation of the Passion music from Handel's Messiah.

The most frequent performances of the Messiah in our churches are given during the Christmas Season, at which time Part One is sung. Thus the choruses and solos concerning the prophecies, birth and ministry of Christ are familiar to everyone.

Parts Two and Three of the Messiah cover the Passion, Pentecost and the Introduction of the gospel of Christ to the whole world.

For the performance at Free Church only the music dealing with the suffering and death of Christ, the resurrection, the ascension, and faith in salvation and eternal life, has been selected.

The program is: Chorus - Behold the Lamb of God; Alto - He was Despised; Chorus - Surely He has Born Our Griefs; Tenor - All They That See Him; Chorus - He Trusted In God; Tenor - Thy Rebuke Has Broken His Heart; Behold And See; He Was Cut Off Out of the Land Of The Living; But Thou Didst Not Leave His Soul In Hell. Chorus - Lift Up

Your Heads; Soprano - I Know That My Redeemer Liveth; Chorus - Since By Man Came Death; Baritone - Behold, I Tell You A Mystery; The Trumpet Shall Sound; Chorus - Then Shall Be Brought To Pass; O Death, Where Is Thy Sting; But Thanks Be To God; Soprano - If God Be For Us; Chorus - Hallelujah.

The soloists for this performance will be Shirley Brennan, soprano; Margaret Campbell, soprano; Emma Stevens, contralto; David Reynolds, tenor; Frederick Fitzgerald, tenor; and John Carver, baritone.

STUDENT RECITAL IN DAVIS HALL

On Sunday evening at 7:30 Miss Kate Friskin, Miss Gertrude Tingley, Miss Gertrude Ehrhart, Raymond Coon and William Schneider, all of the Abbot academy Music department, will present a number of their students in a recital in Davis Hall. Day Scholars taking part are Diana Hallowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Penrose Hallowell and Barbara Bradley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Bradley Jr., who will sing a duet; Ann DiClementi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank DiClementi, who will play a piano selection; Elizabeth and Ellen Edmonds, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Edmonds, will present violin and cello selections.

Poor-Perry House Retains Colonial Charm; Built In Revolutionary Era

By Kay Noyes

The roots of Andover's forefathers are deeply embedded in the history of Colonial America and the strength and character of these early settlers that served to build a sturdy foundation for an infant nation seem to be symbolized in the sturdiness and character of the homes they have left for future generations to admire.

The handsome Poor-Perry house, once known as "Elm Knoll" and prominently situated at the junction of Phillips and Central streets is one of the many old Andover homes with just such a heritage. It was built in 1763 by Deacon Daniel Poor, a prosperous farmer, who as a member of the historic band of Minute Men had pledged himself to forsake his duties and take up the fight against the British at a minute's notice.

Fought In Revolution

Along with many other Andover men he took part in the fighting at Lexington and Concord and at the Battle of Bunker Hill he served under Capt. Benjamin Farnum, also a local man. It is reported that during this battle Daniel Poor's family could observe the sky fire from Holt's Hill and hopefully prayed for his safe return. Their prayers were answered when, after serving seven years with the Army of the Revolution, he returned to Andover to become, in 1794, the Deacon of the South church, a position he held for 19 years.

Sixteen years after the Deacon's death, in 1814, the house became the property of Francis Cogswell, a lawyer from Ossipee, N.H. who married Mary Sykes Marland, daughter of Abraham Marland of Andover. Francis Cogswell, a very influential man in his day held many important offices. He was president of the Boston and Maine Railroad, overseer of Harvard college and was one of the early cashiers of the Andover bank.

Was Admiral's Son

One hundred and one years ago Capt. Oliver Hazard Perry, son of namesake of Commodore Perry, the American naval hero who defeated the British at the Battle of Lake Erie, gave additional prestige to the house on the knoll when he became its new owner. Capt. Perry had resigned his commission six years prior to his arrival in Andover, where he planned to live a comfortable country life with his family while carrying on his business affairs. It was here that he lived until his death in 1878.

In the late 1880's Lyman Blinnap, a Boston business man, resided here for a short while at the completion of his new house on Central st.

Mouse Tail Rd.

In 1891, "Elm Knoll" became the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Torr. The little road which runs in back of the house bears the name of Torr rd. for this same family. It was not always known as such and at one time had the name of "Mouse Tail" as well as "Piccolo ave.", a name which it acquired from the Torr's memory of their dog, Piccolo.

POOR-PERRY HOUSE

The Misses Harriet and the Ward, nieces of Mr. Torr, inherited the estate from their father and through their grandfather the Andover Historical Society received a beautiful clock, secretary desk and other pieces that once occupied the beautiful home.

Restored Murals

H. Winthrop Pierpont, a well-known Andover artist, was retained by Mr. and Mrs. George Torr, the next occupants of the Poor-Perry house to restore the unusual old murals that originally had been painted in the occupancy of one of the tenants. The story goes that scenic murals painted on the walls of the northwestern part of the house were done by a transient artist who, in return for a room and board, deftly covered the walls with a colorful panorama of the battle of the Marston to this day.

A number of changes were made in the original house during the Torr occupancy. The scroll work was removed from the front door and a much more effective entrance was emerged. The north wing was removed around this time and other changes were made in the part of a lovely bay window along with a two-story porch on the south side of the house. The large ell on the west side was also added after the building of the house but records showing the exact date could not be found.

Owned by Browns

This lovely old house has been owned by several owners in national as well as local affairs, has been the home of the past 30 years of Mr. George Gibson Brown and his son. And today, having almost 200 years, it still retains its antique authenticity. The beautiful entrance hall creates a lovely atmosphere made more lovely by a clear view of the conservatory. A feeling of peace is given by the stairway which adds to the picture of colonial charm. The large livingroom is dominated by hand-carved moulding and an added touch is achieved by the lovely ceiling windows. Lovely places, panelled shutters, floor boards and unusual panelling emphasize the beauty of this old colonial home. The original Indian which were such a necessity in the early builder can still be found in the house today.

The spacious white house stands as a landmark reminder for present generations of the architectural beauty of the Revolutionary War period.

POOR-PERRY HOUSE

The Misses Harriette and Martha Ward, nieces of Mrs. Torr, inherited the estate from their aunt and through their generosity the Andover Historical Society received a beautiful grandfather's clock, secretary desk and other pieces that once occupied this beautiful home.

Restored Murals

H. Winthrop Pierce, a well known Andover artist, was retained by Mr. and Mrs. J. Harry Kidder, the next occupants of the Poor-Perry house to restore the unusual old murals that had originally been painted during the occupancy of one of the earlier tenants. The story goes that the scenic murals painted on the walls of the northwest bedroom were done by a transient artist who, in return for a night's lodging, deftly covered the walls with a colorful panorama still intact to this day.

A number of changes were made in the original house during the Kidder occupancy. The ornate scroll work was removed from the front door and a simple but much more effective doorway emerged. The north porch was removed around this time and other changes were the addition of a lovely bay conservatory along with a two-story addition on the south side of the house. The large ell on the south end was also added after the original building of the house but definite records showing the exact builder could not be found.

Its beautiful entrance hall creates a gracious atmosphere made even more lovely by a clear view of the rear conservatory. A feeling of elegance is given by the graceful stairway which adds to the overall picture of colonial charm. The large livingroom is decorously surrounded with hand carved moulding and an added grace is achieved by the lovely floor to ceiling windows. Lovely old fireplaces, panelled shutters, wide floor boards and unusual wall panelling emphasize the age and beauty of this old colonial house. The original Indian shutters which were such a necessity to the early builder can still be found in the house today.

Build The New School

Town meeting will have to decide whether the town should build another elementary school in Ballardvale to serve the southern end of town.

There is little argument about the need — those for and against the school concede that a new structure is urgently needed to solve the housing problem and to get the youngsters already in the Bradlee school out of a building which no longer is satisfactory for the purpose.

So we come face to face with the situation — dollars must be spent but how many?

The school committee has estimated that the building — 18 classrooms, kindergarten and auxiliary rooms such as auditorium, cafeteria and the like — will cost $980,000. The estimate allows nothing for contingencies but a $20,000 allowance for site development is included. It provides for ceptic tanks in the event that the town does not extend the sewer up Andover st. before 1957. If sewage facilities are available then, the cost will be less than the $20,000 allowed in the estimate.

The remainder of the estimate breaks down this way: $822,856 for construction, $63,140 for the architects, $74,000 for equipment.

At the preview town meeting last week, the Taxpayers association expressed deep concern with the total cost, pointing out that it averages out to about $50,000 per room. Comparisons were made with other schools in Essex county towns which were built, it was said, at costs ranging from $30,000 to $45,000 per room.

The association has withheld its approval until it has a chance to examine plans for the building.

The Finance committee has held back its comment until a specific amount of money is named by the school committee on the floor of town meeting.

We agree that $980,000 is a lot of money. It will substantially increase the town's burden in the next few years as interest and principal payments become due.

But who are we — or who is any citizen — to, in effect say, "we know more about school construction than the architects; more about building costs than the estimating engineers; more about the educational needs of the school than the school committee."

While the school committee and the architects can and should be questioned about their decisions, so understanding can be attained, it is hard to see where individual voters can expect to suggest types of construction, methods of drawing plans or the inclusion or exclusion of rooms and facilities said to be needed for educational purposes that have not already been considered by the professionals.

We must accept the fact that the school committee and the superintendent of schools must be more aware of the needs than any of us; that the architects, chosen after interviews with several firms, are competent.

We feel that sharp questioning will bring full understanding of the plans and the cost of construction — and then one single question will remain:

Can the town afford to spend the money?

That is the basic question. We feel the answer is yes.

Suitable housing for school children is an absolute necessity. Figures show that the new building will not go too far beyond housing those youngsters demanding immediate space. A few rooms, it is true, will be vacant. But that is planning for the future — build the 18 rooms now, knowing that they will be filled up within a matter of a very few years.

The other way is to plan for the present, build 12 rooms and fill them immediately. Then add six more soon and eventually pay more for the completed 18-room building than is now estimated.

We can see no other answer than to approve the new building as it is recommended by the school committee.

MANAGER PLAN WELL DEBATED

In a public debate last Thursday, Selectman J. Everett Collins and Ipswich Town Moderator Edmund Kelleher took the negative side while Medford City Manager James Shurtleff and study committee member Wallace Brimer argued for the plan.

In another session Friday afternoon, the school committee debated the question with committee Chairman Howell Stillman and Secretary Thomas Sullivan.

It was at the latter meeting that school committeeman William Doherty asked Mr. Stillman if he was trying to take over the operation of the town through a town manager system.

Debaters

At the debate Thursday, Mr. Kelleher gravely asked his audience why Andover, in such good financial shape and known to be such a fine town, should consider a manager. He outlined many factors — including higher taxes and added town personnel — that appeared to him to be reasons for refusing to make a change.

Mr. Collins' statement appearing in this week's Townsman outlines his position on the question.

On the pro side, Mr. Shurtleff outlined the history of the manager form of administration and spoke of advantages in centralization of authority and responsibility. Mr. Brimer told of the local committee's work and suggested that better cooperation, more efficiency, less confusion and good town planning would result from the manager system.

School Session

Friday's school committee meeting, during which the board did not reverse its stand against the manager in relation to the system's affect on the operation of school buildings, grew hot.

Member Doherty asked Mr. Stillman whether he was trying to take over control of the town and was told "no".

When Mr. Stillman asked Supt. Edward I. Erickson what difference it makes who sweeps the floor he was told that the janitors are as important in their field as teachers in theirs.

The study committee members had appeared before the board to ask it to reconsider its decision against the plan and to explain the system's affect on school maintenance personnel, maintenance of buildings and on new construction problems in the future.

Town Meeting

Meanwhile, the town meeting Saturday, with many problems to be solved, will be held at 7 p.m.

Facing the voters will be high budgets, problems of rezoning, increases for town employment, manager, Rogers brook and a number of highly capital expenditures. Also of importance will be rezoning sections of town to large creating industrial zone in Andover and Lowell Junction.

The Taxpayers association report to the voters, to recommend any of the expenditures. It will also recommend a master-capital plan, the report of which has been agreed that some projects be undertaken but few would be more sensible than a plan rather than starting a new one.

Taxpayer President E. J. son, both in the report preview town meeting last week warned that a $57 tax on the home owners here just get ready.

One item of business in the warrant is selectmen's request for a committee to start a capital program. Mrs. Virginia Hammond, of the planning board, outlined a wealth of material on the subject, which she would be invaluable to the committee.

APPROVES SCHOOL, MEETING SATURDAY

It is reported that Mr. Hatch asked the school committee to consider hiring a consulting engineer to work on the plans and the committee agreed to consider the request.

Town Meeting

Meanwhile, the town meeting
Saturday, with many critical problems to be solved, will begin at 1 p.m.

Facing the voters will be record-high budgets, problems of pay increases for town employees, town manager, Rogers brook drainage and a number of highly important capital expenditure requests.
Also of importance will be the decision on rezoning several sections of town to larger lots and creating industrial zones in West Andover and Lowell Junction.

The Taxpayers association, in its report to the voters, has failed to recommend any of the capital expenditures. It will await presentation of a master-capital expenditure plan, the report said. Members have pointed out that they agree that some projects should be undertaken but feel that it would be more sensible to wait for a plan rather than starting projects.

Warns of Rate

Taxpayer President Henry Wolfson, both in the report and at a preview town meeting last Friday, warned that a $57 tax rate faces the home owners here just on budgetary items.

One item of business not contained in the warrant will be a selectmen's request for a special committee to start a capital expenditure program. The selectmen, most members of the Finance committee and two planning board members debated the proposal last Saturday afternoon and decided that a special committee could best handle the planning program.
Mrs. Virginia Hammond, secretary of the planning board, has accumulated a wealth of material on the subject, which the group felt would be invaluable to a special committee.

FinCom Verdict

Looking briefly through the articles, the FinCom has approved

Collins' Reasons Against Manager

A statement, stipulating his reasons for opposing town manager, has been made by J. Everett Collins. The verbatim statement following follows closely Mr. Collins' remarks at last Thursday's debate on the subject: The statement reads:

"It is apparent to me that the gentlemen of the committee appointed by the moderator, Mr. Sherman, to investigate our town government have, after exhaustive study, concluded that Andover needs a town manager form of government. It is quite clear to me that they have not given this proposal as it refers to Andover too much scrutiny.

"That government in Andover has operated on a sound and frugal basis is most apparent. I hope to prove that the co-operation and co-ordination between departments is most productive. Our town has an integral system of departmental operation which has operated most advantageously to the interest of our citizens. The committee states, "There is no co-ordination between departments." This of course is a misstatement of the first order. Our police department, fire department, assessors' department, treasurer's department, town clerk's department, tax collector's department, old age assistance and welfare department, and veterans' relief department are as all others staffed by career people. They know their jobs, and it is with a very decided joy, and it is within the jurisdiction spelled out in the law, that our board of selectmen has had on only very few occasions to question their procedure.

"There is no supervision of expenditures' is another of the committee's statements. This again is a misstatement.

"The selectmen have the duty and the power to disapprove any expenditure, other than the school department expenses. And I might add that it is a pertinent fact, and the committee must have known it, that the town accountant is all powerful in the approval of bills, contracts, and expenditures. There have been many occasions when the accountant has held up and disapproved payments when in his extensive authority he has deemed them not in order. The committee has referred in quotation marks to a centralized purchasing department. It is well to know and this was not brought out in the committee's report that all purchases over $100 must be put out to bid. Other than tax forms, town clerk's forms, paper, pencils, and numerous other trivial purchases contracted by departments with jurisdiction, everything over $100 must be placed on a bid basis. The Town Accountant must be advised and must pass on all bids, and in his very definite authority approves or disapproves the expenditures.

"The town manager form of government has in my opinion arrived at a point where it could be called a racket. I say this advisedly because with some lengthy experience in state government I know the exceedingly potent strength, with their association of national scope, that the town and city managers are able to present before governing bodies.

"This town manager plan is a "whim", strong or comparatively so in the rural states such as Maine where there is no state supervision over accounts as we have here in this commonwealth. Incidentally the state audit just completed under the supervision of the division of accounts of the commonwealth does not make one recommendation or correction. In fact, it found all accounts in our town in very excellent condition and has given Andover an AA rating.

"It is my earnest hope, as I step down from a long and interesting career in town government, to see Andover carry on in democratic tradition that we have known these many, many years.

"Money in the bank is a very pertinent proof of good management. Look please at Andover's status after comparing with the other towns of comparable size. Our surplus is in number one position.

"Now what is the initial expense of this town manager experiment? First a manager at at least $10,000 per annum, an executive secretary of no less than $5,000 per annum, and one or more purchasing clerks at from $60 to $75 per week or more. What then I ask you is to be saved? What then is to be accomplished that does not already exist in an A-one town such as ours? Through the years that which has been done here has been accomplished under a democratic form of town government. I will venture to predict that under this proposal, which I have read and which I am assuming will be presented to our people in town meeting assembled, you will get less service for more money, less co-operation and co-ordination between departments, and

Tommy McCullom doesn't like the looks of that needle in the hands of Dr. Charles Currier, but may be happier when he realizes that it's a big step toward ending the danger of polio. Mrs. Edith Eastman, R.N., assists Dr. Currier as Gail Assenian and Helen Kilman wait their turn to receive the Salk serum. McCullom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. McCullom and is in the second grade. (Leone Photo) much less good will and contentment in the municipal family. I have learned that this is in the great majority of cases the effect brought about by a town manager form.

"I still feel that I have only scratched the surface in rebuttal of a most unpredictable experiment."

REALTY CONSTRUCTION OFFERS WATER PIPE

another dollar per foot for a total of $5.41 per foot. Thus, he figured, the Realty Construction offer can be valued at well over $5000.

If the offer is accepted, he said, the town will be expected to lay the water main.

Engineer Ralph Preble, asked later in the week for an opinion on the cost of the project, said that the cost of pipe is better than half the over-all cost of such a project.

No action was taken by the planning board on the offer.

Definitive plans for the off-Elm st. area, where the firm hopes to build 66 homes, were handed to the board last night. Vice Chairman Donald Thompson told Atty. Sartorelli that the board had decided some time ago to stop accepting plans for hearing until after town meeting has acted on zoning problems. The plans were left with the board, however.

Mr. Sartorelli also told the board that his firm intends to use 12-inch pipe inside its development rather than a smaller size, which he said would be an improvement for the whole area.

Atty. Thomas D. Burns represented the construction firm.

Plans Presented For Bolten Land

Plans for house lots along Argilla rd., Lowell st. and Lovejoy rd. — parts of the Wild Rose farm — were presented to the planning board Monday night.

The board also received plans for house lots in the Haggett's Pond rd. area.

The land in both sections is owned by the Bolten interests. Listed as owner of the Wild Rose farm was the Marion Realty trust and the D. & G. Trust while John Bolten Jr. was listed as owning the Haggett's Pond rd. area.

The planning board has written Mr. Bolten stating that his section is considered to be a sub-division because it is laid out with two access roads of 50-foot width to the backland. The Wild Rose farm section is not presently being considered as a sub-division, the board said, because there is access to the backland and all lots are on existing streets.

The board had little opportunity to consider the plans, having before it the hearings on property of Mr. Cussell and Harry Axelrod and the Realty Construction firm's plans and offer.

Water Committee Report Offered

The Water and Sewerage committee - appointed by the town in 1941 - has offered its final report to the townspeople.

Chairman Joseph A. McCarthy, William R. Edwards and Sidney P. White, in issuing their report, said the creation of a strong planning board with the ability to obtain engineering aid and the reorganization of the water department under "a competent engineer" offer Andover "the means of completing the necessary work".

The report reviews the committee's activities since 1941 and points out that it wasn't until 1945 that engineering assistance was obtained due to the war. The firm of Weston and Sampson was hired to survey the water and sewerage system, the report explained.

Progress Made

"Beginning the next year," it reports, "the town from time to time carried out much of the work recommended, especially a new intake and added pumping facilities at Haggetts pond, a new force main to the low service reservoir and a new high service pumping station with a cleaned main to the high service reservoir. Part of the recommended enforcement and extension of the distribution system has been done. Progress has been made in obtaining land around Haggetts pond to protect our supply and to make possible the raising of the level in the pond at some future date.

"Some of the more urgent improvements in the sewerage system have been made. The building of a treatment plant in Ballardvale promises to solve difficult problems in disposal.

Water Supply

"Thus the town, working through its boards of selectmen and public works, generally with the approval of the finance committee, have carried out much of the planning offered by your committee 10 years ago. However, many of the plans remain unfinished and because of the great growth of Andover many items which seemed to be far in the future now are becoming urgent. Our storage capacity and parts of our distribution systems are becoming rapidly inadequate. Our available supply of water, which with some additional storage at Haggetts pond, seemed to be sufficient for perhaps 30 years to come, is now not too far in excess of our demand and it appears inevitable that an additional supply must be sought before many years."

Wedding...

Braeland Associates Organized Feb. 29

Officers of a new club - the Braeland associates - will be elected March 14. The group will meet at the home of Norman Greenlaw on Rock Ridge rd.

Some 40 residents of the Braeland section, off Elm st. near Merrimack college, gathered Feb. 29 at the home of Joseph E. Burns on Fox Hill rd. to get acquainted and work out the details of the organization. Monthly meetings will be held, according to Mr. Burns.

MODERATOR OFFERS SPEED-UP PLAN

"During the last week or two many persons have asked me about the length of the town meeting scheduled for Saturday, March 10. They have nearly all shown considerable concern and have indicated that they fear an adjournment to future time at which a quorum might not be present.

"I have reviewed the procedure followed at previous meetings and am convinced that anywhere from one hour to an hour and three quarters can be saved by the following changes:

"1. Dispense with the reading by the Moderator of each article. (Saving: one hour, your patience and the Moderator's voice.)

"I have read aloud the articles from five through 80 and find that it actually takes 55 minutes to an hour. There is no legal requirement that each article be read aloud prior to action. Since I intend to rule that the reading of the articles will be dispensed with, I urge each voter to have with him or her at the meeting a copy of the warrant and the Finance committee's report.

"2. Lump together in one vote all items under Article 4 about which there is no dispute or about which no one has questions.

"I propose to do this in the following manner after a brief explanation at the meeting:

"I will read the number of each item as listed in the Finance Committee's report and pause a moment. If anyone wishes to vote for any amount for that item other than the amount recommended by the Finance committee, or, wishes to question the item, he should so signify by calling out 'pass'. I will then check that item and continue on through all the others in the same manner.

"I will then announce that it has been moved and seconded that the amounts recommended by the Finance committee for items numbered (here I will read the item numbers not "passed") be raised and appropriated therefor. After action has been taken on these items by one vote, I will go back and take up separately each item "passed". (Saving: 1/2 to 3/4 of an hour, your patience and the moderator's voice.)

This procedure is recognized practice in many communities and is in my opinion well worth while. It is in no sense a "railroading" as it affects only items which are not in dispute or questioned. It is proper for the moderator to rule, under such circumstances, that the recommendations of the Finance committee be taken as a motion made and seconded.

"I have given this statement to the press in the hope that any con-

REGULATIONS SET UP ON FILING PLANS

Definitive sub-division plans and accompanying form B's will be accepted by the planning board only at regular meeting nights on the first and third Mondays of the month. The board decided that all forms will be dated as of the night they are received. The members also requested that developers or their representatives present the plans in person so that any questions on the plans may be answered.

The board has also decided that Form A's may be left at the office in town hall at any time it is open but will not be dated until the next regular meeting night.

MOTHER-DAUGHTER COMMUNION APR. 15

A large turnout is expected for the Mother and Daughter Communion breakfast April 15, sponsored by the St. Augustine school guild. Mrs. Rita Dolan, president, reports that her enthusiastic committee has completed all preliminary work for this event. The president further stated that requests for tickets have already been received. The ticket committee plans to distribute tickets at the guild meeting tonight.

fusion will be avoided by advance notice. I hope that with the cooperation of the voters in doing away with the unnecessary formality we will be able to have the time saved for intelligent discussion of the remainder of the warrant.

"Copies of the warrant and Finance committee report will be available at the time of checking in."
